

JAPAN STORES WAR MATERIALS IN MANCHUKUO, SAYS HULL

BORAH INDICATES CHANGES NEEDED IN 'NEUTRAL LAW'

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today indicated that Japan has accumulated big supplies of American materials in Manchukuo for use in her undeclared conflict with China and for possible future operations.

Hull's statement, arising from a dispute with Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R., N. D., over American trade in Manchukuo, came in the midst of congressional argument over whether the neutrality law should be changed to prevent shipments to aggressors.

Reynold M. Harbo, wartime chairman of the war industries board, told the senate foreign relations committee that America will go to it on fundamental rights are violated, but cautioned against use of economic penalties against aggressors. Such economic measures, Harbo said, will lead inevitably to military war.

Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho, leader of the ardent isolationist bloc, indicated his support for legislation of "cash and carry" provisions to permit American ships to carry war materials to belligerents at their own risk. Borah said the law now strengthens the position of such countries as Japan at the expense of China.

Rep. Louis Ludlow, D., Ind., renewed his drive for a constitutional amendment requiring a national referendum before America could enter a foreign war. He said he has obtained more than 20 resolutions on a petition to force his resolution out of the house judiciary committee. A similar resolution is pending in the senate.

Hull, angered by a statement by Nye, who accused the state department of "window dressing" in making it appear that the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo is discriminating against American trade, Nye said the state department has disregarded or overlooked the fact that American exports to Manchukuo jumped to $17,000,000 last year.

Hull said the increase was abnormal and consisted primarily of war supplies and munitions which Japan was accumulating for its army and navy. He reiterated that American business and businessmen are being discriminated against by the Manchukuo regime.

DEFENSE ARGUES NON-SUIT MOVE

Vigorous defense plea in favor of a motion for non-suit was interrupted by mid-day recess today in the district court damage action by which Mrs. Alice Stuart and her two sons seek $50,000 from Ora McVey, Jr., jointly and severally with Stuart. The world war veteran died Aug. 10, 1936, as result of injuries received Aug. 2 of the same year in a truck-crash east of Twin Falls.

The trial is the second in the case, since Mrs. Stuart and her sons were granted $750 judgment in 1937 but the defendants appealed and won Idaho supreme court order reversing the action of claims of error.

Stephan Makes Plea
Frank Stephan, chief of defense counsel, made the strong plea for non-suit shortly before noon today after the plaintiff's counsel rested her case. Stephan was to resume afternoon session.

Final witnesses for the claimants today were Viola Chastain, sister of the accident victim; Maxine Stuart, the accident victim's sister-in-law; and Mrs. Alice Stuart, the plaintiff, who was at Stuart's home at the time of the accident but not at McVey's truck crash site. She testified as to the high qualities as husband and father.

Witnesses for the claimants yesterday were Dr. C. R. Scott, Frank E. Hertz, Bert Wilson and Harry Bodenstam.

Counsel
Chapman and Chapman are counsel for Mrs. Stuart and her sons, Gordon, 12, and Gilbert, 10. Stephan and Blandford represent McVey and Goebel.

Will Judge J. W. Porter preside, these jurors are hearing the case: A. D. Owens, Alta Jay, George Ling, William Rude, A. A. Tolman, Glen Dolen, K. Anderson, Ralph S. Hatch, Joseph Kucera, Glenn Thietzen and Ed Asker.

Man Insists on Charging It; He Gets "Account" with City

B. Harris, a resident of Buhl, had opened an account with the city of Twin Falls today.

The man, officers said, drove up to a local gasoline station last night and ordered gasoline. When the delivery had been made he told the attendant to "charge it."

But the attendant balked, despite the insistence of the visitor that arrangements be made immediately for the opening of an account.

Police were called and, this morning, Harris came before Municipal Judge J. O. Humphrey on a charge of intoxication.

"Since you want to open an account with someone you can open one with the city," Humphrey told the prisoner. "However, we operate on a cash and carry basis now on our $5."

Records show Harris couldn't pay the "account" and so he is serving out the "bill" in the city jail.

Big Fire "Fizzles"

What looked like the biggest shed fire in many a year, yesterday, according to two Twin Falls men who were on hand at the time.

Joe Arkosch, sheep operator with sheds about six and one-half miles northeast of Gooding, visited in the Gooding fire department with a plea for "all possible men" to help battle a blaze in his corral.

