Best Friend Held in New York Kidnaping Of Child, 4, for $180

NEW YORK, March 1 (U.P.)—George Katz's faith in human nature collapsed today when he learned that Charles Mitchell, his best friend, had been involved in the kidnaping of his four-year-old son, Michael, on Feb. 20.

"I'll never trust another person, except my wife," Katz said. "I never thought good old Charlie Mitchell was a kidnaper. We've been friends for 20 years, lived in the same apartment house, and brought up our children together."

Mitchell, 31, son of Schwartz, 20, and Schwartz's sister, Mrs. Nellie Rosack, 31, mother of two children, were arrested yesterday and identified as the persons who held Michael Katz prisoner for two hours until his father ransomed him for $180.

Was "Go-Home" Kidnaped?
Mittell had injected himself as an agent for Katz, to negotiate the ransom payment for him. Katz had not suspected when the kidnaping notified him to use Mitchell as "steve" and let him bring the money. But Mitchell was doing more than a friendly act. He thought he was friendly to Mitchell for having arranged the child's "temporary" release for $180 when the ransom note had set the price at $7500. He was not even suspicious when Mitchell came back to demand him until paying the rest of the $7500, which the kidnaper had demanded if he was not to see the boy again.

Get Full Story
They got the full story of the kidnaping from their early today and Katz confronted Mitchell.
He wanted to know angles and why. He told Mitchell "there was no need for you to have kidnapped my son. I would have paid you money if I'd known you needed it."

Mitchell was charged with kidnaping; was Schwartz, Mrs. Rosack, who got $4000 for the ransom, charged with having kidnapped from police.

DEFICIT, SURPLUS CLAIMED BY GOP AND DEMO HEADS

BOISE, March 1 (U.P.)—Conflicting majority and minority committee reports concerning the highway administration of former Gov. Barzilla Clark as "liable for criminal and civil prosecution" for a $324,292 highway fund deficit and probing it for a $14,982 surplus puzzled Idaho legislators today.

The opposing political parties placed varying emphasis on the same statistics to reach diametrically opposite conclusions.
Sen. John S. Gannon, Republican of Gooding, drafted the majority report in which he charged highway officials had incurred liabilities for the state illegally by letting contracts in anticipation of funds expected to be received after a change to a Republican administration.

An answering minority report drawn by Sen. Ed Baird, Democrat of Ada county, insisted the highway department was operating within the law in letting the so-called "last minute" contracts. The report asserted the action was taken at the urging of federal officials and was a regular procedure.

It has been the practice of the bureau always to let contracts in advance in anticipation of revenue from the gasoline fund, the minority report said. The preceding Republican administration did the same thing, only on a larger scale.

Rearrange Calendar
The senate went into caucus to rearrange the calendar in order to speed through important bills before the close of the session.

U. S. 'STOUGE' N RUSSIA SPY CASE

LOS ANGELES, March 1 (U.P.)—Ramifications of an alleged Russian espionage scheme which used the United States intelligence service as a "stooge" for collecting information on Japan's naval strength were revealed today in the government's case against a Soviet agent, his wife and a Russian-born American.

U. S. District Attorney Benjamin H. Hays charged that the scheme had worked, that it was sponsored by high Soviet officials and that it had caused irreparable damage to the nation's national defense.

In questioning prosecution witnesses he attempted to show that the spear-head of the plot was Moscow, its American headquarters the Russian embassy in Washington and the chief field representative Mikhail Gorin, west coast manager for the Soviet Intouch travel bureau, one of the defendants.

The witnesses, federal bureau of investigation and naval intelligence agents, corroborated each accusation. The principal one was G. M. Diers, who was instrumental in breaking the alleged plot and who questioned Gorin and Hays, chief, national defense, a former intelligence department employee, shortly before their arrest.

Diers first interviewed Gorin in travel bureau then demanded that he accompany him to the FBI office. The Russian, he said, refused, asserting he would not be questioned further until he obtained "authorization" from the Russian ambassador in Washington.

Diers said he urged Ambassador Alexander Tronitsky who at that time, last November, was in Moscow.

Senate Approves Span's Purchase By Fuel Oil Tax

Residents of south central Idaho today eagerly awaited the day when tolls will be removed from the Twin Falls-Jerome intercity bridge and the state takes it over as part of Idaho's highway system.

