WHEAT PURCHASE MOVE CONTINUES

Definite announcement that the federal wheat purchasing program will continue at least until Dec. 31, and perhaps longer, was made here today by Rex W. Lincoln, secretary of the Twin Falls County Agricultural Conservation association.

The purchase program is for farmers who do not have storage facilities on their ranches. Those who can store the wheat cannot sell it to the government but must take advantage of the federal loan program if they wish government aid.

Lincoln spiked reports that the purchase move has been dropped. He said that any rancher with wheat to sell—but without storage facilities that would permit him to compare the loan plan—may still sell the grain outright through the conservation office here.

Ranchers selling wheat to the government will net about 40 cents for No. 1 wheat and 44 for No. 2, according to Mr. Lincoln. Handling charges are deducted from the basic price of 50 and 45 cents.

For farmers with storage facilities passing federal inspection, the loan program must be utilized if government funds are sought. Farmers taking the loan receive an extra seven cents per bushel storage providing the loan is not redeemed.

Students Score in Mystery Thriller

HURLEY, Dec. 7 (Special)—Packed with thrills from the opening minute, the all-school play, "The Fever Room Mystery," presented at the high school Thursday and Friday under the direction of Eugene J. Ryan, dramatics teacher, was a decided success, judging from the applause of the audience.

Maria Johnson ably handled the part of Jack Chandler, who with his sister, Kate, ably played by Fay Hingham, inherited an old house which was built in the Civil War days. Maxine Weidman acted with brioche the part of Myra Vernon, "girl of mystery," and Jim Roper cast as a Kerby Ellsworth, played pranks as a practical joker.

Converting a mad woman, Wilma Jones took the part of Mrs. Barrett, who became a very suspicious. A strange trio of native residents lent mysterious atmosphere throughout the play. A double cast was used for the two roles. The part of Mattilda was taken by Carmel Long and Beth Haycock; Emily by Ella and Helen and Ruth Lyons; and Andrew by Marshall Olefiak and Bud Finley.

The part of the master was spoken by portrayed by Leo Rex Hingham and Jack Smith, whose friends from Louisiana (Gudmundsen and Mae McParlane).

Learning much credit went those working on the stage effects and set-tings: Mayor Baker, Jay Burton, Howard Horenson, Hollis Huston, Lela Green, Louise Painter, Marshall Fisher, Dorothy Peterson, Helen Hoggan, and Evelyn McKee.

COMMANDER SLOANE FOUND HER STILL CLINGING TO JACK'S HAND

Jack's hand, Commander Sloane hunched loudly, and Judy turned, with a slight blush.

"This young fellow's strong as an ox," said the doctor loudly. "A bash like that would have killed anyone else. But all he's got is a broken arm and a few busted ribs."

"Internal injuries?" Judy asked swiftly.

Commander Sloane's eyes avoided hers. "Well—we don't know—takes time to be sure—"

"How long will it be before he's well?"

"Now, now, don't be rushing things. A good long rest in bed never hurt anybody."

"So it was going to take a long time. Weeks. Months, maybe. She wanted to ask if Jack would ever fly again, and suddenly she knew that he had asked himself. Probably it was the first time he said when he regained consciousness. She didn't ask.

Jack was weak. He smiled, and tried to talk, but there were lollapalooze white lines around his mouth and his face was pinched with exhaustion. She said, "Darling, I'll be here every time they'll let me in. I'll come ten times a day. Oh, you'll get well, darling. Sit back over him. 'You must sleep, now. Goodbye. I'll come back in the morning.'"

"Goodbye," he said. "Judy, Judy." There was so much he wanted to tell her, she knew. But his breath came short, the cruel plaster cast was like a heavy weight on his chest. He said softly, "I know, darling. See you tomorrow!" She smiled bravely.

