Student Pilot, on Hop to "Mars," Rescued At Sea After Plane Pancakes in Atlantic

BOZEMAN, June 6 (UP)—Orestes L. Eshelman, a student pilot, was rescued today after his plane "pancaked" in the Atlantic today and was rescued by fishermen just before his tiny land plane sank in 39 fathoms of water.

An exclusive radio dispatch to the United Press from the rescue ship, the Boston trawler "Villanova," identified the pilot as Eshelman.

Eshelman, who had only eight hours flying time to his credit, took off early last night from Central airport, Camden, N. J., with only enough gasoline for an hour and a half of flying. Nothing more was heard from him.

However, the dispatch from the Villanova quoted Eshelman as saying that he had taken off from Philadelphia airport near Philadelphia. This indicated that he had landed secretly last night after leaving Camden, refueled, and taken off again.

Grew members of the Villanova quoted Eshelman as saying he had flown blind all night. Asked his destination, he said only: "My destination was Mars, but I reached the little blue first."

The message to the United Press from radio officer Chester Malkin of the Villanova said:

Crowded with more than 900 German-Jewish refugees who were refused permission to land in Cuba, the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis is shown at Havana harbor. Many of the passengers hysterical at the thought of returning to Germany, the St. Louis' captain was hoping that some nearby country would grant permission for his passengers to land. Tentative Cuban offer to permit the refugees to land at Havana on payment of funds was suddenly switched today and the wanderers were again banned.

FOR NEUTRALITY POLICY UPHELD

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UP)—The House foreign affairs committee today upheld administration recommendations for retention of neutrality laws, and defeated an attempt to impose mandatory arms embargoes on foreign belligerents.

By an 11 to 9 vote, the committee rejected an amendment presented by Rep. John M. Vorys, Jr., O., which would have reduced the present neutrality bill to call for mandatory arms embargoes.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in endorsing the administration recommendation of Hull, Vorys sought to amend it to provide that after the President finds that a state of war exists that threatens the peace and security of the United States, to arms or ammunition could be shipped to the belligerents.

CUBA OVERRULES PREVIOUS OFFER; BANS REFUGEES

HAVANA, June 6 (UP)—The government announced today that more than 900 Jewish refugees aboard the German liner St. Louis will not be permitted to land anywhere in Cuban territory.

The announcement was a surprise, since yesterday it had been indicated that the government would permit the refugees to land on the island temporarily, on the guarantee they would become public citizens and would seek entry elsewhere later.

The St. Louis was scheduled to arrive at Havana on Sunday, June 11. Lawrence Bernson of the national coordinating committee spent the morning conferring at the presidential palace, presumably to complete arrangements for accepting the offer. Then came the announcement that the time limit had expired and the refugees would not be allowed to disembark.

The announcement was made by a presidential spokesman who said that the original proposition, presented at Sunday's conference with Bernson, provided for a $500 cash guarantee to be paid into the Cuban treasury for each refugee, "plus an additional sum for feeding and lodging them on the island of Pines."

He said the condition agreed upon had not been met, and the time limit had expired.

Two authoritative sources said Bernson had proposed to pay a round sum of $443,000 to serve both as guarantee and to defray living costs for the St. Louis refugees, and also for the more than 150 refugees aboard the steamers Pando and Orduna now seeking a port of destination in the Caribbean.

The government was not satisfied with this offer, it was said.

Fuehrer Asserts Repulse Awaits All 'Encirclers'

BERLIN, June 6 (UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler warned Britain and other "encirclers" of Germany today that they will be sharply repulsed if they attempt to attack the Reich.

Hitler, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, his chief aide, reviewed a parade of 12,000 German soldiers and aviators who fought for Germany in France in the Spanish civil war.

After reviewing the unfavorable course of the Spanish uprising during the early days, Hitler said:

"In 1936 I decided to accept Gen. Franco's plea for help to aid Spain and also to avoid a civil war in Germany. I thus thanked him for Spain's remaining neutral in the Spanish civil war. But the democracies spread the lie that Italy and Germany wanted to conquer Spain and rob her of her colonies. The reception you are being accorded you upon your return is the final answer to all these lies."

