Condition of Quins Called Satisfactory

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 9 (U.P.)—The Dionne quintuplets, out on the operating table today for the removal of diseased tonsils and adenoids which had threatened their general health.

Maria, smallest of the four-year-old girls, was the first to go through the surgical ordeal in the Dafoe nursery on an operating platform.

She went under full anesthetic at 9:10 a. m. and was removed from the table 30 minutes later, her condition "satisfactory."

Parents' Fray—The others followed at brief intervals, while the nervous parents—Olivia and Elsie Dionne—wring their hands and demand to know how the babies are getting along.

Dr. C. H. Robson, Toronto specialist in childrearing, and Dr. J. M. Brown of Toronto, consulting physician, stayed away from the operating room to keep the girls from associating their discomfort with them.

Operations Completed—The operations were completed shortly after noon by Dr. D. E. S. Walker.

Dr. Brown announced a pathological examination of the organs and revealed they were in "an advanced stage of infection."

It was Dr. Brown who had insisted upon the operation with the warning that the chronic infections from which all five babies were suffering might spread and endanger their lives.

Dionne said he "resented" the presence of newspapermen.

BRITAIN AGREES ON CHINA POLICY

LONDON, Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Great Britain stands with the United States in insisting on maintenance of the open door policy in China.

Reflecting a stiffening British attitude in the far east, Butler stated that the government will not consider any alteration in the position laid down by the Washington nine power pact.

"Our position," he said, "is the same as clearly stated by Secretary Hull on Nov. 4."

Price to Butler's announcement, it was learned in an authoritative source that the United States and Britain have agreed to take "parallel lines" in their policy in China.

Farley Says Nation Still Behind F. D. R.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Postmaster General E. C. Rorabacher scanned nationwide election returns today and asserted that the country is still "strongly behind the humanitarian policies of President Roosevelt."

Farley admitted that senate and house majorities were greater than he had anticipated.

"However," he said, "I think that the outcome justifies the statement that the country as a whole is strongly behind the humanitarian policies of President Roosevelt."

He said that the senate and house majorities were greater than he had anticipated.

$300 ON THURSDAY PLAN VETOED BY CALIFORNIA VOTE

California appeared today to have voted down the "ham and eggs" pension plan under which every unemployed person under 60 years old would have received $30 every Thursday.

The proposal attracted perhaps the greatest national interest of the recent past, and the voters in the several states. Returns from more than half of the California precincts showed a vote of approximately 50-50 against it.

Results of other special issues by states: New York: Proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit the removal of representation system of voting was defeated by approximately two to one.

Minnesota: Robert P. Zali, a son of the former President, became the senator from Ohio when he defeated the incumbent New Dealer, Bulkley.

Among the new provisions approved was one authorizing state bonds for slum clearance.

California: Initiative amendment to restrict strikes, picketing and boycotts apparently defeated.

Washington: Inconclusive count indicated close contest on amendment to regulate strikes.

Colorado: Referendum proposal to repeal $45 a month old age pension law apparently defeated by majority of slightly less than two to one.

It broke out while unionist firemen were conducting a strike.

Bottolfsen, Clark, Dworshak Win As Parties Divide Idaho Triumphs

Winners in Important Off-Year Elections

CALIFORNIA GOVERNOR MINNESOTA GOVERNOR OHIO GOVERNOR OREGON GOVERNOR MICHIGAN GOVERNOR

It was a day of political upsets yesterday as Democratic states of the past few years swung into the Republican column—and long-Republican states named Bourbon leaders.

In California Culbert Olson defeated Gov. Frank Merriam for the top executive post there. The victory puts the first Democratic governor in the chair of that state for 45 years.

In Wisconsin Julius P. Hell, Republican, won over Philip M. LaFollette, Progressive, California selected Sheridan Downey, a Democrat, senator to succeed William Gibbs McAdoo.

Republicans Regain Rich National Political Prizes

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (U.P.)—The Republican party regained rich political prizes in yesterday's general election and returned today to major political status at the expense of the New Deal and minor parties.

The six years of New Deal-Democratic triumphs has been reversed. But the Democratic party retained control of congress despite losses and won outstanding and significant victories in a scattering of states.

This election in 47 states—Maine voted in September—constitutes the 16th congress, establishing a new Republican state bloc and probably points the nation to a rousing, better matched presidential contest in 1940 than has been experienced of late.

Returns variously were interpreted as a more-than-normal off-year swing from a majority party, as the upshot of popular reaction to the 1937-38 depression and continued unemployment, or as a swing away from the more advanced of New Deal labor and organizational policies.

But Idaho was no conservative protest. The election added up generally to a sharp reversal to the New Deal-Democratic party and its more or less allied liberal minor groups.

There was almost a band wagon movement yesterday which hailed with considerable emphasis the trend toward Democratic and allied movements which marked his spectacular appearance in the presidential election of 1932.

Back with a Bang—Republicans came back with a bang in pivotal states and a scattering of lesser political areas. They won all or part of the senatorial and gubernatorial prizes yesterday in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Kansas, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

But the New Deal had bona fide triumphs in California and New York. With every step when his short-term party has won or are leading in contests which would give them a net gain of eight senate seats, 11 new governorships, and 70 of more additional seats in the house of representatives.

FLORISTS HEAR BOSTON Man as Parley Starts

With Robert H. Rolland, Boston, Mass., executive secretary-treasurer of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists as principal speaker, members of the Idaho Florists' association met in the Palm Hotel at Boise today for the annual convention in the Kolo building.

Rolland spoke to the visitors after the banquet and opened at 8 p. m. At noon a special luncheon was held in the building with Mayor Lem A. Gumpert giving the address.

Members of the association were to be appointed at that time, and in the afternoon, and several short business sessions were held.

During the talk this morning Rolland called the attention of the growers to the fact that plants grown in potting areas are more sturdy than those grown out of doors because of the better care they receive.

He also urged the growers to "keep abreast of the times" by changing the type of plants which they possibly could in order that the public might be better served.

At exactly 11 a. m. the housekeeper left the street "plum" at the corner of Main avenue and Shoshone, and ran toward his store, nearly two blocks distant.

GAME BILL WINS COUNTY SUCCESS

Heavy "yes" voting in Twin Falls for the bill to set up a non-partisan game commission in Idaho indicated this afternoon that the measure had passed in this county.

