Armed Men Boarded Ship Before Bombing

Commander James J. Hughes Questioned By Nippon Officers Before Sinking

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE (Copyright, 1937, United Press)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—Japanese troops stopped the United States gunboat Panay under threat of artillery fire four days before Japanese airplanes sank her, it was disclosed today.

Armed Japanese troops boarded the Panay under protection of a field gun which was trained on her and questioned Lieut. Commander James J. Hughes, her commanding officer.

The details of this missing factor in the sinking of the Panay were disclosed today by Weldon James, chief of the United States bureau at Nanking, who was aboard the Panay. James wrote the story at the time, but Lieut. Comdr. Hughes, fearing that any message containing Japanese troop activities might aid the Chinese and violate American neutrality, thought it best not to permit the dispatch to be transmitted on the Panay's radio, the only means of communicating available. Four hours later Hughes was a casualty and his ship was sinking under a combined bombing and machine gunning attack by Japanese aviators.

It was at 9:40 a. m. Sunday, James disclosed, that the Panay was stopped 22 miles above Nanking. Japanese Party Boards

A field gun was turned on her from shore. A boarding party of about 30 Japanese troops went out into the river and went alongside. As a lieutenant and a guard of two men went aboard, the soldiers attacked bayonets to their rifles. The lieutenant's two guards fixed their bayonets as they stood on the deck of the American warship, James reported.

The Japanese lieutenant, questioned Lieut. Comdr. Hughes, James reported, said the party was bound for the Panay's destination. The Panay was permitted to proceed—to her death. It was announced that the United States cruiser Augusta, flagship of Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, American navy commander-in-chief in China, was within the vicinity of Manila tomorrow, the first tide.

Admiral Yarnell was said to feel that the Panay situation was up to the state department and the Japanese foreign office now and he (Continued on Page 2, Column 2)

JUDGE DISSOLVES LIQUOR ACTIONS

Lee Grants Motion Filed By Defense Attorneys To Vacate Orders

Temporary injunctions which have shut down four alleged liquor establishments in Twin Falls, Buhl and Kimberly since last October were ordered dissolved today by Judge T. Bailey Lee in district court here.

Judge Lee granted a motion filed by defense attorneys and ruling that he vacate and dissolve the restraining order issued more than two months ago.

The four establishments reopened today. They are the Hi-Kat club and the Blue Front bar in Twin Falls, the Kimberly Club in Kimberly, and the Midlet bar in Thompson's cove, Buhl.

Fadlock Order Revoked

Immediate effects of Judge Lee's order, attorneys said, were to remove the injunctions which had banned the operators and building owners from the conduct of business on the premises named, and to order the sheriff to relinquish his possession of the premises and contents.

TWO FUGITIVES STILL MISSING FROM ALCATRAZ

Coast Guard Cutters Are Withdrawn From Hunt For Escaped Pair

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—Two fugitives from Alcatraz prison were on the government's list of hunted men today and it was Warren James A. Johnston's premise that they would remain there forever, because they probably drowned while swimming for shore and were carried away to sea.

Coast Guard cutters were withdrawn from the search and the soldiers' patrol along the coastline was ended. It remained for the police and department of justice to find the men or leave them for dead.

Slippery Outlaws

"They were slippery Oklahoma outlaws, Theodore Cole and Robert Fox, and they were the first to break out of the federal prison on the island in San Francisco Bay since it was taken over by the justice department in 1934. The government considered it escape proof and criminals called it "the Rock," which came to mean in their vernacular that it was a place where hope was abandoned.

Beyond the slight possibility that the two men could have swum the tulle and a half or more to shore through the rippling currents after they broke a lock on a high wire fence Thursday and sprang to a rock ledge near the water's edge during a fog, there were only two chances of the convicts' having reached shore.