Mary Gooding, volunteer responded, as did the smaller of Gooding's fire trucks, according to the Twin Falls men, the local pair, incidentally, spent out to the fire scene, too, figuring it might develop into some sort of catastrophe if not. Identical volunteers didn't respond to the sheepman's plea, Arkosch said. A staff of workers had already extinguished the blaze. The fire was in the corral among the sheds but was not in any of the sheds.

The small fire didn't spread, he reported, had trouble on the road and didn't arrive.

ECONOMIC SANCTIONS MAY LEAD U.S. TO WAR—BARUCH

WARNS AGAINST NEUTRALITY LAW INJURING TRADE

WASHINGTON, April 6 (UP)—Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board during the World War, told the senate foreign relations committee today use of economic sanctions against aggressor nations would lead the United States into a military war.

Baruch testified on proposed revisions of neutrality laws as Senate advocates of strict neutrality vigorously opposed proposals which they contended would take away from Congress and give to the President power to declare war. They strenuously opposed proposals to delegate the President discretion to declare the aggressor nations and applying sanctions.

Disables Theory

Baruch discussed the theory that the only way for this country to keep out of war is to exert economic pressure against aggressors in an effort to prevent outbreak of a European conflict.

"On that theory, if our economic war fails, we will be in military war and I think that, if we make even a little war, that conclusion is inevitable," he said. "I am not sure that even with the utmost economic pressure we could prevent European war if it were determined upon the aggressors."

Cautions on Legislation

The proposal for economic pressure against the dictator nations was sent to the committee yesterday by Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under President Hoover.

Baruch said he agreed with President Roosevelt's idea of utilizing "methods short of war but stronger than mere words" to display this country's opposition to aggression.

Baruch cautioned against neutrality legislation that would strangle United States commerce with nations.

Group Takes Inside Look At CCC Unit

Business and professional men of Twin Falls and ranchers of this area today had taken an "inside look" into operations of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp, officers, officials and enrollees were hosts yesterday during an open house program marking the sixth anniversary of the establishment of the corps.

Civic groups from Twin Falls represented at the observance included the Kiwanis club, Rotary club, Chamber of Commerce and the Lions. A count of those attending showed 200 guests at a special "open house" dinner served at 1 p. m.

These Spoke

Speakers on the program included: Lieut. Vincent Barreca, camp commander; Lieut. Col. H. G. Lauterbach, Hanson; Peter Link, Hanson; Lieut. Anthony Quesada, assistant camp commander; C. H. Ransome, projects superintendent; Dr. Van Arman, educational adviser and Curtis Price, supervisor of the Minidoka national forest.

During his talk the camp commander stressed the fact that the CCC was not an army organization, but rather was established to benefit various localities in which the camps are situated. He also said the local camp is allowed approximately $3,000 a month to purchase food for 200 men, the government spending some $500 on each enrollee during the term of his enlistment.

In their talks Lieut. Col. Lauterbach and Mr. Link expressed the pleasure of the local business and professional men at being guests during the observance.

Tell of Activities

Van Arman, the educational adviser told of the recreation program and also of the educational aspects of the camp while Mr. Ransome told of the various man hours spent on the various projects, including road building, elimination of fire hazards, beautifying hills and surrounding country, building camp grounds, installing water pipes, pest control in the forests and construction of buildings for camp use. He pointed out that the enrollees often become expert loggers, carpenters, tractor operators and truck drivers during the period of their enrollment.

Mr. Price, discussing the CCC from the standpoint of its value to the forest, pointed out the "fire-fighting work" which was being accomplished and added that in years to come such improvements would be appreciated, probably more than they are at the present time.

Unusual Bible Class Signs 1,400, Third Without Church Affiliation

QUINCY, Miss., (UP)—The Men's Bible class of Quincy, probably the largest in the country, celebrates its 15th anniversary this year with a record enrollment of more than 1,400 members.

Organized in 1923 at the First Presbyterian church with 23 charter members, the class grew so rapidly that it encompassed all faiths and was forced to move from a church classroom to a theater auditorium for its weekly sessions.

Today a large percentage of its members—one-third to be specific—are not affiliated with any church. Every faith, including Catholic and Jewish, is represented by the rest.

Each year a new mailing list is established with the names of all men who have attended two or more Sunday meetings. The list for this year has nearly 1,400 names, although weekly attendance averages only between 400 and 500.

Founder of the class and its only teacher is J. Paul Foster, son of a Presbyterian clergyman who occupied a Boston church pulpit for nearly 40 years. The younger Foster, educated at Harvard, Yale and Boston universities, is director of the convocation bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Foster avoids current-day problems in his weekly talks, speaking only on the Bible and with all the fire of an evangelist.