HISTORY Of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7, 1923

At high noon today Senator M. J. Sweeley of Twin Falls gave the first address of dirt in the road which led to the great irrigation belt south of the Snake valley, untold treasures of contact and with the trade of the world through San Francisco, reaching the dream of the pioneers, the pledges of railroad men, and the plans of organizations from the time G. D. Aiken headed one many years ago.

Senator Sweeley made a brief talk in the disagreeable weather, telling in a few words the grandeur of the outlook. Retrospecting the bad weather, 76 from Twin Falls and other points and practically the entire population of Hogerson attended.

A message from Governor C. O. Moore painted a glowing picture of the future of the river-beds. He regrets that he was unable to be present.

Mrs. Jane Maxwell and Miss Peggy Wall will entertain their Sunday school class this evening with a party. Mrs. James Hill is the teacher.

Football for a Dime

Ten cents admission to a football game is the proposal of Robert Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, for removing overemphasis and its attendant evils from college football.

Removal or reduction of the amount of money available to college sports departments would do much to clean up the game, Hutchins feels. He was the boy wonder of college presidents a few years ago. As the head of the great and richly endowed University of Chicago he can launch there an experiment in sociology and advanced pigskin ethics that the world will watch with interest.

Thousands of football fans in the middle west will be glad to cooperate in his purge of the wicked dollar from the game. Meanwhile Dr. Hutchins' premise that people go to college to improve their minds can wait. That will be taken up by the quarterbacks' club right after the first 10-cent football game.

Success Story

America is still the land of opportunity. The story of Gargantua the Great, is a case in point. Seven years ago he was a baby gorilla in a $3 wooden cage in the hold of a ship on his way to America. He didn't amount to much. He had no name.

Today he is sailing the high seas on his way to England in a $20,000 air-conditioned cage aboard a luxury cruiser. He will travel by the southern route, which though longer is more likely to be conducive to a smooth trip. His name, Gargantua, is widely known throughout the country and he has grown in height, and in weight. Experience in the circus here has qualified him to appear in London.

His life for the last seven years simply proves what a young gorilla who behaves himself can do in America.

SHE held the baby, while an attendant from the station carried Diane's bags, and Mrs. Alcott went into the train to see that everything was all right in the compartment. And then Judy was handing little Bill to his mother and saying gravely, "You'll love, Diane? You'll let me know how things are?"

"I'm miss you so," Judy said. "I'll miss you so, Judy said. 'I'll miss you so, Judy said. 'I'll miss you so, Judy said."

"He's still with me!" Diane said fiercely. "I'm not going to act as if he's gone. He'll always be with me!"

"I know," Judy said, and the hot tears were burning her own eyes. "Oh, darling!"

And then she and her mother were standing on the platform, waving goodbye, as Diane held the baby to the window and the train crawled out of the station.

"I won't want you to quit," she said. "When I get well, Commander Sloane says I'll be good as new. Barriers and fences. 'I'll be flying again, Judy.'"

John T. Flynn Says—

Until a successor to the late Rodney Delaney is named, the editor of "John T. Flynn's social economist," is being carried on the "Behind the Scenes" in Washington.

BY JOHN T. FLYNN (NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Seven young economists from Harvard and Tufts colleges have drafted a program for economic recovery. It appears in a small book just published.

As in 1931-2 a stream of programs for rehabilitating America pours out upon our desks. This is the most interesting I have seen chiefly because it comes from the hands of men who understand the anatomy of the capitalist system.

The program is based upon the theory that the continuing functioning of the capitalist system requires a continuing flow of investments. The authors point out quite properly that this means that private industry as a whole must pay out an end to existing evasions and by abolishing tax-exemption securities. They also advocate what this writer has advocated, the taxing of corporate earnings in the hands of stockholders rather than dividends.

THEY'RE NOT TERRIFIED

As for borrowing, they face with equanimity continuous borrowing, which and borrowing by the public debt. The rising tide of taxes to the people, they dismiss with the proposition that this can be rendered harmless in economics if the ownership is spread out among all the people. Then, as all the people will be taxed to pay the interest, the interest will go back to them as owners of the bonds.

