FDNR Foe Tops Georgia Voting

GEORGE WINS IN RACE WITH CAMP TRAILING THIRD

SEN. GEORGE

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 15 (UP)—Sen. Walter F. George, whom President Roosevelt asked the Georgia electorate to defeat in yesterday's Democratic primary, won re-nomination today on the basis of unofficial tabulations which gave him 80 percent of the vote—two more than the required majority.

EUGENE TALMADGE

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 15 (UP)—U. S. Sen. Walter F. George, whose defeat was asked by President Roosevelt as a step toward liberalizing the Democratic party, today appeared headed to victory in the Georgia Democratic senatorial primary.

The chief executive's New Deal candidate was out of the race and an anti-New Dealer was running second.

George was considered the President's chief object in his campaign to oust conservatives and elect liberal legislators. He was the only one mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt as the candidate to be defeated.

In the South Carolina and Maryland primaries, in which the New Deal also lost, the President inferentially spoke of the candidates but did not call names.

Carrie's 6 Counties Lawrence S. Camp, whom the FDNR recently endorsed as its favorite, carried only 4 of the 150 counties, according to incomplete returns.

Eugene Talmadge, ex-governor of the red gullus fame and an anti-New Dealer, ran a close second to George and had a slight chance to take the lead in the event he had a large percentage of uncounted precincts swung to him.

With 206 county votes necessary for election—the electorate population vote does not count—George was leading in sufficient counties to give

IDAHO PLATFORM PLEDGES MAPPED

JEROME, Sept. 15 (Special)—Platforms for both the Republicans and Democrats in the coming general election were reviewed here last night by leaders from both parties during an open forum meeting of the North Side Pomona Grange held in the city here.

More than 150 persons gathered to hear A. F. James, leading keynote speaker of the Democratic convention, and Eugene Anderson, Elmore county Republican leader, present the GOP platform.

The Republican party, after James spoke first and both were introduced by John Treadwell, Grange member, Alan Field's message, "Twin Falls, the great numbers before the talks started.

After Difference In his talk James said that the difference between the Democratic and Republican party was that the Democrats considered the majority of the people as a whole while the Republicans formed a party of the few, seeking more their leaders than to the people.

As platform points he cited continued support for the "handcuffing" of the Republican party, and the present administration, and pointed out that some of these measures included

MILK SUPPLY IN GOOD CONDITION

Excellent conditions exist so far as the Twin Falls milk shed is concerned, it was announced here this afternoon by Dr. E. R. Price, city health officer, after completion of a survey of all producers and distributors which was made yesterday.

In addition to Dr. Price, those conducting the survey were M. M. Miller, United States milk sanitation officer of the department of public health, and Paul Ward, state milk sanitation officer from Boise.

The official rating of the city milk supply will be made in the immediate future after figures compiled during the survey are sent to Washington. They will be released from there.

AUDIT SLAPS AT IRREGULARITY IN IDAHO PURCHASES

BOISE, Sept. 15 (UP)—A special auditing commission which spent $25,000 in an investigation of the state highway department reported today that widespread and deliberate disregard of the law had been apparent in purchases of machinery for use in road construction.

The charge was based on a volume five of a five-volume audit report comprising an investigation of all transactions and workings pertaining to the department of highways and public works.

"The great bulk of purchase of construction and maintenance equipment was made without regard to the statutes concerning purchases of supplies and equipment for state departments," the report, compiled under direction of James Munro, C. F. A., said.

Interior Materials Allegations were made, based upon inspection of state records, that the department purchased inferior materials in some cases, paying unusually high prices, bought second-hand material and passed it off as new and that as much as 30 percent of $684,773 paid for equipment over a four-year period was spent for material on which bids had been offered as required by law.

In many cases, the report said, highway equipment was not purchased from the low bidder. "The report said that the state is presently a fugitive from a grand jury indictment, had been made a stockholder in an equipment company and had governed purchases accordingly.

"Responsibility for the disregard of the law in many of these cases cannot be placed on the department, but merely a 'rubber stamp' affair issued after delivery of the equipment."

The 73-year-old senator, greatly improved in health after a six-week holiday in this summer resort, declared today that the United States should maintain a "hands-off" policy in the European crisis.

"Our course seems to be plain and that is to use every reasonable and honorable means to keep out of these European conflicts and controversies—and I firmly believe it possible to keep out," Borah said in an interview.

"The 73-year-old senator, greatly improved in health after a six-week holiday in this summer resort, commented on the European crisis as he prepared to leave tonight for Washington."