Pending completion of the official election canvass started today by the board of county commissioners, returns from the 28 county precincts are still in fragmentary shape.

Unofficial returns from 12 precincts in the county, including the seven precincts in the city, showed 4,977 yes and 1,078 no.

Within Twin Falls itself, complete returns from 12 precincts showed a count of 3,587 yes and 608 no.

The bill must carry a statewide favorable vote forming a simple majority of the total vote cast for the governorship. That total in the county, on the basis of unofficial returns, was 10,840, with 4,977 yes.

Reports from other counties, still unsubstantiated, indicated a similar volume of yes votes.

NAZI NEWSPAPER RAPS ROOSEVELT

BERLIN, Nov. 9 (U.P.)—President Roosevelt and under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles were attacked today by a Nazi party newspaper organ, Voelkischer Beobachter today as German leaders studied the American news.

The newspaper called a reference by Joachim von Ribbentrop, foreign minister, to some foreign government which he said, "is completely out of the line."

"Why not say that the most important factor in the world of today is the fact that the United States is a democracy?" asked the Voelkischer Beobachter.

Today the United States official news agency, the Associated Press, said that the president has an opportunity to express again his questionable doctrine that authoritarian states are "collaborating" with the free democracies, of course, are possibly implied.

"We have repeatedly repeated the fact that the United States was highly, indeed, proud of the conditions which arose from the Versailles treaty."

GAS KILLS TEXAS FAMILY OF FIVE

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 9 (U.P.)—O. W. Harper, a former chemist, lured his home into an execution chamber today and killed his wife, their three children and himself. Before he died he pinned a note on the front door warning that deadly gas was within.

A verdict of murder and suicide was returned by a coroner's jury. The body of the woman was looked through windows and air ducts. Later, using gas masks, the bodies of the four were taken to the morgue.

In two bedrooms they found five gas-stained cracks in which a liquid "had been mixed." Police believed it was acid in which the bodies had been placed. The result was a gas such as formaldehyde, used for embalming.

The dead were Harper, 44, who had owned a bakery since he left his chemical job with the grain exchange last spring, his 42-year-old wife, their daughter, Charlotte, 6, and two sons, Winfield, 10, and Tom, 7.

BOTTOLESEN AND CLARK WIN POSTS

They got a split out of the congressional picture with their men representing 78 per cent of the total population of 40,000.
In effect, also, the state representative was a personal victory for Attorney-General Taylor. In addition to being elected to the office of attorney-general, he saw the man whom he accused of being responsible for irregularities in state government.
Taylor and Ross, although outwardly "for" each other as a matter of party policy, were cool on the matter of office association. They avoided each other's lecture platform and did not speak of the election in their public addresses which had raised a barrier between them.
The individuals for Bottollesen proved the point to which the electorate considered grand jury and highway audit charges of irregularities in Ross' three administrations.
State Seat Politically
It was generally conceded today that Ross' seat had set politically. Had he won the governorship, his own two year term would have been a job at the senate—the post which he unsuccessfully tried to reach in 1935 by contending the election of William E. Borah.
The cowboy governor, who used to ride his horse up and down before political rallies, will be gone, was hurt. He had generally allowed Bottollesen 14 counties and himself a victory by 2,100 votes at the bank. Instead he found himself the possessor of nine meagre counties out of the state's 44, and lost by more than 25,000.
He clearly has a reaction as predicted, an expectation of further Republican gain in 1940 would not be unreasonable.
He generally lingers on what Bottollesen, the man who has promised to "sweep out the stalehood" does with his hands. The gubernatorial contest in the next two years is not inferential—it is vital to the political future of the state's Democrats and Republicans alike.

REPUBLICANS WIN POLITICAL PRIZES

Area. Shading the triumph was Lehman's narrow margin of approximately 70,000 votes. He would have lost without the support of the American Labor party, one of the New Deal's liberal allies.
First in 45 Years
Culbert Olson, Dem., who flitted with the $30-every-Thursday pension plan, was elected governor in California, the first non-Republican to win that office in 45 years. Sheridan, Downey, Dem., who used to be a Townsend pensioner but who also held hands with the 30-Thursdays brigade, was elected to the senate seat held now by Sen. William Gibbs McCadoo, Dem., for whom Mr. Roosevelt failed to obtain primary re-nomination.
Michigan hit the New Deal hardest, bluntly shunting Gov. Frank Murphy out of executive office after a campaign in which his gentle handling of sit-down strikes was the principal issue and during which Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal national administration rallied to his defense. Former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Rep. best Murphy. He proclaimed victory "a significant indication of what may happen nationally in 1940." The New Deal was at stake as Michigan was polled yesterday and the answer seems to have been "No!"
Republicans came up with new presidential timber and younger leaders led the body block that grounded Dewey in New York. Massachusetts continued its blue blood tradition by choosing Leverett Saltonstall, a Republican descendant of Federalist ancestry, to be the next governor, changing parties for that office for the first time since 1860. He beat James M. Curley, D., who lost the senate race two years ago to another Republican blue blood, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge.
May Be Presidency
Saltonstall, sitting in the office where Calvin Coolidge once presided, may be pardoned an occasional thought of the White House. Pennsylvania's former Justice Arthur J. James, former coal miner, as potential Republican presidential material. He was elected governor in a poll which returned the Keystone to the Republican arch. Sen. James J. Davis, R., retained his seat there, defeating Gov. George H. Earle, D. Ohio is in with two Republican favorite sons, Robert A. Taft, son of a President, who defeated New Deal Sen. Robert T. Taft, and John W. Bricker, who will be the first G. O. P. governor there since 1930.
Mayor Frank Hague's New Jersey Democratic machine was tilted if not tipped when William H. Ely, backed by the New Deal for senate, was defeated by former Sen. W. Warren Barbour, R.
Republican Gains
Republicans gained senatorial and gubernatorial seats in Connecticut, Kansas, Ohio and Wisconsin. Their senate gains without gubernatorial trimming included New Hampshire, New Jersey and South Dakota. The Republican senatorial candidates in Oregon was leading in a contest for a Democratic seat. Of three Republican incumbents up this year, the issue was decided in the favor except in North Dakota where Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R., had a good lead. The winners so far were David in Pennsylvania and Sen. Ernest Gibson, R. Vt.
Republican governors have been elected at the expense of Democratic or minor parties in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Wyoming. Republican candidates for seats now held by Democrats were leading in Iowa and Nevada. The winners so far were David in Pennsylvania and Sen. Ernest Gibson, R. Vt.