As to private business, they urge an end of trust busting. Great aggregations of capital are useful. The government should regulate those that can be regulated by controlling prices and should take over those which do not yield to regulation. It should take over the railroads, regulate prices of great basic industries and try both regulation and ownership of utilities.

AN OPEN LETTER TO POLICE CHIEF GILLETTE:

This is not a publicity stunt. What we have to say springs from a sincere conviction. Like many other citizens, we are reading stories on the petty crimes that are swamping the city. Small thefts—from cars, homes, stores—but of a terrible significance.

For these are the type of crimes perpetrated by BOYS—the dirty-faced kids—products of neglect and poverty—who are already making their choice between crime and honesty.

Months ago—the motion picture industry realized that something must be done to awaken the public to the social menace in the forgotten "gutter" boy. There came—in to win the applause of the nation—"BOYS TOWN". Now, of wider scope, more shocking and deep-reaching, comes the Warner Brothers drama dedicated to youth at the crossroads of crime—

"ANGELS with DIRTY FACES" opening today at the ORPHEUM THEATRE.

We believe that this picture's powerful message will strike deep—give a new consciousness of the need to curb petty crime and youthful criminals NOW!

FDR PLANS REARMAMENT PROGRAM WITHOUT BUDGET BOOST

No Increase In Deficit is Seen in 1939

By GRATTAN MCGOVRTY WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—President Roosevelt intends to put his rearmament program into effect without any considerable increase in the 1940 fiscal year budget, it was stated authoritatively today.

A high administration official, closely connected with budgetary matters, said next year's federal budget would not greatly exceed that of this year's despite a large increase in military and naval expenditures.

President Roosevelt said his rearmament program would be put on a pay-as-you-go basis with no increase in taxes presently contemplated. New taxes, it was said, may be avoided by reduction in other items, particularly relief.

No National Debt Increase Official sources emphasized that additional taxes would be sought only as a last resort. Mr. Roosevelt said he was determined that arms should not increase the national debt, which will reach the record level of approximately $29,000,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt said details of the naval and military budget which he will submit to congress on Jan. 3 have not yet been worked out. He said, however, that he would keep defense costs divorced from both emergency relief expenditures and the self-liquidating, pump-priming projects.

Appropriation Not Set The exact amount to be recommended to congress for defense next year has not been determined but indications point to expenditures well above $1,000,000,000 for a post-war record.

Budget expenditures and the amount for national defense for the two previous fiscal years were estimated as: 1939, total expenditures, $7,000,358,000, defense, $1,000,000,000; 1938, total, $7,418,853,300, defense $937,776,100; 1937 total, $8,102,158,347; defense $844,656,155. National defense expenditures for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 probably will greatly exceed, and perhaps double, those of last year.

MRS. HAHN GOES TO OHIO ELECTRIC CHAIR TONIGHT

SON WILL PLEAD WITH GOV. DAVEY THIS AFTERNOON

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7 (UP)—Anna Marie Hahn, who made a business of poisoning old men for their money, will be executed in the electric chair tonight.

Her 12-year-old son, Oscar, waited in a hotel for his last trip to the Ohio state penitentiary and his last visit with his mother. He discussed model airplanes with reporters and didn't seem to have a care in the world.

Pleads

Twelve-year-old Oscar Hahn this afternoon will make a plea to Gov. Martin Davey of Ohio to spare the life of his mother, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair tonight.

Afternoon and let the lad plead for his mother's life, and, failing that, have him ask for a short reprieve until Davey's successor takes office Jan. 1.

Davey had taken his time considering her clemency petition, determined to take the responsibility rather than giving her a reprieve and leaving it as a legacy to his successor.

Mrs. Hahn, 32, made herself attractive to old men, the murdered Jacob Wagner, 78, of Chardon, Ohio, while serving him as a nurse, she administered poison to his food.

Mrs. Hahn will have a small spot on her head shaved bare this afternoon for the electrode, probably after she has seen Oscar for the last time.