Major Demands Twin Falls Call for Bids on Major Purchases

KOEHLER BLASTS BUYING WITHOUT COUNCIL ACTION

An emphatic demand that in the future the city council resort to the practice of calling for bids on all major purchases regardless of the department in which the purchase originates, today had been placed before members of the governing body of Twin Falls by Mayor Joe E. Koehler.

The mayor made the demand during the regular council session last night at the city hall and openly played members of the group for past practices of ordering "major items" without first taking the matter up with other members of the council and then making arrangements for acceptance of bids.

Chlorinator

Principal item of argument on the part of the mayor at last night's session was a chlorinator purchased for the municipal swimming pool by Councilman Lionel A. Dean. Cost of the piece of machinery was listed at $1,350 and it is being installed at the present time.

The mayor emphatically declared that the item of such importance should first be discussed by all members of the council at public meeting and then announced should be made that bids on the item would be received.

It was pointed out by members of the council during the discussion that the group is not required by law to make a call for bids but rather can make purchases at the discretion of the department heads, providing the budget which is set up at the first of each year is not exceeded. Past councils for years have followed this method.

Not Accusing

"I am not saying that anything crooked is going on," Mayor Koehler said, "but I contend that the proper thing for such things to come up is before the entire council. To my way of thinking, five heads are better than one."

"I also believe that the people of the city should be given a break and that bids should be asked on such items in order that we may save the taxpayers' money whenever we are able to do so."

"I know very well that you members of the council would not let me purchase anything for this city without first asking you about it," Koehler said.

It was pointed out by Councilman Dean that the mayor's departmental budget is different than those found in other departments and that no need arises for such major purchases in his (Koehler's) department.

Carefully Considered

"Before we purchased that chlorinator, I, G. Satorius, superintendent of the filtration plant, and S. Claud Stewart, city parks superintendent, and myself conferred for hours," Dean told Koehler. "We carefully considered the spending of the money and made the best selection possible."

Under local law all members of the council have the opportunity to scan purchases of the various departments each week and then approve or reject such purchases.

"I have confidence in the judgment of Mr. Dean and also the head of each department and when the bill for the chlorinator is presented by Dean I will approve it," Councilman Paul B. Taylor said at this point.

"And I will not approve it," the mayor countered.

Insurance Issue

Argument over methods of purchase on major items flared into the limelight on first instance when Mayor Koehler read a letter from J. E. Roberts, local insurance agent, asking for information on the city's needs as regards public liability and other insurance. He indicated that present protection was "up" on June 22.

All companies should be given the opportunity of bidding on this insurance and the contracts should be let to the lowest bidder," Koehler said.

A general discussion of the dependability of various insurance companies then followed. Councilman Dean added that he was "interested in any possible saving" providing the "protection is good."

Meet Again Friday

Last night's session was recessed until Friday at 7 p. m. at which time, Koehler announced, "I will bring these matters up proper." Also considered at the Friday session will be the appropriation bill, officials announced. With no one protesting last night, the officials formally adopted the 15-mill tax levy.

Council members last night also adopted a resolution "accepting the application of the farm security administration for water for the domestic use to be delivered through the water system of the city of Twin Falls to the camp to be constructed by said administration, and providing the conditions under which said water shall be delivered and used."

The resolution, which was necessary before entering into a contract with the FSA, provided for collection of fees for delivery of the water and also provided for the emergency officials to cause an overflow pipe from the septic tanks of the (this migratory camp) sewage plant to the wash water flow, which runs from the Twin Falls filtration plant to Rock creek canyon, to be constructed. Provisions were also made for the amount of water to be delivered to the "village."

Cites "Escape" Provision

Councilman Taylor, during the discussion, pointed out that if for "any reason" the $100,000 storage reservoir now under construction was not completed, any agreement into which the city might enter with the government to provide water for the "village" would not be considered binding.

