WHEELER CALLS ON DEMOCRATS TO FORGET DIFFERENCES

WHEELER CALLS ON DEMOCRATS TO FORGET DIFFERENCES... MONTANASOLON URGES UNITY IN BOURBON PARTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Sen. Wheeler, D. Mont., a leading anti-administration Democrat, told members of his party today that they would have to get together at the coming session of congress if they wished to remain in power after 1940.

In an interview, Wheeler said the Democrats should forget past differences within the party and get together to fight for the New Deal laws, and go forward with a constructive, liberal program to avoid defeat in the next presidential election.

Wheeler has been one of the leaders of the anti-administration bloc in congress. It was he who led the fight against the New Deal laws, and he has been one of the most vocal opponents of Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill.

Need Harmony In leaving his call for Democratic harmony, he said that in order to win the next presidential election Democrats must get together and work for the New Deal laws, and he has no indication who he considered qualified for such a job.

"The people," he said, "are in favor of liberalism but not radicalism. The election just held was neither a repudiation of the Democrats nor was it a mandate to react to the Republican party. It did demonstrate that the people of this country want to keep their three branches of government separate and distinct."

West Independent Congressman They want their senators and congressmen to do their own thinking. They don't want the party to be run by Charlie McCarthy for the Republican organization, nor do they want to be puppets in the hands of the executive branch of the government.

"It is significant that, with one exception, the Democrats were not split as an independent was recommended and rejected. The exception to whom he referred was the exception, but I am sure he meant Sen. Longworth, D. Conn., who was defeated by Republican John A. Danaher. Longworth opposed the supreme court bill, but the administration made no attempt to eliminate him in the state convention as it did other Democratic opponents in the primaries. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings supported Longworth."

"The Democrats, during the next session of congress, ought to get together," Wheeler continued. "They ought to come together in the New Deal laws that were passed at the last few sessions, consolidate their forces and go forward with the New Deal liberal program. It is no chance whatever for a third party in 1940. The fight will be between Democrats and Republicans," he said.

Storms Blanket Eastern Coast (From Page One) The first storm to be felt in New York City was before 8 a. m., when the snow stopped and the sun broke through thinning clouds. Many New York City residents who had spent the holiday up-state were marooned. Hunters were abundant in the Adirondack lodges. Thermometer temperatures were 35-40 at Buffalo, 45; Syracuse, 35; New York, 22.

TRADE EMBARGO ASKED FOR NAZIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (UP)—The state department today considered petitions from hundreds of citizen groups demanding an immediate embargo against German trade.

The petitions expressed indignation over Germany's anti-Semitic campaign and the forced dismemberment of Czechoslovakia. They asked that President Roosevelt issue a proclamation through executive order, or through a joint resolution of Congress, to prohibit trade with Germany.

They urged that the United States take the lead in a world-wide movement to bring the Reich to its knees in the interests of the oppressed groups and future world peace. It was pointed out that such action could be taken by the President under authority of section 338 of the tariff act.

The act provides that the President can order application of a 50 per cent tariff increase against imports from any country which is found to be discriminating against American producers. If the discriminations do not cease, the President then can order an embargo against imports from the offending country.

Many petitions charged that Germany is discriminating against American trade direct to Europe and indirectly in other parts of the world, especially South America, by barter trade agreements.

Jews 'STUMPED' BY GERMAN FINE

BERLIN, Nov. 25 (UP)—Germany's 200,000 Jews sought gloomily today to meet the heavy fines imposed on them by the Nazi regime under the threat of an accelerated anti-Semitic program.

Many Jews admitted privately that they saw no way to comply with the government's new decree setting forth the precise manner in which Jews were to pay the $400,000,000 fine levied for the slaying in Paris of a minor Nazi diplomat.

The decree also proclaimed that insurance claims on Jewish property destroyed in the Nazi rioting of two weeks ago must be turned over to the state to help liquidate the fine as part of the 20 per cent levy. Insurance companies will pay the claims to Jews who must immediately turn the funds over to the state. Jewish securities and real estate will be accepted in payment.

