Idaho War Veterans Start Annual Business Sessions; Colorful Parade Tomorrow

By O. A. KELKER

Past National Commander General James A. Drain and State Commander J. D. (Cy) Price, Malad, today shared the spotlight as business sessions of the annual state convention of the American Legion got underway here this morning and continued through the afternoon.

General Drain was featured speaker at the business session, held in the Idaho theater, and presented a detailed discussion of the social security program. He is a staff member of the social security board, Washington, D. C. Commander Price read his annual report in which, among other things, he made several recommendations calling for a change in Legion procedure. Numerous other reports were given by various committee members as well as former and present state officers. Presiding at the sessions was Commander Price.

In pointing out the importance of the social security act, General Drain said:

Huge Total

"I would not want to guess how many thousands of laws congress has given to the nation in the century and a half since the constitution became the supreme law of the land, but it is my considered and firm opinion that there never has been a law more entirely in accord with the purposes of our government, as set forth in the preamble and the constitution itself, than that known as the social security act.

"Nearly forty-five million workers applications for accounts under the federal old-age insurance system have been received. Through this program the vast majority of wage earners can lay by something to live on after they are too old to earn.

"For those who are now old and in need, the social security act is providing, through the federal-state public assistance and with every state participating, about 1,850,000 needy old people with regular cash allowances from combined federal, state and local funds.

"The act also provides for federal-state assistance to dependent children and the needy blind. About 700,000 children are now receiving aid and some 45,000 needy blind are also being helped.

Not Temporary

"Occasionally, I have heard the social security act referred to in a way to suggest that it might be expected to vanish when the emergency left over from the depression is passed. But it is not an emergency measure, for the problems with which it deals are with us in good years as in bad. I submit that since the need for an adequate law dealing with this subject is imperative and continuing, since the people have shown that they are determined to utilize the full force of their government to provide this much

DIETRICH FARMER KILLED BY CRASH AS AUTO UPSETS

HAILEY, Aug. 14 (Special)—William Fechner, prominent 66-year-old Dietrich farmer, was killed three miles south of here at 4:30 a. m. today when his motor car overturned at least twice.

Jake Berg, Dietrich, riding with Fechner, escaped with head injuries, cuts and bruises. His hurts are not regarded as critical, according to Sheriff Dave Howes and State Patrolman Jerry Lounsbury. Fechner was killed instantly, Lounsbury said. No inquest was contemplated today, and the body of the rancher was taken from Harris mortuary here to Shoshone by the Burdette mortuary hearse from the Lincoln county seat.

Lounsbury and Sheriff Howes said that Fechner apparently was going too swiftly, and lost control of his car. He was driving southward.

"U. S. 33 at that point is a perfectly straight road," the state officer said.

The machine is believed to have struck soft "shoulders" at the edge of the highway. It swerved off to

Where Nevada Rail Wreck Killed 20, Hurt 111

Death struck swiftly at passengers aboard the Southern Pacific streamliner, City of San Francisco, near Carlin, Nev., Saturday night in Nevada's worst rail disaster. Above, one of the streamliner cars jutting skyward from the wrecked bridge over the Humboldt river, pulled above two other cars filled with dead and injured. Below, rescue workers carry out the grim task of gathering the dead. Many bodies were unrecognizable. These remarkable views were secured for the Evening Times by a photographer from the Elko Free Press. The Times telephone call went through to Elko "less than half an hour" after the wreck, the Free Press said in its extra edition. It was the forerunner of numerous calls from San Francisco, Salt Lake City and other papers.

Man Minus Ears Held Following Track Sabotage VENGEANCE IS TERMED MOTIVE FOR DISASTER

By MURRAY MOLER

RENO, Nev., Aug. 14 (UP)—A "man without ears" was picked up here today for questioning in the wreck of the streamliner City of San Francisco, the $2,000,000 train which plunged off the rails in eastern Nevada, killing 20 persons and injuring 111.

Southern Pacific railroad police took the man off a freight train at nearby Sparks after an all-night search for a man of that description reported seen near the wreck scene before six cars of the 17-car train left the rails and plunged into the Humboldt river.

The man, brought to police headquarters here for questioning, insisted he had not been in eastern Nevada recently and had come here from the northwest over the Portland-Altauras line of Southern Pacific.

Chief of Police Andy Welliver said the man, about 28 years old, had in his pocket a book of paper matches from a Fernley, Nev., business place. Fernley is east of Reno and on the line between Reno and Carlin, near which the wreck occurred Saturday night.

Bitter Against Railroads

Welliver said the man was "very bitter against the railroad." Railroad officials, who had announced they had found definite proof of sabotage in the wreck, believed persons either seeking revenge or planning a robbery, were responsible for alleged track tampering which caused the accident.

The train-rider brought here is an under-sized man with sparse blond hair.

He has ears but they are so small and deformed that they are scarcely noticeable. He has no left foot and he wore no shoe on his right foot when picked up.

He blamed the "railroad" for his deformities.

"The railroad cut off my foot two years ago in Montana and cheated me out of money," he was quoted as saying by William Reed, Southern Pacific special agent from Sacramento. He said his legs had been mutilated in a railroad accident.

Reed found him in the Sparks yards.

"He put up a fight but I didn't do him any good," Reed said.

Held for Questioning

The police found a single glove—similar to the kind used by railroad engineers—in his hip pocket. It was marked with red paint. The man said the paint had come from a gondola of a freight train.

Chief of Police Welliver said he would be held for questioning by Southern Pacific officials, most of whom were at the wreck scene several hundred miles east. Welliver said he also would ask the federal bureau of investigation to check up on the man.

In the meantime, tourists told of hearing another man, apparently a railroadman, curse the railroad in an Elko, Nev., cafe Saturday before the accident.

Railroad and law enforcement officials believed the saboteurs either had been frightened away by the horror of the wreck or by the fact that enough men survived uninjured to make looting impractical.

All of the 194 persons aboard the train when it plunged from a 100-foot trestle bridge into the shallow Humboldt river 16 miles west of Carlin Saturday night, were accounted for.

County Coroner R. S. Harris, and a jury, after an examination pronounced this verdict: "Twenty persons came to their death by train accident and to the best of our belief and judgment the wreck was caused by a rail misplacement by a person or persons unknown."

Displays Crowbars

Harris displayed two crowbars and a "drift pin," which he said the saboteurs had used to pry up spikes and ties on the outside of the track at a point where it curves into the entrance of the Humboldt bridge which is set in the V of a narrow cliff canyon. The train, railroad officials said, passed the rails out from their bed it took five cars, spreading the rails forward of the diesel-electric engine and, "with a blinding screaming crash," plunging six cars into the river and stranding seven others in wreckage along the right-of-way.

In describing the condition of the derailed rails, which were 165 feet east of the bridge, they said it was obvious the saboteurs removed a single bar which held rails tightly.

"I guess I was the only one to get out of that car without any broken bones," she said.

"I had to help. It was my duty. I told all those with broken bones to lie still until help came. I used quarts and clothing to make tourniquets for those whose injuries were more severe and bleeding.

Most of the cries for help seemed to be coming from the coach behind us. I tried to get there but I had to go over a little hill and I guess I just couldn't make it. I guess that's where I passed out."

FLOP

LONDON, Aug. 14 (UP)—Leading critics agreed today that George Bernard Shaw's new play "In Good King Charles's Golden Days" had its points but that it was hardly a play.

The eagerly awaited play opened at the Lyric theater in London today.

"There were but two vacant seats in the theater—they had been reserved for Shaw and his wife, who did not attend."

14 Killed, 2 Survive Crash of Airplane on Pan-American Route

By W. W. COPELAND

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 14 (UP)—Two wounded survivors and flame-twisted wreckage held today the clues by which authorities hoped to solve the mystery of the crash of a Pan-American Airways flying boat in which 14 persons died, including Prof. James Harvey Rogers, noted Yale economist and once a leading Roosevelt brain trust.