Might Be Picked Up

"They might have been picked up in a boat by an accomplice, or they might have made themselves a raft with discarded automobile tires. There is a shop at the prison where old tires are used to make fabricated rubber matted for battlements. Cole and Fox worked in that shop, they had access to tires and they went out through a gate near the shop.

Even on such a raft, they would probably have been swept to sea because the tide was running out at the rate of four knots an hour when they vanished.

Got Passports by Fraud

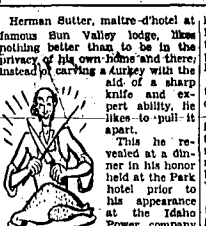

When last seen, "Mrs. Donald L. Robinson," above, traveling on a U. S. passport, reported her husband had been spirited away in Moscow. Then she vanished. Investigation by U. S. officials revealed that the birth certificate presented by her to obtain the passport was that of Ruth Norma Kirkland, dead 29 years.

That he might be an international spy was advanced to explain the mystery presented by state department announcements that the identity of the man above, traveling under U. S. passports as "Donald Louis Robinson" was unknown. The passport was issued on the birth certificate of a boy who died more than 29 years ago.

Expert Turkey Carver Prefers 'Pull' Method But Maitre d'Hotel Doesn't Do It That Way in Formal Service

Herman Sutter, maitre d'hotel at famous Sun Valley lodge, like nothing better than to be in the privacy of his own home and there, instead of carving a turkey with the aid of a sharp knife and expert ability, he likes to pull it apart.

This he revealed at a dinner in his honor held at the Park hotel prior to his appearance at the Idaho Power company auditorium where he carved two of the "great American birds" for the edification of two packed houses of men and also a few women who couldn't resist the temptation to come, although the "men only" sign was displayed.

Mr. Sutter was guest of honor at the dinner at which Al Gilbert, Idaho Power company executive, was host. Guests included J. P. Gallagher and Gene Van Pilder, both of Sun Valley lodge; H. B. Tomlinson, Twin Falls publisher; and O. A. Keiker of the Idaho Evening Times and Robert Morris.

"Every turkey should be carved properly," the expert said during the informal dinner discussion, "but somehow I can't resist the temptation to tear one apart when I get alone.

"I really don't care much for turning a turkey into a mess, but when I see a turkey being carved in the middle, and then eat it without the aid of implements, I see words with my hands," he said. "I don't like turkey, he ordered steak at the dinner.

Anyone who thinks turkey carving should be an art reserved for the female of the species is decidedly mistaken. Mr. Sutter is decidedly masculine and has learned about building fires since he came to Sun Valley.

This was disclosed as the dinner talk led to a course in fire building.

"That is a good art, too," Mr. Sutter said, "and I have learned much about it in my cabin at Sun Valley. More than once my hands have been terribly dirty as the result of my poking around to get the heat going."

Clothes are not essential to carving a turkey properly. In tights, golf skirts and most other sports, clothes sometimes serve to make the player. But not so in turkey-carving. It lends distinction but that's all. A bathrobe will serve the purpose.

Masters Lashes Gess "Bungling" At Penitentiary

J. W. Taylor Files Petition Asking for Record Delivery

BOISE, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—The case of William Gess, warden of the state penitentiary who has defied efforts of the state board of prisons to oust him from his position, went today to the state supreme court for possible settlement.

Attorney-General J. W. Taylor, through with ex curia efforts to remove Gess from the prison office, filed a petition for a writ of alternative mandamus, seeking to have the court demand Gess either deliver up the prison and its records, or show cause why not.

The petition also seeks to have the supreme court assume original jurisdiction in the case. Such action is necessary to permit enforcement of the petition for writ of mandamus.

The petition was filed after Assistant Attorney-General R. W. Beckwith conferred with members of the court to determine the court's attitude toward original jurisdiction.

It was assumed that he had been accused of special action in the case, that a decision on either the assumption of jurisdiction or upon the petition for a writ might be forthcoming late today.

