FRUIT, VEGETABLE GROWERS OPEN 3-DAY CONVENTION

PRESIDENT URGES 'RADICAL CHANGE' IN DISTRIBUTION

BOISE, Jan. 26 (UP)—Idaho fruit and vegetable growers here for a three-day convention today heard their president, J. C. Watson of Pocatello, urge a "radical change" in distribution methods was necessary to prevent absorption of profits at market points.

"We have fertile lands, adequate transportation systems, and millions of consumers, yet despite these factors the consumer pays the highest price for the product," he said. "The difference in price paid by the consumer and that received by the producer was too great."

Return Inefficient

"Marketing is one of our greatest fundamental problems. We have fertile lands, adequate transportation systems, and millions of consumers, yet despite these factors the consumer pays the highest price for the product," he said. "The difference in price paid by the consumer and that received by the producer was too great."

Watson indicated that produce from Idaho to market, and that each share of the return lost through profit-taking resulted in an inequitable distribution of profits. He said that the return to the grower was less than the return to the producer.

He followed the stand taken recently by the U. S. farm commissioner of agriculture, who urged that producers should try to find their own method of distribution, cutting out the middleman where necessary to insure a fair return for the original investment.

Can't Blame Depression

Watson said that to blame the depression for poor returns to growers and shippers of Idaho produce was incorrect. "Even in prosperous times," he said, "our people were not earning reasonable profits."

"The spread in price is too great and some radical change in distribution is necessary," he told assembled growers.

He proposed no immediate remedy, other than to "shorten the chain of distribution by removing some of the links which are needless," he said.

He told his audience that to flood the market with poor quality produce, to place indiscriminate shipments in interstate commerce—would not benefit shippers and growers.

Must Ship Quality

"We must ship quality to maintain our place in the market structure," he said. "Our state's location as to markets is a handicap, and we can overcome it by placing the best of produce in competition with other producing areas."

Maintenance of freight rates at low levels was said to be necessary. "We are about to lose some of the gains that we have made in the reduction of transportation rates unless all groups unite to prevent further advances," he said.

The convention was expected to consider the present status of the fruit and vegetable advertising fund, rendered ineffectual by litigation since its inception, but as to what would be done concerning it could not be predicted.

PRICES FIRM AT SALE OF HORSES

High prices and a firm demand featured two south central horse sales in Twin Falls this week, summary of transactions showed today.

Both the Hollenbeck sale Thursday and the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company's sale Monday found active bidding. Horses brought as high as $175 at the auction at the W. J. Hollenbeck yards yesterday, and the auctioneer reported an increased demand for good draft horses by farmers. Bidding was spirited.

At the horse and mule auction at the commission yards, good prices were received by south central growers, according to M. M. Daniels, manager. Top horses brought $100 to $125, while top mules sold for $150 to $180. Eastern buyers took the average run of horses and mules at $60 to $100, with unbroken horses bringing $70 to $40.

Daniels stated that 224 head of mules and horses were sold.

White Slavery Charge Starts Series of Raids in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26 (UP)—The charges of a 19-year-old Montana girl who claimed she was lured into a life of white slavery and finally was sold to a house for $150, started a series of raids on resorts through California today.

The girl, Jeanne Marjorie Walters, of Great Falls, said she first went to work in such an establishment after she stopped here en route to Hollywood where she hoped to carve a motion picture career.

Score Arrested

Acting on the charges made by Miss Walters, authorities conducted raids that led to a score of arrests. Nineteen of most of those taken into custody were withheld.

Among those jailed, however, were William Coburn, 39, and Jean Moore, 28, of San Francisco, with whom Miss Walters claimed she lived for a time.

Miss Walters said she went broke here on her way to Hollywood and took employment as a "B" girl at a local bar. "B" girls are paid a percentage of drinks bought by male guests.