"No one would undertake to prophesy what may happen in Europe," Borah said.

Committed to no Program He observed that President Roosevelt "has said this country is in no way committed to any program looking to the stopping of Hitler. I trust this position of our country will be made increasingly plain and increasingly emphatic not only to Hitler but as to all foreign controllers."

Asked his view of President Roosevelt's recent statement that he would rather support liberal Republicans than non-liberal Democrats, Borah said:

"The fact is, there is no political party of any political integrity or with any sense of political responsibility in the United States, and unfortunately the voters seem disposed to vote for individuals and not as partisans."

"Best Thing" "That's the best thing that can happen in view of the present condition of political parties. Nobody knows what the Democratic party, as a party, stands for, and certainly nobody can give any service to his country except by not voting for him or her. I hope they will do so."

Safety is Worth the Extra Caution, Honor Recognition Day Shows Here

Safety is worth the slight extra trouble it occasions once in a while, that was the general view expressed today by Twin Falls police and merchants cooperating in the traffic safety campaign after observance of "safety recognition day" Wednesday.

Traffic courtesy and safety incidents that probably saved a pair of lives; averted possible injury to dozens of other persons; protected children and made driving safer for motorists as a whole were included in the "honor list" submitted by police, the merchants and their employees, and by the public at large.

Incidents of "honor drives" from other spots Idaho communities were starting to crop in by mail today, while it creeps in just slowly among those communities as in Twin Falls, the reports showed.

Result of Talk will be Peace or War in Europe; Briton to Ask Showdown

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (UP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will return to London tomorrow, it was announced officially tonight, and will go back to Berchtesgaden for another conference with Adolf Hitler within a few days.

Europe's Crisis At a Glance

BERCHTESGADEN, Sept. 15 (UP)—Neville Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler bargained face to face in the Bavarian Alps today with a worried world waiting to hear whether the result would mean peace or war in Europe.

The head of the British government and the leader of greater Germany met in the great hall of Hitler's retreat within an hour of the end of Chamberlain's unprecedented 700-mile dash by air and train from London.

Chamberlain came for a showdown on what must be offered Hitler to satisfy his demand for self-determination for the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia.

In Word from London was that parliament would be called in special session after Chamberlain's return, to hear an account of his negotiations with Hitler.

Point Blank Question It was impossible to know what went on at the momentous meeting within the guarded precincts of the Bavarian Alps. The British prime minister, however, it was told by reliable diplomatic sources that Chamberlain would, in effect, ask Hitler: "What do you want?"

"Are you anxious for a military adventure, or seriously anxious to collaborate in working out a peace plan beginning with the Sudeten, and

FAVORITES FALL IN GOLF TOURNEY

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 15 (UP)—The biggest they are the harder they fall, today was the motto of the 1938 Oakmont golf tournament as the national championship with a field that could be heard all the way from Francisco, Pittsburgh, and other points.

Johnnie Fisher, Cincinnati, one of the hot favorites here, lost an extra hole match to Willie Dyer, a club member, in the 18th hole. Dyer, a big right hander, was the only one who was on the qualifying round and seemed to be on his way to great things.

Theresa and Fischer were all square when they sank their putts on the 18th hole, and the prize was on the line when they moved over to the 19th hole for a sudden-death play-off. They halved the 19th with a bogey five, and traded on the 20th when Dyer scored a birdie to win the match.

Johnnie Fisher, defending champion, missed around the first hole in three-under-par 34 today to move into the quarter final to a 4 and 1 victory over J. E. French, Jr., San Francisco.

Edwin Kingsley, a 23-year-old copper ore salesman from Magnolia, Pa., marched ahead with a 4 and 2 victory over Walter Cradler, a Dedham, Mass. Kingsley meets Herbert in the quarter final.

HENLEIN PLEADS FOR RETURN TO GERMAN NATION

BOER, SUDETEN AREA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 15 (UP)—Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German party leader, said today in a proclamation that he was "hoping to return to the rich."

"In this hour of Sudeten German need, I step before the Sudeten, the German people and the entire world to declare we want to live as free Germans. We again want peace and work in our home. We want to go home to the rich."

"May God bless us and our just fight."

The proclamation was broadcast over all radio in Germany.

German stations interrupted normal programs to broadcast the proclamation.

Oppression at High Point "My comrades," Henlein said, "as bearers of your confidence and in realization of my responsibility, I declare before the world that the Czech system of oppression has reached its high point with the use of force against the Sudeten people against the defenseless Sudeten."