The Idaho state prison has been woefully mismanaged and bungled in almost every department," since William H. Gess took office last March 28, Secretary of State Ira H. Marshall announced the Evening Times this afternoon.

The advertising commission was "extremely valuable" to Idaho growers.

"If this goes on, there's no question but what Idaho's potato marketing will be slaughtered by the whole mess."

The "spud king" said that work of the advertising commission was "extremely valuable" to Idaho growers.

Here's the Christmas Spirit Plus

Advertisement for Christmas decorations. Text: Here's what home-owners in other inter-mountain cities are doing in the way of decorating residences with Christmas lights. This house at Ogden, Utah, radiates the glow of Yuletide and helps give Ogden a holiday spirit. Scores of Twin Falls residents have already entered the Times-News Christmas home lighting contest, in which $50 in cash prizes will be awarded. None are entering in quantity for the money, but the awards offer an added incentive to civic-minded home-owners who want to make Twin Falls the Christmas city of southern Idaho. It's no trouble to enter—just clip the coupon in the Times or News, and mail or bring it to the business office of the papers. Twentieth Century club members are cooperating with the Times and News, and will assist in the judging. You can enter up to Monday at 5 p. m., providing you know it is in by that time or is postmarked by then. Prize prize is $25 in cash; second, $10; third, $5. There will also be five $1 awards. A small clever display has just as much chance as a large and elaborate one. Using fluorescent concealed on lawn or shrubbery; lighting an outdoor tree; outlining your porch or house gables in lights; decorating front windows; using strings of lights on chimneys and entrances—these and hundreds of other ideas are easy to carry out. Twin Falls Christmas, and the lights are ready for you. Although the entry deadline is 5 p. m. Monday, judging will be done largely between Christmas and New Year's, when you can sample time to prepare their decorations. Clip the coupon and help make Twin Falls the Christmas city.

Says Chief Agitation Coming From One Man in Area Around Caldwell

Agitation resulting in a new court test suspending Idaho publicity on potatoes and other products was indicated chiefly by one man in Canyon county and is not backed by all farmers in the Caldwell area, Guy Graham, county commissioner of agriculture, said here this afternoon.

He named H. B. Kelley, former Idaho Falls dealer, as chief backer of the new test brought by Ariel Crowley, resident assistant attorney general to determine constitutionality of the advertising law which levies a tax on potatoes, onions and apples.

"If Kelley was half as good a farmer as he is a trouble-maker, his criticism would be more acceptable to the department," Graham said. He declared that only a small portion of Canyon county spud growers were behind the Caldwell area. Guy Graham asserted that the new suit had tied up all action by the advertising commission in its efforts to boost Idaho products in eastern and other markets. The tax, however, is still being collected and the commissioner said the publicity will go forward in the district court case against the law.

"That may not be until February," he said, "and by that time much of our marketing season will be over."

SANTA DIES

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Dec. 18 (U.P.)—Two hundred school children were dismayed last night when Santa Claus dropped dead in the midst of a school Christmas party.

Albert T. Wagner, 63, was playing Santa. The Christmas tree was shining with lights and beamed with gifts.

One by one the children stepped up for their gifts and for each Santa had a smile, a pat on the cheek or a jolly quip. He pranced around the tree with the agility of a youngster, picking up the packages.

Suddenly Santa fell. He pressed his hand to his side and sank to the floor, dead of a heart attack.

HOUSE SPEAKER LAUDS CONGRESS

Bankhead Says Groundwork Laid for Early Adjourning of Regular Session

House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, D. Tex., and Bankhead for the conference.

The farm measure, paramount item on President Roosevelt's legislative program, was the conference today—almost certainly too late to permit its completion in time to be sent to the White House by the end of the year.

With two major struggles over agriculture and wages and hours out of the way, the house turned to consideration of the housing bill designed to initiate a national building boom.