Outright confiscation of Jewish property, some Jews said, appeared to be the only way the fines could be met.

PALESTINE HAVEN BARRED TO JEWS

LONDON, Nov. 25 (UP)—The government was on-record today as declaring the problem of Jewish refugees from Germany cannot be settled by emigration to Palestine.

Malcolm MacDonald, dominions and foreign secretary, opened debate in the house of commons on the subject.

"When we promised to facilitate a national home for Jews in Palestine," he said, "we never anticipated this fierce persecution in Europe."

"The problem of refugees from central Europe cannot be settled in Palestine. It has got to be settled over a far wider field."

MacDonald said the government is unable to act at present on the Jewish agency's request for emigration to Palestine because it might prejudice the forthcoming conference between Jews and Arabs in London.

His statement came in the wake of a declaration by President Roosevelt yesterday that he had heard "reports" that additional Jews would be admitted to Palestine.

A Product of Bad Government

It was somehow surprising to read of the death of Chicago's famous alderman, "Bathhouse John" Coughlin. The man belonged to another era; he was a set piece from the day of the muckrakers, and it was hard to realize that he had survived into these post-depression times.

The ward boss is a familiar creature in our municipal life, and Coughlin was typical of the breed. In alliance with the equally-famous "Hinky Dink" Kenna, he ruled the first ward of Chicago for decades, delivering its votes with monotonous regularity and battering on the time-honored mainstays of privilege, protection and perquisites.

For the reformers seldom understand the Bathhouse Johns and the Hinky Dinks. Usually they look on such men as the causes of corrupt government, whereas in reality they are the symptoms of it. And it is that little fact which makes the career of a man like Coughlin worth study.

If we have wide slum areas, great masses of people who live forever on the knife edge of utter insecurity, a city government which has at its disposal favors that will mean millions to the recipients, powerful interests which insist that that government do nothing to disturb them—if we have all of those things, as we have in most cities, then we have the ingredients of bad government.

The bad government which results may operate through such men as Bathhouse John; but such men are not the prime movers. Chicago's government will be no better, now that this particular boss is dead. The conditions which produced him have not changed.

CHAPTER XII

JUDY ALCOTT didn't want to go to Dwight Campbell's wedding. She shrank from the thought of it equally as much as she had shrunk from the very idea of acting as bridesmaid. But not to appear would be to confirm, undeniably and forever, that what people were saying about her was true.

The bride party, that afternoon, had been bad enough. Maybe the others had tried to be kind. They had succeeded only in embarrassing her by their very thinking of her as the girl Dwight had lilted.

She had lived through the wedding. Evidently she had laughed and thanked her hostess for a good time. She had lived through the tea that Mrs. Lane, as the wife of Dwight's skipper, could not avoid giving. But every time she remembered those tormented minutes in Mrs. Lane's living room, she clenched her hands.

She and Jack Hanley came in late. Purposely. They wanted the room filled with people, with talk and laughter, so that no one would notice her especially. But as it happened, they were the last to arrive when they arrived, and Marvel was sitting in a wing chair, Dwight bending over her solicitously. Mrs. Lane had evidently called some relatives to Marvel across the small space between the table and the chair where she sat, because there was a hush on the room—one of those waiting hushes.

As Dwight smiled down at his fiancée, Jack Hanley and Judy came into the room.

MARVEL balanced her teacup and said calmly: "How are you, Miss Alcott?" Judy wanted the room filled with people, with talk and laughter, so that no one would notice her especially. But as it happened, they were the last to arrive when they arrived, and Marvel was sitting in a wing chair, Dwight bending over her solicitously. Mrs. Lane had evidently called some relatives to Marvel across the small space between the table and the chair where she sat, because there was a hush on the room—one of those waiting hushes.

So Mrs. Lane had asked Marvel where they would live. That ordinary question shouldn't have the power to hurt. But Judy, Dwight's wife, knew how it would hurt Judy. Dwight and Marvel—together. Married. A.