"Thereby the Czech people show the entire world that living together with them in one state has become impossible."

"Experience of a 20-year reign of terror, above all the heavy blood sacrifices of the last few days, require me to declare, firstly, that in 1918 we were forced into the Czech state against our will and regardless of the right of self-determination which was solemnly promised us."

Heavy Sacrifices "Second, without once having recognized the right of self-determination we have attempted, through heavy sacrifices, to secure our existence in the Czech state."

"All the efforts of the Czech people and their responsible leaders to reach an honest and just solution have failed because of the uncompromising will to destruction."

Arrangement of Charles Mackey 27-year-old Twin Falls service station attendant who reportedly admitted to the shooting of a 20-year-old Kimberly, was scheduled for this afternoon in prolate court before Judge Clay L. Kinney.

Charles Mackey, 27, of 1015 N. 2nd St., was charged with the shooting of Kimberly, 20, of 1015 N. 2nd St., on Saturday afternoon by A. C. Parker, deputy sheriff. The complaint alleges assault with a deadly weapon.

Mrs. Elton was wounded in her Kimberly home early Saturday morning. She is in Twin Falls county hospital recovering from a bullet in the right arm.

Sheriff E. P. Frazer and Deo Ellison, husband of the wounded woman, had indicated that the shooting "may have been accidental." Mackey had gone to the Ellison home to see his estranged wife.

CZECHS CALL UP MORE RESERVISTS

PHRAQUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 15 (UP)—Two classes of reservists have been called to the colors in the last two days, it was learned today.

The two classes comprise about 140,000 men.

The precaution was taken because of the sanguinary fighting in the Sudeten area since Monday, in which it is unofficially estimated that more than 100,000 Czech and Sudeten Germans have been slain.

A member of the general staff of the Czech army declared that the calling up of the reservists was purely defensive.

He emphatically denied it could be interpreted as a mobilization. "It will be a mobilization only if we called up 20 or 30 classes," the officer said. "Certainly nobody can object to Czechoslovakia calling up more classes if Czechs and Sudeten Germans have been slain in the last few days."

Many new reservists have been sent to occupy fortifications, he said, and others are being held on the alert against new incidents. The call to the colors was effected in the last two days by special delivery letters. Reservists apparently were reporting to their barracks progressively and there was no evidence of general excitement.

Germany Secures Big Corn Supply

'CAVALCADE' WILL PLACE EMPHASIS ON CLEAN LIVING

The "Cavalcade for Youth," which will see a series of 1200 special youth meetings staged before the year is over, was inaugurated by members of the L. D. S. church in Salt Lake City last night. Officers of the church in Twin Falls said this morning, and will soon see church leaders coming into this section of Idaho to conduct similar gatherings.

Ten outstanding church leaders of youth were named at the Salt Lake meeting last night to make tours of all but the most remote areas served by the church. This number of men will be divided into two groups, and one of these groups will visit the Twin Falls area in the near future. Exact dates of the visits will be announced later.

South Idaho Included

The itinerary now being worked out will include 114 of the 125 stakes of the church and will include the stakes in this section which are Blaine, Fort Elwell, Twin Falls, Minidoka, Burley and Cassia.

The stress in the "Cavalcade for Youth" campaign, it is explained, is not to be on a battle with arms but on the necessity for the youth of the church today to march as did the "Guns of Helaman" for righteousness, for morality, for clean and wholesome living and for service to God and his children.

During the campaign stress will be laid on the Scouting movement which is being pushed in the church. In the Snake River Area council, Boy Scouts of America, with leaders, troops in Twin Falls; there are 28 troops sponsored by the various Mormon churches.

The 10 leaders named for the work, five of which will visit this section, include Elder George Albert Smith of the council of twelve; Elder Melvin J. General Superintendent Joseph J. Cannon; Field Supervisor John D. Giles; Executive Secretary Cecil A. Kirkham; Second Asst. General Superintendent Dr. Burton K. Parrusworth.

Fifty-three teachers are included on the staffs of the common school districts of Twin Falls county for the present school year. It was announced by this afternoon by Mrs. Doris Stradley, county superintendent of public instruction.

The 53 instructors are teaching in 30 common schools. Five common districts are in combination with other districts this year and are not operating their own schoolhouses although they share the expense with the unit with which they have temporarily merged.

Other Lists Noted

Complete lists for the independent and the rural high districts have not yet been submitted to the superintendent's office, although they have been published individually in the Evening Times.

