NATIS RETAIN OFFENSIVE IN EUROPE CRISIS

SOVIET PREMIER SUCCEEDS LITVINOV AS FOREIGN HEAD

V. M. Molotov, Famed As "Purge" Director, Will Direct Policy

MOSCOW, May 4 (U.P.)—V. M. Molotov, 49-year-old premier, today took over the additional duties of foreign commissar, replacing the veteran Maxim Litvinov.

Molotov's opinions on aligning Russia in a military alliance with Great Britain and France, which Litvinov had been trying to do, and the reasons for Litvinov's resignation were secreted at the Kremlin.

The big question throughout Europe today was whether the new foreign minister would stop, slow, or speed the negotiations with France and Great Britain for a joint defense of any European country that might be attacked.

Premier Since 1929, Molotov has been premier since 1929. He succeeded Alexi Rykov. Before the Russian revolution, Molotov lived abroad frequently, and learned to speak German and French. However, he has had no direct experience in foreign affairs. As premier, he will not be likely to leave Russia.

Molotov was 17 when he entered politics and two years later was expelled for revolutionary activities. He returned to Russia and was expelled again in 1916. Again he returned and helped prepare the way for the rise of Lenin and Trotsky. Later, he was expelled with causing Trotsky's exile.

Second Most Powerful Under Stalin, he has become Russia's second most powerful man. His forte is "liquidation" of Soviet enemies. It was he who denounced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a "paid tool" for reporting that Soviet aviation was inferior to Germany's. In condemning the League of Nations, he proposed bilateral agreements to strengthen Russian foreign policy. Litvinov's future was not certain. It was reported elsewhere that he was being considered for the post of foreign minister. There was no confirmation of it, however.

JAPANESE SNUB 'AXIS' ALLIANCE TOKYO, May 4 (U.P.)—Japan, it was learned today, is likely to join Germany and Italy in a military alliance against the European democracies.

Government sources disclosed that Baron Kichiro Hirano, the premier, has obtained imperial approval to a military alliance of Japan, Germany and Italy strictly limited to resisting Soviet aggression.

The decision constituted a refusal by Japan to become entangled in the affairs of Europe.

Some factions in the army still favored a broad alliance against democracies and even agitated for overthrow of the cabinet on that issue. It was learned, however, that the government was now favoring avoidance of European affairs.

Several possibilities were seen: 1. Germany and Italy would accept an agreement naming the Soviet Union exclusively.

2. The whole anti-Communist agreement may be rejected, since Japan is not willing to participate against the democracies and Italy is not interested in Soviet problems.

3. The present Japanese-German anti-Communist relations might be replaced by antagonism between Tokyo and Berlin, which might have been brewing under the surface.

Japanese leaders canvassed three possibilities and decided to take the risk, it was said, particularly if weakening of Japanese-German relations would improve Tokyo's relations with Britain, France and the United States.

Many discussions among Japanese leaders strengthened the government's determination to confine the alliance to resistance against Soviet Russia, thus eliminating the possibility that Germany might drag Japan into hostilities against Britain and France.

ENGLAND AWAITS EXPLANATION OF RUSSIAN CHANGE

LONDON, May 4 (U.P.)—British and French negotiations for a military agreement with Russia were frozen temporarily today when the Soviet government failed to provide an explanation for replacing Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov with Premier Vichaslav M. Molotov.

There was much speculation concerning the causes behind Litvinov's retirement and its probable consequence. One fact was evident—it had a close connection to the prolonged negotiations for a British-French-Russian military alliance.

The next move in these negotiations was up to Britain. She still is to reply to Russia's three-point proposal: (1) That the three powers sign an alliance for mutual defense against aggression in Europe; (2) That they sign a military pact designating the exact form of collaboration applying to specific cases; (3) That they pledge their aid to Rumania, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia in case of attack on any of them.

Two Explanations Given Since Britain has not been willing to make such commitments for fear of alienating Rumania and Poland, who are averse to allying themselves with Russia, and for fear that such commitments would drive Japan, Spain and Italy into military alliances with Germany, two explanations for Litvinov's removal were most generally accepted.

1. He did not make enough headway toward the alliance. 2. He went too far in offering Russia's military strength to the western anti-aggression bloc and Soviet "isolationism" got the upper hand.

Asked Quick Action Soviet circles have predicted for several days that when Britain and France accepted the Soviet plan for an alliance quickly, Moscow would cut off the negotiations entirely.

There also had been reports that Litvinov, who favored a "western policy" for Russia, had been subjected to pressure from home because of the sluggish trend of negotiations for the alliance, and that Soviet isolationists, who include many military leaders, felt that the time had come when the Soviet Union would be forced to defend itself, and leave the rest of Europe to go its way.

The appointment of Molotov, who is almost unknown abroad, and who will not be able to leave Russia so long as he is premier, to the post of foreign minister, tended to support the isolationist idea.

It was believed that the British refusal to become entangled in the affairs of Europe was the result of Litvinov's removal was explained.

MAXIM LITVINOV Today, Dictator Stalin of the Soviet Union had made another of his surprise moves when he made V. M. Molotov, 49-year-old premier of Russia, his minister of foreign affairs, succeeding Maxim Litvinov, generally credited with having been the greatest mind in the world on foreign affairs.

