Gov. Clark Reveals Plans to Seek Office Again

Chief Executive Will Enter Name In Primary List

Effort for Second Term Announced in Twin Falls

Gov. Barzille W. Clark will enter his name in the August primaries and will seek his second term as chief executive of Idaho, he said today.

With the primaries but five months away, Governor Clark made the announcement he would seek a second term after he was guest of honor last night at the annual military ball given by Company E, 116th engineers, Twin Falls unit of the Idaho national guard.

In an exclusive interview with this reporter, Governor Clark for the first time revealed his intentions of running again.

"I have to stay around Boise and the governor's office so much that it is hard for me to sum up the situation at a glance," he said. "However, I would announce that I will seek a second term as governor of Idaho and I will not deny it."

Thus Clark became the first major office holder to announce his candidacy in the primaries.

Richard Cong. D. Worth Clark, the governor's nephew; Senator James P. Pope and also Cong. Compton I. White, all three in the Republican line, are expected to run or the same office they now hold or try for a step higher, none of the three has made definite commitments. The congressman is expected to run against Pope in the primary with Pope and White seeking to succeed themselves.

G. O. F. in Doubt

Governor Clark's announcement that he will seek a second term comes at a time when no one as yet has been agreed upon as the Republican candidate. Governor Clark, Burley publisher, has been mentioned as a possible choice on different occasions, but he insists he will not be a candidate.

From present indications, it is more logical to assume that I. E. Rockwell of Bellevue, former state secretary and a close friend of Governor Clark, will be lined up for the Republicans when it comes to a showdown. He is known to have favored Clark's reelection for governor, but it remains to be seen how much support his friends will be able to muster.

Gossard Candidate

Among the names most persistently mentioned in Democratic circles as other likely candidates for the gubernatorial office is that of Lieut. Gov. Charles Gossard. Those close to the lieutenant governor are quite optimistic in their hopes that he will enter the campaign.

Some observers can see the possibility of Secretary of State Ira F. Masters getting into the governor's race. His record is excellent, but however, depends largely on the ultimate decision of Congressman Clark. It is no secret that Masters, in his eyes, would be a good job, but in the event Clark decides to "stay put," it would not be surprising to find Masters losing his (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

JAPANESE MAKE RAPID GAINS IN SHENSI PROVINCE

By JOHN R. MORRIS

SHANGHAI, March 2 (UP)—Japanese military forces, advancing rapidly westward through Shensi province, were reported today to have moved beyond the west bank of the Yellow River into Shensi province, stronghold of the Chinese eighth route army.

The Japanese, unable to crash through the Chinese Lungshai line denoting the east-west railway, that name but successful in routing provincial troops in Shensi, apparently were determined to enter Shensi in a dual drive against the eighth route army, former Communist troops under Gen. Chu Teh, and the western terminus of the Lungshai in Shan-Pu.

The advance into Shensi brings to eight the number of provinces in which the Japanese have campaigned since outbreak of hostilities.

Defense Near Collapse

The Chinese defenses in western Shensi province were near collapse. Chinese reports admitting major Japanese advances indicated the resistance offered by the provincial troops under guidance of the former Communist forces was weak. Several Japanese units are advancing more than 20 miles a day. Japanese said that 100,000 Chinese troops were trapped in the snow-blanketed Shensi mountains and were being subjected to heavy bombing.

Twenty mixed Chinese divisions between Linghsih and the Yellow River fell west following the fall of the temporary Shensi provincial capital at Linfen and Japanese columns were said to be pursuing an attempt to halt as many as possible before they can escape into Shensi.

Deny Attack

A Japanese naval spokesman here said in answer to allegations that Japanese had launched an attack against British passenger planes, that Japanese aircraft on Feb. 22 took off from a naval anchorage in the Yellow Sea and a motorized monoplane appeared overhead but retired when the British insignia was seen.

British authorities reported new differences between Japanese and British forces guarding the British defense sector here, when the British soldiers refused to work with Chinese who was shot while fleeing into the sector. They said it was only a "small incident."

GERMAN PASTOR GIVEN SENTENCE

BERLIN, March 2 (UP)—The Rev. Martin Niemöller, world war hero and militant leader of the opposition movement in the Evangelical church was sentenced to seven months imprisonment in a fortress and fined twice today for defying the government.

