Countries Labor to Bolster Anti-Aggression Front

SHIPS CONVERGE
ON SOUTH PORTS
FOR MANEUVERS

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

Great Britain and France, encouraged by President Roosevelt's peace message, worked to bolster their anti-aggression front today with armed force and further diplomatic warnings.

Speaking in the house of commons, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared that the maintenance of independence of the Netherlands and Denmark was of deepest interest to Great Britain but he failed to indicate that any definite agreement had been reached for the support of either Soviet Russia or Turkey.

British and French negotiations with these two important powers were reported progressing satisfactorily but it appeared uncertain whether their adherence to the anti-aggression bloc could be announced this week.

Meanwhile, both Britain and France hurried ahead with the naval and other defense precautions in the Mediterranean as Adolf Hitler sent his battle fleet toward Spanish waters and hurried unexpectedly back to Berlin.

Reason for Precaution

The possibility of a sudden totalitarian move against the international zone of Tangier, which adjoins to Spanish Morocco and near the western entrance to the Mediterranean, was reported in reliable Paris cables to have been responsible for the vast British-French precautions at Gibraltar.

According to the best available information in Paris, (see last column) that Spanish Gen. Francisco Franco, now reported as almost a junior partner in the Italian bloc, was planning to move against Tangier but refrained after France sent a powerful naval force to Gibraltar.

Guard Gibraltar

French fighting ships already taken over from Great Britain the guardianship of British Gibraltar in order to free the British Mediterranean fleet for watch duty in the Atlantic.

U. S. ENTERS IN SOFT COAL FIGHT

NEW YORK, April 18 (U.P.)—The federal government projected itself into international warfare today as it entered the soft coal market.

The government's move was a direct result of a dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the export of soft coal.

Fleet Transfer Ordered
To Discourage Japanese

WASHINGTON, April 18 (U.P.)—The navy is concentrating the fleet in the Pacific ocean to discourage Japan from taking advantage of a European crisis to seize more land in Asia.

Major General Joseph E. Stimson, secretary of war, said today that the navy's move was a direct result of a dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the export of soft coal.

The United States, Stimson believes, recently became the leading world naval power because of Great Britain's realization that the military power makes it impossible to depend solely on naval fleet.

NLRB Head Opposes
Wagner Act Change

WASHINGTON, April 18 (U.P.)—Chairman J. Warren Madden of the national labor relations board declared today that restrictive amendment of the Wagner act would start the United States on the course followed by dictator nations in depriving working people of their former liberties.

Testifying against proposed amendment before the senate labor committee, Madden denounced proposals which would materially revise the NLRB's administrative setup as designed to "make of working people and their unions a caste of legal pariahs and untouchables."

Madden specifically opposed amendments proposed by Sen. Edward R. Burke, D. Neb., and Dr. Frank J. Murphy, D. Mich., to change the NLRB's administrative setup as designed to "make of working people and their unions a caste of legal pariahs and untouchables."

Class Legislation
J. That Burke's amendments are "a piece of legislation of the most un-American kind," obviously intended to emasculate the act and take away the liberties which the act confers.

2. That the amendments are "destructive" proposals for which "no explanation can be found except in the irrational which have arisen from the unbridled division in the labor movement."

Madden said the NLRB is dispassionate, just, as much fair and impartiality as the most traditional courts.

Evolution Feared
"Should we do in 1939 what we so proudly refused to do in 1937," Madden asked, "to give the government the right to interfere with the freedom of the individual?"

He said that the government's move was a direct result of a dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the export of soft coal.

Idaho Policemen
Take Three Men,
Girl Companions

By WILLIAM McENAMIN

BOISE, April 18 (U.P.)—Sullen and submissive, three San Francisco army post deserters and their three giggling, high school girl companions today accepted extradition to Portland where charges of assault and robbery with a dangerous weapon awaited them.

All six of the fugitives lost their flippancy and submitted in silence. They signed waivers of extradition to Portland and Sheriff Don Headrick said the extraditions would take place in about two days.

Meanwhile, Donald Bailey, ringleader of the gang, suffered from a shattered arm that may have to be amputated.

The charges carry with them terms of not less than five years imprisonment. Headrick said, a telegraphic copy of the warrant charging the three girls as well as the men with the same counts and signed copies of extradition waivers were in the sheriff's possession.

15 Counts
They were apprehended on information from Portland and San Francisco county authorities already complete before San Francisco authorities presented their claims.

TEST LOOMS IN 60 DAYS ON FIFTEEN VETOED BILLS

GRAND MEASURE TO BE USED AS POINT OF ISSUE

By WILLIAM MCENAMIN
Buhl, April 18 (Special)—The first test case over legal status of 15 bills vetoed by Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen but recorded as law by Secretary of State George Curtis will come within 60 days over a measure to create a bureau of brands and markets to sell cattle rustling, observers predicted today.

The bill would create the bureau within the state department of agriculture for the purpose of recording brands and appropriates $20,000 to support it. It was vetoed by the governor on the ground that the function of preventing cattle rustling was one of county law enforcement responsibility.