SCHOOLMEN SPEAK AT F. F. A. DINNER

HEYBURN, Nov. 25 (Special)—Sixty-five enjoyed the annual Father-Son banquet held in the Heyburn high school building last week. Speeches followed an excellent meal prepared and served by the girls of the home economics department.

Speakers included J. M. Whitting, superintendent of schools; Carl Mertz, J. M. Thoms, Thomas Maberly, vocational agriculture instructor of the Rupert high school; Richard Stevens, coach; Dewey S. Olsen, music instructor; Lund Christensen and Everett L. O'Connor of the grade school faculty and D. M. Carter, vocational agriculture instructor, Heyburn.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The human being is not the only animal that has worms. All of the animals occasionally are infested and quite frequently the worms that are in the animals are transferred to human beings. When these parasites get into the body, they are capable of setting up a good deal of harm. Sometimes they get into human beings directly from soil which is polluted, sometimes from the flesh of the animal that is eaten as food by the human being, and sometimes through contamination of fingers or water.

Among the worms that are thus transferred are the hookworms, the whipworms, the organisms that cause trichinosis, the pinworms, and the pork and beef tapeworms and the trichinae of infested pork.

People who live in the country are more likely to become infested from the soil than are those who live in the cities. Fortunately hookworm infestation, which was the most disturbing of the southern portion of the United States, has been brought largely under control. It has already diminished since scientific studies were first undertaken many years ago.

On the other hand, there seems to be evidence that infestation of the human being with the tapeworm that is acquired from the fresh water fish is increasing in the United States. Certainly trichinosis, which comes from eating infested pork, is increasing and infestation with the tapeworm of beef is not diminishing although apparently not making much headway.

The tapeworm that comes from fish is known by a highly technical name. This tapeworm produces a disease which is rare, except with the microscope. This worm can infect dogs, cats and many animals such as bears and foxes as well as man. It is found in the Great Lakes region of the United States and has been found to be infested with the larvae of this tapeworm.

It is said that in parts of Scandinavia, Finland, Russia and Germany there is a race with the tapeworm up to 50 per cent of the population. Since a person who has such a tapeworm may discharge a million eggs in a year, the possibility of spread of this infestation is easily apparent.

People who have tapeworms occasionally show a voracious appetite but sometimes are really too sick to eat much. They suffer with disturbances of the bowels, loss of sleep, nervousness and general symptoms. This condition can be eliminated if people will avoid the eating of fresh water fish either raw, semi-raw, smoked, or occasionally cured. Thorough cooking will eliminate the possibility of such infestation among human beings.

Jacobs Assured Sell-Out for Title Battle

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—Promoting a sell-out assured of a $100,000 gate for the Armstrong-Garcia welterweight championship fight tonight, was J. Jacobs today as he ordered both principals to refrain from further workouts before ring-time.

With the prospect of hanging out $80,000 for the first time since he took over the big business at Madison Square Garden, Jacobs was trying to assure a big sell-out for the fight. He was assured that the fight would be a sell-out because of the interest in the fight.

As both men completed training in good shape yesterday, odds on Armstrong to retain the 147-pound crown he won from Barney Ross last year were 2-1. That is the price the commission set for the fight. He was assured that the fight would be a sell-out because of the interest in the fight.

The Detroit Lions today needed only one more victory against the Philadelphia Eagles in their final game of the year. Denver university outgamed and outplayed Colorado U. 19 to 12. Herb McCarthy, Denver fullback, and Orlando Mayo, Denver halfback, provided the offensive punch for the Pioneers.

FEDERAL RELIEF LEADERS MAY ASK ADDITIONAL MONEY

LITTLE HOPE OF MAKING PRESENT FUND LAST LONG

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
Copyright, 1938, United Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (UP)—Faced with the possibility of being unable to stretch a $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation until March, administration officials today considered asking congress for additional funds for the final five months of the fiscal year—February through June, inclusive.

Officials believed there was little hope of making the current appropriation last beyond the end of January.

When congress approved the present appropriation, it specified that the funds be expended over the eight months ending Feb. 28. However, it granted President Roosevelt discretionary authority to limit the appropriation period to seven months upon the happening of some extraordinary emergency or unusual circumstance.

