CITY PURCHASES 440 ACRES FOR AIRPORT'S SITE

Action this afternoon representing a step forward for Twin Falls and aviation took place at the courthouse here when at 2 p. m. Mayor Loren A. Chapin, representing the city, formally purchased 440 acres of state school land for use and development as an airport.

The land, which up until the purchase this afternoon was leased by the city from the state, is located on the Salmon tract and has been used as an airport site for some time past. The price $4,400.

Purchase of the land, long advocated by the Chamber of Commerce, was done on Chapin's bid, on behalf of the city, of $4,400, being the minimum of $10 an acre which is accepted for school land. Funds to purchase the land were provided at the start of the city fiscal year as the council approved a two mill levy for airport purposes. The Chamber of Commerce has about $1,800, which remains from revenue produced by the levy will be used for development.

Action to purchase the land, and its actual purchase, paved the way for development of the area. Before the city owned the land, merely holding it under a year-to-year lease, improvement was not possible because of the chance the area might be sold to someone else at anytime.

Project.

Although no official action has been taken, it is possible that the city, in cooperation with local business interests, will sponsor some sort of a government project whereby the field will be marked off, runways constructed and other general improvements completed. Officials of United Airlines, have pledged themselves to start flag stop air-mail, express and passenger service here as soon as the field is safe for large ships. Later, the officials said, regular service would be inaugurated.

A. Dean, member, Chamber of Commerce and director of the Chamber of Commerce and also president of the Idaho Pilots' association, represented both groups at the purchase.

Politics? Why, the Idea!

(AN EDITORIAL)

Those whose memories are good will recall that on June 14, the state board of examiners—composed of Gov. Marshall W. Clark, Attorney General A. W. Taylor and Secretary of State Ira H. Masters—ordered an "independent" appraisal of the Twin Falls-Jerome intercounty bridge.

This climactic surprise brought an abrupt halt to negotiations through which the state had already entered into a contract for the lease and subsequent purchase of the bridge for the purpose of removing the toll barrier which stands in the way of south central Idaho's development.

It will be recalled, too, that the board's resolution ordering the "independent" appraisal requested that it be completed "at the earliest possible time in order that the board may be in position to take such further action as may be required in connection with the possible purchase of the bridge."

Following the board's action, the Idaho Evening Times charged editorially that the state officials involved in the bridge negotiations were "playing politics." The editorial pointed out specifically the numerous reasons why it was obvious the issue had been dragged into politics, and predicted "there is little likelihood that anything will come of the 'independent' appraisal."

Several of these state officials took caustic exception to these intemperate, and by portraying themselves as the very embodiment of sincerity and righteousness, were successful in gathering some sympathy and support.

Of course they were motivated only by a conscientious desire to protect the taxpayers of Idaho! There couldn't be any ulterior motive. No one could reasonably object to an independent appraisal. And "independent" appraisal would undoubtedly save the people from an out-and-out steal!

But now, after all the sham and political verbiage, the flimsy excuses, broken promises and four months of unexplainable delay, we would again like to ask the question:

What has become of that "independent" appraisal? And if it was so all-important to the taxpayers of Idaho, why have these state officials lost interest now that the primary question is over?

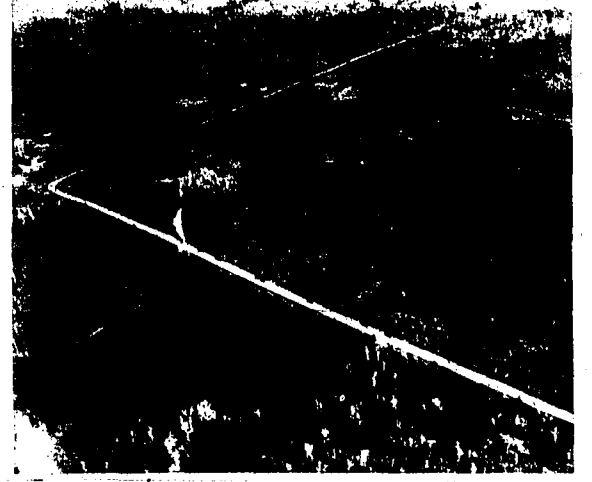

So that the people of south central Idaho may have a complete picture of all this political horseplay, a chronology of all developments in the bridge controversy since the board's action June 14 is published elsewhere in today's issue of the Evening Times. It will our readers find this chronology intensely interesting, but highly amusing as well.

