

BRITAIN HOPES TO ACT AS MEDIATOR IN FAR EAST WAR

CLASH REVEALED BETWEEN ITALY, FRENCH LEADERS

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS
(Copyright 1938, United Press)

LONDON, June 24. — Great Britain hopes to act as mediator to end the Chinese-Japanese war, it was disclosed today.

An authoritative source revealed the Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, told the house of commons foreign affairs committee at a secret meeting last night that the government was ready at any moment to mediate.

He prophesied, it was said, that the war might be possible for Britain to offer "itself with good effect" as mediator. It was indicated that the cabinet would believe that a stalemate was most probable in the Chinese-Japanese war. The foreign secretary said that the committee had reached a deadlock already had been reached and that if it continued it would be possible with the cordial consent of Japan as well as China to negotiate an honorable and lasting peace.

The United Press was informed that Lord Halifax, in addition to his statement on the Chinese war, made a guarded reference to the possibility of cooperation with the United States in improving the international atmosphere.

Those members of parliament who attended the secret meeting were said to be uncertain whether Lord Halifax meant that the government held hope that the United States might join in what he called a European "pool of peace."

Lord Halifax made a general statement on foreign affairs and his review of the European situation was as important in all its implications as his statement on the Chinese war, according to informants.

Spain Danger Spot

He emphasized that the worst danger spot in Europe now was Spain. He confirmed that Britain was seeking to negotiate a truce in the Spanish civil war, he said, and that peace efforts there had suffered what he called a temporary check. It had been reported earlier that the United States was a new, unprovoked diplomatic clash between Italy and France, but that nevertheless Britain would not be drawn into the conflict.

He said that the only possible solution, there seemed increasing evidence that despite the advances made in the Spanish civil war, there was only an unexpected total collapse of loyalist resistance could bring the war to a decisive and lasting end.

He said that the "situation" might arise because the same time expressed the opinion that if any "situation" did arise it could be settled by friendly negotiation.

PAY-OFF

In the words of Charles Russell, local barber who lost a bet on the Louis-Schelling fight to J. S. Batcher, a competitor: he "took it just like Schmeling did."

"It was about a quart of shaving lather which was thrown in his face," Batcher quipped.

Russell donned a rubber shampoo cap before the event which was held in the alley in the rear of his establishment with only two participants, a barber, referee, and a reporter present. Russell refused to pay off his bet on Main avenue.

"Well I fix something really good on the Beer-Louis fight in September," said Batcher following the event.

"It wasn't as bad as I thought it would be," said Russell as he wiped off the lather.

1,200 SIGN FISH GAME PETITIONS

Over 1,200 signatures have been signed to the non-partisan fish and game petitions in Twin Falls. The petitions were presented today by Milton P. Powell, member of the Idaho Wildlife association, sponsor of the petition.

Powell, in charge of the distribution of the petitions in this area, urged that all proprietors who are qualified that the gross total "should be much higher than the needed number," he stated.

The biggest trouble after the referendum is placed on the ballot, he states, will be getting people to vote on the special slip. State law requires that at least 50 per cent of the qualified electors either for or against the measure to make it legal.

Instruction Planned

"Many people, not taking the trouble to study the small ballot, just use a vote and do not know where we are afraid our trouble may come in. To combat that we plan to have interested parties just outside the 100-foot limit at every polling place in the state to instruct the voters how to use the special ballot," Powell stated.

The non-partisan fish and game commission would do away with the present politically appointed office of state game commissioner and in its place appoint five men of non-political nature.

SMALLPOX HITS HAGERMAN AREA

Physicians and health workers today were taking necessary steps in attempting to stop the spread of smallpox at Hagerman where it has reached epidemic proportions among residents of that community. It was announced here this afternoon by Dr. Robert Stump, director of the district health unit.

Stump said that between 20 and 25 cases of the disease have been reported from Hagerman during the past two weeks. The epidemic, he said, is in all probability an "offshoot" of similar cases which have been reported at Buhl.

Dr. Stump this afternoon urged all residents to submit to vaccination against the disease and pointed out that Dr. C. O. Thompson, Coosworth county physician, and Mrs. Pearl Kirkpatrick, public health nurse, were spending much of their time in the area. Either of these two persons could be contacted regarding vaccination and other control measures.

On the Wharves of Boston... We Learned the Secret of 'Rockin' the Keg!'

SAYS OLD MR. BOSTON

Back in the 30's, New England skippers shipped casks of whiskey on every voyage — for they found that the roll was a better flavor.

In later years, these Captains would "rock the keg" under their rocking chairs at home. Like the pitch and roll of the ship — it seemed to cooibe and mellow whiskey.