In 1926 the class undertook the project of putting a Bible in every Quincy home then without one. After visiting personally the city's 15,000 homes, class members had distributed 2,194 Bibles free of charge. The King James version was offered, but if the family was Catholic or Jewish, the proper version was obtained for them. In addition, the class has distributed 9,000 pocket-size New Testaments to members and friends.

The class is supported by voluntary collections, but neither Foster nor the officers receive any salary.

NEW INSTITUTE TO FIGHT 'ISMS'

EVANSTON, Ill., (UP)—A peace-time effort to strengthen and preserve democratic government will get underway on the Northwestern university campus June 20 with the establishment of an Institute of Democracy.

The institute, which will attract world-famous social scientists as faculty members, is intended to focus attention on the need for constant study of the problems of democracy.

Dr. Ernest H. Bahner, director of the university's summer session, elected the program of the institute as a major step toward fighting of "isms."

"It is nothing short of folly," Dr. Bahner said, "to assume that the democratic form of government will automatically persist despite efforts made by opposing forces of government where vastly different ideas and ideals prevail."

"While it may be conceded that democracy is a relatively inefficient form of government, it has survived the struggle for existence and is, for America, the most desirable sort of political organization. It is intended that the Institute of Democracy focus attention on our need for greater vigilance."

Ten professors who have achieved success in the fields of politics, sociology, economics, philosophy, psychology, history and education will conduct the classes, which will continue through Aug. 12. Among them will be Dr. Edward A. Ross, known as the father of modern sociology, who will emerge from retirement as professor emeritus at the University of Wisconsin.

Others are Dr. Arthur N. Holcombe, chairman of the Harvard university department of government; Dr. Herbert von Beckerath of Duke university; and Dr. Albert Benedict Wolfe of Ohio State university.

Although the institute is intended primarily for graduate students in the social sciences, Dr. Bahner said that individual courses will be open to all persons to can meet the prerequisites.

Nazis Hint at Reprisals Against Britain, Poland

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR.

BERLIN, April 6 (UP)—Official Nazi circles charged today that Poland had joined the anti-German front and hinted at reprisals against both Warsaw and London governments.

"The dice have fallen," one official spokesman said in regard to the new Polish-British defense treaty. "Poland should not forget that the Polish-German anti-war treaty rests on mutual cooperation."

With Adolf Hitler understood to have received a personal message from Premier Benito Mussolini regarding plans to counteract encirclement of Rome-Berlin partnership, official circles indicated the Nazis next move might involve:

1. Denunciation of the British-German naval pact limiting the tonnage to 35 per cent of British naval tonnage.
2. Denunciation of the Polish-German non-aggression treaty which runs until 1944.
3. Formal adherence of nationalistic Poland to the totalitarian anti-Communist alliance.
4. Possible transformation of the anti-Communist pact into a formal military alliance.
5. It is dangerous to threaten a further state move if you are not a further state yourself," one Nazi official said in reference to the Italian-German move to counteract fears of encirclement.

The discussion of reprisals against both Britain and Poland centered on diplomatic moves for the present but it was not forgotten that the general staff chiefs of both the reich and Italy were conferring at Innsbruck. In this connection Nazis pointed out that there had been frequent indications that the anti-Communist alliance might be turned into a strong military pact in the near future.

German officials obviously were surprised as well as angered by Poland's action in completing the treaty with Britain. As late as last night, many officials had predicted that Poland would agree only to vague phraseology in the pact with Britain in order to avoid any suggestion of aiding in the encirclement of Germany. The final outcome, however, was a blow to Nazis.

BRITAIN SIGNS DEFENSIVE MILITARY PACT WITH POLAND

ITALIAN CRUISER, TWO WARSHIPS IN ALBANIA HARBOR

By WEBB MILLER
Copyright by United Press
LONDON, April 6 (U.P.)—Great Britain announced a defensive military alliance with Poland today, and Italy sent warships to Albania as the great powers made their first big moves in a dramatic struggle for the dominant position in the Balkans.

Great Britain, leading the democratic nations in a drive for a "Stop Hitler" bloc, and Italy, acting for the totalitarian "axis" powers, were racing for diplomatic supremacy.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced in the house of commons:

1—That an Italian cruiser and two smaller warships had arrived at Durazzo, Albania.

2—That Great Britain and Poland had agreed to conclude a full fledged defensive military alliance.

Reciprocal Agreement
"The two countries," he said, "are prepared to enter a permanent and reciprocal agreement to replace the present temporary assurances given Poland."

The statement was made by agreement with the Polish government.

