WITNESS TELLS OF PLANE CRASH

(Editor's note: W. F. Schaefer, one of the first men to reach wreckage of a Northwest Airlines plane crashed near the plane at Miles City last night, tells how the crash seemed to him.)

By W. F. SCHAEFER
MILES CITY, Mont., Jan. 14 (UP)—I live on the edge of town, and last night I heard a terrific roar of noise over my head. I looked out and saw a fleet of army planes. My home is about two miles from the airport, and I can see the lights. The plane circled three times and it looked like strong gusts of wind made it impossible for Clamblin to control the plane. I saw him drop two magnesium flares and then I heard the plane hit. I jumped into my car and went out toward where the plane hit. The wind was so strong that it was almost impossible to keep my car on the road. The plane was still burning when I got there. Our body was still burning. I don't know what the still burning. I don't know what the still burning. I don't know what the still burning.

TOM MOONEY IN FIRST PLANE RIDE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14 (UP)—Tom Mooney, famous ex-convict who was released from Alcatraz prison a week ago, today took his first airplane ride, arriving here from Sacramento to confer with labor leaders.

A crowd of several hundred admirers met Mooney at Union Air terminal, although he landed nearly an hour before the scheduled time of his arrival.

Mooney's welcome, however, was without the official sanction or representation of the American civil labor council and the American Federation of Labor.

Montana Plane Crash Takes Lives of Four

MILES CITY, Mont., Jan. 14 (UP)—A twin motored air liner crashed a few minutes after taking off last night, killing four persons. The federal investigators headed here today to look into every phase of the accident.

The plane's wreckage was consumed by flames, but there was disagreement among witnesses as to whether it caught fire while still in the air or after it crashed.

Operated by Northwest Air Lines, it was built from Chicago to Seattle. It had been held here almost two hours by adverse weather. It took off at 9:45 p. m. visible was fair and there was little wind. Four minutes after the take-off, it again responded to the on the field and the pilot seemed to be making a desperate attempt land. It crashed within 1,200 feet of the field.

The dead were:
Capt. C. B. (Chas) Chamberlain, pilot.
First Officer Ray Nubby, copilot.
Mrs. Morgan Morris, Mandan, N. D.
R. F. Zander, Billings, Mont.

M. C. Hewitt, spokesman, said a passenger employed by the air line was last reported among the dead. He had been a "dead head" passenger, en route to his home. He was tired of waiting while the plane was being held here and went to rest relative at Terry, 40 miles from here, without waiting authority to do so. Therefore, when the plane crashed, he was believed to have been asleep.

He heard later he had been reported dead and said, "I don't know just how I feel."

M. C. Hewitt, manager of the Miles City airport, said he watched the plane take off on a northwest route and then head toward the west on its regular route to Billings.

Blinding Flash
"I took my eyes off for a moment," Hewitt said, "and the next thing I knew there was a blinding flash of flames seeming to shoot from the ground where the plane had crashed."

"It landed in a corner just off the runway, on which the airport is located, and skidded some 300 to 400 feet up the corner until it struck a knoll at the end. There it stopped."

Hewitt said the plane apparently struck the corner which headed east. He said he was at a complete loss to explain this feature of the crash. "The flames seemed to shoot up from the ground," Hewitt said, "as far as I can tell the ship burst into flames after it struck."

The air safety board of the civil aeronautics authority ordered three investigators to the scene. They included: William C. Sullivan, representative of the authority in Los Angeles, left at once; Thomas Haplin, a member of the board, accompanied by Frank Callaway, chief of the investigating section, will leave Washington by plane.

BOTT ASKS DEWEY TO SPEAK IN TWIN FALLS

Thomas E. Dewey, hard-hitting prosecuting attorney of New York City and ranked as a probable G. O. P. presidential candidate and Republican "horse" in 1940, today extended today an invitation to speak at the Twin Falls Lincoln day banquet next month.

Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen dispatched a special delivery airmail letter to Mr. Dewey, urging his acceptance of the Twin Falls speaking engagement. Cont. Henry Dworshak, now in Washington, has also been requested to urge acceptance by the New York Republican who almost wrested the Empire state's governorship from Herbert H. Lehman.