Candidate Wins; He Didn't Know He Was Running

Here's the story of a candidate who didn't know his name was being voted on Tuesday, who did no electioneering whatever after the primary, who almost lost a friend that his own name wasn't on the general election ballot—and who won his office.
The man on that ballot is Kimbrey, Kimberly constable.
SI was nominated at the August primary, and believed at that time no button-holing or electioneering thereafter. He didn't even have a card printed.
Blissfully Unaware
When election time came yesterday, he figured it had nothing to do with his own office. He went to the poll and cast a straight Democratic ballot without standing at the constable name. Blissfully sure he'd done his duty by the commonwealth, he walked out and forgot all about election matters. But a friend approached and remarked jovially that he'd voted for SI.
Civens was sure his friend was mistaken. "Voted for me? I was elected in August," quoth he. "My name isn't on that ballot."
Almost a Bet
The friend offered to bet a dollar that SI's name was there. Civens took up the bet, but didn't have a dollar with him, so they forgot it. But when another friend also said he'd voted for SI, the constable remembered.
Sure enough, there was his name, big as life, on the ballot. He won.

REPUBLICANS CAPTURE EIGHT SEATS IN U. S. SENATE

SON OF FORMER PRESIDENT WINS IN OHIO BALLOT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Republicans today captured eight Democratic seats in the United States senate.

The GOP had had no possibility of winning control of the senate this time. Not only were 10 or more seats assured the Democrats from the south, but only 35 of the senators faced re-election.

But in winning back eight seats for the party, Republican senatorial candidates kept pace with the advance made by their colleagues in other fields. With only four races still to count, the GOP had most of the seats it held last session, and added to them. The Democrats, however, named 21 senators to 10 Republicans.

Republican Robert A. Taft, son of the late President, stepped into presidential prominence by defeating Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, a faithful New Dealer, in Ohio. Warren Harboure, R., N. J., returns to the senate after a two-year hiatus to occupy a chair which has been kept warm by Democrats.

Returning Democrats included among the returning Democrats were anti-New Dealers whom President Roosevelt had wanted to eliminate in the primary but couldn't. Gerry McFadden, E. Tydings, D. Md., Ellison D. Smith, D. S. C., and Walter F. George, D. Ga., all received the presidential blessing but survived. The administration made no effort to encompass the primary defeat of Sen. Bennett Clark, D. Mo., Alva B. Adams, D. Colo., and Pat McCarran, D. Nev., all of whom opposed some of Mr. Roosevelt's important measures.

Clark's victory in Missouri was spotlighted by the pre-election talk of making him a conservative Democratic candidate for President in 1940.

The Democrats held New York's two seats by re-electing Sen. Robert F. Wagner and naming Rep. James M. Mead to the vacancy created by the death of anti-New Dealer Sen. Royal S. Copeland.

Replaces McAdoo

The election of Democratic Sheridan Downey in California means the exchange of a $30,000-a-day pension man for Sen. William G. McAdoo, D., defeated in the primary. President Roosevelt had accepted Downey, however, as a "liberal."

Illinois elevated Rep. Scott Lucas, D., to the senate, replacing another Democrat, Pennsylvania's Democratic governor, George H. Earle, who had presidential ambitions, led a senate race to Sen. James J. Davis, R.

Sen. F. Ryan Duffy, D., Wis., elected six years ago by means of an alliance with the Progressives, ran third without their support and a Republican, Alexander Wiley, got the seat. Herman Ekern had been picked for the spot by the Progressives.

Tree Surgeon Back

After being away from Twin Falls intermittently in recent months, Fred Tyler, tree surgeon, has returned to the city and has resumed his calling here permanently, he announced today.

He maintains headquarters at his home at 289 Adams street. Mr. Tyler, who has written several tree articles for the Times and News, does tree surgery, grafting and similar work.

SPEED

What is probably an all-time record for general election counting in Twin Falls was chalked up Tuesday night by a fast-working board of judges in precinct No. 4.

That precinct, with headquarters at Preston, was completely finished and its books were closed at 8 p. m., exactly one hour after the polls closed. At closing time, 7 p. m., the board had only 22 ballots left to count.

Big factor in permitting the board to carry out its count throughout the day, judges said, was the fact that every person voting in the precinct "did a perfect job and didn't require any assistance."

Precinct officials were J. Partridge, Ruth Ombile, Zora W. Elder, Edgar H. Olmstead, Mrs. Floedic Kirkman, Estella Ryan.

At the time of closing all the game commission ballots were already counted.

Another high speed board in precincts was that at No. 6, Lincoln school, which had 500 votes all counted at 7 p. m. out of approximately 700. No. 4 was second precinct to finish. In previous years it has repeatedly been first.

Chemists have developed a non-petroleum lubricant which takes the squeak out of rubber parts or metal-to-metal chassis bearings of automobiles and trucks.

DICKERSON GOES ON JAYCEE BOARD

Bob Dickerson was appointed today as a member of the board of directors of the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce, President George Detweiler announced.

Mr. Dickerson succeeds Jim Mullen, who resigned because personal business prevented his attendance at the noon meetings of the group.

Appointment of Dickerson brought the board of directors to full strength. Paul Gillman was named two weeks ago to replace William R. Reed, who has moved to Boise.

Other members of the local Jaycee board now are John B. Robertson, Bob H. Warner, W. O. Swin and Loyd Perry, directors; Detweiler, president; Bob Warner, first vice-president; Lionel T. Campbell, second vice-president; Tom White, treasurer; Tom Peavey, secretary.

SOCIAL SECURITY SERVICE IN CITY

Effective this week, Twin Falls will have monthly consultation service from the southeastern Idaho office of the social security board, Manager Charles H. Cannon announced this afternoon. A representative of the office, usually Mr. Cannon himself, will visit in Twin Falls on the second Wednesday of each month from 3 to 4 p. m. at the U. S. employment service.

For this month only, however, Cannon will be here Thursday, Nov. 10, from 8 a. m. to noon. Starting in December, the second Wednesday schedule goes into effect.

