ASSESSOR NAMES 2-FIELD DEPUTIES

The pair took oath of office and started on their field assessment task today, Mr. Childs announced. Both were approved by the board of county commissioners.

At least seven other field assessors are still to be named, since the full staff handling the assessing of all county property consists of about nine men.

Bridge Tournament Included On Elks Calendar of Events

The "green eagles" may sour in some bridge circles, but it will be four-suit contract at the Elks bridge tournament, according to H. A. Ball, chairman of the committee in charge of the first of the three-night series of bridge parties, for local Elks, their wives and women guests.

First night of the tournament will be Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, at 8:30 o'clock at the Elks club rooms. Succeeding parties will be Feb. 14 and Feb. 28, beginning at the same time.

Tallies will be carried until the final night and the best individual high scores for men and women will receive grand prizes. Five prizes for the women and five for the men will be awarded each night of the series.

Committee in Charge
Mr. and Mrs. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Balch and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Young will be hosts for the "openers" in the series, and Carl Gibb, exalted ruler, will announce other host groups later.

Dancing in the cabaret room will follow the card parties, and buffet lunches will be served each evening of play.

Social events of the local Elks lodge have been especially outstanding this year, and probably account for the excellent membership status of the group at present. This year new members, 28 in all, and 18 demits, have been the record of the membership committee since Aug. 1, with Joe Koeber as chairman, the lodge announces.

Lively Calendar
Variety marks the Elks calendar of the immediate future.

Members having birthdays in December and January will be honored guests at a Swedish dinner, Thursday evening at 6:30 p. m. at Carl Anderson, Fred Beck and A. M. Sande, the committee on arrangements, promise authentic Smorgasbord for the occasion.

Next big event of the group will be the Forty-Ninth show, which is open to the public, and will be under way from Feb. 2 to 4.

A patriotic note enters the scene, with the announcement of the Americanism dinner Saturday, March 4, as one of the number of affairs being scheduled by the Elks in celebration of Americanism week, March 1 to 8.

Faculty Tea to Feature Circus Appointments

Appointments reminding of pink lemonade and pop corn will take faculty members, their wives and husbands, back to childhood days, when the circus was the event of the year, as the senior cabinet of the Girls' league entertains at a faculty tea Thursday.

The tea will be held in the dining room at the high school and is being arranged by the officers of the senior girls' league, under the direction of Miss Judith Buttrick.

Miss Wright, Chairman
All details for the affair have been worked out under the general supervision of Miss Mary E. Wright, senior unit president.

Miss Thelma Tolson and Miss Helen Miller, senior class sponsors, will preside at the tea service from four until six o'clock.

Supt. and Mrs. Homer M. Davis, and Principal and Mrs. E. W. Rogers have been invited as honor guests. Miss Rita Mae Salmon and Miss Dorothy Margaret Smith, seniors on the student body council, will be special guests.

Committees working under the direction of Miss Wright in completing arrangements for the colorful courtesy for the faculty are:

Program—Miss Margaret Baron, Miss Jean Pierce, Miss Virginia Chase, and Miss Jean McGavin.

Refreshments—Miss Esther Rometts and the senior home economics girls.

Invitations—Miss Beverly Richins, Miss Loretta B. Lopez, Miss Lucille Haskins, Miss Mary E. Wright, Miss Jean McGavin, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Rita Mae Salmon, Miss Dorothy Margaret Smith, Miss Jean Pierce, Miss Virginia Chase, and Miss Jean McGavin.

Decorations—Miss Marjorie Slack, Miss Joyce Pierce, Miss Ann Perline.

Girls Hostess Honors
Girls presiding as members of the hostess group by virtue of places in the senior high cabinet will be: Miss Virginia Ann Chase, Miss Mary E. Wright, Miss Jean McGavin, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Rita Mae Salmon, Miss Dorothy Margaret Smith, Miss Jean Pierce, Miss Virginia Chase, and Miss Jean McGavin.

Senior girls in the home economics department are: Miss Evelyn Worland, Miss Mary Jane Wright, Miss Ruth Parkinson, Miss Alice Murphy, Miss Fern MacGill, Miss Mary McGavin, Miss Griffith, Miss Edna Jean Shumake, Miss Jeanne Faye Gibson.