Some factions in the army still favored a broad alliance against democracies and even agitated for overthrow of the cabinet on that issue. It was learned, however, that the government was now favoring avoidance of European affairs.

Several possibilities were seen: 1. Germany and Italy would accept an agreement naming the Soviet Union exclusively.

2. The whole anti-Communist agreement may be rejected, since Japan is not willing to participate against the democracies and Italy is not interested in Soviet problems.

3. The present Japanese-German anti-Communist relations might be replaced by antagonism between Tokyo and Berlin, which might have been brewing under the surface.

House Opens Study on Big Naval Appropriation Bill

GIGANTIC PEACE-TIME BUDGET GETS APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, May 4 (U.P.)—The House today passed a $770,473,241 naval appropriation bill, increasing sea and air armament appropriations to a record peacetime level and carrying funds to start work on two 45,000-ton battleships.

With funds provided in the measure, the navy plans to add 500 fighting planes to bring its air force to 2,132 planes and to lay the keels for the two 45,000-ton super-dreadnaughts—fastest and most deadly battleships in the world.

Carrying an additional $50,708,000 in contract authorizations, the measure provides a grand total of $821,181,241 to finance the navy's share of the greatest armament program in the peacetime history of this country. The bill will finance new ship construction and new aircraft for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Over Billion Dollars It was reported by the appropriations committee just before the House vote that the bill will finance the navy's share of the greatest armament program in the peacetime history of this country. The bill will finance new ship construction and new aircraft for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Actual appropriations in the bill aggregated $142,875,047 more than congress provided for the current fiscal year, although they were cut $10,595,312 under the amount approved by the budget bureau.

Growing Fleet "The whole of the increase," the committee said in its formal report, "may be laid at the door of the growing fleet, including the air arm." New ship construction and new aircraft are the largest contributing factors in the order named.

Advances in their lines were: New naval construction, $10,595,312 for the start of construction on 23 new naval vessels, including two 45,000-ton battleships. These vessels will cost $350,000,000 to complete. The battleships alone were estimated at $50,000,000 each. The United States, now building 12 naval craft, will step production up to 144 in mid-war under the new program.

New Airplanes New airplanes, $46,808,000 plus a contract authorization of $20,000,000, sufficient, it was estimated, to purchase 500 new planes. When they are delivered the navy will possess 2,132 planes.

"These new deliveries," the committee reported, "will have decided improvements in both speed and range and in offensive and defensive power. Also, they will have decided improvements in the new airplanes are larger and heavier and have greater horsepower, all of which occasions higher cost of operation and repair."

The bill carried $500,000 toward construction of a naval dirigible, for which an initial $500,000 was appropriated last year. The bill allowed $26,662,000 toward the $50,000,000 naval air base program.

Countries Await Beck Speech on Polish Demands

By JOE ALEX MORRIS United Press Staff Writer Germany clung to the offensive today in a fast round of diplomacy designed to bolster both totalitarian and non-aggression fronts in Europe before Foreign Minister Josef Beck announces tomorrow the program of the key-state of Poland.

Beck's speech, expected to reject Adolf Hitler's demand for return of Danzig to the reich but to adopt a definitely conciliatory attitude, became of greater importance in view of a series of swift changes in the diplomatic struggle among the great powers.

Under Nazi leadership, the totalitarian bloc's moves included: 1.—Rejection of Germany's offer of non-aggression pacts to Greece and other small European powers in addition to six Scandinavian and Balkan states. 2.—The offer is designed to protect Germany's flanks in event of war or as an attempt to undermine the British-French non-aggression front by such maneuvers as persuading Greece that her pact should not be opened to the warship of force.

3.—Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop was understood to be hastening to Italy to counteract reports that Fascist Premier Benito Mussolini was "softening" that end of the axis because Italy doesn't approve of German policy toward Poland. 4.—The Italian government was expected to try to split the Roman-Berlin axis was uncertain but it was not generally believed that Mussolini and Hitler could be pried apart at present.

5.—Hitler came through only half way in Germany's efforts to use the Tokyo navy as a counterweight against the American navy. 6.—The Japanese position revolved around a key problem in the efforts of the Axis powers to break up a bloc of anti-aggression powers and of Germany and Italy to break down such "encirclement" efforts.

HATCH CHARGES 'POLITICAL INTRIGUE' IN DISMISSAL

QUARREL RAGES AS COMMISSION CHOOSES HARVEY

BOISE, May 4 (AP)—Dr. A. B. Hatch, director of the Idaho fish and game commission, today charged the commission resorted to political intrigue to bring about his dismissal.

Hatch's statement came as a quarrel raged between the commission members and officials of the state wildlife federation over accusations and counter accusations of alleged connivance.

A group accused the other of attempting to defeat the purposes of the civil service system by passing out advance copies of examination questions.

Hatch denied that R. G. Cole, wildlife federation president, had anything to do with his appointment.

Apparently some of the commissioners when they appointed me, were under the impression that college professors lacked guts," Hatch said. "That they could force me to appoint their friends without regard to qualification or to the terms of the commission act."