Union is again the largest of the common schools and has three instructors. Most of the others have two, and nine have one. The list: Miller—Mrs. Lois G. Cochrin.

LEVY SLATED TO END ROAD BONDS

Final payment of $124,000 next April 1, the amount derived from levied tax payable this year, will complete retirement of a $1,250,000 bond issue of the Twin Falls highway district that was authorized in 1925. Officials of the district had announced today.

Incorporated with the Twin Falls district when the bond issue was authorized, the Murlaugh and Rock creek districts will also wipe out their shares of the issue through this year's tax levies.

The tax levy which the Twin Falls district board adopted Tuesday was 50 cents on each $100 of assessed property valuation. It is to cover only the principal of the last payment of the amount derived from levied tax. It was explained that a $43,000 surplus in the district's general fund has been transferred to the bond and interest fund to cover interest on the final payment.

It was pointed out by the officials that no tax levy for road and bridge fund has been made by the district during the last seven years.

GROUP PLANS ON MT. BORAH TRIP

The four local men planning to make the trip are Roy Painter, Walt Williams, Howard Williams and Amy Frederick, while Jarvis Schaufert, Sun Valley expert, will accompany them.

The party will camp at the base of the peak Saturday night of this month, according to present plans, and will make the ascent Sunday morning, returning to Twin Falls in the late afternoon.

The mountain has had relatively few climbers at its peak, records show. It is 12,655 feet high.

Following arraignment, Thorpe was released on $2,500 bond.

Hit or Miss AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

By MURIEL SCOTT

Ben Hayward spent most of the study period in 201 yesterday simulating his babyhood by crawling on the floor. After much stumbling around he finally retrieved his fountain pen, which was rolling around under desks. Of course, the pen was helped up by a little "student power."

Harry Benoit makes this column again with his antics. It seems Harry has entirely learned his way around yet and on his way to 118 was found two stories higher, in the dame.

Many cubs and ans were heard emanating from the girls' dressing room at the high school. All were in admiration of Miss Madeline Garvin, physical education instructor, who was working on Irma Good-night's injured foot.

John McGavin admitted today that she was taking journalism not because she had some news, but so she might find some. She figures being on the "Bruit" will enable her to get all information first hand.

Mrs. Rose M. North, dean of girl, isn't very sentimental, yet she clings to an old fashioned roll top desk. It seems that many years ago she served as principal at the Bickel school and when she arrived to assume duties at the high school about a year and a half ago the discarded desk was placed in her office. Identity of the desk was discovered when Ollie Taylor and R. V. Jones were moving the piece of furniture. After Mrs. North remarked on its condition Mr. Taylor said, "Well, you made good at this desk once and I guess you can do it again."

Australia Backs Britain in Crisis

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 15 (Special)—Australia expressed solidarity with Great Britain in the international situation after a cabinet meeting today.

Premier Joseph A. Lyons told the press "Britain has been advised that the commonwealth is in the most complete accord with the British measures taken to 'achieve a settlement of the Sudeten problem.'"

LOCAL PLANE TO UNDERGO REPAIRS

Plans had been completed here this afternoon for removal of a Waco "A" biplane from the local airfield to the shops of the aviation department of Idaho Southern university at Pocatello where the ship will undergo repairs.

The plane, owned by Bob Olin, youthful Kimberly farmer-pilot, is powered with a 170-horsepower Jacobs motor and was being used by young Olin for private flying.

The ship was damaged during the summer when a sudden gust of wind, following a rain storm, threw the plane over on its back. It was standing on the local field at the time of the mishap.

After the Waco was damaged, Guy Olin, father of Bob, purchased a low-wing Kinner plane which the youth is now using and in which the elder Olin is being taught to fly by Lionel A. Dean, local commercial flier.

It is estimated that motor transportation gave employment—either directly or indirectly—to 6,037,000 persons in 1937.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

(Evening Times Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Amateur referees who take it upon themselves to decide such matters as...

...the reputation of Secretary Harold L. Ickes as a name-caller has suffered severely in competition with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.

For a brief period they awarded "Foster Harrod" a few points for sheer nerve in challenging that old master of vituperation and invective...

...and the more enthusiastic partisans of the PWA interior department were even willing to bet that their hero would crash through with epithets to make the Virginia House-basher scream.

But now Ickes' over-zealous credit-for-bravery because he feels the ever did call the senator a "political hypocrite." A report that those two words were the ones he had applied to Glass was what started it all.