Sent to the governor was a bill which provides means of raising $500,000 with which to purchase the bridge. The measure, bearing endorsement of administration leaders, was passed by the senate late yesterday afternoon by a 36 to 7 vote.

The measure provides that the governor shall appoint a bridge commission, consisting of himself and four other members, to negotiate state purchase with the bridge company. In no event is the state permitted to pay in excess of $500,000 for the span.

Funds to purchase the bridge will be raised through a levy of one-mill-per-gallon on motor fuel oil, which tax is expected to bring in a return of approximately $400,000 annually. Proceeds derived from the tax, other than those necessary for annual deferred payments on the bridge, will be diverted to the state highway department for use throughout the state.

Those sponsoring the bill have explained that because this tax is so small, it will be difficult for the oil companies to pass it on to the consumers. Those oil firms paying a state income tax in Idaho will be permitted to deduct these new gas tax payments from their income taxes.

New Train Here FOR INITIAL RUN
First regular steam train service to Twin Falls and Buhl from eastern points, including Pocatello, Oxnard and Salt Lake City, was inaugurated this morning by the Union Pacific.

Arriving in Twin Falls from the east, the train was pulled by a "2100" type steam locomotive, which arrived at the Twin Falls depot at 6 a. m. on time.

Passengers of the new steam train to service this section is an all-conditioned Pullman which permits travelers to have a "good night's sleep" before arriving in Twin Falls from the east, and Idaho points mentioned or, through various connections, to Twin Falls before it leaves Salt Lake City or Pocatello.

Return Tonight
The same train will return through Twin Falls today, arriving here at 7 p. m. En route to Pocatello, it will arrive at 8:30 p. m. and Pocatello at 10:30 p. m. The sleeper will join the next morning's train for Buhl, leaving here at 6:45 a. m. for Buhl, arriving there on the initial run at 7:15 a. m.

Another important service which will be added to the schedule is a "freight on passenger train" service, which will be added to the schedule of the train from Salt Lake City, arriving here about 7 a. m.

A baggage car will be carried on the train for that purpose only, permitting early morning delivery in Twin Falls. The baggage car will be carried on the train from Salt Lake City, arriving here about 7 a. m.

The new "freight on passenger" will be in service on the Twin Falls line on March 1, as far as Pocatello, making connections there with the main line train. The service will be in service on the Twin Falls line in the early afternoon.

Start 2,000-Mile
Race for Frisco
NACOMA, Tex., March 1 (U.P.)—Fourteen cowboys and a red-haired girl started today on a 2,000-mile race for the Frisco.

The riders started in the heart of the state in a burst of speed at the start of the race. They were soon slowed down for 200 miles in a long ride. Endurance rather than speed was expected to win the race and the first rider to reach the goal with it.

This is the first time a race of this kind has been held in the state. The race is being held to raise money for the building of a new hospital at Gooding in the buildings formerly occupied by the Gooding college.

The proposed new goes to the senate for final approval, which is expected to be passed in a few days. By a vote of 31 to 2, the measure had no trouble getting house passage. The $250,000 will be used in cooperation with the state agencies in remodeling the structure.

The buildings had been offered to the state by the Frisco. The Frisco was established in 1902, 20 years ago by the Methodist church, but suspended operations in 1921. The buildings had been offered to the state by the Frisco.

The kidney is one of the most important organs in the human body. From time to time experts endeavor to list the organs of the body as to their relative importance. Many of them put the brain, the heart, the lungs, or the liver first. No such list, however, could exclude the kidneys, for in their absence death would promptly ensue.

Fortunately the human being has two kidneys—one of which is quite sufficient to carry on the work of the body if the other happens to be completely inactivated. That is also the case with the lungs. The lungs being many, continue to operate with even only a portion of one of the kidneys functioning fully.

Perhaps it is the name alone to indicate the position of the kidneys. In most instances the germs are brought from points elsewhere in the body to the kidneys, and the kidneys, which, from an infected digestive tract. In other instances, the kidneys may become infected by the blood, or by material carried upward from the bladder through the tubes which pass from the kidneys to the bladder, known as the ureters.

In most infectious infections of the kidneys are caused by a germ known as the colon bacillus, an organism which is typical of the excrement of the human and possesses a virulent quality of bacteria.

