POT SHOTS

WITH
The Gentleman in the Third Row

DEFINITION—BRIEF AND TO THE POINT!

Pot Shots: The difference between a big city and a small town is about 125,000 souls.

—Aunt Mandy

A LADY REVOLTS ON THIS SEAM BUSINESS!

Mr. Pot Shots: I am getting tired of it and it's time we women started a revolt. Every time she wants to arrange the seam on my hostler's straight, my all-sewing gentlemen friends mention it sarcastically. Some of them whisper the fact to me through it's a heinous crime. Others glare it out for all to hear.

What's so bad about a stocking seam not being straight? Has any body ever passed a law saying that seam should be crooked? Lots of other things (and people) are crooked, so why not let the seam be straight? It takes originality to let it skew-gee in just the right degree manner. If a girl's low-cut blouse may be crooked, why not let the seam be crooked? It takes originality to let it skew-gee in just the right degree manner. If a girl's low-cut blouse may be crooked, why not let the seam be crooked? It takes originality to let it skew-gee in just the right degree manner.

"Ethics" Gone to Extremes

We were interested in the Lewiston Tribune's recent editorial potshot at the Idaho dental fraternity, and are inclined to agree with that newspaper's views. Commenting on the state law which prohibits a dentist from advertising in Idaho, the Lewiston Tribune has this to say:

"The entire problem (of advertising) devolves, of course, upon the erroneous assumption that to advertise is a badge of unworthiness for any professional man. In fact, dentists, doctors or lawyers, the dentists, in particular, have become so devoted to that false principle that they have made it a fetish, a blind worship which is incomprehensible except to the elect who profess to understand the mysteries of 'ethics.' Professional men, like other persons who make a living selling their personal services, can only be judged justly by the standard of the personal equation. But if these organized professional men enjoy and are enriched by this blind affection, that surely is their privilege. However, they should not have the distasteful authority to enforce their practices by state law upon others in their professions who do not agree with their conception of what is and what is not ethical. That is class legislation of the most vicious and intolerant type."

What prompted the Tribune's comment was the controversy that developed recently when Dr. W. L. Withers, a dentist of Salt Lake City, advertised his practice in an Idaho newspaper. After complaining Idaho dentists had protested, the fight was finally taken to the attorney general who, after long deliberation, has issued the opinion that Dr. Withers undoubtedly "has violated the act, but being without our jurisdiction, is not amenable thereto. . . if the act were committed by a dentist in the state of Idaho, it would be unlawful and would constitute a misdemeanor, and being within the jurisdiction could be punished."

"With the aim of the state to eliminate fraudulent or deceptive dental advertising, 'dental ethics' says the Tribune, is a thing intolerable and not to be countenanced. But the Idaho law does not confine itself to these desirable ends. What it attempts to do, in effect, is to limit the practice of dentistry in Idaho to the form prescribed by the organized dental societies. It makes a misdemeanor not alone of misstatement of fact but of advertising professional services honorably and truthfully. . . Dentists, unlike little children, are admonished by a maternal government to be neither seen nor heard in Idaho."

Government Ownership

Two recent proposals for government ownership of industry give rise to a more than usual amount of speculation and peering into the future.

The unusual thing about both suggestions is that they come from the industry side of the fence. One is the proposal of Wendell Willkie, one of the nation's outstanding public utility executives, that the government purchase the electric properties of his company in the TVA area.

The other is the proposal of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, backed by anthracite operators themselves, that the government buy and control operation of the hard coal industry.

Presumably neither of these proposals will be accomplished in the near future. But supposing they were. Would the federal government then purchase every other industry which got into financial difficulties?

And if it did, would that be Communism, or Socialism, or Fascism, or what? It's something to think about.

Tonsorial Talkers

There have been a lot of jokes about the "talking barber" who insists on engaging his customers in conversation, but now comes information that the breed is fast disappearing.

An enterprising Memphis newspaper reporter toured the city's barber shops and found not a single tonsorial artist who tried to start conversation. Many, he reported, would not even talk when he started the ball rolling.