The four men of the crew, including two ace pilots, were dead; the remnants of the plane were so nearly consumed by flames that an effective examination was difficult, and both survivors were suffering from severe shock.

The plane, arriving on a flight from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires, had circled normally for a landing in the harbor. People awaiting it at the air port, relatives and friends of passengers and Pan American officials, saw it disappear behind the marine arsenal, as all planes do, preparing to alight. A few minutes later a message was received the plane had crashed into the harbor in flames.

It had dropped suddenly, apparently after an explosion. It had crashed against the top of a high dyke of adjoining the arsenal. One of its two motors had remained dangling on the edge of the dyke.

It's all a matter of dignity and carriage, Mrs. Gimbel said.

CORSETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (UP)—Mrs. Adam Gimbel, fashion expert, returned from the style centers of Europe today with the heretofore-taken prediction that corsets were coming back.

Mrs. Gimbel arrived aboard the Normandie and what's more arrived with a corset but it was in her luggage, she said that she, like other American women who make a practice of keeping abreast of the style world, would be wearing steel-ribbed contraptions that were de rigueur in grandma's days this winter—like them or not.

It's all a matter of dignity and carriage, Mrs. Gimbel said.

STEWARDESS FOR TRAIN COLLAPSES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 (UP)—Miss Thelma Rivett, 23-year-old stewardess of the wrecked streamliner "City of San Francisco," collapsed today while telling reporters her story of the wreck, in which passengers hailed her as a heroine.

Despite her injuries Miss Rivett had gone to the aid of passengers as soon as she was freed from the car in which she had been trapped. She collapsed once at the scene. Revived she carried on until a relief train with doctors and nurses reached the canyon where the streamliner was derailed. Then she was placed aboard a special train which brought 118 passengers and crew members to California.

"I guess I was the only one to get out of that car without any broken bones," she said.

"I had to help. It was my duty. I told all those with broken bones to lie still until help came. I used quarts and clothing to make tourniquets for those whose injuries were more severe and bleeding.

Most of the cries for help seemed to be coming from the coach behind us. I tried to get there but I had to go over a little hill and I guess I just couldn't make it. I guess that's where I passed out."

High-Tinks as Hilarious 40 and 8 Parades for Twin Falls

plunged into the harbor, nose in the water, tail a blazing torch.

The dead:

Eddy, Miss or Mrs. Hendie May, Gainesville, Fla., a native of Denver.

Laudman, Robert, New York City.

Rogers, Prof. James Harvey, New Haven, Conn., Sterling professor of political economy at Yale.

Person, Capt. A. A., Miami, chief pilot.

King, Capt. George B., Miami, second pilot.

Jenkins, Russell, radio man.

Trujillo, Julio, steward.

Valenso, Emanuel, Belgian, boarded plane at Bahia, Brazil.

Levin, Pablo, boarded at Bahia.

Oliveria, Edgardo, boarded at Bahia.

Santos, Alberto, boarded at Victoria, Brazil.

Santos, Lucilla, boarded at Victoria.

Miranda, Evaristo, boarded at Pernambuco, Brazil.

Amundsen, Anton, boarded at Bahia.

Diamond Merchant

Survived:

Lynn, Mario, boarded at Bahia.

Hirth, Oswald, boarded at Pernambuco.

Lynn, still dazed, said he believed the Belgian Valenso, a diamond merchant, was carrying $100,000 in diamonds with him. Valenso was a diamond merchant. The diamonds and most of the plane's mail were lost.

Lynn, speaking with difficulty, said:

"I saw the crash coming. The plane started to drop suddenly. I knew something was wrong and unbuckled my safety belt."

"How I got out of the plane I don't know. I didn't remember anything until I was hauled from the water into a launch."

FORTIFICATIONS FLOODED

PARIS, Aug. 11 (UP)—The newspaper Excelsior asserted today that the river Rhine, which has been rising for three days, has again flooded part of the new German fortifications opposite France.

Aug. 12, 1939, streamlined City of San Francisco, near Carlin, Nev.—20 killed, more than 100 injured.

Geologists say Texas has been on the bottom of the sea three times in history.

WRECK BLAMED ON EX-RAIL MAN

RENO, Aug. 14 (UP)—George C. Patterson, office manager of the Southern Pacific operating department at San Francisco, issued the following statement after returning from the scene of the wreck of the streamlined City of San Francisco near Carlin, Nev.

"It was obviously the work of either a railroad man or someone who had had experience at track work at some time. The cleverness with which the track had been taken up and then replaced in position to wreck the train, could mean only one thing—sabotage. The person or persons who did it knew their business. Not even the wires were disturbed to break the connection and thus set the block signal against the approaching streamliner."

"We are proud of the train crew and the way they worked. They did everything that could be done. There was no distinction. Porters, waiters, cooks, conductors, barber, stewards—all of them acted almost as if they had been trapped before in what to do in event of such a horror. No one can be signaled out for bravery or conspicuous work."

"They all just did everything that could be done."

OFFICERS PROBE NEW YORK CRASH

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (UP)—Two investigations into the wreck of a Coney Island elevated train, in which 21 persons were injured, were underway today by police and officials of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation.

The train, loaded with Sunday pleasure seekers returning from the resort, was believed to have been derailed by a defective switch which allowed the front of the first car to move on to an adjoining track but kept its rear wheels and the five coaches following to the original track.

Passengers Courageous After Train Wreck, States Witness

By JERRY HANNIFIN

ELKO, Nev., Aug. 14 (UP)—I heard the story of the wreck of the streamlined City of San Francisco from the broken lips of seriously injured survivors and I helped carry them on stretchers from the hospital train to ambulances and into the local hospital.

Thirty-two of the most seriously injured were brought here on a hospital train—three old-fashioned bunk cars, the kind used by track gangs.

They had broken arms and legs, fractured spines and horrible lacerations. As they were received at the hospital many were taken to surgery immediately for amputations.

The heat was almost unbearable in the stuffy bunk cars, but the injured were astonishingly brave.

Women Brave

The women were especially courageous. Most of them still clutched their handbags that somehow they had managed to keep through the wreck. Among the injured was J. B. Tuttle, director of Standard Oil of California, who had chest and arm injuries.

As I carried him to the ambulance and rode to the hospital with him, I talked with J. A. Jones, San Francisco motor dealer. He was in the club car playing cards.

"The lights went out suddenly," he said. "At once I knew we were in for a crash and without a thought I jumped up and dived through the window."

Mac Williams of Dayton and O. C. Welch of San Francisco also said they were playing cards in the club car when the train lurched crazily. They were hurled through windows.

Seelye Poole of Berkeley, Calif., who was returning home after a vacation, said he was sitting in the club car when he felt the lurch. He also took his chances and plunged through the window to escape the fate that took many lives in the car.

Hurled 125 Feet

Ted Allen of Oakland, Calif., cook of the dining car, said he was hurled through a window with six others and they landed 125 feet away beside the track.

"It was a miracle that we escaped," Allen said. "When we went back to look at the wreckage we could hardly believe it. I guess junk had once been a train."

A night cook named Charles Kosanke of Oakland, Calif., kept up morale with his unending good humor. Kosanke had two broken legs and internal injuries, but his earthy wickerwork kept the hospital train passengers smiling, despite their injuries.

A human skull believed to be 150,000 years old has recently been found in Italy.

WITH
The Gentleman in the Third Row

It's Time for All Good Men—

With the objectives of the recently enacted Hatch bill, no one can quarrel. In fact, with the objectives of the bill, no one has quarreled.

There are two of them: First, to prevent federal employees from being blackjacked out of part of their pay by forced campaign and party fund assessments; and second, to prevent national party conventions from being "stacked" with federal office-holder delegates who are under obligation to the existing regime.