Harold R. Harvey of Boise, appointed to replace Hatch, today defended the commission action. He said Hatch was appointed for refusal to cooperate with the commission and management of the state game farms. He reiterated commission charges Cole had been playing "politics" to control the department.

Defends Cole Aid
Meanwhile, Homer Martin, president of the Ada county fish and game league, defended Cole and said a petition for removal of Bird Hawley, Meba, secretary of the commission, was to be presented to Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen. He said the petition would charge inefficiency and neglect of duty.

A public hearing on the charges must be held in the governor's office before Hawley can be dismissed.

LINDBERGH SEES NO EARLY WARS

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has told friends that he is confident there is no immediate danger of war in Europe.

Persons who have conferred with Lindbergh since he returned to the United States and began a survey of aviation research facilities for the army, said he was discounting war talk in this country with the contention that people abroad are not concerned about war.

He made his views known in conversations with influential men close to the aviation problem. He expressed the opinion that unless the United States hastens its air expansion program, it will find itself at least five years behind Germany, which he now rates first in planes and first in research facilities.

Once this country's program is started, however, he believes it can

AGE HELPED "AMERICAN MOTHER"

Editor, Evening Times:
The national committee of the Mothers' day committee met in the home of Mrs. Carl R. Gray, American Mother for 1937 on April 10 to elect the American Mother for 1939. The choice was not an easy one. Mrs. Otella Compton of Wootter, O., was the final selection for this honor. Mrs. Compton, of course is somewhat advanced in years (she has celebrated her 20th birthday four times) but active enough to plan a trip to India this year to visit her daughter who is engaged in missionary service as principal of a girls' college and wife of a college president. This may have been one of the factors that gave a slight preference to one of advanced years rather than to younger mothers like the one you nominated.

We wish to thank you most heartily for endorsing your special candidate and regret that all the wonderful mothers nominated could not have been chosen.

Sincerely yours,
C. V. VICKREY

German Chiefs Offer Mutual Non-Aggression Pact to Greece

NAZIS MOVE TO PLACE HALT ON BRITISH WAR AID

BERLIN, May 4 (AP)—Germany moved today to extend her non-aggression pact from today with tentative offers of mutual non-aggression pacts to Greece and other small European powers in addition to the Scandinavian and Baltic states.

The offer previously had been made to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Latvia and Estonia.

Observers believed Germany's object not only is to safeguard its northern front in event of war, but to short-circuit and offset the Democratic anti-aggression system.

It was understood the negotiations so far have not gone beyond the stage of purely tentative German proposals.

Halt War Aid

It was assumed that if countries such as Greece, which already has received a one-sided British-French guarantee, signed a mutual non-aggression pact with Germany, they would be precluded from rendering the democracies any assistance in case of war.

Greece and other smaller powers might even be prevented from permitting Britain to use their harbors as naval bases in a war against the axis powers.

Other States Included

Reports abroad that the non-aggression offers include the western states of Belgium, the Netherlands and Switzerland were not credited here.

It was recalled that Germany already has guaranteed to respect the integrity of Belgium and Switzerland, while the Netherlands refused such a pact when the Belgian guarantee was given about two years ago.

The German press continued to report alleged Polish atrocities.

STOCKMEN PLAN FAIRFIELD MEET

Stockmen of southern Idaho will have an opportunity to learn new features of the 1939 range conservation program at county-wide meetings to be held within the next few days according to an announcement received here today from George Z. Bradley, state AAA range examiner, at Boise.

Bradley and Milford J. Vaughn, of Mackay, chairman of the state AAA committee and range representatives, will conduct meetings at Fairfield Friday at 3 p. m. and at Salmon at the livestock association meeting Saturday. They will be assisted by Ed C. Booker, of Arco, who is AAA range examiner for this area.

"Members of the Camas and Lemhi county agricultural conservation associations will be at the meetings to sign up ranchers who wish to participate in the 1939 range conservation program. All intentions to participate in 1939 must be in county offices in writing by June 1," Bradley said.

Principal practice of the 1939 range program will be deferred grazing, by which ranchers may earn the major portion of their individual range-building allowances if they withhold 25 percent of their range from grazing between the start of forage growth and seed maturity.

"The primary objective of the program is to enable ranchers to improve their ranges and lower the per unit cost of production of livestock," Bradley said.

Artichoke Bowl

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—Monterey county, the "artichoke bowl" of the United States, is rejoicing over the prospects of an entirely new field and market for its "choke." As a result of the inspiration of the landscape decorators of the Golden Gate International exposition to use artichokes in laying out its gardens, an increased demand has resulted for the plants.

There are more than 200 references to artichokes in the Blue.

Bandits Captured after They Forced Doctor to Operate with Razor Blade

DETROIT, May 4 (AP)—The bandits who forced an aged physician at pistol point to operate with a razor blade were captured today. They were Orville Watson, 29, and Edward Ryan, 37, alias Edward Riley, and with them was their girl friend, Susanna Smith, 22, who also was arrested.

Watson was the man from whose back Dr. Sigmund Hirschfeld dug a bullet with a razor blade in a dingy Chicago rooming house yesterday while Riley pressed a pistol into his back. The efficacy of Dr. Hirschfeld's science was self-evident. Watson, though in pain, walked unaided into a police station between his captors and submitted to a long examination before being taken to a hospital.

