Destructive Earthquake Rocks Southern Mexico

2 Known Dead After Severe Disturbances

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 23 (UP)—An earthquake of destructive proportions rocked part of Mexico today, causing what it was feared to be heavy damage and perhaps loss of life. At least two deaths were caused in the capital, which was far from the center of the disturbance.

The disturbance occurred at 7:18 a. m. (6:18 a. m. MST) and the population ran in terror into the streets, many of them in night clothing or covered by hastily snatched blankets.

The earthquake was one of the longest felt in many years. First there was a sharp quake and then a rotary motion which, although less intense, caused more damage.

The observatory was able to estimate the distance of the epicenter from the capital but when the needles broke, they could not determine the direction. If it is to the south, it would be between Chilpancingo and Acapulco, which is Mexico's biggest earthquake zone.

One unidentified man was killed in the city when an electric wire fell on him.

Going into the parlor, the correspondent found the Christmas tree shaken to the floor. Outside, the sidewalks and upper walls were cracked.

District Judge J. W. Porter issued an order in court here directing city councilmen and county commissioners of Jerome to appear in district court at Jerome Monday, Jan. 3, for a hearing to show cause why the court should not grant an injunction banning transfer of the site from the city to the county.

The site consists of 250 by 250 feet in North park. Transfer to the county, and authorization to the mayor to execute a deed, were approved by Jerome councilmen Tuesday night.

Idaho Solon Says 'Stay Out of Fight, But Protect Americans'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho, today warned against a "war psychology," but declared that "we have the right and it is our duty" to protect Americans and legitimate United States interests in China.

"There is a concerted outside effort to frighten and control congress and to defeat the President's program," Norris said.

"I probably will continue until 1940 in an effort to elect a reactionary President. And that will compel Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term despite his own desire to retire."

NATION'S CHRISTMAS SHOPPING BILL SHOWS DECLINE

BUT SANTA WILL ACTUALLY CARRY LARGER VOLUME

He'll Bring More Gifts But Dollar-Cents Total Dips; Causes Cited

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (AP)—Santa Claus will be burdened Christmas eve with more gifts than he carried on his last trip from the far north but the bill he presents to his millions of helpers will be much less. A United Press survey showed today that merchants believed snow-covered highways, labor unrest and the general business recession were responsible for a dollar and cents drop in volume which has been expected to go at least 10 per cent over 1936.

But the spirit, they said, is as good as ever. They expect a heavier load of presents, with a pronounced shift to the "practical" side. Only the deep south reported an upward swing in profits. An Atlanta, Ga., department store head said sales were the "largest in history." But they were lower in the mid-west where unusually cold weather and snow combined to keep shoppers at home; in the east buying was spotty; westward from the Rocky mountains generally was down or failed to meet pre-holiday expectations.

Men's furnishings led the list as heaviest seller. Jewelry was higher than last year and heavy goods, such as furniture, dropped. The Christmas spirit in the south was augmented by warm weather. Dollar volume was estimated at between 15 and 20 per cent over 1936.

COINS

They are coming by pairs now, the old coins proudly displayed by their owners to staff members of the Evening Times. The 18th dime surrounded by 13 stars and inscription on the other as well as wreath. One of the latest to be exhibited is a dime dated 1838 with a spread eagle on one side and a Liberty head on the other. It is worn smooth over nearly half its area and was received in change a few years ago by Mrs. C. R. Chamberlain, route 2, Eubank. Being interested in old coins, she noticed it was old although its size differs only a bare fraction of an inch from the modern coin.

Her other piece is a half penny of copper dated 1838. It is about the size of a quarter, has the same Liberty head as the 18th dime surrounded by 13 stars and inscription on the other as well as wreath.

Suit Delays Start of New Jerome Court House

Although bonds had been voted, the site selected and work was ready to begin, the new Jerome court house building (above) met temporary checkmate today after issuance of a "show cause" order in district court here. The order decrees a hearing Jan. 3 at Jerome on the matter as to whether or not an injunction should be granted to block transfer of the North park site from Jerome city to Jerome county. Jerome Building Meets Snag As Court Orders Hearing On Site Transfer

(From Page 1) company, which assertedly stipulated public park usage. The area had been designed for park purposes at the time Jerome townsite was platted in 1909.