What magnificent whiskey it was! Some thoughts its deep fragrance bouquet could never be matched by any process save rocking — but worked long and hard to do it.

Even the stubbornest old Cape Skipper will grant that Rocking Chair offers a full measure of old-time hospitality. Here, indeed, is whiskey of traditional quality and rare mellowness — with a velvety depth of taste and character peculiarly all its own. Its full-bodied flavor, gentlemen — will surprise you!

RELIEF GRAIN IS AVAILABLE HERE

Surplus wheat flour, purchased by the federal surplus commodities corporation under the recently authorized surplus relief purchase program, will be available for distribution to needy agencies through state relief agencies within the next few weeks. It was announced here this afternoon by Robert Hampton, district supervisor for the department of public assistance.

Hampton also received word from AAA officials that the corporation expects to make additional purchases of flour today through invitations for bids submitted to millers under a newly authorized program. The recently accepted offers, together with previous purchases, make up a total of about 1,049,000 barrels bought by the corporation since the first flour purchase program this year was inaugurated a few weeks ago. The purchases of flour are in keeping with the recent announcement by Secretary Wallace of his intention to increase the use of farm surpluses to meet relief needs. A communication from F. R. Wilcox, director of the division of marketing and marketing agreements of the AAA, states that the flour purchase program "must not be considered as an attempt to increase the price of flour to the consumer. They are made primarily to relieve temporary market distress and to increase use of wheat of which there is a large surplus."

In making acceptance of offers by millers, Hampton points out, the corporation has taken into consideration the relief requirements of each locality in which purchases were made and also has considered the extent of the surpluses existing in each area.

PRIVATE JOBS IN BOISE INCREASE

Although a slight decrease has been noted in private placements made through the Idaho state employment service office in Twin Falls this year because of the open winter, extensive gains have been noted during the past two months at the Boise office. A. J. Tillman, field supervisor for the Twin Falls-Boise area, said here this afternoon. Tillman was in the city on business conferring with officials of the local office.

Boite, he said, a gain of 125 private placements was noted in May of this year against the same period in 1937. During the first three weeks of June, he said, an increase of 136 private placements was recorded against a similar period during 1937.

At the same time Ray Butler, district supervisor, said that weather at the present time is holding back field operations, especially haying. More jobs will become available when good weather sets in, he believes.

Barbara Hutton May Seek Return of U.S. Citizenship

YOUNG HEIRESS FEARS LOSS OF 2-YEAR-OLD SON

By HENRY TOSTI RUSSELL
(Copyright, 1938, United Press)
LONDON, June 24 (U.P.—Contest)
Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow is so fearful that an effort may be made to deprive her of her two-year-old son that she has been advised to seek to regain her American citizenship, it was reported today.

An atmosphere of mystery has surrounded the young heiress since her crisis in the affairs of the countess and her handsome Danish husband, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, in Paris for several days after a visit to the south of France.

This atmosphere was cleared today on authority believed to be impeccable. It was said that the countess was actually afraid that an attempt might be made to remove her son from her custody from Great Britain. There were reports that there was a financial angle also, involving a desire by the countess to see his fortune invested in European rather than in American securities.

But the principal matter, it was said, was that the countess received a threat that her child would be taken from her. Informants said that she at once communicated with Scotland Yard, asking for protection, and at the same time called in her attorney, W. M. Mitchell.

As the result of the conference with Mitchell, the countess received the countess visited Bow street police court. Issues Warrant
At Bow street, informants said, Magistrate F. W. Fry issued a warrant under which the countess, if he arrived in this country, would be compelled to go to the police court at once.

The warrant was not a criminal one. The intention was, according to informants, to force the countess to enter against the count which would forbid him to interfere with the countess or her child.

Informants added that the magistrate, if the count fled him, would point out to him that the restraining order was merely a civil issue but that if he did not obey it he might be subject to arrest on a specific charge.

The countess conferred with her attorney this morning at her residence, Winfield house, in Regent's Park. A strong guard was still maintained at the gates.

It was reported that the countess considered seeking American citizenship was a new development.

May Wed Hoover

Mrs. Lola E. Rogers, above, youthful appearing mother of famous singer, calmly continued slipping her tea when reporters in New York asked whether rumors that she and J. Edgar Hoover, No. 1 in name, were to be married were true, and simply replied, 'It's up to him.' She did reveal, however, that Hoover's telephone number in Florida is 3-4-4, to tell her the Cash kidnap case had been broken.

At Bow street, informants said, Magistrate F. W. Fry issued a warrant under which the countess, if he arrived in this country, would be compelled to go to the police court at once.