He said he had received assurances from Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, that Poland would consider itself obliged to render assistance to Great Britain under the same conditions as those contained in temporary assurances given by Britain.

These assurances were that Britain would go to Poland's aid if Poland were subjected to any aggression against which she felt bound to defend herself.

Chamberlain emphasized the permanent agreement was not directed against any other country.

Three Nations
Responding to questions, Chamberlain said that the British agreement with Poland was similar to the French-Polish alliance.

These three nations were brought into the British "stop Hitler" bloc intended to prevent aggression on the continent.

But Chamberlain added the government intended to proceed with consultations already under way with other governments.

It was believed that other governments included Rumania, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Greece and perhaps Bulgaria.

Then he added the new agreement with Poland would not prevent either nation from making agreements with other countries for consolidation of peace.

This was taken to mean that Britain held herself free to seize any opportunity for a "stop Hitler" pact with Germany or Italy, the "axis" powers.

At Legation of Albania, Chamberlain said Count Ciano, Italian foreign minister, had told the earl of Perth, British ambassador at Rome, that difficulties had arisen during Italian-Albanian negotiations.

The negotiations, he said, arose from a proposal by King Zog I of Albania to strengthen the Italian-Albanian treaty.

Interests Threatened
Count Ciano told the earl of Perth, Chamberlain said, that Italy's interests in Albania had been threatened.

Albania denied to Great Britain, Chamberlain added, that she had accepted any Italian conditions which infringed her sovereignty.

The British government, Chamberlain added, was closely watching Albanian developments.

Rumania was not on Great Britain's "stop Hitler" list.

Violet V. Tilton, the Rumanian minister to London, was expected to arrive from Bucharest today with instructions from King Carol.

It was understood he would engage in negotiations here with the Polish Foreign Minister Beck as well as British leaders, the idea being that Rumania might participate in the new British-French-Polish bloc.

Silent Partner
That Russia remained a silent partner in the British-Polish bloc was a potential ally in event of a general war, was made clear by Chamberlain's assurance that Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, would maintain close contact with Ivan Mikoy, Russian ambassador.

Asked whether Britain would in the present Italy that any alteration of the present status in Albania would be a violation of the British-Italian accord, Chamberlain said:

"There has been no occasion to do that. The Italian government is quite aware of the terms of the agreement."

Hostesses Favor Seasonal Motif
BUHL, April 6 (Special)—Easter and the awakening of spring created a lovely atmosphere in the three story-lit rooms in the Fred Marquardt home Monday when Mrs. Marquardt, Mrs. Jess O. Eastman, Mrs. Harry Weber and Mrs. Robert Hays entertained guests with a dinner followed by a social motif.

The festive large of knapdragons, and fruit tree blossoms announced the arrival of spring. The eight quartet tables were attractively centered with colored velvet, and holding tiny Easter egg candles, guarded by Easter chicks. The tally cards also carried out the holiday motif.

High honors for the evening's play were given Mrs. Bonnie Hartley, Mrs. Mabel Coleman and Mrs. Bernard Albertson.

STORAGE WATER SHOWS INCREASE

Increase in storage water, used for irrigation purposes, was noted this afternoon in a report compiled by Lynn Grandall, watermaster, received by the Twin Falls Canal company and showing condition of the three principal reservoirs serving this area.

Jackson lake reservoir, at the time, is impounding 553,370 acre feet of water against 561,700 last week; American falls reservoir now holds 1,892,000 acre feet against 1,653,120 last week and Lake Walcott impounds 75,420 against 73,170 a week ago.

Cooperative snow reports, also featured in Grandall's summary, show the following snow depths and water content:

State line (Paton river) 36 inches, water content 128 inches; Valley view ranch, 40 inches with water content of 122 inches; Big Springs 50 inches, water content 17.8 inches; Bechler river 57 inches, water content 24.4 inches; Togwotee Pass 73 inches, water content 25.8 inches; Brooks lake 72 inches, water content 25.6 inches.

THREE WILL FACE CLAIM OF THEFT

GOODING, April 6 (Special)—Larceny charges were to be filed here this morning against two men and one woman, all of whom were arrested yesterday in connection with clothing thefts from a Gooding county ranch.

The three suspects are Jay Shandy, about 33, Mrs. Mary Shandy, his wife, about 25, and Jay Wesley McKenzie, who will be 32 next June 12.

Arrested by Sheriff Wayne Plack and Deputy Sheriff W. W. Gooding, the suspects had been taken to the sheriff's office and other officers in their homes. The officers said Mr. McKenzie was a stolen goods dealer, but he is mother of a three-week-old infant.