If talking barbers really are disappearing, it will mean the passing of a long-lived American institution—which few, incidentally, will mourn.

One barber said some shops now enforce a "silence" rule. But the best guess would be that they found themselves outclassed when women clients invaded the shops, and haven't been able to get going since.

Appreciative Pensioner

If ever a man needed smelling salts to recover from astonishment it must have been that Ingham county, Michigan, pension official to whom a widow returned $1,765 which she had drawn as a mother's pension, explaining she didn't need it any longer.

The widow, Mrs. Emma Fleischer, was left destitute after the 1920 stock market crash, and thereafter lived on a meager living on her pension. Then her husband began to come back, and now are paying dividends as she had saved up the amount she had drawn in pensions, she returned the $1,765 to Ingham county, with her appreciative thanks.

"The ordinary world of ours, such action is almost unbelievable. Applause, please, for the Widow Fleischer. It may never happen again."

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

glad you are that you married me just one year ago tonight!"

SHE held out a slender white arm to him; he held her hand and put his lips to its palm. But he did not offer any further demonstration. She was a little witch; she knew she could win his affections all right, but she would not let those slender arms and sweet soft lips. She had used them too often to win her own way.

"That's why I told you, a splendid thing for new resolutions," he said. "A turning point; another beginning. We've played at marriage—and yes, it's been fun—for what you know. Now we must begin to work at it."

"You didn't say you've been happy," she pouted. She turned from him, bent forward to pick up a drop of perfume which had fallen from the tiny pink loab of each dainty eye. She got up. "The finishing touch," she laughed. "Now I, too, am ready. Do you please, my husband?"

"You always look beautiful to me," he said. "Almost too beautiful. I thought, viewing her slim, hair, bright eyes and lovely skin, the slender sheath of silver that encased her figure, the glitter of jewels on fingers and arms and neck. With a pang he recalled the girl he had married in the navy suit and perky hat, her hair wind-blown, her eyes laughing and radiant, and when she had looked at him, he had pretended to be Katie Blyn. He was just as tall, as broad of shoulder; his eyes were as dark and direct; it was not that he was new to her. She had been a talk instead of a laugh. There was something more; something that did not have to do with outward appearances. It was that she had adapted herself very well to his wife's golden world.

"We could keep it up forever, if I am alone," she answered. "I thought how handsome he looked. She hoped, though, he was not going to be difficult tonight of all times. "What's the matter, darling? You're kissing me and telling me how had often voiced lately, too; ones with which she put him off, as with her arms and lips.

"Well talk about it now," he said. "He put his hands on her shoulders. "You've got to promise me now, darling, this night of our anniversary, that tomorrow we really will settle matters. Stop moving around, playing, entertaining or being entertained every waking second—practically every sleeping second. We'll settle tomorrow what we will do, where we shall live, about my own work again."

"Of course, darling—if you wish," Connie said. Anything to put him off, what was another word for that? She had not seen what there was to settle. They were happy, just as they were, having a gorgeous time. It was a drop of perfume which had fallen from the tiny pink loab of each dainty eye. She got up. "The finishing touch," she laughed. "Now I, too, am ready. Do you please, my husband?"

"You always look beautiful to me," he said. "Almost too beautiful. I thought, viewing her slim, hair, bright eyes and lovely skin, the slender sheath of silver that encased her figure, the glitter of jewels on fingers and arms and neck. With a pang he recalled the girl he had married in the navy suit and perky hat, her hair wind-blown, her eyes laughing and radiant, and when she had looked at him, he had pretended to be Katie Blyn. He was just as tall, as broad of shoulder; his eyes were as dark and direct; it was not that he was new to her. She had been a talk instead of a laugh. There was something more; something that did not have to do with outward appearances. It was that she had adapted herself very well to his wife's golden world.