An infection in the kidneys is a dangerous, slow-moving disease, and, if left unperceived, is the product of the lower and of the "inner," and the associated symptoms of the disease are not always apparent. The pain may be in the abdomen and if the infection is very severe the kind of rigidity that is associated with infection in the kidneys.

In many instances, however, the infection of the kidney takes place

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

There is one of the most important organs in the human body. From time to time experts endeavor to list the organs of the body as to their location in the human system, thus put the brain, the heart, the lungs, or the liver first. No such list, however, could exclude the kidneys, because in their absence death promptly ensues.

Fortunately the human being has two kidneys—one of which is quite sufficient to carry on the work of the body if the other happens to be completely incapacitated. That is the case with the lungs. The human being may continue to survive with even only a portion of one of the kidneys functioning fully.

Poison is the worst enemy to infection of the kidneys. In most instances the germs are brought from points elsewhere in the body. As an example, they may be introduced or from an infected digestive tract. In other instances, the kidneys may become infected by the blood, or by material carried upward from the bladder through the ureters which pass from the bladder to the kidneys.

In most infectious infections of the kidneys are caused by a germ known as streptococcus. This germ is related to the typhoid and paratyphoid group of bacteria.

An infection in the kidneys is usually accompanied by the backache, fever, inflammation by the products of the lever and of the "toxins," the associated symptoms of nausea and vomiting. Their pain also may be in the abdomen and if the infection is very severe the kind of infection that has resulted with an infection of the apparatus.

In many instances, however, the infection of the kidney takes place without becoming acute. In such cases the areas usually in which the infection has come upward from the bladder, although occasionally it may be from the kidneys themselves, not a virulent one, the manifestations may be of the chronic type.

A person with a long-standing infection of the kidneys may have results due to the blood loss of appetite, headache, loss of weight and general thinness. If the urine is in such that the kidneys are prevented from performing their function of secreting waste material from the body, the patient may die with poisoning of his products, known as uremia.

Fortunately, modern scientific medicine has developed several methods of treating these late toxins. Opportunity for control today is far better than it was even 10 years ago.

Modern medicine has developed ways of increasing the flow of urine and of removing the waste. Methods have been developed for examination of the kidney directly to determine the extent of the damage. These are called tests which determine the capacity not only of both kidneys but of each kidney at any given time. Diet of "housekeeping aid" a boon to the welfare? Under it, a WPA worker is placed under the supervision of the local welfare board to the home of the mother in which sickness or other emergency exists. She is the housework until the emergency ends. What about it: Worthwhile, or not?

Florence S. Kerr, assistant WPA administrator, thinks this is of WPA's best achievements—points out that it often averts the necessity of sending children to an institution, sometimes keeps

THE people who had the courage to start that program, and to overcome the initial ridicule that they encountered, have really given something to America by saving thousands of homes.

WOMEN'S WORK

The sewing circle stunt was also a success, of course. If you have provided jobs, right off the bat, you have done a lot of good. The whole lot of women, giving them a chance to work, is a thread in the fabric of the American basket and likewise, the thread in the fabric of the 600,000 WPA workers now on non-construction projects, some 400,000 are women. These sewing projects turn out a lot of goods, and the distribution of them means a lot. The most recent tabulation was a year old, showed that there were some 108,000 different

Also a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Weinheimer, a number of her friends have already arranged a gay round of entertainment in her honor.

Among those who will greet Mrs. Weinheimer upon her arrival here will be her brother-in-law, Carl Weinheimer, Manila, student at Oregon State college, Corvallis, Ore., who is at the Read home, convalescing from a recent illness.

Also a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Read is Dick Oliver, Portland, Ore., nephew of Mrs. Read.

Joe Koehler, member of the Elks lodge committee in charge of Americanism week being celebrated at the present time, this afternoon urged all local merchants to decorate store windows in a manner which would appropriately mark the week. "All store windows, especially those in the downtown section, should be decorated so as to carry out the theme of Americanism," Koehler said this afternoon. "Such displays should spread around the American flag as the center of the display." Koehler pointed out that window decorations along this line were inexpensive. He added that several of the larger stores in the city had already announced they would equip special windows during the week, which started today.