The State Horse and Cattle Growers' association lobbied intensively to get the bill through the 1939 legislature and Max Colvin, governor, expressed keen disappointment over the governor's veto of the bill.

Went Set Up Bureau
The governor's associates have indicated he would simply refuse to set up the proposed bureau. When he refuses, the next move will be to institute a writ of mandamus proceedings to force the action.

The legal battle can start through filing of a claim for the department of agriculture measures involved, by some state department or agency.

One bill vetoed appropriates $1,500 for a museum at Coeur d'Alene and this group has indicated it would go ahead with the proposed museum and submit a claim for it, this would precipitate a legal fight.

The County Commissioners association has indicated an interest in a bill passed by the 1939 legislature and vetoed in this group which would allow nine counties to raise salaries of county officials. They expressed the desire to enforce the state if it could be proved law.

Increase Years
Another vital measure affecting thousands of relief recipients, would increase from one to three years the requirements of residence before a person is eligible for direct relief.

Beer interests have expressed concern over the status of a beer regulation bill vetoed by the governor. The bill, which would increase the age of consumption, was heightened by appearance of the 1939 session laws with the controversy included in the 1939 laws to indicate they were in dispute.

Meanwhile, the governor's office insists the bills are not laws until they are passed by the legislature. The secretary of state's office insists they are law until proved invalid by a court.

Small Business Leader Speaks Here April 28th

A husky, red-headed, blunt-speaking 240 pound businessman will address the Twin Falls Town Hall as the final speaker of the current season.

He is DeWitt M. Emery, six-foot six-inch Chinaman who is president of the National Small Business Men's association. He will speak at 8 p. m. Friday, April 28, in the Presbyterian church on the main floor of interest to south Idaho business.

The Awakening of Small Business.

Looks to Future
Emery will discuss that awakening in its implications for government, for the business and most of all for the consumer, according to word received by J. A. Cederquist, town hall president.

The movement which Emery leads includes not only "small" business but all lines of an intermediate size between the "big" business levels. In national significance, Mr. Emery is more or less a product of the depression since his association was formed late in 1937 as a result of a letter he wrote to a group of friends in Ohio.

That letter started: "The sheriff is about to get my business. How are you doing?"

National Response
The message brought an immediate response, with result that a group of Ohio men got together and formed the National Small Business Men's association which now has expanded to 42 states. Emery was named president and has spent more of his time since then trying to help the small business of the country than he has on his own establishment.

The campaign launched by the small business men's group met with immediate response in metropolitan papers throughout the country. Men and women from all parts of America rallied to the banner of the organization. Hundreds of letters were received from members of congress. Thousands of newspaper stories and editorials were written about the plight of the smaller businesses and the plight of the consumer if small business were crushed.

Wins Applause
Emery spoke at small business at the famed annual forum of the New York Herald Tribune in October of 1938. The address, broadcast nationally, was interrupted by 28 distinct bursts of applause and was generally considered the most popular address of the week excepting only that of the President of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt recognized the movement by issuing his call for the conference of small business men at Washington. That meeting was a hectic one, and from it grew the association.

Emery is now 40 years old.

Park Territory Taken Into City

Four-acre Harmon park, home of the municipal swimming pool, and the 20-acre Jaycee park, site of a new baseball park, today were officially a part of the city of Twin Falls after councilmen last night, upon suspension of rules, took the area into the city.

Because of action by the city council the limits of the community in that area are extended one-quarter of a mile east from Locust street and one-eighth of a mile south from Elizabeth boulevard. Councilmen were of the opinion that the new addition should be known officially as Harmon park field.

House Matter Barred
Councilmen also voted last night to deny John DeKlotz, local house mover, permission to alter the structure within the city limits. The action was taken, councilmen said, because of damage to a tree in front of the home of Herman Haber, Fourth avenue east. DeKlotz is alleged to have caused while moving a structure. Under the rules no more permits will be granted to DeKlotz until the alleged damage to the tree is settled to the satisfaction of the property owner and also the city.

The law regulating moving operations holds that "any person or corporation removing a building shall be liable to the city for any and all damages to the streets thereof, and also to any person, company or corporation whose property is injured by reason of such removal."

Poles Removed
Light poles at Seventh avenue east, only installed last week, were ordered removed after George C. Wiley and J. E. DeWitt, property owners in that area, complained the poles were unsightly and rather than have such poles installed they would do without light. The two men said they represented a majority of the residents in that district.

Authorization was given to install a light at Shoup and Tyler streets. The request was made by Mrs. Guy Park, 239 Tyler street.

Roper Surprises Champ With Lusty Clout, Then Takes 10 Count

LOS ANGELES, April 18 (AP)—Jack Roper, 36, a movie studio electrician, went back to his job today convinced that working with high voltage wires is safer than facing heavyweights in the boxing ring.

He came to his decision flat on his face before approximately 35,000 fight fans at Wrigley field last night, his dream of becoming champion blasted, his head ringing with a thousand bells, after exactly two minutes and 20 seconds of a scheduled 10-round fight with Louis.