"Put in Hook"

She said she met a man who persuaded her to accompany him to Los Angeles and subsequently she was placed in a house in Pismo beach. Then, she said she was moved to another house patronized mostly by Orientals. Finally, she claimed, she was brought back to San Francisco where she was "put in hook" to another house for $150.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It wasn't so long ago that I started to have bad palpitations of the heart. This serious condition was accompanied by a tingling extending throughout my left side, arm and leg and my right side of the stomach gave me considerable pain and I was badly constipated. My tongue gradually became thick in feeling making talking difficult. Of course, I became greatly worried and this in turn caused me to lose sleep. My appetite became very poor through loss of my taste.

I decided to call on Chan & Wing, Herb specialists. I am happy to say the conditions which I have described here have disappeared completely after five weeks of their treatment.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

After suffering for over eight years from a continually wracking pain in my left side due to a felonous growth which kept me from being able to lift even a small object and after every meal heartburn, I decided to try Chan and Wing's herb treatment. Up to that time I couldn't even walk five blocks without becoming deathly tired.

Three weeks of Chan and Wing's herb treatments have completely cured me. Even my friends are astonished. It looks like I have a new life.

I am glad to recommend Chan and Wing's Chinese Herb Treatment to anyone who suffers from a tumor.

Residents of County Will Attend Dances

Hundreds of residents of Twin Falls county are planning an unusual evening Saturday when they will attend the five dances in the county held to aid child benefit funds. Tickets purchased for one dance are acceptable at all the parties.

Some of the affairs will combine cards with dancing and other community gatherings may be held. Complete list of chairmen and aides in the eight districts which are cooperating in the dances was announced today by Mrs. W. F. Alworth, general chairman.

Partial lists had been issued previously, but Mrs. Alworth announced the full alignment today following the county's "secession" from the President's birthday celebration. The county withdrew because the national chairman, Keith Morgan, insisted that new rules demand entire proceeds be given the infantile paralysis foundation. Now the funds could have been kept for aiding children in this area through the McCusky health camp.

As now constituted, the county's benefit dances will raise funds for child health with 70 per cent going to McCusky, as originally planned, and the remaining 30 per cent to be offered the national foundation as a gift. The major benefit dances, for which tickets are now on sale throughout the county, are planned at Elks' lodge and Radioland, Twin Falls; Shadowland, Kimberly; and Bull Legion dances, Pocatello. Other parties, combining dance and cards, are arranged for Castletford and Hollister. Several additional community gatherings may also assist in raising funds, Mrs. Alworth said. The Bull dance, at which a card party will also be offered, will be the only one in the series not arranged for next Saturday evening. The west end benefit is on Monday, Jan. 31.

At the Elks' ballroom dance in Twin Falls, local high school students will take part since arrangements have been made for chaperones. The lodge donated use of the ballroom.

HEALTH DRIVE IN JEROME, BURLEY

Jerome county will be the scene of diphtheria and smallpox immunization for the next three days with the local staff of the south central district health unit supervising the project.

Dr. Robert Stump of the local unit and Dr. H. L. McMartin, director of material and child welfare for the state and soon to become acting state health chief, are in Burley today starting immunization work that will affect over 700 school children in four Burley schools and four nearby rural schools.

The work in Cassia county is not confined only to school children, as pre-school children and adults are urged to be immunized.

With immunizations for smallpox and diphtheria nearly completed in Twin Falls county, health officers stated that 2,441 children had been vaccinated for smallpox and 1,681 children had received diphtheria inoculations.

A minor outbreak of typhoid fever in Carey called local health officials to that district to render typhoid inoculations Monday and Tuesday. The service was extended to several hundred residents of that section.

How Big Is The Twin Falls PRINTING INDUSTRY?

Perhaps that question has never entered your mind. In any event, the chances are you haven't the slightest idea as to its magnitude.

For that reason you'll probably be surprised to learn that the printing industry in Twin Falls provides work for more than 228 full-time and part-time employees. You'll be surprised, too, that these employes receive more than $107,000.00 annually in salaries.