Must Show Cause The court action here ordered the north side city council to show cause why the court should not restrain them from delivering the deed, and ordered the Jerome county commissioners to show cause why the court should not prohibit them from accepting the deed or taking steps toward building of a courthouse on the property or any portion of it. The two plaintiffs, Mr. J. Harrison and Mr. Daley, claim that the original deed to the city holds that the land must be devoted exclusively to park and public building, and they contend that the meaning of "public buildings" in this sense does not include a courthouse and jail. They argue that Jerome could improve the property only for its own use.

Only Two Available The area in question, the west half of block 79, is one of two centrally located parcels in Jerome, the plaintiffs asserted. These parcels are described as block 82. Both these, it was claimed, "are convenient and necessary for the inhabitants of the city and the general public."

Pointing out one danger to the city of Jerome, the plaintiffs warn that the property might go back into the investment firm if transfer of the deed from the city to the county were held in break terms of the original grant.

OFFICIALS PLAN CCC SIDE CAMP

HAGERMAN, Dec. 23 (Special)—It is planned by the division of recreation to use after Christmas CCC camp to construct a 75-man side camp at Clover Flat this spring. The camp would be built on the same plan as the main camp, it being planned to make it a permanent camp instead of a tent camp. It is expected that the camp will be moved to that location when the work within the present work area is further advanced.

Clover Flat, located in the central part of the Bruneau desert, will be an excellent camp site with an abundance of much needed range improvements in every direction. It is with this thought in mind that the grating personnel of the Hagerman camp are concentrating upon roads leading from Hagerman and other nearby communities to the Clover Flat area. These roads will be of important as trunk supply roads for the new camp as they are for stockmen now.

Montana Pupils End Term; Snow Drifts Too Deep

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 23 (AP)—Christmas vacation is just beginning for most of the nation's school children, but school is over today for Feely and Meadow gulch pupils. Feely ended its term last night with a Christmas program.

Heavy snows annually block roads, and even the old timers who tell their children how they "used to walk five miles to school through snow that high" couldn't make it. So every year at this time graduation exercises are held, if there are any graduates, and the mountain schoolhouses are boarded up until March, when the new term begins.

Feely and Meadow gulch pupils go to school all summer while their flat-land contemporaries dip in the old swimming hole—or help out in the fields.

DISNEY PREMIERE PROVES SUCCESS

Hollywood Celebrities Pay $2.50 Each to Witness Full-Length Cartoon

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23 (AP)—A world premiere which left Hollywood slightly groggy over the statistics today, introduced history's first full length cartoon feature with such a bang that Walt Disney immediately started production of two more.

Never had any movie had such a world-wide build-up as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which he started to manufacture—and publicize—more than three years ago. He spent $1,500,000 on it and more worry than he cares to recall. Then he went to the Carthay Circle theater last night and bit his finger nails, waiting for the verdict of the full-cooled and satin-gowned audience.

He ruled his mantle unnecessary, because the Hollywood celebrities who had paid $2.50 each to see his version of the Grimm brothers' fairy tale were unanimous in saying that they'd had their money's worth.

Lights burned late, meantime, in Disney's studios on the other side of town, where a gigantic red mouse forms the corner of the main building. Animators already were at work on one full length cartoon picture depicting the forest life of a deer and another bringing to the screen the old fable, Pinocchio.

HEARINGS SET ON BRUNEAU PROJECT

Protests Against Plans of Lyman to Be Aired on Jan. 7 at Boise

BOISE, Dec. 23 (AP)—Protests against the proposed giant Bruneau irrigation and reclamation project will be heard at the statehouse here Jan. 7. R. W. Paris, reclamation commissioner, announced today. The protests are against the appropriation of 1,250,000 acre feet of water from the Snake river in Hagerman valley which would be impounded behind the world's largest earth-filled dam.

More than 100 residents of Hagerman valley, and 19 residents of California who claim a right to the water in question, filed written objections today with the department of reclamation.

The Hagerman residents claimed that Lyman's proposed 480-foot-high dam would create a lake which would inundate the village of Hagerman and the surrounding valley. Petitioners claimed that the total volume of property inundated would exceed the total volume of any lands brought under irrigation or reclaimed by the project.

The Californians are persons who purchased acreage rights on the Bruneau project several years ago, when it was under different management.

Lyman's dam would form a reservoir almost 60 miles long, would store 5,000,000 feet of water, and bury the town of Hagerman under a depth of 250 feet.

Four Idaho power plants would also be submerged.