Ranks of the Democratic majority in the house were bitterly divided after the fight which killed the wage-hour bill. Proponents of the measure, who blasted it out of the committee, voted only to meet defeat on the floor, were pessimistic. Bankhead refused to predict the future of such legislation, but saw cause for some action in the course of the turbulent session.

"It is not clear yet," he said, "but I think the bill is disappointing," the speaker said. "But I don't regard it that way."

"We made as much headway on a bill as the important one of the farm bill as could be expected," he said in the whole we have made substantial progress on a program looking toward a strong adjustment next year—perhaps April 15.

View Defeat Bitterly
In the senate, however, leaders of the faction who smashed the wage-hour bill through to passage in the regular session earlier this year, viewed the defeat of the measure with gloom.

Sen. Sherman Minton, D. Ind., said the action "makes it look doubtful that such a measure will be passed." Sen. Homer Bone, D. Wash., denounced Democrats "elected for a New Deal who went the other way." He warned that the majority of congress may result in eventual return to power of a Republican majority, taking precedence over Democratic and conservative and progressive factions.

Bankhead named as house conference on the farm bill; Reps. Marjorie McLean and J. P. Cawley, all from the agriculture committee; Hampton P. Fuller, D. S. C., Frank J. G. Dorey, D. Pa.; Wall Dorey, D. N. C.; J. P. Cawley, D. N. C.; J. Roland Kinser, R. Pa., Senate conferees, named last night, are: Sen. Ellison D. Smith, D. S. C.; Sen. J. P. Cawley, D. N. C.; George McCull, D. Kan.; John Bankhead, D. Ala.; Carl A. Hatch, D. N. M.; Lynn Prader, R. N. D.; and Arthur Capper, R. Kan.

der was contented that the court had no jurisdiction to issue the injunction because the statute stated to give the statutory period of three days on the application for the injunction. Edward Babcock, county attorney, secured the restraining orders.

All four cases were consolidated for the purpose of the hearing on the motion to quash, although the injunction was the specific case presented for argument.

The same flow of the investigation was carried by H. H. Freedheim, union organizer.

NON-UNION COMMITTEE PLANS INQUIRY INTO CLAIMS OF OUTSIDE HIRING

Four local carpenters, all non-union men, today were planning to sue the Idaho State Board of Contractors for alleged hiring of non-union workers.

The original charges were pressed at a special meeting held here Tuesday evening. At that time another meeting was set for last night at the union hall, this gathering sponsored by the local carpenter's union.

Members Listed
Committee members are Charles Noble chairman; W. McClellan, P. S. Swan and C. A. Strohmeier.

School authorities denied the original charges and pointed out that they do not employ any carpenters from this school district.

The two not from this district are classed as "key" men or sub-foremen. Before any further action is taken in the matter, it was decided at last night's meeting, a report of the investigating committee will be heard.

The meeting last night was attended by more than 100 carpenters and their families.

Conditions Satisfactory
It was stressed that no objections were to be found against the union, but that the wages and working conditions were satisfactory.

But getting back to the more serious end, Mr. Sutter was at a loss to explain Idaho's lack of advertising concerning her own products.

"I have you will usually find the words 'fried potatoes' or 'mashed potatoes' nothing is ever said about the Idaho potato, which should, by all means, be featured as it is a product of which the state might well be proud."

LOYALIST ARMY TAKES OFFENSIVE IN SURPRISE MOVE

FALL OF ANCIENT CITY PREDICTED BY GOVERNMENT

Observers Believe General Franco Waited Too Long For 'Big Push'

By HARRISON LABOCHE
HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 18 (AP)—The fall of the ancient walled city of Teruel, spearhead of the nationalist salient in eastern Spain, is "inevitable," the loyalist government asserted today. Bitter street fighting broke out in the city after the loyalists completed its encirclement according to government radio broadcasts. The heaviest fighting was said to be taking place in a cemetery.

The government held all roads leading from the city and took over control of the railroad line running to Zaragoza. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's stronghold in eastern Spain from where he planned to open a crushing, "final" offensive against remaining loyalist territory.