Miss Evelyn Hills, Miss Nell Kirkman, Miss Grace Shuffrin, Miss Virginia Groomer, Miss Irene Huff, Miss Margie Salisbury, Miss Cleve Zuhl, Miss Beth Bankhead, Miss Betty Jean Hays, Miss Miriam Hershey, Miss Hazel Haddleton, Miss Dorothea Wolfand, Miss Esther Rometts.

GAMES DIVERT
FIDELITY CLASS

Fidelity class members of the Methodist Episcopal church assembled last week-end at the H. H. Crow house for pinocle and Chinese checkers.

A white elephant auction was a feature of the evening, and school lunches, brought by the guests, were served during the refreshment hour.

Mrs. Fred Hays was elected president of the class, and Mrs. Earl Walker, secretary-treasurer. A social secretary will be appointed later.

DAUGHTER FETTERED
AT BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hays entertained at their home in Piler last evening at a dinner in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Hays.

Other guests were Rev. and Mrs. Stanley J. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Twin Falls, and hosts' baby sister of the honoree. A lighted birthday cake formed the centerpiece for the dinner-table.

Parents live to the age of 50.

Hard Customers of '90s to Stalk Again

The costume ball, scheduled by the O. A. O. Dancing club for Friday evening at the Elks ballroom, is bringing to light more than "hard times" costumes and "Gay Nineties" regalia.

Local research has revealed that to be in tune with the times of the Mauve Decade, practically anything goes in the way of costumes.

"Hard times" attire is not as incongruous to the period as it might, at first, appear. While the decade is regarded as a period of opulence, the '90s had a rough and ready, tough and hardy side, too.

The Hoovers, in New York City and the Barbary coast and adjacent territory, now San Francisco's North Beach, were at their most flourishing period of activity.

Polyglot Characters
Bowerly habitués ranged all the way from New York gangs to hotel-the-walk merchants and tin-horn numbers who were more numerous than progress.

The influx of immigrants to San Francisco from all points of the Orient as well as the Occident, bringing with them their trades, customs and odd dress habits, brought to the coast a polyglot assortment of types.

With all this authentic Americana to draw from, there is no end to the possibilities of concocting original and humorous costumes for Friday night's event.

Those who wish to attend in the "more free featured" manner of the period, will have no difficulty in emulating the prosperous Saddle Thompsons of the period, or the grand ladies who distained anything less cultural than the opera as entertainment. No less elegant will be their escorts, preening as Beau Brummels of that era.

For Charter Members
Special invitations have been extended to charter members of the club, and no associated with the group, to attend the dance, according to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Chapman, chairman of the host committee.

Mrs. Walter Heller, now a resident of Boise, and others organized the club eight years ago. Charter members not affiliated are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Seaver, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Brackenside, Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ostrander.

The event will begin at 8:30 o'clock at the Elks ballroom. Dinner in vogue from the '90s to 1924 will be the order of the evening, and an appropriate floor show will be presented.

Nuptial Dinner Follows Rites

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Davis was the scene Sunday of an elaborate wedding dinner in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McClure. Mrs. McClure was Miss Velva Davis before her marriage Saturday afternoon in Boise.

Twenty guests were present. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock at the Episcopal rectory.

Among the wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. McClure, Caldwell, parents of the bridegroom. The elder McClures were also present at the dinner Sunday.

For her wedding gown, the bride had selected a teal blue tulle frock with which she wore a matching hat and veil. Her other accessories were white, and her coronation was a crown of white roses.

The wedding cake in traditional fashion The dinner was served buffet style.

Mr. and Mrs. McClure will make their home in Caldwell, where the bridegroom is associated with his father in the operation of a bakery.

Mrs. McClure, a graduate of the Twin Falls high school and of Boise Junior college, also attended the College of Idaho, Caldwell.

H.S. ENROLLMENT TASK COMPLETED

Enrollment for the second semester has been completed at the Twin Falls high school and all classes are now operating under the regular schedule. Principal Edward Rogel announced today. Ten former students and transfers were enrolled as new members of the high school.

