SENATOR URGES NEW FIGHT FOR U. S. DEMOCRACY

Calling on the people of the United States to rededicate themselves to freedom and democracy, to wise use of the bounty of nature and to prosperity and happiness for mankind, Sen. James P. Pope this afternoon was scheduled to speak before several thousand persons gathered at the Filer fairgrounds in observance of July 4.

Man Killed as Car Plunges to Bed of Rock Creek Canyon

Joseph Ebben Williams, 49, was dead today after the machine he was driving had plunged 242 feet over the lava rock rim of Rock creek at the end of Alexander street about 10:30 p. m. Sunday night.

Williams' badly crumpled body, lying approximately 15 feet from the demolished car and in a drainage ditch of the H. S. Drake fish hatchery located on the canyon floor, was not discovered until 7:30 a. m. today. At that time, according to the results of a police investigation, Harold Navin informed the owner of the hatchery that a car had apparently gone over the rim and was on Frame's property. Frame immediately investigated. He found Williams' body lying partially submerged in the ditch and called local police. Frame told officers that he had heard a noise about 10:30 p. m. Sunday and had left his house to investigate with a search light. Finding nothing he had returned to bed. It is believed Williams was killed at that time.

Birthdays flowers for the Constitution of the United States were arranged in a gigantic flag in Independence Square when Philadelphia celebrated the 150th anniversary of the document's signing. Total Expected to Reach 400 by Night; Accidents By Cars Take 107 Lives

Drownings Kill 52; New York Reports 23 Dead, Illinois 2

At least 201 persons died violently throughout the country during the first two days of the Fourth of July week-end, a survey showed today.

The number was increasing hourly and indications were that it would be more than doubled by tonight. On the basis of state-by-state reports it appeared that the final toll would be as great as any of recent years despite a nationwide safety campaign which 28 organizations, with a total membership of 46,000,000 had carried on to effect a reduction. Independence day deaths last year totaled 560.

Up to midnight automobile accidents had caused 107 deaths. Fifty-two persons drowned. The remainder were killed in shootings, from falls and freak accidents.

No fireworks fatalities had been reported. The Travelers Insurance company, which had predicted that nearly 500 persons would be killed and 14,000 injured in automobile accidents alone over the week-end, said statistics have shown that fireworks are no longer a major cause of death during independence day celebrations.

New York reported 23 deaths, 12 of them drownings. Michigan and Illinois each reported 21 deaths. Fifteen persons were killed in Pennsylvania, 14 in California and 14 in Indiana.

New Dealer, GOP Chairman in Clash

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 4 (UP)—An ardent New Dealer and the Republican party chairman clashed today at the University of Virginia institute of public affairs, each claiming that his party's philosophy coincided with the theories of Thomas Jefferson, father of independence.

Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican national committee asserted that the Republican party "better exemplifies his political philosophy than any other organization in this country."

Sen. Claude Pepper, D. Fla., warm exponent of the New Deal, told the 3,000 delegates composed of the nation's leading minds, that the party followed by Jefferson "intended not only to liberate the oppressed but to place the child's firework in the oven."

President Dedicates Gettysburg Memorial

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 4 (UP)—A bright new flame of peace burned over Gettysburg battle field today while the army's most modern machines of war rumbled across the hills in a gigantic independence demonstration.

The flame spouted bravely from a 61-foot high memorial which President Roosevelt dedicated yesterday on Oak Hill with a call for America to pledge itself to an eternal struggle for peace through democracy.

CAR-TRAIN CRASH IN RUPERT HURTS THREE RESIDENTS

RUPERT, July 4 (Special)—Three Rupert residents were in the Rupert general hospital today, suffering serious injuries as the result of a car-train crash that took place Saturday night west of the Union Pacific station.

The injured were John Shelton, 50, and his two daughters, Ruth, 22, and Wilma, 18. Mr. Shelton is in the most serious condition with a fractured skull and possible fractured leg. His condition is reported by hospital attaches as "critical" and has been unconscious most of the time.

The eldest daughter, Ruth, who was riding in the back seat had a fractured right arm, facial bruises and general shock.

Wilma, riding in the front seat with her father, had a bone in her leg above the knee fractured, several cuts and lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Mr. Shelton, a salesman for the School Motor company, was driving to his home in the southern part of the city when the accident occurred. The train, carrying a freight, was headed east for Ecclesville. Cause of the accident has not been established, but a heavy rain and high reflections are believed to have been factors, according to W. F. Manifold, Minidoka county sheriff, who conducted the investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 4 (UP)—A toy pistol which he purchased for his son resulted yesterday in the death of William Henry Green, a truck driver.