President Roosevelt, hailing the Hatch bill as "a step in the right direction," has signed it, and it is now the law of the land.

Like most solutions, however, this one raises a new problem in its stead. There seems no way to carry on a republic like our own without political parties. Political parties demand organization. Organization demands money. Where is the money to come from now?

In the first place, state party organizations and office-holders are not affected by this federal act. It is not impossible that the next party conventions will be as heavily weighted with state office-holders as those of the past have been with federal. Unless and until states pass similar legislation, this is bound to be true.

In the second place, since federal office holders may no longer be tapped more or less at will for party funds, both parties when in power will be faced with the problem of how to raise them. Voluntary contributions may still, of course, be made, and it is possible that most federal job-holders, long educated in the knowledge of which side of the bread is thickest spread with butter, will continue to contribute to party funds on a genuinely voluntary basis.

The alternative is to go back to the system of large, lump-sum contributions just before elections from those who have it to give, like Rockefeller or the United Mine Workers.

Efforts have been made in the past to devise plans for broadening the base of party support, and both major parties would welcome means of securing regular, even though very small, contributions from rank-and-file members. The radical parties here, and the totalitarian parties in Europe, have solved this problem. They simply tap all members automatically for a slice of their weekly pay.

This, in a country where political allegiance to parties is less fixed, is scarcely desirable. Most Americans want to know who's running before they decide which party to support. But the study of ways to broaden as far as possible the supporting base of all major political parties is worth the attention of all of them.

Widespread voluntary support, not only just before election, but all the year 'round, is the democratic way to maintain a party system in a republic.

Don't Toss Matches Away

The country has been reasonably fortunate thus far this summer about forest and brush fires. There haven't been many, even though great sections of the eastern part of the country have been hard hit by droughts.

That's luck. Now is the time to be careful. The youngest Boy Scout learns not to throw matches about or leave fires burning. But many of his elders do not have the wit to remember the same thing when it comes to their cigarette-butts or cigar-stumps.

Almost all costly and dangerous forest and brush fires are caused by carelessness. Going on a vacation? Don't be the cause of such a fire! Try to remember the most elementary rules of safety and good sense.

Don't throw matches. Don't leave a fire unattended, or leave it behind you without thoroughly putting it out. Watch those cigarette-butts. For the season for forest fires is coming to its peak. Idahoans particularly should realize the necessity for such care.

Anything but What We Are

One of the most ingratiating of all human traits is the wishful anxiety of men to seem to be something they are not.

The society climber scrambles and wangles to be seen in a set to which she by no right belongs; the celebrity hunter fights to be seen with people who are not interested in him; and all of us strive mightily to achieve an appearance of being something we are not.

The man who has never been out of the county buys phony luggage labels and pasters them on his suitcase, hoping to give people the impression that Cairo and Kamehatka and Ceylon are just week-end excursions to him.

And now comes the phony auto plate, nicely stamped in colors, with the insignia of Eire or Greece or Egypt, so that drivers can give an impression to unknown passersby that they have toured far lands.

It is silly, and stupid, and may cause confusion in identifying a car in an emergency, but it is so very, very human!

TEST POT CATTY LADIES:

Dear Pot Shots: Although my wife suspects I aimed my last shot at her, because she says she answered the back seat driver questionnaire and had to answer every query yes, I still came forth bravely with another.

This time, to help your feminine readers get acquainted with themselves, the questionnaire is "Are you catty?" Affirmative answers to seven of the 10 questions ranks the subject as cat; affirmative answers to five out of the 10 merely indicates the danger line, watch your step.

1. Do you pick fights when you see someone you know in a new dress?

2. When someone is envious of something you own, do you pick a quarrel with her?

3. Is the group of your friends still the same old group it was, unchanged from a year ago?

4. Do you gossip?

5. Do you make fun of others behind their backs?

6. Do you think others are catty?

7. Does the smile on your face freeze when you're talking to certain acquaintances?

8. Do you wish certain people would move out of town?

9. Do you ever get into a quarrel with a friend?

10. Would you say it's true that you're a catty?

Potato: Jacketer.

This day has a couple of local papers tucked to it, but I leave your readers to savor the program.

A certain fisherman asked another, "What's the best bait for bass?"

"I'll say no bait has a bass like a fish."

"What's that?"

"Well, six feet long. Mebbe a couple inches more."

"That's the biggest bait I ever heard of."

CHAPTER 1
As the train pulled into the Surf City station, Christine Thorenson was almost sure that the bare-headed young man across the aisle was on the point of offering to take her bags.

During the ride down the coast she had been aware that his eyes frequently strayed in her direction. Pleasantly aware, for Christine liked the appearance of the young man so much that she did not even mind his wearing glasses. She liked his broad shoulders, his bronzed skin, and the sunburned look of his hair, as if he were a hulk.

Christine, who habitually went bareheaded, cherished a naive belief that all people who disliked hats were inherently honest and safe to know. But even if the bareheaded young man were Sir Galahad in person, she could not be explaining strange young men to Cousin Emma at the depot. Cousin Emma did not belong to a school that welcomes chance acquaintances. And a great deal depended on this visit of Cousin Emma's pleasant shore house in exclusive Beachmont, a few miles down the Boardwalk from Surf City.

If Cousin Emma should suggest a loan to cover the last year at college, life would be much less complicated.

A year ago, Christine would indignantly have repudiated the idea of borrowing money. That was because, until the advertising firm for which she had been working during intervals of her college classes had folded up, she had never realized just how hard jobs were to find.

At any rate, the young man did not offer to take her bags.

When Christine looked about the depot platform for Cousin Emma's plain, severely tailored figure, it was nowhere in sight.

"She's probably sent Jasper to meet me," Christine thought.

But Jasper, Cousin Emma's butler—the punctilious kind of butler Cousin Emma would have—was nowhere in sight. No one on the platform seemed to be expecting her. Everyone seemed to be hurrying off, except, perhaps, one man who lingered by the newspaper stand, his face buried in a paper, and—

A voice said at Christine's side: "I suppose someone will be here to meet you?"

Christine turned to find the bareheaded young man standing beside her. He was older than she had supposed—30 or 32, perhaps—and his voice was pleasant.

"Oh yes," Christine said, with just the right smile to suggest amused surprise that he should imagine anything else.

Yet even as she spoke, she knew her first qualm of uneasiness. . . . Suppose the message she had sent telling Cousin Emma when she was coming had not been delivered? But the invitation had sounded, as Cousin Emma's invitations always did, like a royal summons; and Cousin Emma was not used to having her commands disregarded. Telegram or not, Cousin Emma would expect her.

The young man continued to stand there.

"I only thought," he went on—

As the man came up to her, Christine asked on a swift impulse: "If I were Mrs. Talbert, would you meet me?" "The man smiled. "I'm sorry," he said, "I'm taking a train."

"It is late—hadn't I better wait till your friends come?"

"Why?" Christine found herself disarmed by the straightforward way he spoke, as if they had known each other for years. "Thank you; but someone will be here any minute now."

THEN she saw an unobtrusive-looking, spectacled person in a neat gray suit come from an entrance and move toward her. It wasn't Jasper; but possibly Cousin Emma had a new butler.

As the man came up to her, Christine asked on a swift impulse: "If I were Mrs. Talbert, would you meet me?" "The man smiled. "I'm sorry," he said, "I'm taking a train."

"A second voice asked, "Who is Mrs. Talbert, please?"

"This is Mrs. Talbert's cousin—Miss Thorenson," Christine answered, surprised by the question.

"Oh . . . Well, the other operator didn't know, Miss Thorenson, but Mrs. Talbert's service has been discontinued."

"Discontinued?" Christine gasped. "When?"

"Two days ago."

"But—there must be some mistake. I was to visit her."