There is every reason, in view of these circumstances, why the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce should feel and demand that the state board of examiners take a fair and impartial appraisal without delay. And in the meantime, those who were led to believe that the price asked for the bridge was too high, will be wondering just why the state board of examiners failed to produce the appraisal.

With the exception of one member, the board doesn't even seem concerned over the latest and most surprising development of all—the report that the federal roads bureau doesn't even plan to finish its assignment of appraising the bridge "because the issue has become involved in politics."

That one exception is Attorney General Taylor. For him, at least, all this is apparently too much to stomach. What he expects to do and what he will do remains to be seen.

British Demand No Superior Air Force in Europe

(By United Press)

Europe's path to peace grew more difficult today as obstacles to arms limitation appeared.

Great Britain and Germany were the two countries that seemed most likely to engage in an armaments race, with other powers joining in the limit of their resources.

In Berlin, inspired news statements emphasized the intention of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler to keep abreast if not ahead of other nations in military development. The German newspapers, denouncing the dangers of vast British armaments, were suspected of attempting to prepare for Germany to seek an agreement which would give the reich a big edge in aerial arms just as the German-British naval treaty gives London a three-to-one advantage at sea.

But from London came indications that Britain would agree to no limitation plan that would permit any continental power to have an air force superior to its own. The result seemed likely to intensify the arms race.

Other Trouble Centers

Nor were other trouble centers quiet. Signs of queuing down in the Balkans, as a result of the Munich accord dismembering Czechoslovakia, Hungary broke off negotiations for peaceful settlement, and the British government announced military preparations for defense of the state and advised the four powers that it was not expected a "very early" decision in favor under the terms of the Munich accord. The government said Hungary reserved the right to take whatever measures are necessary in the event. Public demonstrators in Budapest shouted that the necessary measures were military.

Stabilizing Factor

The stabilizing factor in the Czech-Hungarian controversy was the fact that Germany had no claims against the Czechs, and military preparations for defense of the state and advised the four powers that it was not expected a "very early" decision in favor under the terms of the Munich accord. The government said Hungary reserved the right to take whatever measures are necessary in the event. Public demonstrators in Budapest shouted that the necessary measures were military.

Mrs. Harvey, who according to Bull police was shot by her husband who then turned the 38-pound bullet through her head, was described by the attending physician this afternoon as being in an unchanged condition. She is unconscious.

BOMBS SET CITY IN CHINA AFIRE

By HAROLD GUARD

HONK KONG, Oct. 14 (UP)—The city of Washong, 20 miles east of Canton, was reported in flames tonight after an all day bombing by Japanese airplanes, with a total of 1,000 casualties in killed or wounded.

Three Japanese troop columns were marching on the city from the coast, and a battle was expected there, which means heavy fighting in the new Japanese drive on Canton.

Chinese government officials were reported to be preparing to move their Canton headquarters to Yung-yuen, 25 miles north of Canton. As the Japanese moved cautiously inland, they are sending a path for the infantry.

Order Evacuation

Canton authorities ordered 400,000 noncombatants to evacuate the city at night, and to avoid air raids, or an outbreak of disease during an expected siege.

Usually reliable informants said that the foreign consular corps had demanded of the Japanese consuls that safety zones be prescribed at Canton for foreigners.

Chinese reported that Japanese troops this morning occupied the town of Tamsui, 10 miles inland from Hsing-hay, 20 miles from Canton. (Continued on Page 2, column 4)

Chamber Lashes At Bridge Delay; Demands Speed

(Complete chronology of the bridge issue since the first appraisal move will be found on page 6 today.)

The Twin Falls-Jerome intercounty bridge issue stood branded energetically today by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce as "a political football."

The chamber demanded "immediate action" on the proposal for state purchase to remove the bridge toll.

In a straightforward letter written by President J. A. Cederquist, the C. of C. charged that the so-called "independent appraisal" requested by the state board of examiners has been particularly kind on pillars to be state officials, and it warned those officials accordingly.