One fine was of 500 marks ($200). The other was 1,500 marks ($600). As Niemöller was credited with the months he had already served, it was considered that he had given satisfaction as to the prison sentence and the smaller fine. But he will not be released until he has paid the larger one.

Niemöller went on trial before a secret court Feb. 7 on four charges of defying the government in its campaign of Nazification of the Evangelical church. He had been in prison since July 1 last.

Niemöller was arrested for his preachings as pastor of the Berlin-Dahlem church, one of the best and most fashionable in Berlin.

He repeatedly charged that Adolf Hitler's government aided the introduction of heresy into the teachings of the German protestant church.

Niemöller was returned from a visit to the Alcatraz Island prison, where Capone is serving an 11-year sentence for evading federal income taxes, when he had been arrested. He will be eligible for parole next year.

Mrs. Capone Defiant

Mrs. Marie Capone, a tall blond who came from Miami, Fla., to visit her imprisoned husband for the first time since he suffered a mental breakdown Feb. 5, was defiant and defiant when she faced reporters who had trailed her taxi from the station. She had just returned from a visit to the Alcatraz Island prison, where Capone is serving an 11-year sentence for evading federal income taxes, when he had been arrested. He will be eligible for parole next year.

INSPECTORS TO COAST

WASHINGTON, March 2 (UP)—The bureau of air commerce today ordered three inspectors to report immediately to the area in which a Transcontinental and Western Airlines plane was missing with six passengers and a crew of three.

The debate flared up suddenly when Rep. James G. Scruggs, D., Nev., and an aviator, who had increased the appropriation for the Provo river project, Utah, from $100,000 to $300,000.

Rep. Robert F. Rich, R., Pa., who had offered numerous amendments to cut down individual items only to have the house hold them down was called.

"Why, of all the brats," he said, "Well, I don't know what to say."

Rich started shouting but his remarks were not generally intelligible above the hubbub. One phrase he caught the attention of Rep. Zebulon Weaver, D., N. C.

"The gentleman cannot say that President Roosevelt never did a thing's worth in his life," Weaver said.

"Well," said Rich, "he never worked except at a political job."

"Doesn't the gentleman know," Weaver asked, "that before the President was stricken down he was vice-president of an insurance company in New York?"

AI Suffering Broken Spirit - Mrs. Capone

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2 (UP)—Mrs. Marie Capone and her brother fled themselves from society again today after granting an interview to reporters at a filling station south of San Jose, and denying that Chicago's master hoodlum was suffering from anything worse than despondency and nervousness.

They had just returned from a visit to the Alcatraz Island prison, where Capone is serving an 11-year sentence for evading federal income taxes, when he had been arrested. He will be eligible for parole next year.

FLOODS MENACE COAST WORKERS

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (UP)—Office workers and clerks in metropolitan Los Angeles were warned today with their feet wrapped in old rags and paper like Tuscan peasants after one of the most severe attacks in the city's history.

Downtown streets were flooded from curb to curb. Pedestrians were forced to wade through water up to their knees. Home owners moved their shoes and stockings, rolled their trousers or held up their dresses, and waded through the surging waters.

Inside office buildings they wrapped their feet in old rags or paper and waited for the shoes and stockings to dry.

Steady Downpour

The storm started shortly after 9 p. m. yesterday, and at midnight settled down to a steady downpour. The rain did not let up until Los Angeles to the low area was flooded. Many families were marooned. Highways were blocked to traffic by landslides.

100 Year Old Twin Falls Confederate Veteran Recalls First Battle Made His Red Hair White

As long as he may live, Joseph "Uncle Joe" Jordan, resident at the county home who yesterday celebrated his 100th birthday, will always remember his participation in the Civil war, fighting under the Confederate flag, because his first battle changed the color of his hair from an "auburn red" to white.

"Uncle Joe" recalled the incident yesterday afternoon. He was a rebel at a party by the home. To an Evening Times reporter he revealed his participation in the war which he entered after only "two days of hard training."

"It was in Virginia," he said, "and it was my first battle. I saw the Yankees, and they ran bullet down over his face, coming at me with a bayonet. I didn't know what to do because I hadn't been trained. I was finally able to think clearly again. The Yankee was dead. I got him in the neck with my rifle. I just first encounter, made a lasting impression with me. When I saw that Yankee coming at me I had auburn red hair which lay in waves, shortly after that fight I looked in a mirror and the curls were still there but my hair was now white and has stayed that way ever up to today."