The clothing had been reported as stolen from an unincorporated ranch home owned by Mrs. Paul Shandon (Shandy). The owner told Gooding county officers that the clothing was taken from the ranch on the morning of the theft. Plack and the pair told him they visited the ranch house, found the clothing inside, and took some of the apparel on assumption that the clothing had been stolen from the ranch.

No Dove of Peace

The bird perched in friendly fashion on the rifle of a Japanese soldier at Harbin, China, may suggest the dove of peace, but actually it is a carrier pigeon used for military messages.

ESTIMATED AT $200

Deputy Sheriff Warren W. Lowery said today that estimated value of the clothing stolen at Gooding county ranch, allegedly by two men and one woman, being held in Gooding along with the wife of one of the men, is about $200.

It is said the owner of the clothing, Mrs. Emily Shandon, operates the ladies' ready-to-wear department of the New York Store in Boise. She had kept some of her own clothing at the ranch house and had stored some of the apparel formerly owned by a deceased aunt.

Drove Over in Car

The two men, Jay Shandy and Jay Wesley McKenzie, were taken to the sheriff's office in a car. The car was found at the ranch house and the clothing was found in the trunk.

Buhl Tops 'Declam' List On First-Place Rankings

With Buhl topping the list for total of "excellent" rankings and Twin Falls leading in number qualified for the state declamation festival, 13 representatives of Class A schools were designated today to enter the state meet at Burley April 14 and 15.

The qualifiers were selected Wednesday at the district Class A competition held in Kimberly last evening.

Burley high school's one-act play cast of six members captured top honors in that division as concluding event last night. The victory qualified Burley's play as the district entry. The Burley declamation students, however, did not compete at the district event because of the fact that the Gass school is host for the state meet and its representatives are automatically qualified.

Buhl high school achieved four excellent rankings—highest granted at the declamation festivals. Twin Falls and Filer each received two excellent, but Twin Falls increased its state meet delegation to five by taking three superior ratings. Kimberly took one excellent ranking. Filer added one superior to its two excellent.

Charge Looms In Hen Theft

Penalty charge of grand larceny in the theft of chickens in the west end territory heard today for Judge Carpenter, 20.

Carpenter was in court yesterday awaiting trial of the charges after Burley police arrested him Wednesday. Buhl officers said he had presented 40 hens to a Buhl claim station and sought to sell them.

After Art C. Parker said two of the hens have been identified as property of V. J. Sauer, a Glover rancher from whom thieves took chickens last week, Sauer's son, 10, identified the fowl.

Carpenter, who lives in Clark lake canyon, said he had come to town recently from Oklahoma, according to the sheriff.

AMATEUR BASEBALL LEADERS MEET MONDAY

Game Abundance Return Forecast by Sportsmen's Banquet Speaker

Southern Idaho's Teams May Form Powerful League

First call for the reorganization of the South Central Idaho baseball league, an amateur loop, was sounded here today with the mailing of invitations to baseball managers from all this territory to take part in a meeting at the Idaho Evening Times and Town Hall, News Office on Monday, April 10, at 8:30 p. m.

With better parks, better equipment and faster players, the loop is expected to be moulded into a sound organization that will rank with the better amateur leagues in the inter-mountain territory.

Present plans point to the formation of a compact eight-team loop made up of the larger cities of the south central Idaho community with play to be restricted to Sunday afternoon contests.

Invitations to attend the Monday meeting were mailed to Burlie Harper, Jerome, Gooding, Kimberly, Elgin, Shoshone, Glens, Ferry, Buhl and Wendell. Representatives from all these cities are expected to be at the gathering. Any representative from other cities are also requested to be present and will be given every consideration if they have application for a spot in the loop.

Kimberly Wins
The SCI league last year was split into two divisions, East and West, with the former section being represented by Shoshone, Elgin, Kimberly and Jerome. In the Western division were Gooding, Wendell, Hagerman, Tipton, Appleton and Orchard Valley.

The season was played on a split basis, with Kimberly, winner of the first half, taking on Elgin in the play-off at the end of the season. Wendell, champions of the western division, declined to participate in the post-season affair.

In the play-offs, Kimberly won the first two, Elgin the second pair, and then Kimberly took the deciding game.

Exhibition Game
Business Manager Hugh Pace of the Cowboys states that while all Pioneer league games must be played in the Cowboy park in Twin Falls, according to national rules, the team can take on amateur clubs from other cities in exhibition games and that way be hoped to take life club to several of the surrounding towns that have the better amateur teams.