Mr. Roosevelt asked voters progress administration officials last month to make the funds last longer. But officials now are convinced that this cannot be done.

WPA Administrator Hopkins conferred with treasury officials several times last week on advisability of recommending that the President use his power to shorten the appropriation period and asking congress for five instead of four months' funds.

He also conferred with the president's special committee on the emergency committee, now engaged in making a special study of the economic effects of federal pump-priming. The committee is composed of Charles A. Delano, head of the national resources board; federal reserve board chairman Arthur S. Woods, a pump-priming advocate; Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and acting budget director Daniel W. Bell.

In addition to the $1,500,000,000 appropriated by congress, there was available $219,000,000 in funds approximately $219,000,000 in funds carried over from the previous fiscal year. Of the $1,719,000,000 total, WPA disbursed $625,000,000 in the first four months of the fiscal year.

WPA expenditures to date have been at the rate of approximately $280,000,000 a month. If this rate were maintained, WPA would need at least a billion dollars to carry it through February. But at the end of October, WPA had only $838,000,000 remaining unobligated.

Under estimated needs, officials now admit that spring disbursements estimated at $1,500,000,000 would be sufficient to carry an average monthly roll of $200,000,000 for the eight months beginning July 1st.

From the outset, relief rolls exceeded Hopkins estimates and he remained well above the $3,000,000 mark. The number of WPA workers peaked at 2,222,000 just three days before the Nov. 8 elections.

THIEVES OUTWIT SCOTLAND YARD

LONDON (UP)—The theft of 10 pounds of high explosive and a building detonator from quarries at Bevoise, Kent, has frustrated Scotland Yard's efforts to track down the "religiose gang" of safe-breakers.

The gang is a six-handed one—all highly specialized. Its chief is between 50 and 60 years old—gray-haired, benevolent looking, whose clothes give him the appearance of a respectable business man. He is known as "the governor" to his associates, lives in a large detached house in a London suburb.

"The governor" who decides where and when a safe is to be attacked, after he has completed his survey of the office or shop, the draws plans like a skilled draftsman, and those are rigidly followed. Only on the night when the safe-breakers set out are they allowed to study these plans. Everything must be committed to memory; nothing is carried by the men which might alert Scotland Yard on the trail of the mastermind.

The gang is first to arrive at the scene of the robbery. It carries a small case in which are skeleton keys, a small but exceedingly powerful electric drill, black leather gloves, dark glasses, and a torch. The gang is to blow open the safe—"the gov" has in his vest pocket. It is the "gov" who is fitted with the pencil and no more than two inches in length. It is wrapped in oiled silk, with an outer covering of cotton wool.

The gang works strictly to a time schedule. Hardly has "the governor" opened the outer door when the others arrive—in a car. In it are black and red, to descend the sound of the drill and the noise of the explosion. As soon as these have been taken inside "the governor" detaches his work. He remains until next morning, when he returns to collect the safe-breaking tools. His men await him behind the locked door.

Scotland Yard has received information that the gang is operating in the third phase of its safe-breaking operation. The firm was confined to a small room in the basement of a country house where police officers were to find valuable information on the gang.

The gang is said to be turning to the "gov" for the bigger diamonds and jewels in country houses where police officers were to find valuable information on the gang.

Brother Feud Ends in Death At Thanksgiving Day Dinner

ALTURA, Calif., Nov. 25 (UP)—Killing a brother, feud that began in childhood, Loren Dees, 29-year-old Eagleville rancher, shot and killed Dan Dees, 31, with a 20-30 rifle during the last of a long series of quarrels at the home of a friend Thanksgiving day.

"I knew I would kill him sometime," Loren Dees told Sheriff John C. Sharp. "He's had it coming to him for years. There's been bad blood ever since we were kids."

The shooting occurred during a pre-Thanksgiving day party at the ranch house of Frank Pickrel. According to Loren, there had been drinking.

"I decided it was time to go home," Loren told the sheriff. "I told Dan to come with me. He refused and started toward me. I picked up a gun and told him I would shoot if he didn't stay away from me. He kept coming and I shot."

