"STRAW HAT NIGHT" PLANS EXPANDED; COMEDY ADDED

SCHULMERICH TO HAVE HAT "ACT"; PRIZES OFFERED

With additional plans mapped to-day to add a still further gala air plus some comedy to straw hat night Friday and straw hat day next Saturday, summer headgear for the men will occupy the stellar role in Twin Falls this week-end.

The straw hat night will be staged at the Jaycee ball park at the Twin Falls Cowboys open against Lewiston, league leaders. And the latest plans for the ball park, outlined today by the merchants' bureau committee consisting of W. A. Van Engelen, W. I. McFarland and Robert H. Wadsworth.

Vendors Wear Straws

All vendors of hot dogs, pop, candy, peanuts and other refreshments at the park will wear big straw hats. That will include both boy and girl vendors, according to arrangements completed with Pacey, Jacobs Bros. representative at the home of the Cowboys.

Straw hat fun will be stressed in a comedy act now being worked out for Wes Schulmerich, the capable slugger who clowns on the side—and who had some trouble last week in "attaching" most of the time. Nature of the act being revealed up for West hadn't been revealed today by the merchants' committee and Hugh Pace, business manager of the Cowboys.

Downward emphasis on straw hats will be increased, the committee indicated, by plans now under negotiation to stencil the sidewalks.

The Award List

As for the awards to be given players and spectators at the ball park Friday night, the full list reads like this:

Straw hat for the first Cowboy home run.

Straw hat for the first two-base hit by a Cowboy.

Straw hat apiece for participants in the first Cowboy double play (the Lewiston runner not included).

Straw hat for the first Cowboy stolen base.

Straw hat to the most rabid fan present on Friday night.

Straw hat to each adult spectator catching a foul ball and returning the ball to park officials.

Youngsters Present Songs They've Created Themselves in Class Work

By MARGARET ELLSWORTH

A little known activity of the music departments of the grade schools of Twin Falls this year will be demonstrated at the program to-morrow, afternoon presented by the schools.

"Guess I'll rest a little bit." Another boy said, "Guess I'll stretch a little bit." From this came the song:

It Became This

"We'll stretch a little bit and rest a little bit to stand so tall and fine. We'll smile a little bit and laugh a little bit and make our faces shine."

While students are studying some project, such as dairying, they visit creameries and make butter and learn about cows, and some pupils may write a poem, which doesn't necessarily rhyme.

All the students chant the poem over and over until the rhythm and accent is found which they like best. In this way their songs are much like folk songs.

Then the Tune

Then they sing tunes or bits of tunes until they find what they like. It's written down, with the name of the child above it who composed the melody. After it's finished, students write it in notebooks and draw pictures to illustrate it.

Sometimes in class they would have a musical conversation in which students had to sing everything they wanted to say.

Songs for holidays were frequently written. Sometimes actors would be fitted to the songs to evolve a sort of folk dance, or a game.

Write Music

Students often become so enthusiastic over this that they learned, without urging, to write music so that they might write down their own songs. Technical details are thus learned without any reluctance.

Another result is that it makes children music conscious, really to listen to music they hear. Sometimes children who haven't been very interested in music become intensely absorbed after composing words or a tune to something.

1940 BATTLE LOOMS FOR CONTROL OF IDAHO GOP PARTY

SPLIT BETWEEN BOTTLIFSEN AND LEADERS GROWS

By WILLIAM McMEMAMIN

BOISE, May 17 (AP)—A 1940 battle for control of the Republican party centering around a split between Gov. C. A. Bottolfesen and prominent old-guard party leaders was in progress today.

Repeated peace conferences have failed to heal a split that first developed in the closing days of the 1938 session and has grown markedly wider during the past few weeks. Negotiations between Gov. Bottolfesen and prominent party leaders who were estranged from his cause, are being carried on quietly.

The resignation of Dave Johnson, executive secretary to the governor, was one step on the movement to gain back for Bottolfesen the favor of old-guard leaders that might rob him of the 1940 nomination.

Points of Difference
Those who opposed Johnson and sought his removal said he ignored prominent party leaders and refused to allow them to see the governor. Whether Johnson was being made to take the responsibility for the governor's coldness to certain party stalwarts, or whether inexperience with the state political situation was the cause was a question which kept statehouse politicians buzzing.

