ARAB WARRIORS RISE TO RAMPANT IN OLD JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, Oct. 18 (UP)—Two thousand British soldiers, equipped for battle, laid siege today to the old city of Jerusalem, where Arab rebels were running rampant behind the prospect of the fifth century walls. The troops took up positions in high buildings in the modern city where they could command the rooftops of the congested area. Sporadic gunfire was heard throughout the city. A volley of rifle shots inside the walls would be answered by a burst of machine gun fire from the troops, looking down on the old city from the tops of modern buildings. The situation inside the walls, and the number of casualties, however, were unknown. An Armenian woman and child in the modern city were wounded by stray bullets.

Rebels barricaded the gates from the inside, burned the police station and apparently destroyed the modern city, built up outside the walls after 1858, was hard pressed. Although the troops were in command, rebels were encamped in the desert and rocky hills on all sides—and were in ambush along all the roads. In addition to the perils within the city, military authorities feared that at any moment there might be a mass assault on the modern city by the Arabs in the hills. Operate Openly There were an estimated 25,000 troops and policemen in Palestine, but they were in comparatively immediate areas about their headquarters. In most cities, the rebels operated openly, forming manifestos and ultimatum in the name of the "Arab provisional government." They even pretended to rule modern Jerusalem and held court under the shade of trees in the desert nearby, passing judgment and execution on their own members as well as hostages seized from the city. They were rampant in Bethlehem, sacred to all Christians as the birthplace of Christ, despite the constant guard of British troops in the courtyard of the Church of the Nativity there.

PART OF STATE'S CLAIM REJECTED

Falling for the first time to pay the full amount of the social security pension claim presented by the state, Twin Falls county today had declined to pay the remainder of the cost in this county. The board of commissioners Monday voted a warrant for $24,903, which it turned to the state for the budget under social security pensions and widow and child benefits. The state claim was for $33,341, and the commissioners declined the difference between the two, or $108,26.

Cost Divided Previous monthly claims had been paid in full. Under the social security pension plan, the federal government pays half and the state and the counties pay the remainder of the cost in each county. Chairman James L. Barnes had announced last month that when the federal government takes its share of the budget, the board would not pay the claim. He claimed that the board would pay from other funds which would not be legal.

Basia for Plea Delinquency of other counties on the social security matter was the subject of a hearing at the special session of the legislature presented to Gov. Barzilla Clark by the Idaho Association of County Commissioners and Clerks. Barnes, a president, appointed a three-man western Idaho committee to present the plea, but the governor took no action. The federal government has called to secure relief funds. Under the state makes up county delinquency in the way it drains its own direct relief money.

Frisco Mayor Defies NLRB

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18 (UP)—NAN FRANCISCO is seeking a settlement of San Francisco's warehouse union fight, but the city today refused to attend a hearing before an NLRB attorney in which Mayor Angelo J. Rossi defied the national labor authority's demand to stop his defiance. Chief of the dispute was the announced intention of a new firm, the Frisco Warehouse, Inc., to open a liquor-distributing plant with AFL warehousemen. Organ Crowsman, plant manager, announced a strike on Monday. The NLRB attorney told Rossi that if the city provided police protection for the warehousemen, it would be "taking sides" in the dispute in violation of the Wagner act. Rossi brazenly replied "no one here is taking sides. I am neither you nor anyone else's nemesis in and tell me that I can't maintain law and order in this city. If there is, I want to know it."