"We could keep it up forever, if I am alone," she answered. "I thought how handsome he looked. She hoped, though, he was not going to be difficult tonight of all times. "What's the matter, darling? You're kissing me and telling me how Sabotage against the invaders of the Ruhr spread up and down the Rhine today. An O'Brien bomb-trail was forced to tear up the way lines to prevent German rail workers from rushing express engines through to avoid their seizure. At Düsseldorf, strike of workers on all systems of communications was effective. Walkouts in the lower Rhineland were almost Belgian. The Ruhr valley was apparently quiet—almost completely isolated.

The French at Paris considered the Ruhr situation before the war as a sudden, but in several severe chill, pain on breathing or cough up blood from the lungs, he should realize that the condition is not a simple cold, but one which demands immediate medical attention.

Remember also that pneumonia is a disease which usually develops following a cold, and one who has the germs. Not everyone develops the disease because some of us are physically in a better condition than others.

The maintenance of a good hygiene and a good physical condition will help ward off pneumonia. Many of the cases follow other conditions such as measles, whooping cough, over-exposure and chilling, drunkenness and poor nutrition. In the treatment of pneumonia cough-purging is vital. The patient will decidedly do better in a hospital than at home. It is not possible to determine whether or not the condition is wise for the patient to be moved.

Nothing is of the greatest importance in providing complete rest and comfort as possible for the patient. In watching the development of the symptoms as they occur; and in aiding in the administration of oxygen and other remedial measures. Individual things is not possible, arrangements should be made to have the services of a visiting nurse. It seems well established that the serum which has been prepared for types 1, 2, 5, 7 and 8 of pneumonia, is the most useful of all of the serum during the early stages. It has been shown that serum given on the first day is nearly twice as effective as that given later.

Since the correct serum can only be chosen after suitable typing, it is advisable in every case of pneumonia to have the typing done as soon as possible.

Library books in U. S. prisons have an average per capita circulation of 1.5 during the year. One third of the total circulation is in the non-fiction groups.

The Family Doctor

This is the second of two articles in which Dr. Fishbein discusses treatment of pneumonia.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, Nutrition and Health.

In preventing pneumonia it is first important to warn everyone not to come in contact with any person who has the disease, any more than they would wish to be near a doctor in a condition. It is wise to avoid unnecessary crowds when influenza, grippe or colds are common.

Most important, however, is early and prompt care of the common cold when it occurs. The advice to go to bed immediately, to get medical attention whenever you have fever, aches and pains, or general weakness and to consider every cold as a possible first step toward pneumonia will help to prevent a great many cases.

Whenever a person with a cold has a sudden chill, pain on breathing or cough up blood from the lungs, he should realize that the condition is not a simple cold, but one which demands immediate medical attention.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (Special)—Lewis has appeared as the administration's loudly ballyhooed effort to knock down monopoly prices, simultaneously with a burst of confidence among anti-monopoly crusaders who begin to believe some of those prices will be driven down. Specifically, some of the New Dealers think the price of steel may drop within the next two months. The ammunition they have hurled at fixed, rigid and administered prices in the past few weeks has been aimed most of all at the steel industry. So a cut in steel prices would be to them a most important victory.

But steel is equally important in the eyes of Mr. Lewis, who recently appeared at the White House with Tom Lamont, who is a partner of J. P. Morgan and company, top banker for U. S. Steel. When Lewis made a collective bargain agreement with all 15 steel and steel companies all raised wages, up went the price of steel. If steel prices go down, Lewis has to fight to force down wages as well.

Government economists and statisticians say that prices were raised far higher in proportion, than steel wages, and that the latter should remain stationary if the former are reduced. The steel industry denies this.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that his proposed plan for a war referendum requirement.

"People can be persuaded to be swept into a vote for a war as well as vote against war," he said.

"So can congress," someone pointed out.

"Yes," Mrs. R. agreed, "so can congress."

In her recent book called "This Troubled World," the First Lady urged an international tribunal to decide whether or not a nation was an aggressor, economic boycott against such a nation, an international police force to enforce decisions of the tribunal, and other complete government ownership of arms and munitions factories or the strictest kind of government supervision to prevent arms export.