FIDDLE LINKED TO ODD LEGEND

VISALIA, Calif. (U.P.—Isaac Vogle, who collects rare violins, prizes two of his instruments most highly. One is a genuine 17th Stradivarius, the other is the legendary fiddle with which Dick Dodd, a Negro slave, charmed a pack of wolves and saved his life, and which many thousands of schoolboys have read about.

Vogle has been collecting since 1927 and owns 30 violins, most of them priceless because of their fame. Many date back hundreds of years to Europe's most noted makers during recent weeks and that the program was still being carried on throughout the district.

Violin's History Traced
Vogle traces the history of his Stradivarius back to 1671, when it was shipped by the master in Italy for Countess Anna's, a professor of music. It passed to Minime's great-grandson, Lino Minime, who came to America in 1861 and sold it to Louis Bell.

Bell's went to Oregon and sold the violin to Frank Anderson, who later became a jeweler in Tulsa, Calif. Vogle traded a watch, another violin and a cornet for the Stradivarius.

The Dick Dodd fiddle came to Vogle from Ellen Dodd Goren, daughter of Thomas Dodd, Kentucky planter and owner of the slave Dick Dodd, through many intermediate hands. Its legend, which he says is documented authentically, was related to the Goshute fifth reader of the Hoosier schoolmaster days.

Legend of Dick Dodd
As the story goes, the Negro slave was walking to a neighboring farm one winter night to play at a party, when he was set upon by a pack of wolves. With the snarling animals close at his heels, Dick ran toward a small abandoned cabin and climbed to the roof. As they leaped at him, he desperately drew the bow striking across the strings and inspired by terror, his fingers began to play "Ya-kee Doodle." The wolves fell back as it chimed, according to the story.

The wolves permitted no pause and would leap at him if he became silent. He played on through the long hours of the night, until rescuers found him half frozen to death in the morning.

THORNTON RAPS LOWER FEE FOES

W. C. Thornton, Gooding county state representative, who yesterday announced his candidacy for United States congressman from the second Idaho district, this afternoon rapped "organized groups and tax eating bodies" and charged they are misleading the public as regards the $5 auto license fee measure, petitions for which are now being circulated over the state.

"These tax eating bodies are misleading the public through false statements," Thornton said here this afternoon. "They claim that if the $5 license law is passed, it will be necessary to put a property tax on automobiles and also upon property. These statements as to what will have to be done if the law is passed are entirely false."

Thornton pointed out that a bond issue must be floated before any property tax is assessed against property.

"This is the first time in the history of Idaho that a change of tax reduction has been offered and citizens should take advantage of it by signing the lower license fee petitions which are now available over the state," Thornton said.

In making the statement that some organizations were misleading the public, Thornton said one such organization was the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time he urged persons circulating the petitions to have completed petitions noted at the earliest possible time and checked with the county auditor in the county in which they are circulated. All petitions must be in the hands of the secretary of state by July 8, Thornton pointed out.

Methodist Groups Submit To Tests

Mrs. Wilson said that various groups have submitted to the tests during recent weeks and that the program was still being carried on throughout the district.

$72,000 FEDERAL GRANT USELESS

Approval of a $72,000 grant for construction of a reservoir at the Twin Falls filter plant this afternoon proved to be of no benefit to local citizens inasmuch as the grant comes under PWA, a move which requires a bond election to raise the city's share of the funds and which has been previously turned down.

When the approval of the grant by President Roosevelt was first announced yesterday afternoon it was believed it was a recent PWA project which the present city administration had submitted. Investigation, however, disclosed the $72,000 was for an application made two years ago under a previous administration. At the time the application was made the voters turned down a bond election which would have provided funds for the construction of the much needed 5,000,000 gallon reservoir.

Because the grant is now "useless" to the city, Senator James P. Pope was asked by Mayor Lem A. Chapin to stress the present PWA grant which is being sought.

WATER TO COVER FRONTIER TOWN

SHERIDAN, S. D. 29— Sixty-one years ago Judge Granville G. Bennett tossed his saddlebags on the floor of a log cabin here, peered about the room and told the assembled frontiersmen that the first district court in the Black Hills was convened.

Next year, though, Judge Bennett's courtroom will be under 20 feet of water—and so will the rest of Sheridan.

Once it was the county seat of Pennington county; once it was the location of the United States land office; once it was the headquarters for South Dakota miners; and once it was the town where men came simply to spend money. It was a true boom town.

But now the Rapid City-Hill City-Isaac Walton League and the Harney national forest have made all necessary arrangements, and Sheridan is going to be flooded.

A dam site to flood the entire valley has been located in the national forest. The forest service will build the dam. Arrangements are being made to buy the land which will be flooded, and more than 150 acres have already been purchased. Options have been obtained on the majority of the unpurchased land.