The representative will assist businessmen and other persons who may have problems or questions with the bureau of old-age insurance.

The field office of the bureau of old age insurance is responsible for issuing of account numbers (social security cards) and the payment of claims of persons who may file as beneficiaries of deceased wage earners or wage earners who have at-interested by the state of Idaho, the federal government only matching the money paid out by the state, and the state department of public assistance decides the degree of need. The bureau of old-age insurance is charged with the payment of death claims to the estates of wage earners who have worked for wages under covered employment after Dec. 31, 1935, and have since died, or to the individual who, having worked for wages after Dec. 31, 1935, has attained age 65.

Some Confusion Many persons, according to Mr. Cannon, still confuse payments being made by the Idaho department of public assistance with payments under the bureau of old-age insurance. Public assistance payments to those persons who are past 65 years of age and are in need are administered by the state.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher (Evening Times Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The flap-up between President Roosevelt and Chairman Martin Dies of the house "American" committee has ramifications that appear on the surface.

The part Governor Frank Murphy played in Michigan's automobile blackmail strikes—Dies' ever-ready witness branded it "treasonable"—was played in due with the President.

Roosevelt and Murphy were together on the telephone every day during critical periods. When the governor refused to use state troops or allow federal troops to evict strikers, he was setting with the hours' concurrence—if not the actual urging—of the President.

So when Dies called up political foes of Murphy to attack him just before the Michigan election, Roosevelt was in the spot.

On the other side, although Democratic members Arthur Wesley of Massachusetts and Jack Dempsey of New Mexico are in revolt against what the latter calls "wild and irrational" testimony, Dies is well backed on his committee.

As a member of a city planning board in Los Angeles, Dies is particularly interested in a program to eliminate slum dwellings and replace them with low-cost homes.

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES (Continued, 1938 NEA Service, Inc.)

CAST OF CHARACTERS—MYRA DONOVY—vocalist, a beautiful, conventional singer, blond hair.

ROBERT HARRIS—actor, handsome, a well-to-do young man, blonde hair, blue eyes.

ANN LESTER—vocalist, a beautiful, conventional singer, blonde hair, blue eyes.

DANNIE KELLEY—actor, a handsome young man, blonde hair, blue eyes.

CHAPTER XXVIII 'TAIT'S first lightning thought was that Weeks must not recognize him. He could see the musician's gaunt figure plainly, framed in the doorway—but he knew that Weeks could be certain of nothing except that someone had gained entrance to Myrna's prison room.

His fingers biting deep into Myrna's shoulders, Tait pushed her toward the side of the room, and at that moment Weeks' voice roared out: "Come on... out here, or I'll shoot."

Almost immediately a shot crashed into the room through the open doorway, and Weeks, bewildered and blind in the darkness, followed the direction of his revolver. From the side of the room Tait rushed out. In his hands was the only weapon he had been able to discover—a chair. With all his strength he brought it down across the neck and shoulders of Weeks. Then, grasping in the dark for Myrna and finding her clutching, trembling fingers, he started for the door.

The sight of the stairway and the silence behind him were the greatest relief that Bob Tait had ever known in his lifetime. Half dazed, Myrna beside him, he rushed through the dingy lobby and out into the street. The taxi was still there!

"The Claremont," Tait gasped.

HE had scarcely closed the cab door behind himself and Myrna when the gears meshed and the cab roared away. They had gone the space of six or seven blocks when he realized that he was clutching Myrna tight in his arms. Embarrassed, he relinquished his nervous hold. "Are you—are you all right?" She nodded slowly. "Yes," she managed a smile. "I'm still scared, though."

Tait laughed in sheer relief. "That was a foolbrilliant thing I did back there. But I didn't want Weeks to recognize me."

"Weeks?" Myrna looked at him, puzzled. "How did you know his name?"

He told her of the advertisement in the classified column of the newspaper, and of how he had listened at Harris Rogers' door. "How did he manage to kidnap you?"

"I went for a walk," Myrna said. "There was a car at the curb and this man was in it. He pretended he was ill when I went by. I went to the car and the man in it knew I was in that horrible room. He—the man is crazy. I was afraid to move," Myrna shuddered.

"You're all right now," Bob Tait said. "When you were in that room did you ever hear Rogers?"

Myrna shook her head. "Weeks didn't have any visitors, except Lester and Mark."

"Marcy! Are you sure?" "Yes. I heard him introduce himself."

"What did they talk about?" "I don't know. After Marcy came in and introduced himself, Weeks lowered his voice and so did Myrna. I couldn't hear what they were saying."

Tait frowned. "I wonder if that fake criminologist isn't mixed up in this, and trying to palm off the blame on you?"

"What do you mean, Bob?" "Tait's arm went around her shoulders again. "Forget it! You've enough to worry about. The thing you do to do is get back to the Claremont and show yourself to Ann. She's frantic."

"I can imagine," She warned me not to leave the place alone, but I insisted and said she was foolish."

"THE cab stopped with a sudden jolt. Tait looked out on the familiar outlines of the Claremont. "I'll go up with you, Myrna. I want to talk to Feely. Listen, can you and Ann come to a little party I'm giving tonight at the Golden Bowl?"

"Party?" exclaimed Myrna. "I don't know."

"Well, it's sort of a party. And it's important that you come. Will you?"

"Of course, Bob. Only—"

She stopped, put a hand on his arm. You look so tired and worried. Better get some sleep tonight. I'll see you tomorrow night. After all, there's no reason why you should—"

The Irishman's eyes narrowed. "I'm giving tonight at the Golden Bowl. Who's going to be there?"

"I'm asking Ann Lester and Myrna Harris Rogers, Leonard Harris, Ned Starr—and yourself."

'We Wuz Robbed!'

Says Snowball

"We wuz robbed," snapped Snowball Latham today after a hectic night spent in watching returns from the constable election.

"We wuz robbed," he repeated. "That last-minute double-cross by my campaign board of strategy robbed me. Running up a Frank Masi sign campaign my sign scattered the vote and cost me the election."

Dictators' Threat of Bombing Cities Word from overseas has it that the British government hopes for an international agreement to ban the bombing of civilians in wartime. Negotiations for a four-power treaty to that effect are to begin shortly, it is said, with Germany, Italy, France and England as the interested parties.

