

DEATH CLOSES CAREER OF SEN. J. HAMILTON LEWIS

U. S. SOLON, 78, DIES OF HEART ATTACK SUNDAY

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON, April 10 (U.P.)—The senate met today and quickly adjourned in respect to the memory of James Hamilton Lewis, soldier, diplomat and statesman—ex-dishwasher, dock laborer, and a political Beau Brummel too.
Sen. "Jim Lewis" died last night in Garfield hospital of a heart attack. Congress has lost its only genuine dandy.
He chose a life time of politics. He was senate Democratic whip when he died.
His successor to be appointed by Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, is virtually certain to be a New Dealer and a more consistent one than Lewis. His open breaks with Mr. Roosevelt have been few. But the senator generally was counted among those who viewed with increasing uneasiness the trend of administration monetary policies and some aspects of administration labor strategy.
Arrived in 1896
Red-whiskered — they were not really pink as some writers hastily described them—and dressed, as they said in those days, to kill, Lewis descended on the capital in 1896 as congressman-at-large from the state of Washington.
Among his achievements was a miracle of time. The years fretted the handsome statesman. He probably was 75 or 76 years old when he died last night. Go back far enough in the records and you will find admission that he was born in Virginia in 1863. But in 1913 he listed himself as 46 years old. Six years later he was only 46. Later congressional directories report merely where he was born, not when.
Went to Georgia
From that Virginia beginning, Lewis in late teens went to Savannah, Ga., accumulated debt, some local learning and a determination to begin over in the west. He chose Washington territory. Finding much leisure and few clients there as a newly arrived lawyer, he conceived the first of a life time of grand gestures. Lewis was almost broke. But he bought the most expensive riding habit in town; rented the finest saddle horse. His leisure hours were spent in the saddle where the town folk could assume, if they would, that here was a young man whose fees already bulged his pockets.
That strategy got Lewis clients and attention. He went to the territorial legislature and thence to congress where Washington became a state. He might have been there still if his political opponents had not employed a stooge who looked like Lewis to dress in similar garb

Rip Swastika from Uniforms

With bayonet. Corp. Paul Gamino of the 45th division of the U. S. national guard (Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona), rips a swastika from his sleeve. The emblem was originally adopted as a good luck symbol from American Indians, but public resentment against German Nazi activities has caused 45th to abandon it.

PARK WILL OPEN ROADS EARLIER

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., April 10 (U.P.)—Due to an unusually mild winter and the favorable condition of the snow for handling with snow plows Yellowstone national park roads will be open several weeks earlier this season than in former years. Acting Supt. J. W. Emmert announced today.
On April 5 motorists were permitted to enter the park at the west gate, the north gate having been open all winter, and the roads on the west side of the park between Mammoth Hot Springs and Old Faithful are now passable. The road to Canyon, Lake and West Thumb via Norris is expected to be open to travel beginning April 15, by which time all of the main features on the grand loop will be accessible.
Following the opening of the roads to the park's main points of interest the snow plows will open the entrance highways and by April 25 it is expected that motorists can enter via the eastern portal. The southern gateway should be open about May 10 with the northeast opening a week or two thereafter. Travel probably will not be possible over the higher roads on the grand loop over Dunsmuir pass between Canyon and Tower falls before May 20 and over the continental divide between Old Faithful and West Thumb before May 25.
Meals and lodgings will be obtainable at the general stores at Old Faithful and Lake shortly after April 15 and the gasoline filling stations and general stores at these points and at Mammoth Hot Springs will be open to serve early visitors. The cabins and cafeteria will be open about May 27 with the hotels and lodges opening on June 20.
Persons contemplating coming to the park by rail will be able to reach the various gateways on June 20, on which date the transportation system of the park will begin operations.

PRESIDENT QUILTS SOUTH VACATION

WASHINGTON, April 10 (U.P.)—Anxieties arising from uncertainties at home and abroad gives special significance today to President Roosevelt's return to the capital.
"I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war," he told his Warm Springs, Ga., friends last night.
His grim words suggested the uncertainties with which Washington has observed recent world events.
Today Mr. Roosevelt will review with his legislative leaders vital problems pending in congress. The discussion will include the controversy over revision or repeal of the neutrality law, farm relief and an emergency appropriation for work relief for the remainder of the fiscal year.
To Meet Hull
One of his first acts will be to confer with Secretary of State Cordell Hull who had read the reports on the European situation from American diplomatic representatives.
Mr. Roosevelt has been vacationing in Georgia. The Rome-Berlin axis turned again during his 10-day