SECURITY LISTS SWELLED

There's quite a discrepancy between 21,000 names in the present number of social security accounts, and 28,000,000, which was the number of persons the experts figured out would be covered by the social security act's old-age benefit system.

Officials privately are willing to admit that the advance computation of about 28,000,000 is a matter of just plain bad guesswork or estimating.

But meanwhile the WPA workers have been taken in, which has meant a couple of million or more additional cards. And an astonishingly large number of persons have lost their cards. It is now reported that there will be numerous duplications of accounts. Persons applying for unemployment compensation must have

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

NORTH AMERICA HAS MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED DIFFERENT SPECIES OF NATIVE TREES.

"Anthracite" is a noun; "bituminous" is an adjective!

CONTRARY TO POPULAR OPINION, HOLDING THE BREATH DOES NOT PREVENT A BEE'S STINGER FROM PUNCTURING ONE'S SKIN.

The word anthracite is derived from the Greek anthrax, meaning "coal." Since it is a noun, it is incorrect to say "anthracite coal." When referring to hard coal, the word anthracite is sufficient. Bituminous, however, being an adjective, should be followed by the word coal.

20 KILLED, 350 INJURED IN ITALY MUNITIONS EXPLOSION

KING AND QUEEN ARRIVE TO HELP AFTER 3 BLASTS

SENIOR, Italy, Jan. 29 (AP)—Twenty persons were estimated killed and 350 wounded today in three explosions at a munitions factory. The estimates were not official.

The explosions occurred between 7:30 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. (11:35 p. m. and 12:03 a. m. M.S.T.).

Nearly every window in the town was shattered.

After the first explosion at 7:35 there was a bigger one at 7:50. Then there was a terrific final blast at 8:00. Many persons far from the plant were injured by broken glass.

The factory at which the explosion occurred is a twelve-story building working on a 24-hour schedule and was being worked at full capacity at the time of the blast.

Witnesses expressed in fear that big deposits of the plant might be ignited.

One hundred ambulances and 300 cordons arrived from Rome and other points, and began taking care of the injured as rapidly as possible.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena arrived and took an active part in aiding the wounded.

Police, fearing more explosions, would permit no one near the factory.

New State Fair Group Sets Dates and Arranges Circuit

Idaho State Fair association officials today announced tentative dates for the 1938 Idaho state fair, indicating that the annual Twin Falls county fair would be held at Pater on Sept. 7-9-10.

The new fair association was recently organized to protect individual fairs from conflicting dates and to build a fair circuit that would move across the state opening in August in mid-August and finishing in Blackfoot in late September.

This new circuit would allow livestock exhibitors, carnivals, entertainment troops and owners of rodeo riding horses to move across the circuit, benefiting both the showman and the fairs.

Stronger showing meets will result, officials state, and top rodeo riders will be able to show in all the leading fairs.

Tentative dates arranged by the association which officials believe will be adopted by the fair boards are: Boise, Aug. 23 to 27; Gooding, Aug. 29 to 31; Camas county fair at Bear, Sept. 1 to 3; Twin Falls county fair at Pater, Sept. 7 to 10; Bannock county fair at Pocatello, Sept. 18 to 21; Eastern Idaho's district fair, Sept. 22 to 25; Idaho Falls, Sept. 26 to 29.

Idaho Falls has asked to be admitted to the circuit and will arrange dates that conflict the least. Names of fair association members rodeo earlier in the summer.

COLLECTOR SUES MAN AT GOODING

GOODING, Jan. 29 (Special)—In his effort to collect $2,000 damages, Champ M. Heppler, Twin Falls collector for the Pacific Finance corporation, brought suit against Ous Kendrick and his nephews, Wallace, Marshall and Richard, Gooding farmers in the district court at Gooding today morning as the second jury trial of this term of the district court, under Judge H. H. Stephen.

The plaintiff, alleges that he was physically injured in a fist fight with the defendants, as a result of his efforts as collector on a car purchased from Severe and Vandergrat, Gooding garagemen, on which payments were past due, on last Aug. 10.