Sheriff Sharp said Loren fired one shot. The charge struck Dan in the stomach. He died immediately. Loren drove to Cedarville and surrendered to Deputy Sheriff William Winnop, who brought him to Altura and lodged him in the Modoc county jail.

District Attorney Charles Lederer said he would file a first degree murder complaint against Dees.

"He has made a complete confession," said Lederer. "He told me Dan beat him up several times. They had fought since they were boys."

The brothers had farmed on a ranch near Eagleville for several years.

"INTERNE"

William R. Smith, a 1932 graduate of Twin Falls high school, is now serving an "internship in government" at the department of budget and research, county of Los Angeles, according to word received here today from Frederick L. Alexander, in charge of the internship program.

Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Smith, Twin Falls. He received his A. degree from Long Beach Junior college in 1933 and was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1937 after majoring in public administration.

"Main objective of this career training," Mr. Alexander wrote, "is to obtain a high type of public employe by engaging college trained men to enter the public service in a similar manner as do the various professions, such as law, medicine and engineering."

"Each year eight university graduates from various California schools are selected as 'internes in government' and are placed for a year's internship with the department. The students must either have majored in public administration or political science, and must have made outstanding records in their studies and campus activities. The program was inaugurated in 1933.

The Twin Falls youth has also completed partial requirements for a master's degree in political science at the bureau of administration, U. of C.

NEW DRUG STORE OPENS SATURDAY

Occupying completely remodeled quarters laid out in up-to-date style, Rorabeck's Sav-Mor drug store will formally open its doors in Twin Falls Saturday morning. It was announced today by K. R. Rorabeck, proprietor.

Mr. Rorabeck will manage the store personally. He announced today that M. O. Card, well known in Idaho as a registered pharmacist, will head the prescription department. Mr. Card was formerly a prescription specialist at a drug store and more recently has been located at Boise.

The proprietor of the new establishment, formerly in the drug business in Montana, came to Idaho from Los Angeles. On Oct. 15 he opened a Rorabeck Sav-Mor drug store at Emmet. A member of the United American Veterans of the World War, Mr. Rorabeck has located in Twin Falls with his family.

"Our opening will bring savings on quality drugs and sundries," he said this afternoon. "We will carry the finest available stock of reputable brands. The Sav-Mor drug stores are an Idaho institution, having operations in Idaho, have a long record of service and employ only Idaho help and do business insofar as possible with Idaho wholesalers."

TOTALS LOW FOR LOANS ON WHEAT

South central Idaho's total of wheat loan applications is at a low figure thus far and does not approach the aggregate amount sought by counties in other sections of Idaho. It was shown here today with announcement of requests thus far.

Cassia county, which leads in the south central reports compiled to date, has requested $15,202 under the federal loan program inaugurated early this fall. Twin Falls county has asked $14,659; Jerome, $2,012 and Gooding, $866.

EAST'S CULTURE URGED FOR WEST

MANILA (UP)—Original culture is needed to complement the Occident's contribution to civilization, according to Prof. Greg M. Sinclair, director of the University of Hawaii's Oriental Institute.

Prof. Sinclair stopped here while en route to India to visit colleges and universities and study the advisability of establishing an Indian department in the University of Hawaii.

"India is the fountainhead of the Orient's culture," he said in an interview. "The philosophy back of our movement to establish an Indian department in Hawaii is that the west needs the culture of the east."

Longer History

"With a longer history than any country in Europe, with an ancient literature greater in quantity than that of Greek and Latin literature combined, the originator of one world religion and a host of national ones, surely India has something worthy of our attention. And yet not eight American universities have chairs in Sanskrit—and not one has an adequate department in which the various phases of Indian culture, literature, history, political science, religion and art are discussed."

AAA. Rodney Tegan is wheat loan supervisor at the Twin Falls office.

Showing the wide difference in the appeals for loan assistance as between south central counties and those elsewhere, McPhee county in north Idaho has applied for $417,410 in wheat loans. Latah is second with $268,221, and Idaho county third with $256,893. Power county has the largest application total in the "southern" region with $152,545 requested.