The men are wanted in Chicago for murdering one man and wounding two policemen in an attempt to hold up a Chicago tavern Tuesday night. Watson was wounded in a gun fight with the police.

Koala Eats Sand

COWES, Australia (AP)—A koala bear here has scintillating good hay-wire. The bear lives only on sand and salt water, staying on the beach, following the tide in and out, drinking salt water on the way, with an occasional mouthful of sand. Koalas rarely come to the beach and, according to naturalists, rarely drink. When they do drink, it is said, it is because they feel the approach of death.

SENIORS WILL BE GUESTS AT USB

POCATELLO, May 4 (Special)—The University of Idaho, southern branch, will be the guest of approximately 1,500 high school seniors from surrounding high schools on campus May 5.

A full day's program has been arranged for the seniors, including convivia, assemblies, luncheon, athletic exhibitions, conferences with the professors on vocational opportunities, and a matinee dance to conclude the entertainment.

There will be a radio broadcast from the campus at which time seniors will be interviewed concerning their high school days, their plans for the future, and their college plans and wishes.

A new feature on the program will be the psychological test to be given to seniors who wish to take it. The test will be designed to show how seniors' vocational, temperamental and vocational guidance.

The monument is Craters of the Moon.

Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, Arco's most distinguished citizen, will give the principal address starting at noon Sunday. Shoshone high school band will be among those providing music.

All Day

The opening will be an all day affair. The tentative program follows:

Welcoming remarks—Guy McCarty, custodian of the Craters.

Address—Prof. E. F. Rhodenbaugh, geologist, visiting on the U. S. B. field trip.

Address—Frank A. Kittredge, regional director of the National Park Service, San Francisco.

Address—Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen.

Musicians from many towns and schools.

Coffee will be served free of charge at 3 p. m. The public is invited to bring lunch and coffee cups. Join the big picnic with hundreds of neighbors.

Twisted Mass

Craters of the Moon, a blackened, twisted and tumbled mass of lavas, lies in Bulke county across the central lava plains of southern Idaho. Indians were first to see this fantastic region, but to them it meant a refuge for women and children during inter-tribal wars. Through it they marked a trail that led to hunting grounds that lay to the south. Fifty years ago while men cut firewood and logs on the wooded slopes

STEAL

SALT LAKE CITY, May 4 (AP)—Police officers today wrote the case of five elk "stolen" from a Salt Lake City zoo off their books as solved after a city commissioner explained he had them moved.

Parks Commissioner P. H. Goggin said he had park employees move the animals from the zoo to a park outside the city limits. The transfer was made at 3 a. m. Sunday morning and the zoo keeper was not informed.

Goggin said "someone" telephoned the keeper, impersonating a highway patrolman, and told him the elk had been stolen. One of the animals was killed while the men were loading it into a truck.

LANDON ASKS WORLD SUPPORT FOR FDR PEACE PROPOSAL

LEADER OF GOP CROSSES LINE IN PUBLIC INTEREST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4 (U.P.)—Mr. Landon presented to the political and military rulers of the world today an appeal to support President Roosevelt's proposal for an international peace conference. He criticized many of the foreign policies of the present administration and charged that Mr. Roosevelt "in so far as he speaks and is able to do so has abandoned neutrality for the United States" but he guaranteed none the less to cross party lines to support the President for the good of the republic.

In an address last night before the Methodist church uniting conference which was broadcast nationally and internationally, Landon, leader of the minority party in the United States, declared that Adolf Hitler's speech leaves the door open for further discussion and urged that "we explore constructively the possibility for such discussion."

He further suggested that "there might even be in the near future a general American appeal to the world for peace."

Landon's speech was considered especially significant in view of the fact that he has played in this country an international affairs since he was defeated by Mr. Roosevelt in the last election. He was chosen by the President as a delegate to the Pan-American conference at Lima last winter.

He declared last night that he found it necessary to admit that Hitler in his revealing address "made a rather strong case against economic injustices."

Must Face Situation

"We must face the situation as it is," he said, "and in doing so let us face fully the fact that the blunders of statesmen in Britain, France, and even in America, are to some extent at least, responsible for what has come to pass—including Herr Hitler, also."

"It is always a dangerous thing," Landon said as the opening of his address, "for a political leader to cross party lines. Nevertheless, to support my President I do so."

He declared he does not know the question. The republic deserves it, and that is all that should count with any citizen.

He said the United States is the "one great power that has not yet been fully drawn into the balance of power game, and the ancient boundary line disputes which have prevailed in Europe since before the Roman republic. And, please God, may we never be!"

REORGANIZATION OPENS 3 POSTS

WASHINGTON, May 4 (U.P.)—Congressional approval of President Roosevelt's first reorganization bill opened a field today to candidates for three new $12,000 a year jobs.

Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation Chairman Jesse H. Jones and Social Security Board Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer appeared the most likely candidates—if they want the jobs—to head three new government departments.

The reorganization plan was announced of becoming effective June 25—60 days after its submission to Congress—when the house yesterday defeated 264 to 128 a resolution by Rep. John Taber, R. N. Y., to reject it. Under the reorganization act, an order becomes law unless vetoed within 60 days by both the house and senate.