While military experts are not yet unanimous about the role of air power in modern warfare, it is pretty generally agreed that—from a strictly military point of view—airplanes cannot win a war, in the old sense, by themselves. They cannot seize and hold territory. They cannot destroy armies. The final decision still belongs to the man on the ground.

In other words, the threat of bombing civilians was the ace card held by the Fascists. It was the one card which the democracies could not match. Without it, Hitler could not for one minute have overruled his rivals.

It is clear, then, that any international agreement to outlaw the bombing of civilians would (if entered into sincerely and lived up to on all sides) deprive the dictators of the one big advantage which has enabled them to get their own way.

Does anyone suppose that Hitler and Mussolini would agree to any such thing? The world today needs few things more desperately than it needs an end to this threat of raining death on defenseless civilians. But to expect those who profit by the use of that threat to give it up meekly and without protest is like expecting the lion and the lamb to lie down together in perfect friendship.

Death has stilled the oldest smithy in the United States. For the first time in 260 years there is no blacksmith named Pratt to take over the work of the little shop in Essex, Conn. James Lord Pratt, the last of his line, died a few days ago at 77.

"I remember the incident distinctly," laughed Barrymore as he founded on the set of RKO-Radio's "The Great Man Votes." In which he is starred.

"I had been doing the illustrations for the book of Elmer Wilson's articles and she demanded that the article be sent up to see her. I was not quite 20 at the time and had no money."

"When I arrived at her home, she said, 'What's the matter? Was your father afraid to come to see me?' I explained that the author of the offending illustrations. She snorted her combined contempt for my youth and my inability to illustrate her articles as she desired. But she was kindly in her condemnation and urged me to follow in the footsteps of my father and mother."

"I took the advice of Mr. Brisbane and Miss Wilson, but with no marked success at first. It looked as if I was to work for nothing. I was an illustrator until I landed the leading role in 'The Dictator,' which gave me an opportunity to play a more important part than I had ever before. My theatrical career."

Barrymore believes that versatility is the secret of career and stage longevity. In his own case, Barrymore's roles have ranged from "Don Juan," "Hamlet," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" to being comedy. His current role is a new one for him. That of a former professor who sinks to the position of a night watchman in the slums of a large city.

A STARTLING TESTIMONY

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Oct. 10, 1938
I used to suffer from a common ailment—but one which was none-the-less painful—stomach trouble. For years after almost every meal, I felt as if I had a hard knot in the pit of my stomach and which naturally caused me a good deal of pain. This ailment constantly and suffered from it on my stomach. This condition made me unable to work... as it was extremely painful. Nothing I was able to eat seemed to agree with me and I had about given up hope when I saw an advertisement for Chan & Wing advertisement. After a talk with them and a two weeks course of their herbs I am really a well man once more and I am happy to recommend this firm and their herbs to anyone who I suffered as I once did.

LEHMAN EDGES DEWEY IN CLOSE NEW YORK BATTLE

G. O. P. NOMINEE LOSES IN CLOSE GOVERNOR RACE

By PAUL E. KING
 ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman was re-elected to a fourth term by a plurality of less than 100,000 and Sen. Robert F. Wagner, author of many New Deal social reform measures, was re-elected to the senate, returns from the off-year election showed today.

With only 62 of the 5,065 precincts unreported, Lehman had 3,383,383 votes, compared with 3,221,383 for Thomas E. Dewey, the young Republican district attorney who led the strongest GOP threat in New York since 1921.

Dewey announced he would not ask for a recount, although Lehman had a margin of 166,000 votes so small that Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine ordered the voting machines placed under a 24-hour guard in case of a challenge.

Gives Demos Grand Prix
 Lehman's election gave the Democrats the grand prize of the governorships at stake yesterday.

Sen. James M. McMane, D., defeated Edward O'Neal, R., for the senate short term, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Royce B. Copeland.

The Republican defeat was tempered, however, by gains elsewhere throughout the state. Of the 49 New York congressional races, 24 had been decided, with Republicans winning 13, Democrats, 11.

Among the congressional candidates, James J. O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee, who was defeated by the Democrats and nominated by Republican in the primary, lost the election to James H. Poy, New Deal Democrat. Rep. Bruce Barton, R., was re-elected in Manhattan's 14th district, over Walter H. Lehman, D.

Endorsed by FDR
 Gov. Lehman had been warmly endorsed by President Roosevelt, although New Deal adherence was not his major campaign issue, and for more than a year after he denounced the supreme court reorganization plan, the governor and the President were estranged politically.

Dewey, after congratulating Lehman, announced that he would "return to his job" of district attorney of New York county. The party had asked him to stand for election in that office, to head their ticket.

Dewey said from New York: "If I have contributed anything to the clarity or efficiency of the state government, I am happy indeed to have been in the fight. It was a grand fight and I want to express my intense gratitude to the thousands of workers and the 2,500,000 people who voted for me."

Brooklyn Hears Idaho Praise by Grateful Couple

Mr. and Mrs. M. Soene, Brooklyn, N. Y., who were befriended by many Twin Falls persons last summer when they were detained here for two months following an automobile accident, have a novel way of expressing their appreciation for the many courtesies shown them.

A letter received by friends here, Mr. Soene related that at a recent banquet in the eastern metropolis he told the dignitaries that "the second best product in Idaho is baked potatoes."

He had been responsible for the serving of Idaho baked on the banquet menu, having had them packed and shipped from the Gen state.

More distinguishing than the potatoes, however, is the hospitality of the Gen state, he told the Brooklynites.

Mr. and Mrs. Soene had ample time to learn all about Idaho friendliness, because Mrs. Soene's injuries kept her in the hospital here for two months, following the accident.

"We shall never forget the many kindnesses shown us while in Idaho and we wish to thank everyone whom we met while in your state for the courtesies extended to us," the letter continued.

When Mr. and Mrs. Soene left Twin Falls they said, "You'll hear from us frequently," and from all reports from Brooklyn the two of Idaho's best "foreign representatives."

O'CONNELL LOSES MONTANA FIGHT

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Dr. J. Thorkelson, Republican, and incumbent James F. O'Connor, Democrat, were elected to congress today on the basis of the latest returns from the Montana election.