The lake created by the dam will fill the entire valley, covering nearly 400 acres to an average depth of 60 feet. It will be filled by Spring creek, Horse creek and other small streams, draining a territory of 150 square miles.

The Isaac Walton league plans to develop a resort around the lake. Present plans call for construction of a lodge, leasing summer home sites, and installing facilities for all kinds of water sports.

The recovery process, moving forward a year ago, was checked in August, 1937, and the trend of business was reversed, scrapping New Deal economy plans and compelling business estimates that the 1937-38 depression has thrown $300,000,000 out of work, that well more than 11,000,000 persons now are unemployed and that the trend probably will increase before it lightens.

See Business Upturn

Some observers are convinced that a combination of low inventories of all kinds and rapid fire federal spending will produce a mid-summer or early fall business upturn of considerable proportion, but there is sharp disagreement—partly along partisan lines—whether pump-priming will cause the pump to catch. Administration spokesmen appear to be confident that their policies will meet the situation created by previous depression. Business activity. So-called business and political tipsters are suggesting to their clients that an upturn is coming.

Rep. William J. Ditter, R., Pa., however, challenged the soundness of New Deal spending policies in a statement recalling that on June 23, 1937, Mr. Roosevelt directed all spending agencies and heads of departments to set aside economy reserve funds aggregating approximately 10 per cent of their appropriations.

"Inquiry today," Ditter said, "reveals that no economy has been realized under the executive order of June 23, 1937, and that the end of the fiscal year next week will disclose no balance in so-called departmental reserve accounts."

Expense Increase

"On the other hand, the official treasury statement published this morning shows an increase of more than seven per cent in general department expenditures for the fiscal year to date as compared with the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year.

"Since 1933 President Roosevelt has accumulated five successive annual deficits aggregating $17,481,000,000, and now we face a prospect of deficit approaching $200,000,000 in the fiscal year which begins July 1."

Ditter's reference to increased expenditures this year refers to regular governmental spending as distinguished from recovery and relief expenditures. The over-all spending for this fiscal year, however, compared with the last previous fiscal period.

Coach in Museum

COORVILLE, Ore. (AP)—The only remaining relic of the Ben Holiday legacy of transcontinental stagecoaches has been placed in the Horner museum at Oregon's Coorville. The stagecoach, built before 1880, figured in Mark Twain's "Roughing It," in which the humorist described a ride taken by George Grayley, pioneer New York settler.

The initials mark how something "reputed" in mid-air. The man, flying above bar, drops food, while, by turning her back, she escapes in her talons.

Library Receives Gift of Furniture

A long reading table and three chairs, of light oak in dull finish, gifts of the Twentieth Century club, were placed in the Twin Falls public library Wednesday for the convenience of the patrons.

The furniture matches the filing cabinets, the semi-circular book delivery desk and the round tables of the furniture in the juvenile section of the library. The library has been replacing gradually for some time the dark fittings and in time all of the furniture will be the light oak.

Replacement of wooden with metal book shelves is another progressive measure that has been underway at the library for some time. The shelves are purchased at funds provided.

This most recent addition to the library fixtures is not the only gift that the Twentieth Century club has contributed. With the $400 raised in the club's "penny bank" campaign for the library, several tables and chairs were purchased some time ago. Three of the most distinctive pictures hanging on the library walls are also the contribution of the club.

The most recent gift was voted by the library during the administration of Mrs. William Baker, retiring president of the Twentieth Century club.

Playing "Follow the Usher" Leads To Discovery of New Music Novelty

"Ta-dum-ta-da," that well-known June tune swelled on the air. The dapper young man's steps lapsed into the "double take" as the wise-cracking ones call the walk to the altar. Evidently, evenly spaced steps he took editorially, there being 1 of the kind that one sees only at weddings.

His performance as the well-rehearsed usher was impeccable, until we giggled.

That Wedding Walk He "tripped up" as he discovered that he was doing the "measured tread" to the music, and that he was doing it on Main street, and not in a church.

He made a dash for the doorway from whence came the hypnotic sounds. We—literally and not editorially, there being 1 of us—followed.

"Where's the wedding," he yelled by way of submerging his embarrassment.

The girl with the blond hair—the long kind that pins up even in the day and age—looked up from the "cake" she was dispensing; smiled as she recognized the young man who had but recently been cast in a minor role in one of the major weddings of the season.

"Right in the box," she laughed, pointing to a large mahogany cabinet.

Liquid-Like Music Tuning water sounds emanated from the case. Tuning water suddenly turned to sound and synchronized into a bristled chant, the music spilled forth.

