Lithuania Cabinet Men Resign in Protest at Ultimatum Acceptance

HEADS MAY SEND NOTE TO POWERS TELLING CLAIMS

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 21—Foreign Minister Stasys Losorius and Minister of Justice Stasys Silingas tendered their resignations today because of their dissatisfaction with the government's acceptance of Poland's ultimatum on restoration of diplomatic relations.

President A. Smetona did not announce at once whether he would accept the resignations or try to persuade the ministers to withdraw them.

Changes Forecast
Far-reaching changes in the country's political front, possibly involving the resignation of Smetona himself, were forecast.

It was understood that the government was considering whether to send a note to the great powers and the League of Nations citing Lithuania's legal claims to the Vilna area, which lay at the bottom of the 20-year dispute with Poland, and asserting that these claims had not been altered by the forced agreement with Poland.

Various reports were that almost every minister in the cabinet had offered his resignation or was about to do so, but there was no confirmation of the reports.

Humiliation Seen
Undoubtedly the feeling throughout the country was one of humiliation, particularly because the Polish ultimatum—whether intentionally or unintentionally—expired on St. Joseph's day, the feast of the Holy Mary, which is a national holiday in Lithuania.

A statement by Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, that in acceptance of Poland's ultimatum left neither victor nor vanquished, was read here with very grimaces. But outwardly no comment was made, and there were no manifestations or demonstrations. Most of the people generally seemed relieved that the danger of war had been averted.

The Gooding Jaycee group, organized in February, is rapidly becoming an active civic organization of the community. Their first project was to send the Gooding college basketball team to the Boise tournament, raising the funds by sponsoring the Gooding college vs. Mursough Savages game. Next the group voted to sponsor a district Boy Scout rally, at Gooding for some nine or ten troops in Gooding and Camas counties, at which 150 to 200 Boy Scouts will be in attendance. The date for this event has not been set, but in all probability it will be held before the Snake River Valley "Scout-orama" at Twin Falls, May 20.

Bough, P. H. Hughes, George Pilger and Otto P.

LAST CHANCE FOR THE AIRPORT
(Editor's note: The following letter, although received by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, is printed in the Public Forum because its author declares the issue is vital to Twin Falls.)

Chamber of Commerce, Gentlemen:
I have lived in Twin Falls for 14 years and during my stay have noticed the rapid growth in the enlarging and modernization of the city. I realize that you have always had an active part in these improvements and I know that you are always willing to help in new ways in which to better our city.

This new improvement of which I am speaking is a modern, up-to-date airport. For years people have wanted this, but there has always been something to hold it back. I think this is our last chance to be situated on an air route, and believe every facility should be utilized to carry out this plan.

The Union Pacific railroad and the Idaho Air Lines have already concurred in using Twin Falls as a stopover. If we will install a modern airport. This would not only be putting us on the map, but it would also be a means of business for our hotels and stores. As you probably know Burley, Jerome and other outlying towns are working hard for this but I think that with the cooperation of your fine organization, the newspapers, clubs and the general public, we can win this goal and make Twin Falls the most progressive city in Idaho.

I hope that you will do everything in your power to put this over. A CITIZEN OF TWIN FALLS, Twin Falls, March 17.

WILBUR SHAW

record-breaking auto racing driver to BEN E. WILBUR, radio announcer

"You're known as a great Camel smoker, Mr. Shaw. Are they really so different from other cigarettes?"

"Yes, Ben, I think that Camels are a lot different. That's why they're the racing drivers' favorite cigarette. You see, a cigarette has to have something out of the ordinary to score such a hit with fellows like us. As I always say, there are so many things that mean a great deal in smoking. One big angle that carries weight with me is that Camels agree with me! I've smoked a good many thousands of Camels in the past 10 years, so I know that from experience."

"Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me—the cigarette that lets me enjoy smoking to the full!"

according to the observation of tobacco planters themselves

"I'VE BEEN planting tobacco for twenty years," says Harry C. King, a successful grower. "Camel bought the choice lot of my last tobacco crop—paid more for my best leaf tobacco. So I know they use finer, more expensive tobacco in Camel cigarettes. That's one mighty good reason why my cigarette is Camel!"

THOMAS MIDDLETON and his twin brother James have been growing tobacco for 14 years. "The Camel people bought up my best tobacco last year," Tom Middleton says. "They have for 12 years. When anyone talks about finer, more expensive tobacco, that means Camels to me. I smoke 'em—my brother smokes 'em—and so do most of us around here who grow and know tobacco!"