Thorkelson was leading incumbent Congressman Jerry J. O'Connell, ahead New Deal ticket by a vote of 38,919 to 37,795 with 316 precincts reported out of 419.

O'Connell led with 30,444 votes in 274 of the 316 precincts with 294 precincts out of 400 complete. Husband conceded the election.

O'Connell had asked and his associates refused to awaken him for a statement.

Man Falls Dead; His Vote Counts

Portland Ore., Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Elna Conner, 72, dropped dead yesterday while marking his ballot in a polling booth.

His ballot was cast, nevertheless.

Conner was accompanied to the polls by three members of his family. After his death a member of his family picked up his ballot and handed it to the chairman of the board, who placed it in the ballot box.

Signs Designate Shoshone Streets

SHOSHONE, Nov. 9 (Special)—A delegation from the Lions club, consisting of E. D. Bear, Joe Briggs and Fred Baldrige, appeared recently before the village board and offered to donate 75 metal sign posts, carrying two signs each, on local streets. The posts will stand six feet above the ground. The board agreed to install the posts.

A temporary transfer of $2,500 from the waterworks fund to the street and alley fund, to avoid the registering of warrants, was authorized. Equipment was granted by the Idaho Power company for the city park power line, and water collections will be done in the "Times-News" work in progress in good manner on the curbing program of the village.

The library report submitted to the village board by Miss Annie Lane, secretary, showed that 15,029 books had been loaned from the shelves during the past year. Financial receipts totaled $1019.40, disbursements $1018.21.

Takes To Trailer

OSHOCOUNTY, O. (U.P.)—The village smithy no longer stands "under the spreading chestnut tree" in North, near here. Sam Roberts, veteran blacksmith, has built a trailer-ship which he hitches behind his car and drives where there is work to be done.

England's St. James' palace was destroyed many years ago and court now is held in Buckingham palace.

HORSE CHESTNUT!

Since the publication of some articles on the planting of good and beautiful trees, hundreds of people have come to see me, have stopped me on the streets or have written me, urging that I further investigate the field of beautiful and valuable trees. Trees especially that are not breeding places for pests and trees that do not require a constant expense in pruning and spraying.

One tree that was especially covered in these columns is the Horse Chestnut, the "King of the Chestnuts." I was urged to find and obtain a supply of.

I have now for immediate fall planting, which is best, a few dozen of these young trees of romance and legend.

"This majestic beauty, even in infancy, is worthy of space in any garden."

For the glorification of the state of our birth, and our home town and countryside, I offer this tree to you for next few days—while they last—for 75c each—$ for 43.00.

BURLESQUE ROW DROPS TIMIDITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (U.P.)—Burlesque strip molla let down their shoulder straps today.

For more than a year burlesque strip molla had been "under wraps" so to speak as a result of a moral crusade by the commissioner of licenses.

Official Reaction Mild
 But when the question of night club nudity came up over the week-end, the official reaction was so mild as to convince the strippers they had been unnecessarily timid all these months.

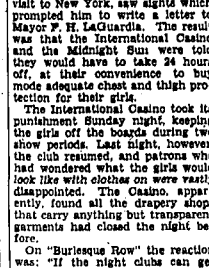

The matter of modesty in night spots was brought up by the son of a midwestern judge who, on his first visit to New York, saw sights which prompted him to write a letter to the chairman of the board.

The result was that the International Casino and the Midnight Sun were told they would have to take 24 hours off, at their convenience, to buy more adequate chest and thigh protection for their girls.

The International Casino took its punishment Sunday night, keeping the girls off the boards during two show periods. Last night, however, the club resumed, and patrons who had wondered what the girls would look like with clothes on were vastly disappointed. The Casino, apparently, found all the drapery stops that carry anything but transparent garments had closed the night before.

"Burlesque Row" the reaction was: "If the night clubs can get away with it, why can't we?"

Dictator's Doctor

American doctors at the Institute of Postgraduate Association meeting at Philadelphia learned that Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany is a "good patient" but one who may ignore his doctor's orders. Dr. Carl von Eicken, above, representing the University of Berlin medical school at the convention, told them he once performed a minor operation on the fushner's neck chond, was highly alarmed when Hitler failed for 14 hours to rally from a morphine sleep. He said Hitler made him postpone the operation several times because it interfered with speaking engagements.

CANAL DIRECTORS MAINTAIN LEVY

SHOSHONE, Nov. 9 (Special)—To provide operation and maintenance funds and interest on Magic PWA improvement bonds for the year 1939, the directors of the Big Wood Canal company set a levy of $1.10 per acre, same as last year. It had been figured that the levy might reasonably have been higher, but because of conditions of the present market and the like, it was considered inadvisable. The levy remained the same, prevailing since 1936, when it was $1.33.

Manager S. T. Baer reported that storms had materially delayed maintenance work on the canals. He also cited the president, Ben Darrach and Assistant Manager E. W. Fowell, in company with J. B. Stabile, federal grading department, had inspected the district of Dietrich bute.

Assurance was given that fencing and other restrictions affecting grass-

NEW SUN VALLEY SKI SITE NEAR COMPLETION

Spectacular Run Will Have Over 3,100 Feet Drop

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Nov. 9 (Special)—Sun Valley's new ski run down Bald mountain, spectacular in its 3,100-foot drop in a scant two miles of running if taken "straight," is practically completed, according to announcement by J. J. Schauflier, secretary of the Sun Valley Ski club, who has with F. S. Moore, supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, overseen the building of the steep trail.

The run, beginning at 9,200 feet elevation on the bare summit of timbered Bald mountain and ending in Warm Springs canyon at a little less than 6,100 feet elevation, will probably be the scene of the downhill races March 25, 1939, as part of the third annual Sun Valley Open ski meet, to be staged this year concurrently with a national four way title meet.

Commission to Rule on Fight Titles

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The New York state athletic commission will attempt to eliminate confusion concerning the middle and light heavyweight boxing divisions at its meeting today.

The commission does not recognize a champion in either division. The National Boxing association, recognized only in New York, who defeated Al Bostak of Seattle last week, as the middleweight titleholder, and John Henry Lewis as the light heavyweight.

Lewis, who formerly was recognized in this state, refused to meet the commission's No. 1 challenger, Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., and his title was vacated. Now Lewis has been virtually signed to meet Joe Louis in a heavyweight title bout in January and is ready to vacate his 175-pound crown.