CARDINALS MEET TO PREPARE FOR ELECTION OF POPE

BALLOTING OPENS THURSDAY; ITALY MAN SEEN CHOICE

VATICAN CITY, March 1 (UP)—The cardinals of the Roman Catholic church attended a solemn mass of the Holy Ghost in the Pauline chapel today and this afternoon began a formal conclave to elect a 262nd pope to succeed Pius XI who died Feb. 10.

The balloting starts tomorrow morning and two balloting sessions will be taken each day, morning and afternoon. It was forecast that the new Pope, probably an Italian and an ecclesiastic-minded rather than a political-minded man, would be elected by Friday night or Saturday, and crowned ceremonially Sunday, March 12.

All 62 cardinals were present when the conclave opened in the triangle of the Vatican bounded by the courtyard of St. Damasus, Marthini and Holy office.

Behind Sealed Doors

They will remain there, behind sealed doors and whitewashed windows, with 200-odd aides until they have elected a new pope.

Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Coggia, archbishop of Buenos Aires, and Cardinal Lamon, archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, who had raced across the Atlantic to be present, arrived at Naples on the liner Neptunia at 8:15 a. m. A special train waited to take them the 125 miles to Rome and Vatican City.

The South Americans took advantage of the train, which the Italian government had made available.

But Cardinal O'Connell left by plane by automobile, with his nephews, Joseph O'Connell, and his secretary, Monsignor Jeremiah F. Minihan, who accompanied him from the United States.

Interest Intense

Awaiting the cardinal here were Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, and Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, who had preceded him.

Interest in the election was intense not alone among Italians and among the 232,000,000 members of the church whose leadership the new supreme pontiff will assume. Throughout Europe, throughout much of the entire world, the name of the new pope was awaited with unusual interest because of the world political situation and the ever widening breach between the democratic and totalitarian nations.

Pacelli Favored

Because it was felt that the church should present a united front, because it was the historic role of the church to calculate time by ages while conquerors and kings calculate by years and months, well informed circles here predicted that this conclave would be an unusually brief one, and that the new pope would be a man of essentially religious mind.

Nevertheless there was a last moment suggestion in Vatican quarters that Cardinal Pacelli, secretary to Pope Pius XI and acting head of the church in the interim between Pius' death and the election of the new pontiff, might be chosen. He was believed to be assured of an impressive vote on the first ballot; the suggestion was made that there was an outside chance that he might even obtain the two-thirds majority necessary for an election.

HAILEY-KETCHUM SNOW DECREASES

Depth of snow in the Hailey-Ketchum area of the Sawtooths declined about two inches during the past week, according to the report by P. D. Moore, supervisor of the Sawtooth National forest.

Listing figures as of Monday, Mr. Moore said that Ketchum showed 21 inches as compared with 23 last week, and Hailey 19½ inches compared with 20. Gaiards dropped two inches to 38 inches depth, and the Old Baldy stations showed drops ranging from one to two inches.

All figures Monday were substantially below those of last year, although Hailey was behind only two and one-half inches.

Fairfield lost one inch of snow during the week. In the Sawtooth valley, Williams ranch had 32 inches Monday compared with 34 a week ago.

Cumulative annual figures for the Hailey country since Oct. 1 show the average thus far this season gaining almost one inch over last week but still far behind that of 1938. The figures now are 62½ inches this season; 92½ last Average is 73.08 inches, according to Mr. Moore's report.

The average life of a milk bottle is 33 trips.

L. A. HUNTS FOR SEX DEGENERATES

LOS ANGELES, March 1 (UP)—Police today started a roundup of known sex degenerates for questioning in connection with the possible slaying of Anna Sanyova, party Russian dancer and coed.

Two men were taken into custody and police said there was evidence that linked them directly to the crime.

Kenneth Lee O'Hara, 29, inmate of the state hospital at Camarillo, was held after he told police he had known Miss Sanyova and had danced with her in a beer hall near City college campus.

San Priar, 26-year-old transient, was arrested in Long Beach for begging on the streets. Police said he had scratches on the left side of his face.

Detective Chief Joseph F. Taylor said he had reverted to the original theory that the slaying last Friday night was the act of a sex degenerate who was familiar with the victim, formerly the site of the University of California at Los Angeles.