The Lincoln day banquet to be sponsored by the Twin Falls County Young Republican club with cooperation of the county and city committees, is expected to attract Republican leaders from Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and eastern Oregon.

In the invitation extended by Mr. Dewey to the Young Republican club through its president, Capt. Elmer W. Jones, it was pointed out that the noted attorney who as Sun Valley was only a short distance from here he might combine a short vacation with a profitable political trip.

Selection of Mr. Dewey for the speaker was made in the belief that a talker of such national fame would be of great help in furthering Republicanism in Idaho. Capt. Jones said.

Dates for the Lincoln day celebration is tentatively set for Feb. 10, 11 or 13, with the final choice awaiting decision of Mr. Dewey as to the time acceptable to him.

Striking Mothers Evicted from City Hall in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14 (UP)—A group of striking mothers, demanding restoration of WPA jobs or cash relief, was evicted today from city hall where they had staged a "sit-down" demonstration in an effort to force city and state officials to accede to their demands.

George Chadsey, director of public health and safety, recommended shortly after the noon hour that an old ordinance be invoked which would close city hall at noon on Saturdays and remain closed until Monday morning. He then directed police to clear the building.

The building officers, calmly efficient, refrained from laying blame on the mothers. They marched toward the women.

"The mothers, a couple of mothers, miffed. Before the progress of clumping shoes, they backed away where they were in the street."

After leaving city hall the mothers' formation, marched to Union hall 10 blocks away, where officers of police and other officials were expected to meet them.

The striking mothers, led by Mrs. Helen McKinnis, entered the alternative chambers of city hall yesterday at noon and said they would remain until their jobs were restored or cash relief was given.

"The mothers, some old and gray, had been without food or sleep for more than 24 hours and it was their belief that they would die if they were not taken care of."

They were told that they were not to be taken care of. They were told that they were not to be taken care of. They were told that they were not to be taken care of.

NEW GOLD WAVE MOVES ON NORTH HALF OF STATES

A moderate cold wave swept in from Canada today in the wake of a light snowstorm which has covered the northern half of the United States.

Snow continued to fall today in the north central states and Pennsylvania, New York and southern New England while temperatures began to drop in the Dakotas and Minnesota, promising an end to the spring-like weather of the last two weeks.

The reading was reported today at 12 above zero at Williston and Minot, N. D. Temperatures were expected to fall to zero levels tonight and to drop to about 10 below at Chicago and states along the lower Great Lakes by Monday.

The cold wave was caused by cold air rushing into the low pressure area over North Dakota.

Major airlines reported their planes were following regular schedules except to the northwest.

A blinding snowstorm in the New York metropolitan area last night caused one of the greatest traffic tie-ups in the city's history. Thousands of motorists were caught in the jam, many remaining for as long as an hour in one spot.

ALLIANCE BLASTS TYLER DISMISSAL

Members of the Twin Falls Workers Alliance post this afternoon protested vigorously against Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen's dismissal of Tyler, director of the department of public administration, regarding the discharge of Joe Tyler, Twin Falls, local King of the Coal Miners.

"It is necessary to advise your services as field representative will terminate at close of business today," the letter read.

Alliance members, in two telegrams sent to Bottolfsen today, charged that the dismissal was based on reasons, contrary to the governor's statements that politics would not enter the relief set-up.

"We want to know why Mr. Tyler was dismissed," Morris said.

Morris made it plain that, to date, Tyler had received no notification as to why he was discharged, merely being informed by telegram that his services were terminated.

Senate Approves New Measure by Vote of 32 to 11

BOISE, Jan. 14 (UP)—Senate Democratic minority leaders today blasted the Republican majority with a caustic attack on an act abolishing the Idaho liquor control commission as the upper house passed the measure, 32 to 11 under suspension of rules.

The Democrats threatened the Republican effort to push the bill through with a unanimous vote when A. M. Derr, D., Bonner, changed his vote to "yes" and then served notice he would move for reconsideration. He has until Monday afternoon to make the motion, which would bring the measure up for another vote.