"I can't prove what I say but I'm not in the habit of telling other than the truth. I know one thing, that if I was never so scared in my life," Uncle Joe said.

"I served two years with the Confederate army and was honorably discharged" without a scratch," but "with my white hair" he was between 22 and 23 when his hair changed its color.

But yesterday his oldest person son, John J. Jordan, said possibly Idaho, lived again the century through which he has passed since he was born in Lynchburg, Va., on March 1, 1838.

"Through the greater part of his life Uncle Joe followed bridge building and railroading. Many are the numerous and tragic instances which he recalls of years which are passed.

In construction work he served as the first foreman when the caverns of the Great Salt Lake, built by the Pacific coast, was the trail which he helped to build. He was also a former employee of the Southern Pacific, a road, he said, which had a plenty of money and did things.

He has worked and lived in nearly every state in the union and has many sections of the country which they were still chased as territories.

Orphaned at three, he was raised by an uncle and aunt. His only sister, a few years his senior, was taken by another couple. He served in the Civil war for only one year. That was when she was between 10 and 10 years old. She was a member of a Jubilee troop and played the piano in which he held the funeral service there tomorrow morning.

"I talked to her about an hour," he said, "then planned to visit her in Boston later. The train on which her travel troupe, however, was (Continued on Page 2, Column 5)

PHOSPHATE STATES A WAIT EDR MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

WORLD SHORTAGE TO BE REVEALED IN NEXT ADDRESS

BOISE, Ida., March 2 (Special)—The states of Idaho, Utah, Montana and Wyoming, possessors of approximately one-half of the world supply of phosphate rock today awaited President Roosevelt's special message to congress on the world shortage in phosphates.

The President intended to present the subject to congress on the heels of the latest move by western officials to secure development of the vast phosphate resources lying principally in Idaho.

The President had been requested to allocate unused portions of the fund provided for phosphate work under the Tennessee Valley authority to set up finances for development and experimental work in the western field.

May Divers Funds West

Mr. Roosevelt is authorized to do this under terms of the TVA and such a diversion of funds already appropriated for phosphate work would prevent the necessity of an act of congress to insure development of the giant western fields lying principally in Idaho.

Hope was apparent in Idaho's executive offices today that since the President has announced he will speak at the "world phosphate" in phosphate he may be considering liberation of western deposits to augment the national supply.

New Suit for Bridge Hand

Some harassed partners insist that bridge is sufficiently intricate now, but just to make it really complex, English players have devised a fifth suit for the game—the "crown" suit shown above. Named after the royal family, the crown suit brings the deck of cards to 63, gives each player 16 in the hand with one left over which the dealer may have, discarding as he pleases. Bidding is similar to present contracting, except that trick counting begins at eight instead of six. A small slam means all but two of the 16 tricks, a grand slam all but one, a "seven slam" all the tricks. Experts insist the new five-suited deck and game are "interesting."

CHALLIS-CLAYTON HIGHWAY COMPLETION

Editor, Evening Times:

We are well advanced into the calendar year 1938 and state highway departments and federal agencies are actively engaged in making up their budgets for the next fiscal year which commences July 1. President Wells has asked the undersigned to address our members in Idaho once more and request that they speak for the completion of the Challis-Clayton sector of highways, which would mean virtual completion of the entire Route U. S. 93 from the Canadian boundary to the Mexican border.

Will you please do this at once? Concerted action on the part of the people of Idaho would result in the allocation of sufficient federal highway money this year to complete the Challis-Clayton sector, which would mean virtual completion of the entire Route U. S. 93 from the Canadian boundary to the Mexican border.

C. J. Olsen, assistant regional forester, Ogden, Utah.

B. J. Finch, district engineer, U. S. bureau of public roads, Ogden, Utah.

H. Stemmer, state director of highways, state capitol, Boise.

NEW SLAVERY LOOMS

Editor, Evening Times:

Wars and riots are the result of public opinion whipped into a frenzy along one line of thought. An individual who dares to disagree confines himself to court-martial or physical violence. Only when free discussion is kept alive does liberty survive.

Your greatest protection against Fascism, Communism, Nazism, or any other kind of freedom depriving you of your personal freedom is an enlightened public opinion. A sure knowledge of facts, a sure knowledge of their meaning.