GLASS BITS TRIPLE

So the scoreboard finally credits Glass with a "confident black guard," one "wanton falsehood" and one "mean and impertinent," all plastered on Harrod.

At the conference at which so much was expected of him, is on record only with such mild comment as assertions that he was reported to have outperformed his wit, and that Glass had "one of his unceremonious fits of rage."

Anyone who knows Ickes is inclined to suspect his manner and occasional choice, one P. Roosevelt, told him to take it easy.

His senator, Ickes, was reported to have said in the version seen by Glass, "comes offener and with more insistence for PWA grants than this same Senator Glass."

No official version seems to exist. Ickes admits he referred to men in congress who voted against the bill and then tried to get all the money they could out of relief administrators.

But he gives no clear indication of what he said to the speaker, so although the secretary's rosters declare no dice on the ground that Glass picked up an imaginary bar and ran down the glasses which were piled high.

There has been no talk of a pull at the senator's laurels.

NOT ALL MEETS THE EYE

...necessary to penalize Senator Glass several yards if Ickes were to prove Glass really had persistently persisted in his ever said any such thing.

Washington you can't run up a very high score by calling a man a liar if he proves he isn't. But Ickes has been ever said any such thing naturally isn't trying to prove Glass has been bawling for PWA funds all these years. The inference is that there isn't any such proof.

Somebody has been getting a lot of PWA money for Virginia. If it isn't Glass—and he denies any request, insistent demands—it must be someone else. Possibly Senator Harry Byrd, who hates the New Deal as best as such as Glass does.

Virginia likes it. Received $111,000,000 of PWA allotments—$100,000,000 grants—up to Aug. 1. Compared with the two states of most comparable population, Oklahoma received $61,135,480 in allotments and Kentucky only $48,013,453. These are official PWA figures.

When you read the Kentucky and Oklahoma were two states where the New Deal was trying hard to renominates New Deal senators—Barkley and Thomas—both of whom New Deal is as sour on Glass and Byrd as they are on Ickes, you can't help feel that there's something here which doesn't quite make the eye.

There was no beating about the bush with Linda. "What's this about, Cole?" she asked, the instant she greeted Bruce Radford on the hotel's mezzanine.

POT SHOTS WITH The Gentleman in the Third Row

They're Doing a Fine Job

Although it may have been read only casually, there was a significant item in the Twin Falls newspapers recently. It was to the effect that the Junior Chamber of Commerce had just made another payment of $1,500 on the 20-acre addition to Harmon park, which the organization is buying for the purpose of increasing the city's recreational facilities.

Previously the Junior Chamber had made an initial payment of $1,000 and now only $950 remains due. Offhand these amounts may seem small, but anyone familiar with Chamber of Commerce work will immediately recognize this as an easy matter to raise that much money.

That reflects to the credit of the Junior Chamber because the membership has worked hard on several difficult undertakings to make these payments possible, and the money has been raised with a minimum of what sometimes is described as "panhandling."

In the development of Harmon park, the Junior Chamber has taken the leading role. It is responsible for one of the largest and finest swimming pools in the state.

Now with the 20-acre addition to the park, the Junior Chamber proposes further developments, including a baseball diamond, softball fields, an amphitheater, picnic grounds, tennis courts and facilities for a long list of kindred activities.

Imagine what all this will mean to Twin Falls when it is completed! Bear this in mind the next time the Junior Chamber of Commerce asks you for reasonable assistance. These young men have demonstrated by their accomplishments that they are deserving of lots of support.

And a little encouragement now and then will do no harm, for Twin Falls needs progressive activity of this kind.

Exiles Adrift

These being 6000 times in the field of international oratory, a man becomes accustomed to finding the affairs of the world being explained to him almost exclusively in extravagant figures of speech. But a steady diet of language as full of symbolism as a political cartoon tends in the long run to rob the situations under discussion of much of their reality.

A recent news story describes in literal terms the situation a certain group of exiled Jews find themselves in. They are living on a barge moored in the Danube.

They journeyed down the Danube without any certain notion of where they might find a refuge that was secure. The barge is now moored in an arm of the Danube that lies in Hungary. And Hungary has just announced that the Jews can no longer stay there.

Friends in a nearby Czechoslovakian town are attempting to get the government to admit them, but they have already failed once. And Hungary is preparing to cut the mooring cables and set the barge and its human burden adrift.

It would be hard to imagine any figurative language with the power to suggest the tragedy of the European Jew today more vividly than this bare report of homeless men and women trapped on a barge.