Nationalist forces, engineering the unusual offensive, surprised the nationalists that it may virtually have broken up Franco's intended "big push" according to military experts at the border.

It began three days ago, according to official government reports. There was no accurate information concerning the strength of the attacking loyalist forces but it was understood that 50,000 nationalist troops were attempting to defend the city which has a civil population of 30,000.

Reversing the offensive during the last three days, the government said that their troops had passed and encircled Castellvo, a few miles southeast of Teruel, then occupied Villanor, on the main road to Cuencas and Madrid, 128 miles away, and then swept into Campillo, a few miles west of Teruel.

Retreat in Disorder
The nationalists retreated in disorder, according to the loyalists, and the advance guard of the government forces entered Teruel's cemetery, taking the first line nationalist trenches.

Loyalists advanced rapidly in grenade and bayonet charges and soon reached the nationalist parapets, taking some of them. An even greater battle was anticipated as Franco's military dispatched strong reinforcements from Zaragoza.

A nationalist communique said that the battle was still undecided, it is premature to affirm that the governmental offensive had achieved other successes than those due to surprise employment of massive forces which any determined attack achieves at the beginning.

Francisco waited too long to start his "big push" according to government observers. Now his chance to take the initiative is past, they said, and the tide has turned in favor of the loyalists.

GERMANS, AUSTRIANS LUSTILY SING AT HOTEL IN KETCHUM

By J. P. GALLAGHER
BUN VALLEY, Dec. 18 (Special)—All of the Austrian and German employees of Sun Valley must have been down in the Hotel Saint George the other night, judging from the volume of the rousing German songs that were being chanted at the top of their lusty voices. Jimmie Eilers maintains he heard them do this at the Christiania, a good half-mile away.

Jimmie has been working late at nights, getting things worked up into shape for the opening of the hotel, so very busy he is going to manage. He was showing up his pride and joy, the action of the Christiania doors, massive things that must weigh around 175 to 200, that can be opened and closed with a mere push of your little finger. The secret lies in the hinges operating on ball bearings.

Record Run
The new streamliner, City of Los Angeles, on its record breaking maiden voyage from the north-northwest of the world's greatest metropolis, New York, to the calm serenity of America's last frontier up here in the Sawtooths at Ketchum, will be the first cross-country record run ever made, carrying paying passengers. Almost a quarter-mile of train will go from Cothman to God's country in 48 hours.

And how we envy the ones who are fortunate enough to flash along New York.

A Roosevelt "New Deal" note will be injected by the name of Mr. Daniel Roosevelt of New York, though not necessarily by his person, for Danny is descended from Teddy's tree rather than from Franklin's. New York's Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ginsberg. A note decidedly of Erin will be injected by the names of Steve Hannagan of New York and R. A. Branahan of Toledo. Just what kind of a note is injected by the name of Mr. and Mrs. A. Quast of New York, we can't decide.

Of course the Harrimans and the Jeffers who head the destinies of America's greatest railroad, will be aboard with their parties. And R. B. Smith, the K. A. Spencers and the George Brandises of Omaha will be on board. R. W. Hubbard of Cleveland, the F. H. Bassetts of Chicago, and the W. S. Lords of Chicago, and the W. S. Lords of Chicago, and the W. S. CLARK OVERLOOKS SESSION REQUEST

Governor Uninformed of Plea From Two Counties For More Relief Funds

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 18 (AP)—Agitation by Kootenai and Shoshone county commissioners for a special session of the state legislature to replenish dwindling county relief funds received no official notice by Governor Barilla Clark.

The governor, on record as opposing any special session of the legislature, said he had not been formally informed of the commissioners' desires in a meeting at Coeur d'Alene. Claiming that the state presently had about $2,000,000 in unappropriated funds, the commissioners asked that the money be diverted to provide "more adequate social security" pensions and general relief allotments.