LONDON, July 4 (UP)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco, in reply to protests against bombing of British ships, maintained that Spanish loyalist ports were legitimate targets for the nationalist aviation to attack.

Francisco said that the nationalists did not stage out for attack the British ships that claimed to be in those ports.

BRITISH

NEW YORK, July 4 (UP)—Perhaps this isn't just the day to break the news, but it seems that "Vance Doolittle" was a song of American soldiers in 1776, not really an American song.

Such was the finding of Harold Davis of Calais, Me., published in the latest issue of "American Speech."

He said the song was written by a British army surgeon, was heavily copyrighted by the British, and was first sung by the British in 1725.

Anything for a Laugh in Jittery European Nations

By MILTON BRONNER (NEA Service)

LONDON, July 4 (UP)—While Europe grows in a state of perpetual goose-flesh, because of war, there is the only thing that keeps people from collectively jumping into the river is an occasional laugh.

That's why the joke-mongers still pipe their trade and the non-military and six little armies pass from month to month, relieving the tension and providing a background of healthy contempt against the nations of the great and near-great.

Humor and manipulation may keep the official press and public in a gloom and heavy mood of deep-dish politics, but the people have their own opinions, expressed in little quack-anecdotes which comment on the situation in the same way that Paul jokes used to sweep across the United States in the 20s.

For instance, here is a widely-circulated tale of a German visiting in Switzerland. A little patriotism, he began to speak a loyal halber.

"It seems odd to me. You have a minister of justice, but you have no minister of war. Where was the minister of war?"

"Shouldn't seem odd to you," replies the stout Swiss. "I believe that you in Germany have a minister of justice!"

Naturally, the de-facto equalizer in a chaotic time in the midst of the popular libbing, and the stories circulate widely in countries where their open publication would be followed by the usual penalties.

Here's one that deals with a Nazi visitor in Holland. With characteristic Prussian bluster and lack of tact, he remarks to a Dutch acquaintance:

"Holler will be over here in Holland within a couple of months!"

His Prussian associate replies: "In fact, you are a penetrating comment on current affairs as seen through non-official eyes. I see hidden beneath the pleasantries, there's an ironical sarcasm, a slyly repeated as a result of Germany's grab of Austria, which brought German troops to the Rhine and the borders of Italy according to the year, when Hitler recently visited Italy with a quite sincere encouragement, Mussolini said:

"That Adolf, I thought I would see you surrounded by your field marshals, your generals, and your privates!"

"Never mind, Benito," replies Hitler. "The next time I come I'll bring my whole army!"

Hitler another story is giving Britain a chuckle right in the midst of the war. It concerns British Jewish minister of war, Leslie Hore-Belisha.

He said that in addition to shaking up the British war effort, he had revitalized it by getting crusty old generals and opening up to them for promotion from the bottom. Hore-Belisha has had time to win a reputation as a wit.

He won it, goes the story, with a wack like this: Most officers have taken with fairly good grace the extensive motorizing of the ancient auxiliary regiments. But some older fellows, however, have been very much annoyed. One such, discussing the changes with the minister, said:

"It is a scandal that our crack cavalry regiments, which in history, should have been equipped with tanks and aircraft carriers."

"Well," mused Hore-Belisha, "you're the flier, Colonel. I have often thought that some coachmen in this war would be a good thing."

"That may not sound very funny, but who would bridge an Englishman's chuckle over such things as funny in Europe today—and it's anything for a laugh."

PATRIOTS TO PAY GALLATIN HONOR

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — National and international dignitaries will treat the state's history and winding pathways of historic friendship hall estate, one-time home of states-born Albert Gallatin, who served as secretary of the treasury under two presidents.

Guest of honor at the one-day celebration, sponsored by the Daughters of 1812, in co-operation with the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be Genevieve Peter, president of the Daughters of 1812, who was born at Geneva, birthplace of Gallatin.

It was just 113 years ago that Lafayette, French soldier-statesman, was guest at Friendship hall at the invitation of his friend, Gallatin, who was secretary of the treasury under Jefferson and Madison.

Owled by Women Patriots

Former Gov. John S. Fisher, president of the Western Pennsylvania Historical society, will preside at ceremonies which will be broadcast on a national network, according to Mrs. A. M. Spowers of Morgantown, W. Va., president of the Friendship Hall association.

Other guests at the celebration will include Gallatin's grandson and granddaughter-in-law, Miss Margaret Gallatin and Mrs. Mary Gallatin Hopper, both of New York City.

BRUGES TO HOLD MEDIEVAL FETE

BRUGES, Belgium (UP) — A medieval pageant commemorating a famous religious relic, several drops of the blood of Christ, will be held in this old Flemish town in August.