At the meeting held on Monday night plans will be laid for the season and in all probability a schedule will be drawn up. It has been proposed that the winner of the SCI league this year meet the champions of the Eastern Idaho loop for the state amateur crown at the end of the season. Teams in the loop of that territory include Idaho Falls, Shelley, Rigby, St. Anthony, Pocatello and possibly several others.

Probabilities are that a trophy will be awarded for the championship club this year, and this, rules, regulations, offering, and other matters will be discussed on Monday.

Hollywood in First Place In Coast Play

(By United Press)
Hollywood took undisputed possession of the top rung in Pacific Coast league standings today by virtue of a hard-fought 4 to 3 win over the Portland Beavers.

The Stars hopped on Bill Thomas' offerings in the third inning for three hits and all of their runs. Left-handed Ed Brandt, the Stars' acquisition from Pittsburgh, held the Beavers to 11 hits and two runs.

Rainiers Win
Dick Barrett, Seattle's opening day pitcher, who is a top-sided game to the Seals, pitched the Rainiers to a 3 to 2 victory over San Francisco. Barrett held the Padres to four hits in a 10-inning struggle with Howard Craghead.

Oakland beat San Francisco 4 to 3. Jack Faton pitched steadily but the Oaks. The Seals got seven hits and chased the place twice in the fourth inning on three of them. Oakland couldn't weather their attacking machine until the ninth when they lost 12 runs without the aid of a hit.

Solons Lose Again
Sacramento's losing streak was extended to five when the Los Angeles Angels, led by Don Freeland, beat the Solons 12 to 1. Freeland pitched a complete game, allowing only one hit and no runs.

9 Club Farm System May Help Browns in 1939 Pennant Drive

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 6 (UP)—The baseball farm system which helped build winners for the Yankees and Cardinals, at last is beginning to operate where it is really needed—on the St. Louis Browns.

The Browns, who have never won a pennant in their 27 years in the American league, are going to show new faces this season, thanks to the nine-club minor league connections they made two years ago.

New Infield Combination
The infield, long a problem at St. Louis, seems sure to show a new combination around second base. The play of Johnny Berardino, 21-year-old catcher, has been sensational in spring training workouts, and he seems a cinch for second base.

Pitching Problem
That leaves pitching and that's where Haney's trouble begins. Buck Newsum, with 20 victories last year, is the No. 1 man. Southpaw Howard Mills, a 10-game winner last summer, and Johnny Marcum, the former Boston Red Sox boy, are the only other pitchers with proven ability in the big time.

Mac's a Goose—He Heads North as Spring Comes

SOMEWHERE IN GEORGIA, April 6 (UP)—I am a goose. At least I reckon I am because as soon as the weather begins to get nice up north I always arrange myself in neat wedge formation and start that way with the other geese.

I don't like to place myself above the flock, which always flies nose-up to where it's going. But being so much of a goose that I like to take a gander at all way points, I am going to stop in Asheville, N. C. for a few days.

That is, I ever get there. The chances of my arriving in one part or another of the state are only fifty-fifty, because I am driving a car, and driving a car in the south is only a shade safer than jumping in a car with a churning diesel and handling him the recipe for the sauce you like to be based with.

32 Qualifying Courses Picked For Open Meet
NEW YORK, April 6 (UP)—Grandstand qualifying rounds for the 1939 United States open golf championship will be played over 32 courses May 22, the U. S. Golf association announced today.

This is one more qualifying step than last year, and equals the 22 of 1927 when a record 1,402 entered for the championship played at Detroit. This year's tournament is scheduled for June 8-10 at the Philadelphia Country club. Entry blanks must be in the U. S. G. A. office here by 5 p. m. May 9.

The qualifying rounds consist of the round 30 holes of medal play. Places for each district will be allotted on a percentage basis of the total section.

State Boxing Tournament Is Postponed

JEROME, April 6 (Special)—The first annual state high school boxing tournament has been postponed to April 21 and 22. It was announced here today by E. C. Brice, "Thompson" of the Jerome Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring organization.

The meet had formerly been set for Friday and Saturday, April 19 and 20. The new plans call for first round battles on Friday, April 21, in the evening and Saturday afternoon, the following day, with championship bouts set for Saturday night.

The local tournament, which is expected to attract the ace fight of the year, is being moved to the new dates to halt confusion of dates with a meet at Malad this week-end. Thompson said the Malad school plans to send several fighters to this district to compete in the various divisions.