Principal points of difference which brought about the split between the governor and his constituents included:

1. A disagreement between Sen. Tom Heath, state chairman of the Republican party and chairman of the powerful senate state affairs committee and the governor. This split never has been healed. It grew out of the two leaders not seeing eye-to-eye on the matter of a merit system for state departments.

2. A disagreement between the governor and Mrs. Beth Laubach, a national committeewoman and other prominent women leaders of the party over the fact no women were named prominent points in Bottolfesen's administration.

3. Disappointed office seekers who are openly voicing their resentment at the fact other men were named to posts they desired. They say Bottolfesen named new men to important state posts and ignored loyal party members.

4. Charges the activities of several state departments have been used in the public gaze and to publication, in the printing department. Many publishers have expressed resentment at the way printing contracts are awarded.

5. Flaws found in many of the statutes enacted by the 1939 legislature, revised by the governor and the attorney general. These may cause serious repercussions in the county financial affairs. If the state supreme court finds unconstitutional allocation of $1,000,000 annually of state gas tax funds to counties for road work.

6. Charges old guard party members have been ignored and younger, inexperienced men who have not seen loyal party leaders of long standing were placed in prominent state jobs.

7. Accusations that many of Bottolfesen's campaign pledges have not been fulfilled.

8. North Idaho men said they were ignored by the governor in making appointments.

9. He allowed Don Whitehead, lieutenant governor, to take over the patronage dispensation and thereby allowed Whitehead all the credit for the control with those receiving jobs, while getting all of the blame of complaints about appointments.

10. Charges by opponents that he is not a strong enough executive type. He vacillates, they assert, failing to come to a decision and trying to please everyone that he failed to please anyone.

Bottolfesen's strong personality has built him even greater personal popularity with the people of the state. Whether the opposition engendered among party leaders will be great enough to take from him leadership of the party in 1940 is questionable.

Those who remain loyal to him are his critics as follows:

1. The dispute between Bottolfesen and Heath grew out of the governor's extreme conservatism and hesitancy in trying to set up a civil service system in many state departments that would put the best man in every job, regardless of party.

2. Mrs. Laubach and other women are simply disgruntled office seekers who always take a lase when they fail to get jobs. Women have never held many important posts in Idaho government.

3. Disappointed office seekers should forget their differences and pull for the good of the party avoiding dissension which may lead to victory for the opposition.

4. To the victor go the spoils and any publisher who is disappointed in the way printing contracts are passed out, probably did not assist greatly in the Republican victory in the 1938 campaign.

Your Health

By ALAN L. HART, M. D.

Consultant, Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis association and state division of public health

TYPHOID

Typhoid fever is an infection chiefly of the intestine. It spreads from one person to another through the intestinal contents of typhoid patients and carriers getting into food and water used by others. Privies kept into wells or cisterns or streams. People clean out their cisterns with dirty brooms while wearing shoes they have already worn in the barnyard. Flies come from unemptied privies to the dinner table. People drink out of ditches and creeks; they eat oysters grown in water contaminated with human excreta and uncooked vegetables washed in such water or prepared by typhoid carriers; they use milk handled by carriers or transported in cans washed in contaminated water.

Idaho's Bad Record
Idaho, thinly settled as it is, should have little typhoid. But, while this disease has become rare here in the east, the large medical schools can no longer find cases to show their students. Idaho had 63 in 1927 and 110 in 1928. And still last winter's legislature killed a bill to outlaw the contamination of streams. As a result Idaho rivers will continue to be unfit for human use.

Typhoid Carriers
People who have typhoid always have at the same time an infection of the gall bladder. Sometimes this infection becomes chronically infected and goes on discharging typhoid germs into the intestine for years. Such persons are called typhoid carriers. They often carry the germs of this disease, two such outbreaks occurred in Idaho in 1938.

Laboratory Tests
Two laboratory tests are helpful in the diagnosis of typhoid. (1) In the first week or 10 days of the illness an able north Idaho leader given an important post, they assert.

9. He turned over to Whitehead the patronage dispensation because he wished to devote his time during the legislature to important affairs of state that required all his time. Bottolfesen's ability to delegate lesser tasks to his assistants is a sign of a strong executive.