Sen. C. K. Barlow, Cassia county Republican, motion for unanimous consent after rules were suspended and opened the debate on the bill. He said the act would consist of provisions:

1. To abolish the present liquor commission and set up a liquor board to take it out of politics.

2. Set a salary for a manager to handle all administrative detail at $3,000 a year.

3. Set up per diem expense of $10 a day salary for each board member, and a maximum total expense of $2,000 a year.

4. Transfer the powers and duties exercised by the old board to the new one.

5. Modify the statute so as to prevent increase in the "normal consumption of liquor."

Senate Majority Leader W. Scott Hall of Oshana, arose to outline the battle to gain prohibition in Idaho and then said he believed the bill would be passed.

"I believe the bill will be passed," he said. "I believe the bill will be passed."

"Pygmalion" Producer Won G. B. S. with Appeal on Art

HOLLYWOOD—After listening to Gabriel Pascal for a little while, your reporter can't imagine how the venerable Hungarian talked George Bernard Shaw out of the screen rights to his plays.

The venerable, but not too kindly Irishman never gave up. He surely realized that he was up against an ordinary movie-maker, but he knew that his own hard-boiled literary agent had been persuaded to take the hungry and penniless Pascal to lunch, to lend him $5, and then to escort him to Shaw's

But it was too late by that time. Shaw tried to put his visitor on the defensive by taking the pound note from his own pocket and giving it to Pascal with the crack that he could not bear to think of "anybody being in debt to an agent."

Pascal, however, was not deterred. He was a man of great energy and having a will of his own, he was not to be put off by such tactics.

First Train Goes Over Bay Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14 (U.P. Press).—A key system special train carrying state and bay region dignitaries streaked across the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge today to inaugurate trans-bay commuter train service and its first end of the historic of the rail, but slow commuter ferries.

The train moved across the lower level of the giant bridge from Oakland to the city of San Francisco, and on to Mission and First streets here, where elaborate ceremonies were held.

Tomorrow the trains will begin carrying "cash customers," and on Monday will get their first real test as the latest innovation in mass transportation when thousands of commuters swarm into them.

Gov. Roman Yoncovich of Sonoma met with the Arizona highway engineers at San Luis, Son., and announced the project to the Altar Valley of Sonora and two ports, one at Rocky Point and the other where the San Luis road will touch the Gulf.

The second highway will be constructed from Sonoma, Son., to Rocky Point, and will provide a "first-class" seaport after conditioning work is completed in the area.

Carl E. Molling, representative of Gov. Yoncovich in Arizona, said the Mexican government plans a huge development project in the Altar Valley of Sonora and two ports, one at Rocky Point and the other where the San Luis road will touch the Gulf.

Molling said the Mexican government already has a railroad under construction from Mexicali, before El Centro, Calif., to Rocky Point and expects to finish it soon.

Plans outlined by Molling will give the Arizona farmers, who have been deprived of their lands in other parts of the country by the agrarian program, an opportunity to colonize in northern Sonora and along the Gulf.

Both of the proposed highways will provide easy access to the Gulf from Arizona, the distance being 65 miles from San Luis and approximately 175 from Phoenix.

A telegram from President Lázaro Cárdenas of the Mexican Republic to the Sonoma governor said the project would be "totally completed in 1939."

Justice Needs Streamlining

Irrespective of what the legal fraternity may think of court procedure as a whole, public opinion long since has held it up to ridicule and criticism. Obsolete statutes, legal technicalities and worn-out customs handed down from a slow-moving age have combined to place our court system in about the same category as the horse and buggy, so far as keeping pace with modern trends is concerned.

The recent Van Vlack case serves as a good example of all the protracted delays and legal bric-a-brac that are still employed in our complicated and cumbersome method of trying to arrive at justice.

Some of the handicaps confronting the court in its administration of justice, with the resultant loss in time and expense to the county and individuals involved in trial, were well described this week by District Judge J. W. Porter in a talk to the Kiwanis club.

The haphazard way in which county commissioners often select the original panel of about 300 veniremen serves as the first stumbling block. When time comes to draw a jury a considerable group of these individuals is required to appear. Usually there are half a dozen who cannot hear properly, another half dozen or more are otherwise incapacitated physically, a few others have been convicted of crimes and are therefore ineligible for jury service, and still others are unable to serve for "good and sufficient" reasons—reasons which were in evidence when the venire was originally selected.