Councilman also adopted a resolution which set up a local housing authority in connection with the

Fair-Bound Party on Raging Snake Rapids

WEISER, Ida., June 6 (AP)—One woman and five men who braved the raging Snake river from Lewis- to Weiser for the first time on record, rested today before resuming a perilous water trip to the World's Fair in New York.

The party started from Portland, Ore., 26 days ago on a boat voyage through the heart of the American continent. They were traveling in two flatboats equipped with 10-horsepower outboard gasoline engines.

The party told of narrow escapes from death in the treacherous rapids of the Snake river canyon, considered the most difficult in the nation to navigate. The boats were taken ashore and carried around many of the most difficult rapids. The party planned to follow the Snake river to its headwaters, portage across the continental divide, the Yellowstone river, down the Yellowstone to the Missouri, up the Mississippi to Ohio and eventually enter the New York canal which will take them to the Hudson river and the fair.

The party will continue on from Weiser in only one of the boats, named the "Mongoose" and the "St. George."

Members of the party were Mrs. G. Glegg, Vancouver, B. C.; English-born sportswoman; Hal-dane Holmstrom, Earl G. Hamilton and Clarence Bean, all of Coquille, Ore.; and Willis Johnson, Thistle, Utah.

RULERS INSPECT MINE IN CANADA

ABOARD ROYAL PILOT TRAIN. En Route Across Ontario, June 6 (AP)—The cheers of miners and businessmen faded in the distance today as King George and Queen Elizabeth sped southward toward the United States border, which they will cross Wednesday evening at Niagara falls for a four-day visit in that country.

The royal train left Sudbury Junction last night after the royal couple had endeavored themselves to the residents' miners, sourdough lumberjacks and trappers by making an impromptu trip half a mile down into a nickel mine to inspect the workings.

The miners had been given a holiday to go to see the king and queen, but when their majesties expressed a desire to see the miners at work, a skeleton crew was assembled hastily and a motor trip was arranged to the International Nickel company mine.

Both the king and queen donned miners' safety equipment, rode in a workmen's cage down to the 2,800-foot level, rode in an electric mine car back 1,800 feet to a cross-cut and watched the work. The din of machinery, smut and swarms of mosquitoes did not deter them.

By the time they were back in their train a vast throng of Scots, Englishmen, Ukrainians, Finns, Russians, Swedes and Germans, forming the cosmopolitan cross-section of Canada's new north, was bidding them "Godspeed."

The royal train today began a two-day tour of Ontario.

The bride table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with a lovely three-tiered, decorated cake and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Following the dinner the cake was cut in traditional fashion by the bride. Sixty friends and relatives were in attendance and were seated at three long tables.

ICKES LAUNCHES ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN FOR 3RD TERM

SENATOR TO ASK FOR OPPOSITION FROM CONGRESS

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—A campaign to elect President Roosevelt in 1940 began today under auspicious, and led immediately to an announcement by Sen. Hugh H. Hoot, D. W. Va., that he would ask the senate at this session formally oppose a third term.

Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes opened the draft-Roosevelt movement with the statement: "I want Roosevelt for a third term."

Follows Garner
His announcement, written for this week's issue of Look magazine, came within 48 hours of revelation that Vice-President John N. Garner would seek the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination regardless of Mr. Roosevelt's plans.

Ickes charged anti-Roosevelt Democrats were back-stabbing the President. Without naming Garner, he ridiculed his candidacy as that of "one whose strength is that of knowing nothing, saying nothing, doing nothing."

"Simple Proposal"
Holt said his resolution would be a simple proposal that the senate express its sentiment against third term. He has contemplated offering it for some time, but said it would go in this month. Holt and the New Deal have been feuding.

The Ickes article jarred the capital.
It seemed to end the period in which it could be argued that talk of a third term was confined to those who sought to embarrass the President. It had further significance because of the probability that Mr. Roosevelt will leave June 15 on a trans-continental journey which would be accompanied, even without his cooperation, with a tremendous third term build-up. A third term call from the cabinet scarcely can do less than start the ball rolling.