"There's no mistake. Mrs. Talbert has closed her house. We had notice two days ago."

"How could she do that?"

"I am sorry. I cannot tell you that."

Christine, who realized that in talking this much she had exceeded her authority, said, "Thank you," and was about to hang up when the operator called, "Wait a minute. I was to tell you, she went on hastily in a lowered tone, "if you called the house white was on duty, that in case—"

"Someone doesn't get in touch with you at once—"

"Please don't talk," the girl's voice was tense and hurried. "Just listen. . . . If anyone is referring to me, just tell me you're Christine, who knew only too well what it meant to lose your job, said swiftly, "I'm listening."

"I am telling you," the girl went on, "that if there's any trouble—your're to call Main 2078, any time before 3 p. m. Ask for Lucille."

"Trouble? . . . Who is Lucille?"

"Please! Write it down!"

Something in the frightened urgency of the other girl's voice sent a little chill down Christine's back.

"I am writing it," she said. "Main 2078."

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—If you plan to drop in at DuSable, Tex., this summer and pay a call on Vice-President John Garner, you're rather likely to be disappointed. The vice-president really meant it when he said he was going to do a lot of fishing.

Mr. Garner keeps a trailer and a battered 1931 model automobile for his fishing trips; takes the old car because it is high-slung and can negotiate rutty, cherted-up roads that a modern car couldn't take. He also keeps a canoe, together with a lot of fishing tackle.

Returning DuSable after a session at Washington, he fishes the canoe atop the trailer, sticks the fishing tackle and a supply of grub inside, picks up an old fishing caddy, and sets out to do a little intensive loafing.

The trip may take two weeks, he says. Three, may take longer. The vice-president doesn't come home until he feels thoroughly relaxed.

Child Welfare Is Core of Social Security Setup, Legion Hear

GEN. DRAIN CITES VALUE OF WORK BY VETS' GROUP

General James A. Drain, former national commander of the American Legion and at the present time a member of the staff of the social security board of Washington, D. C., today had termed the "heart and soul" of the social security setup to be the child welfare program.

General Drain was speaker at a child welfare session held at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon. The session was open to the general public and was also attended by members of the 40 and 8 and the 8 and 40 as well as the American Legion and auxiliary. The session was the initial one on the four-day state convention program.

The speaker was introduced by A. H. Christensen, Boise, Idaho department American Legion child welfare chairman.

Child Welfare

In pointing out the importance of the child welfare program, as carried on by the Legion, General Drain stated that substantially every bit of the program has been carried on by those who have received no financial remuneration.

"The attitude of the Legion toward the child welfare program has been one of aid from the start," the speaker, who is a recognized national authority on the subject and who was instrumental in organizing the welfare department of the Legion, said. "The principle was, and still is, to encourage and to assist and to join their work with others so that the field might be covered as well as possible."

Can't Handle All

"We are unable to care for all the children with our aid, and believe no other group is able to do likewise, but each year we age come closer to the goal."

The speaker then turned to the amount of money expended for child welfare by the Legion in Idaho. He stated that the special significance in these figures "lies in the fact that this is emergency aid and available only when no other source is present to aid the child, which must be helped."

During his discussion he pointed out the general movement of late in which orphans of veterans were introduced to families of other veterans and were adopted by them.

In the beginning of the welfare program of the Legion, Gen. Drain said, the idea was established that "the first consideration" was safety in the securities purchased by the original fund of "just a little under $3,000,000."

"This start has assured our having the necessary funds when they are needed," he said.

Turning to the federal social security program again he stressed the fact that some 700,000 dependent children in the United States are receiving aid under the setup.

"The child welfare phase of the social security program is its heart and soul," Gen. Drain declared emphatically.

Following the address of the speaker an open forum was held during which questions were asked from the floor. Introduction of distinguished guests were also made by Mr. Christensen and speaking briefly from the platform were J. D. (Cy) Price, Malad, state department commander, and Mrs. Edna Ross, president of the state auxiliary.

In all probability General Drain will be heard at other meetings during the convention, which is scheduled to end about Wednesday noon.

COWBOY TAKES TUMBLE

WINSTON, Ark. (AP)—Patrolman Clarence Houck has been able to demonstrate that a police car is not adapted to the cowboy use of honking horns. Called upon to round up some horses, Houck hopped out from a straddle the hood of the police car. The horse stopped suddenly so did the car, but Houck didn't. He tumbled through the air and received a broken wrist.

Auxiliary Conventioneers Arrive

Seen registering for the annual convention of the Idaho department, American Legion auxiliary, in session here until late Wednesday afternoon, are Mrs. Edna Ross, Boise, department president, and Mrs. Alpha Schwartz, for the past 10 years state secretary-treasurer. Grouped around the registration desk at the Rogerson hotel, convention headquarters, are Mrs. Pauline Agee, registration chairman; Mrs. Alice Koster, housing chairman; Mrs. Leslie Benoit, general convention chairman; Mrs. Rose Mrs. Ralph E. Leighton, publicity director, and Mrs. Schwartz. (Evening Times Photo)

40 and 8 Unruffled at Fire During Stag Party

The 40 and 8, fun organization of the American Legion, concluded their own particular portion of the American Legion convention here last night or rather sometime in the wee hours this morning in what could very technically be called a blaze of glory and smoke.

It was 12:30 a. m. today, and the boys were whooping it up at the Legion hall. Reason was that members of the 40 and 8 were holding their annual stag party with an "entertainment troupe" from Salt Lake City providing the amusement.

Closely Guarded

Outside the building which was packed by 40 and 8ers so that none of the "common herd" could see in, could be heard the yells and catcalls coming from within.

Then a flame spurted out from the second street east end of the building and smoke, plenty of it, appeared. An alarm was turned in and the fire department raced to the rescue.

But if the fire bodes had any idea they were going to rush into the hall, and thus get their eyes full, they were sadly mistaken. They had to "work" the fire from the outside, spectators insisted.

The fire, caused by a short in a wire, according to the official version, was put out with little trouble and the firemen went back to the station.

CASTLEFORD, Aug. 14 (Special)—Miss Alice Morrill, Kimberly, will teach in Castleford high school this year. Miss Helen Stickerwald, Payette, will teach in the grade school and Paul Jones, New Plymouth, will act as coach and teach in the high school.

Unwarmed by Fire

Inside the building the "show went on" and not once as the firemen labored outside, did the noise from within diminish.

Exact nature of the program, which must have proved more interesting than the fire to those inside the structure, was not for publication, generally speaking.

The public obtained its "close-up" view of the 40 and 8 members as they formed at the Rogerson hotel corner at 9:30 p. m. yesterday and

MOLASSES GIVEN COWS WITH HAY

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP)—Modern farmers no longer need to "mope" hay while the sun shines.

Back to grandfather's day, molasses had two chief uses—molasses cookies and sulphur and molasses, a rip-roaring spring tonic.

Today, however, the addition of the thick brown syrup to hay is possible to fill a silo with green hay, George F. Massey, Fond du Lac county agricultural agent, revealed.

"Green hay," Massey explained, "has a high percentage of certain vitamins, especially vitamin A."

These vitamins are destroyed in the process of drying hay the old-fashioned way, by stacking in the field. However, adding molasses to the silage of green hay preserves the feeding values.

On the Albert Zickert farm west of Fond du Lac green hay is being cut, stacked and raked into a silo filler, where molasses, some 60 pounds to each ton of hay, is "poured on."

This ensiling process, Massey said, has destroyed the old maxims of "making hay while the sun shines," and "more rain, more rest for the farmer."

He added:

"Frequent poor weather in June, plus the opportunity to put up hay despite the weather, the small loss of leaves, and the difficulty involved in drying the rank first cutting are additional factors which are attracting attention of farmers to this new practice of molasses hay, even though the sun does not always shine."