"DOWN AT THE tobacco warehouse they told me they'd never seen finer tobacco than my last crop," says J. E. Jenkins, veteran tobacco grower. "Camel bought all the top grades. It just shows that the Camel people make sure to get the choice lots of tobacco. I prefer Camels every time. I know what those finer, more expensive tobacco in Camel cigarettes mean to smokers."

SOUTHERN WPA BOOST

SOUTHERN WPA BOOST
Southern members of congress still threaten to kill all hope of a wage-hour act at this session. But the President has decided that there are some low wages in southern sections that he can improve—those paid by WPA. Some of the highest WPA wage scales in the north are being reduced. WPA officials insist that these scales were not "too high," but not long after deciding on the reductions Roosevelt suddenly decided to boost some of the lower WPA scales in the south. Low wages in some areas, some of them occasionally have been attacked as high as to keep workers away from low-wage private employment.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

CONSTANCE went to sleep that night pondering an idea which she might have been surprised to learn had often been entertained by other overworked souls. The time is sometimes reckoned, not in hours and minutes, but in emotional content. It seemed to her that she had been sleeping that morning she had lived a tempestuous lifetime. Even so, she was too numb with fatigue to forecast the misery of the next morning. She was asked to stand half hour when she awoke to sunshine streaming brightly over the trunk and bags which stood packed ready for going away with Derek today.

"Want 't! But of course some one had to stay to break up my apartment. You know we intended coming back here after—after—after" while Derek finished some work. . . .

CHAPTER V

CHAPTER V
A Constance walked home through the gathering dusk after her talk with Miss Taff at the Museum that evening, the tendorial bill in her purse seemed to shiver as it twined around her. But life must be sustained even if Derek was by this time skimming the clouds hundreds of miles away. She stopped at a delicatessen and broke the tendorial bill to buy butter, rolls, cream and lettuce. When she came out of the shop, she felt a much—out Idaho rise spots—fourty-eight cents in change. Outside her door, a dry cleaner's delivery man was waiting for her with two dresses she had sent out several days before. When she had paid him, she had parted with another three dollars of the precious five-dollar bill which was the first day.

"She hung up as soon as she could, for fear Anne's generous heart might prompt her to insist on coming over to help speed the packing. The airmail letter from Derek came while she was washing the dishes after her denturary breakfast. She was thinking, By this time I should have been getting ready . . . in a few hours Derek would have been here. He would have rapped at the door and handed in the gay red and blue bordered envelope. The letter had been mailed the evening before and it was only way across the continent. Constance closed when she realized how many miles these few hours had yet to be painted. "Conce, darling," Derek began, "I'm writing this at my earliest opportunity. It is incredible how fast every minute has been since I got you home.

"When Constance remembered to telephone Anne the news of the postponement, Anne had indicated that she spent the evening with her new friend. Constance just went to bed. She had planned to do after the wedding—you and Don and I," she said. "You can tell us all about Derek's piece of luck when you get it. I'll be waiting afterward. I'm going to be a widow, too, tonight. Don has to go out of town. He has a case before the Court which is not being with the ill-conceived pride of the wife of such a promising young attorney. "I—thank you, Anne," Constance replied for a moment. "But if you don't mind, I think I'll just rest . . . I—I've been terribly rested lately." Just the wrong thing to say, of course. She shouldn't let them think she was crawling into a corner to lick her wounds. She should have gone, her head high, and let the courtiers and Anne's interested friends wonder—conjecture behind their eyes while they tried to make any sense out of the enigmatical talk she would be plied, Constance thought.

"And how empty for me, Constance thought. She read on: Baron Grapfruit has the most enormous grasp of detail of any lawyer I have ever met. Together, we have gone with a fine-tooth comb over every item of the plans for the studio he is carrying for Dr. Wypers. Anne had wired orders to Algren to start installing special lighting. Within a week it would be ready to go in. If there is any angle he has not already gone into and decided upon, even to the gown in which his daughter will be painted, I have tried to discover it. I shall be lucky if he doesn't go ahead and paint the portrait while he is about it. I think of his plan is that I am to take plenty of time to get acquainted with Miss Thorwald and to study her before I begin actual work on the portrait. I am not at all sure that the net going to be the most critical part of the job; for although she seems to be a shallow, sunny, friendly, simple creature, she has hidden depths which it might not be easy to penetrate. Indeed! thought Constance, and read the last passage thoughtfully three times. Then she glanced impatiently at her clock. It was like a stake most-wanted to hear.