Acia Newly
10. The governor's personal honesty and integrity make him cautious in making decisions. He doesn't jump to conclusions but when he acts it is usually in the right direction.

The principal point that will decide the quarrel will be whether any other leader will be big enough to challenge his control over the party. Rumors say Ben. K. G. Baskin of Camia county has ambitions or that Tom Heath or Don Whitehead might do law.

LAW TO PROTECT BLIND
CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—The legislature has passed a bill to protect the blind. This measure requires motorists in cities or communities to come to a full stop when they see a person with a white cane which indicates blindness.

Get Important Points
8. They point to many old-guard Republicans in the statehouse in prominent posts. In opposition: Byron DeFoor, tax commissioner; James Applebach, commissioner of reclamation; R. G. Young, purchasing agent; Comptroller Don Callahan and others.

7. The program which the governor desired was enacted, to about 80 per cent of its desired effect. If it was not entirely placed in effect, that was because the legislature has ideas of its own and halted some of his proposals.

8. Don Callahan is an excellent example of the type of man who is not a strong enough executive type. He vacillates, they assert, failing to come to a decision and trying to please everyone that he failed to please anyone.

Dona Marie Haynie Weds at Home Rites

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding this afternoon of Miss Dona Marie Haynie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Haynie, and James W. Van Evers, jr., Bingham Canyon, Utah, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Van Evers, Crosby, Minn. The ceremony was solemnized at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 311 Eighth avenue north. Rev. Mark C. Cronenberg, pastor of the Christian church, was the officiating clergyman. The couple was unattended.

Gowned in Ivory Satin

The bride was gowning in a beautiful floor length ivory satin hooded model, and wore a bodice corsage of yellow and white roses and lilies of the valley. She also wore two roses in her hair.

As a touch of sentiment, the bride carried an exquisite handmade lace and linen handkerchief from the wedding trousseau of the bridegroom's grandmother. The handkerchief was also carried by the senior Mrs. Van Evers on her wedding day.

Miss Haynie descended the broad stairway on the arm of her father, and approached the improvised altar where she was met by the bridegroom and the minister.

As nuptial music, "Miss Thelma Kroth played, "Because."

Marriage vows were exchanged at an altar of anovella, aprisa and greenery, arranged before the fireplace.

Wattle baskets of flowers marked either end of the fireplace, and potted plants and flowers were grouped between the bride and groom.

The bride's mother wore a black lace afternoon gown and a shoulder corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a black and white afternoon frock and wore a shoulder corsage of white sweet peas and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception took place, the bride cutting the three-tiered all-white wedding cake in traditional fashion. The cake was ornamented with a wreath of orange blossoms and topped with a cupid.

Tokens of the occasion, presented to the guests, were white boxes of wedding cake, monogrammed in silver and tied with white satin ribbon.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over white satin, and centered with a crystal chandelier and tall roses and lilies of the valley.

Later in the afternoon the couple left on a wedding trip to San Francisco, visiting friends in Idaho and Oregon en route. They will return by way of Nevada, and will be at the home of the bride's parents, Bingham Canyon after June 5.

Mrs. Van Evers's going-away outfit was a smart three-piece suit of white and black, which she wore fuchsia accessories.

Schools Attended

The bride attended Gooding college and the University of Idaho, and was graduated from St. Mark's school for nurses in Salt Lake City. For the past eight months she has been a member of the nursing staff at the Twin Falls city general hospital maternity home.

Mr. Van Evers received a bachelor of science degree in industrial administration from Sheffield scientific school, Yale university, New Haven, Conn., in 1935.

Since 1935 he has been associated with the Utah Copper company at Bingham Canyon.

Guests, in addition to the parents of the bride and bridegroom, were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Stewart, DeWitt Van Evers, and Roy Van Evers, Salt Lake City; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gelsler, Boise; Miss Grace Brennan, Coeur d'Alene.

Luncheon Given Writing Group

The creative writing class of Twin Falls high school yesterday gave a luncheon in the classroom as a final social event before school ends.

As a special feature, members of the class and guests were presented with a copy of "Vistas of Thought," a book issued containing the best work done by the class during the year. In the back of the book was a picture of the class at work, taken by Virgil Telford.

A picnic lunch was served buffet style, with punch being served from a smaller table by Bert Sweet.