As Judge Porter explained, such procedure obviously takes up unnecessary time and costs the county considerable money because of mileage expense and per diem costs for each individual on the venire, whether accepted for jury service or not.

Then follows the examination of the 12 men finally chosen on a particular case. The prosecuting attorney examines the first juror who, for example, is Mr. Jones. The prosecutor and Jones are old school mates. They went through high school together and were roommates at college. The prosecutor knows Jones' wife and all their children by their first names. Nevertheless he starts his questioning as follows: "What is your name?" "Where do you live?" "What do you do?" "Are you married?" "Have you any children?" "How many?" Etc., etc.

That would seem ridiculous enough in itself, but then comes the defense attorney who likewise is personally acquainted with Mr. Jones and knows all of his past and present history. But nevertheless he goes through the same rigmarole: "What is your name?" "Where do you live?" and all down the line.

Then, after all this ado and delay, the trial finally proceeds and is concluded in comparatively reasonable time.

The usual assinine but legally necessary court instructions to the jury come next and are in effect as follows: "You gentlemen must disregard anything the court has said in this case, examining only the evidence. You must know that the court has no ideas whatsoever concerning the guilt or innocence of the defendant."

In the process each attorney hands to the court his list of suggested instructions to the jury, and therein lies a stickler. The court, recognizing the technical loopholes these instructions provide, takes a recess to deliberate. Nothing must be said or left unsaid to the jury, which would be ground for an appeal on either side.

But very often the case is appealed nevertheless, and usually among the reasons presented in support of an appeal are errors claimed to have been made in court instructions to the jury. Even if there is only the slightest technicality involved in the court procedure, the remotest question regarding instructions to the jury, or what not, it becomes practically mandatory for the supreme court, because of other cumbersome statutory enactments, to remand the case for a new trial.

Inasmuch as it has no bearing on the evidence on the justice in the case, public opinion will agree with Judge Porter that this technically appeal feature should be done away with. His suggestion that state district courts follow the simpler federal court procedure likewise will meet with favor.

Not until our statutes are properly revised, our attorneys as a whole join in a combined effort to simplify the system, and it is no longer possible for cases to be kept in the courts for years at a time, can the public be expected to change its attitude.

How can the people help but think of the whole set-up as a one-lung, chain drive affair, trying to keep pace in second gear with an age that's otherwise alert and recognized as the last word in efficiency?

We need more Judge Porters to take the initiative.

CHAPTER XXV
AFTER DAN had found Sally and Corey, the rest of the trail down had been easy to make. Not only because the storm had lifted, as Sally had noted, but because Dan had taken the precaution to note landmarks, a pair of twin pines, standing solitary and alone, the frozen waterfall again, a certain big rock, small things in themselves, but guideposts that led to safety.

They did not say much until afterwards. There was no need for words. Afterwards there would be plenty of time to say all that must be explained and understood between them.

Corey knew, too well, that there was no need for him to say anything. When they finally had reached the lodge and warmth and security, he stopped and thrust out a hand toward Dan. "You think you can control it, don't you?" he asked. "I can't control it, but I can control myself," Dan said. "I can't control it, but I can control myself," Dan said. John T. Flynn Says

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
(NEA Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (NEA)—Major John T. Flynn, aviation expert, put his finger on a very significant and serious fact in the current flow of rumors about armament plans which are being spread in Washington.

Aviation and national defense are highly professional subjects. Whether we need 2,000 new planes or 13,000 to defend us is a matter for the experts in military and naval science. As the government spends a vast sum of money on the navy and the army, one would suppose that our experts in military and naval aviation would be found there. But Major Flynn tells us, and it is his business to keep informed about such matters, that the experts of the army and navy have not been consulted.

This is a very disturbing and shocking revelation. If the experts of the army and navy have not been consulted about this grandiose plan to build a year in a year in colleges, then the question arises—who is being consulted? Who are the experts? And where did they get to be experts?

WANTED: 5000 ANSWERS. There are stories going around that the army and navy are not in sympathy with the immense plans for aviation. This is true or not? I heard it stated by navy men when last year's great naval plans were being considered that these plans did not originate in the navy. If not, then where did they originate?