Relief Claims Will be Sent Before Christmas

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 23 (AP)—Monthly allotments for Idaho's aged and needy will be stepped up six days to insure a merry Christmas for relief clients. Albert Lee, state director of public assistance, said today.

Relief grants usually come on the first of each month.

A total of 12,451 needy will receive $239,196 by Christmas.

Children Favor Plan to Set Up 'Toy Loan Bank'

Possibility Now Seen That Lending Plan Will Be Operating Soon

Grade school children in Twin Falls this afternoon were reported to be enthusiastic regarding the establishment of a "toy library" or "toy loan bank" as contemplated by Don Spaugy, assistant state WPA director of recreation.

This opinion was expressed, Spaugy said today, after hundreds of the children had been contacted through school recreation workers during the past week.

The library, if established here, would be run on much the same principle as the public library only that instead of checking out books the child would be allowed to check out a toy for a period of one week. No charge would be made for the service unless the toy was damaged and in that case the parents assume the liability through a card they sign prior to withdrawal of the first toy by any child.

Toys would be collected through donations of local citizens and would then be repaired by recreation workers.

After this they would be disinfected. Such disinfecting treatment would also be given each time the toy is returned by a child.

All that is holding up actual start of the project, which has been adopted in many cities, is a headquarters building or space," Spaugy said.

Shortly after the first of the year we hope to have such space in order that the project can start.

BOISE, Dec. 23 (Special)—Ed. B. Baird, manager of the Idaho Jackson day committee with headquarters in Boise, is managing the Idaho Democratic finance campaign which is being put on under the supervision of the Democratic national committee. War Hatreds Shame All Peoples

At last, far-away echo of the madness of World war days came across the sea the other day in the shape of a cablegram announcing that Ernst Lissauer had died in Vienna.

Ernst Lissauer, in case you have forgotten, is the man who wrote the famous "Hymn of Hate" which Germans used between 1914 and 1918 as a vehicle for their dislike of England and the English.

His life is over now, and he surely leaves as odd a claim to the remembrance of history as any man could ask for.

For Lissauer was sorry he ever wrote the "Hymn." Even before the war had ended, he had switched away from a feeling of desperate hatred to a hope that the enemies might become reconciled. After the war he devoted himself to the cause of pacifism. When Hitler came to power Lissauer moved to Vienna so that he could go on writing his anti-war plays without interference.

In 1914, Lissauer was a plump, good-natured man with a rising reputation as a poet. He had never been in England, had never seen an Englishman, knew nothing about the country; but one day, a month or so after the war broke out, he was sitting with a group of journalists in a Hamburg cafe when news came that England had held up an American ship which was bringing hospital supplies to Germany.

This touched some spring in the poet's breast. His indignation overflowed, he grabbed pencil and paper, and in a short time the "Hymn of Hate" was written. One of the journalists took it with him; presently it got published, and before long it had swept all of Germany.

The Kaiser decorated Lissauer with the Order of the Red Eagle, fourth class. Newspapers in all the Central Powers reprinted the poem. It appeared in America. The English themselves reprinted it, made fun of it, and used it to bolster their own war-born hatred of the Germans. All in all, it was a perfect symbol of the madness of the universal war spirit.

Lissauer, meanwhile, was having his second thoughts. In less than a year he was joining in a campaign against including the poem in books for children. By 1918 he was actively working for a reconciliation with England. After the war ended he worked heart and soul for pacifism. But he never could catch up with himself; as long as his name is remembered, it will be remembered as the name of a man who burst out with a terrible cry of hatred.

Is it stretching things too much to suggest that what happened to Lissauer was only what happened to all of us, in lesser degree, during the war's madness? Like him, we gave way to hatred; hating the frightful things that happen in wartime, we hated certain peoples, and not war itself.

Afterward, like Lissauer, we realized that our hatred had been mad, fantastic—and we got over it and felt ashamed of it. The tragedy was that we came to our senses too late.

Layoffs in C. I. O.

The layoffs that have been reducing employment lately are tragic. Yet there could be no greater folly than to assume, as some of our radical spokesmen are doing, that these layoffs are due to the personal enmity, bad faith or general cussedness of the employers who are ordering them.

As an illustration, consider the fact that the Committee for Industrial Organization itself recently has laid off some 200 of its organizers because of the business recession.

This militant left-wing labor organization is simply obeying the iron law that the business men are obeying: when the money isn't coming in, you retrench.