'Dud' Shell Kills 6 of U. S. Guards

FORT KNOX, Ky. Aug. 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Robert H. Tindall said today that six national guardsmen, killed last night by the explosion of a "dud" shell they had picked up for a souvenir, had disobeyed an order forbidding soldiers and civilians to touch shells after they have been fired.

The guardsmen were members of Battery D, 132nd field artillery of the Princeton, Ind., unit of the Indiana national guard. They were killed when a 4.2 smoke-shell, which they had found on an artillery range, exploded as they were carrying it into their tent on the camp proper. Three other guardsmen suffered minor injuries.

These killed were Corporal Roy Maxey, 20, Oakland City, Ind.; his brother, Private Paul Maxey, 19, Oakland City; Corporal Charles Hendricks, 21, Oakland City; Private John R. Jones, 22, Princeton; Private Willis Snow, 18, Evansville, Ind.; and Private Arthur McCarthy, 19, Princeton.

Virginia Dare Find May Mean History Rewriting

(By NEA Service)

GAINESVILLE, Ga.—Historians will be revising a chapter of early American lore if "Virginia Dare" stones now in the possession of Berea college here prove to be authentic.

Two professors are studying the 14 stone-bronze slabs taken from the site of South Carolina's first settlement. These slabs may hold the key to American history's No. 1 mystery, the fate of the lost colony of Roanoke.

It is a crudely carved stone—dated 1585, 1590 and 1591—prowed with a new light will be thrown on the wanderings of Sir Walter Raleigh's famous colony. The writing on the slabs establishes that the group he left behind did not perish in North Carolina or Virginia as historians believe, but met its end in South Carolina.

Authenticity of the stones would mean a change in script for the Raleigh-Roanoke drama which has been for three years telling the world the story of Virginia Dare in a play, "The Lost Colony."

Each summer this drama is enacted on a waterside stage across Croatan sound from Dare county, N. C. Since the opening night of "The Lost Colony," many new discoveries in stone have been made about the heroine of the play.

On November, 1937, the first of Berea college's 14 stones was unearthed. The second was found last June. The others were discovered only a few weeks ago in the lower part of Greenville county, S. C., on a hill near the Saluda river. These granite and sandstone slabs range from 40 to 154 pounds in weight, totaling 1,118 pounds.

Slabs Being Studied

Acquisition of the last 13 stones, each bearing a carved message relating to the lost colony, was announced by President Haywood J. Pearce, of Berea, and his son, Dr. Haywood J. Pearce, Jr., professor of history at Emory university, Atlanta.

Discovery of the first of these slabs, known as the "Virginia Dare stones" in 1937 launched the renewed investigation into the fate of the lost colony. A tourist came upon the 21-pound piece of quartz in a swamp on the later of the Chowan river near Edenton, N. C.

Unable to decipher the inscriptions on the stone, the tourist sought the aid of experts.

Microscopic studies, revealed the initials of Eleanor White Dare and that it conveyed news of the massacre of 17 colonists and their burial on a small hill near a river. The message related that a quartermaster, listing the names of the victims, had been placed over the spot where they had been buried.

The discovery spurred search for the grave marker, which was found a year later, with 12 other stones, about 13 miles south of Greenville, S. C.—a scant 150 yards from U. S. highway 29, one of the most heavily traveled thoroughfares in the south.

Twelve new "Virginia Dare" stones are examined by Dr. Haywood Pearce, left, and Dr. H. J. Pearce, his father.

The newly acquired slabs relate that the colonists journeyed about 350 miles southwestward from the North Carolina coast and established a camp or stockade near the Saluda river, which they occupied for at least two years.

In 1591, the message revealed, 47 of the remaining colonists were massacred by the Indians. The slabs, including Virginia Dare and her father, Andrew, were listed on one of the slabs. The seven survivors moved on further southward, perhaps into what is now Georgia, Dare and that it conveyed news of the massacre of 17 colonists and their burial on a small hill near a river. The message related that a quartermaster, listing the names of the victims, had been placed over the spot where they had been buried.

On another stone, Eleanor instructs her father to look at the bark of trees, the colonists having

DEVICE SPEEDS X-RAY OF TEETH

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A small-town dentist who disliked making his patients come back a second time to discover the results of an X-ray, has invented a device which enables him to throw enlarged X-ray pictures on a screen within a few minutes after they are taken.

Dr. Irving Cook of Gillett, Wis., exhibited his invention at the American Dental association convention here.

The previous problem of drying the films which took considerable time has been solved by attaching the film to a wheel which then dries them by centrifugal force in a few minutes. The same stainless steel reel has a number of slots into which the films are placed beforehand for developing.

Cook also has developed a high-powered projector which utilizes the reel as a film magazine, throwing pictures of the teeth on a screen for the patient to see while still in the dental chair.

"I've found that the patient becomes intensely interested in his teeth when he can be shown," Cook said.

Explaining other advantages of the device, he said it would replace about $1,000 worth of models the ordinary dentist keeps in his office to explain his patient's troubles. The models are not satisfactory, he explained, because they are artificial.

"My device," he said, "will cost only $100. Besides using it in his office, the dentist can utilize it for clinical demonstrations and for public lectures—any to school children—for it will throw an image large enough to fill a screen 8 by 10 feet, and by using modern color film the lesson is made extremely vivid."

PLANS PROGRESS FOR COUNTY FAIR

Jerome, Aug. 14 (Special)—F. J. Thompson said today he had completed arrangements for securing the "bucking burro," belonging to J. L. Griffith, which will appear each afternoon of Jerome county fair.

Thompson announced rules concerning the horsepulling contest to be staged the afternoon of Aug. 19. There will be entries in two weight divisions, 3,000 pounds and over and 3,000 pounds and under.

Teams will be hitched to a stone block filled with sacks of cement. Drivers may have own double-teams arranged to suit themselves. Length of the pulling distance is 50 feet. No one will be allowed to use any force to encourage the animals.

Lungeing also is allowed and in the event of a third lunge, the team will be disqualified.

Mr. Thompson also stated he had contracted with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lillibridge, owners of the famed high school horses, Banjo and Silver, to appear. This will be their final appearance in Idaho.

The Cole sisters, Wanda and Wilma Jean, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cole, will appear with their trained pony act on each afternoon as a free attraction. Wilma Jean last year was winner of the American Legion baby contest in Twin Falls.

Siebrand Brothers' three-thing Piccadilly circus and carnival will be at the fair. On the final evening fireworks will be shot off.

Meeting Wednesday, Jerome merchants voted to close stores the first afternoon, Aug. 17, from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday will be east end day, with Eden and Hazelton accorded special attention. Saturday is children's day. Each Jerome county school child will be admitted free, accompanied by his parents.

JOB FINDERS USE CO-OP SYSTEMS

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—The Young Men's Christian association here has developed an organization of unemployed men who, in their spare time, find work for themselves, find work for each other.

The group, whose membership averages 600 to 800 members, is directed by Victor Griffin, 56-year-old Y. M. C. A. employment chief who has been helping Y. M. C. A. men find jobs for 20 years.

Called the Job Finders' club, the organization has obtained an average of 2,000 positions a year for the 3,500 to 3,700 men who seek Griffin's help annually in their hunt for work.

Griffin describes the club as a "co-operative group of job hunters, who buy the spirits of each other and themselves, by helping the other fellow all the time."

Jobs usually obtained by leads found in the job seekers' daily search are clerical, sales, office, stenographic, bookkeeping and accounting and sometimes skilled machinists. Applicants are high school graduates and sometimes college graduates with special training.

Employers Lend Aid

During the winter, the club holds monthly meetings, always attended by some employed men and usually by a few employers. The meetings, with 150 to 200 participating, discuss their problems and exchange ideas.