A number of new classes not offered last semester and three new to the curriculum have been filled.

One of the new classes is "consumers' goods," with John Platt as instructor. This course marks an important trend in the progress of education toward the more practical business courses. Mr. Rogel said.

The course will teach the students how to choose consumers' goods by Billings, Mont.—John Platt, 524 S. 1st St., says: "After eating I felt tired all the while. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gave me a good appetite and I felt the next morning after I had used it a whole world of difference. Buy it in this fine time surely does the work." Buy it in.

It will also include the history of the materials as well as instruction in how to distinguish the better from the poorer grades. At the present time the class included 30 from the junior and senior classes.

Business Class
Another new class is one in junior business which is an advance course from general business taught in the junior high school and will serve as an introduction to the present bookkeeping course. Miss Gladys White is the instructor.

Among other classes is one in daily living for boys with Miss Juanita Sutcliffe as teacher.

CHAPTER VIII

JANET said, after a moment of hesitation, "Why, Barney, I've been thinking about you a lot lately."

"Oh, did you, indeed?" Cynthia demanded. "Janet, was there any more reason why you should marry Barney than there was yesterday or a week ago or a month?"

"Why—I don't know... Then, in Heaven's name, why?"

"Why, Timothy Benton, of course. I thought you were going out to dinner with him tonight."

"Timothy Benton?" Janet echoed. "No, what seemed to her long and empty a glance that her own voice startled her. "But, Cynthia, you couldn't."

"Oh, you couldn't?" Janet demanded. "You couldn't have him? You couldn't possibly be in love with him?"

"In love with him?" Cynthia's voice was harsh. "Who said I was in love with him? I said I had married him. People can't always have everything, you know, Barney. Well, I decided, some time ago—that if I couldn't have what I wanted most, I wasn't going to fool enough to let that keep me from taking the next best thing that offered."

"You see, Tim has his points. And at least I shouldn't have to charge my friends to your account any more, Jan."

Janet made a helpless inarticulate sound in her throat before she could speak again.

"But, Cynthia," she said. "Why do you say you couldn't have what you wanted most? You could have had Barney."

"Barney?" Cynthia's voice was harsh. "Who said I was in love with him? I said I had married him. People can't always have everything, you know, Barney. "You're the most transparent equivocal I've ever had the privilege of listening to."

"All right," Janet said desperately. "I see Cynthia who called me last night—and I muffled the telephone bell. I did it because we didn't want the newspapers to bother you."

"The newspapers?" If Aunt Mary turned a little while, her voice was not less steady. "My dear child, if this is your idea of breaking something to me gently, I might as well give you a war-whoop and fire off a gun. Anyhow, I've had so many unpleasant things broken to me in my day, I'm not particularly shocked now."

So Janet told her what had happened between Cynthia and herself.

"When she had finished, the old lady nodded her head slowly and murmured, 'Timothy Benton, huh?'—'Well, I can't pretend to be surprised.'"

"Aunt Mary, you mean you expected this?"

"I won't say I expected this, but I've been expecting an explosion of some sort ever since—"

"Ever since what?"

"Ever since, Aunt Mary seemed embarrassed."

"Well—ever since I've noticed how restless she is."

"And she's restless that was not at all what Aunt Mary had started to say; but she also knew that there was no use in pressing the point. She said she didn't do anything to stop her."

"When people reach Cynthia's age, my dear, there's not much use trying to stop them, or start them, either. All that should have been taken care of years ago with a blanch rod. Dig—Lance mention anything about this?"

"When she had talked with Lance awhile ago, she had not mentioned Cynthia's marriage for four Aunt Mary would hear. Now she thought it was a little blankly what he would think. She had so often had the feeling that Lance did not understand her, that she had often wondered if she could ever be understood. Before she could answer, the knocker on the hall door sounded sharply."

"The representatives of the press, I presume," Aunt Mary sighed. "Cynthia might at least have supplied us with a few more facts. Just what she said, I'll tell them I'm sure I don't know."