"You may be assured that we do not expect to accept this development as final."

The letter—sent to Gov. Barzilla Clark, Secretary of State Ira H. Taylor, Attorney General J. W. Stemmer and Public Works Commissioner Alan C. Merritt—charged bluntly:

"Developments have been such that the people have lost confidence in the good faith of those state officials who have played a part in relinquishing to bring about removal of the bridge toll."

The message climaxed a protest carried personally to Boise several weeks ago by a delegation of Twin Falls citizens, and other state officials, who have dropped the "independent" appraisal.

The C. of C. letter said the Twin Falls-Jerome intercounty bridge has become a vital matter to the people of Idaho, and because of the many consistent statements, excuses and promises made by members of the board of examiners and other state officials, we have come to the conclusion that the bridge toll is being maintained.

GOVERNOR FINDS RELIEF "BETTER"

"I find that the financial picture is showing up better than I had expected," he said.

The governor had reported that 10 counties faced a "bad situation" because of near exhaustion of their relief budgets.

The subject was made a point for discussion for a special session of the legislature.

FDR Sees Need of U. S. Defense Survey

By LYLE C. WELSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (UP)—President Roosevelt revealed today that foreign developments have inspired a study of the United States' national defense needs. He indicated budget estimates to strengthen the military program will be considered in the next session of Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt offered no specific estimate of the probable cost of the expanded defense program. However, he emphasized the study was being made on the broadest possible basis as a result of information reaching the government from abroad.

Mass Production

The President indicated that the study concentrating on problems of standardization and mass production of strategic weapons, such as airplanes.

The study would set the national defense situation requires thorough study and indicated that until this survey has been completed he will not make any public statement on the budget for the next fiscal year.

The chief executive revealed that the study was launched a year ago on the basis of recent information coming into this country. He said the study was launched a year ago and received only in the past month.

WIENNA CHURCHES STONED BY NAZIS

By ROBERT H. BEST

VIENNA, Oct. 14 (UP)—Several churches and convents in different parts of Vienna were stoned during the night by unknown persons. It was disclosed today. Damage was reported slight because of protective glass posted outside all church buildings.

Dr. Paul John Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, arrived today. It was rumored, but not confirmed, that he came to carry out instructions from Adolf Hitler to make a thorough check of public opinion in the tense-church question.

Expulsion from Vienna of all Jews of Czechoslovak nationality was announced some quarters as the Nazis began a campaign of reprisal against the Roman Catholic church as the result of recent disorders.

Joseph Buerckel, Nazi leader for Austria, had announced in a speech last night a four-point reprisal program: (1) to postpone an amnesty of Catholics, not Nazis, were responsible for disorders which culminated in the storming of the archiepiscopal palace by Nazi mobs.

Program Points

The points in the program were: (1) to expel from Vienna Czechs and Jews; (2) to postpone an amnesty of political offenders which, Buerckel said, was planned to signalize the cessation of Czechoslovak subsidies to Germany; (3) to refuse to consider the release of Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, last chancellor of independent Austria, who has been held in custody to secret police since the absorption of Austria in March.

One of the reprisals planned was to close seminars for training of priests.

Demand Hanging

After Buerckel's speech last night, the police arrested a number of Catholics. Nazis paraded past the palace of Cardinal Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna.

SOLON PREDICTS 2-PRICE SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (UP)—Sen. Wheeler, D. Mont., predicted today that congress would pass farm legislation at its next session based on a two-price system for crops. One price for domestic use and one for abroad.

Charging that the new farm program was a failure, he predicted when the bill was passed, he would demand that the farmers in his state were in revolt against the government, and that the government was being told what to do.

"The stabilization has brought about a price failure," he said, "and the present bill would solve their problems," he said, "and the farmers were against anybody who doubted its workability."

"Today, from one end of the country to the other the farmer recognizes it is a failure and are looking for a way to get the law price-fixing in legislation which supply farmers' needs, the farmers cannot be left on a competitive basis."

CLARK REMAINS SILENT ON TAYLOR RETRACTION DEMAND

IDAHO HEAD HAS NO COMMENT TO MAKE ON BLAST

BOISE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Governor Barilla Clark remained silent today concerning a demand by Attorney General J. W. Taylor that he retract a statement in which he accused Taylor of influencing acceptance of bids for lot purchases of tobacco and candy for penitentiaries.