KELLY AND GREEN SCORE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 1 (UP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly headed a Democratic organization which has held political control of Chicago since 1921, was re-nominated in Tuesday's primary with a greater popular vote than the combined total of one Democratic and two Republican opponents.

Daignt H. Green, 42-year-old partner U. S. attorney who aided in the capture of Gang Leader Al Scarfari Capone for income tax evasion, won the Republican nomination and the right to oppose Kelly in the April 4 general election.

Kelly rolled up an almost two to one margin over State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney in the Democratic race. Green beat William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson, three-time mayor of Chicago, by almost four to one.

Bitter contests in both parties brought out the heaviest mayoral primary vote in Chicago history.

Lucas returns from the 3,648 precincts gave:

Democrats (3,850 precincts): Kelly, 562,213; Courtney, 309,776.

Republicans (3,596 precincts): Green, 209,878; Thompson, 61,731.

The vote showed a gain for Republicans and loss for Democrats as compared to the comparable French of the parties in the 1938 primary for U. S. senate, congressional, county and state offices.

Registered "Thumbers" In Idaho College Ranks

By JEAN DINKELACKER

Bluebirds among the high-lifers these days are collegians, and you can tell them by the purple labels.

You can also recognize them by the way in which they reflect the motto of the Registered Collegiate Thumbers, which is to LOOK like a gentleman and ACT like a gentleman.

A branch of the RCT organization was recently organized on the campus of the University of Idaho, Southern, Pocatello, through the efforts of Dean Nelson and Dean Anderson, president of the Associated Students.

Ellis Explains It

Ellis Gardner, traveling representative of the organization, on a recent visit to Twin Falls, explained how the order works, and how it helps collegians to "look like, and act like."

The organization, which is to facilitate the travels of college students who find it necessary to hitchhike because of financial limitations, was the aspiration of Stan Felse, student at St. Ambrose college, Davenport, Ia.

Each member is provided with an identification card, signed by the president of RCT, and also by the president of the student council of the school which the respective member attends. On the reverse side of the card appears the following: "The owner and driver of a vehicle in which I may be riding as a non-paying guest is hereby released by me for myself and my heirs from all liability due to bodily injury or death caused by accident, collision, upset or Act of God, occurring while I am a passenger in said vehicle, the consideration for this release being the transportation furnished to me." This is signed by each affiliate.

Official Shield

An official RCT shield is also given each member, which may be pasted on the side of a suitcase or small bag, and is easily visible to passing motorists.

Due to the club are 38 cents a year per member, one-third of which goes to the cooperating student council. Each prospective member must be approved by the president of the student council, and any one showing disapproval in any manner to a motorist is subject to revocation of his membership in the RCT.

Information sent to head offices in Davenport is pertaining to each member, gives his or her name, home address, age, sex, color of hair and eyes, height and weight.

Few motorists, once they are acquainted with the RCT, "pass a brother by," according to members of the organization.

MEXICANS MAKE SPY PLOT ARREST

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (UP)—The ministry of interior, striking out against a purported Nazi espionage plot, has arrested Paul Garbinsky, Polish-German Jew, and has detained Baron Hans Heinrich von Helldorf, brother-in-law of Count Wolf von Helldorf, president of Berlin police and close friend of Adolf Hitler, it was learned today.

Interior department police have worked on the case in strict secrecy. The German legion disclosed that the foreign office in Berlin had been advised of developments. It was said that von Helldorf, who was arrested at Pistoia, Italy, has since been released. He is a merchant and has been in Mexico 15 years.

Charge Espionage

Garbinsky, who was suspected of having engaged in espionage for the Nazis, was moved to Vera Cruz Monday night presumably for deportation. An application by his wife, Maria Eleonora Garbinsky, for an injunction against deportation, brought the whole affair to light yesterday.

The charges against Garbinsky were that he had falsified birth certificates of Jews to facilitate their Mexican naturalization. The newspapers, Universal, said today, however, that he was a Nazi spy.

Support Communication

For reasons not revealed, interior police were said to have suspected that Garbinsky knew about a secret short wave radio station which has been communicating directly with Germany and which Mexican police have been hunting. It is believed to be near San Joaquin, but had an old Spanish cemetery, but police have not been able to find it.