A former member, who has risen to success, presides at the meetings. Griffin says the club was founded because of the axiom that "necessity is the mother of invention." It was in March, 1931, at the ebb of the depression that a group of idle work seekers were in Griffin's office discussing the futility of their search.

One of the fellows said he had run across a job for a machinist, but he was not one and the change didn't do him any good. There was a machinist among the group and he said he would go after the job, Griffin said.

"The machinist got the job, and I got the idea. I decided there was a lot to be gained if all the unemployed men cooperated and passed along tips as they picked them up while interviewing employers."

He started to press the idea and got immediate response.

Honor Roll Posted

He posted an "honor roll" in his headquarters as an incentive for the club's members. Each man who passed along a successful "tip" to another gets his name posted. But his name can go on the scroll only once a year regardless of the number of jobs he obtains for others.

J. J. Church, 24, of Texas, presently a "honor roll" champion, having developed 34 jobs in 10 days. Young Church, who studied three years at a Texas college and wanted to earn enough money to finance completion of his education, now is working in a display and advertising shop.

Griffin says the "most important" place about the club—besides its employment record of more than 30 per cent—is the way in which it lifts the spirits of despondent job seekers.

"When they find a job for another fellow," he said, "they feel they really are a useful factor to society, after all."

The club has a 20-piece orchestra, composed of its own members, and extends full Y. M. C. A. privileges to members. It has no financial problems because it is a part of the regular employment bureau of the Y. M. C. A.

Dispelling the Fog

By CHARLES MICHOLSON
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

The more I read, the deeper am I impressed with the variety and extent of the information possessed by the newspaper columnists who comment on events governmental and political.

For a long time I thought Frank Kent had the inside track through the famous presidential intimate who not only reported all the White House confidential conversations to him, but who even transmitted the unspoken thoughts of the President.

Some of them that even the chief executive did not know he entertained.

But now I am inclined to think that Mark Sullivan has a little edge on Mr. Kent. Mr. Sullivan the other day, in the course of his survey of the terrible plight of the Democratic party, mentioned that everybody knew of the rift between the President and James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee. I am afraid this is not quite accurate, perhaps, the columnist who said that everybody knew of the feud except Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley.

Mr. McNutt

Mr. Sullivan explained that the trouble started over Paul McNutt, who, according to the story, had failed to come across for Roosevelt with the Indiana delegation in the 1932 convention. Anybody, except a columnist, would be apt to make might have expected that it would be the President who would be sore at that, but promptly on the termination of McNutt's term as governor of Indiana, the President appointed him to the biggest, or at least, the highest paid job in the gift of the federal administration—the commissioner of the Philippines.

That was two or three years ago, and it is not on record that the President and the national chairman ceased speaking to each other. But it was apparently to Mr. McNutt's more recent appointment that Mr. Sullivan was addressing himself in describing the "feud."

Now I don't know if Mr. Farley ever knew or thought anything about the federal security administration, but, for a moment, it may appear, every now and then the President desires these things for himself.

Episode of the Chin

A minor incident gives me another aid to me, more impressive evidence of the wide knowledge and accuracy of information and deduction of Mark Sullivan. He was commenting on a White House press conference and referred to the President's composure when he was asked about recent events in the house of representatives.

"That," wrote Mr. Sullivan, "was in contrast with Charles Michelson. On this occasion he betrayed nervousness of the poker player's unconscious device of covering his mouth with his hand, with fingers and thumb holding the features set to conceal expression and guard against any sudden flush of unwanted emotion."

There is no use trying to conceal anything from these psychologists. Until I read it, I had supposed that my nature was due to my having nicked my chin while shaving with an unfamiliar razor on an incoming plane that morning, and that I was tenderly feeling the scraped place. While on this subject of myself, it is brought to my mind that whenever there is a difference of opinion between the President and another Democrat—according to the columnist—the heavens creak, thunder roar, the world trembles, and the Democratic party has a convulsion.

It just occurs to me that I earnestly hoped the President would veto the Hatch bill, and he signed it. He hadn't poured me yet, and neither have I gone over to the Republicans.

Fact and Fable

Now to get away from fooling and get back to facts. The latest offering I have seen from the G. O. P. propaganda factory informs the public that the New Deal policies have destroyed enterprise and eliminated profits. "Many business enterprises," the hand-out "have been unable to get away from the edge of bankruptcy." The publication is particularly concerned about the fate of insurance companies.

The Wall Street Journal, that revels that earnings of 21 steel makers increased to more than twelve million dollars, compared with a deficit of nine and a half millions for the corresponding period of 1938.

General Motors reports selling 50,000 more cars in June of this year than in June last year. Nine manufacturers of building material and equipment announced that they had doubled their net profits in the same period.

Still the assaults of the New Deal insist that our country is going to the dogs and that nothing can save us from a total economic collapse but the election of a Republican to the presidency.

Perhaps they will accept the advice of the Hearst newspapers in the west and nominate to composing the regeneration, restoration and recovery—that eminent statesman, Hamilton Fish of New York.

JEROME COUNTY FAIR

The COUNTY FAIR returns to Jerome County—it's the first in eight years and every effort has been made to make it bigger and better. Plan now to attend all three days and evenings—there are features galore at every session!

MEMORIAL RITES HONOR DEPARTED

With the church crowded to capacity, members of the American Legion and auxiliary the 40 and 8 and the 8 and 40, as well as the general public last night paid tribute to those of the Legion who died since the last state convention.

The memorial services, in charge of Wilton Peck, were held in the Methodist church at 8 p. m. Assistant Mr. Peck in the arrangements was Alta Dekey, chairwoman, auxiliary memorial committee.

Address at the services was given by Rev. Paul DeR. Mortimore, state chaplain, while I. Q. Wood, past national chaplain, gave invocation and benediction.

Names of departed comrades were called by J. D. (Cyr) Price, Malad, state commander.

Outside-Heart Baby Succumbs

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 14 (AP)—Maria Carazon Rafael, who was born last Monday with her heart outside her body and amazed the medical world by her stubborn fight for survival, died today.

A college of noted Philippine surgeons who had been in constant attendance announced the cause of death as cyanosis, or a lack of oxygen in the blood stream.

Baby Maria lived through her last two days under a mechanical "lung."

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

WITH JUDAS

IN JERUSALEM

Jerusalem in the days before the Crucifixion—a city teeming with people, a city torn by hatred, fear, its city rejoicing in the coming of the Savior. This is the picture Eric Linklater skillfully depicts in his novel "Judas" (Farrar and Rinehart). Judas explains his motives for betraying Christ in the following quotation:

"I did what I did because I had to. Not for money. All the money in the world couldn't have paid me for what I did. You say I loved Him, and that's true. Truer than you think. Because I loved Him as a child loves anything that gives it life."

"He gave me peace of heart. . . . But then I saw it was true, and I did change. He said, long ago, that He had not come to bring peace but a sword, but I didn't believe Him. . . . He had said 'Blessed are the peacemakers. Blessed are the meek.' . . . He had no need for swords."

"But then I saw it was true, and I was going to set a man against his father, and make his household his enemies. And that was not peace but war and death. And how could I love death and the teaching of death?"

"So I gave Him up, and I saved the people from death. I gave Him up, though I loved Him, and I saved the life of all the people of the city."

MURALS OF 1780 FOUND IN HOUSE

ROCKPORT, Mass. (AP)—Murals apparently painted in the days just after the American revolution have been uncovered in an old Smith street home.

Buried under four layers of wallpaper for several generations, the murals, quaint in design and of antiquarian value, were found when decorators cleaned the walls preparatory to re-papering.

Mrs. Marian J. Cooney, whose family owned the house for many years, was unaware of the murals' presence. The stock of new wallpaper she had selected to cover the small parlor's walls never will be used.

Identity of the artist who created the work is not known, although Mrs. Eliza S. Moore, 88, recalled that the builder, George Knowlton, had a daughter who was artistically inclined.