TOWNSEND PLAN AND U. S. MONEY

Dear Evening Times: Will you be so kind as to allow me some space in your forum column to reply to Mr. Charles H. Purkiss on his article in the "Public Forum."

They barnstormed the country. They estimated that in about one year they had a membership of over 5,000,000.

Well, the game started by its promoters goes merrily on, and when the game begins to lag, they put on the old ghost and a new crop bites at the silver bait so blatantly presented to the old and gullible.

Now, Mr. Purkiss, I believe you are not different from most people and especially, at least, the Townsendites that I have heard talk.

There is a common idea that there are mountains of money in the U. S. treasury that has cost nothing to produce.

TAYLOR SUGGESTS PERIODIC PROBES

BOISE, Ida., Dec. 7 (UP)—Attorney General J. W. Taylor today recommended that the state law governing grand juries be amended to provide for periodic an periodic grand jury investigations of state departments.

The expenses of such grand juries, he said, should be subsidized by adequate legislative appropriation so as not to throw the full burden upon the county in which the grand jury is called.

MEN HAVE ONE LESS RIB THAN WOMEN. RIGHT OR WRONG?

Answer: Wrong. Both men and women have 12 pairs. The belief that women had one more came from the Biblical story that woman was created with a rib taken from man.

Uncle Si Says...

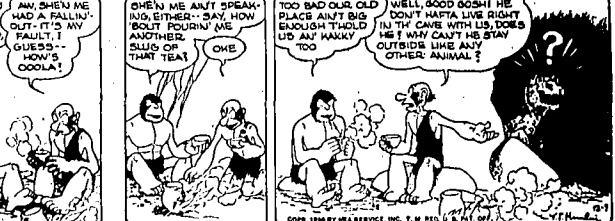

That combination sale bill and ad offer of the Times and News for farmers havin' public sales, sure gets the crowds. For every sale ad of 18 inches or more free sale bills are also given. This way 15,000 homes in 8 counties get a sale bill in the newspaper, and then the farmer has bills to put up in important spots.

The bigger crowds that come pay higher prices that pay the advertiser's cost several times. Better find out about the offer for your sale.

Conference to Endorse FDR Plan

No Countries Seen Against Defense Pact

By ALAN COOGAN

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 7 (AP) — The eighth Pan-American conference appears certain to endorse the principle of President Roosevelt's program for solidarity of the Americas against foreign aggression, authoritative sources said today upon the arrival in Peru of the United States delegation headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

After a series of informal conferences preliminary to opening of the formal sessions on Friday, it was learned that Brazil is expected to introduce a resolution endorsing the United States viewpoint generally. Well-informed leaders in the conference expressed confidence that the resolution eventually would be adopted unanimously, although preliminary opposition is expected.

No Written Commitments
At the same time, it was emphasized that there would be no written commitments in regard to plans for mutual defense, if necessary, against a foreign aggressor. It is not expected that the United States will seek any written records, which would be strongly opposed by Argentina and other nations.

The action of the conference would not be binding on the government represented, but it would be an expression of the attitude in which all of the 21 republics represented would be likely to join.

Foreign Nations Campaign
Furthermore, some sources viewed the resolution as a gift, settling the activities of representatives of non-American nations at Lima. The German, Japanese and Italian representatives have been in closely following preparations for the conference, especially in connection with that part of the program calling for "organization of peace."

The totalitarians recently have increased lecture and other propaganda efforts in South America to counteract the efforts of the conference.

SAWTOOTH SNOW HINTS BIG YEAR

Starting out in a fashion that portends more snow than last year's heavy totals, Kootenai and the Sun Valley areas had eight inches at the start of this week as compared with five inches the same time last year, according to the initial winter report received here today from P. B. Moore, Sawtooth national forest supervisor.

Mr. Moore's charts showed Halley with 4.3 inches. Last year Halley didn't have any snow at all the first week in December.