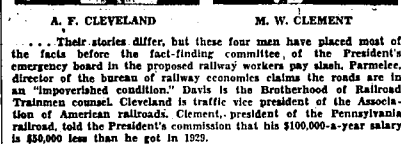

Helping Rail Board Get Low-Down

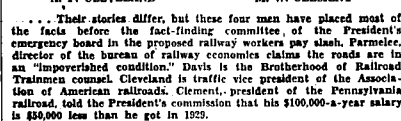

D. JULIUS PARMELEE

TOM DAVIS

A. F. CLEVELAND

M. W. CLEMENT

Their stories differ, but these four men have placed most of the facts before the fact-finding committee of the President's emergency board in the proposed railway workers pay slash. Parmelee, director of the bureau of railway economics claims the roads are an "impoverished condition." Davis is the treasurer of the Railroad Trainees council. Cleveland is traffic vice president of the Association of American Railroads. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, told the President's committee that his $100,000-a-year salary is $20,000 less than he got in 1929.

Ruth Etting Faces Suit On Affection Alienation

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18 (UP)—A former wife and the technical officer of California law challenged today the right of Ruth Etting to the second husband for whose life she had been willing to sacrifice her own. As Myrl Alderman, former piano accompanist and present husband, recovered in a hospital from a bullet wound inflicted by her first husband, Martin Snyder, Mrs. Etting was named defendant in a $150,000 alienation of affection suit by Mrs. Helen Alderman. The latter was Alderman's second wife. When her lady was born, the second wife alleged, Alderman left her and in July he and Mrs. Etting "acted under some pretended marriage ceremony," began living together "as man and wife."

Makes Bitter Statements Mrs. Etting made bitter statements concerning her former husband who had been her manager and ever-ready champion during all her professional career, and her attitude suggested that despite his boasts, she would induce Alderman to prosecute him. He was formally charged with attempted murder, kidnapping, and violation of the arms law by the district attorney and received an $15,000 bail. Mrs. Etting last January told police that Snyder had threatened her life following their divorce in Chicago, and was given a bodyguard.

FREAK WEATHER SENDS WAVE OF HEAT OVER EAST

(By United Press) Freakish weather which brought a heat wave to eastern states, summer to the Midwest and snowstorms to Montana and Wyoming, will return to normal within the next 24 hours, U. S. Forecaster C. A. Donnell, Chicago, said today. A snowstorm which swept through Montana was responsible for the deaths of three persons in an automobile accident. Three others were missing in sub-freezing temperatures. The storm which started four days ago damaged power and communication lines and crops and made highways perilous for motorists. Chicago was basked in summery weather for four days yesterday. Its maximum temperature was 86 degrees. Donnell said the mercury would tumble today as a cool wave moves in from the Rockies bringing showers with it. The all-time heat record for Oct. 17 was broken in New York City yesterday when the mercury rose to 87. Other maximum headlines in eastern states were: Albany, 82; Atlanta, 80; Boston, 86; Philadelphia, 90; and Washington, D. C., 88.

HAZELTON, Oct. 18 (Special)—Mrs. Georgia Lee Hopper, 50, wife of a prominent Hazleton physician, was found dead this morning after she apparently hanged herself in the basement of her home. Investigation by Sheriff James Snyder and Coroner J. B. Wiley, of Jerome, disclosed the woman had tied a rope to a floor joint in the basement and had then stood on a chair when she slipped from the ladder, according to findings of the investigation, and apparently died almost instantly. The dead woman said she had been dependent for some time and had spoken of taking her life. Her husband, Dr. Simon Hopper, died in 1922 in an auto and horse collision and is still in ill health as a result of the mishap. There were no children of the couple. The body of Mrs. Hopper was removed to the White funeral arrangements. Wiley, who accompanied the body to Twin Falls, said the death was caused by strangulation and that the woman had no other injuries. He said no request will be held.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18 (UP)—Mayfield, Kollmann, a 17-year-old farmer from Mason, Tex., who entered his steer in the open class of the American Royal because he thought it was too good for the 4-H club competition, grinned proudly today when the animal was adjudged the grand champion of the steer show. Sentences Hold For Men of I/O

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18 (UP)—A state supreme court today upholding convictions of 39 members of Industrial Organization members apparently ended today their long fight to escape jail sentences. They were sentenced for defying a court order to evacuate the萍field plant of the White Star plant. Manufacturing of the ship today was accomplished without mishap. The difficult and dangerous task was necessitated because of the strike of 2,000 tugboat workers whose representatives refused special permission for them to aid the big huller at the end of her western train-Atlantic voyage from Baltimore with 1,001 passengers.