The tournament, which is expected to draw a large crowd, has the approval of the state board of control of the Idaho athletic association.

Studebaker Trims Power
Studebaker took all three games from Idaho Power in the Commercial league bowling last night. Every player on the winning squad shot over the 300 mark while one of the losers reached the chained circle.

High scoring honors for the evening went to Ted Emrick with a 387 total and a high single of 220, Lathrop.

According to mortality records, quarry work is more dangerous than milking in England.

Old-Timers at Shoshone Pound Apple

SHOSHONE, April 6 (Special)—The "young bloods" among Shoshone baseball performers found out that the olds still have the old batting eye.

The youths issued a challenge that they could "fan out" some of their olds at $1 per hand. But it didn't happen, because the old timers did a little sphere pounding and collected the wagers.

Candidates Look Good
Despite that, the baseball candidates for the Shoshone town team look good for this season. The evening practice sessions are trying out some excellent material for every spot on the squad.

Club backers are urging city sponsorship of a WPA project for reconstruction of the Shoshone ball park grandstand to provide better facilities for the summer contests.

1938 Squad
Members of the 1938 squad who will be back on the team next year are Tommy Beith, William Thompson, Tommy Beith, Ed Beith, Leroy Crothers, Joe Hynes, Norman Ruth, Elmer Kirtley, and Charles Martin.

Local backers are also lining up at least one more pitcher to play on the local squad and the team management has already issued a challenge to the Twin Falls Cowboys of the Pioneer league for an exhibition game later in the season—to be played here.

Vandals Map Three-Game Ball Series
MOSCOW, April 6 (Special)—Three spring vacation games with Whitman college at Walla Walla will open the baseball season for the Pioneer league. The squad left here Wednesday.

This year the Vandals have had the advantage of two weeks of practice out of doors, such as it was, on diamonds still wet to dry. Last season Idaho had three days of outdoor work before opening against Whitman in a similar series.

Practices this far have shown a strong pitching staff in Earl Gregory, Polk, and Mark Stoddard. Coach d'Alene, Harold Jenkins, Jerome, Ed Ranta, Kamiah, and Lewis Yenney, Kookin, Gordon Price and Claude Wood have been sharing the catching duties.

Annual Dinner Here Draws 150 Members

Because sportsmen of the country have been in together, and are now operating on a firm basis as regards conservation, a program which will someday offer entirely adequate and good hunting for all will be the result.

George Holman, game manager for the biological survey in Idaho, declared in an address here.

Holman, who was formerly stationed at Reno, Nev., but who has just been transferred to Idaho with headquarters in Boise, spoke of the annual dinner of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association held at the Park hotel last night. He estimated 150 sportsmen were present.

Presiding at the session was Weldon Wilcox, president, with W. R. "Wee" Westcott as master of ceremonies.

Practical Activities
Holman, during his address, was high in praise for the activities of groups such as the Southern Idaho association which, he said, "through co-operation in the field the solution to our wild life problems."

"At the present time I can truly say that game population throughout the state is on the increase. You will recall that during the settlement of the west the game found here added materially. In fact, it can be said that without the abundance of game the area would not have been settled."

"At that time, however, no thought was given to the future. Game was taken as we wanted it until at last we found that something had to be done. It might be well to recall that when we first had to restrict our hunting activities most of us thought we were being abused."

"But, within the last few years, the trend has been toward conservation. We have found that there is no more justification for attempting to grow more game on any range than there is for a farmer to put 20 cows on a pasture which is fit for only 10 and then to expect the same results in both cases," the speaker continued.

Turning to a discussion of the conservation move and what it has accomplished, Mr. Holman pointed out that in 1914 in the state of Utah there were some 2,000 mile deer in the national forests. Today, through control, this number has reached over 100,000.

As regards the water fowl situation, the speaker expressed the opinion that next year "we might be able to find liberal hunting in this element."

Works With All
In announcing the policy of his department, Mr. Holman closed by saying "It will be my desire to work with all interests for the good of all."

SWALLOWS KEEP 161-YEAR RECORD

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif. (U.S.A.)—California has witnessed again two migratory movements which science has never been able to explain, but which have now become legendary throughout the state because of the exactitude with which they take place.

The first was the return on Saint Joseph's day, March 19, of the swallows to their homes in the mission of San Juan Capistrano, and the second was the departure of the vast horde of Monarch butterflies that come in November or December of each year to winter on the Monterey peninsula.

According to the records of the padres in the San Juan Capistrano mission, this year marked the 161st time that the swallows have returned promptly on Saint Joseph's day, after having made their departure on San Juan day, Oct. 25, of the preceding year.