The pageant, in which 2000 performers will take part, will be staged in the Cathedral square and is planned to rival the Passion play of Oberammergau. The facade of the cathedral with its 450-foot bell tower will be used as a backdrop. The chorus and orchestra, a thousand strong, will be directed by the composer, Arthur Meulmans.

French trumpets sounded from the top of the bell tower herald the opening of the pageant, as the facade is flooded with light and angels in cloth of gold appear at the windows, balconies and embrasures. The first scene ends with Joseph of Arimathea collecting the sacred blood in a vessel.

The second scene, one of medieval splendor, will show Thierri d'Alsace bringing the relic to Bruges in a magnificent procession in medieval costumes that every year commemorates the bringing of the relic to Bruges.

COLLEGE HEADS DISCOVER HOUSE

CANYON, Texas (UP) — The apartment house on record in the panhandle of Texas has been excavated on Antelope creek, north of Amarillo, officials of the Texas State Teachers college have announced.

Indian dwelling ruins, inhabited apparently about 1300 A. D., have been found in the Antelope creek area. Their excavation has proved definite relationships between the Pueblo tribes, culture of the Southwest and the plains tribes culture farther East, according to the college.

One ruins now being excavated, through cooperation of the works progress administration, contains about 40 rooms. The walls are about 18 inches thick, plastered neatly inside. They are covered with cottonwood logs and a thatch of brush and mud. Doors of each room are about 5 feet high, and there are no windows. Most of the units contain a fire pit.

The rooms are about 20 feet square, and are paved with packed clay.

Refuse heaps show that the inhabitants were hunters and agriculturists. Numerous bones of bison, deer, lion and antelope have been excavated, indicating that the panhandle Indians ate an abundance of meat in addition to their principal vegetables — corn, beans, squashes and tomatoes.

The college announced that reconstruction of typical rooms of the dwelling center would begin soon.

Salmon river crops are reported to be in excellent condition, recent rains proving beneficial except where they hindered haying activities.

IOWA DEVELOPS STUDY METHODS

IOWA CITY, Ia. (UP)—Instruction by motion pictures is one of the newest fields of education developed by the University of Iowa, where a film library of 450 reels of silent film and 125 sound reels is maintained.

The department of visual education, a branch of the extension department, supplies films ranging in subject matter for use in primary grades to those for college courses.

Leo Cochran, head of the department of visual education, said additional films are being made to the library whenever films of educational value were found.

Every film in the library is in the 16-millimeter size, standard for school use.

"Each of these reels has a book accompanying it which suggests to the teacher the approach before showing the film and the follow-up discussion afterward, Cochran said.

"The book furnishes additional information regarding the subject matter and also includes a bibliography for further study."

Aside from supplying university departments, films are being made and civic organizations, the department of visual education also rents films to schools in surrounding communities.

Color film is Cochran's most recent hobby. He has recorded every important event at the university since 1928 on color film. These subjects are sent to alumni meetings, all over the nation.

"We feel that the alumni films are one of the most important contributions to the university," Cochran said.

Early Fires Rout Ferry Department

GLENN'S FERRY, July 4 (Special) — The Glenns Ferry fire department has a flint for early morning fires. On Thursday the siren routed the men out of bed at 4:30 a. m. to answer a call at the Shumgar garage where one of the gas pumps had caught fire. The blaze was discovered by Earl Spencer, night man at the garage who partially put the blaze out with some dirt laying near by. He then turned in the alarm and the fire was extinguished by the firemen before much damage was done.

Friday the signal blew at 7:30 a. m. and the truck went to the Clark Gjerding home where a large over stuffed chair in the living room had become ignited. The chair was completely burned, also a spot in the rug and on the floor.

Clark Gjerding with the help of neighbors had partly put out the fire before the company arrived. Damage was mostly from smoke. The cause of both of the fires was undetermined.

Just One Year Ago Since Last Word Was Heard from Amelia

By JOHN U. TERRELL
SAN FRANCISCO, July 4 (Special) — At 8:44 a. m. on July 2, 1937, the United States coast guard cutter, Itasca, cruising in the South Pacific, received this message:

"KHAQU calling Itasca. We are in the line of position 171-337. Will repeat this message. We will repeat this message in 6210 kilocycles. Wait. Listening in 6210 kilocycles. We are running north and south."

No one ever heard again from Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Goetz, after that message clicked off the air.

Death presumably came that bright tropical morning a year ago, closing forever the distinguished career of Amelia Earhart, who had contributed more to the progress and science of aviation than any other woman.

With Hoeman, she was a rounder-the-world scientific flight when disaster struck.

Near Howland Island, a tiny speck of land in the limitless South Pacific. But just how near, or where they went down, no one knows.

Miss Earhart's voice was faltering over the ocean.