Taylor, traveling the state in his campaign for reelection, said that he would insist on a retraction "or take appropriate steps." Clark said he would "wait until the attorney-general stopped off in Boise" before saying anything.

The statement caused excitement in Capitol circles. It was learned today that a member of Taylor's staff had written to O. Meredith and the tobacco merchant involved in the controversy had called at the governor's home to discuss the matter and had asked that it be publicly "cleared up."

"Scrapping Good"

Only comment the governor had was, "that man Meredith is some talker when he gets wound up."

Later, the governor remarked that "scrapping back and forth was good for the party."

Wherever on the political front, James W. Keating, Republican candidate for secretary of state, said "farmers of Idaho are in the mood to vote Republican. They feel," he said, "that the present Democratic regime is too promising and not enough performing."

O. A. Botelho, Republican candidate for governor, warning to open his Ada county campaign at Meridian tomorrow night, asked if "the people of Idaho want clean, honest government." He said the public should think of the "ruthless manner" in which state funds "have been used for personal and political gain."

Signed Statement

Frank Burroughs, editor of the "Idaho Pioneer," printed a sworn statement by a "worker on highway projects" who said he was ordered to contribute $2 to the Democratic campaign for "Mr. Taylor's job." The worker named names and said 26 other men on the same job were similarly approached, that all "put up."

At Bonners Ferry, Attorney-General Taylor and State Treasurer Myrtle Eakin, both seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket, said they were not distressed, mentioned relief during the last northern Idaho floods. Taylor said "the government of the Democrats in 1938 would be to put business and government on a common footing."

Calvin Wright, Democratic candidate for state auditor, said that Democrat-sponsored retraction trade agreements were open to larger foreign markets. "The farm program," he said, "aims to build up reserves for use in this country and reduce need for imports."

The cardinal had listened by radio to Burckel's lower altar speech. It was understood that afterward he went to a small chapel in his palace and remained in prayer while the angry shouts of the Nazis in the square outside echoed through the building.

Burckel spoke with unusual freedom in discussing the Nazi viewpoint of its relations with Catholic church in a country in which 90 per cent of the people are classified as Catholics.

Negotiations Over
Further relations between the church and the Nazi party, he said, should be governed by the principle of religious matters were the affair of each individual.

HEART FAILURE KILLS RANCHER

RUPERT, Oct. 14 (Special)—George Young, 50, well-known Rappers farmer, found dead in bed yesterday morning at 8:30 a. m. after a sudden attack, examination by a physician revealed.

When he failed to appear for breakfast his sister, Mrs. Ruth Young, went to his room to call him, and found that he had died sometime after 6:30 p. m. the night before, when he retired.

He had been in apparently good health until about a week ago, when he complained of "feeling well," but had not consulted a doctor, according to his sister.

The body rests at the Goodman mortuary. Burial arrangements. Services will probably be held Sunday.

BENEFICIAL?

If a branch office for exterminating rats would be beneficial to Twin Falls, a Los Angeles company was ready today to set up an office here.

That's the information received by the Chamber of Commerce in a telegram from the Atlas Termite Service, Los Angeles. The chamber couldn't say whether or not the Termite concern had heard about the white rats in Rock creek canyon, but the wire emphasized that the firm's methods for eradicating rats has been "very successful" in the Los Angeles area.

The wire also said: "We wish to know if a branch office would be beneficial to your city."

Chamber Secretary Eugene E. Clark replied that he'd have to delve into the benefit angle before replying.

NOTABLES BIDDEN TO 'EXPLORATION'

If invitations to "notables mean anything, which they do not doubt must, then the first annual exploration of the City of Rocks, near Oakley next Monday, will see a collection of famous people as has never before been seen within the borders of the state.

The trek to the City of Rocks will start from Oakley at 1 p. m. and a banquet at Oakley will end the exploration that evening. Among guests will be Gov. Barzilla W. Clark and Cong. D. Worth Clark.

Impressive List
But it is the list of invitations which Gov. Clark sent out which impresses the observer. There were 720 of them altogether. They went to President Roosevelt, all the governors, all 96 United States senators, all 432 U. S. representatives, the three governors of the territories, members of the United States supreme court, all members of the President's cabinet, officers of the National Geographic society and the leading newsreel companies.