We immediately forgot about the "marching young man" in our curiosity to learn more about this music-like-harp, and like-guitar, and not-at-all like the swing that comes over the radio.

"It sounds like my great-mother's sewing basket with the music box inside, multiplied by ten," said the romantic-minded one of us.

Just then E. Herbat arrived—happened to be in Herbat's sandy store—and obligingly informed us that it was a Swiss music box that had belonged to his mother, the late Mrs. Bertha Herbat, and that it was more than 40 years old, and probably one of the few of its kind in the west.

He lifted the lid and showed us the 16-inch aluminum disc that looked like a cross between a phonograph record and a player piano roll—all dotted and dashed and notched.

This Makes It Go As he removed the metal plate, the more realistic one of us took a glance and remarked, "Oh, look, it has teeth." And sure enough, there was a field of small metal spikes, of various heights to produce a variety of pitch, and to plunk against the notches of the disc, producing music.

Our enthusiasm carried us straight through a concert of opera airs, sentimental melodies, and "The Raggy." Where his mother got the music box, Mr. Herbat doesn't remember, but he recalls that its good condition today is due to the diligence of his mother when her

BREAD is NOT fattening..

Although many housewives have the erroneous idea that bread is "fattening," physicians are aware that no single food causes undue gains in weight in the normal person when the food is part of a well-balanced daily diet.

While white bread is valuable as a readily digested source of carbohydrate, the average slice contains only about 65 calories. Obviously, six slices of white bread daily will provide only 390 calories—or only about one-seventh of the entire day's requirement!

Moreover, the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association has accepted the significant statement that "bread can and should be used, even by those who are reducing under their physician's instructions."

Throughout modern history, bread has held first rank as a human food. Even up to the present age of specialized diet it maintains that enviable position. Through scientific research it has kept pace by offering increased healthfulness. Butter-Krust bread avails you those vital qualities in abundance.

GIANTS AND YANKEES DEFEAT LEAGUE LEADERS

Giants Lose but Send Vander Meer to Showers; Tigers Win

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
NEW YORK, June 24 (U.P.)—New tenants occupied second place spots in both major leagues today with the Cincinnati Reds hot on the trail of the league-leading New York Giants and the New York Yankees gathering their forces for another drive on the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

After one day in third place Cincinnati bounced back into second yesterday by polishing off the Giants, 8-5, and trimmed New York's lead to a game and a half.

Johnny Vander Meer, Reds' sensational no-hit, no-run pitcher, scored his eighth straight triumph but wasn't around for the final 1 1/2 innings.

Center Fielder Harry Ott's spectacular catch of Hank Lauer's fly ball in the ninth enabled Vander Meer to hang up his ninth victory.

Allowing 11 hits and four runs in 7 2/3 innings, he had a 6-0 lead when Sam Leslie hit a homer in the sixth. Then Mel Ott's homer with a man on base helped Vander Meer to his ninth victory.

The Yankees turned on the Indians after losing three straight and salvaged the final game of the series. Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey hit homers.

Tigers Win
Detroit moved into fourth place and knocked Boston out of second by scoring a 10-1 triumph over the Red Sox. Rudy York hit homer No. 20, Hank Greenberg No. 18 and Chet Laabs No. 7. Dutch Leonard and Lou Gehrig scattered six hits.

West, Lewis and Travis made three hits each in a 10-hit attack on Washington and Gabe Page's home run scored his eighth triumph against one defeat in pitching the Athletics to a 7-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Sam Chapman hit homer No. 9 and Lou Pinney got a circuit club with a mate on.

Brocklin snapped a 3-game losing streak by defeating St. Louis, 6-1. Pressnell scored his sixth victory and Babe Phelps drove in six runs with a homer, double and single.

Frankie Richard Erickson, making his first major league start, collapsed in the ninth of two games, Cardinale took the Boston Bees, 2-1.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 24 (U.P.)—The eight amateur who survived the sudden death 18-hole matches seed off today in the 36-hole quarter-final round of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament. They were the wide-open field for the title that was vacated yesterday when Don Schumacher of Dela., the champion, was defeated by Billie Gill of Omaha. Oakland, cellar champs of the Pacific Coast league, knocked the league-leading Sacramento club Thursday with a well-earned 5-3 win.

Each team scored three runs in the third inning. After that Bittner, pitching for Oakland, tied down the Sacramento bats while his teammates picked up the winning scores in the fifth and seventh. Bittner gave seven hits while Sherrill allowed Oakland six.

Los Angeles beat San Francisco in a battling spree, 9-7. A four-run San Francisco rally in the seventh was nipped when two Angels scored six in their half of the inning.