One's political or economic outlook has nothing to do with it. If you hope to stay in business, you follow that rule. Even the C. I. O., which can denounce layoffs with the best of them, has to follow suit.

Have you ever noticed how quickly a smile wears off the faces of those who always attempt to be overly pleasant?

The government should be the last to swallow over the forgotten man when tax collectors keep such accurate records of his address.

Stalin admitted he was elected before the election was held. This is the speed-up in one of its more vicious forms.

Copper proposes a federal statute on marriage and divorce—as if enough wives weren't already on the law.

Year advocates turns up again in the inventors' congress, with time on his side.

AND THE STATESMAN TAKES US INTO 'CRIBS'

Pot Shots:
 The woman who talks too much is branded as a "vicious snob."
 The dog who barks too much is looked up.
 The baby who howls too much is given a "vicious snob."
 But the man who talks too much? They make him either a radio comedian or a statesman.

GRACIOUS, WHEN DID ALL THIS HAPPEN?

Mr. Pot Shot:
 I note with great approval that your courageous editor has backed away from chiding the Christmas and the New Year sundry matters. I take it you were well up Pot Shots if a peculiar error or something cropped up. But anyway, I'd like to point out the awful news your sports editor printed the other day.

CHRISTMAS 'FEATERS'

This Santa stuff is sure the best. My pocketbook's completely empty. Each time I think of last I'm down. Again I think I've left out my gun. By gum, I hope my dog will be united with the 25th in past.

WE ANSWER—BUT WE DON'T GUARANTEE ANYTHING!

Pot Shots:
 Before you bust in with your cream whippers this week, I've got one for YOU to answer, and nobody else.

OUR ALMANAC AND HISTORY LESSON

WE'LL MARRIAGE, as far as we can see she's married to the gent as the first wed, and she should have stayed married to him and merry Christmas to you, too.

YULETIDE MESSAGE

Dear Pot Shot:
 Here's my letter to Santa Claus! Dear Santa:
 Please bring to every man and woman love, peace of heart, contentment and happiness. Take their worn and soiled tools—the anger, hatred, jealousy and envy.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD

Santa's helper—Your contrib was more in line with the Public Forum. Only it can't be used there, the Executive Editor tells us, until you send in your name.—Do better it out with you, as we so quaintly call the editor.

When Linda sat very still for a moment not knowing what to say because she could be sure how much he meant, Barry took her eyes on the hand he still held in his, "Linda, I think I'm going to let's put it differently. . . Suppose you know that I had to go away, almost at once, and might not come back—well, for a long time. . . Got that, for a long time?"

"Yes," said Linda, started by his unvoiced gravity.

"Would you marry me then, or would you still feel that we must wait until we knew each other better?"

"Don't I rate even a few minutes once a day?" he demanded, and swinging her from her feet, he held her close to him for a moment. Then he set her gently down.

"You're so little, Tiana—so little to do to a man what you're doing to me," he murmured.

"I'm not a little," Linda whispered on a quick breath.

Barry, she was remembering, had a way with the lower classes. "Linda, I'm Barry," he begged, "while Grandmother's taking her nap, in the library—nobody comes there."

"No," Linda. "No, Barry."

"Why not?"

"Because," Linda flashed, "I can't be stealing around in your dress and hat, and you're taking me in corners like a—oh, Barry, you must see that I can't!"

"I'm not letting the Duchess' legs see you, Barry," she said, "you're down, are you, darling? They were no doubt a fine, upstanding lot of women, as I should be the last to deny, but still take mine little and sweet, with hands like Tiana's!" she lifted one of her hands to his cheek—and felt that they really reach the floor when she tried to raise them.

"The better if she turns pale at the sight of blood—especially if it's mine. . . Anything else?"

"I'm glad," Linda stated. "It was hard to think with his dark head so near the touch of her hand. We haven't known each other so very long, have we?"

"You'd be surprised to find out how much I know about you, but I set up and grinned as if she was really a girl. After that, I see you're about as full of brimstone as the Duchess about a girl in every port," she said. "Well, she's been so kind to me, and after you've knocked about a little, you've picked up some pretty definite ideas about women. The girl I ask to marry me stays naked."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON
 By Rodney Dutcher

Evening Times Washington Correspondent
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—At least 1,000,000 jobs persons will apply in January for unemployment insurance benefits under the social security act. This figure, only guesswork, officials agree that it's as good as any other guess.