All were invited to the exploration and were also offered honorary memberships in the advisory council advocating establishment of a national monument at the rock city.

Seek Students
This afternoon Charles Brown, president of the Oakley Valley Chamber of Commerce and publisher of the Oakley Herald, announced efforts would be made to enable entire student bodies of the various schools in this section to attend to Idaho residents as well as the residents of adjoining states and the nation.

A-Hunting Husbands Go—and Expert Housewives Tell Own Game Recipes

By JEAN DINKELACKER

"There is something a hunter sets the gypsy blood astir: We must rise and follow her. When from every hill of flame She calls, and calls each vagabond by name."

October speaks, the setter barks, and "A-hunting we will go" is the answering call throughout Idaho, where not only the deer and the antelope roam, but where the pheasant and duck are most numerous.

First it was deer and elk, and Saturday it will be pheasants, and then it will be ducks.

And what Missus calls Mister is not necessarily "Hubby" or "Dear" or "Bill" when she thinks of all that cleaning and picking and cutting of birds that await her during the pheasant and duck season, but there's always a way out, the wily number of southern Idaho has found.

Flatter the Wife!

Nothing quite like inviting those out-of-state hunters to dine, and incidentally to perform "cooking" didoes over the very, very excellently cooked birds.

For the benefit of all those summer brides, who have found that the proficiencies of wifehood do not end with the mastery of a steak and a pan of biscuits, nor of learning the pickling processes of hubby's in-vincible Swedish dills, and for the newcomers to this section who may find variations for the preparation of numerous game a welcome supplement to their recipes, a number of Twin Falls women were queried on the subject.

Mrs. Max Buckentin, who is regarded as an expert on the preparation of game, states that upon the age of the bird depends the method of cooking.

For the Patriarch

If Max aims for a young bird, and brings down an old one instead, the patriarchal pheasant's destiny is a female or a plain chicken pie. Her favorite way of serving the young, tender ones is, of course, frying them.

A culinary triumph for Mrs. Buckentin, however, is her stuffed duck de luxe, a meal all in itself.

She stuffs the ducks with salted and peppered raw diced potatoes to which she adds a strip of ground onion for each fowl. The ducks are then served individually, one to a person.

"When my family becomes tired of too many fried pheasants, along about the middle of the season, I whet their appetites with a pheasant, 'Shepherd's Pie,' said Mrs. S. A. Foster, who recently came here from a section of the state reputed to have more pheasants than even Twin Falls and surrounding counties.

Here's Formula

The following formula is her suggestion: Separate two eggs, beat the yolks with two cups of seasoned mashed potatoes. Whip the whites until stiff and fairly dry and fold into the potato mixture. Line the bottom of a well-greased baking dish with half the mixture. Fill with chopped cooked pheasant mixed with cooked vegetables such as carrots, celery, onion, with parsley added.

Cover the meat with remaining potatoes, spreading with a spoon or from a pastry tube. Dot with butter or margarine and sprinkle generously with paprika. Bake in a hot, 400-degree oven, until potato topping is golden brown.

And when the pie is opened, the birdies sitting around the dinner table begin to sing!

Yes Only Breasts

Mrs. E. M. Sweetey has learned a most efficacious way of minimizing the cleaning of ducks. She prefers to use only the breasts of the birds, and in that way obviates the plucking and cooking of the rest of the bird.

Cutlets of duck are the preferred game dish—at the Swetley home. The breasts are dipped in egg and bread crumbs and fried like cutlets, and are as edible a feast as you could find anywhere.

With Roy Painter, who always gets his deer—except when Community Chest funds must be rounded-up—for a husband, it is small wonder that Mrs. Painter has learned all the tricks of game cooking.

Sugar Sack

To combat the dryness found in venison and elk roasts, Mrs. Painter dips a small sugar sack in melted butter, and wraps around the highly seasoned and floured roast. It keeps the moisture in during the roasting process, and enriches the gravy.

The secret of success in frying venison steaks, is the rapidity with which they are fried and turned, according to Mrs. Painter. The steaks should contain quite a bit of fat, and of course, the steaks should be served immediately on pre-heated plates.