Lists Contenders
Democratic contenders were Garner, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. He placed Thomas E. Dewey, Sen. Robert A. Taft, O. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan, and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts, among Republicans, but said none of the eight "could be influential in world affairs while at the same time commanding the respect of his own people."

"This is no time," he wrote, "for a candidate whose qualifications consist of the fact that he has been chipping wood opposition to everything the world's greatest democratic leader has done, or a candidate whose claim to office comes of the traitorous knifing in the back of the commander-in-chief to whom he has sworn fealty, or one whose strength is that of knowing nothing, saying nothing, doing nothing."

Denies that George Washington opposed presidential third term and cited records of former Presidents Coolidge and Theodore Roosevelt in the White House.

New Bill Penalizes Embryo Revolutionists in America

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The house today had approved a bill to write into federal statutes for the first time drastic penalties for advocating use of force to overthrow the United States government.

The bill would provide a $5,000 fine and five years imprisonment for advocating overthrow of the government by force. The provision was added to a bill by Rep. Francis E. Walter, D. Penn., which imposed heavier penalties for persons convicted of espionage during peacetime.

Under federal law, aliens who advocate overthrow of the government are subject to deportation. No peacetime penalties were provided for citizens advocating similar policies, however. Justice department officials said that during wartime, advocacy of such principles probably would fall under the category of "treason."

The espionage clause of the bill provides a $10,000 fine and 10 years imprisonment for spies convicted in peacetime. The current law carries a maximum penalty of the same fine and two years imprisonment.

Residents of Twin Falls and vicinity "enjoyed" everything from winter to summer during the month of May.

This was revealed this afternoon as officials of the bureau of meteorology released temperature and other figures for that period.

The records show that the mercury during the 31 days ranged from the freezing point (32 degrees) on the 13th to 92 above recorded on the 20th. Three days of the month showed temperatures of 90 degree or better while nine recorded 80 or over. Mean maximum temperature was given at 71.5 degrees with mean minimum at 42.5 and mean at 60.2. A heavy hail was recorded on May 20 and the precipitation amounted to .79 of an inch for the entire period with 65 of this amount being recorded because of the hail storm. Wind movement for the period was mostly from the west.

Another feature of the month was that not completely cloudy days were recorded. Sixteen of the days were clear and 15 were partly cloudy.

LABOR ARBITER DEFENDS VIEWS

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Edwin S. Smith, the member of the national labor relations board most frequently accused by the American Federation of Labor of bias in favor of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, had defended his view on industrial unionism today before the senate subcommittee studying proposed amendments to the Wagner act.

Smith, who has written 12 dissents to decisions of the board involving disputes between the AFL and CIO over the question of the appropriate bargaining unit, told the committee that in such a "thorny and complex" problem, differences of opinion are "inevitable."

Citing a statement made 20 years ago by AFL President William Green praising the "advantages" of industrial unionism, Smith said "I do not call President Green in order to prove that the industrial unit is necessarily preferable to the craft unit. I only offer his statement to show that my having concluded in 12 AFL-CIO cases that an industrial unit was preferable to a craft unit need not have been born solely out of bias and prejudice."

SPIRITUAL BASIS URGED IN WORLD

BOSTON, June 6 (Special)—Thousands of Christian Scientists, meeting in this city, challenged the world project exhibit. The perspective from a material to a spiritual basis in its search for release from pressing economic and political problems.

The occasion for the great influx of the followers of Mary Baker Eddy was the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, which was held at an early hour Monday afternoon right up to the center balcony under the very dome of the great edifice. Through an entire afternoon's round of addresses and reports from the field, the power of the Christ, Truth, to lift individuals above the ills of human sense was acknowledged and this same spiritual power was recommended for the healing of the nations and the establishment of a permanent world peace.

Looking beneath the surface ripples of troubled international relationship apparent in the world today, the Christian Science board of directors saw the deep-running currents of spiritual progress "keeping alive the vital realization of spiritual truth which Christian Scientists must always nurture, whether their work be done along the apertic line of healing or in the important channels connected with home, church, business and government."