A two-run rally in the ninth was not enough to save Portland from a 4-2 defeat in the hands of Hollywood. The Stars had rolled up a safe margin in the first seven innings, capitalizing on two Portland errors.

Fernandez' homer in the fourth gave San Diego a 4-3 Barrett pitched for the winners while Humphries and Hogan worked for San Diego.

2 Suspended From Softball

One man was suspended for the remainder of the first half of the Twin Falls softball league, and one man was eliminated from play for the remainder of the season by the Twin Falls Softball association at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

The suspensions followed rowdy behavior from bleachers of one of the participants in a ball game that resulted in a near-fight in front of the ticket office after the game.

Names of the offenders were not released by league officials, but one of the men was a member of the Utah Chiefs and the other played on the Glass-Paint crew.

The first-half suspension amounts to about two weeks of play for four ball games.

As Louis Gained His Revenge

One of the shortest championship heavyweight bouts in history ended in the dramatic fashion shown above, with Max Schmeling, challenger from Germany, lying dazed and beaten on his back, while the grim and deadly Joe Louis steps across him to a neutral corner. The long-winded fight, in which Louis wiped out the humiliation of a defeat by Schmeling in 1936, lasted only two minutes and four seconds, and Over 75,000 saw the fight in New York's Yankee stadium.

Mac Says Fight Pictures Show "Killer Instinct" in Louis

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, June 24 (U.P.)—You've read and heard a great deal about the "killer instinct" in prizefighters.

Now you can see it if you are so inclined.
The slow motion picture of the 124 seconds of the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight is probably the most faithful recording ever made of human savagery.

The picture is much more terrifying to watch than the fight was, in the Yankee stadium, the rapidly with which the butchering occurred, against the background of noise and excitement, prevented anyone from getting a cold and objective view of it.

In the quiet darkness of the small theater where I saw the fight picture yesterday afternoon, I was appalled by the knowledge that this ruthless, unmerciful killer, there on the screen was one and the same man as the Joe Louis whom I had just lost a few minutes before.

I saw Joe Louis and although he was sitting in the same chair and talking in the same low voice, I didn't feel fully comfortable around him. It was as if I had seen a savage tiger behind the bars of a cage suddenly loosed to walk free among the people who had been watching him.

The Louis of the slow-motion pictures has no connection with ice cream and pin stripe suits and discussions of the weather. He is a jungle man, as completely primitive as any savage, out to destroy a thing he hates. Even the style of fighting he had been patiently taught, was abandoned. He fought instinctively and not by any man-made pattern.

There is one moment in the picture that made me want to turn my head away, and I have seen some pretty dreadful shambles in the ring. This is the moment when Louis sets up the, by then completely helpless Schmeling for the final blow, and then delivers it. This was a right hand smash to the jaw of a falling man—a beaten man who needed only a push to topple him over and not a blow driven home with every ounce of strength in Louis' 200 points.

The picture shows very clearly that Louis did hit Schmeling in the kidneys, not once but twice. But it also shows with equal clarity that neither punch was intentional. Schmeling lay down as if he thinks these kidney punches cost him the fight. When he leaves the hospital, let him go to see the film and he will have to admit that he was a badly beaten man, with no chance of victory, before either kidney punch was delivered.

He was on the ropes, out of his head and helpless. And these kidney blows were mere taps compared to the rifle shots that all but took his head off.

It can be hoped that Max Baer does not see the pictures of the fight. If he does, and then asks to meet Joe, it might be wise also to sign an alternate heavyweight in case the Californian doesn't show up.

Max Baer Looms as "Man of Hour" in Next Title Contest

By LESLIE AVERY
NEW YORK, June 24 (U.P.)—The reformed Maxie Baer, ex-playboy heavyweight champion of the world, was the man of the hour in fight circles today while managers and promoters throughout the world sought a new "white hope" to challenge Joe Louis.

Despite his four-round knockout by Louis two years ago, Baer, sobered by marriage, parenthood and the recent death of his father, stands out like a Colossus as the No. 1 challenger now that Max Schmeling is no longer a threat.

While Schmeling was strapped in bed in Polytechnic hospital, recovering from a fractured vertebra he suffered in Wednesday night's fabled bid for Louis' crown, Promoter Mike Jacobs was negotiating to match Baer and Louis in a September title match in New York or Chicago. The San Francisco exposition was trying to induce Jacobs to stage a title match there next spring, and Los Angeles promoters also were dickering for a Louis title defense.

Braddock comeback?
Jim Braddock, who lost the championship to Louis a year ago, was reported ready to make a comeback "if he could get in shape." Tommy Farr, British titleholder who went 15 rounds with Louis last September, wants to fight him again. Schmeling, not critically injured last year, is demanding a demanding a fight and "rubber" match.