Boysish Notions

The things planes do in the National Air Races enable the men in the aircraft industry to take a few new measurements of aviation progress with a degree of accuracy. The average man reads stories of the show and takes measurements largely with his emotions. If something in the news from the recent races at Cleveland gave you a feeling of the world having suddenly shot ahead a generation or so, and you can't remember what it was, maybe it was a casual interview with Mrs. Rudy Kling.

Mrs. Kling is the widow of the flyer who won the Thompson Trophy in 1937. She runs a garage business in Lemont, Ill., and she has a son, Robert. "Robert," Mrs. Kling remarked to a reporter, "wants to be a farmer now. But he is only 11. I will get him out of that notion. The Kings will be winning trophies again. You'll see."

Who can remember the old days when mother's quaint concern was to ease little Johnny out of the crazy notion that he was going to leave the farm and become an aviator?

That whooosh you may have heard was the sound of time passing.

Man in Paris bit a dog the other day and was whisked off to a mental institution. That's a handy trick to have around when the garden variety drives you crazy.

VERSE TO THE SKI

I think that I shall never see a stick as tricky as a ski; Steer the s— thing as I will, it's no easier 'til I'm on. Then, the whole warning we are gone.

Down, down we run, I'm filled with glee; My gosh, I'm sunk—here comes a tree! It's got me telemarked: I'm back for more. My well-waxed ski stand by the side of the road; Only God can make a tree, But who in h— first made a ski!

Well, you got a FREE Dear Pot Shots. ANXWAK? Something really ought to be done about local police officers Bond and Bracken—they're officers here. The other night I accidentally left all my keys in the back end of the squad car after talking to the officers.

I discovered the loss about two hours later and asked the boys to bring them back. They came but they said they had not found the keys—must have left them somewhere else, they said.

So, rather than give them the satisfaction of asking for the keys, I asked them to drive me home, which they did. I got out of the car and they left me in the front court and got the landlady and another roomer out of bed before they called me to the car and handed me the keys.

I think of getting the landlady out of bed at such an hour, she was nice about it but I bet she would have liked to throw me off the front porch.

Wouldn't it be too bad if the next time those two officers had coffee, they found something in it beside the sugar and cream, if you know what I mean.

HECTOR, DIG OUT OUR TRAP! DEAREST POT SHOTS: There's no peat like an old peat—so here's another one of my very "famous-it" poems.

Her loved I, I'm as come—Curse to it, it's cool world, How can it be? —Don Herardo

SOLUTION FOR THAT WAR CRISIS! Pot Shots: My right Abigail says that if somebody would place Hitler's rifle-tackle off, it would reveal the truth, upper lip, and he'd go into hiding for shame, and all these armira could do when there isn't a crisis.

TRAVEL NOTE: Pot Shots got a card from a young man who alerted out for Eugene, Ore., to attend the University of Oregon.

YOU CAN ALWAYS SAY: "AW, IT'S OUT OF DATE!"

FAMOUS LAST LINE: ...and she was there, that straw hat away!"

FARMERS REPORT HIGH BEAN YIELD

Yield of white beans in this area is generally excellent, according to survey of results shown in bean threshing operations at a dozen ranches scattered in the Twin Falls territory.

Although many ranchers are expected to report higher yields, a number of those who had completed threshing today indicated that they secured crops of about 42 to 45 bushels per acre. Good yield is regarded as about 40, and average around 38 to 45.

Threshing is underway throughout the bean region of south central Idaho.

MURTAUGH LAKE GETS BULLHEADS

Two hundred bullheads today were "getting acquainted" with their new home in Murtaugh lake after the fish were blanded there Tuesday night by a group of sportsmen and members of the B Club of Sportsmen, a local organization.

The fish were caught with hook and line by a group of club members who visited the Maid river, in the vicinity of the sinks near Wendell, last Sunday. The fish since that time had been kept at the state fish hatchery here. A loss of only five per cent was reported before the fish were placed in their new home.

Reason for the planting, according to those in charge, was that introduction of the bullheads into the Murtaugh lake will tend to rid the lake of carp which now abound there. The bullheads, it is explained, eat the carp eggs, at the same time protecting their own from invasion.

Fires Attributed To Carelessness

BURLEY, Sept. 15 (Special)—Before it was brought under control, a fire Sunday at the end of Rock creek road burned 50 acres of grass, juniper, and sagebrush. The fire was evidently started by a cigarette thrown by a fisherman of camper and camp very rapidly remarked C. E. Price, forest service supervisor.

