Confer on WPA Layoffs that Brought Picketing

Twin Falls Sees Idaho's First WPA Picketing

Loss of Nearly $20,000 Seen For Stockholders

A committee of members of the Twin Falls Workers Alliance organization is shown above as it conferred with local officials and placed demands that men recently discharged from WPA rolls as the result of a national order, be returned. Conference was held here two days. The workers are now awaiting the results of pleas sent to Washington, D. C. by WPA, city and other officials and also their own organization. Pictured above during a conference are (seated, left to right) Robert Hampton, county supervisor for the department of public assistance; John Griffiths, WPA engineer for this county; Perry Wimmer and Wayne Porter, committee members. Standing (left to right) are Perry Morris, spokesman for the group, and Charles Hamley, another committee member. (Evening Times Staff Photo.)

Between 75 and 100 members of the Twin Falls Workers Alliance and other WPA workers Thursday and Friday of this week picketed the building housing WPA and relief offices located at 226 Second street east. They were seeking reinstatement of approximately 100 persons who lost their jobs during the recent WPA cut. After two days of conferences with local and state WPA officials, it was decided last night to postpone the picketing until results of pleas sent to Washington could be learned. Above, part of the group gathered at WPA headquarters. The picketing was orderly. (Evening Times Staff Photo.)

By EARL B. STEELE NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (UP)—Federal authorities revealed today that others "just as important" as Philip Musica were involved in the scandal of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., the big drug firm which was developed by swindlers with prison records.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Irving R. Kaufman, hinted that living witnesses might prove as valuable to the federal investigation of the vast drug combine as Musica, the Italian immigrant boy who killed himself yesterday when he was exposed and trapped as the "F. Donald Coster" who had built the financial empire of McKesson and Robbins.

Based upon certain facts in our possession, there are other people I wouldn't say higher in the scheme but just as important as Coster," Kaufman said today. Kaufman is in charge of federal government's investigation of the amazing swindle which may involve losses of $20,000,000.

Brothers held in jail The federal grand jury did not amplify his brief report on the case. It was interpreted as including the three brothers of the late Philip, who also had been indicted and named, and became executives of McKesson and Robbins.

Philip, the "big brother" and arch enemy of the state, was the president of the corporation. The three surviving brothers were in jail, unable to provide $100,000 bonds each. George, who assumed the name of George E. Dietrich and became assistant treasurer of his brother's firm; Arthur, now known as George Verrard, who became associated with two dummy corporations dealing with the firm's crude drugs department; and Robert, who as Robert Coster was a prominent politician of the state in the late 1920s and was a purchasing agent for the firm.

Supplices likewise were issued for a Republican and a Democratic politician of Connecticut—the state in which McKesson and Robbins maintained its largest plant.

They were former associates of McNell, Bridgeport, and former Connecticut labor commissioner and federal prohibition officer Harry E. Mackenzie of Bethel.

Investigation hampered The suicide of Coster-Musica hampered investigation. He was the crooked genius and cooperator of the swindle which had caused times before involved him and his family in such things as the "human bomb" case, gave welcome to a cheese straggling enterprise, an international bank draft swindle.

He shot himself in the bathroom of the Hotel Astor in New York City, Conn., after his fingers had exposed him as a former convict and United States marshal was in the process of being arrested. The swindler's brother, Alexander Slavsky, the President of the swindle, was nearly brought down the French republic.

Present indications were that the brother, Philip, at least had caused an $18,000,000 shortage in the listed assets of the firm. This was the valuation of the crude drugs department, the swindle which had been in existence except in name. Its assets were supposed to include six warehouses stocked with supplies in Canada, worth about $10,000,000. $1,000,000 in bills payable to the department from firms all over the world.

Planned to Cover Tracks Meanwhile, the report reached Washington, it is believed, had evolved a scheme a few weeks ago that might have concealed the swindle forever had not investigation begun to pierce the swindle. His plan, it was said, was to buy the crude drug department, using his $100,000 shares of common stock as part of the collateral, and to dissolve it quietly, covering his tracks.

The $10,000,000 shortage would have heavily hit the listed $87,000,000 assets of the company. However, some of this money might be located, or recovered from the personal assets of the Musicas.

Although trading in McKesson-Robbins stock has been suspended on the New York exchange, it is still being traded on the over-the-counter market on the basis of yesterday's quotations. The three issues of stock have dropped.