Tony Galento faithfully challenges Louis once a month on a winner-take-all basis.
With all these offers of allies and slammers, Jacobs believes that Baer would attract the biggest crowd, and that Chicago for New York would pay the biggest price.

Asks Return Match
"I have wiped out every defeat when given a return match," Baer said today. "I want a chance to prove it against Louis. I saw Joe blast Schmeling, and I'm not afraid of him. There's nothing to be afraid of. There used to be a time when I didn't want my face mugged up, but I don't mind scars now. I can tell Max, Jr., they are scars of battle. I used to not give a damn, but I've got to win now to redeem myself. One of the last things my dad asked me before he died was that I fight Louis again and prove I didn't quit like people said I did."

Anxious to Fight Again
Louis, who got $351,245 for his knockout of Schmeling, seemed to be anxious to fight again in September, although he will gain little financially.

"Mike Jacobs is my promoter, and I'll fight anybody, anywhere, anytime," he says. "The 23-year-old brown-skinned champion said, 'I know that most of my share will go to Uncle Sam for taxes, but the more I fight, the less chance I have to get rusty like I was when Schmeling whipped me two years ago.'"

Yesterday's HERO

Pocattello Net Team to Play

A tennis team from Pocattello will appear here Sunday in a return match with Twin Falls racket wielders in an attempt to square accounts for an eight to six defeat at the hands of local players at Pocattello June 5.

Pocattello players who will appear here are Russell Graves, Alberta Graves, Dale Williams, Bob Streeter, Glenn Hankins and Ed Garry. The Twin Falls team will be selected from Al Westergren, Les Moloney, Dr. Harry Albion, Henry Molony, John Platt, I. E. Joslyn, Wayne Minnick and Max Miller.

It is expected about five singles and three doubles matches will be played during the day.

Spanish 'Lost Battalion' Sits on 'Top of World' in Mountains

Daily a train of 200 mules winds its way up the Pyrenees passes from France, bringing supplies to the Spanish loyalists' "lost battalion."

Americans' World war memories of a "lost battalion" conjure up a dramatic picture of a shattered band, surrounded by the enemy, in dire straits for food, water and munitions, and ordered to die in their trap rather than surrender. Not so the extraordinary "lost battalion" of the Spanish Loyalists—the 10,000 men of the 26th division. For they are sitting pretty in a pocket high in the Pyrenees mountains so nearly impenetrable that it has been called a "military paradise." Although in the heart of Rebel-held country, with the foe on three sides, the French border is at their rear, and they can escape any time they want to.

But Lieut. Col. Antonio Betran, their commander, has no intention of retreating. In his 20-mile square stronghold he has cleverly disposed his men so that small groups with machine guns command all gates to the mountain-fenced area. A frontal infantry assault through the narrow passes would be suicidal. Being 2,000 to 10,000 feet up they have no fear of artillery shelling or aerial bombing.

Their abundance of food and supplies makes the "lost ones" about the best fed and cared-for soldiers in all Spain. A caravan of 200 mules makes a daily trip from France into the good cognac, caviar and oil for the divisions' numerous motor cars and trucks. The men are in good health. For excellent, they said, and the Rebel troops outside their mountain fastness, chase out the small garrison, as they did recently at Panlo, where they held out for 10 days.

But no earthly paradise can last indefinitely. When the siege passes to France and isolating the position, the division will have to move. In the meantime, the men are great part in being "lost battalion" that's sitting on top of the world.

SPY TRIAL MAY STRENGTHEN LEGISLATION

Solon Seeks Weakness in Present Law

By FRANK McNAUGHTON
 WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Chairman Roy Pittman, D., Nev., of the senate foreign relations committee, said today that he would watch the trials of spies in London closely for ideas to strengthen anti-espionage legislation.

"Whatever weaknesses there are in our laws against spies will show up then," he said in an interview. "These can serve as a guide for action at the next session."

He doubted that the bill passed at the last session, requiring propagandists in the pay of foreign governments to register with the state department, would prove effective against spies.

"Spies are naturally taking chances," he said. "They would not register anyway."

He criticized the developments of the New York spy ring as serious and described as "abhorrent" the practice of one government intercepting the correspondence of another in time of peace. Eighteen indictments were returned in New York this week naming alleged spies and including four high German officials.

Pittman does not favor the establishment of a counter-espionage service, but rather a policy of "not meddling in other fellows' business, and keeping them from meddling in ours."

"There is no inducement," he said, "for the United States to establish a spy system in foreign countries when we are at peace and do not expect war. Unfortunately, most other countries of the world are expecting war all the time."