Garbinsky denied any knowledge of the station. It was reported, but he was also suspected of having communicated to German secretaries of fortresses at Magdalena bay, off Lower California, as well as at other undisclosed place, six miles from Acapulco.

Mrs. Garbinsky said her husband was an advertising agent for the Yiddish newspaper "Pathway," and was not a spy.

In HOLLYWOOD Today

Norma Shearer was back at home today, after spending a week in a hospital bed with a throat infection.

Sally Rand, fan and bubble dancer, was used for $150,000 damages today by Ray Stanford and Hazel Drain, two customers she allegedly roughed up in protest at being photographed during her routines. The pair recently accused Miss Rand of battery and false arrest, and she was fined $100.

Jeffrey Marlowe, 24, who worked three years at Warner Bros. studio as a prop boy, has been signed by Universal as a movie actor. He will make his debut with Tom Brown in "Big Town Gang."

Patty Hoot, theatrical promoter, has used Sally Rand on a charge of plagiarism, declaring her "nude ranch" featured at the San Francisco fair, is an infringement upon a previous presentation of Rose's at the Fort Worth Texas centennial in 1936.

Police have not been able to find it.

BOXING MOGULS IN TOWN OVER HAND TAPING

Johnston Claims 'Loaded' for Fight

NEW YORK, March 1. (Special.)—Johnston, manager of Bob Pastor, says his objection to Joe Louis' black back bandage is not the New York heavyweight's return to the ring at Madison Square Garden, March 21.

Johnston points out that before the fight of Louis the New York boxing commission required bandages to be only six feet of soft cotton and two feet of surgical tape, with the latter being applied in a half-inch and a half-wide and an extra foot of tape for the back of each hand.

The difference between the old and new rules is an extra 24 feet of soft cotton bandage and half a foot of surgical tape, plus one foot of extra tape for the back of each hand.

Johnston and Pastor have some room for argument when they consider that the bandage is not enough to wrap up an elephant's leg, wrapped tightly practically puts the fists in casts.

None Permitted. The New York boxing commission gives Johnston more ammunition by its refusal in Louis' more recent fights to permit anything, including boxing gloves, to be worn by the fighters in the ring while his hands are being bandaged or while the bandage is being removed.

Johnston stirred up quite a row about Louis' excess bandage when Pastor allowed 10 rounds with the bandage on, and 10 without.

So did Joe Jacobs the night Max Schmeling knocked out Louis. There was some fuss about it in connection with the Jim Braddock bout in Chicago.

Joe Jacobs was barred from boxing dressing room the night Louis avenged his score with Schmeling. The New York board adopted his new and practically unlimited gauze and three-day rule.

It may be as fair for one as it is for another, yet so much tape over the knuckles, with "narrow" bands between the fingers to keep the bandage and tape in place, may have something to do with the fact that the legs of Louis' opponent, Schmeling, with the first punch, may be as Johnson contends, positively dangerous.

Refused Right. The day following Louis' quick dispatch of John Henry Lewis, John Roxborough, one of the champion's handlers, shook hands with Promoter Max Baer and Johnston and agreed to the second edition with Pastor.

But the only result was the announcement of the fight after all in southern California. Pastor boarded a bicycle in his engagement with Louis three years ago, now it is the Duke and the Duke who is back-pedaling.

Johnston caused too much trouble by his refusal to do the "Louis" with, is the explanation of the Louis camp.

It'll be hard to do with as long as the boxing commission permits fists to be loaded," replies Johnston.

Meanwhile, the California commission approves a match between Louis and the same Jack Roper whom they refused to acknowledge as a contender in a preliminary fight, Charles Coates, three years ago.

It is said that John Henry Lewis will defend the title against Dwight Clark, a student of Louis in Detroit.

And Henry Armstrong is boxing Frankie Porzio in Havana, and Frankie Wallace in St. Louis. Porzio, and not Tony Canzoneri, and not Frankie Wallace are under the guidance of Eddie Moran.

And they ask, "What's wrong with boxing?"

Wayne Sablin, who has monopolized tennis titles around the winter circuit, today pegged Gene Mako, local pilot, would prove popular with south central Idaho fans.

Eddie is a fine gentleman. He's smart as a whip, one of the greatest infielders in all of baseball today, and I know the people of this section will be pleased with his work. He is particularly adept at handling young baseball players—a vital point in managing a club of this type.