Mrs. Belle White, whose hobby is "cooking anything a better way," believes that venison, to be its best, should be fried in half butter and half lard. She uses cayenne pepper and salt to season the venison before she rolls in flour.

She also recommends pre-roasting venison, boiling it in water, until perfectly tender, then simmering until brown.

Probably no one in Twin Falls has seen more wild game in her several years' residence here than Mrs. W. R. Priole, whose husband is an officer in the B club of sportsmen; an observer for the United States biological survey, and also prominently identified with the Idaho Wildlife association.

Sauerkraut Stuffing
An illustration to the fact that many persons prefer a stuffing of sauerkraut to dressing for ducks, and those who like sauerkraut frequently eat it as a vegetable along with the birds.

On the other hand, Mrs. Nellie Ostrom prefers a stuffing that can be tossed in the garbage can, along with the fishy, wild taste that is common to duck.

Her idea of the "duck delicious" is to stuff it with celery leaves and all, and to strip it over with bacon.

An important matter to observe in roasting ducks is to place them breast down in the roasting pan, all experts aver.

"I have eaten pheasant prepared in many ways, I learned to like it best at home, and so I conclude with my mother's own recipe for pheasant.

Delicious Pheasant
To season the shortening in which you fry the bird, fry one medium sized onion, sliced; one green pepper sliced; four or five stalks of celery, diced, and drain. Joint pheasant as you would chicken for frying, roll in flour and fry until golden brown.

Place pheasant in casserole, cover with a gravy made from the fat and enough milk to cover the bird. Cook in a slow oven until tender.

October calls, and "A-cooking you must get."

Fliers Reopen Aerial War on Pesky Coyote

Idaho's only aerial coyote hunters, Jennings Stevens and Grant Kilbourne, both Twin Falls fliers, are at it again and today, after five hours of flying yesterday, 48 of the animals credited with being the "nightmare" of sheepmen had gone to wherever coyotes go when they depart this life.

Stevens and Kilbourne were hired yesterday by H. F. Ramsayer, Joe Yrasola and Bob Priole, sheepmen near Hollister and Berger, to rid that area of the animals which had been preying on the large flocks grazing in that section.

Two trips were made from the local airport to the hunting area and during the first flight, which lasted three hours, 26 coyotes were killed as the plane swooped low to the ground and a 12 gauge automatic shotgun fired lead into the fleeing animals.

"I never saw so many coyotes in such a small area in my life," Stevens commented. The number of animals made a change in the operation necessary and, during the second two-hour flight during which 22 more coyotes were killed, the three sheepmen furnished the shells.

"There were so many coyotes that we were shooting up all our profit buying our own shells," Stevens said.

"The result was that the hunt continued with shells purchased by the sheepmen."

The two pilots, flying a Sport-Cub plane, are paid by the hour for their work. A special permit to fly the plane at the low altitudes necessary, and to maneuver close to the ground, as well as carry firearms in the air, is held by Stevens. It is the only such permit in Idaho and was granted by the U. S. bureau of aeronautics.

Last year the pair killed 253 coyotes in 187 hours of flying. This year, because they are paid by the hour, the fliers do not pick up the betis.

JURY SELECTION STARTS IN NAZI SPY RING CASE

FOUR PRISONERS FACING 20-YEAR TERMS IN JAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Selection of a jury began today for the trial of four alleged members of a Nazi spy ring which operated under direct supervision of the German secret police and navy intelligence and stole military code books, blueprints, sketches and models of United States warships and fighting airplanes.

The four prisoners, facing 20-year prison terms if convicted, were suspected only of being pawns in intrigues directed from Berlin. The highest German intelligence officers were named in the indictment and although this government never expected to reach them, they would be liable to arrest if they ever entered the United States.

Alarming Material

It was believed that President Roosevelt had the case in mind when he expressed concern over spy activities a week ago. He made the statement after a conference with United States Attorney Lamar Hardy, the prosecutor. Hardy had just returned from Europe with more evidence, supplementing that which department of justice agents had been gathering for almost a year.