Total Soldier Population in East Sought

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (UP)—Guenther Gustave Rummich, confessed Nazi spy, testified in federal court today that an espionage contact man in Germany had given him a "specific assignment" to find out how many soldiers the Eastern States kept along the east coast and particularly how many troops were stationed in the New York City area. His contact man, he said, was one Sanders, with whom he had been placed in communication after he had sent a letter to Gen. W. Nicolai, author of a German spy text book, through Adolf Hitler's newspaper, the Volkischer Beobachter in Berlin. Rummich whose confession touched off the spy inquiry and resulted in the indictment of 18 persons including himself and the three defendants in the present trial, came into court today chewing gum. He draped his lanky body casually in the witness chair, rested his feet on one hand and spoke in a slow but confident voice. Watching him intently were Private Erich Glaser of the U. S. Army, who is accused of stealing an aviation code; Miss Johanna Hoffmann, alleged messenger for the spy ring; and Otto Herman Voss, who, charged with stealing and transmitting the plans of an army pursuit plane.

Rummich brought the German war ministry into the picture—the government contends this official was in direct charge of espionage activities—in discussing an exchange with Sanders concerning financial remuneration. Under the questioning of Assistant U. S. Attorney Lester C. Dunigan, he testified he had been asked to give the government grilling the name of a contact man in the army and navy publications. Later, he said, Sanders told him in "very abrupt fashion," advising him "of his lack of competence to discuss this matter."

Andrews today appealed to all American employers to abide by provisions of the fair labor standards act when it becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Monday. He addressed his appeal to industrial as well as interstate businesses and said he did not think compliance with the act would be "national catastrophe" even if some industries complained which were not specifically covered by the statute. Andrews said that he realized there were many "borderline cases" on which the administration had not ruled as to their inter-state character and he said that those industries "should let their conscience be their guide."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (UP)—Officials were informed today that Japan had gained possession of large quantities of monetary silver in China. Although the reports contained little detail and came through Chinese sources, it was understood that the silver was taken during the Japanese military operations within the next few months. Japanese monetary gold reserves were also reported to have been taken. The Chinese may receive other dollars or yen. Officials said that there have been no overtures as yet from the Japanese government for a similar understanding. However, the treasury has followed a policy of purchasing at least weekly in the army's market at the price of 43 cents a ounce. He called on both Democrats and Republicans to elect men "who will stand on their own feet" and to defeat "every man of the kind who says he is a follower of any President 100 per cent or 50 per cent or any other per cent."

Let's New Deal

"Such a man is not fit to serve," he said.

Letting the New Deal, Mr. Hoover asserted that "never before in all American history has there been a greater need for the people to protect themselves. And it is in the power of the people to do it now. They alone can make congress the sword and buckler of their liberties."

He urged each voter to "experiment" by voting for men "who do not stand on the New Deal. For a nation to take the next two years to stop, look and listen is an experiment that could not make the situation worse," Mr. Hoover said.

"It might prove the experiment," he said, "that saved the freedom of men and women and a great nation."

Second in Series

Mr. Hoover's address was titled, "Undermining Representative Government," and was the second of a series of addresses which first speech was given at Kansas City a few weeks ago. The third will be delivered at Spokane, Wash., Nov. 5.

"If we are to have an independent congress," the former President asserted, "it implies Democratic support where Republicans candidates are fighting against Mr. Roosevelt's yes-yes men."

"We of the opposition," he said, "have not along the duty to call a halt to these encroachments of personal power over free men and their consequences. It is our duty to make clear that we are not demanding a halt to the needed and progressive solutions of changing problems which arise from the changing times."