A new kind of slavery threatens everywhere as sure as any in the long history of human bondage. Under it, all races, all colors, all creeds, are made to do the bidding of a supreme authority—a dictator.

What are you doing to protect yourself and your children? The menace is plain: unless something is done to bulwark the world's democratic institutions, the new enslavement, the tyranny of authoritarian ideas, may spread to your own doors.

Unlike that of ancient Greece and Rome, this slavery in the modern world does not first establish itself by force. Where it exists, it is allowed to creep up at a time of economic and political disorder. Freedom was not watchfully guarded because masses of people had lost their sense of individual responsibility. Unwittingly, they had bartered their liberties for a temporary, makeshift security. In those nations where it at first crept up, the new slavery now maintains itself by force.

Freedom brings with it individual responsibility, and needs eternal vigilance on the part of everybody. To preserve liberty, men must not only guard against encroachments on it but must also be able to deal intelligently with current problems. If they fail in this, someone else will deal with those problems and freedom will decline and then slavery will begin.

Long life and more power to your Public Forum. What if some of the youngsters get under your skin? They are much better than the usual old line of hash-bread that has been delivered to the public as an opiate to keep the average person from discussing the problems of his very existence. While our people were under the sedative of the heroic exploits of Al Capone and others if his ilk, the big gangsters wrecked our economic unity and came near ruling one of the best governments ever devised by man.

ROTARY ATTENDS NORTH SIDE MEET

SHOSHONE, March 2 (Special)—The successful business man must definitely know his destination, and must work and sacrifice to attain it. Reilly Atkinson, Boise business man and former district Rotary governor, told nearly 100 Rotarians here at the highly interesting session of the body at the high school auditorium. Delegations from the clubs at Gooding, Jerome and Halley attended.

The speaker brought out the responsibility of the business man toward the community, and that it is up to the man operating an institution to make a success of it. He called the necessity for the best co-operative and affiliative interest available between business interests and the public.

Mr. Atkinson, who was district governor seven years ago, when the Shoshone club was chartered, stated he had recently returned from an eastern trip and found that many interests were still greatly concerned over the future of business conditions. He asserted that Idaho had one of the best positions in the sun that could be observed in the nation.

Governor Henry Dvorzhak of Burley delivered a "short talk."

President W. E. Grosse of the Shoshone club had charge of the joint session, and other speakers included building club presidents, Gilbert White of Jerome; Frank Moore of Halley, and Al Shubert of Gooding.

HORSE DRIVE TO START MARCH 15

BURLEY, March 2 (Special)—Plans are progressing for the spring wild horse round-up on the Mindkoka forest, which will begin March 15 in compliance with an order issued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace H. Hoover.

Between these dates, the slated areas of the Mindkoka forest are closed to grazing of all livestock. The order will be advertised for 30 days so that owners may remove their stock by March 15. After that date, no stock may be removed, and any roundup or destruction of animals will be handled by the permanent personnel of forest service employes.

The closing order was issued to enable the forest service to rid the government reserved lands of all livestock grazing in trespass.

COYOTES DEVOUR BEAVER PLANTED IN FOREST AREA

BURLEY, March 2 (Special)—Coyotes will eat beaver, according to Ranger C. H. McDonald of the Sublet division of the Mindkoka forest, who has lately had some difficulty in protecting the newly-planted beaver in the vicinity of the ranger station from marauding coyotes. To date, two have been killed and Ranger McDonald has put poisoned sheep and magpies near the dams in an effort to kill the coyotes.

The beaver were brought from ranch areas of the forest near the first of February, approximately 100 being removed from lower Rock creek. As the beaver dams form, he said, transplantation of the animals aids in water conservation.

Trotsky Called British, Nazi Spy

TRIAL OPENS FOR 21 FORMER HEAD MEN OF U. S. S. R.

MOSCOW, March 2 (AP)—Leon Trotsky, exiled war lord, was denounced as an ally over a number of years of the German and British secret services today as 21 Bolshevik leaders, latest of thousands to be called traitors in a terrible three-year purge, went on trial in the hall of columns of the one time nobles' club.

It was alleged that Trotsky and the defendants conspired not only with Germany and Great Britain but with Poland and Japan to dismember the Soviet Union, seize power and return the country to capitalism.

Twenty of the 21 confessed their guilt. Only Nicholas Krestinsky, ambassador to Germany for nine years, former finance commissar and former foreign vice minister, refused to plead guilty.