Booklet Favors

Favors were handpainted green booklets with a stamper, black, red and white monkey on the front, and a "Vistas of Thought" on which was inscribed the name of the recipient. Small pencils were attached. In the booklet was an original poem about the occasion.

Decorations consisted of modernistic sketches on the blackboard of the room, and a canopy over the desk of the teacher.

The original work featured the program. Robert Pruett read a story about a member of the class, and Miss Jean Crumley read a poem on the topic. An alphabetical poem naming each member of the class was written and read by Miss Jean Crumley. A toast to the class was given by Phil Thornburg, in which he expressed appreciation to Miss Dorothy Call, teacher, for her work and interest.

In a game in which a list of words and a group of objects were presented, with the guests supposed to match them for significance, Mrs. Edwards placed second, and Edward Rogel placed second.

Distinguished Guests

Special guests were Mrs. Rose M. North, Gerald Wallace, Miss Velva Watt, Mrs. Paul, Mr. Rogel and Homer M. Davis.

Favors were in charge of Miss Ayers, Miss Jean Crumley, Miss Elma Betts, Miss Ruth Parkinson, Miss Harriet Hill and Miss Beata Klammer.

Food committees was Miss Virginia Ann Chase, Miss Dorothy Margaret Smith, Howard Phillips and Virgil Telford.

Dona Marie Haynie Weds at Home Rites

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding this afternoon of Miss Dona Marie Haynie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Haynie, and James W. Van Evers, jr., Bingham Canyon, Utah, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Van Evers, Crosby, Minn. The ceremony was solemnized at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 311 Eighth avenue north. Rev. Mark C. Cronenberg, pastor of the Christian church, was the officiating clergyman. The couple was unattended.

Gowned in Ivory Satin

The bride was gowning in a beautiful floor length ivory satin hooded model, and wore a bodice corsage of yellow and white roses and lilies of the valley. She also wore two roses in her hair.

As a touch of sentiment, the bride carried an exquisite handmade lace and linen handkerchief from the wedding trousseau of the bridegroom's grandmother. The handkerchief was also carried by the senior Mrs. Van Evers on her wedding day.

Miss Haynie descended the broad stairway on the arm of her father, and approached the improvised altar where she was met by the bridegroom and the minister.

As nuptial music, "Miss Thelma Kroth played, "Because."

Marriage vows were exchanged at an altar of anovella, aprisa and greenery, arranged before the fireplace.

Wattle baskets of flowers marked either end of the fireplace, and potted plants and flowers were grouped between the bride and groom.

The bride's mother wore a black lace afternoon gown and a shoulder corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a black and white afternoon frock and wore a shoulder corsage of white sweet peas and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception took place, the bride cutting the three-tiered all-white wedding cake in traditional fashion. The cake was ornamented with a wreath of orange blossoms and topped with a cupid.

Tokens of the occasion, presented to the guests, were white boxes of wedding cake, monogrammed in silver and tied with white satin ribbon.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over white satin, and centered with a crystal chandelier and tall roses and lilies of the valley.

Later in the afternoon the couple left on a wedding trip to San Francisco, visiting friends in Idaho and Oregon en route. They will return by way of Nevada, and will be at the home of the bride's parents, Bingham Canyon after June 5.

Mrs. Van Evers's going-away outfit was a smart three-piece suit of white and black, which she wore fuchsia accessories.

Schools Attended

The bride attended Gooding college and the University of Idaho, and was graduated from St. Mark's school for nurses in Salt Lake City. For the past eight months she has been a member of the nursing staff at the Twin Falls city general hospital maternity home.

Mr. Van Evers received a bachelor of science degree in industrial administration from Sheffield scientific school, Yale university, New Haven, Conn., in 1935.

Since 1935 he has been associated with the Utah Copper company at Bingham Canyon.

Guests, in addition to the parents of the bride and bridegroom, were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Stewart, DeWitt Van Evers, and Roy Van Evers, Salt Lake City; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gelsler, Boise; Miss Grace Brennan, Coeur d'Alene.

Luncheon Given Writing Group

The creative writing class of Twin Falls high school yesterday gave a luncheon in the classroom as a final social event before school ends.