SULPHUR, Okla. (U.P.)—The Rev. Dwight O. Northrup of the Calvary Baptist church owns nearly 500 song books of 100 different varieties. He also is a collector of stamps. The Rev. ## TAX CORRECTION TOPIC AT MEET

Plan to study corrections in Idaho tax problems will be one of the three major items on the April 17 meeting of Southern Idaho, Inc., at its meeting at 7 p. m. April 17 in Wendell. Secretary Ward C. Howard, Jerome, said today.
The April session of the south Idaho booster group will be held at Wendell Masonic temple.
Secretary Howard said that in addition to the plan for studying tax problems and formulating corrections, two other important matters will be the Minutka northside extension project and the proposal for a joint meeting with the Eastern Idaho Association of Civic Clubs to celebrate opening of Craters of the Moon May 7.
President Al Reading, Wendell, will preside at the session April 17.
Ten per cent of the total of eggs produced in the United States in recent years is estimated to have gone into cold storage.
Lewis was a linguist, a scholar, a writer of legal, political and historical works.
His oratorical style was involved but impeccable. When the late Henry P. Lewis rangued in the senate, Lewis was one of those who could sink him.
It is planned to connect Japanese always with the Mandated Islands via Guam, thus providing a link with the American clipper service across the Pacific ocean.

In HOLLYWOOD Today

Motion picture stars were back in their studios today following their observance of Easter Sunday by attending religious services, staging egg hunts and some going out of town for the holiday.

Clark Gable and his bride, Carole Lombard, had their Easter breakfast with Andy Devine for Bing Crosby and his wife had dozens and dozens of eggs hidden on their ranch for the young Crosby to find.

Leo Carrillo's ranch in San Diego county was the scene of Easter services attended by hundreds of the actor's fellow Californians of Spanish descent.

Anabella and Tyrone Power, constant companions, went to the beach together.

Loretta Young suggested that if congress has billions to spend for public improvements, a big chunk of the money ought to go for something really important, like making all the women of this nation beautiful.

"And I'll guarantee that any presidential candidate of either party next year, who advocates a federal bureau of public beauty, will receive all the female votes," she said.

"He'd win in a walk and he'd be doing the country a real service."

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Positively the most flattering swing-skirt frock you can make for spring and summer! Girls give the hemline the prettiest flourish—while bodice gathers concentrate their softness at center front, because this beautifies the bustline. See—the yoke comes down into the bodice in graceful curves, at the same time setting off the charm of the neckline. Both collar and yoke versions are the height of attractiveness! To further the dramatic clue of the yoke sleeves have them breaking open, and held in by a glass button. The bodice and sleeve are also for another frock. (And you'll want to make two, with the new chart showing you the short-cuts of all details!)

Pattern 9718 may be ordered only in misses and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric.

ART OF EATING DECLARED DEAD

CLEVELAND, O. (AP) — Speedy eating was brought on "first by prohibition, then the depression, and now the Hitler era," believes David E. Hartz, who for 32 years has been waiter and head-waiter.

"Eating is a lost art," he said. "I knew hundreds of great men of an earlier day — and almost all of them knew and appreciated good food. But now — He saved his hand."

The famous tragedian, Henry Irving, probably was the most particular eater in the world, Hartz believes.

"He carried his own table linen and silver," he said. "Enrico Caruso, the singer, also was temperamental about his dishes. One night, I remember, he ordered spaghetti at midnight, and when it was brought to his room, said he didn't like it. He insisted that an Italian chef bring him to prepare more."

This was done, and the great tenor finished his "snack" at 3:30 a. m.

Served David Warfield

"He was quiet and unassuming," the headwaiter said. "He preferred to eat alone, and always selected a room, a table and a waiter. He was pleasant and kind, but wouldn't allow any music or conversation to interfere with his eating. He often would wait two hours for a meal, although he was not a heavy eater."

"William Jennings Bryan came in one day," Hartz said. "Will Rogers was with him. It was during a Republican convention. They were in a big hurry and wanted to be served immediately so they could attend some meeting. But both were wise and leisurely diners, and after about two hours of eating and talking they decided that it would be all right if they missed the meeting."

Great men and real people are easy to serve, Hartz said. It's a simple matter to find a man complaining about the food, objects to the bill, and tries to smooth it over with a large tip.

Judge's Dinner at Sight

"I like people," he said, "and I learned to judge them at sight. The really great men are very friendly, good customers — and slow eaters."

He said that before prohibition people ate "half again as much" as they do now or did during prohibition.