Then there are the salaries, commissions, bonuses and the like which are paid the carrier boys, dealers, solicitors and correspondents. Their combined yearly earnings total more than $20,000.00.

Added to all this is the amount spent locally by the printing industry for supplies, repairs, services, etc., which aggregates another $20,000.00 a year.

More than 228 employes, and payrolls and expenditures exceeding $147,000.00 a year—that's the size of the printing industry in Twin Falls!

In providing year-around employment at good wages under favorable working conditions, the printing industry plays an important part in the business stability of Twin Falls.

That is something to remember when we talk in terms of new industries coming to Twin Falls. We should not forget the importance of supporting those heavy payroll industries which are already established. That's something to bear in mind the next time some out-of-town "fly by night" printing or advertising salesman solicits your business. The firm he represents is contributing nothing in the way of a local payroll.

Let's Work for More Local Industries---But First Let's Support Those We Already Have

CONNIE MACK TO STAY IN BASEBALL HARNESS

Veteran Leader Of Athletics Spikes Rumors

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 (UP)—Connie Mack shook a half century from the baseball press last night and told the public that it would have to cut off its uniform to convince him—a 76-year-old veteran—that he was too old to run a baseball team.

The tall, kindly old man, his face creased with 64 years of baseball work, but his eyes still alight with enthusiasm, told 1,200 guests at a sports writer banquet that his next address would be Philadelphia.

Medals Awarded Philadelphia sports writers awarded medals to Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, as the outstanding pitcher of 1937; to Joe Mergio, 23-year-old slugging outfielder for the New York Yankees, as the outstanding athlete; to Mickey Cochrane, as the best manager of the year in sports during 1937.

Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, suffered a heart attack last summer when he was struck on the head by a pitched ball.

"There has been for years talk of my retiring from the game," Mack said. "This has been more evident this year because of my illness and my age."

"They were saying it's time the old boy got out and gave someone else a chance and I assure you I have always been ready to go on just as long as I could in this game of baseball."

"I love it on the bench with those youngsters and to get me out they'll have to cut off my uniform," he said.

Among the guests were at least one member of each of the five world championship teams Mack has managed. They—men who quit baseball because they had outlived their usefulness—were the first to stand up and say they would like Mack to determine to stick with the game.

Mack said he wanted to manage at least one more world champion.

REFEREE'S LANGUAGE IN ONE EASY LESSON

The signs shown here are those employed by officials in a basketball game. In the double dribble, or steps, the thumb is pointed out, denoting the player with the ball has broken his dribble. A double foul is indicated by outstretched arms, used when a penalty is called on two opposing players for a simultaneous infraction of the rules. Charging, or hard body contact, is indicated by arms, with clenched fists, crossed over the chest. Hacking is shown by the arm, palm out, moving from shoulder to hip, denoting that a defensive player has committed an offense by an attempt to get ball or block shot. Holding is illustrated by one hand grasping the wrist of the other. A jump ball is called with a hands out, thumb up motion. Penalty for pushing is indicated by hands held parallel to face, palms out, and moved forward and backward vigorously. No score, or basket doesn't count, is indicated by both hands crossed back and forth vigorously at wrists.

Owner of Seabiscuit Would Like to Have His Horse Race War Admiral to See Which is Nation's Best

By HENRY McLEMORE
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26 (UP)—War Admiral is a noble steed. In fact, he is a great horse and a sterling representative of the four-legged equine department. His breeder, the excellent anything that ever had out for a second course, and he undoubtedly will be the first to offer a felleck to any admirer of the horse.

But don't brand me as a heretic. Don't burn me at the stake. Don't disgrace me for forehead with the scarlet letter. Because I'm only quoting. I'm only quoting Charley Howard, the quiet San Francisco business man who owns Seabiscuit. Loved him ever since that day he saw him in Saratoga, in the stables of the late Ogden Mills. Seabiscuit wasn't much to look at then. He still showed the effects of 35 races as a two-year-old. He was a discard, in fact, and Howard picked him up for $7,500. Mills looked on Howard's discard as a gift. A year later, when Seabiscuit was the top stake horse in the country, Howard went back to Mills seeking more horses.