At the outset of the trial, before the dreaded military collegium of the supreme court, the prosecution alleged that Trotsky, now in Mexico, had been connected with the German secret police since 1921 and with the British intelligence service since 1926.

Lined With Trotsky It was alleged that all of the defendants were linked with each other and with Trotsky in a gigantic conspiracy extending back for 20 years, to assassinate Russian leaders, to murder men who came under medical care, to partition the coffee and leather trade, to use powers and to seize power themselves under a new capitalist regime.

It was alleged that Krestinsky had been a German spy since 1922. It was charged that A. P. Rozenko, former foreign trade commissar, had been a German spy since 1923 and a British spy since 1926.

Long Indictment Read Charge after charge, denunciation after denunciation poured like acid from the lips of Andrew Vishinsky, attorney general of the Soviet Union, presiding at the trial. He read the long indictment to the judges sitting above him on their red-draped bench, with Field Marshal Vasily Ulrich, commander in chief of the Russian armies in the Far East, presiding.

Facing the prosecutor in their high square seats were, on the right, the 21 defendants heard the charges that everyone thought must mean their doom—a firing squad before a blank wall of the Lubyanka prison within 72 hours of their conviction.

Nikolai Ivanovich Bukharin, "hair of Lenin," was charged as their head as they entered the "court room in single file; guards with bayoneted rifles on each side had all were men of national prominence. Half a dozen at one time or another had been of world renown.

Fought 46 Years Now, their former comrades said, they were murderers, traitors. Some of them had fought for Bolshevism for 40 years. They had lived in complimentary cells of Czarist prisons, in the bleak wastes of far Siberia, they had straggled in exile, hungry and ill clad. They had solved power in a country that comprises one-sixth of the world, they had enjoyed poverty and prestige.

Now they had reached the end of a road where the revolution was devouring its own children. Some 1,500 men and women had preceded them down that road to the firing squad in a purge, unprecedented in modern history, that started in December, 1934, when Beria, chief of the Communist "Big 10" and close friend of Josef Stalin, was assassinated by an obscure young man—some said for personal reasons, at his office in Leningrad.

Military Banquet Hears U. S. Defense Emphasis

Stressing the importance of national preparedness in the United States today and pointing to the conditions which existed when the United States entered the World war as convincing proof that such a program is necessary, two of three speakers at the 15th annual military dinner of Company E, 118th Engineers last night followed this line of thought in their talks.

The speakers included Gov. Barzilla W. Clark, Mayor Lem A. Chapin of Twin Falls and Lt. Col. James C. Long, Shoshone. Lt. Col. H. O. Lauterbach, Hansen, presided.

Praises Company Gov. Clark, in a brief address, expressed his satisfaction at being guest of honor and also his "high regard" for the company, a government unit of the 118th Engineers.

Mayor Chapin and Lt. Col. Long both stressed national defense in their talks to the more than 200 guests, company members and their ladies who were present.

"Preparedness is the greatest preparation of perpetual peace," Mayor Chapin said. "If the United States will maintain an army and navy as strong as that of any other nation in the world and will conserve wealth as well as manpower in time of war, I see no danger that any power will attack us."

Following the same theme, Lt. Col. Long pointed out that the present national defense program will not leave us in the position in which we were when the World war started.

Experienced Men Now, as it is now operating, will not make it necessary for inexperienced men to lead other men into battle.

"Rather, it will give us a trained group in case of war with any nation. You men of this company should be happy that this military training has been made available to you. The people should also feel that your training will result in your being ready and competent to protect their homes and lives," Lt. Col. Long said.

Dinner music was furnished by a group of musicians under the direction of Will Wright, Sgt. Walter Swepe led those attending in special songs.

SNOW DECLINES; STILL ABOVE '37

Snow depths in the Sawtooth region continued to diminish last week but held substantially above 1937 levels, it was shown today in the report issued by F. B. Moore, Sawtooth national forest supervisor.

At Selkirk, site of Sun Valley and the forthcoming international open ski tourney, showed 38 inches average as of Monday, only 15 inches more than last year. Halley had 22 inches, three above last season.

Galen, which had 77 inches last week, registered 53 at Monday. Other figures in Mr. Moore's report for the Big Wood river drainage area were 33 inches at Graham, 35 at Mammoth, 32 at 3200, and from 80 to 44 at the three Old Baldy stations. All are well above 1937.