"Theodore Roosevelt was a big eater and a grand diner," Hartz said. "He liked everything and never found fault. He too, ate slowly and did a great deal of talking and figuring at the table."

Mme. Schumann-Heink loved plays, books and kraits. Henry Ford generally ate ice cream, baked potatoes, and graham bread.

Hollywood Ballyhooing Two Girls from Legitimate Stage

By PAUL HARRISON (NEA Service)

HOLLYWOOD — New faces: Linda Hayes came dangerously close to being a contest winner, and only the intervention of Producer Pandro Berman may have saved her from the jaws that give so many people a glimpse at flicker fame before it snatches them back into oblivion.

He hired her before the contest was over. Miss Hayes, under her real name of Rachelle Germano, had been appearing on that "Gateway to Hollywood" radio program conducted by Jesse Lasky.

She had beaten about 100 other contestants in a regional contest but hadn't reached the finals when RKO took her out of the running and gave her a contract. It also took her out of a job as hat-check girl in a San Francisco night club.

But She'll Eat Well Now

This is not to say that Miss Hayes is green in the acting business. The hat-checking was just an expedient because she was stranded in San Francisco after a road company of "Within the Law" ended its tour there.

"I'd been stranded before," she said. "Three times by crooked producers who'd pull out and leave a show flat. I'm an expert at starving. I've been in Seattle for three days without anything to eat."

"This time in San Francisco, I'd just about decided that father had been right when he opposed my coming on the stage. Then a friend told me about the radio contest. I said I'd tried three contests before and that they were just publicity stunts. But she had a hunch that something might happen this time, and it did."

Confined Historics

Linda's father used to be a Iowa farmer — raised corn. In such a practical environment the youngster played at acting from the time she was 7. Naturally she was glad when he became an automobile dealer in Pasadena, Calif., for there are little theaters there.

The family had quite a scene when she turned down a college education to join a stock company. Mr. Germano said she didn't expect any further help from him.

Miss Hayes said her father is reconciled now, but apparently she isn't going to need his help. RKO and its production chief, Berman, are quite excited about their discovery, who is 20 years old, with nice lines and a voice.

Best of all she has a sharp-featured, mobile face that is more than typical of the earnest young actresses whom the studios seem to be fighting for these days. To probably won't be held against her that she looks something like Katharine Hepburn.

Color Confusion

Paramount is publicizing Patricia Morison as "the bluntest with the bluest personality." I don't see the application at all, unless it's a build-up for her current feminine role in "The Magnificent Fraud."

Patricia Morison wants to play in heavy dramatic stuff—even psychopathic cases. In her next picture, she'll be a girl who plots to kill her lover. She likes that.

For a young woman who has been around the easy-spoken theater for nearly four years, Miss Morison is surprisingly shy.

After she flew here a few months ago for the first role in "Persons in Hiding," Producer Harold Lloyd described the part and said she'd have to be a "perfect—"

Miss Morison said she was "shocked" speechless by the rather ordinary word he used. "But now I'm getting used to Hollywood ways of expression," she said.

Once Designed For Living

tended private schools in New York until the family fortune faded in 1929. After that she went to public schools and is glad it "became it took the snobishness out of me."

She studied drama under Martha Graham and worked in the Provincetown theater, both briefly, before she became a general understudy for the cast of "Victoria Regina." In those months with Helen Hayes she believes she learned most about acting. She also went on tour to London, Urich, but there were intervals between engagements when she'd have to get jobs designing clothes.

"I still keep up my drawing and may have to fall back on it yet," says Miss Morison. "I've been studying singing but I don't think I'm very good at it."

Patricia sang her role in "Two Bouquies," however, which was a lame show that lasted only seven weeks, won her a screen test.

BRITAIN ORDERS NAVY AND AIR OFFICERS TO CRAFT

ALL WAR SHIPS ORDERED TO END VISITS IN ITALY

By WEBB MILLER
(Copyright by United Press)
LONDON, April 10 (U.P.)—Great Britain warships recalled from the Mediterranean and ordered to return to their home ports.

The government also ordered all visiting British warships to leave Italian ports and go to sea.

Treasury, admiralty, and navy orders were sent to the Great British Mediterranean navy base at Malta for all officers and men to join their ships at once and get up steam and await short notice of sailing orders.

Civilian dockyard employees were ordered to their posts.

Emergency Meeting
The cabinet held an emergency meeting—the first on Easter Monday since the world war—and decided to recover the situation from its Easter recess on Thursday after discussing a proposed pledge of British aid to Greece.