State employment offices where unemployed men and women must register for benefits in the 22 states, which begin to pay benefits after the first of the year, expect to be swamped.

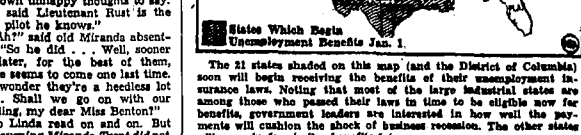

If any checks will be paid in January, they will begin to pour out in February, but probably will not reach full tide until March or April. This fact should interest those who count on a prompt flow of new purchasing power and an immediate effect on the relief situation.

Each state has a waiting period of two to four weeks, during which registrants report to see if jobs can be found for them, before benefits can be paid. Large numbers of persons on and after Jan. 3 and subsequently should be filed immediately upon loss of a job. State regulations require applicants to report to certain dates during waiting periods to see if other jobs are available for them. Claims for compensation must be examined and approved before benefits are paid, which will mean delay in many cases.

Whether or not the unemployment trust fund and the state deposits therein will be able to stand the strain of the rush for benefits which is anticipated as a result of rapidly decreasing employment since September—and whether the federal government will soon be asked to make up the difference so that all benefits can be paid, as happened in England—depends on the length of the depression and the rate of increasing or decreasing unemployment. Both federal and state officials thus profess to be entirely optimistic on this score.

(Copyright, 1937, N.E.A. Service, Inc.)

The 21 states shaded on this map (and the District of Columbia) soon will begin receiving the benefits of their unemployment insurance laws. The states not shaded among those who passed their laws in time to be eligible now for benefits, government leaders are interested in how well the payments will cushion the shock of business recession. The other states will come in for similar benefits later.

SOME TALK QUESTIONS TO LIQUOR COMMISSION
 An open letter to the Idaho State Liquor Control Commission, Boise, Idaho.

After reading press reports of your padlocking (?) several places up the Snake River, I thought I would like with the naughty man in Boise who misused his liquor privileges, I have decided to submit to you the following questions:

If it is not a fact that members of the liquor board, while touring the Snake River, have asked our certain individual, man who enjoys the confidence of more respectable beverage dealers of his community, and who has sold his liquor, if he wanted to sell hard liquor, they might do so without being molested—they would purchase their own stocks from the state liquor board?

Is it not a fact that our mutual friend passed the word along, and advised the state liquor board that the dealer in question followed?

Is it not a fact that the day after the state liquor board's letter to deliver the message in question you disqualified yourselves for office and have you resigned?

Is it not a fact that the name of your board, informs us that in attempting to enforce the state liquor laws, you are following the instructions of the governor. Now isn't that wonderful Governor Barilla Clark enforcing liquor laws? Bill, boys, call the Board of Control the state liquor board, while mayor of Idaho Falls, became nationally known by defying Governor Ross and all liquor laws and the state liquor board? Is it not a fact that the author of that new social philosophy so laudably and curiously expressed, "sin is its own reward," "the least governed, the best governed?"

Isn't he the man who is trying to play "Burr" Ferguson by burning the state liquor board for some of our state prisoners? Isn't he the man whose official identification were forced to invite a confessed murderer into the penitentiary of the state with this beaming, soothing invitation, "Don, come down, we will take good care of you?"

So you boys with the governor, are going to enforce the state liquor laws? May I suggest that you, because of the Indiana heresy mentioned, have not enforced the laws, you can't enforce them, and you dare not enforce them.

May I also suggest that the inconsistency, confusion and ridiculous childishness now prevalent at our state capital at a 0.000 per cent rate would indicate the need of a state board to substitute the services of the grand jury recently called.

HISTORY OF Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of THE TIMES

15 YEARS AGO

DEC. 23, 1922
 Increased valuations for livestock is shown by the personal property assessment following the corrections made in the current assessment. The rolls made yesterday, by Deputy Auditor P. O. Lynch.

There is about three times as much valuation tied up in purebred stock as there was last year, the number of purebred cattle being 74 and the calculation from $2,140 to $5,290. Only those with a thoroughbred pedigree are included in this.

There are 2,185 milch cows with a valuation of $67,800 while last year the number was but 1,846 and the value $4,740.

On the other hand the value of bank stocks in local banks decreased $200,128 and mercantile stocks $184,000. The total decrease for the county was $407,000.