Governor Clark previously has said that counties suffering from dwindling relief funds were themselves at fault because they had not "looked into the future nor budgeted properly."

A Roosevelt "New Deal" note will be injected by the name of Mr. Daniel Roosevelt of New York, though not necessarily by his person, for Danny is descended from Teddy's tree rather than from Franklin's. New York's Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ginsberg. A note decidedly of Erin will be injected by the names of Steve Hannagan of New York and R. A. Branahan of Toledo. U. S. GRANT TO IDAHO EXTENDED
Work on Hospital Must Start By Jan. 21 to Receive Federal Funds

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 18 (AP)—A federal grant of $94,600, to apply on construction of Idaho's tuberculosis hospital—if and when—had been extended today to Jan. 21, 1938, Governor Barilla Clark said.

The extension was made by C. C. Hockley, federal regional WPA administrator in Portland. But construction of the hospital may not begin by that time, it was pointed out, since the original site, Lava Hot Springs, has not been abandoned, and that site is under threatened, but not actual, litigation.

Attorney-General J. W. Taylor, informed of the extension, said he would not sign a certificate clearing the site as free from legal entanglement unless a different location will be obtained.

Under federal ruling, a grant cannot be delivered to apply upon a project which is threatened with litigation or is being questioned in the courts.

Further doubt of the validity of the measure creating the hospital was cast some time ago when the state supreme court, in an order—no opinion—declared the law "impossible of application."

OPEN SHOP URGED ON DAM BUILDING

Reclamation Commissioner Says Union Contrary to Federal Government

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Dec. 18 (AP)—John C. Page, United States reclamation commissioner, had said today the government must maintain an "open shop" labor policy on all construction jobs it handles directly.

He announced the policy in dedicating a memorial to the 4,000 men who built Boulder dam. To permit a "closed shop," Page said, would be handing the government's "sovereign power" to a union. He said this "is clearly contrary to democratic principles."

Page's remarks dealt with the reclamation bureau's labor policy generally, and did not apply to Boulder dam. The giant bulwark which has dammed the Colorado river into a lake on the desert was not built directly by the government but under contract to private firms.

POT SHOTS

The Gentleman in the Third Row

CHAPTER I
PEOPLE trying to describe Linda Trent often said that she was "different." They meant in part, no doubt, that she was made with a delicate-finesse that suggested exquisite workmanship. It was as if she had soft rings of dark brown hair, beautifully set dark-brown eyes like those of a sweet-tempered, rather soft child, and a clear, delicate smile. But there was about her a baffling simplicity and directness, together with a certain glow that somehow set her apart from other girls of her age. Perhaps this was because she had been educated abroad, especially by her father, under the close supervision of an aunt, who, rather than Linda's own mother, had been made her guardian at her father's death.

Sometimes Linda had wished that she might go to school like other girls. She did not know that every phase of her life had been ordered to eradicate from her character the qualities of femininity to the beautiful, tempestuous, peasant mother whose sensational doings, on the stage and off, had made her name a household word. It was not until the day Linda came of age that she understood she was penniless. Although she knew little of her father's resources, she had always supposed the world would have plenty for her when she came of age. She had learned the truth, she determined with a steady purpose had reconciled with her destiny, rather gentle lovelessness, that she could not be dependent any longer upon those who had kept her from her mother.

It was then that she began to understand that her father had planned schooling—with its music, dancing, riding, languages, and some of art and literature—and left her penniless, unprepared to cope with life as she found it in the 20th century.

It was old Mr. Meredith, her father's attorney, who suggested what seemed an immediate solution to her problem. A client of his, an elderly lady, slightly crippled and almost blind, needed a companion and secretary.

"She insisted," Mr. Meredith said, "that I must not send anyone who did not have what she called 'the education and voice of a gentleman.' I thought of you at once, my dear. . . .