"It is normal that every country has its intelligence department. All countries intercept messages of various governments, except ours. While none admit it, we know it is a fact. Our government has an absolute prohibition against intercepting any messages in peacetime of foreign governments or officers."

He said that any strengthening of the protection against spies should be through the federal bureau of investigation.

Castor Oil for the Well-Oiled

The same old castor oil cure which keeps little Jimmy away from green apples is being used in Hutchinson, Kan., to keep a trio of regular police court visitors away from the bottle. After other methods had failed, Judge Albert S. Reed ordered administration of the emollient stuff before an improvised bar lined with remindful bar run bottles. With very few exceptions, one of the trio, Sandy Lissenbe, who makes money for bar run spears by selling fish worms, receives the purgative dose from City Prosecutor Eugene White.

Old Bill Reveals 1864 Prices Higher—Except for Diaper Pin

By LOWELL DICK
 You'd think that with the huge increase in population in the United States since 1864 and the proportionate increase in the number of babies, that diaper pins would be cheaper today—but they aren't.

Way back in 1864, T. W. Monroe purchased a diaper pin for 29 cents. Today's price for the same article is eight cents, according to a saleswoman in a Twin Falls department store.

The price of the diaper pin is included among other articles appearing on a bill of items purchased Aug. 17, 1864, in Peru, Ill., by T. W. Monroe from McMillan, "wholesale and retail dealer in dry goods, clothing, carpets, boots and shoes, etc." according to the bill.

F. S. Munro, 506 Second street east, Twin Falls, son of T. W. Monroe, found the bill and brought it to the Times office. He said that his name was originally Monroe, but as he was Scotch he dropped the "s" and "n" in "n." Munro said the Aug. 1, 1864, purchase was made on the first trip his mother made to town following his birth. Deductions would indicate that the diaper pin was purchased for use in the new infant's triangular undies.

Comparison of prices charged for articles on the bill with present-day prices revealed that needles are sold for the same amount—ten cents a package—to day as they were in 1864, but all other articles listed on the bill can be purchased at lower prices today.

For instance, the bill lists 41 yards of sheeting at 10 cents per yard to cost $24.70. A department store saleswoman reported that the very best grade of sheeting today can be purchased at 21 cents a yard, or $15.17 for 41 yards.

Ticking is listed on the bill at 35 cents a yard as compared with a price today of 29 cents; print at 40 cents a yard, compared with 19 cents today; crash, 25 cents per yard, compared with 10 cents now; linen handkerchiefs, 75 cents, compared with 30 cents for a first-grade hanky today; paper of pins, 10 cents, compared with 8 cents; a tumbler, 10 cents, compared with 8 cents; and a boy's hat, (presumably straw), 25 cents, compared with 10 cents today.

If T. W. Monroe had waited until today to buy the articles he purchased back in 1864, and had patronized a Twin Falls store, he would have paid $2377 instead of the $32.90 he paid to McMillan company on Water street in Peru, Ill.

Today he could double the order he gave in 1864 and still pay $5.55 less.

But 74 years is a long time to wait to effect a saving of $30.13, and anyway he wouldn't have saved anything on the diaper pin. And when a diaper pin is needed, well, his needed.

WHEAT MARKET TO BE EXPLAINED

MOSCOW, June 24 (Special)—Wheat growers who attend the annual American Institute of Cooperation next month on the campuses of the University of Idaho and State college in Washington will find three special sessions devoted to grain marketing problems and a major portion of several general meetings devoted to wheat control programs. The dates of the conference are July 10 to 15.

A consideration of prospective outlets for Pacific northwest wheat by William Giosnessy in charge of the Portland marketing section of the AAA will open this portion of the program. He will be followed by Ervin E. King, master of the Washington State Grange, on "Possibilities of Regional Cooperation in Marketing Pacific Northwest Wheat."

Harold Hedges, principal agricultural economist of the farm credit administration, and R. C. Bentley, assistant professor of marketing of Iowa State college, will develop the subject "How to Make a Local Grain Marketing Association More Efficient."

The third of the special conferences will include C. L. Watzmark, assistant secretary of the Spokane Bank for Cooperatives, who will present a desirable financial structure for grain cooperatives; Ben S. Plumer, director of the Alberta wheat pool, who will give Canadian experiences in cooperative marketing; and A. R. Shumway, president of the North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc. who will speak on meeting the problems of Pacific northwest wheat surplus.

The application of the new AAA program to wheat will be the subject of a talk during one of the evening sessions by Francis R. Wilcox, director of the federal department of agriculture's division of marketing and marketing agreements. On the same program his economic effect on wheat will be analyzed by M. R. Benedict, professor of agricultural economics of the University of California.