As a special feature, members of the class and guests were presented with a copy of "Vistas of Thought," a book issued containing the best work done by the class during the year. In the back of the book was a picture of the class at work, taken by Virgil Telford.

A picnic lunch was served buffet style, with punch being served from a smaller table by Bert Sweet.

Booklet Favors

Favors were handpainted green booklets with a stamper, black, red and white monkey on the front, and a "Vistas of Thought" on which was inscribed the name of the recipient. Small pencils were attached. In the booklet was an original poem about the occasion.

Decorations consisted of modernistic sketches on the blackboard of the room, and a canopy over the desk of the teacher.

The original work featured the program. Robert Pruett read a story about a member of the class, and Miss Jean Crumley read a poem on the topic. An alphabetical poem naming each member of the class was written and read by Miss Jean Crumley. A toast to the class was given by Phil Thornburg, in which he expressed appreciation to Miss Dorothy Call, teacher, for her work and interest.

In a game in which a list of words and a group of objects were presented, with the guests supposed to match them for significance, Mrs. Edwards placed second, and Edward Rogel placed second.

Distinguished Guests

Special guests were Mrs. Rose M. North, Gerald Wallace, Miss Velva Watt, Mrs. Paul, Mr. Rogel and Homer M. Davis.

Favors were in charge of Miss Ayers, Miss Jean Crumley, Miss Elma Betts, Miss Ruth Parkinson, Miss Harriet Hill and Miss Beata Klammer.

JAPAN BANKERS SWAY NATION TOWARD CONSERVATISM

NON-MEMBERS OF CABINET TERMED LEADER ADVISERS

By H. O. THOMPSON
TOKYO, May 17 (AP)—A triumvirate of financiers today holds a position of great power in Japan. The three men are outside the cabinet and at present are closer to the Emperor Hirohito than any other faction in Japan's continual behind-the-scenes struggle for influence.

The men are: Belkin Ikeda, American educated, trained in European banking, former head of the Bank of Japan and former finance minister, formerly connected with the powerful Mitsu interests.

Toyotaro Yuki, governor of the Bank of Japan, a student of American banking methods.

Barton Seinosuke Goh, educated in Europe, chairman of the Japanese economic federation, former head of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry and formerly associated with the Mitsubishi interests.

Power Behind Cabinet
They are the power behind the Hiranuma cabinet. Their position of influence guarantees a conservative course for Japan as long as the Hiranuma cabinet continues in office.

The army does not like the idea of a leadership by banking and financial interests. Young officers ignorant of economics and thinking that any war can be financed indefinitely by bonds are opposing the triumvirate. Older and more conservative army men are willing to accept the present situation.

The opposition of the younger officers, men with chauvinistic ideas, is of the milder type. For the time being it is unimportant, but its presence is responsible for rumors that another incident similar to that of Feb. 26, 1936, when young army officers revolted, is a possibility.

Western Training Important
The background of the three financial leaders, who came to the front when the Hiranuma cabinet was formed and who have been gaining in influence ever since, shows that all of them have western training. Their experiences in Europe and the United States are what probably have persuaded them against supporting the plan for a military alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy. All three oppose such a move.

Kurehiko Yusa, lord keeper of the privy seal, is sympathetic with the aims of the three leaders, who are striving to keep Japan out of any totalitarian league of the democracies and who believe that some sort of cooperation with Great Britain and the United States is essential to success for Japan's program in east Asia.

The financiers also believe that Japan should conserve her resources and pursue a moderate course of action in the international field.

Fairview Grange Transfers Gavel

FAIRVIEW, May 17 (Special)—A good number from Fairview journeyed to Deep Creek Friday evening to present the gavel to the Grange. Fairview Grange conducted the opening and closing ritual as part of the contest, and the following program was enjoyed:

Inspirational number was a musical reading depicting music from habited throughout by the Joan Jensen accompanied by Mrs. Frank Atkins; under the educational heading, Mrs. Elvin Noh, on the affirmative, and J. R. Crawford, on the negative, debated the merits of the proposed consolidation of the rural schools; and under the recreational, the Fairview chorus sang two numbers, "One By One," and the other was given by candlelight as a tableau, "Don't Forget the Old Folks," with Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Denney posing; and concluded with a blackface humorous reading, "Mammy Goes to a Wedding," by Mrs. Alfred Kramer.