The order will establish new federal works, security, and lending agencies, and bring budgetary, statistical and research activities under the chief executive.

Beck Speech Expected to Offer German Friendship

WARSAW, Poland, May 4 (U.P.)—Foreign Minister Josef Beck, in his speech to parliament tomorrow, is expected to proclaim Poland's readiness to continue its policy of friendship towards Germany but at the same time refuse to surrender Danzig as demanded by Adolf Hitler.

Beck, it was said, will insist on restricting the Danzig problem to liquidation of league guarantees and control and announce his readiness to confer with Germany and other interested powers on the subject.

German Polish Guarantee

Beck's proposal would be for withdrawal of the league high commissioner in Danzig, abolition of the league protectorate over the free state, and substitution of a German-Polish guarantee of the state.

Under the league rules, Poland has wide economic advantages in Danzig, port privileges and control

Soft Coal Negotiators Fail To Reach Strike Agreement

NEW YORK, May 4 (U.P.)—Contract negotiations for Appalachian soft coal industry today reported failure to reach an agreement which would end the mine shutdown that has kept 34,000 miners idle since April 1.

After a two-hour morning session the joint conference sub-committee of operators and miners announced it was unable to reach a settlement and said that the full joint conference had been instructed to meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow to decide what next steps, if any, to take.

W. L. Robinson, Cleveland chairman of the joint conference, issued the following statement:

"This joint sub-committee has failed to agree on any of the matters placed before it by the joint conference and has now adjourned, and will probably call the Appalachian coal operators and miners to meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow at which a decision will be reached."

It was the second time the sub-committee had reported a failure. Three weeks ago the full Appalachian conference, after receiving the first report, ordered the sub-committee to keep working under authorization to return with an agreement.

Today's development indicated the deadlock was hopeless, and made it possible that the nation's entire coal industry would be suspended.

The union already has cancelled the contracts in districts outside the

STORAGE WATERS SHOW INCREASE

Substantial increases in the amount of irrigation water stored in three principal reservoirs serving this section of Idaho was noted here today in a report received by the Twin Falls Canal company from Lynn Randall, Snake river water-master.

The report shows Jackson lake, at the present time, is impounding 613,370 acre feet of water against 572,000 two weeks ago while American falls reservoir now holds 1,702,240 acre feet against the former 1,678,460. Likewise Lake Walcott shows a reading of 94,490 acre feet against the total 14 days ago of 85,540.

Precipitation during the past week included 32 of an inch at Ashton and 80 of an inch at Moran. Snow depths follow: Snake river station, 17 inches; Togwotee pass, 60 inches; island park dam, none.

Expenses Pared

BOSTON (U.P.)—Municipal expenses are being pared close to the skin. For one thing, secretaries to Mayor Maurice J. Tobin have been limited to one towel a week, and swimmers at municipal bathing beaches this summer will have to wear the same city-owned cotton swim-togs that they rented last year, according to Boston Park Commissioner William P. Long.

C. W. BARLOW IS URGED FOR BOARD

ELEN, May 4 (Special)—C. W. Barlow, Hazelton, today had been given strong endorsement of 200 farmers and business men of the Eden territory for a post on the new Idaho advertising commission which takes office July 1.

Mr. Barlow was endorsed at a meeting of the Eden Community club. Many apud and onion growers, however, also came to the session and the crowd reached fully 200, according to E. C. Montgomery, president.

The meeting here, while not on the formal list of those called by Commissioner P. N. Pollygrove for commission recommendations, will undoubtedly swing as much influence as the regularly scheduled Jerome county party in the series is booked for Saturday, May 6, at Jerome.

Twin Falls apud and onion producers will meet there at 8 p. m. Friday, May 5.

At the Eden gathering, Rep. William H. Deweller, Hazelton, spoke on high spots of the 1938 legislature.

Former Agent Told to Face Higher Court

Hearing his motion for dismissal of the case denied by Probate Judge C. A. Bailey yesterday afternoon, Harvey S. Hale, former Twin Falls county agent, must face trial in district court on charges of having embezzled $550 of Twin Falls County Livestock Marketing association funds.

Preliminary hearing for the defendant was conducted yesterday with testimony of state witnesses being concluded late in the afternoon. Free under $1,000 bond, Hale will now appear at the next term of district court.

TEST READY ON GAS LEVY FUND

BOISE, May 4 (U.P.)—Ada County Attorney Kenneth O'Leary today was ready to submit a case to the Idaho supreme court to test validity of the transfer to counties of $11,000,000 annually in state gasoline tax revenue.

The transfer was authorized to reimburse them for loss of revenue caused by reduction of auto-license fees to a flat $5.

The bill will be in the form of a request for a writ of mandamus. Chief Justice James F. Althoff said the supreme court had agreed to accept original jurisdiction. The action would attempt to compel Blake Audler Calvin E. Wright to transfer the funds to the counties.

Atty.-Gen. J. W. Taylor has questioned constitutionality of fund transfer.

DEFENSE WITNESSES

Defense attorneys yesterday called no witnesses to the stand but questioned closely those called by the plaintiff in an effort to prove that checks drawn against the association accounts were in the nature of loans to association members and also salaries to other individuals for working time.