Bruins Bound Back Into Court Spotlight

The Twin Falls Bruins bounced back into the spotlight in high school basketball circles here last night as they administered a 44-27 shellacking to Coach John Norby's Jerome club in the fastest game of the season on the local court.

The Bruins, in front from the start for the first time in a home tilt this season, showed flashes of power that they haven't demonstrated since the first two games they played in December. Led by Hartruff, who was really "hot" for the first time this season, the local club had a 12-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and 37-18 at the end of the half time. During the game Hartruff got a total of 18 points, including four free throws and seven field goals.

The pace in the opening half of the third quarter was fast and furious with a total of 18 points being scored by the two clubs in four minutes. Hollibaugh speedy Jerry Woodward, led his team in scoring with 13 points. Young Bill Folsom collected eleven for Twin Falls. Counting the game, Folsom has a total of 37-18, when Coach R. V. Jones started running in his string of substitute players.

Ross Awaits Choice of Title Defense Bouts

By STEVE SNIDER
CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP)—Honey-mooning Barney Ross came back home today and plunged into the role of breadwinner for his new Mrs. Ross by considering offers for two profitable title fights with his heavyweight championship at stake.

The raven-haired Jewish boy, who probably hasn't earned much gold as he hoped with his lightweight and welterweight titles, never had as many legitimate offers and tentative contracts in his life as he has now.

They all want a crack at him. Plan admitted, and in Carroll's "They think he's getting old. But Barney will fight anyone who can make the weight if there is suitable cash involved."

"Suitable cash" in the case of Garcia would be $35,000, not $25,000. Plan admitted, and in Carroll's case the suitable cash would have to be placed in a U. S. bank before Ross and his title leave the country.

President May Resume Federal Spending to Keep Purchasing Power

WARNS BUSINESS HEADS TO RETAIN LEVEL OF WAGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (Special)—President Roosevelt was urged today to resume federal spending to keep national purchasing power against any general industrial wage reduction in the next five months.

He warned "those who believe in the profit system" that they should maintain wages and cut prices to expand markets for their goods.

Roosevelt contended in a press conference statement that price cutting would restore profits. But he insisted that it losses were to be suffered by the industry, the government, the loss should be borne by management and stockholders of industry. He said that to assess losses against stockholders would mean financial bankruptcy and to assess losses against workers would be "moral bankruptcy."

He said sound business judgment, "duplication of sound business judgment."

His Loss Producers

This warning was directed particularly at steel and other major production industries. It came midway in a series of White House conferences with business leaders looking toward cooperative efforts to bolster industry.

Some observers believe the government would place on the question of wages and prices.

The next good-will conference will be held in Washington, about 500 of whom will meet early next week with Secretary of Commerce Daniel G. Roper.

Roosevelt said he would receive a delegation of the "little fellows" whose representatives on previous occasions have protested bitterly against the overvaluing competition of big or monopolistic business.

Wages Rise Debt

Return to big scale federal spending may raise the national debt beyond the present $37,400,000,000 level and nullify immediate economy plans under way to reduce the deficit for this fiscal year so far amounts to approximately $770,000,000.

In his housing message to the special session of congress, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that hourly wage scales were too high in the building trades and should be reduced. It is understood now that Mr. Roosevelt did not intend that theory to apply to the building trades and with respect to them he explained yesterday that reduced hourly wage scales would be toward the objective of more employment and actually higher annual wages for workers in the construction industry.

The president told questioners that Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan and company, John L. Lewis, of the coal-mining industry, and Owen D. Young, of General Electric, who recently met with him, had individually expressed concern that wage levels should be maintained. Lewis yesterday in a speech before the convention of United Mine Workers of America said he would oppose any plan to reduce business recession by price cuts or wage reductions.