Good Food, Cleanliness Recipe of Mother of 15

By JEAN DINKELACKER
"Give children good, nourishing food; keep them clean and let them get as much education as possible, and the rest will take care of itself." That is the philosophy of Mrs. Elizabeth Aslett, Twin Falls, concerning child-rearing, and as the mother of 15, she is qualified to have an idea or two on the subject.

Mrs. Aslett, wife of David Aslett, farmer and livestock buyer of this vicinity, was winner of the Mother's day grand prize awarded to the mother of the most children who registered for the annual Mother's day trophy.

Just how well "the rest has taken care of itself," is indicated in the fact that all of the children are getting good schooling; one is a graduate of the University of Idaho; another attended the University of Idaho, southern branch, for two years, and one year at Moscow.

Trim Figure
Mrs. Aslett is a trim-figured, clear-complexioned woman, whose radiant smile never quite leaves her face even when it is in repose, seeming to linger in her eyes.

All of her children were born at Lava Hot Springs where Mr. and Mrs. Aslett, who were married May 28, 1902, at that place, operated a farm for many years.

Then Mr. Aslett went into the road construction industry, and for 12 years pursued that occupation. Mrs. Aslett accompanied him, settling up and breaking-up housekeeping as frequently as the road company changed camp.

It was a strenuous life, and Mrs. Aslett is glad to be back at farming. "But several of the boys don't feel that way about it, and they have continued with the road construction work in preference to farming," she remarked.

Thanksgiving Fast
Thanksgiving day means more to the Aslett family than any other one in the year. That's the day they circle the calendar, and "make it home whether or not," according to Mrs. Aslett.

Mrs. Vera Aslett Nelson, 36, Halley, is the oldest of the family of 15 sons and daughters, and Donna Aslett, 13, Twin Falls, is the youngest.

NEW BOARD EYES MUTUAL EFFORTS

With general agreement being reached that the group should work in close cooperation, with both the mayor and the city council in matters pertaining to betterment of the community, members of the city planning board, formed by Mayor Joe Koehler, met in initial session at the Park hotel last night.

Named by the mayor as chairman of the newly organized committee was Grant Padgett and other members of the unit confirmed the appointment after it was announced by the city executive. Other members are K. O. Beach, Claude Desviller, George Detweiler, Harry B. Cook, John Robinson, R. F. Parry, O. H. Krengel, R. S. Toffelmire, Dan J. Cavanaugh, John Griffiths, Mel Dilling, S. H. Graves and J. A. Cederquist.

Foster Water
Principal topic of discussion last night was the water supply of Twin Falls and the possibility of securing a new, and better, supply. Along this line Mayor Koehler announced he would visit today with officials at Idaho Falls, including Watermaster Lynn Grand, where he would investigate improvements in the water system at that point. He said he also planned a trip to Boise later this week to confer with state, WPA and other officials regarding possible steps to improve the city owned airport.

Koehler also said that many compliments had been received as regards his appointment of the planning group. He pointed out that the unit was composed of representative citizens who would be able to counsel without friction and without interests were "for the betterment of Twin Falls."

Varied Studies
The desire was also expressed by the city officials to have separate men within the planning unit named to various committees to study particular projects, including the airport, water, sanitation, and other matters of general interest.

Clarence Koehler, a member of the group, expressed the opinion that any friction existing at the city hall at the present time was in all probability due to misunderstanding. He said that an effort should be made to clear up any such misunderstandings in order that future efforts of the mayor, the council and the planning board, would not be hampered.

Next session of the group will be held at the Park hotel at 8 p. m. Tuesday, May 23.

Survey of Trout Streams Planned Prior to Season

Residents of the Magic Valley—before the fishing season opens the end of this month—will have a complete survey of the district to guide them.

Such a plan was announced last night as members of the board of directors of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association met at the city hall, presiding at the session was President W. E. Wilcox.

Wilcox, after the meeting, said that the report on trout streams and lakes would be issued and published in Twin Falls newspapers at least four days before the season opens.