Dictator Dignity

One of the most amazing things about the dictatorships is the whattaman attitude the dictators adopt toward themselves. In the United States they would be laughed out of public life before they got started. But in their own totalitarian states the edict is that the Great Man is not to be a target of the written, the drawn or the spoken smart crack—no matter how innocent the intent. And everyone knows what happens when a dictator's edict is broken.

The Great Men would like to spread the illusion of their magnificence all over the globe. They tried it not long ago in Cuba when the Italian and German ministers protested to the State Department against publication of caricatures of Mussolini and Hitler in the weekly magazine Bohemia and the newspaper Patia. The ministers described the caricatures as "insulting." But the Cuban courts dismissed the complaint.

It is gratifying to know that caricatures of Herr Hitler and Il Duce are not insulting. Some people think the only good thing about the dictators is the laugh to be had when a bright caricaturist decides to take them for a ride.

It Just "Ain't" So

Mashpee, Mass., is a town of 200 on Cape Code and its officials would have us believe that no boy there has "kind, good manners." It just "ain't," so. It can't be.

Back in 1930 a man named Samuel G. Davis died, leaving a $50,000 trust fund, the income from which was to go to boys with "kind, good manners." Pleading now that they are unable to find such model youth within the confines of their community the village officials have asked the town meeting to divert the fund to school maintenance.

Butte a Utopia for Dogs

Buried in what might have been more important news the other day was a heart-warming little story from Butte, Mont., revealing that no man in that city is willing to start chasing unlicensed dogs for the sake of the $5-per-day remuneration the job carries with it.

History of Twin Falls City & County

As gleaned from files of the Times

15 YEARS AGO

MARCH 21, 1923
The Twin Falls school board at an adjourned meeting last night voted to reorganize the high school on the new plan, which is based on the three and two plan, instead of the four and two plan, which has heretofore prevailed, considered by officials of the school and principal of the senior high school under M. O. Mitchell and elected Mrs. C. A. Norton as principal of the reorganized unit.

27 YEARS AGO

MARCH 21, 1911
The first meeting of the domestic science department of the Twentieth Century club was very successful from the standpoint of attendance. Owing to the failure of the expert to arrive on the scene the demonstration was in charge of a number of the club members. The caterer lunch served this noon was well worth a much larger price than the ladies were demanding and eventually respect to the club could not serve every day.

TESTIMONIALS

Feb. 2, 1938

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I am an old man—82 years of age. For a good many years I have suffered continually from a dry, raw throat which was the cause of my being unable to eat or drink. My appetite has not been good in the past years and even good food failed to tempt me. Compelled with this discomfort, my kidneys have failed to function properly for a long time and they have given me untold trouble.

I read the Chan & Wing ads in the local papers and decided to see if their herbs could improve my condition. I have only taken a two week's course but I already have noticed a change for the better. The first week, even, found me feeling better than I have for the past five or six months. And the second week found me vastly better than the first.

Naturally, I am happy that my former good health is returning and I am happy to recommend the herbs of Chan & Wing, Chinese Herb Specialists, to my many friends.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM HAHKINS,
314 4th Ave. E., Twin Falls, Idaho.

To Whom It May Concern: My thirteen year old daughter became quite ill last week with what was diagnosed as appendicitis, after several attempts to get relief.

My only relief, we were told, she could get would be through an expensive operation.

In the meantime the pain she underwent was terrific. Nothing else she would agree with her and the pain of the appendix was so bad that she was unable to get any rest.

We had almost given up hope of ever having a well girl again when we read of the fine work which the Chinese Herbs of Chan & Wing were accomplishing.

We decided to give them a trial and paid a visit to Chan and Wing in Idaho Falls.

We, ourselves, could hardly believe the results. After only one week of the inexpensive herbs our little girl experienced no abdominal pains or indignation. We recommended Chan and Wing's herbs highly.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

A NEW MOON HAS JUST AS MUCH EFFECT ON THE TIDES AS DOES A FULL MOON

RATTLESNAKES MORE THAN 8 FEET LONG HAVE BEEN RECORDED

THE BIRD KNOWN AS CHICK-WILLOWS-WIDOW LIES DOWN WHEN RESTING

The actual pull of the moon on the surface of the earth depends on the varying distance at which the moon is to be found. But the results obtained depend on whether or not the moon is working in cooperation with the sun, or against it. A full moon and a new moon have the sun's help, but during the quarter phases the moon must counteract the pull of the sun.