Supplementing Sun Valley's miles of timbered skiing slopes the Bald mountain trail offers an interesting stretch of tree-obscured downhill skiing which appeals to advanced skiers.

The new theory used in developing the Bald mountain run was evolved last spring after a study of the trail between Walter Prager of Switzerland, Ull Beutler of Germany, Magnus Schull of Austria and Dick Wenzel of the United States.

Gettchell to Officiate At West Coast Game

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—John B. Gettchell, who got mixed up on what down it was and gave a Carnegie Tech quarterback back the wrong way, will officiate at the game between the U.S.A. and Wisconsin in the coliseum Saturday.

Gettchell, who got mixed up on what down it was and gave a Carnegie Tech quarterback back the wrong way, will officiate at the game between the U.S.A. and Wisconsin in the coliseum Saturday.

The open season provides a cleared way, much like an open road, for the ski trail, usually hemmed in on both sides by thick tree growths. Such a trail, Durand, who spent much of the past summer in laying out the new Bald mountain run, pointed out, often invited the less expert skier to "cut" through the trees, but through fatigue or lack of ability to "cut" he lost control on a switch back and had no choice but to crash into trees.

Instead of being an open roadway, the Bald slope trail is a stretch of timbered forest where the trees are less than 200 feet in width, so that a skier finds a "narrow" variety of terrain on which to maneuver. From the valley side the trail is all in the valley, on the mountain side, this type of run, therefore, is not only more safe, but preserves the natural beauty of the mountain. Skiers will find it more interesting, also, because they can run the course dozens of times by different routes each time.

The Bald mountain project is entirely within the bounds of the Sawtooth national forest and was carried out largely as a forest service enterprise. Supervisor Moore of the Sawtooth furnished from 10 to 20 CCC workers while they were available and a crew of 14 men were engaged in digging the construction period of approximately one month. All timber cutting was done under the direction of the forest service, since the building of the ski course also contributed to work in fire prevention and timber culture. Sun Valley furnished a crew of 24 men, including cooks, packers for work camps, and forest workers.

A shelter cabin with a stove, has been built at the top. A phone line extends from foot to summit, wire for which was furnished by the forest service. Since the line will serve as a supplement to the established forest lookout line on Bald mountain.

On the north slope of Bald mountain, where the trail is built, observation has revealed that fine powder snow remains until the end of April, often much longer. This fact practically guarantees perfect downhill racing conditions. Schauflier pointed out for the annual Sun Valley open ski meet, which has become one of the world's classics in ski competition, and which is held each March.

Mac's Interview with Banker Charlie Yates Comes to End When He Asks for Loan

BENNY McHORMORE, New York, Nov. 9 (Special)—There are two accepted methods by which a visitor to Atlanta can find the British amateur golf champion.

One is to stand at Five Points, the center of town, until a fellow golfer who has a draw as soft as a golden ball, a smile as wide as a furrow, and all the naturalness of a leader, later waving down a passerby, says: "That's Charlie Yates."

The other method is to wend your way through the marble halls of the formidable building that houses the "Bank" until you find a man in a dark, lined coat, who, when you approach, says: "That's Charlie Yates."

a show piece for the bank. He wasn't hired because he swept through eight matches at Troon last summer and brought back to Atlanta the cup it hadn't seen since Bobby Jones was going to die golfing wars. He was hired to do a job, and my surprise at finding an amateur "champion" hard at work behind a desk when the sun was warm, the axes blue, and the fairways calling, must have been evident because Charlie's boss spoke up with a smile and said:

"Charlie's a hard-working banker now, and golf is just something that comes on weekends."

"He sure is right about that," Charlie said, "if there weren't any Saturdays or Sundays in the week, I'd just sell my clubs. I wouldn't have any use for 'em."

Did that mean I inquired of Banker Yates, that he didn't plan

Famed Feminine Sprinter Tells Exciting 'Spy' Tale

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9 (AP)—Cleveland's famous feminine sprinter, Stella Walsh, has returned from her 10th trip abroad with an exciting tale of being mistaken for a Polish spy, in the Sudeetenland, and with several packing cases of track trophies and medals.

Miss Walsh (formerly Walewska) is the holder of numerous world track and field records. While on her three and one-half month European tour she participated in various track meets, but she said that the most exciting portion of her trip was being suspected as a spy.

"I was returning to Warsaw, Poland, from the international track championships at Vienna when I was detained for several hours while passing through the Sudeetenland," Miss Walsh said.

"I was afraid that Czech authorities would find per-Clara, which she had used to take sports pictures. The authorities' suspicions might be heightened if they discovered the camera, Miss Walsh believed.

"They must have finally decided, however, that I was 'Mata Hari' as my passport was returned to me soon after midnight. I then was allowed to proceed to Poland," she said.

Jerome Club Will Back Hoop Squad

JEROME, Nov. 9 (Special)—Among the business matters discussed at their meeting here at the Wood cafe Monday evening, the Jaycees voted to sponsor a basketball team this season and will make arrangements for lining up their team in the near future. Arrangements are being completed also for the turkey shoot to be held at the fairgrounds here on Sunday, Nov. 20.

A report of the Jaycees' Halloween dance was made and proceeds from the affair amounted to over $88. Members also voted to give their moral support to the Boy Scout automobile sale which will be held on Dec. 24. Proceeds will go to aid in paying off the debt on the new Scout home which was completed this year.

The committees chosen to work on the basketball program include Dr. R. C. Matson, Harry Wertz, William Stuart and Bailey Russell.

The winter sports committee include Clark Hicks, Earl Small, Brian Thompson and P. M. Rettig. It was decided at the meeting that plans will be made for a skating rink this season.

Jones Uses Muddy Ball as Team Tries Husky Plays

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9 (AP)—Coach Raymond W. Allen today led a Trojan squad of 43 players north to meet Washington Saturday. Halfback Bob Peoples was reported the only injured Trojan now ready to play.

The last drill here before train time was spent on defense against Washington players. They used a muddy ball—just in case. The team will stop for a workout at Sacramento Junior college tomorrow.