The President is commander-in-chief of the navy. But the navy belongs to the United States of America. But as the President is the immediate superior he can impose commands on the navy and enforce silence. But congress owes a duty to the American people. It is the duty of congress to find out what the navy and navy really think about these plans. It is the duty of congress to interpose itself between congress and the navy and prevent the supply of technical advice flowing from the navy to congress which it deals with national defense.

One newspaper, an ardent administration supporter, approves the aviation plan. It says that the training of aviators is to be turned over to the national youth administration. This is a relief agency. The funds for it come out of relief funds which are in the hands of the President. It and its funds are not controlled by congress under the present law. The President can act as he chooses without going to congress.

ONE-MAN CONTROL. If it is put under the national youth administration, the President can run it as if it were his personal property without asking anyone's advice. He can establish it without going to congress. He can make it as big as he wants. He can make it as small as he wants. He can make it as big as he wants. He can make it as small as he wants. He can make it as big as he wants. He can make it as small as he wants.

WARNING

Identify All Parker today had issued a warning that theft of any hand and foot from construction projects is a federal offense inasmuch as the flares are the property of the U. S. government.

Parker said that last night several of the flares were taken from the highway east of Buhi where construction is now in progress. WPA officials report that recently 11 of 25 flares placed along the road were stolen.

Anyone found with such flares in his possession will be prosecuted, Parker said.

"These flares cannot be purchased anywhere on having one in possession will be grounds enough for prosecution."

SCHOOL BUILDING PROJECT HALTED

HAILEY, Jan. 14 (Special).—Although work has been started on Hailey's new gymnasium and remodeling of the school building, the project is now at a halt because of snow and freezing weather.

A tool shed has been built and work amounting to approximately $100 has been completed. Further work on the remodeling and the new gym probably will not be started again until April, both because of the weather and because it would greatly interfere with school tasks.

Plans have been made to remodel the domestic science and manual training rooms, and to install modern equipment.

BRUINS MEET IDAHO TIGERS HERE TONIGHT

Tommy Farr to Ask for Reversal of Decision He Lost to Burman

Local Club Clicks To Drub Oakley; Tigers Top Burley

The Twin Falls Bruins, with their first scoring spree of the season behind them, today were set to take on the powerful Idaho Falls Tigers in the local gymnasium at 8:30 p. m. A frosh-soph game with Eden starts at 7:30 p. m. as a preliminary.

The local club last night handed the Oakley Hornets a 29-19 drubbing, while the Tigers won over Burley by a 29-25 count on the Cassia floor.

Coch R. V. Jones of the Bruins was a little more optimistic today about his chances of his progress after their showing last night, despite the fact that Dode Granney's club was weaker defense than the Hornets' coach usually presents.

The Bruins were hitting on all cylinders as they scored their landslide victory over the Hornets, all the players moved something they had not done before (this year) and the shooting was above par on any floor.

Barrow will Handle Ruppert's Estate

By HARRY GRAYSON
(INKA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Col. Jacob Ruppert, who died yesterday after building his baseball organization to the most valuable in the world, guarded against the sale of the New York Yankees by seeing to it that a trusteeship was formed.

The trusteeship will appoint George Ruppert, known little of baseball, an even greater figure in the organization's operations than he is in the past.

The board of control, which will include the owner's brother, George Ruppert, Ed G. Barrow, long business manager of the far-flung Yankee baseball empire, and executors of the estate.

George Ruppert knows little of baseball, so Ed Barrow at 70 will become an even greater figure in the organization's operations than he is in the past.

The Yankees baseball team, which was estimated to be worth $10,000,000 when last appraised in 1932, has since taken on other properties, the Kansas City franchise among them.

It would have been a task to find a trustee for such tremendous holdings even had Col. Ruppert chosen to dispose of his interests.

Col. Ruppert frequently said that he must have been lucky to have inherited $225,000 in the New York American price franchise in 1915.

That represented half of the purchase price. Capt. Tim Lutzon, the brewer met for the first time at dinner the night before, put up an equal amount.

Game's Greatest Empire
The Yankees had no park, concessions, nor players.

They were at the mercy of National league clubs as well as those of their own circuit.

Four years after making what he suspected was a foolish investment, Ruppert, the baseball gambler, spent $125,000 . . . a record figure at the time . . . for Babe Ruth, and once more had an idea that he was being "kissed."