Instinct Is Unexplained

The outstanding feature of each annual migration, and which science can only explain by attributing it to "instinct," is that the departure and return always take place on the same day.

This phenomenon has been witnessed and recorded in at least one other place in the world, on the northeast coast of France, where Clemenceau, war time prime minister of France, passed the last years of his life in a little cottage by the sea. It was there that he noted that each year on a certain day, the swallows answered some mysterious "mobilization" device. Once they were mobilized for flight, they winged away to some unknown place which they returned at a later date each year without the slightest variation. This was one of the few things Clemenceau wrote about in addition to his memoirs.

At San Juan Capistrano, the legend is that the original flock of swallows was saved from a storm at the hands of the fathers of the mission who took them in 161 years ago.

In the migration of the Monarch butterflies each year to the Monterey peninsula, even a first development of instinct is manifest.

According to entomologists who have come from all parts of the United States to study the migration, the cycle of a butterfly's life is such that it is never possible for a butterfly to make the trip to the peninsula twice.

Young Ones Unerring

Yet, every new annual generation of the reddish-brown butterflies, is able to trace the route to the rendezvous of their ancestors of the preceding year. No butterfly of last year's migration ever survives to make the trip a second year. Entomologists affirm, however, that each year show an instinctive knowledge of the route to follow.

The precise is this instinct, that the butterflies not only come unerringly to the Monterey peninsula but proceed directly to a certain clump of trees three miles from the heart of Pacific Grove, where they pass the winter.

The Monarch butterflies do not leave and arrive on a precise day each year as do the swallows, but from the studies that have been made of their movements, their migration appears to be established by fixed instincts regarding the approaching winter.

During those cycles when early winters prevail, the butterflies seemingly know this in advance and the so-called "winter" date, usually in November instead of December. The same instinct governs their departure, required for their migration, what their northern destination is, and what route they follow is now known.

PRISONERS SENT TO OWN SCHOOL

LONDON, O., U.P.—The Ohio prison farm here has a school where inmates, stripped of their clothing, try to learn how to behave when they step into the outside world again.

The school is unusual. Teachers and pupils have the same status. All are prisoners. They go to class voluntarily every weekday from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. Those who have some education share with those who have less.

"No one plays favorites," said the Rev. Curtis E. Shields, the farm's Protestant chaplain, who is the school's director.

Saturday morning sessions are varied by an assembly, at which some traveled inmate, or a professional man, lectures.

The result has been a 2 per cent reduction in literacy among the inmates in the last three years. Literacy percentage now is eight.

The school was organized seven years ago under former Sup't. William P. Amine, chief of the department of corrections of Ohio and now acting warden of the state penitentiary at Columbus.

The school was designed to care for the illiterates," Chaplain Shields said. "We explained that it was possible for every man to read simple English, write his own letters and figure his own accounts."

"This purpose has been adhered to with such modifications as circumstances have made necessary. Some illiterates, because of age or other handicap, are not qualified. Some, with families of dependent children, are assigned to remunerative employment to help support their families."

A recent study of 49 men working for six months showed they started with an average mental age of 9 years, 7 months and ended with a mental age of 10 years and 4 months, a 9-month gain. Statistics on public education from the Smithsonian Institution show that 49 students in the same category gained only six months in a six-month period.

At the beginning, only the first four grades of school work were covered. "We explained," said Chaplain Shields, "that the school was expanded to include the eight elementary grades and some high school and commercial work."

Spanish Class Organized

"Teachers come from among the inmate group. Recently, we have among them a Spanish class of 10 pupils. This was first taught by a university man; next by an Arizona Mexican; and now by a Negro. All have been excellent teachers. Lack of funds, Chaplain Shields said, makes uniform textbooks one of the school's big problems.

"It's up to the ingenuity of the teacher to get along the best he can," he said.

Chaplain Shields does not believe education is a "cure-all" for criminals and crime problems.

Wardens in a quiet way, the farm school here has been a helpful influence in the lives of many men who have passed through the institution. The effort needed has been wholly worth while," he said.

Chaplain Shields held pastorates in Presbyterian churches in Delaware, Bucyrus and London, O., and at the Union English speaking church in Hilo, Hawaii, before his appointment to the prison farm. He is a graduate of Wooster college and the Lane Seminary in Cincinnati.

Scientists usually are the first to report earthquakes, but the Manila earthquake of 1937 was the exception. The first report came by telegraph at early, carrying Chinese-Japanese war stories, actually scooped the seismograph stations.