Following the camp at Anaheim, which is now in progress with prospective players from South of the border and Twin Falls training, the Spokane and Twin Falls players will probably move to Frasier, Wash., about April 1 where training will continue until the latter part of the month and the local club will be on the sidelines today while the other berths in the round of four are filled.

All the women's quarter-final matches will be played today.

Hugh Pace Sees Good Season for Cowboys In Mountain Circuit

Highly pleased with his work and connections here with local organizations during the past 10 days, Hugh Pace, new business manager of the Twin Falls Cowboys prepared to leave this week-end for Spokane where he will consult with the chief bronco buster of the Cowboys, Owner Bill Ulrich.

Since arriving here, Pace has seen arrangements completed for the purchase of a lighting system at the new park and general progress towards the start of construction work on the new grandstands and bleachers.

Pace plans to return here about the first of April, and at that time a regular business office will be opened uptown for the Cowboys.

"I want to be optimistic in making this statement," Mr. Pace said, "but I predict that we have an attendance of 100,000 during the coming season."

"I've never worked in a town that was as baseball conscious as Twin Falls is and I've never found a city where the cooperation was so fine. We're going to employ all local talent in the park during the regular season. I want to thank A. B. (Berl) Collier, Frank Magel, the city park commission, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and all the other who have aided in coordinating the various local agencies in preparing a home for the Cowboys."

Seeing a good season for the local entrant in the Pioneer league, Pace predicted that Eddie Leshman, new Cowboy pilot, would prove popular with south central Idaho fans.

GOERING WARNS THAT NAZI AIR FORCE IS UNBEATABLE

HITLER'S NO. ONE MAN SAYS FLEET WON AT MUNICH

BERLIN, March 1 (U.P.)—Field Marshal Hermann Goering told the nation today that its air force was unbeatable.

He said the German air force was the deciding factor in the Munich conference, when Germany caused Great Britain and France to agree to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

He promised it would be made even more powerful because of the world arms race.

The occasion was the official fourth birthday of the new German air force, Goering, minister of aviation, commander in chief of the air forces, dictator of the four-year plan for economic self-sufficiency and right hand man of Adolf Hitler, addressed the nation by radio.

"Let us not deceive ourselves," he said. "The political situation is disordered. Moreover, the armament fever has gripped most countries of the world. Thus further expansion of the German air force is necessary."

Best in World

"The German air force is the most modern and most efficient in the world."

"The German air force is the terror of our opponents, and it will remain so."

Then, asserting that at Munich, respect for the Nazi air force brought the agreement to dismember Czechoslovakia, Goering said:

"It was a caution to all who air power to attack Germany. I am proud that the air force played this role."

"I believe in the invincibility of the German air force."

Goering appealed to youth to become air minded and to volunteer for air service.

Today marked the anniversary of the day in 1935—two weeks before the re-institution of compulsory military service—when Nazi Germany announced to the world that it had an air force, in defiance of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Brothers-in-Law May Rule

(By NEA Service)

Spanish Rebel Generalissimo Franco is reported about to establish a new insurgent government with himself as dictator and his brother-in-law, Ramon Serrano Suner, as premier.

Suner, now minister of the interior, is considered strongly pro-Fascist. Trained in the law and holder of important judicial positions at an early age, Ramon Serrano Suner was active in the underground anti-Republican agitation which culminated in the Spanish civil war.

Now 37, he is a leader of the Falangist or Fascist wing of the insurgent movement.

He was captured in Madrid when the war started in 1936, but escaped from the "model prison" to Franco territory. In 1937, while head of the Falangist press department, he attended the Nuremberg Nazi congress as Adolf Hitler's guest of honor.

When a Franco government was organized in 1938, Suner was appointed minister of the interior and governor of the city of Valladolid.

What Meningitis is

Meningitis is an inflammation of some or all of the three membranes covering the brain and spinal cord. It may arise in several ways: Tuberculosis, especially in babies, produces a meningitis, practically 100 per cent fatal; sinus and mastoid infections may burrow through the skull to start meningitis; fracture of the skull may admit germs that cause meningitis.