Coming: Disney and Stokowski In Bit of Animated Horseplay

By PAUL HARRISON (NPA Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Walt Disney, assisted by Leopold Stokowski and Deems Taylor, is to come up with a new monkey-business which, with luck, will be entertaining you in a couple of years.

If only one year, or three—or never, if something goes sour. Time means nothing at the whimsy factory.

Anyway, they're working on a new feature-length picture which should provide visual (Disney) and aural (Taylor) interpretation of eight selections of classical music (played by Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony).

Their latest awe-tite yet, but it will be something on the popular side, and calculated not to scare amusement-seekers away from the box office. Something as off-hand as perhaps "Disney's Band Concert."

However good a showman Stokowski may be, his name is likely to be somewhat formidable to customers who are out for an evening's light amusement. Deems Taylor, composer, critic, and music commentator, is known to radio listeners as one who can make classical works easier to accept and enjoy. But only Disney's name sells box office for every kind of audience.

It may be "Disney" and some of his music and story experts (Stokowski, and Taylor) have been in judges' deliberation with compositions should be played and how they should be interpreted.

The list, as it stands today, includes the "Dukas" (The Sorcerer's Apprentice); "A Night on Bald Mountain" (Moussorgsky); "Moonlight" (Debussy); "Nutcracker Suite" (Tchaikovsky); "The Four Seasons" (Vivaldi); "Danse of the Hours" (Ponchielli); Bach's "Tocatta and Fugue"; and "The Duke's March" (Mendelssohn).

How they'll show up, but they've decided, except in some cases. The Bach piece may open the program, and still is, that of using a famous conductor and orchestra playing known masterpieces for an animated cartoon and still having an acceptable result.

The Story of OD and AD and the AUTOMOBILE

How OD Tried to Sell His First Automobile

How AD Sold 10 Automobiles

AD had also spent nearly $3,000 in building his first car. He knew that only a few people could afford so high a price, and to find them he must show his car to a great many. So he advertised that he would demonstrate his car the following Saturday afternoon.

How OD Finally Sold a Car

How AD Sold 10,000 Automobiles

AD decided that if he could make cars by the hundreds, he could lower the cost and still make more money. So he appointed agents and advertised in other cities. In this way he was able to tell the story of his car to thousands and thousands of people neither he nor his agents had ever seen.

Why OD Gave Up Trying to Sell Automobiles

How AD Sold Millions of Automobiles

AD now realized that there were millions of people who would buy his automobiles if the price was only lower. He knew that if he could build hundreds of thousands of cars a year, he could make them better and at less cost. So he enlarged his factory, employed more men, and advertised to millions of people all over the country.

SCHOOLS SERVE VITAMIN LUNCH

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Junior and senior high school students are eating their A-B-C's—only this time they contain vitamins.

School board luncheon authorities are teaching 43,000 boy and girl patrons of school lunchrooms what to eat to obtain the vitamins necessary for health.

"We are interested in more than the economical conduct of the school lunchrooms," Frank C. Moore, director of the luncheon authorities, said.

A luncheon supervisor, Miss Mary Hemmersbaugh, seconded Moore's statement.

"I want to see that students gain health instead of indigestion from their eating habits," she said.

"Think a good nourishing lunch consists of two slices of bread, butter, a half-pint of milk, some meat, potatoes, spinach and salad."

Miss Hemmersbaugh said that the students who eat the most are the boys studying industrial arts.

"They know good food and are economical in their choice. They prefer beans, macaroni, meats, potatoes and the heavy foods," she said.

But she added that they are vitamin-conscious and do not pass up green salads.

Grand students have not been educated away from a hearty consumption of the hamburger and "hot dog" however. They eat, on the average, 2,000 pounds of hamburger and 875 pounds of wieners every week in the school cafeteria.

Grand students also eat some big quantities of healthful foods, too. During the last school year they drank 1,300,000 quarts of milk and ate eggs, 1,100 cases of them.