Another fire Saturday was started in the same manner, on Dry gulch south of Kimberly about 40 miles, probably by careless berry pickers, and before it could be controlled, it had burned over about 40 acres of grass and sagebrush.

The last three fires here have been started by careless berry pickers, fishermen or campers. Because at this time of the year the June grass is exceptionally inflammable, the forest service officials urge everyone to be very cautious to keep from starting fires.

The United States immigration committee reported as long ago as 1907 that the lack of skill of immigrants encouraged the development of the machine in America.

Verse-Speaking Chorus Will Offer Old English Ballads

Keeping step with larger high schools and colleges in the country in speech work advancement, Miss Florence M. Rees will present a verse-speaking club at next performance of "Robin Hood," all school play scheduled for October.

The chorus speech work will be presented in the prologue of the three act drama with 40 members from the speech department, participating with solo ballad singer and two or three part work in the legendary ballad of "Old English."

First in City
The appearance of this group with the play will mark the first public appearance in Twin Falls of a verse-speaking chorus.

Many individuals and groups have inquired from Miss Rees and the colleges the meaning of "choric verse." Great interest in this educational art is being shown by teachers from 29 states and three provinces in Canada including the local dramatic instructor registered for courses this summer at the University of California under the direction of Miss Helen Hicks of New York.

Work in choric reading has been conducted in some colleges abroad during the past three years and while it is practically unknown in the United States has been received and promises to spread rapidly. Choric verse speaking as an organized vocal activity dates from early Greek times about 500 years before Christ. In Europe during the middle ages verse refrain was also a part of the mode of living and was recited at banquets of rich and poor.

Nearly Disappeared
As a social and educational art, however, choric speaking almost disappeared until a revival just after the World War swept across England and Germany.

Its purpose is one of the finest conceived by educators. Many people, who are denied adequate speech expression are given the opportunity to participate. Anyone not tone deaf or dumb may have a chance through this revival for satisfying enjoyable vocal self expression and at the same time make very valuable educational and social contributions.

The work compares with a singing choir as it develops team spirit in the need for a united product.

CHAMBERLAIN-HITLER

MEET MAY CHANGE WORLD HISTORY

FOUR OUTCOMES LOOM POSSIBLE AT CONFERENCE

By WEISS MILLER
Copyright, 1938, United Press

BERGHOEFEN, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP)—The head of the British government came to these Bavarian hills today and joined the face-to-face talks which may change the course of world history.

In a sense, peace or war lay in the hands of Neville Chamberlain, Adolf Hitler.

Chamberlain's party arrived by train from Munich, after a 600-mile flight from London, at 4:10 p. m. (9:10 a. m. CST).

He brought the ultimate Britain and France has to offer to satisfy Germany's demands for the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia.

He sought in return an unequivocal statement of the minimum concessions which Hitler will accept, and a clear outline of his future aims.

The conference may have one of several outcomes:

1. Hitler and Chamberlain may agree on a program. If Czechoslovakia accepts it, the crisis is over, at least for the time being.
2. If Czechoslovakia refuses to accept any program which may be decided on, the crisis is worse than before, and the threat of armed intervention by Germany, with resultant war, is renewed.
3. If Hitler and Chamberlain fail to agree, the same thing holds true.
4. If things go well, there may be a four-power conference of Britain, France, Germany and Italy to seek a general agreement in Europe designed to prevent peace.

TESTS COMPLETE FOR FLUSH LINE

Final tests of the recently completed flush line, running from the filter plant two miles south of the city to Rock creek, today were termed successful by L. G. Satterlee, plant superintendent.

During the tests, he pointed out, 7,000 gallons of water were forced through the pipe at one time and the extreme load being carried without trouble.

When the old flush line was in use it took nearly three and one-half hours to drain one of the half million settling tanks while with the new line this will be possible in slightly over one and one-half hours. The line is also used to permit removal of water used in cleaning filters and tanks. The new line has only two bends against several for the old line in addition to an uphill climb shortly after it left the plant. The work was done through a WPA project.

Octogenarians Give Recipe for Happiness

Marry while you're young, protect your health and acquire a lot of friends if you would lead a happy life, is the formula for success, according to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morgan, who are looking forward with keen anticipation to a delightful family gathering this evening at their home, 260 Fourth avenue east. Today is the 63rd anniversary of their marriage Sept. 15, 1875, in Logan, O.