Usually well-informed political sources said there would be a one-day debate in both houses on British aid to the Greek Empire.

After Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax had made statements in the house of commons and house of lords respectively.

The commons debate would afford the government an opportunity to make an important pronouncement on the extent to which it is prepared to extend military aid to Greece, Rumania, Bulgaria and Turkey in event of aggression.

Alarming Reports
The cabinet meeting was preceded and followed by visits of key diplomats of foreign powers to the foreign office.

Among the visitors was Henschel V. Johnson, first secretary of the United States embassy.

Alarming reports of the possibility of an Italian move against Greece, followed reports that Germany might bring pressure on Poland, convoked the British and French war councils into emergency sessions yesterday.

Immediately afterward orders were flashed to British ships to leave Italian ports for the open sea.

Paris reported that the British and French governments, working in closest cooperation, had agreed that it was necessary to strengthen their forces in the Mediterranean area.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain broke off his fishing vacation in Scotland to return and preside at the cabinet meeting.

ITALY CALLS UP ADDED RESERVES

ROME, April 10 (U.P.)—Italy called more than 100,000 reserves to the colors today as Fascist troops advanced through Albania to the Greek frontier.

The class of 1912 and the first four months of the 1902 class of reservists were called up. It was estimated that the total of Italian reserves, including active troops, would be approximately 800,000.

Some members of the class of 1912, it was understood, already have been given examinations, sent to barracks and given uniforms.

The calling of more reserves—Premier Benito Mussolini already had called up some forces in recent weeks—was disclosed as the newspaper Messaggero charged that the United States was seeking to incite Greece, Great Britain and France to intervene directly against Italian occupation of Albania.

CURTIS ANSWERS "HOME" CHARGE

ROME, April 10 (U.P.)—A squabble over whether Secretary of State George Curtis was violating the Hays constitution by using outside the Hays city limits today was the latest political tempest to boil in the capital city.

Curtis replied to the charges that he lived "at home," which he defined as "in or near" the city and exhibited an opinion from Attorney General J. W. Taylor to prove it.

Curtis Anderson, Hays attorney and former state senator raised a question as to the legality of Curtis moving outside the city limits, and said the constitution prohibited it.

Groom's Face Red at Wedding Because He Has Scarlet Fever

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10 (U.P.)—The groom wore red—a scarlet red—from the back porch of the minister nervously announced the nuptials and wished the bride the shortest honeymoon on record.

It was an Easter wedding, almost like the one Clarence Rickard, 23, and Ruby Winterburn, 20, made up their minds to have when they fell in love at first sight on a Portland boat course Easter morning.

He had planned a church wedding, though, and until a week ago, had not invited Dr. Harold Averill, city health officer.

Averill was a sort of unwitting guest and he stood a little further out on the porch than did the Rev. Oswald Taylor, who read the ceremony. Averill had come because nothing seemed to discourage the couple from having the Easter wedding, as planned—until even the groom's case of scarlet fever.

Suggested Postponement
Rickard, assistant manager of a 10-cent store, came down with the fever a week ago after all plans for the church affair had been made and after Miss Winterburn, a saleswoman in another dime store, had bought her trousseau.

50,000 Romp On Grass at White House

WASHINGTON, April 10 (U.P.)—Thousands of carefree children frolicked in the front yard of the White House today.

Under the bright sunshine of a perfect spring day, approximately 50,000 children and their adult companions will roll at least a quarter of a million Easter eggs across the White House lawn before the egg and candy party ends tonight.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wearing her Easter ensemble, a blue wool dress and navy blue coat, played hostess to the children. Accompanied by seven-year-old Diana Hopkins, motherless daughter of Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, Mrs. Roosevelt greeted the thousands of early arrivals and admiring the children's backs, packed with brightly colored eggs—crescent bunnies, fruit, chewing gum and other indulgences.

President Roosevelt also greeted the egg-layers.

White House guards sought to thwart a new "racket" invented by smart kids, who charged adults barred from the grounds unless accompanied by children, from 10 to 25 cents for their services as "rents."

DRAMA FEATURES EASTER SERVICES

WENDELL, April 10 (Special)—"He Is the Son of God," a four-act play, presented by the speech class of the high school, was the main feature of the union Easter service Sunday evening at the high school auditorium before a crowd of approximately 500 people.

Musical selections were rendered by the L.D.S. ward, Presbyterian-Baptist church, the Methodist church and the high school mixed chorus.