The paintings were believed to have been executed about 180 years ago as the two flags crossed over an apple tree and a bunch of doves, contained 13 stars and 13 bars each. Figures in this mural and those on the other three walls are stiff, but attractive.

Most interesting of the panels is one depicting a farm worker at a well who lifts an oaken bucket on his lips as a small blue dog looks on. A three-pronged pitchfork lies on the ground and in the distance can be seen two houses of the salt-box type—one side of the roof being longer than the other.

U. S. TROOPERS IN MOCK BATTLE

IN THE FIELD, NEAR MAYAGUAS, P. R., Aug. 14 (AP)—Stimulating actual wartime conditions, 22,000 troops moved into position today for a mythical battle designed to test the army's ability to defend the nation's capital from a highly-streamlined invading force.

Two national guard divisions comprising approximately 16,000 officers and men, checked on the historic battlefields of Manassas and Bull Run with an invading force of 6,000 army regulars representing the troops of foreign powers which hypothetically have taken possession of most of the eastern seaboard.

The crucial battle for possession of Washington began at dawn. The clash signaled the start of mock warfare involving 61,000 guardsmen and regulars—the largest concentration of active military forces on U. S. soil since the Civil war.

Wallace-Ewer Rites Feature Pink Decor

Fashionable petal pink rather than traditional white, was the color Miss Eunice Ewer selected for her wedding gown when she became the bride this morning of Gerald R. Wallace at a ceremony fraught with sentiment.

Rev. James Millar, head of the department of religious education at the College of Idaho, and Bible teacher of the couple during their college days, officiated at the single ring ceremony, performed at 11:30 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Wallace, 746 Second avenue north. Rev. Millar and Mr. Wallace made a trip abroad together a few years ago, studying at Oxford university.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Joseph B. Ewer, Nyssa, Ore., who, in company with Mrs. Ewer, arrived in Twin Falls yesterday. Also among the 21 guests, members of the immediate families, was Miss Gertrud Rasmussen, Copenhagen, Denmark, who was attending her first American wedding.

All-Pink Wedding
Denver pink gladioli combined with greenery, made an interesting background for the delicate shade of the bride's gown as she and the bridegroom pledged vows at an improvised altar arranged before the large bay window in the living room. White cathedral tapers burned in candelabra at the opposite side of the room.

She wore a petal pink chiffon wide-brimmed redingote over pink tulle, covered from the throat to the waistline with minute buttons, and styled with a floor length skirt, a quilted high-bow-tied neck and short full sleeves.

Her finger-tip veil of gossamer net was held in place with a wreath of tiny pink and blue French flowers, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Jewel Token
As the "something borrowed" of her nuptial ensemble, Miss Ewer wore a "Star of Bethlehem" necklace, both the chain and the medallion being of exquisite hand-carved mother-of-pearl. It was brought from Palestine to his mother, Mrs. Wallace, by the bridegroom.

On the eve of the wedding, the bride was presented with a duplicate necklace by her prospective mother-in-law, Mr. Wallace having purchased paired necklaces. They are available at only one place in the area, a shop close to the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. Ewer, W. Smith, Bethlehem, Wash., formerly Miss Nellie Ewer, sang an old English folk number, "A Song of You," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Delbert Applegate, Caldwell, formerly Miss Marian Ewer. They are sisters of the bride. The same song was sung at the wedding of Mrs. Applegate, Miss Ewer playing the accompaniment at that ceremony.

Wedding Attendants
Miss Verna Watt, intimate friend of the bride, and Austin Wallace, brother of the bridegroom, completed the wedding party as maid of honor and best man.

The honor attendant's frock was a picture-perfect model of delectable pink, the full skirt marked by elegant pockets of pink and blue flowers, with which she wore an old-fashioned sweetheart hat of pink and blue posies, tied with pink streamers.

She carried an old-fashioned round bouquet of pink and blue blossoms in a lace cuff.

The bridesmaids were gowns of light blue. Mrs. Applegate, being a sister of the bride, wore a pink and blue dress, a slouchy chapeau. They wore gardenias in their hair.

Mrs. Ewer selected a street length pink lace afternoon dress for her daughter's mother. Mrs. Wallace was assisted in the fitting room by Mrs. Applegate, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Watt.

Receptions were extended the couple following the ceremony. Refreshments were served buffet style from a table covered with a hand-painted Irish linen cloth, purchased by Mr. Wallace in Ireland, while he was abroad.

In the dining room, as elsewhere throughout the home were baskets of pink gladioli. Pink garden flowers, backed by holly white tapers, centered the table. The bride cut the tied wedding cake.

Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Ormsby presided at the reception table while Mrs. Watt was assisted in the fitting room by Mrs. Applegate, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Watt.

Present in addition to the couple, the officiating minister, the attendants and bridesmaids, were the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Wallace, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Ewer, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wallace, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Gertrud Rasmussen, Copenhagen, Denmark, who was attending her first American wedding.

Trio of Parties Given to Honor Boise Visitor

Much-told during her brief visit in southern Idaho, Mrs. Elbert Shaw returned Saturday to Boise, accompanied by her husband, who shared honors with her at a pinetree party, one evening last week.

The honorees are here on a vacation visit. Twenty guests, members of the Thonet and Giese families, Mr. and Mrs. T. Asendrup, Burley, family, Burley, are present. Gladys and Jimmie in colorful hues, turned the table decorations.

Today the visitors, the Giese and the Thonet families, enjoyed a picnic at Sun Valley and adjacent points. A picnic at Shoshone falls Friday morning, a trip to the Snake river, other scenic spots have also entertained the vacationers.

The hostesses presented the honorees with a gift. Younger members of the group attended the theater and the adults spent the time socially.

Making up the party were the hostesses, the honorees, Mrs. Hattie Fuller, Mrs. D. E. Ryan and her daughter, Jean Brink, entertained at dinner in honor of Mrs. Kathleen Dodd, who will leave soon for Salt Lake City to take up nursing training.

The no-hostess supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Fuller, chairman of the arrangements.

Bridal Pair Observes Tradition of Baseball

With all the solemnity and dignity that attend a church or home wedding, Miss Lila Ling, Pullman, Wash., and Ernest L. Bishop, second baseman on the Cowboys' baseball team, Twin Falls member of the Pioneer league, will be united in marriage Wednesday evening, Aug. 16, at 8 o'clock at Jaycee park, immediately preceding the Twin Falls-Salt Lake baseball game.

Miss Ling, whose facial resemblance to Rosalind Russell is striking, arrived last evening from Washington to assist in the completion of plans for her marriage. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ling, Pullman, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gwinn Parrott, Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Ling, Mrs. Gwinn Parrott, Mrs. Bishop, Klamath Falls, Ore., mother of the bridegroom, will also be a wedding guest. She will arrive tomorrow.

Baseball Tradition
Just as the army and navy have traditional ceremonies, incident to the marriage of one of their numbers, so do the players of the "great American game," baseball.

The big-league wedding of the bride at the Jaycee park, and following the exchange of marriage vows, the pair leaves the baseball diamond under an archway of crossed baseball bats.

Such will be the procedure followed for the Bishop-Ling nuptials Wednesday evening.

Garden setting
Rev. Mark C. Cronenberg, pastor of the Christian church, will officiate at the ceremony. A garden setting will be observed. The bride, accompanied by her father, and preceded by her attendants, will enter the baseball diamond at first base.

She will proceed on a winding way, situated at the pitcher's box, and proceed down a garden pathway to home plate, preceded by her sister, Mrs. Parrott, as matron of honor, and Miss Verna Anderson, as bridesmaid. Members of the two teams will form an arch of crossed bats under which the bridal party will march to the altar.

Clyde "Corky" Carlson will attend the bridegroom as best man. Other members of the bridal party will be young four-year-old Pat Daly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Daly, on ring bearer, and a flower girl, whose name will be announced later.