Testimony reveals that Heppler had repossessed the car, and had taken one of the Kendricks home from the district court at Gooding. Kendrick allegedly started the trouble, according to the defendants, who claimed that they took a long drive from their home and returned it, telling him to "get to it—out of here."

Among the witnesses to take the stand for the plaintiff were: Vandergrat, Champ Heppler, Mrs. C. M. Heppler, Otis and Wallace Kendrick. The plaintiff is represented by J. H. Barnes of Twin Falls and the defendants by W. G. Bissell, Gooding.

The jury was chosen from the 60 veniremen used for the Pruetz trial. They are: George Von Weiler, Ed Cruise and John Tolle, Wendell Ross Viperman of Tuttle, and Roy Ellis, Fred C. G. Jenkins, N. M. Bartley, C. C. Weibright, R. E. Wiswell, and John Lowry of Gooding.

Norman Bates Returns from Movie Colony

Norman Bates, local dance instructor and Twin Falls high school graduate, had returned home today with a measure of success he enjoyed on the coast. Norman likes it here, and asserted that "knowing the celebrities and mingling with movie people is all right, but it's too false. I like the friendliness of a small town."

While in California Norman worked as a dance instructor under the Roy Randolph banner and appeared in the district court in Culver City. He was on the same program as Les Hill.

He is also with the Stan Laurel production for three weeks and assisted in the dancing scenes.

Other appearances were made by Norman with various orchestras and he was featured in a piano solo number on a radio program with Dixie Dunbar and Director Taylor Gardner.

His plans are indefinite but Norman is considering reopening his dance studio in Twin Falls—that is, if Mr. Randolph doesn't call him back to assist in the instruction for dance seasons.

Play Together

TYRONE POWER and LORETTA YOUNG... In "Second Honeymoon"

O'BRIEN STARRED IN IDAHO'S FILM

Nobody plays a fast-talking wise-cracking newspaperman like Pat O'Brien. It has been conceded ever since he did Billy Johnson in the classic "Front Page."

But he has a feminine rival for those honors in "Back in Circulation," the Warner Bros. comedy-drama which opens at the Tabor theater Sunday. And it rivals anyone other than Joan Blondell, who is co-starred with him.

"Back in Circulation," which was written by the eminent author, Sheila Rogers St. Johns, sees Pat as managing editor of a sensation newspaper which will halt at nothing to increase its circulation, and Joan as his star reporter.

The story deals with the mysterious death of a millionaire, which Pat and Joan solve—as well as a rescue from death or life imprisonment of the man's widow, who has refused to save herself from conviction for murder. Miss Blondell is said to give one of her most realistic performances as a sob sister who stops at nothing to get her story.

SCOUT UNIT GETS O.K. IN JEROME

Authorization and approval of Scout troop 40 in Jerome sponsored by the Rotary club was announced today by Ruben C. Matson, chairman of the Jerome Scout district. Sam Hainaker is the Scoutmaster with Leeland Talkington assistant Scoutmaster.

Members of the new troop committee are C. F. Zeller, chairman; W. A. Hales and A. L. Pyle.

Boys who registered for the troop are: Maximo Brooks, Paul Eakin, Lloyd Goodrich, Boyd Fremont, Walter Henry, Donald Johnson, Donald Miller, Roger Maxwell, Harry Noel, William Peters, Ralph Peters, Jack Zellwiler, Dick Woodard, Robert Zeller, Fred Laitacere, Cole Reed, Paul Whaley, Fred Smith and Harold Canaday.

Arena at Fair Adds Comfort

Spectators at the Twin Falls county fair next fall will be able to enjoy stock judging in comfort from bleachers surrounding a new judging arena, according to Tom Parks, fair manager. The new arena will be built on moving back and the new barn and arena will be built in front of them.

The cattle, sheep, goats and horses will be led from entrances connecting each livestock barn with the arena. Dome lights will be installed so that the arena may be used at night.