By a strange coincidence, Babe Ruth was taken to French hospital for observation following his heart attack the day that Col. Ruppert's condition became critical.

Between them, they built baseball's greatest empire.

Col. Ruppert is variously estimated to be worth anywhere from $10,000,000 to $100,000,000. He has vast real estate holdings in Fifth avenue and elsewhere, in addition to his brewery and baseball chain.

A decade visit to New York and George Weiss, director of the Yankee farms, only the other day, will illustrate Col. Ruppert's keen interest in baseball.

Skiers Try for Places On Idaho 6-Man Team

SUN VALLEY, Jan. 14 (Special).—Eliminations in the competitions for spots on the six-man team to represent Idaho in the Jeffers cup ski tournament were well under way here today, with 17 men and seven women contestants entered.

Of the 24 entries, six were from south central Idaho—Ketchikan and Sun Valley.

The tournament got under way this morning at 11 a. m. with the downhill run on the Pocatello mountain course, which drops 1,650 feet in a mile and a quarter.

The women's competition is slightly shorter.

Sunday the first heat of the slalom race is set to start at 10 a. m. on the championship Ruidown course, which will have the second heat set for 1 p. m.

The slalom will follow on the 40-foot Ruidown hill. All Sunday events can be viewed from the mountain land at the foot of the slope.

Those chosen to represent Idaho on the six-man team will compete against six-man teams from Utah, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, California, Nevada and Oregon.

Trying out for places on the team are all skiers of the Sun Valley Ski Club, who holds the amateur jumping record, and his brother, Kaare Engen, of McCall.

From south central Idaho are Tom Reid, Alvin McCoy, Marvin Oberheim, Beth Raskill, Eleanor Steig, and Robert Brass.

Other entrants are as follows: Boice—John Rothchild, John Heane, Richard Adelman, Jack Schaefer, Phil Renakakis, Bill Brown, J. Pocatello—Charles Hibbard and Bob Alago.

Other women entries who will compete in slalom and down hill are from Boice: Beadie Park, and from McCall—Jane Brown.

However, the little knot of people at the ringside who thought Burman won in a distinct manner in the final round with a magnificent rally.

Say this for Farr—he went in to lose last night, but he didn't let his glove off when they cut his glove off in the dressing room he couldn't speak for five minutes. Then he said: "It's really disgusting when at last I win a fight and they don't give it to me."

Toles Best Looking
The best looking fighter on last night's card was a strapping Negro from Detroit named Roscoe Toles. Crafty and a hard puncher, he was the only one to play to a crowd.

March with Joe Louis. Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia, who played to a crowd, had never seen so much leather before.

The referee stopped the bout in the seventh round, with Dorazio hanging on the ropes.

Buddy Knox of Dayton, Ohio, beat Chuck Gwinn.

Carey Cage Club Edges Hailey
HAILEY, Jan. 14 (Special).—The leading Carey boys' basketball team today held a victory over the Hailey team—only by the narrowest of margins.

The visitors attacked a thrilling 14-13 win, with York, Carey forward, leading in two long field goals.

The Carey team, led by York, won the victory. As the final gun sounded, Carey, Hailey guard, sank a shot that would have given the Wolverines victory, but the officials ruled that it was tossed after the end of the game.

In a preliminary victory over the Hailey team, Carey scored a 25-14 win, with Slipp scoring 12 points for the winners.

HEYBURN, Jan. 14 (Special).—Heyburn and Albion, the top-notch Class B teams in the district, tangled on the local floor last night, and the Heyburn team came out on top by a 23-17 count.

The home team was ahead all the way and held the visitors scoreless for the final quarter. Don Combs led the local scoring with 10 points.

In a preliminary tilt the Albion second team, downed the Heyburn reserves by a score of 22-12.

PEP ASSEMBLY
A Charlie McCarthy act was presented by Gene Hull and Carl Pugh yesterday afternoon as one of the features of the pep assembly held in preparation for the Twin Falls-Pocatello basketball game.

Other numbers included four piano offerings by Glen Boren at the piano and a talk by Coach H. E. Jones.

Pep band directed by Harry H. Smith contributed to the enthusiasm of the pep meeting, as did the yodelers.