Mr. Morgan, whose bright eyes and bearded face give him the appearance of a kindly patriarch, is 84 years young, and Mrs. Morgan, who can best be described by the adjectives "spry," is 81 years young. Their interest in contemporary life, their optimism and their utter friendliness are notable characteristics of their personalities.

Discuss "Then and Now" At their comfortable home last evening they chatted amiably of life in 1875 compared with the days when they were a bride and bridegroom.

"In those days, if you had enough to start housekeeping, you got married and settled down. Nowadays, young people seem to think they must have a place big enough to provide week-end accommodations for the gang before they can get married," Mrs. Morgan smiled understandingly.

"We seem to have done all right, getting married as young as we did," Mr. Morgan commented. "And wedding trips. Everybody must have a honeymoon. I like traveling myself, but if most couples had waited until they could have afforded a journey in our days..."

"She then told of marriage customs which are strange to this day and age. For example, she mentioned the "miser dinner," which was to be followed by the wedding dinner. In their section of Ohio, at least, the bride and groom were to have a dinner following the wedding, was just as important an adjunct of the nuptials as the wedding dinner or reception.

Mr. Morgan's sister arranged this for them, and about 35 friends attended. Her parents were hosts at the wedding dinner. The social activities over the couple went to housekeeping.

Mrs. Morgan described her wedding gown, and it must have been a lovely garment, fashioned of gray silk wool material—the name of which she has forgotten—she told of the all-day wedding breakfast, which was followed by a play and a dance. The bride wore a long, flowing gown, and the groom wore a tuxedo. The wedding was held in a small church, and the ceremony was performed by a minister. The bride and groom were surrounded by family and friends, and the occasion was a joyous one.

"I wish I had saved my wedding dress. Judging from the way styles are going backward, my gown might be going to the top of the fashion world for some time to come. I don't see why my mother didn't let me save it for some day. I can remember how you looked in it, and I'll have to admit you certainly suited me," was Mr. Morgan's gallant remark.

His attention strayed to the handsome mantle clock—gift from the Wedding club to Mr. and Mrs. Morgan when they observed their golden wedding anniversary. They were living on Kimberly road at that time, and the members of the Kimberly Methodist church assisted in arranging the celebration.

"Mind if I turn on the radio? Kind of want to keep up with the war situation and the primaries," said Mr. Morgan, indicating that the time of reminiscence was over.

Mrs. Morgan plumped up a pillow. She is an energetic housekeeper. She is also nimble with the needle, and has made 16 quilts in the past two years.

Relatives Plan Party Members of their family will assemble this evening at the Morgan home for several pleasant social hours, followed by reception. Assisting in the celebration will be Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Morgan, son and daughter-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crabtree and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Alexander, sons-in-law and daughters of the couple.

Grandchildren and their families, also guests, will include Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Morgan and twin daughters, son and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Jr. of Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hack and daughter, Mabel Louise, of Pile.

GIRLS MAY TAKE GOODING COLLEGE

Because of the "extremely favorable outlook that a girls' unit will be established at the new closed Gooding college, L. W. Folsom, N.Y.A. field representative, this afternoon urged interested girls who can meet N.Y.A. requirements to register immediately at local headquarters located in the county office building opposite the American Legion hall.

Should the new N.Y.A. unit be established at Gooding college, vocational training and allied subjects will be offered to those who are accepted from the low income groups, Folsom pointed out.

Too many at Weiser It was pointed out that at the present time there are more girls registered to attend the Weiser school than it is possible to care for. From 12 to 15 girls will be admitted from this section for the term starting Sept. 19 at the Weiser school while more than 30 have registered.

For this reason, Folsom said, it is believed that there is every chance, providing enough registrations are made among girls are received, that the Gooding school will be opened to them.

The Gooding school will be established providing a sufficient number of girls show interest in attending. Register at Once "For this reason it is important that all interested girls who can qualify under the N.Y.A. register immediately. Such registrations will be accepted at my office, located in the county office building at 260 Second street east."

Folsom also announced that the bus which will take students from this section to the Weiser school will leave Rupert next Sunday at 7:30 a. m. and will make stops at Burley at 1:15 p. m., Twin Falls at 2:30 a. m., Bluff at 10:15 a. m. and Bliss at 12:30 p. m. The bus will carry both boys and girls.

IS LITTLE WILLE RIGHT OR WRONG?

Answer: Wrong. Tadpoles do not drop their tails, but absorb them. Herring have scales that are known as "delicious" because of the ease with which they rub off when the fish is handled.