Illegal Expenditures Charged in Liquor Department

Idaho Accountant Raps Over-Payment to Clerks

BOISE, Dec. 17 (UP)—The Idaho liquor commission made "excessive and illegal" expenditures of moneys to so-called special distributors, Truman Joiner, bureau of public accounts director charged in a special audit released today. The report also made charges of nepotism.

Partly commission-appointed distributors operating small businesses throughout the state were being paid in excess of $750,000 minimum salary provided for in the state liquor act, Joiner said. These expenditures, he said, were in the form of lights, rent and wages to extra employees.

Joiner had from Pete Elliott, assistant attorney general, a memorandum opinion that "payments to or on account of a special distributor in excess of $750 a year are illegal expenditures."

Possibilities of legal action developed when Joiner indicated he would confer on the alleged violations with Atty. Gen. J. W. Taylor. Atty. general said that "any study of the alleged 'irregularities' already made has been made and may be continued."

Joiner cited 41 alleged violations in the past three years. He said that the maximum involved in the case of the liquor dispenser was a special clerk.

SNYDER REFUTES ONE GUN CHARGE

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17 (UP)—Col. Moe the Gimp Snyder fretted today at a trial recess after his defense repudiated one of six charges in the shooting of young Miry Alderman.

It was for the eradication of serial numbers from a revolver—a California violation—carrying a one to five year penalty.

A ballistics expert, Spencer B. Moxley, picked up the revolver with which Snyder allegedly threatened the lives of Alderman, Ruth Etting and Edith Snyder, and showed a hidden serial number. It was stamped under a plate from the handle which Snyder removed. Then he told the revolver which Prosecutor U. U. Blacklock, obviously started, dropped the subject with an explanation to the jury of his investigators' apparent oversight.

Says Alderman Not Armed In brief rebuttal testimony Miss Etting denied that Alderman was armed when Snyder began firing Oct. 15, or that Alderman carried Snyder. Alderman substantiated her testimony and fully denied he had ever acted as "protector" as Snyder related. His daughter, Edith, also refuted Snyder's story that he had never abused Miss Etting, while her husband of 17 years. She said she once hit her with an umbrella and also slapped her.

Attorneys left the session short because of a break at least until the trial would be held before the July 1st.

William S. Hart Asks Return of Trust Fund

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17 (UP)—William S. Hart demanded back today the trust fund he set up 20 years ago for a woman who claimed she bore him a son.

The benefactor was Miss Elizabeth MacCauley, a Boston schoolteacher, who fell in love with Hart when he was the hard-fighting, two-gun hero of silent pictures.

Hart, now 68 and retired, filed suit in superior court charging that her story was proved false, that the son never existed, and asking for the money which now amounts to $12,000.

The scandal caused by Miss MacCauley's charges was blamed in part for the decline of Hart's film career. She fell in love with him because of his pictures, and came to Hollywood in an effort to see him. Later she produced a child of whom she claimed the actor was father.

His later lives with him. He was divorced by his wife, and leading lady, Whittier Westover, during his screen heyday.

Supply Dwindles For Latest Rage Of Fun Devotees

Blades of the days of picture puzzles, miniature golf courses, chain letters and "300"—but today the rage is a little game commonly known as Chinese checkers.

And a survey of many local stores this afternoon indicated the supply is about exhausted, but such orders are on order and the stock is expected to be taken up before Christmas.

One local store quoted a distributor as saying that over 100,000 of the games had been sold in Idaho and Oregon recently and that all were made in Idaho from Idaho wood.

Another local store owner said he had had two of the games left while still another had only two left. He said he would be available for Christmas.

Hundreds of the annual gifts are also being ordered for this particular game. From 12 to 15 of the class members are making boards of their own.

The game itself is easy to play and, from the popularity, must be absorbing. Supplies are used in place of checkers and holes over the face of the board provide "parking spaces" for the marbles.

REBEL WARSHIPS SHELL HIGHWAYS

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 17 (UP)—Spanish nationalists, marching, developing a new phase of insurgent military operations, shelled roads between Castell de Ferro and La Rabita on the southern coast, loyalist dispatches said today.

It was the first time the southern coast had been shelled since German troops landed in the region in May, 1937, in retaliation for an alleged loyalist airplane attack on a German battleship.

The road bombardment apparently was an extension of a new air-ship bombardment along the eastern coast. The nationalists have been shelling roads and machine gunned fishing boats as well as towns and villages.