Never before had department of justice agents been so secretive about their evidence in a criminal case. Some of it was believed to be of such alarming and delicate nature that it would be withheld even from court. The trial was certain, however, to reveal for the first time the story behind months of secretive grand jury appearances, trips to Germany by federal agents, flights on German ships of a dozen persons under grand jury subpoena, and the long confinement of several witnesses.

Four on Trial

The four on trial were: Red-haired Johanna Hofmann, a hairdresser on the German liner Europa, alleged messenger for German spies; Erich Gier, private at Mitchell Field, army air base, accused of having stolen an aviation code book; Guenther Hartrich, a doctor, and Otto Vox, mechanic at the Seversky-airplane factory at Farmingdale, N. Y., who allegedly stole plans for a new aircraft plant.

Fourteen others were named in the indictment, some of whom fled the country, others who had never been seen. Among them were Capt. Leut. Erich Pfeiffer of Berlin, head of the German secret service; Capt. Leut. von Knies of Berlin, head of the German navy intelligence, and others of almost equal prominence.

150 Jury Panel

The trial was before Federal Judge John C. Knox. A jury panel of 150 was summoned. The government had 40 witnesses and a volume of records and depositions, including an 18,000-word statement given to two of Hardy's assistants on their trip to Germany by Dr. Heinz T. Griebel, who fled from New York on a German ship while under bond as a witness.

Griebel, former head of the Nazi Friends of the New Germany in the United States, was said to have given G-men the full story of the plot before he fled. His willingness to talk had won his release on bond. He left his wife, Maria Griebel, here, and she was placed under $5,000 bond, reportedly as a hostage. She was released Sept. 28, after Griebel had made his deposition in Germany, and immediately left the country.

Event Features Child Training

Particularly delightful as well as practical was the program, centering on the "School Day" theme, which was presented yesterday at the Idaho Power company by the Women's Council of the Christian church. More than 60 women enjoyed the demonstration on the training, feeding, and clothing of school children. Music and readings were also given.

Miss Elsie Johnson, formerly head of a nurses' training school in Chicago, discussed "Child Training." Mrs. Amy Villa, Idaho Power company economist, spoke on school lunches. Mrs. Martha Turner, of the Idaho Department store, directed a novel children's fashion review, featuring school clothes.

Members of the Junior high school mixed choir, directed by Harry B. Smith, singing a cappella, presented "Love's Old Sweet Song" and a Negro spiritual, "Go Down, Moses."

Mrs. Hancock concluded with a reading, "It Takes a Heap O' Lovin'." by Edgar Guest. Mrs. E. W. Black, first vice president, presided. It was decided to sell Christmas cards again this year.

Modeling in the fashion show were Shirley Schwindman, Shirley Peters, Shirley and Caroline Holmes, Myra May Davidson, Barbara Lehman, Barbara Callahan and Jacqueline Beymer. Miss Johnson modeled clothes for older girls.

Especially effective were the Shirley Peters dresses, duplicates of those she will wear in her next picture, "Just Around the Corner," which will be released in November. Barbara Callahan and Jacqueline Beymer girls wore duplicate frocks in three sizes. Snow suits and rain caps were also shown.

Chinese Dinners Won't be Greek to You if You Follow These Home Menus

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX (NEA Service)

Lin Yutang, the Chinese philosopher who is currently the vogue with us, states that a Chinese dinner, kept within proper and sane limits, is less expensive than an American dinner.

So let's investigate a few Chinese menus. 1) Chinese Cabbage Soup, Rice, Beef with Oyster Sauce, Omelet Cantonese, Tea, Almond Cakes. 2) Chicken Chilled Soup with Chinese Radish, Rice, Brown Stewed Squabs, Sweet and Pungent Pork, Lobster Omelet, Spinach Cantonese, Tea, Chinese Mixed Preserved Fruits.

These menus come from a sane and intelligent book on Chinese cooking, called "Cook at Home in Chinese," by Henry Low, who has been chief for a famous Chinese restaurant in America for 10 years and has written his book with understanding of American ingredients.

Mel Jing (gourmet powder) can be ordered from any Chinese grocer. The lover of this type of food can write to the nearest Chinese grocer for a list of suitable Chinese stores who will fill an order by mail.

From his book comes these delicately novel soups. They are the first course in learning to cook Chinese.