The L. D. S. choir, directed by D. L. Venndahl, sang "The Victory Dawn Began." "Bliss the Lord" was vocalized by the high school mixed chorus. The combined Methodist and Presbyterian church choirs rendered the "Hallelujah Chorus." Ralph Rose directing a tubular. "The Old Rugged Cross," with the lighting effect and the cross arranged by the speech class and the music furnished by the combined choirs, was featured.

Members of the play cast were Violet Hoholt, Judith; Iona Snodgrass, Esther; Paul Hoskins, Elman; Florence Mink, Sarah; and Saul Wiltaker, Cleon. The scenery, lights and costumes and directing was arranged by members of the speech class, taught by Lloyd Thompson, and was the third play to be given by the class for the year.

STATE FUNERAL FOR SEN. LEWIS

WASHINGTON, April 10 (U.P.)—The senate will conduct a state funeral tomorrow for Sen. James Hamilton Lewis who died last night at Garfield hospital of a heart attack.

SHOSHONE KIDS HUNT FOR EGGS

SHOSHONE, April 10 (Special)—Notwithstanding a windy day, a large and enthusiastic crowd of little folks gathered for the Easter egg hunt sponsored by the business concerns of Shoshone, and headed by the high school band, paraded to the beach where the hunt was held.

Directed by Harry Putzler of the Chamber of Commerce, they started the hunt for the eggs hidden by the committee of the club.

The children, several hundred in number, gathered at the grounds of Dr. H. H. Howard at 3 p. m., and with the assistance of the "Boy Scouts," started on the big scramble.

The bags were hidden in brush and at every point along the beach grounds and it is doubtful if any of the 1,000 and so on were worth several dollars. Many of the youngsters retrieved several bags each. Rural children and those of the school age took part in the function.

The committee enrolling the merchants of the village consisted of Harry Putzler, George Harrison, L. N. Erpelding and Frank Stearns, and business houses generally participated.

Train Discontinued

SHOSHONE, April 10 (Special)—The regular daily passenger train, operated during the sports season of the winter, while Sun Valley was entertaining large crowds, was discontinued out of Shoshone last Thursday.

The former daily mixed train service will be resumed, except Sunday, states F. D. Kow, local agent.

The Ketchikan train will have been at 7 a. m. and the Hill City mixed train at 7:10 a. m. on Easter train schedules remain the same.

Wealthy Chicago Promoter Killed

CHICAGO, April 10 (U.P.)—Police investigating the street slaying of Charles Hayden, 52, wealthy walkathon promoter, believed today he had been killed by bandits.

Two men shot Hayden yesterday as he left a west side ballroom where he had been conducting a walkathon. The gunmen escaped. Hayden's money and jewelry were intact.

The police also were investigating the possibility that Hayden may have been slain by racketeers attempting to "muscle" into the profits of the walkathon contest.

FDR ALARMED BY EUROPEAN EVENTS

WASHINGTON, April 10 (U.P.)—President Roosevelt, alarmed by events in Europe, returned to the capital today and received last minute reports on the situation from Secretary of State Cordell Hull before leaving his special train.

Back from a southern holiday at Warm Springs, Ga., Mr. Roosevelt was met at Union Station by Hull and Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr. Anxious and arising from the international uncertainties gave special significance to his return.

Hull went aboard the train and talked to the President for a few minutes. He was expected to give Mr. Roosevelt a more complete report later in the day.

Certain official quarters here believe that Europe rapidly is heading toward a showdown and that it may come within a week. Mr. Roosevelt made no secret of his concern. Before leaving Warm Springs last night, he said he would be back in the fall. "If we don't have a war."

After the brief conference with Hull, Mr. Roosevelt went directly to the White House. Tomorrow he will review with his congressional leaders vital domestic and foreign problems pending in congress—the controversy over repeal or revision of the neutrality law, farm relief and the fight over the emergency appropriation to finance WPA for the remainder of this fiscal year.

The California law recognizes six different speed limits, depending on local conditions.

Robin Departs With 35-Foot String Length

No less than 35 feet of string had departed from a garden plot on Eighth avenue east today—to adorn the nest of a robin.

What residents of that neighborhood believed to be a world's record for robin cargo was achieved this morning when a red-bellied carried the entire 35 feet of string away. They said it was like this:

The string had been stretched out to mark the line along which a small ditch was dug Sunday. This morning the householder who owns the garden plot looked out the window. A robin was industriously picking up the string, stopping every few feet to gather it in.

One end of the string, however, was still tied to a stake. So the householder went out and cut the end free. The robin retreated into a nearby tree but came back when danger was past.

In no time at all the bird gathered up the long string and departed to do a little spring nest remodeling.