MOCKING BIRD RULES ROOST CONCORD
Birds are not to be mocked out—at least by other birds, according to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Benedetti. For days they watched a mockingbird successfully defend two massive red-berry trees with branches spreading out 20 feet against whole flocks of robins and waxwings who wanted to share the fruit. Vicious assaults by the mockingbird kept all adversaries at bay until all of the berries on the two trees had been consumed by the one bird.

BIRCH SHIPPED FOR PLANES

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (AP)—Hundreds of tons of New Brunswick birch logs are being shipped from Saint John to British ports this season. Exporters say the timber is being utilized in Britain's stepped-up airplane production program.

Sulfanilamide Is Termed as Danger Drug

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—Dr. C. W. F. Garvin, Cleveland, warned the American Medical Association convention today that the drug sulfanilamide, potentially one of the most important discoveries in the history of medical science, has dangers no less spectacular than its triumphs.

The drug is of proven value in the treatment of 10 diseases, principally infections of the streptococcus family. From it has come sulfaquinoxaline, only recently developed, which researchers have found a powerful weapon in the fight against pneumococcus pneumonia and pneumococcal meningitis.

Garvin said that in a few cases, serious mental disturbance followed treatment with sulfanilamide. He said that the drug caused depression, lack of appetite, nausea, and "Most of these symptoms," Garvin said, "are not severe enough to make it necessary to stop giving the drug."

LUNCH

HOLLISTER, May 17 (Special)—Dwight Shaw thought his lunch had been "packed too tight" as he supplemented his diet with a chewy hard rubber eraser.

The stubborn morsel balked on the way down, so he slipped back a bottle of ink, and with a bravado that amazed his audience, he "blasted" it down.

Witnesses to the stunt were Tom Hill, Grace Human, Dorothy Farrot and Walter Heckell.

Britain Would Form Moslem Bloc

NEGOTIATIONS TO BRING RUSSIANS IN ORBIT REOPEN

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON, May 17 (U.P.)—Great Britain is ready to cooperate not only with Turkey but with other Mediterranean powers to keep peace in the eastern Mediterranean, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today.

Chamberlain said the new British-Turkish accord does not preclude cooperation of Britain and Turkey with other Mediterranean powers in the event of an act of aggression.

(Paris diplomatic sources reported Britain was trying to set up Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Arabia and Afghanistan in a Moslem bloc.)

Meanwhile the British cabinet announced its negotiations with Russia by approving a new note which it hoped would provide a basis for Russia's entry into an overwhelming anti-aggression bloc.

To Placate Arabs In connection with the near eastern negotiations, it was believed to have been acquainted with the substance of Britain's latest proposals to Moscow when he visited the foreign office after the cabinet meeting. A British spokesman confirmed his comment to saying:

"Active consultations are going forward between Britain and Russia with a view to reaching an agreement in both capitals."

It was reported in political quarters that the note, drafted only when Russia showed plainly its anger at continued delays in negotiations, approved of Guarantee

1. Recognition in principle of British-Russian mutual aid.

2. Approval of a Russian guarantee of the security of Poland, Rumania, Turkey and the Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and Finland.

3. An indication of Britain's readiness to guarantee Russia's western frontier against attacks.

Agreement between Britain and Russia would mean, according to present indications, revision of the French-Russian mutual aid pact to make it an implicit three-nation understanding despite Britain's refusal to enter a formal defensive alliance.

It seemed to be taken for granted here that agreement would be reached in the end to bring Russia into the security front and further that if any nation became involved in war with Germany it would mean participation of all three.

The anti-aggression front already includes Britain, France, Turkey, Poland, Rumania and Greece.

Russia would be expected to bring in the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania, Finland and Estonia.

Turkey expected to bring Bulgaria in.

It has been made known that Britain and France would regard an attack on the Netherlands, Denmark, Belgium or Switzerland as a cause for action.

Thus there was a potential lineup of 16 nations in active or passive roles in a network of anti-aggression treaties or understandings.

GRADUATES HEAR GREATER GOALS

JEROME, May 17 (Special)—Pointing out the need for greater education in order that greater things in life may be attained, the Rev. E. Leslie Rolfs, Episcopal church of Rupert, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the 76 graduates of the 1939 class of the Jerome high school Sunday evening.

Rev. Rolfs urged that the students choose the great, noble and more worthwhile things in life and "be awake and ready to grasp the golden coils of opportunity." He compared the high school education of 35 years ago to the one of today, explaining that in earlier years, it was more costly and meant a great deal more in the same proportion, but today a man is more handicapped without such learning than he was in years gone past.