Nearly All Higher
Snow depth reports from mountain checking stations in the Big Wood river watershed show that every spot except one is well in excess of last year. Galena had 28 inches Dec. 5 and 18 inches a year ago; Macon mine had 18 inches and 10 last year; Old Baldy stations showed depths of 12, 14 and 22 inches. The figures last season at this time were six, 14 and 18 inches.

Fairfield, in the Malad watershed, tributary to the Big Wood, showed six inches of snow Monday. There wasn't any a year ago. Soldier ranger station had 15 inches as compared with only six inches a year ago.

Sawtooth Valley
In the Salmon river watershed above Galena summit, snow figures in Mr. Moore's first report indicate that the all-winter residents will have plenty of snow to keep them company. Williams ranch had 14 inches Dec. 5. Last year the total was five inches. Figures for Stanley's haven't yet been reported. Cumulative figures from Oct. 1 show this year ahead of a year ago and ahead of the average. Inches of snow since Oct. 1 have been 14.30 inches; a year ago this was 11 inches; the average is 12.85. Water content of last year's snow up to Dec. 6, however, was slightly higher.

National Potato Output Shows Substantial Dip

Potato production by the 48 surplus late producing potato states was 253,600,000 bushels on preliminary estimates—nearly 9,000,000 less than the 1927-1936 average and almost 25,000,000 less than in 1937, according to USDA summary received here from Richard C. Ross, agricultural statistician at Boise.

The total United States production, including the surplus late states and other late-producing states, the intermediate potato states and the early spud areas is 368,200,000 bushels this year. That is a reduction of 1,000,000 under the 1937 average and 25,086,000 under last year.

The estimates cover the entire crop, whether commercial or non-commercial.

Idaho Lower, Too
Idaho's crop, too, bears out the general decline that should bring higher prices. The Gen. state crop of 77,000 bushels as of last month represents an increase of 615,000 bushels over the Oct. 1 forecast but is nearly seven per cent smaller than the record 1937 yield.

Potato comments from other late key states, as received here by County Agent Harvey B. Hale, show these facts:
New England—In most of the New England states the potato crop continues to fall short of expectations. Digging of the crop has made apparent the damage caused by the heavy September rains. In all the New England states the potato crop is showing heavy losses from rot. Some potato acreage in southern New England has been completely abandoned. In Aroostock county, Me., potato crop prospects show a further reduction. Reported yields are very light. Tubers are generally small in size, and rot is reported as having caused considerable loss to the crop prior to harvest. In some instances, rot is reported as continuing in storage.

New York—Blight, with some extremely dry weather in August and early September in the central and western New York, wet weather in eastern, and heavy rainfall in September all conspired to lower yields. Losses by blight rot have been very heavy in parts of the state.

Pear in Pennsylvania
Pennsylvania—The harvest is over, with yields generally much under early expectations and grade running low because of the large percentage of small potatoes. The loss from rot in the field and storage is heavy in some localities.

Michigan—Harvesting began earlier than usual, and proceeded without interruption. For that reason it was completed during October without any freeze damage. Tubers were well matured and exceptionally free from dirt. Rot from late blight was almost entirely confined to Mountain county and portions of nearby counties. However, there was another area similarly affected in the Upper Peninsula. In these areas yields were considerably reduced, but for the major portion of the state, yields were generally good, and in many areas larger than in any recent year. The crop is grading out about 25 per cent, consisting mostly of potatoes with hollow heart and growth cracks. The warehouse storages are completely filled and many farmers are storing their crops on the farm as they are reluctant to sell at present prices.

Blight in Wisconsin
Wisconsin—Because of heavy rains in late August and the first three weeks of September, most of Wisconsin's late potato crop was harvested in October and much of it late in the month. Widespread infestation of late blight caused extensive damage, and while there is a large production of tubers, the quality left in the fields because of rot were extremely large.

Minnesota—It looks like crop reporters are of the opinion that yield is not up to expectations which