There was an estimate of casualties in the road shelling. Loyalist authorities at Barcelona asserted that 100 German Panzers landed yesterday bombed Ferrol, destroying 32 houses, and then, flying low, machine gunned civilians in the streets nine times. The day before loyalists had reported eight Italian Savoia planes, flying at 500 feet, machine gunned civilians and a railroad train near the town of Ferrol.

Both nationalists and loyalists reported all actual war fronts quiet in their early communications today.

SKI'S THE LIMIT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR—skier. She had everything that popularity could bestow. Her admirers were legion.

DAN REYNOLDS—a boy. He might have had Sally but while he was king of the hill he was king of the social whirl. So... But go on with the story.

CHAPTER I

There was really no doubt as to who would be chosen Queen of the Ice Carnival. All bets were on Sally Blair. Sally was the prettiest, the most popular girl to be invited to the winter festival. Sally, herself, would have been more surprised if she had not been chosen than she was when the committee informed her she had been.

"As if anyone else could be Queen!" Corey Porter said with amug gratification. For Sally was Corey's girl. For the next few days, anyway.

It was no small feather in Sally's pretty cap to have been invited by Corey, either. Corey was president of his senior class, best fraternity on the campus, key-man. He was the only son of Peterson Porter, the steel magnate, no mean accomplishment in itself.

They made a handsome couple, Sally and Corey, swinging along, hand in hand, toward the practice hill where contestants would be getting in trim for the big meet the next day. Sally was as small and dark and sparkling as Corey was big and smooth and fair. More than one head turned to look at them, more than one remark signaled them out. "There goes Corey Porter, senior president, swell guy!" and, "That's Sally Blair. She was voted the most popular girl in her school and now she's to be Queen of the carnival!"

"Remember," Corey said, "you're my girl this week-end. Sally. Anyone who tried to break that up had just better watch his neck!" His look was so fierce, so possessive that Sally laughed.

"I guess no one will dare do it," she said. "That is if he values his neck." But she knew that Corey would find plenty of competition. Wherever she went Sally always held court.

ROUNDING the bend they came upon a dazzlingly beautiful sight, wind-rippled snow, sparkling with myriad tiny diamonds, dark sentinels of pine marching up the mountain sides, a blue, blue sky spread like a canopy overhead, and crowds and crowds of brightly-colored people.

"Isn't it lovely?" Sally exclaimed, and then, "Oh, Corey—look at that!" She caught his arm, standing breathless, watching a dark figure poised high above their heads. "What a beautiful sight, Corey! It's just what I needed. Three long loud cheers rang out from lusty young throats as Sally responded with a mocking howl, flashing her smile to the right and left. However, her dark eyes did not leave the figure of the tall, bare-headed boy, remaining still and apart.

"That was worth looking at," Corey admitted. "Perfect co-ordination and judgment, marvelous tempo and control."

"Who is he?" Sally demanded, "and why is he so tall and thin and white-eyed and breathless. Never had she seen anything to equal that performance in sheer grace and beauty."

"Don't you know? That's Reynolds. He's out on the Olympics. He'll make it, too, if he keeps up that form. He'll probably walk away with most of the honors tomorrow. At least, as one of his fraternity brothers, I can say he'd just better since we're backing him to stack up points for dear old Dartmouth."

"I'd like to meet him," Sally said. "I suddenly seemed impatient as you, my sweet. Especially one of your kind, I might add."

"Are you afraid you couldn't 'bring his neck'?" Sally laughed at Corey's question. "I can't say I'm exactly rellah that!"

There was not time for Corey to answer this, even with one of his ever-ready wide-cracks. Several of the young people, gathered about Dan Reynolds, recognized Sally and Corey and called out to them.

"Alley-oop! It's about time you joined us!"

"Here comes the Queen, everybody! Make way! Let's have a hearty welcome for her!"

Three long loud cheers rang out from lusty young throats as Sally responded with a mocking howl, flashing her smile to the right and left. However, her dark eyes did not leave the figure of the tall, bare-headed boy, remaining still and apart.

PHILADELPHIA'S INCOME TAX

Hard-pressed cities casting about for new revenue may profit from the heavy-gauge experienced by Philadelphia's new 1 1/2 per cent income tax.

Faced with the problem of raising $26,000,000 additional income to balance the 1939 municipal budget, Philadelphia's councilmen voted the income levy and then thought better of it in the face of overwhelming public protest.

Most any new tax is going to be unpopular and certainly it would seem that many municipalities will have to "haul off and pass a miracle" to make both ends meet, but the need for new revenues should not drive legislators to any hasty action aimed at John Q. Public's already tax-depleted wallet.