Principal witnesses at yesterday's session were George C. Leth, Buhl, president of the association for the last four years; and Clarence F. McNeely, association director. Both testified Hale had no authorization to make loans of any kind with association funds and both declared Hale had destroyed records, thereby making audit of the funds impossible. Leth termed Hale the "dictator" of the association.

TELLS OF CHECKS

Other witnesses called yesterday included Mrs. Ruby Weinberger, clerk in the county agent's office. She testified Hale directed her to issue three checks on association funds for himself, these checks totaling $350.

Identifying bank transactions relating to the three checks were Loyal Perry of the Fidelity National bank of Twin Falls and Donald Groves of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company. The checks, however, were not in evidence.

The motion for dismissal of the charges against Hale was made by Orr Chapman, who with Marshall Chapman formed the defense. Carrying the case for the state was Everett M. Sweetie, prosecuting attorney of the county.

MUSIC IN DAIRY PAYS DIVIDENDS

BUTTE, Mont., May 4.—After two years of experiments with "radio music," Dairyman L. R. Richardson declares that not only has he ascertained that cows like it and give better milk as a result, but he has ascertained also just what kind of music they prefer.

He has a herd of 30, divided into two milking barns fully equipped with radios, which he declared are his happiest, most contented cows. He has never had, and that they give milk of a quality he has never been able to obtain previously.

In experimenting with the effect of music on cows at milking and resting time, Richardson employed the most rigid methods of research control.

He divided the herd, putting half the cows in a barn where radios were installed, and keeping the other half in another barn where there were no radios.

Guard Against Accident
Today he is so thoroughly convinced of his theories, that he has on hand at all times four sets of radios, two in each barn, and the other two held in reserve in the event of failure.

"A cow, after all," Richardson said, "is a factory for producing milk and her brain controls that factory. Or to make the analogy more complete, every physician knows that the mental attitude affects in the extreme degree the digestion and the benefits which a person derives from food."

"We believe that if a cow is nervous, it changes the quality and quantity of her milk. We put upon the music idea and it has proved successful. Music lulls them into comfort, provides a soothing atmosphere and makes them less excitable."

Richardson said that he has cows which in the past were extremely nervous and given to kicking when strangers were around. These have since been cured, or at least these characteristics are not apparent when there is music.

But Richardson insisted that it is necessary to have the right kind of music and that the particular type that is wrong is the classical.

Chopin Not Approved
"I hate to admit it," he said, "but they won't stand for Chopin. Last of any of the other classical masters."

"What makes the cows more contented and calm are fast and gentle tones of pop, old-time music and folk songs. Popular music also is an antidote for jittery, nervous nerves, provided, of course, the brass isn't too heavy. I fear that the effect of Perlmutter's Bull has not been scientifically catalogued."

Richardson was thrown into the radio-dairy business as the result of losing his job as a milker, the business a dairy and he decided to increase his herd. Then he began his musical experiments. They brought him such success that he was enabled to buy additional milk cows and he now has besides Jerseys, Guernseys, Holsteins, Brown Swisses and Shorthorns.

He insisted that in the future if anyone gets a sour milk, the complaint should not be directed against the cow, but against the particular type of radio music that is being used for its contentment.

ADVERSITY DOGS CHIPPEWA TRIBE

ISLE, Minn., May 4.—One hundred years ago the Chippewa Indians roamed the abundant plains and forest lands of Minnesota as a tribe respected in all the councils from the Great Lakes to the Rockies.

Today, in a squallid settlement near Isle on Lake Mille Lacs, 60 members of that once-famous tribe strive to eke out a bare existence on a rocky 40-acre hillside unfit for cultivation.

The settlement consists of 11 tar-papered shacks, many of them without floors. And in most of the shacks, Indian housewives, in crowded conditions, eat, sleep in the same room.

"The Chippewas' total monthly income is about $44, or around 87¢ per capita. Out of this is bought food and clothing to supplement that provided by the government."

Three conditions were revealed in a report compiled by William Madison, a full-blooded Chippewa chief, following a survey of the settlement.

The Indians purchased the 40-acre tract in 1913 for $400. Pointing out that through their inability to pay taxes, the land has reverted to the state.

Madison reported that, despite overcrowded conditions, the Indians kept their homes in good order and seldom come complaining, asking only that education be provided for their children.

"It is the Indians' understanding that the government was to provide clothing and transportation for their school children," the report said, "but as yet nothing has been done."

The chief's report, submitted to the Consolidated Chippewa agency in Duluth, also stated that "Indians feel keenly that the only possible solution to their immediate problems would be for the government to close the original land acquisition deal (started some time ago), providing 675 acres for them. They are doing in their minds but what the government will keep its promise to them."

Song-and-Dance Patter Ends As Shirley Becomes Actress

By PAUL HARRISON (REA Service)

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Shirley Temple, purveyor of sweetness and light to the multitude, hereafter may be considered an actress.

Still a deeply dimpled moppet, and still a paragon of all the juvenile virtues, she nevertheless is a good deal more than just cute. Her studio is giving her progressively harder roles and to significantly bigger pictures.

Obviously, Uncle Darryl Zanuck is not worried about his box office champion's approach to adolescence. Luckily she is growing slowly. Her 50 pounds and 54½ inches are a bit under par for a child just turned 10.