Roper made a game effort, but was like an old man when he was knocked out by the 25-year-old Bronx Bomber, who made a quick businesslike job of defeating his title on the sixth time since he knocked out James J. Braddock in Chicago on June 22, 1937. It was Roper's first-round knockout as champion.

Our Brief Moment Roper fans from the Hollywood studios, where the challenger plays "tough" parts in addition to his work as an electrician, had one brief moment during the fight. It came 40 seconds after the bell when Roper's vaunted left hook crashed flush to Louis' jaw. The champion's head snapped back and his eyes opened wide as the crowd roared up and roared.

The celebration was brief. Louis came back and suggested the challenger with a lightning two-fisted attack to the head. As Roper staggered backward, Louis turned him around with a hard right hook, which quivered a cut over his left eye. Another quick right crashed to his jaw and he fell face forward into the ropes.

He Tries to Get Up Roper grabbed at the strands as he slid to the floor, but finally fell face down in the southeast corner of the ring. He tried to regain his feet but was unable to do so until after Referee George Blake had counted off the final ten counts. Then he half fell through the ropes, and was dragged back to his corner by Dick Donald, his manager.

After the fight, Roper said with a smile in the fact that he "made Louis feel one." The champion admitted he felt it when he added that "Roper is a game guy."

He believed Roper had proved tougher than Tony Galento, his next opponent would be. Unofficial estimates by commentators Mike Jacobs and Tom Galey placed the receipts at approximately $100,000. Roper was guaranteed 10 per cent of the gross, Louis 45 per cent.

The U. S. bureau of census reports show that the average number of persons to a family in the United States is 4.5.

Mac Says Louis Luckiest Champion in History

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—Several decades ago Phyllis T. Barnum sat herself down with a tablet and pencil and figured out that there was a sucker born every minute.

Last night, in Wrigley field at Los Angeles, he was proved to be one of the world's worst mathematicians when thousands of persons paid serious money to see the joke fight between Joe Louis and Jack Roper.

Every man, woman and child there was a sucker. They didn't pay their money on the line for a sucker fight, but they had been warned in every newspaper, weekly and daily, for months, that Roper didn't have a chance.

He was a veteran who had been in good in his prime, and that he didn't belong in the same ring with the heavyweight champion of the world.

The events of the night proved the critics correct. The ring and the opening bell still was ringing through the park when Joe punched Roper on the mouth and sent him down for keeps. The time was two minutes and 20 seconds of the first round and the only reason he lasted was because he was a veteran.

Listening to the fight over the radio, it heard Louis, after the knockout, announce to the world he was a sucker. He never spoke that word. He is the heaviest heavyweight champion who ever lived, and for this reason, there isn't a man living who can give him a decent workout, and all he has to do to buy another enemy is slip off his bathrobe, shuffle out, and throw a punch or two. He picked up another chunk of money last night, and early in June will pick another fistful by hitting Tony Galento in his bare-knuckle stomach. Galento is another Roper, but the public won't believe it.

After One Crowd Before I can get back on tonight an announcer said Mrs. Roper, who was in the crowd, had told him she could always handle the result of her husband's fights after the first round was completed.

"Let me say one thing," she was quoted, "and I can always tell how Jack is going to do."

Unfortunately for Mrs. Roper's prophetic talent, there wasn't any crowd after the first. This was remedied of the time Mersey Beasley, a female manager, arranged to accompany the American Davis cup team to England. When the boys went out to engage the British at Wimbledon, Beasley went in the limousine and took them to the tennis courts. She was quoted as saying she planned to tell them the truth about the British.

After last night's lesson in Los Angeles, I can see how our country is in the heavyweight situation, and that is to let Louis to lead two of three opponents in one night. Let him take on Charles Hart and Nova in succession. I bet he wouldn't be worse than even money against all three.

Frank Bertain, Miami, upset Earl Kurechko, Terrebonne, Tenn., to survive quarter-finals of the north-south professional tourney at Pinehurst, N. C.

Chicknall didn't look like National league champion yesterday. Not only was there a blizzard in the stadium, but two of the Media pitching benches, Johnny Vander Meer and Buckie Walters, were hit. The Reds led 3-2 going in the 8th, but finished on the slump on because of a Pittsburgh rally.

Bingnall falls heavily today on March 30, 1939.

How to Play Baseball

By Eddie Leishman

SECOND BASE Second base is the center of strength on a ball club. In order for a ball club to be successful, it should have balance in the center of the field. The second baseman, shortstop, catcher, and pitcher are the center fielders should be the backbone of the team.

If you don't have successful men in these positions you are apt to have trouble winning.

A second baseman should be fast on his feet and a good judge of the ball. He should be able to throw a ball about 100 feet and to cover a lot of ground. He should be a good fielder and a good pitcher.

The double play is one of the most important plays a second baseman has to contend with. As soon as the ball is hit on the ground in the left side of the infield, he should run directly to second base, stride the bag and get in position to throw to first.

After boys play for awhile they learn the different traits of hitting. They learn to hit the ball in the center of the field, to hit the ball in the left side of the field, to hit the ball in the right side of the field.