A local income tax doesn't seem to be the answer.

Science and Alarm Clocks

Ten thousand nights of scientific sleeping at the University of Chicago have produced a conclusion which may be soul stirring in some quarters, but which is no great news in others.

Employees, graduate students from many states, teachers and physiologists have combined their findings in a lengthy report which has for its conclusion the statement that an alarm clock normally cuts about a half hour off a night's sleep, as without the clock the persons slept that much longer. This will be important news to anyone who has never heard an alarm clock.

Blood-Language Leads to Absurdity

If you remember the geometry you studied in high school, you may recall a stunt which went under the high-sounding title of "reductio ad absurdum."

The idea was that if you had a theory to test, and suspected that there was something wrong with it, you selected the dizziest example you could think of and carried it to its logical conclusion. Then, when you had a thoroughly cockeyed situation on your hands, you proved that the theory itself was phony. You did this by reducing it to absurdity—"reductio ad absurdum."

For a long time now the theory that remote ties of ancestry and language should determine a people's government has been widely held. It led to much map-making at the Versailles conference, and more recently it gave Herr Hitler a fine excuse for pushing his drive to the east.

Now the Italians have picked it up, looking toward expansion in the direction of Tunisia and Corsica; and it begins to look as if the old high school process of reductio ad absurdum had set in.

It may be quite true that the bulk of the Tunisians and Corsicans are either of Italian ancestry or speak with a pronounced Italian accent. But if that means that those territories should immediately go under the Italian flag, then Uncle Sam himself is sitting on a lot of subject peoples who are under the wrong flag.

By that theory the Dutch ought to reclaim a good part of Pennsylvania, and Spain should take over large portions of Arizona and New Mexico. Sweden would get a large area in Minnesota and the Dakotas, and by right of discovery and settlement should be entitled to part of New Jersey. The French would have a respectable claim to New Orleans, and Italy could lay claim to a good bit of land along Long Island Sound. Poland could reclaim many city blocks in Chicago and Germany could assert title to much of St. Louis and Cincinnati. New York City would be split about 80 ways, considerable territory in the west would go back to the Indians, and Japan would get Hawaii.

All of this is pretty absurd, of course. Yet it follows quite logically, once you accept the premise that remote ties of blood and language are all-important. And if logical adherence to that theory leads to absurdity in this country, perhaps the same thing is true elsewhere.

The plain fact is that this blood-and-language business has been overworked to an amazing degree. There are far more important considerations to be applied in determining national boundaries, and it is high time the fact was realized.

There have been so many migrations and so much shifting and intermingling of peoples that the map can never be unscrambled and peace can never be attained on a blood-and-language basis. As long as that is the accepted shibboleth there will be wars and rumors of wars. The world's hope for peace depends on recognition of the fact that some saner and more practical means of determining who shall rule whom must be found.

NOVA HEADS FOR LEA KWEIGHT BOUT

Youthful Battler Chalks Up Win Over Tommy Farr

By HARRY FERGUSON
NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—It's a haul and farewell today—hail to the rising star of young Lou Nova who seems on his way to a shot at the world heavyweight championship, and farewell to tough Tommy Farr who deserves something better than an abrupt exit into which he is going.

They fought it out last night inside the red ropes at Madison Square Garden, fought it out before 10,000 persons who sensed that their hour of blows and bloodshed was the turning point in the lives of two men, one going the high road and one the low road.

There was honor enough for both when the blood there, freely and tired, in the breathless moment before the decision was announced. But the decision went to Nova—justly so, and the crowd's biases brightly. For Farr it probably meant the end of his career on the big time, with nothing ahead but tank town lights and a cottage in Tony-pandy, Wales.

Fights Like Tunney
Nova who looks and fights like Gene Tunney, is headed for a match with Max Baer. Beyond Baer stands Joe Louis and the championship, but that's another matter. It is said that if anybody is going to take Louis, Nova is the man.

He has had everything the experience last night. His short right needs to travel only a foot to explode like TNT. His left hand was just as fast and accurate. As you looked at them, and in the wild 14th round, Nova had Farr out on his feet and the crowd was yelling for the referee to stop fighting and save a brave man.

Mask of Red
If this was Farr's farewell to the big time, then he left an unforgettable picture. His face was a mask of red and the blood rolled in his cheeks and formed a wreath. He was reeling and Nova was after him, slaming him with a left and right and a left and right until his head bobbed and he fell. Farr's heart—and what a great heart it is—told him to go on but his legs said no. He sagged against the ropes near his corner, and Nova measured him with a quick left. Referee Eddie Joseph took a quick look into his eyes and stepped between them. Nova, thinking he had won by a technical knockout, raced for his own corner.

