

U. S. OFFICIALS STUDY CHINA, SPAIN CIVILIAN BOMBINGS

BRITAIN'S ENVOY ASKS AMERICA TO ENTER IN PROBE

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—State department officials today studied possible ways of bringing concerted international pressure against Japan and nationalist Spain for repeated aerial bombings of civilian areas.

They had before them specifically a proposal made orally by the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, that the United States join Great Britain, Norway, Sweden and possibly other countries in the appointment of a joint commission to investigate the bombings, ascertain their nature and the character of the places bombed, and possibly to recommend steps to prevent a repetition.

State department officials, meanwhile, awaited reports from Canton on whether any Americans were killed there. The number of Americans in and around Canton was estimated variously at from 125 to 150.

Officials here doubted the practical value of attempting the use of such a commission.

Rep. Sam D. McEwen, D., Tenn., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, said:

"It would be a great thing if the nations of the world could get together and outlaw such actions during warfare."

Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho: "I doubt very much the propriety of such a move. It is my impression that the possible good could come of it and that a great deal of harm might result. I would be utterly opposed to our participation in any way in such a commission."

Sen. William H. King, Utah: "I'd like to see Japan denounced publicly. I think the best way to get together and outlaw such actions during warfare."

B.P.W. Reports State Meeting

That Idaho is much in advance of most states in the matter of granting women equal rights with men, was impressed upon delegates to the state convention of the Idaho Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs recently at Lewiston, local delegates to the convention told members of the Twin Falls club last evening. Mrs. Emma Blodgett was hostess to the group at her home on Pierce street.

"Under the equal rights amendment pending in congress, women desire not uniformity but equality with men in opportunity," Mrs. Blodgett said. "There are 1,000 or more laws discriminating against women in the United States. In some states men may collect their wives' wages. The equal rights amendment would give women equality of rights with men. States would be free to enact laws that would conform to the amendment. Many nations are equally as psychological, rather than legal," she emphasized.

Teaching the Young Idea

For an interesting sidelight on adult standards of morality in this country, consider the case of Robert Greenless Pearson, who is about to be graduated from the University of Kansas.

Pearson is a crack student, but he is going to fail of election to Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary high-scholarship fraternity, because he wrote a magazine article admitting that he had been ghost-writing for lazy or unbrilliant students who couldn't pass their exams without help.

In his magazine article, Pearson told how he furnished papers for a large number of students, some of them at other colleges. He did a good job of it, too, guaranteeing his clients that no work bought from him would receive lower than a "B" grade.

"The moral and ethical standing of my occupation has not yet been carefully worked out," he wrote, "mainly because my occupation is not supposed to exist. I am one of a widespread and rapidly growing body of campus ghost-writers, students making money for themselves by pounding out papers for those who are willing to pay for them."

All this may look like a problem in campus morality, not adult morality. But the campus is seldom original, in matters like this, and it must be pointed out that the ghost-writer was invented and made a prominent part of our American scheme of things by full-grown men, not by college boys.

The practice apparently began harmlessly enough, some years ago, when professional athletes were persuaded to indite their memoirs or their comments on the passing scene for newspaper and magazine readers. Not one champion in a dozen could do much more than write his own name, but skilled writers were furnished to do the work; and before long the ghost-writer was an integral part of the world of professional sport.

Then the practice was picked up by loftier people. Politicians discovered that it was simpler to hire some bright young man to write a speech than to write it one's self. Even Presidents have been known to hire ghosts, at times. Captains of industry did likewise. Explorers fell into line; movie stars went for the gag. And so, presently the ghost-writer became an essential figure in American life.

Which brings us back at last to our collegian. If what he did was wrong, the whole business of ghost-writing has a flaw in it somewhere. He merely copied his elders, and lived in college the kind of life they were living in the adult world. And if any stones are to be cast at him, the flinging ought to be done by people who are themselves reasonably free from the same kind of sin.

Pagant of the Years

A barber in Vermont celebrated his 99th birthday the other day. He had been snipping; clipping; combing, dousing and massaging since the age of 17.

What an extraordinary pagant of social history had passed before his eyes during those years behind his chair! What remarkable changes in the character of the American scene he had witnessed, mirrored in that little shop!