TRUCKIN' TUNES SWAY ESKIMOS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The jitterbug craze which has prompted the most sedate to let down their hair and "truck on down," has even the Eskimo tapping his feet to the beat of a hot swing tune.

Radio is responsible for the spread of the jitterbug influence to the Arctic circle, say J. Kenneth Doust, 35, and Dr. Arthur C. Twomey, Pittsburgh scientist who recently returned from a trip to the frozen north to gather specimens for Carnegie Museum here.

Although the average Eskimo can't understand a word of English, he is affected just like swing enthusiasts everywhere, the scientist declared.

Usually the Eskimos gather at the Great Hudson Bay trading post to listen to radio tunes as "Frog Floggie with a Toy Frog" and "A Tisket, a Tasket."

But that was just one of the incidental things the two scientists learned on a visit to Belcher Island and Ungava Land, where they studied animal and plant life on the shores of Hudson Bay. The eight-month trip took them 1750 miles north.

Prize trophies of the trip were two fresh water seals and one specimen to be brought to Carnegie Museum, and possibly the first for any museum in the United States.

"I haven't had time to study the fresh water seals to tell how they differ from a salt water seal," Dr. Doust said. "They are extremely rare. I don't know if any other museum has such species on exhibit."

FORMER BANKER LIKES WPA POST

CLEVELAND (AP)—From an $11,000-a-year vice president to a $92.50-a-month WPA worker, but exactly a success story, but Arthur C. Frazer thinks it one way to make a comeback.

"I'm happy," the former vice president of the now defunct Gibraltar Trust Co. said. "I've paid my debt to society, and I'm trying to make a living for myself and wife and forget what happened a few years back."

In 1935, Frazer pleaded guilty to charges that he had embezzled $100 in bonds. He was paroled after serving a year and 10 days.

Now he is employed as an accountant on Project 17012, a WPA inventory of city-owned property.

Trying Comeback

His fellow employees, for the most part, do not know that they are working with a former bank vice president.

"Naturally, I try to keep this a secret," said the chubby, pipe-smoking Frazer. "I am just trying to make a comeback the best way I know how."

The man who once had held a midwestern desk and conferred with the city's bankers now sits at a battered second desk, checking cards describing the condition of city property ranging from postage trucks to X-ray machines. He feels he is doing a good job. He is project superintendent, E. G. Perry, placed Frazer.

Loyal Employee

"He is a loyal employee and very efficient," Perry said. "I wouldn't want him to leave the project, and my own knowledge of accounting and inventories is very useful."

Frazer, a short time before his bankruptcy petition showed liabilities of $122,000 and assets of $4,000.

"My new job isn't a case of court-ordered indemnification at all," the former banker said. "It's just a case of necessity."

The man's surface consists about 14,657,000 square miles, as compared with the earth's 106,811,000.

YELLOWSTONE HEAD ADVISES "CITY OF ROCKS" MONUMENT

OAKLEY, Oct. 18 (Special)—Declaring that the City of Rocks "must be accepted as a national monument," Edmund B. Rogers, superintendent of Yellowstone national park, last night was keynote speaker at a banquet marking the climax of the recent drive for recognition of the area.

Because of rain and snow, the scheduled exploration of the unique area during the afternoon was postponed and rather a program, featuring prominent speakers, was held in the high school auditorium.

Governor Daniel R. Anderson, who was one of the special guests during the day, stated at the banquet that "the government has a duty and responsibility to conserve natural scenic beauties and preserve them for the people."

This morning Rogers, together with Frank R. Oberhansley, assistant naturalist of Yellowstone park; Frank E. Haynes, official park photographer; and Prof. Arthur L. Anderson, geologist of the University of Idaho at Moscow, made an inspection trip of the area. Haynes was joined by Mrs. M. A. Egan and Almo out of Burley, the drive into the City of Rocks from Oakley being impassable because of the rain and snow.