But Farr's legs were doing something besides pumping blood out the cuts in his face. It was telling him to get up out of his half corner and throw punches. So he did, or rather tried to in his foggy way, and went out to take some more of that short right and that crashing left shoulder punch, and saved Farr from what probably would have been the first knockout in his career.

Lost Fight
They patched him up between rounds and he hung on through the 15th and 16th rounds. He was not to have had the fight.

Until the 14th round, it was anybody's fight. Farr, ducking his head behind his left shoulder, ploughed in and took two to land one. Even after the awful beating Farr took in the 14th, Referee Joseph called the bout a draw, but the two judges gave the decision to Nova.

Nova weighed 190; Farr 203.

Tunney Seen As "Czar" For Boxing

By HENRY SUPER
(Copyright, 1938, United Press.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—Boxing is now a "strong man" to rule on a national basis with power similar to that of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis over baseball, the nation's sports editors said today.

And the man for the job, they added, is Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight champion of the world.

Sixty-four of those voting in the annual United Press poll said "yes" in answer to this question: "Are you in favor of a national czar to control boxing?" Thirty-three per cent said "no" and the remainder were non-committal.

Would Take a Solomon
If such a plan went into effect, all the editors agreed, the man who would be chosen would have to be a wise, tolerant, firm, honest and tireless worker.

"He would have to be a second 'Solomon' in the phrase used in many of the replies. Tunney was mentioned most often as the man closest to all the requirements of the job. His name appeared on several ballots.

Among those who favored national one-man control was Burke Carroll of the Kansas City Post, who wrote: "Sick Child"
"Yes, there should be a national czar. Boxing is the sick child of professional sport and only through stern measures will confidence be restored. Jack Dempsey was a wise, tolerant, firm, honest and tireless worker as a major activity has ceased to exist."

"See Taylor, former editor of the Des Moines Register, who wrote: "I do not favor mixing sports of any kind with politics. It's had enough now. I refer to state commissions. The opinion was almost unanimous that the squabbles between the National Boxing association and the New York commission are injurious to the sport. One ballot suggested that it would take a 'federal man' to straighten out the tangle."

Franchise Owners Work To Get Material Here

HERE and THERE
IN THE 'SPORTS WORLD'
By HENRY McLEMORE
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17 (AP)—Putting the sports shot here and there:
It was a betting man I would be glad to wager a few farthings that weeks ago Seabiscuit and Admiral were pledged to a winter match race in Florida, and that Charley Howard never intended trying for the Santa Anita handicap, regardless of the weight assigned his champion... Seabiscuit probably can get $50,000 for beating the Admiral again, and that amount will make him the greatest American money winner and fulfill one of Howard's fondest dreams... Besides, by taking the Seabiscuit to Hialeah, Howard can repay Joseph Widener for the consideration that gentleman has shown him at the time of the "Belmont bait" match race... It cost Belmont plenty in money and headaches, when Seabiscuit was forced to withdraw from the "race of the century" last June... The Los Angeles Bulldogs, a professional football team that wants to go in the National league and is the champion of the West, plays a full afternoon when they play here in January... Coached by "Gloomy" Gus Henderson, former UFC coach, the Bulldogs haven't been beaten on their home grounds in years... Henderson may be coaching the Bulldogs for the last year, because he is reported to be headed for Detroit to coach the Lions... Jimmy McLarin thinks John Henry Jones will be lucky to last four rounds against Joe Louis in their heavyweight title fight in January... "All John Henry has shown in his career is that he has the only chance of staying around is to run Joe, and I would hate to bet on his feet against Joe's legs," Henderson says... Henderson says he has handed right to his old Kentucky home... Happy, a horse handicapper from Bay Park, will be in Aguacaliente today, competing for the $500 prize that goes to anyone picking away winners... Just why a race track should give $500 to the man who has chosen a winner by a margin of two lengths is a matter for the ages... The fellow who needs the $500 is the poor sucker who didn't have a single winner... Name of the month: Zeké Carter, Philadelphia, Pa., who is running a Santa Anita winter book... Some day some enterprising reporter might be going to find out the "inside" of why major league baseball wants no part of Babe Ruth, and it should make interesting reading... The Southern California football filberts, who are still going over the Notre Dame game play-by-play, probably will be giving 14 to the Washington Senators, as a second here... You can get Duke and 10 points now... The boys and girls out here have forgotten how many times the underdog has beaten the horse, but not to mention the fact that only three teams were able to get within the Blue Devils 10-year record during the season... That can't be all luck... Gorgeous Jimmy London, the Greek who made millions out of betting on horse races, died today and throwing opponents with all the abundance of a youngster... Jimmy gives his age as 39, but he is only 39 in Fanny Wood's just 14, going on 15... I saw this happen and it's the golf story of the year: A gentleman who had played a tremendous night staggered out early in the morning to make a foursome... Hearty as he is, but dead of heart, he staggered through four holes... After the drives on the fifth hole, the unsteady one just couldn't be located... The other members of the foursome and the caddy joined in the search for it... After a 10-minute hunt, during which time another foursome was playing, the unsteady one suddenly remembered that he had forgotten to take his club and had entered his fallings in his left shoe... Montgomery Ends Long Scouting Trip
Nearing the end of a three-week trip that has taken him through all the coast states, as far south as New Orleans and north to Chicago, A. J. (Monty) Montgomery, business manager of the Twin Falls baseball club of the Pioneer league and the Spokane Hawks of the Western International league, left here today for Spokane after spending a day looking at local prospects.