27 YEARS AGO

DEC. 23, 1911
 A dispatch from Rock Creek says: "We wait in the 'Times' and its readers that no one from Rock Creek had anything to do with the shooting of the boy in the Shoshone Basin. The boy, who was killed on the Grotto mountain, claimed residence in Twin Falls. After the killing he had been the subject of a large killing of horses reached us and a man of experience in that line, Theodore Burr, was sent to investigate. He found a ranch wherein several horses had been buried but no signs of any human having been buried there. The bones, according to his statement, were badly decayed, and had been buried a much longer period than any one here could account for. There is no connection with the supposed date of that date. Next the 'Times' tells us of a posse of 50 men, including the sheriff, and a good reason that there are not that many able bodied men living here."

"Second, that the Indians who were supposed to have been the murderers were well and favorably known to every man, woman and child in the settlement, and no one

SOME EXEMPTIONS
 State laws vary in important particulars. Chief groups generally excluded from benefits are agricultural labor, domestic service, public servants and casual labor. Usually employees of fewer than eight persons—and their employees—are exempted, and excluded, although New York places the number at four and Pennsylvania at one, and there are other exceptions.

By the end of January the total amount credited to the 22 states in the treasury's unemployment fund will be close to $100,000,000. For two years employers have been paying payroll taxes to finance the system, graduated from 1 per cent and 2 per cent to a total of 3 per cent beginning in 1936. Some states require employer contributions.

Japanese Commanders Given Orders to Respect Foreign Interests

MUST EVEN RISK CHINESE ESCAPE, REPORT CLAIMS

Reference to New Rule Will Be Made in Notes to U. S. and Great Britain

By H. O. THOMPSON
TOKYO, Dec. 23 (Special)—Japanese commanders in China have received government orders to respect foreign interests even at the risk of permitting Chinese to escape, it was understood today.

The orders, said to have been issued within the last few days, were regarded as a direct result of the government's grave anxiety over the United States and British protests against Japanese army and navy attacks on American and British gunboats.

Reference to the new orders, it was understood, will be made in notes to be sent to the United States and British governments on the attack on the United States gunboat, Fanny and the British gunboat, Ladybird.

Drafts Foreign Notes
The foreign office it was learned today has begun drafting a reply to American notes.

Lieut. Col. Yoshiki Nishi, special war office investigator and former military attaché at Washington, visited the American embassy tonight to discuss the Fanny attack. Nishi flew to Shanghai two days after the Fanny attack and returned here only last night.

Nishi said that the Fanny attack involved an isolated Japanese army unit which itself suffered losses while aiding distressed American survivors.

A company of Japanese infantry equipped with machine guns, going down river from Wuhan to Hankow by launch, encountered the American ship. Nishi said that the Japanese soldiers and weapons were Chinese, concealed themselves at the river bank last night to ambush the ship.

The Japanese soldiers were friendly to the United States, Nishi said, but were excited because they were in the midst of a fighting zone and lacked information as to the general situation.

Discrepancies
There remained some discrepancies it was understood, between American and Japanese reports on the Fanny attack, particularly as regards testimony of witnesses that the Japanese troops deliberately fired on the gunboat as she sank after being abandoned.

Japanese officials expressed hope, however, that the discrepancies would prove minor when the United States received the note.

News reports here made their first reference to the machine gunning of the Fanny today. They said that "accidental" shells had been fired toward the ship.

Formal Dinner
A formal dinner in honor of Crown Prince Akihito on the occasion of his fourth birthday was given here because of the hostilities in China. But the baby prince was driven from the Alaska palace, where he is domiciled, to the imperial palace to receive the greetings of the emperor and empress and to play with his three elder sisters. He gratefully received the congratulations of his guests on his anniversary.

Christmas is a Day for Fun!

By MARIAN YOUNG (NEA Service)

NEW YORK—Every person on your Christmas list, from grandmother to little brother, wants at least one gift that's amusing. It may be an item which ties in with their hobby, something to make traveling or entertaining easier, or just a little stocking present that provides a laugh. Whatever it is, it ought to make life a little brighter and really be fun to have.

The woman whose chief source of amusement is entertaining will like a new set of bridge equipment which includes everything needed for six tables. If she's a golf enthusiast, a neat compact, lipstick and handkerchief case on a handsome leather belt, or a smart golf purse—flat and narrow, with ample space for powder and other make-up and a little money—will be appropriate.