She has grown some eight inches during her four years of peak popularity, but her sturdy stature still can be minimized by careful photography and by casting tall people in her pictures.

No Song-and-Dance Gal
But even if she should shoot up, as they say, overnight, the studio has made ready for the emergency. In each of her recent pictures Shirley has done less and less singing and dancing.

There is no use pretending any longer that she is a sprouting Eleanor Powell or a Melba Koonin in pinafore. She doesn't take vocal lessons, and her ballet instruction is intended only for physical training.

But Shirley can and does act. In acting is her future. As long ago as "Little Miss Broadway" she was assigned a dramatic problem, which was talking a boy into chauffeurism for her miles on a bicycle and then giving her a nickel for subway fare.

In "Just Around the Corner," she had to reform a sissy. "The Little Princess" was full of emotional conflict, what with her persecution by the bad of Miss Minchin and the necessity of her maintaining the conviction that her father still lived.

Mother Morda Morda
The building of various moods looks a lot simpler on the screen than it is in production, because scenes are not shot in dramatic progression. So Miss Temple has to know a dramatic thoroughly and understand its characters and their feelings. Her mother coaches her in these matters and receives $1,000 a week doing it. Shirley gets about $1,500.

"Susanah of the Mountain" brings her longest speeches and her greatest responsibility to date. "This is the finest script I've ever read," she exclaimed.

It was the first script she ever really had read, but she attests about it that she now is regarding picture-making more objectively. Shirley suddenly has become interested in the work of other players, and is critical of it, too.

Among her dramatic problems in this one are a kid crush on Randolph Scott and her patient winning of the friendship of a taciturn Indian boy, who considers her a little squaw.

Said Miss Temple: "I just had a case like that down at Palm Springs, because there was a boy there who said I was a sissy. I beat him at basketball and he didn't make any difference. Then I got out my archery set and beat him at archery and he was stubborn and still said I was a sissy. So I got out some of my pistols (exp) and we played robbers, and he finally decided I was all right."

In "Lady Jane," scheduled to begin late in May, Shirley will undertake the moral regeneration of a landowner with a heart of gold. And late next summer will come Miss Temple's biggest picture—Mae West's "Blonde."

In fact, it will be one of the studio's biggest, for it already is budgeted at a cool $2,000,000.

Shirley is in grade 5-B (although she has a private teacher)—a poor at spelling, good at arithmetic. She shows a natural fragility by stuffing a collection of pig banks with most of her $10 monthly allowance.

Now considered an "actress," Shirley Temple is shown as she appears in "Susanah of the Mountain," which gives her the most difficult dramatic role of her career. She's discarding cute song-and-dance numbers.

This shows that she still does not know her own great importance, but there are signs of a dawning realization.

For the first time in her colorful life she is beginning to be a little smart and a bit queenly on the set. She's easy to her trusted friends, but the towering Arthur Trencher, and unmercifully ribs her brother Jack, an assistant director, about his girls. Nobody really minds these outcroppings of spunk. Shirley needs it if she's going to be an actress.

ROUSING WELCOME SET FOR OPENING GAME

Great Throng is Expected to See Pocatello Tilt

Twin Falls and south central Idaho today looked forward to the presentation of a rousing welcome when the Twin Falls Cowboys appear on the field for the opening of the home season on Friday evening.

Featuring a 74-piece band, introduction of celebrities and the first night baseball game to be played in this area, a record-breaking crowd of 1,000 was expected to be in attendance for the opener.

Business Manager Hugh Pace today announced that he had added extra movable bleachers along the outfield foul lines to handle the overflow crowd. The park is in fine shape, all the seats have been painted and only a little interior carpentry work still remains to be done in the dressing rooms, and clean-up work on the outside.

Celebrity Introduction

Special celebrities will be introduced over the loud-speaker system. Owner Bill Ulrich of the Cowboys, accompanied by his business manager and the secretary-treasurer of the club, A. J. (Monty) Montgomery, and his lawyer, Milton Housner, arrived by train this morning from Spokane, via Shoshone. They will stay here for the first series with the Cards, which ends Saturday. It

PARKING

Allaying any fears of a shortage of parking space, Business Manager Hugh Pace today announced that there would be lots of space around the ballpark.

"There are hundreds of yards of parking space for your cars around the outfield fence," Mr. Pace stated. "We'll have attendants there the first day or two to aid in the orderly parking of the cars and those who want to drive to the park need have no fear of not being able to get a place to put their car."

will be the first chance the club owner has had to see his team in action. Ulrich also controls the Spokane Indians of the Western International league, who are battling for the loop leadership.

The Cowboys recovered somewhat from their opening-day shellacking at Pocatello yesterday and held the lead for six innings of the game before finally losing by a 7-4 count.

The local club pushed across three runs in the first inning, but the Cards came back to score one in the second and two in the fifth. Both clubs went scoreless in the sixth and then in the last of the lucky seventh Tommy Robelli's club pushed across four runs to tack the game away. Twin Falls got one more in the ninth, but that was the best they could do.

Hitting Highlight

Hitting highlight of the day for the Cowboys was turned in by Corky Carlson, first baseman, who connected for three singles in four trips to the plate. Manager Eddie Leishman entered the game for the last half of the tilt after a siege of sickle-eyes that has kept him on the sidelines since before the start of the season.