Hurler Best With Poor Baseball Clubs

By PAUL SCHEFFELS
NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Take a man that's been pitching since he was a kid, who can put the baseball practically where he wants it, and has the will to win, attack those Frankenstein's of the American league—the New York Yankees—behind him and what should you have? A winning pitcher?—well, you've won it. That's what MacFayden, as a stumpy pitcher with bases on balls or ever wore a glove, was a flop as a Yankee hurler.

Opinions are widely divided whether a pitcher would rather have a club that has an airtight defense along with the attack or weak as early morning sunshine, or an outfit whose sluggers make up the major part of a pitcher's nightmares and a not-so-good, catch-can catch-can defense, but MacFayden throws all these theories out of focus.

Anyone whose career has been something of a mystery, has spent fairly long periods with three major league clubs—DeWitt, from low scoring, poor-hitting outfits, and the other, the high-priced Yankee run-makers. But, and this is what Quinlan's statisticians in the padded cell, respected MacFayden has been at his best with the powder-puff clubs and at his worst with the sluggers.

Signed up in 1926 MacFayden was discovered on the sandlots of New England by Bob Quinn, who always was interested in small-town players. MacFayden signed with the Red Sox in 1926 and since then has never been out of the majors. He was a sensation in his early days with the Hub club which finished in the American league cellar as regularly as the curves in those days.

His best record with the Sox was 16 victories against 12 defeats in 1931, when the club finished in sixth place, their first year out of the basement in seven seasons.

Then, next year on June 3, he pitched the majors. He was a sensation in his early days with the Hub club which finished in the American league cellar as regularly as the curves in those days.

Sport Squibs

A Brother-Act Natural
It's a good possibility that many a south central Idaho football fan who dreamt of a gridiron game in years will be at Lincoln field on Friday (Armistice day) when Filer and Twin Falls engage in their annual conflict.

And while the teams appear on their records to be evenly matched, it's not the prospect of a titanic struggle that is going to attract the throng. Rather, they will come to see one of the few "brother acts" in the coaching game in the United States when the teams of the two schools meet under the guidance of Coach Hank Powers of the Bruins, and his younger brother, Bill Powers of the Wildcats.

It's going to be a lot of fun. Will Hank, a veteran of the coaching game, attempt to teach his younger brother a lesson in the fine arts of teaching and run up a score? Or will Bill do likewise if the Wildcats dominate and end the game with a show that will say "you're asked to go?"

Under any circumstances, the contest ought to be a good one, as both clubs are showing unexpected power in their late season games. Filer, with a new coach and small material, has been a surprise from the start—evident when Filer and Twin Falls engaged in their annual conflict. They swamped a supposedly good Caldwell outfit here and then turned back Idaho Falls last Saturday.

Coach Hank has—as always—one of the finer blocking and tackling teams in the state. Up to this year, the Bruins have usually resorted to straight football. But Hank caught a little of the razzle-dazzle spirit for the 1938 campaign and as a result his teams have put on a show that has been increasingly entertaining for the fans and bewildering to the opposition.

Bill, in his first year at the Wildcat Institution, has developed a fighting spirit that the Filer club has not displayed in many a year. He has an exceptionally small team (in comparison with the Bruins) but what even their boys lack in weight, they make up in fight and aggressiveness. He watched his club against Oakley last week and they were more effective against Coach Doc Cranney's club than the Bruins were earlier in the season.

The Bruins are going to enter the game as favorites due to access with their tougher schedule.

But in the past previous days has had little to do with Armistice day games between Filer and Twin Falls. So add to that a brother act, and you can expect an exciting afternoon.

Farming, Sailing, Archery Among Film Stars' Hobbies

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — The favorite avocations and off-duty activities of many of the stars are interesting sidelights on their personalities. Their oddity-assorted hobbies often act as safety valves for tense nerves constantly strained.

Myrna Loy also hurries to her ranch, the minute she completes each new picture. Her pet absorption is her flowers and fruits. She is especially proud of the fact that this year she sold her first crop of lilies at a substantial profit.

George Raft's pet hobby is collecting boxing gloves. He likes to spend his leisure hours in the company of fighters, ballplayers and other athletes.

Charles Colbert is an enthusiastic and gifted amateur photographer. She has a dark room and photographic laboratory in her home.

Errol Flynn
The hobby to which Errol Flynn would love to devote all his time, if he could, is sailing. Not with a motor — that's for landlubbers — but with white canvas over-head. He would rather live on a boat and sail from port to port than to over the biggest estate in all California.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A punch bowl once owned by Napoleon Bonaparte has been bequeathed to a museum, in the will of Mrs. Emily Francis Robbins, Germantown socialite.

CEMETERY GETS ORPHAN STATUS

CLEVELAND, O. (UP) — The East Cleveland cemetery, which has been in view behind railroad tracks, offers a unique legal problem: Nobody owns it, but still it has prospered through 40 years of "orphanship" until now it has more than $100,000 in assets.

It is located entirely within the city limits of Cleveland, yet it is directed by a board of trustees appointed by the suburban municipalities of East Cleveland and Cleveland Heights. It is not a private cemetery, because no corporation owns it; it is not a public burial place, because it is not owned by a municipality or governmental subdivision.

Trustee explains tangled Attorney Ben B. Wickham, one of three trustees governing the East Cleveland Heights, explains the "orphan" cemetery this way:

Next, the question was taken to the state examiners, who "took exception" but never made a definite ruling. They also have made regular audits of the cemetery funds and accounts.

Approximately 18,000 persons, including many ancestors of some of Cleveland's present families, are buried in the cemetery, which dates back to 1861. Some of the gravestones are dated as early as 1831, when records were kept.

BIRTHS, DEATHS DROP IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont. (UP) — Births and deaths both declined in Canada during 1937, but never had a decline so marked as that reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics disclosed.

The total number of births in 1937 was 113,844, compared with 117,000 in 1936. The total of deaths was the highest since 1930.

THIEF INVITED TO CALL BACK

Picture of a man crossing a bridge

We've all heard of that famous bridge—the one that some people try to cross before they get to it. Fret, Worry & Fear built it and did a bad job. It's wobbly... and it never gets anybody anywhere. There's another bridge—Confidence—that is strongly engineered to carry heavy loads. Confidence sailed our pioneer forefathers across the turbulent Atlantic. Confidence helped our grandfathers extend the stubborn frontier—and made ours the strongest and most abundant land on Earth today. Confidence is ready now to take America further still.