EUROPEAN WAR SCARE DIMS AS GOVERNMENTS SEEK PEACE

LEADERS REMAIN CALM; POPULACE GROWS PANICKY

Editor's note: Europe, emerging from its gravest week since the World war, has been freed from the immediate danger of a general war, Ed L. Keen, European vice president of the United Press, says in the following dispatch from Rome, dean of foreign correspondents and a reporter of European affairs since before the World war, analyzes the position of each of the principal powers and finds none eager for war now.

By ED L. KEEN

PARIS, March 21 (UP)—Patches of silver lining are visible today through the clouds that have darkened Europe for the last week and caused more fright than at any time since the World war.

Europe enters a new week with powerful forces working to prolong peace. Unless there is another Sarajevo, another spark like the one that started the 1914 holocaust, war can be averted for months, even years. The important fact today is that governments are calmer than their peoples. Among civilian populations in England and on the continent there is panic. Many of my English friends have withdrawn from their schools and are preparing to send them to America. Hoarding of canned goods has started. Austrian Jews have fled the choice of the Pacific shores. They are, left to right: Dorothy Rowland, Margery Hurley, Rhoda Fulton.

Robot Comes This Week to Surprise City

The "electrical man" will invade Twin Falls next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

France, seeking to stabilize an uncertain internal situation, does not want it.

Soviet Russia, busy consolidating the regime, does not want it.

None of those three great powers seek terror. What they do seek and seek desperately, is preservation of the status quo. To keep peace, England, France and Russia are sending troops to the frontiers, but not for direct attack. For example, the best information is that Poland has invaded Lithuania. It is uncertain whether France would attack Germany if Adolf Hitler should attempt to absorb 3,000,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia.

But informed persons believe Hitler probably will refrain from further Balkan adventures until he consolidates his position in Austria. The bite that Germany took out of middle Europe when she absorbed Austria seems to have appeared temporarily the Nazi hunger for land.

But she must digest what she has eaten. Hitler now controls the Balkans, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Lithuania. He has communications to southeastern Europe most flow. Thus he is in a position to fulfill one of his ambitions—the break up of the Little Entente—by economic and diplomatic pressure rather than a resort to arms.

Hitler's speech of Friday reflected this new attitude of restraint. He devoted most of it to a justification of his Austrian policy. It was devoid of threats. He omitted his customary denunciation of Bolshevism and avoided special mention of Czechoslovakia. The interpretation placed on that speech here is that he does not desire to provoke Soviet Russia and that he has decided to step warily in view of the fact that France has reaffirmed her intention of defeating Czechoslovakia against aggression.

Poland Wants But it would be dangerous to be too optimistic over a content on which so many nations are clustered, especially in many cases, by non-military articles of interest. Resumption of diplomatic relations between Poland and Lithuania will not mean that all their problems have been solved. Poland still wants autonomy for the 3,000,000 Poles in Lithuania; she wants access to Lithuania's Baltic ports; she wants to drive a diplomatic wedge between Lithuania and Soviet Russia.

The situation in Czechoslovakia is less critical. The apparent willingness of the Czechs to give German-born citizens a more authoritative voice in the government has eased tension.

A hopeful note for the peace of Europe even has come out of war-torn Spain. The former rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco said that he will do nothing to change the status quo in the western Mediterranean in event of victory, and will not cede an inch of territory to any foreign power, was regarded as reassuring for the future.

Two Americans have made powerful contributions to peace in the last few days. The former President Herbert Hoover who said, after visiting 15 nations and interviewing leading statesmen, that war is unlikely in the near future. He believes that, in general, the will to peace is much stronger now than it was in 1914. The other is the fact that the principal nations would not be prepared for war for two years.

4 miles in a bee-line =

6 miles by road map

8 miles by STOP-and-GO

A mile on your speedometer may easily be a mile and a half to your engine—when it's stop and go.

HERE'S WHY:
In "low" gear, your engine turns over about twelve times for each turn of the wheels. In "second," it turns about eight—in "high," only about four.

You drive a mile, but how far your engine runs depends on how many times you stop and start—how much of the mile is in low and second gears.

Shell engineers found that getting away from a traffic stop can waste enough "undigested" gasoline to carry you 1/3 of a mile.

To cut this waste and its cost, they found a way to rearrange the chemical structure of gasoline, making every drop of fuel usable to your motor under all driving conditions.

You can save on the cost of your stop-and-go driving by the regular use of Super-Shell. There's a Shell dealer near you.