But the variety that breaks out every so often in epidemics is caused by a tiny germ that travels in pairs and enters the body through the nose and mouth. In 1937 this disease killed only six people in Idaho (all of them young children except one), but most other years the death rate has been double that.

The younger the child, the more dangerous the outlook. On the average half the cases die.

How It is Spread

Persons who are just coming down with the disease, and do not know what ails them and those who have mild attacks without knowing what is wrong with them spread the infection far and wide. So do people who have recovered but carry the germs of meningitis in their noses and throats.

What Happens

Here we have still another disease that often behaves like a cold in the beginning. But after a few days, the patient develops fever, headache and sore muscles. He curls up in a sort of stupor with his knees drawn up and his head bent forward; his neck is stiff. He may have convulsions or become unconscious.

This state of affairs may last a few hours, a few days or several weeks. No one recovers without treatment unless the disease is very mild. Complications are common and dangerous; when they do not kill, they often cripple for life.

What to Do

Any child with a fever, a cold and sore throat, or any adult who is developing meningitis. All such youngsters should be put to bed, or at least kept quiet at home and watched. If they do not improve promptly, call the doctor. Every hour counts, if you are dealing with meningitis.

Physical examination makes the physician suspect the disease; tapping the spine and examining the fluid drawn off confirms the diagnosis.

Treatment

Serum or antibiotics is the only treatment of curative value. It must be given as early as possible. Within the first 48 hours it will cut the death rate from 50 per cent down to 15 per cent. It must often be put directly in the blood as well as into the spinal canal, and is combined with frequent taps to drain the infection from around the spinal cord.

In severe cases it may be necessary to give serum directly into the cavities of the brain and to resort to even more heroic forms of treatment to save life.

Every case belongs in a hospital; nowhere else are the facilities for proper treatment available.

In summary: Early, strenuous treatment offers the only prospect of cure in the average case of epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis.

"The next release will be on Measles."

BOTT PROTESTS TRUCKING LIMIT

BOISE, March 1 (U.P.)—Gov. C. A. Bott today issued a statement opposing a bill now before the Nevada legislature which would require to 12,000 pounds the amount of weight that can be carried by a truck passing through the state.

"It would seem Nevada's duty to her citizens to promote the flow of commerce through the state rather than restrict it," the governor said. "Idaho consumers which ordinarily passes through Nevada to California would be vitally impeded and I feel it is in the interest of every Idaho citizen to protest such legislation."

"If the bill passes, small firms will be forced to purchase additional equipment and trucking rates are bound to go up."

If a candle had three ends...

Those who burn the candle at both ends are borrowing tomorrow's pleasures for today. If a candle had three ends they'd burn them all. Then, there's the fellow who never lights his candle at all. He's bluffed by his fears of tomorrow.

The destiny of our America depends upon those who can see today's needs clearly... who can await tomorrow with confidence. Such was the spirit of our gallant forefathers. Had they burned the candle at both ends, or had they failed to burn it at all... they would have accomplished nothing. Instead, they left us a priceless heritage... a land and opportunities that other nations envy.

GIRL, 24, HEADS 30 LABOR UNITS

AKRON, O. (U.P.)—A pretty, blond, 24-year-old girl leads more than 30 local unions of the United Rubber Workers of America, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Western Maryland and Western New York.

She is Margaret Cowger, of nearby Ravenna. Her interest in the labor movement began in 1932, when she was in high school at West Farmington, O., and was called upon to debate on organized labor.

"That's how it all began," she said. "And now I'm just a bit shaky about it all."

Miss Cowger, employed at the Oak Rubber Co. plant in Ravenna, hopes to go to college and her ultimate goal was teaching English.

But what did I do? she asked, after already telling the answer. "As soon as I finished at Ravenna high, I went to work here and joined the local union."

Her first official duty came in 1935 when she was a delegate to the rubber workers' convention. She found only one other woman there, so she just "kept my mouth shut among all these men, except to answer roll call."

Being "just a fresh from high school," she thought it strange that only two women attended the convention, why the rubber industry employs thousands.

Having served as secretary of the local union for three years and as a delegate to 17 conventions, Miss Cowger is striving for a "firm foundation."

One of the chief problems facing unions now, she believes, is that of security, which protects workers while younger ones are subject to lay-offs. She thinks women should be better informed about labor.