Once the talk was of barehanded baseball. Then it was talk about baseball with gloves.

Trouser cuffs went from wide to narrow, to wide, and back to narrow again.

The customers panned new administrations almost every four years.

Collars went from hard to soft and back to hard, and back to soft; high, low, high again, low.

Hair went from long to short, and the part traveled all over the head.

Witch hazel in fancy bottles progressed to witch hazel in streamlined bottles.

And over the customers' shoulders he watched the old Police Gazette, with its pictures of lovely girls in tight, give way to the modern periodical, with its pictures—of lovely girls.

Archaeologists in Asia have found what they think were the first tools. That makes how many million years that plumbers have been looking for them?

A prominent professor of medicine says the average business man works too hard and eats too much. Gosh, boys, we've rounded the corner!

FAMOUS LANT LINE

... New line for the vacation trip— or vacation clothes for men...

THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

Dear Pot Shots: I used to believe that Brick Thompson had red hair but when his face glared red you really can't all get the face spots and the hair legs!

It was all brought out at the council meeting Monday evening as I believe that Brick Thompson had red hair but when his face glared red you really can't all get the face spots and the hair legs!

Very seriously the attorney said he didn't believe that the city could legally raise the mill levy without a general vote but because the businessmen were in favor of it, they thought it should be passed by the council "legally" or not.

Thompson was saying a few vigorous things about Brent when I was explained it was all a joke. Thompson didn't hear that joke explanation, though, and went right on explaining.

"At least you could have told us something about it!" he roared in. Then the 20 businessmen present and the councilmen guffawed but still "Brent" didn't know that it was a joke.

Five minutes for it to sink in. Councilmen and others opined that it was worth the two mill levy raise just to see Thompson in a guiso.

BUT IT WON'T STOP THOSE BAWLING-OUTS!

Pot Shotter: Well, I'm home from college, all primed with knowledge. I want to let you one thing in my psychology today... he says that the human jaw now is not as large as it was in generation ago, and it's steadily shrinking.

Now if that's true, I've figured out that the indignant wife of 1980. If she might be bent out her husband with as many words as the wife of 1938 does, will have to move her jaw 21,031 times offener.

At least and those who wear and tear on the female physiognomy, and that in turn will mean that women will die more quickly.

And the man of 1980, since his jaw also will be smaller, will have less chance than ever of getting a word in edgewise.

Ain't college book-learnin' wonderful? —Joe Collichan

THEY GYFFED YOU OUT OF AN OPERATION!

Dear Pot Shots: Here's something for you to figure out. I can't and I'm tired trying. The "New" said my husband was out of an operation.

Here's where the mystery comes in. It was me who they put to bed. —L. Hurt

AND HE DIDN'T CARE TWO HOGS ABOUT ANTHROLOGY!

Pot Shotter: Have you heard how one young lady of these parts started one young medicine doctor's conversation in mind. "Do you know anything about anthropology?"

He speaks the young lady, who is just as bold as brass. "Oh yes, I know all about anthropology!"

He asks whether she gave a lecture on anthropology in her course. The medicine was pretty flabbergasted. —Ella

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

We naturally think of the delicate and fragile butterfly as a most peaceful and easy-going creature, but don't let looks deceive you. Male butterflies have very jealous dispositions, and fly viciously at other males, as well as other much larger insects, and even birds.

FRENCH TERM SPANISH BORDER BOMBING MILITARY PROBLEM

GOVERNMENT OF END PROTESTS IN SOUTH INDIES

By Ralph Heinzen
PARIS, June 7 (Special)—The French government today announced that it would not permit a diplomatic mission to Spain as a military, not a diplomatic problem and the solution has been left with the general staff, a government spokesman said today.

The government regards as useless further protests to authorities of either side in the Spanish Civil War, the spokesman said, "as there is no hope of practical results to avoid further violation of the French frontier."

"Hereafter it is military, not a diplomatic problem. The solution depends on the general staff which has taken all necessary dispositions. The government is calmly determined not to tolerate new violations."

The presence of Premier Edouard Daladier on the frontier indicated the importance which France attaches to these violations.