Clothed in blue cape and gown with white jacket and white collar, the 76 graduates moved down the aisle to their seats in the front of the building, as proclamation was played by the high school orchestra under the direction of Gustav O. Pfeister. Invocation and Scripture reading were by the Rev. Mrs. F. Roberts, Nazareth minister.

The members of the girls' chorus under the direction of Miss Anna Mae Omsomson sang "Lift Thine Eyes" from Mendelssohn, and "Goin' Home" from Overton. A vocal solo was sung by Arthur Kirtz followed by the address by Rev. Rolfs.

Members of the brass ensemble played "Daughter of Zion," directed by Mr. Pfeister. Benediction was by the Rev. Albert E. Martin, Methodist pastor, and a few members filed from the auditorium as the recessional was played.

REACTION

LOS ANGELES, May 17 (U.P.)—Arthur Moe, 65, collapsed at the wheel, and almost wrecked his truck. At the nearest hospital doctors said he was suffering from "myocardial infarction."

Rev. John H. Miller, who had been arrested by the police station, said he was suffering from "myocardial infarction."

City Gets Chance at World's Biggest Horse-Chestnut Grove

Twin Falls was offered the chance today to possess the world's largest plantation of horse-chestnut trees.

I have 1,850 young horse-chestnut trees that I propagated here," Tyler said. "I've tried to sell them but to no advantage, so I'm turning them over to the city of Twin Falls—150 for Harmon park and 1,500 for Shoshone falls park."

Would be Largest Placement of the trees in those two areas, he said, would make them "top of the largest plantations in the world." Shoshone falls park would definitely be the world's largest, since Tyler said that the "largest and finest at present is a grove of 150 at Bundy park in London, England, where they stand 135 feet high and there, when they're in bloom, all London turns out to view the sight."

Tyler said he isn't asking anything for the trees but since these are "baby trees" at present they must be cared for all summer before being transplanted either this fall or next spring. So he has contacted one or two businessmen already contemplating a fund for $100 to care for the trees.

Leaving for Summer But Tyler doesn't want the fund himself. He is leaving town for the summer. Although he suggested that his family would be the logical persons to care for the trees until the city takes them, even that proved to be essential. He said he would still donate the horse-chestnuts even if someone else is picked to cultivate them. At present they are on two lots on Adams street.

"The trees are small now but will be about six inches high by fall. Then they triple themselves each year," he said. "Many, however, are yearlings and are over a foot high now."

First Donation First donation toward care of the trees so that the city can have them was made by A. S. Hudson, Mr. Tyler pointed out. Any others may contact the Roberts realty office if they wish to help.

Tyler said that City Park Commissioner Lionel A. Dean and the Junior Chamber of Commerce have tentatively agreed to see that the trees are transplanted and cared for after they're moved.

SCHOLARSHIP TO WEST END GIRL

MOSCOOW, May 17 (Special)—A highly-competent young lady from Buhl, 17-year-old Betty Shelton of route 2, has been named as Twin Falls county winner of the Union Pacific railroad's annual 4-H club scholarship.

Miss Shelton's selection was announced by J. H. Rearden, state club leader.

The $100 fund goes to Miss Shelton for use in helping defray an agriculture course at the University of Idaho.

The county winner successfully completed projects in clothing, nutrition, canning and room improvement which records provided the basis for the judging of the award. She was recommended by local, county, district and state club leaders to the company which has approved the award.

The Union Pacific has sponsored this offer for a number of years to 4-H club boys and girls in counties through which its lines run.

WOMAN BRUISED IN AUTO MISHAP

JEROME, May 17 (Special)—Mrs. Jack Garrett, Jerome, resident, suffered slight bruises and shock as the result of an accident which occurred here at the intersection near the First Security bank Saturday at about 9:30 p. m.

The mishap occurred as Mrs. Garrett, allegedly sleeping in front of a car being driven by E. L. Pettigill, Jerome. The accident was deemed unavoidable by officers. Mrs. Garrett was treated by a physician.

Frank McClanahan of Mayaville, Ky., spent his 50th birthday preparing a lettuce bed in his garden.