Storage Premium

Extra premium is granted under the loan for farmers who store the wheat after getting the federal advance. For ranchers who have no storage facilities, a federal purchase program is in operation.

Total Idaho loan requests is nearly $2,000,000. Farmers making applications number 1,674.

The trial is scheduled to open Monday with starting of the task of jury selection from a panel of 90 veniremen.

Mr. Gray was formerly court reporter for District Judge D. H. Sutherland of Gooding. He has served as reporter at four previous murder trials in every county in the fourth judicial district. At the trial here he will be aided by Newell K. Ricks, Twin Falls, the regular court reporter.

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service
HOLLYWOOD — Interview with Robert Preston.
Q—So you're the new leading man whom everybody's talking about. Do you know the Paramount publicity boys are treating you as a combination of Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable?
A—Think nothing of it; that's the double-act influence. I hear Warner Brothers are doing the same thing to John Garfield, only they're calling him a combination of Paul Henreid and Jimmy Cagney. Personally I think a new actor ought to have a chance to be just himself. It's hard enough anyway.
Q—How did you happen to become an actor?
A—Well, in high school I was interested in music. I sang some. Mid-mid-mid-mid. So I drifted into operettas and then got a break when Mrs. Tyrone Power, sr., chose me to play in "Julius Caesar" with her stock company. After six months of that I knocked kind of lightly at the gates of Hollywood and got no answer, so I joined the Pasadena Community Players.
Q—So a talent scout saw you?
A—Lawyer Liked Him.
A—Not very soon, he didn't. I worked there two years, made an other stab at the studios, didn't get to first base, and he advised me to go to play in "Idiot's Delight." I guess scouts saw me, but it was Paramount's attorney, Sidney Justice, who liked my work and recommended me. I was called in for a test and signed, just like that.
Q—You've been in a picture or two, haven't you?
A—Sure—"King of Alcatraz," "Illegal Traffic" and "Disbarred." I guess you don't get around to the B films much. Now I'm playing a gambler in "Union Pacific." I like it and everybody has been swell, especially I. Carver, who's John Nolan. They practically took me by the hand and led me through those first three pictures. And I'm not a stage actor, but I love the lack of audience reaction when he's working for the camera. There's always a crew and generally some visitors at a movie set, more people than there were in some of the plays Shakespeare!

Q—You're a gambler now, does that mean you're the heavy of the piece?
A—No, it's a sympathetic part. This gambler is a happy-go-lucky guy who marries Barbara Stanwick and then gets bumped off very dramatically and sent to the life of Joel McCrea, who's the hero. This is my big break and I'm still wondering why DeMille chose me. Some day I'm going to do some research and find out.
Q—Why don't you ask DeMille?
A—Millie Does Balloon Act.
A—I might. Say, there's a guy who really lives up to the legends that have been built around him. We've had some talks that have done me a lot of good. And I've learned one thing—never to mention "fake" to him. He hired a magician to teach me card tricks and some slight-of-hand with silver dollars, but after a couple of weeks I thought I'd never learn, so I suggested to DeMille that maybe they could be faked. He went right through the ceiling at that, and I went right back and began practicing again. I can do ten now. He also gave me a dorringer to carry around so I'll get used to it and learn to handle it naturally.
Q—Any other interesting incidents?
A—Do you do bird-calls or something?
A—Yes, that's what I like about this business—you learn to do a lot of things. When we went on location to Cedar City, Utah, I couldn't ride, so the cowboys taught me. I'm not good, but I can get by. Some way with fencing; I had to handle different kinds of swords on the state. And for "Idiot's Delight" I had to learn to dance.
Q—Are you going with any one?
A—Regular Girl.
A—Yes, I've been going with Catherine Petrus for a year and a half. She's from Indiana. A Pitt Beta Kappa, no less. We worked together in Pasadena, and she plays on the radio.
Q—Going to get married?
A—Well, see—I hadn't thought much about that. But it's a good idea to look forward to.

Q—How old are you?
A—Sorry, but that's a question the studio won't let players answer. Put down 32 and see how they like it.