Principal speaker during the afternoon program at the high school was Gov. Rexford W. Clark, who attended the observance accompanied by his wife. Clark pledged his support for "any work which will result in establishing the City of Rocks as a national monument."

He was also high in praise for the proposed 150,000-acre irrigation project for the territory between Oakley and Burley.

"Too bashful!"

Sen. James P. Pope, also a speaker, cited the fact that Idaho has been "too bashful" in the past in showing beauty and scenic points. He pledged his support to the project and stated that the irrigation project should have the earliest consideration from the reclamation department.

Other speakers included Prof. Anderson, who told of information he gathered at the City of Rocks during a trip there in 1920 and A. Matson, assistant to the general superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad who said that the railroad's method of "selling Sun Valley" had also been followed to "sell the City of Rocks."

Charles Brown, local publisher and also president of the Oakley Valley Chamber of Commerce, was introduced during both the afternoon and evening meetings. It was Brown who conceived and headed the exploration move and for the past 20 years he has backed the national monument idea for the City of Rocks area. Speakers lauded him for his efforts in this direction.

Brown was introduced by Glen Chickaheld, master of ceremonies. Another feature of the afternoon meeting was a 15-minute concert by the Oakley high school band, under the direction of Gordon LeSueur.

THINKS PHEASANTS SHOULD HAVE GONE TO 'KIDS'

Editor, Evening Times: I notice on the front page of the Evening Times, an account of the arrest of two men for having 73 pheasants in their possession and of the subsequent fine imposed on the two men of $100 and $13 costs. This was the proper procedure in handling such cases but I understand the game laws of the state of Idaho, it is unlawful to sell any kind of game or to offer for sale any kind of game. Now in fairness to Mr. Idaho Citizen, I believe Judge Timney overstepped his bounds in offering for sale these birds which had been confiscated. If it is unlawful for a man to have more than four pheasants in his possession for any one day, why is it lawful for a judge or a game warden to offer for sale and accept 25¢ for each bird up to and including six birds to one customer as the article stated?

I believe the judge and the game warden would have shown their generosity and kindness if they had sent those 73 dressed pheasants to the children's orphanage at Boise and given those kiddies a real game feed.

Yours for bigger hearted game wardens and judges.

FRANK W. SQUIRES
Buhl, Oct. 17.

Editor's note: It was understood that persons who bought more than four pheasants at the sale of confiscated birds were acting for others who could not leave their offices at the time of sale.

ALEUTIANS YIELD ANCIENT SKULLS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution reported here today the discovery of an enormous burial mound in the Aleutian Islands.

Hrdlicka, the institution's curator of physical anthropology, made the announcement as the completed 10 years of spasmodic excavation in the islands that stretch from northern Alaska to Alaska to Asia. The islands were used as ship stopping places as early man migrated from Asia to North America, many scientists believe.

Series of Skeletons

Hrdlicka, aided by a group of volunteer college students, found on Kodiak island a series of skeletons of men belonging to the pre-Aleut era. He said the skulls "were all oblong-shaped, which is an unmistakable sign of the mysterious Pre-Aleuts."

The Smithsonian explorers also uncovered the Russian-occupied Commander Island, hoping to find some trace of ancient man that would show that these islands also were part of the ancient route from Asia to America. Hrdlicka found several old settlement sites, but none dated back further than the time of Russian occupation.

Early Route

"This negative result," Hrdlicka reported, "proves definitely that the Commander Islands were not a part of the migration route, and that if ancient peoples crossed by way of the Aleutians they must have reached them by way of the Kriukof Islands, now owned by Japan, or from north of Kamchatka."

The negative finding throws doubt on the early opinion of Kamchatka itself, sometimes considered the ancestral home of part of the American Indians. If an early peopling by sea had occurred, and if westward they certainly would have chosen the obvious Commander Island route. If they had stopped on the Commander Islands, conditions are such that they certainly would have spent some time on the islands and left signs of their habitation."