"I gave her your complete history, and she said you were going on. 'Miranda Trent is a great stickler for family traditions. And of course Geoffrey Benton's daughter would be welcome anywhere.'"

"Thank you," said Linda, sitting very straight and pale and young. "I will go if she wants me."

When Linda arrived one evening at the little town of Nordhof, she was met at the depot by a young man who told her Mrs. Trent had sent him.

Nordhof was a typical old-fashioned county seat, which centered in a brick building, with a clock tower, a central monument and four cannon, and dotted with beds of canna and geraniums. The Court House, with its clock tower, was the center of the town. From it a broad, tree-lined avenue led on between low, white, two-story houses with awnings, and stoops neatly lined with the sidewalk; and on past more pretentious looking mansions with iron gates, and iron fences. The last and most impressive of these was "Trent Hall."

ACCUSTOMED as Linda was to life on a generous scale, there

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By Rodney Outcher

Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—This is not one of those periods when anyone whose function it is to prophesy what's going to happen next in government, politics, business and other national affairs tries to tell himself very much fun.

Under influence of a downward business curve which has been almost perpendicular for many months, the Roosevelt formula of government by slogan has reached the point of sagging so rapidly that it often is impossible to tell a sign from a sag, partly because the quickness of both signs and sags deceives the eye.

Yet there probably is no more confusion inside the government as to the future than there is on the outside—and probably nowhere so much. The question of who or what started this depression has given way to debate on which forces are most responsible. Conservative politicians or those of "Big Business" fault in the curative powers of tax levies, budget-balancing, attempts at stabilizing building and other measures is ebbing.

Anti-War Petition Worth Signing

America is a nation of petition-signers. You can always get at least a few people to sign a petition for practically anything—to nominate Joe Doakes for dog catcher or to demand a reduction in the tariff on mother-of-pearl collar buttons—and the ordinary petition has a life as brief and as insignificant as that of the May fly.

But once in a blue moon there is an exception. For if you can get enough people to sign your petition—so many that you can number them in the millions—then your petition is no May fly at all, but something that gets attention in carload lots.

Such a petition is being circulated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars—a petition calling on congress and the president to keep the United States out of war.

Anti-War Petition Worth Signing

America is a nation of petition-signers. You can always get at least a few people to sign a petition for practically anything—to nominate Joe Doakes for dog catcher or to demand a reduction in the tariff on mother-of-pearl collar buttons—and the ordinary petition has a life as brief and as insignificant as that of the May fly.

But once in a blue moon there is an exception. For if you can get enough people to sign your petition—so many that you can number them in the millions—then your petition is no May fly at all, but something that gets attention in carload lots.

Such a petition is being circulated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars—a petition calling on congress and the president to keep the United States out of war.

FAITH IS SHAKEN

There appears to be real worry in New York that the situation can't be saved simply by tearing down the New Deal, that private capital can't and won't take over during a recession, and that no one really knows the answer. Conservatives who believed in an "independent congress" and a balanced budget are now not quite so sure, especially after observing congress in special session. The conviction grows in Washington that government spending is going to have to be used to halt the economic spiral, but that isn't official because no one will admit it.

ASSORTED ADVISERS

Probability that Chairman Joe Kennedy of the maritime commission will be made ambassador to England started various guesses whether this is a bad sign inasmuch as it gets perhaps the President's closest conservative adviser for the job. The anecdote was illustrated with a pointing case by the portraits on the walls. All Trent men, it seemed, had been navy men. The anecdote was above all else, brave. All Trent women had been beautiful and accomplished; but as if that were not enough, Trent women had been brave, too. Courage was the quality Miranda Trent seemed to hold the most essential attribute of gentility.

Football Tax Kick

It is rather surprising to learn that certain great state universities have filed suit to recover amusement taxes collected by the federal government on football tickets. The universities contend that football is an essential state function, that the government cannot rightfully tax a university for performing such a function, and that the amusement tax has therefore been wrongly collected.