Montgomery made his trip in the interests of the two clubs, lining up possible material and a program in general for the operation of the two parks next summer.

Attends Minor Meet
At New Orleans he spent his time at the state league convention and reports much interest by other clubs of the country in the new Pioneer baseball league.

Concession Sale
One of the main pieces of business done by Monty on his trip was the arrangement of the concession sale at all states, but New York and California, ran true to fighting form last night in scoring a technical knockout over Red Farmer, young Honolulu hopeful.

Signs Scout
Montgomery also stated that he had signed Howard "Roly-Poly" Maple, former big league catcher for the Washington Senators, as a scout on the regular payroll for the club. Maple is now a coach at Williams university and is reported to have his fingers on several top players in that area.

McSpaden Continues Miami Beach

By LESLIE AVERY
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 17 (AP)—Harold (Curly) McSpaden, pipe putting pro from Winchester, Mass., had a chance to double his 1938 winnings as he began his third round today, four strokes ahead of the field in the Miami open golf championship.

The 29-year-old sandy-haired easterner never has been a big money winner, but this season has been one of his worst, grossing but $2,900 to date. His only victories were in the Massachusetts open and New England P. G. A. Now he has an excellent opportunity to take the $2,500 top prize in this $10,000 event.

McSpaden, who fired a four under par 65 in the opening round, double-crossed the bookies who took him lightly, by shooting a 69 for a 123 total yesterday. He was the only player in the field of 200 who managed to put two sub-par rounds together, and the prize-makers who offered him at 6-1 before play began then dropped him at 12-1 after the first 18-holes, announced today "we've got all we want on him."

Jimmy Thomson, blind basketball star from Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., another pre-tourney 18-1 shot, hammered the odds against himself down to 4-1 when he followed his opening 88 with a 71 yesterday to take undisputed possession of second place with 135.

Shed Comes Back
Defending Champion Sam Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was still given a chance although eight strokes back at 143 after an inglorious first round 76. The slumped Sneed got back on his game yesterday to rearrange those figures into a three under par 67, the best of the second round scores.

Remembering his pair of 64's in the last two rounds of last year's Miami open, the bookies refused to give any better price than 6-1—the same odds they quoted on Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and Mike Turnesa, New York, who stood at 140; Johnny Revella and Johnny Bulla of Chicago and Jimmy Blines and Craig Wood of New York, who were at 141, and national open Champion Ralph Guldahl with 142.

"All-Stir" Contest Planned As Cotton Bowl Attraction

DALLAS, Dec. 17 (AP)—The "All-Stir" contest, which is the Cotton Bowl, will quickly be made "at all places," was restricted today of all places, behind the walls of the Texas state penitentiary.

Albert Moore, director of recreation at Texas state penitentiary, said his convict election would be held to represent the Lone Star state and to immediately invited the Oklahoma state prison team to oppose. Warden Jess Dunn, C. P., respectfully declined. He said that "the boys" would rather do the extra-curricular trip he had facilities for transportation.

The day may yet be saved, however, Moore, of T. B. D., sent invitations to state prison officials in Arkansas, Missouri and other nearby states, on behalf of his boys he promised competition without assault.