Each team made three errors, while the Cards got 10 hits to eight for Twin Falls.

The two teams tangled on the Pocatello field again tonight.

"Firsts" Bring Awards to Cowboy Players

Twin Falls Cowboy ball players who manage to chuck up any of a dozen "firsts" in the opening home game here, Friday night, will have awards announced today by Twin Falls business houses.

Home run prizes dominated the list offered by the business men, with no less than five awards offered the Cowboy slugger who parks the first home run in the opening of the outfield. One of those awards, however, carries a slight "sting" attached—that home run must be over the fence, which means 310 feet in

SPORTS QUIBS

By HAL WOOD

That 11-1 victory at Pocatello on Tuesday for the Cardinals over the Twin Falls Cowboys in the opener of the new Pioneer league, was quite a shock to most of the local residents who bemoaned this office with calls during the evening.

However, the game was not nearly as bad as the score might indicate, and the Cowboys are not nearly that weak, as was proven last night when they led most of the game, only to fall before a 10-run rally in the seventh by a 7-4 score.

It just happened in that initial game the Cards were exceptionally hot and the Cowboys just the opposite. It is inevitable that it had to happen in the initial game of the season, when the spotlight was glaring so brightly on the two clubs.

The Cards are a strong club, but even the Pocatello-folks who have witnessed the two games, admit that there really isn't much difference in the appearance of the two teams—just a matter of brass.

We look to see Eddie Leishman and his gang perk up in the next and final tilt at the Gate City and then come through in the two tilts here on Friday and Saturday.

A surprising sight to us at nearly every track and field meet we have attended in the state of Idaho is the lack of a fine chance to see some spectacular performances.

In the east, middle west and on the west coast, fans always pack the stands to see athletes in action—from the grade schools on up through high school, college and amateur meets. And they pay out good money to witness these performances.

We went to Filer Saturday to see the sub-district meet. The track was directly in front of the stands, and the jumping pit was only a few feet farther away.

The stands were something like 8,000. The attendance: Well under the 50 mark.

And the performance was free, too.

It's none of our business, but we'd just like to tell some of you folks that a grandstand thrills you are missing.

For an afternoon of spectacular performances, we'd advise you to attend the final meet of this section at Burley on Saturday—the district championships, with the cream of the athletic crop in south central Idaho competing for places in the state meet at Boise.

Just in case you're interested, we'll list some of the toughest names of the players on the Twin Falls Cowboy baseball team, and how to pronounce them:

Leishman—Leish-man.
O'Neill—O-nell.
McNamee—MacNa-mee.
Bogdanoff—Bog-anoff.
Wry—fry.
Duke—Duke-a.
Bryan—Bry-an.
Lynn—Lynn.
Turpin—Tur-pin.

CLOWN

Wes Schumacher, one of the leading slingers of baseball for many years and now engaging more or less in the clowning business, will entertain the crowd for the Twin Falls Cowboys in their two-game series here with the Pocatello Cardinals.

Schumacher is regarded as "top" in his specialty acts along the west coast and has been recognized by the Western International league to entertain the crowds in all the parks of the loop.

Louisville is One-Horse Town: All for Johnstown

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4 (AP)—Louisville is a one-horse town. The boss is Johnstown, a big, sixteen hands high business with a coat the color of a concert piano and a white "V" of a blaze on his nose.

With the derby just three sun-downs away, you all but have to look under rocks to find anyone who doesn't think that the Belair colt is a shoo-in, a cinch, and a mortal lock to come churning down the stretch to win the flowers and the fame.

Up until yesterday afternoon derby speculation included such names and leaders as Chelodan, Technician, Heather Broom, El Chico, and Viscosity. But then yesterday afternoon Johnstown eliminated them as topics of conversation by appearing on the Churchill Downs track for a mile workout just a few hours out of a box car from New York and with Jockey Jimmy Stout all but standing in the stirrups to hold him back, the Belair beauty worked 5:20 (track parlance for a mile) in 1:35-3. This was just a fifth of a second slower than Viscosity ran the mile in the derby trial to beat Technician, and Viscosity finished under a reform school beating.

Lewiston and Pocatello Stay in Lead

By United Press

The Pocatello Cardinals and Lewiston Indians remained unbeaten to top the Pioneer league standings Thursday.

The Salt Lake Bees dropped from among the leaders to a third place with the Ogden Reds.

The Cards made it two in a row over the Twin Falls Cowboys as the game had been tied at 3-all in the fifth. A seventh inning rally netted the Redbirds four runs and the game.

At Boise, the Pilots and Indians had another swifter, with Lewiston going ahead for the second straight day. More, Indian second sacker, hit his second homer of the season to pace his team in their 13 win over the luckless Pilots.

Ogden Reds ended the series with Eddie Mulligan's Salt Lake entry when two 8-run innings netted them a one run victory over the home team. A Bee rally in the ninth failed by one run to knot the score. Salt Lake registered 12 safeties and committed only two errors, while the Reds kicked away five chances. Navarro, Ogden catcher, poked a homer in the fifth with the bases loaded.

The present series will end today, after which Salt Lake will move to