Look at new fitted cases for the traveler. An alligator number has a cosmetics compartment with mirror top which can be removed and placed on the dresser in her stateroom or carried to dressing room on train or plane. A tiny travel atomizer with a leak-proof top comes in a leather case to match a piece of luggage. A unique shoe case holds four pairs of shoes, can be unfolded and hung on the back of a closet door or left closed to fit into the top of a suitcase.

For girls who aren't sports-minded, also the older women on the list, an unusual plant or a terrarium, filled with a variety of growing plants, will show their fancy for things doing needlepoint or embroidery, then directions and the necessary material for something new along these lines are ready to hand. If they collect dolls, find a sweet-foreign one, dressed in the authentic costume of that country.

The music lover will like a new and hard-to-find record for her victrola or a beautifully illustrated book of the opera. If her work is her hobby, a new desk set might please. If she collects stamps, send a rare one. If she's very social and likes to keep in touch with new friends as well as old ones, a de luxe set of stationery, consisting of large letter paper, smaller note paper and tiny thank-you note stationery, is very handy.

Incidentally, chartruse is the smartest note paper shade of the moment. Easy to follow.

If the men among whom you are going to spread Christmas cheer are ardent sportsmen, the business of sending amusing gifts for them is very simple.

The fisherman may be intrigued with a new fly box covered with colorful film and containing several perfectly handsome dry flies in separate compartments. He can wear this on his belt. Or how about some new lightweight camping equipment?

There's a book scraper, fitted with brushes, for the horseman; a 30-day another light for the man who owns a small pet; a pipe with a rubber chop for the pup of the dog lover; a beautiful cashmere sweater with front panels of suede for the young fellow who spends week-ends in the open.

If books and pipes and open fire means him, good deal more than fishing, hunting and so on, you give him a book or a pipe or a bucket of driftwood to make his fire glow with a new ty home covered with colorful film and containing several perfectly handsome dry flies in separate compartments.

These youngsters are playing a baseball game on a utilitarian board which is handy for game-lovers. Beside it are crime-solving games and a de luxe chemistry set for the amateur chemist in your midst, and in the background the product of a construction set.

Bridge accessories to amuse the contract addict. At upper left is a complete set in green mahogany. In the center, travel set including a full table cover, cards, pencils, score pads. Lower right, glazer pigskin travel set.

For the younger members of the family, handcraft toys such as wood-burning sets with electric pencils, assembly sewing sets, hook rug outfits and miniature printing sets are amusement gifts that amuse.

There are quick, inexpensive, but really very good cameras for children. If your young son has a camera give him a developing set. If he stands with nose pressed against the window pane every time an airplane soars overhead, he probably would be pretty thrilled with an airplane construction set or with a few books on the lives of famous flyers. How about kits in a new waterproof ski carrier? A little boy would love an automobile.

Construction set with which he can make tiny cars to suit his whims. And what little girl wouldn't be pleased with a doll and parachute which can be operated with a coil spring? (The child releases the spring, daily and parachute rise to the ceiling, then float gracefully forward). Or with a stuffed koala (honey bear) to reign supreme over all the other stuffed toys in her nursery?

APPLE PURCHASE TOTALS 481 CARS

Government Maps New Plan For Buying; Idaho Bean Program Next

Idaho apples purchased up to Dec. 9 by the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation totaled 481 cars, or 230,000 bushels, according to figures announced here today by local growers.

Twin Falls county growers received a substantial portion of the allotment.

New Plan
Formulation of a new plan by the corporation is expected to remove larger quantities of the surplus apples with less expense to the government. The program, as tentatively made known here in dispatches from Washington, is to have the federal unit purchase dried apples from processors who, in turn, must purchase an equivalent quantity of fresh apples from Idaho producers.

Purchase of Idaho potatoes and dried green peas has also been carried out on a wide scale by FSCG, with the potato program still continuing under an "offer and acceptance" plan. Approximately 1,200,000 bushels of dried green peas have already been purchased.

Beans Next
Plans are now under way in Washington, it was understood, to buy a large quantity of dry beans in Idaho to help southern Idaho's bean growers. The purchase will be under the coordinated program mapped by growers and the government to boost bean prices by removing the surplus.

Federal purchases by the surplus commodities unit are intended for relief consumption.

Burley Approves Three Projects

BURLEY, Dec. 23 (Special)—At the regular meeting of the city council, Mayor Harry Harpster announced the receipt of approval on three WPA projects for the city.

In cooperation with the highway department, the council will purchase snow fence to be placed along South street to the cemetery.