Rushed Into Search
Com. Thompson's report reveals that the Itasca was rushed into participation in the Earhart flight with only eight hours notice.

The cutter's commander was not advised fully as to the type of radio equipment Miss Earhart carried.

At the end of the search, Thompson wrote in his log, "Miss Earhart talked so rapidly as to be almost incoherent."

Baby's Finger Cut In Home Accident

GLENN'S FERRY, July 4 (Special) — What might have been a serious accident occurred in the Johnson home Tuesday when the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Williams badly cut in the finger by his two year old brother.

Mrs. Williams was preparing the nine-month-old baby for his nap when the older child seized a knife and brought it down across his brother's finger almost severing it at the first joint.

The wound was reported not serious but the finger will probably remain stiff due to the fact that the tendon was severed.

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 4 (Special) — A lake in Yellowstone National Park a half a mile long and nearly as wide is lost.

On the topographic maps the lake has not been seen since 1921. Bureau of public roads engineers, surveying for the new highway, did not find the lake nor have forest mapping crews. Fishermen, noticing on the map what they think to be a choice fishing spot, have inquired about the pool. Some of them have even set out to find it. But it still has not been found.

On the topographic maps the lake is shown about a mile southwest of a point where the highway crosses the continental divide and at an elevation of 8,000 feet. Old timers report having fished there with great success.

Supt. Edmund B. Rogers thinks that at the time the mapping crews visited the area there may have been a lake which has since dried up or is so low that it may exist only during the wet spring and early summer season.

He thinks that the mappers may not have been there at the time. "We are digging, but cannot hear you. Go ahead."

CURIOSITY KILLS GRIZZLY IN PARK

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 4 (Special) — It is said that curiosity once killed a cat, but there is no doubt but that curiosity killed a Yellowstone National Park grizzly bear.

District ranger Leon Evans of Old Faithful, upon hearing a terrific commotion in the woods near the museum building, went to investigate and found a five-pound screw top coffee can firmly flitted over the grizzly's head.

Banner mixed grizzly thought he could find any volunteers to remove the offending can and allow the albertip to find his way out of the museum building.

Evans' immediate thought was to leave the vicinity as soon as possible but he took courage, aimed his high-powered rifle, and his shot was true.

When the bear was hauled out for burial in the forest, it was still wearing his coffee can helmet. It was on too tightly to be removed and nobody particularly wanted it anyway.

"Jesse James" Rides Again in Confines of Chicago Jail Cell

CHICAGO, July 4 (Special) — Jesse James rode again today within the narrow confines of a cell in the Cook county jail.

An ancient man, with long white hair, a surrounding his bald pate, a black kerchief about his neck and knee boots on his feet, was talking to a guard today. "It's about time people found out the straight of the story."

"Robert Ford didn't kill Jesse James," the ancient man said. "He killed Charles Bigelow and passed the body off as James."

"He couldn't have killed Jesse James, because I'm Jesse James and I'm still kicking. I'll be 91 next Sept. 5."

A police guard lounged outside the cell while "James" told his story. Chester prison authorities in southern Illinois wanted him as a parolee.

"Jesse" had been sentenced in 1928 from Murphysboro, Ill., on a charge of manslaughter. Later he was paroled to a Fulton, Ky., merchant. When the merchant died, James neglected to report to the proper authorities. He was captured a few days ago at Charleston, W. Va., and returned to Chicago.

MOTORISTS SEE BEARS IN PARK

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 4 (Special) — The average visitor leaving Yellowstone National park talking about the park's bears because a motorist in the area can't fall to see dozens of the black and brown beggars.

But were he to hike into the deep forests he would find that the bears constitute only a small portion of the park's wild animal population.

The latest park game census, taken by rangers, lists only 520 black bears and 200 grizzlies, but the report shows 14,200 elk and this figure does not include the portion of the 20,000 Jackson Hole herd, part of which ranges during the summer in Yellowstone.

Also shown on the census are 900 deer, 800 buffalo, 800 antelope, 700 moose, and 200 Rocky mountain bighorn sheep.

Some 40 of the bison herd were recently moved to the large Antelope creek pasture where they may be seen grazing in the broad valley just as they did before white men entered the west.

Deer, antelope, moose and elk may be observed by almost anyone inasmuch as the animals often graze or browse along the roadsides.

But the bears still hold top billing as a park attraction. Thousands are becoming aware of the Otter Creek Grizzly Bear grounds and are gathering each evening to watch the mousetraps baited with fat, and the blacks are visiting the roadsides in ever-increasing numbers.

RECKLESS DRIVER FINED
JEROME, July 4 (Special) — Edgar Stockton, Jerome, was fined $25 after he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge. He allegedly ran over a dog grazing in the broad valley, claiming witness, and killed the animal.