In his statement, made, Premier Daladier, who is also a minister, had just completed an inspection of the frontier area bombed by airplanes from Spain Sunday and Monday.

Daladier spent the whole morning inspecting the north and south frontiers and then said in a statement at Perpignan:

"The Spanish population can count on my vigilant solicitude. We have taken the necessary steps to prevent a repetition of bombing by foreign airplanes."

Emphasizing France's determination not to tolerate new violations, Daladier emphasized the importance of Daladier's presence on the frontier and secondly that Daladier returned to "foreign airplanes whatever their origin." Border reports, unconfirmed, appeared to have been received from the Nationalists. The Nationalists have many times been reported to have been dropped by the invading airplanes along the frontier that some bombs might have been dropped.

After making his statement at Perpignan, Daladier conferred with the commanding officer of the 14th Spanish regiment there and the commander of the frontier anti-aircraft batteries. He went on to Orléans to inspect coastal batteries.

UNEMPLOYABLES' RELIEF ASCENDS

A total of $15,894.60, or the largest amount dispensed by the local relief agency since the inauguration of the relief program, was expended in Twin Falls county during the month of May. It was revealed here this afternoon upon release of a report for that period by Frank L. Read, chief clerk for the Department of Public Assistance for this county.

Read's report shows that the amount expended in 1938 cases of $145,894.60 during May.

Social Security expenditures amounted to $13,229, and included the local disbursement of $1,000. The largest aid society of assistance act became effective. The disbursement set a new high both on the number of cases aided and the amount paid. Read's report showed:

In the social security bracket $7,068 were for old age assistance of 407 cases of 710 persons; $357 were for blind assistance to 17 cases of 51 persons and $5,000 were for dependent child assistance of 173 cases of 890 persons.

Of the amount spent during the month for social security assistance $2,039.67 came from the state and $5,780.17 came from the federal government.

Direct relief for the period amounting to $2,965.60, was the largest amount expended since March, 1936, at which time social security assistance was being put into effect, the report shows. It was distributed to 138 cases of 394 persons and was paid entirely by state funds.

Weed Fire Burns Declo Pasturage

BURLEY, June 7 (Special)—A brush fire that destroyed vegetation on an acre of land about the mile and a half west of Declo last week was extinguished by W. S. Averill, forest ranger on the Albion mountain division. Investigation showed that a sheepherder had set the fire to clean a small canyon of Russian thistle and other noxious weeds to prevent loss of lambs.

According to forest office reports, the June grass forage was not dry enough to burn readily, but in another week or so will present a dangerous fire hazard.

Stockmen and hunters are being urged to be especially careful during the dry season.

Mrs. Robert D. Werner, 311 Seventh avenue east, today really knew "How the Bendix Home Laundry Has Revolutionized the Home" because her own trip on that subject won her the machine in a contest sponsored by the Soden Electric.

Because it has virtually given American homes a new and personal maid service for the home with a machine that almost thinks for itself, washing, three-rinsing and damp-drying clothes automatically, it has brought complete freedom from drudgery, saving many leisure time and starting new economy to its owners.

Of the scores of entries submitted, Mrs. Werner's was the largest and she had the advantage of an opportunity to be facetious. It said:

"The Soden Electric's contest, but there isn't a chance with Len Chapin and Tofflemire in the Lam. Oh old coincliment must stick together."

Adults Propose Early Morning Swims in Pool

Early-morning swimming period for Twin Falls adults—with an opportunity for instruction if desired—will be conducted at the municipal pool in Harmon park if enough men and women indicate intention to join. It was announced here this afternoon.

The pool is expected to open for the summer by next Friday.

The period for adults would be from 5 to 8 a. m. and the swimming business and businessmen—an opportunity to enjoy the pool before the working day begins. Under the schedule now planned, the pool does not open that early.

Because of limited city park funds and restricted personnel of municipal pool lifeguards, a small fee will be needed from each member of the adult early-morning group to assure hiring of a registered lifeguard for the seasons. The park department, as a precautionary measure, would not be able to permit opening of the pool from 6 to 8 a. m. without a lifeguard on duty.

Men and women desiring to take advantage of the special hours were asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce by Saturday. No children will be permitted in the adult group.