Watercress Soup (Says Young Clay Tong) (Serves 4)
Two bunches watercress, 1-2 cup sliced raw lean pork (small pieces), 1 egg, 1 cup chicken stock, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon gourmet powder (mel Jing).

Great chicken stock, add watercress, pork, salt and gourmet powder. Bring to boil, drop in egg to poach and boil 6 minutes.

Chicken Mushroom Soup (Dong Koo Qui Tong) (Serves 4)
Two tablespoons Chinese dried chopped mushrooms (dong koo), 2 tablespoons chopped peeled water chestnuts (maitai), 1 tablespoon chopped canned bamboo shoots (jook tsun), 1 tablespoon chopped celery, 1 beaten egg, 4 cups chicken stock, a pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon gourmet powder (mel Jing), a dash of pepper, 3 teaspoons cornstarch.

Soak mushrooms about 10 minutes or until soft. Heat stock and add water chestnuts, mushrooms, chicken, bamboo shoots, celery, salt, pepper and gourmet powder. Bring to a boil and stir egg in soup. Then add cornstarch which has been made into a smooth paste. Stir well and cook another 2 minutes.

RELIEF ASKED IN DROUTH SECTION

By REED S. DUNHAM
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (UP)—The national resources committee recommended to President Roosevelt today the use of relief funds for irrigation projects to rehabilitate the drought-stricken northern great plains states.

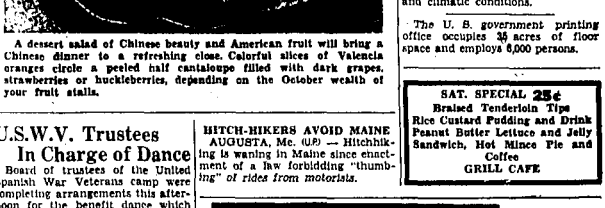

A preliminary report prepared by a special committee hoped that this plan, combined with eventual relocation of population and a change in the type of agriculture, would make the area "a land of reasonable security."

The states involved—the Dakotas and parts of Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana—have been "a land of great risks" which returning rains cannot make permanently prosperous. As an immediate step, the committee recommended that the reclamation bureau construct $8,000,000 in proposed irrigation projects and push surveys on others.

The special northern great plains committee comprises representatives of state and federal governments and is headed by N. H. Barrows of the University of Chicago.

The report found that while expenditure of millions of federal dollars had prevented undue suffering, the money had done little to correct the fundamental failure of man to adjust agriculture in the area to soil and climatic conditions.

The U. S. government printing office occupies 35 acres of floor space and employs 6,000 persons.

A dessert salad of Chinese beauty and American fruit will bring a Chinese dinner to a refreshing close. Colorful slices of Valencia oranges circle a peeled half cantaloupe filled with dark grapes, strawberries or buckwheat, depending on the October weather of your fruit salad.

He stated that tuberculosis patients suffer also from other ailments. He recommended that units to the sanitarium be built in other localities of Idaho where patients may be taken.

HUNGARY SEEKS CZECH SOLUTION

BUDAPEST, Oct. 14 (AP)—The government has informed the big European powers that Hungary intends to take whatever measures are necessary for an "early solution" of its minority quarrel with Czechoslovakia. It was reliably reported today.

The council of ministers, meanwhile, ordered military measures taken "for the security of the state." Hungarian troops have been massed along the Czech frontier area since the recent European crisis.

Negotiations Suspended
The government was understood to have advised Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Poland that, due to the refusal of Prague to meet Hungary's demands for territorial concessions, Hungary has suspended negotiations and reserves the right to take whatever measures it considers necessary.

The four powers in the Munich settlement were asked to make a "very early" decision on the dispute.

The four powers in the Munich settlement were asked to make a "very early" decision on the dispute. The government apparently was counting on the four powers that supervised the surrender of Czech territory to Germany and Poland to see that similar concessions were made to Hungary. But at the same time street demonstrations demanding military action against the Czechs were followed by a stiffening of the cabinet's attitude in the controversy.

The four powers, at the time of the Sudetenland settlement, agreed to meet again next month if claims of Poland and Hungary were not settled peacefully. The Hungarian council of ministers was said to have urged that the powers act speedily.