Budget $24,000

The fair budget for 1938 is $34,000 with $4,000 for materials in the new buildings and $1,000 for repair and upkeep. Parks has 34 WPA laborers at work on the grounds, besides an assistant foreman and helper assisted by the WPA.

The rodeo stock and race horse barns are being moved from their present location near the grandstand to the northwest corner of the grounds. A new concrete floor will be laid in the automobile display building, and a new restroom 22x22 with 12 commodes has been constructed.

The driveways throughout the grounds will be improved, with dirt gravel to be laid down. Trees on the grounds are being pruned and straightened.

The fair commissioners gave the fair a fine boost this year by allowing $1,000 for exhibits, according to Parks. "We want a good looking fair," he said, "and we have the prestige that the Twin Falls county fair will have."

EHLERS WINS IN F.F.A. SPEAKING

Irvin Ehlers will represent the Twin Falls high school chapter of the F. F. A. at the district public speaking event set for Feb. 9 and sponsored by the Orange.

Ehlers was chosen by the chapter winner after the completion of points in competition featuring the six high men in the agriculture classes of J. V. Briggs.

Judging was done by Gerald Wallace, W. J. Kenney and Principal D. D. Hochstetler as the six boys gave their topics yesterday afternoon.

Those competing in the speaking event, their topic and their average scores were: Irvin Ehlers, "Farming and the Future," 2.5; Maurice Capps, "Why I Chose to Become a Farmer," 2.4; Read Reams, "Four Great Improvements for Farm Life," 2.0; Gene M. Roberts, "The Future of Agriculture and Fertility," 2.0; Gene Ward, "Room at the Top," 1.9; Herbert Kork, "Electricity and Its Advantages," 2.5.

Each of the boys competing yesterday will receive 75 additional points toward their P. F. A. letter grade for the year. The extra 100 if he places in the upper three brackets of those competing at the district event.

ORPHEUM BOOKS ROMANTIC TEAM

To renew a honeymoon is not quite so easy as to "René" one, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young find out in their latest picture, "Twentieth Century-Fox's 'Second Honeymoon,'" at the Orpheum theater Sunday.

Hailed as their perfect picture together, the screen's most exciting sweethearts have already parted in Reno when the story opens, but when they meet under the Miami moon they kiss impulsively and fall for each other once more again.

Marjorie Weaver, Lyle Talbot and J. Edward Bromberg are marked in the cast of the film, which includes the fourth time Tyrone and Loretta have appeared together in romantic roles.

Parry P. Zanuck selected Walter Catlett to adapt, with Raymond Griffith associate producer, Kathryn Scola and Darrell Ware wrote the screen play from the Red Book magazine story by Phillip Wylie.

The rodeo stock and race horse barns are being moved from their present location near the grandstand to the northwest corner of the grounds. A new concrete floor will be laid in the automobile display building, and a new restroom 22x22 with 12 commodes has been constructed.

The driveways throughout the grounds will be improved, with dirt gravel to be laid down. Trees on the grounds are being pruned and straightened.

The fair commissioners gave the fair a fine boost this year by allowing $1,000 for exhibits, according to Parks. "We want a good looking fair," he said, "and we have the prestige that the Twin Falls county fair will have."

FARMER HOUSING HELP SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (Special)—The new housing bill went to conference, Sen. J. P. Pope of Idaho, urged Senator Wagner, sponsor of housing legislation, to extend its provisions to rural dwellings as well as city homes.

Senator Wagner replied: "I am in complete sympathy and agreement with the suggestion that such an amendment be worked out. The conference committee is, I am sure, fully cognizant of the need for making the provisions of the bill cover rural properties and is bending every effort to work out statutory language which will best accomplish that result. It is being held in conference and support to this end."

The conference report on housing legislation has been completed and is being sent to the president's act to farm homes. Farmers can secure FHA insured loans up to 90 per cent of the value of rural homes. The act is expected that a large number of rural home owners in Idaho will avail themselves of federal housing services.