Decorative details are being supervised by Walter Peterson.

Nuptial Music
An orchestra, directed by Richard Smith, music supervisor of music at the Twin Falls high school, will play the wedding processional and recessional. Vocal music will be provided by W. W. Thomas.

Since the wedding is an outdoor affair, Miss Ling has selected an all-white two-piece sports dress with touches of green for her wedding attire.

With it, she will wear a white off-the-shoulder and white linen shoes. She will carry a round bouquet featuring pink and white flowers.

The bridegroom and best man will wear their baseball uniforms as is customary in this big league.

College Romance
Wednesday's marriage culminates a Washington state college campus romance. Miss Ling, who attended the college three years, was a member of Alpha Delta Pi.

Her husband, during his college days was the Delta Upsilon house. He was graduated from the college in 1936.

Southern Idaho baseball fans, their numbers augmented to fans, grandmothers and auxiliary members, will be regaled with a well-attended and a post-reception party, will witness the ceremony.

And Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Carlson were the hosts for the wedding. Refreshments were served at quarter tables colorfully appointed in pottery.

FAREWELL DINNER
HONORS KATHLEEN DODD
Mrs. D. E. Ryan and her daughter, Jean Brink, entertained at dinner in honor of Mrs. Kathleen Dodd, who will leave soon for Salt Lake City to take up nursing training.

The no-hostess supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Fuller, chairman of the arrangements.

Heroine in Rescue

BREATHS OF 18-year-old Cynthia Chapin, above of Hartford, Conn., brought fog-bound to rescue of 32 companions in capsize cabin cruiser off New York. Coast guard, she swam a quarter mile through fog and darkness in Long Island sound until her cries attracted attention.

Louise Lunte Wed In Buhl Ceremony

BUHL, Aug. 14 (Special)—Miss Louise Lunte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lunte, and Paul Stroberg were united in marriage at high noon Friday at the home of the bride's parents.

Single ring service was read by Rev. J. D. Hadden, pastor of the Christian church. The bride was given in marriage by her father, immediately preceding the ceremony Miss Betty Lunte, cousin of the bride, played "At Dawning" and the Lutheran hymn.

Bride wore a floor length gown of white marquisette, with a long white tulle veil falling from a coronet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. She carried a mixed bouquet of pastel roses.

Bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Mesley, wore a gown of blue net of floor length and carried a bouquet of mixed blue and white flowers. Vernon Stroberg, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Wedding dinner was served from three large dining room tables, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, which the bride cut and served.

The couple chose as the wedding date the 35th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. The bride graduated from Buhl high school in the class of 1938. Mr. Stroberg attended school in Nebraska.

They left for a trip through Nebraska and will make their home near Buhl.

She carried an old-fashioned round bouquet of pink and blue blossoms in a lace cut.

The nuptials were solemnized by Rev. Miller, who wore a white shirt and a white vest, and a white tie, and a white bow tie.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom were seated at a table covered with a hand-painted blue linen cloth, purchased by Mr. Wallace in Belfast, Ireland, while he was abroad.

In the dining room, as elsewhere throughout the home, were baskets of pink gladiolus. Pink garden flowers, bunched by lighted white tapers, centered the table. The bride cut the first wedding cake.

Miss Wallace, who was seated at the head of the table, presided at the retirement table. She was assisted by Mrs. Applegate, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Watt.

Present in addition to the couple, the officiating minister, the attendants and maidens, were the parents of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Mary Walker, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Nellie Grady, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John and Richard, Mrs. Mary and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller and Mr. Applegate, Caldwell, Mrs. Applegate, Buhl, grandmother of the bride, and Miss Thompson, Copenhagen, sister of John Thompson.

College Classmates
Buhl, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace are graduates of the College of Idaho, where they were on social and dining tables together. Prominent in all phases of campus activities during their college years, Mr. Wallace was a delegate for the College scholarship, being eliminated at Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. Wallace was winner of the Elks senior scholarship. The bride was a member of the Beta Beta Beta sorority of the University of California.

Mr. Wallace was supervisor of music in the Twin Falls schools last year. The first teaching position was at Middleton, followed by two years' music and English instruction at the Twin Falls Junior high school. He taught in Boise for one year prior to returning last year to Twin Falls.

Mr. Wallace, winner of a scholarship, was the first to be established in Idaho, France, in 1927.

The bridegroom wore his bride at the home plate, and following the exchange of marriage vows, the pair leaves the baseball diamond under an archway of crossed baseball bats. Such will be the procedure followed for the Bishop-Ling nuptials Wednesday evening.

Garden Setting
Rev. Mark C. Cronenberg, pastor of the Christian church, will officiate at the ceremony. A garden setting will be observed. The bride, accompanied by her father, and preceded by her attendants, will enter the baseball diamond at first base. She will proceed to a waiting well, situated at the pitcher's box, and progress down a garden pathway to home plate, preceded by her sister, Mrs. Parrott, as maid of honor, and Miss Vivian Anderson, as bridesmaid. Members of the two teams will form an arch of crossed bats under which the bridal party will march to the altar.

Clyde "Curly" Carlson will attend the bridegroom as best man. Other members of the bridal party will be young four-year-old Pat Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Day, as ring bearer, and a flower girl, whose name will be announced later. Decorative details are being supervised by William Ling.

Nuptial Music
An orchestra, directed by Richard Smith, new supervisor of music at the Twin Falls high school, will play the wedding processionals and recessionals. Vocal music will be provided by W. W. Thompson.

Since the marriage is outdoors, Miss Ling has selected an all-white two-piece sports dress with a touch of green for her wedding attire.

With it she will wear a white off-the-shoulder and white linen shoes. She will carry a round bouquet featuring white and green.

The bridegroom and best man will wear their baseball uniforms, with customary "big league" insignia have been marked at home plate.

College Romance
Wednesday's marriage culminates a Washington State college campus romance. Miss Ling, who attended the college three years, was a member of Alpha Delta Pi.

Her residence during her college days was the Delta Upsilon house. He was graduated from the college in 1954.

Southern Idaho baseball fans, their numbers augmented by Legionnaires and auxiliary members, who are regarding it with interest as a post-education activity, will witness the ceremony.

Heroine in Rescue

Screams of 19-year-old Cynthia Chapin, above, of Hartford, Conn., brought tugboat to rescue of 32 companions in capsized sailing cruiser off Branford, Conn., after she swam a quarter mile through fog and darkness in Long Island sound until her cries attracted attention.

Louise Lunte Wed

In Buhl Ceremony

BUHL, Aug. 14 (Special)—Miss Louise Lunte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lunte, and Paul Stroberg were united in marriage at high noon Friday at the home of the bride's parents.

Single ring service was read by Rev. J. D. Hardin, pastor of the Christian church. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Immediately preceding the ceremony Miss Betty Lunte, cousin of the bride, played "At Dawning" and the Lohengrin wedding march.

Bride wore a floor length gown of white marquisette, with a long white veil falling from the crown of gardenias and lilies of the valley. She carried a mixed bouquet of pastel gossamer.

Bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Mesley, wore a gown of blue net of floor length and carried a bouquet of gardenias and white flowers. Vernon Stroberg, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Wedding dinner was served from the large dining room table, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, which the bride cut and served.

The couple chose as the wedding date the 35th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. The bride graduated from Buhl high school with the class of 1959. Mr. Stroberg attended school in Nebraska.

They left for a trip through Nebraska and will make their home near Buhl.

Trio of Parties Given to Honor Boise Visitor

Much-feted during her brief visit in southern Idaho, Mrs. Elbert Shaw returned Saturday to Boise, accompanied by her husband, who shared honors with her at a pinocchio party one evening last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hertsch, Mr. Shaw, who was formerly Miss Gladys Kelsey, Twin Falls, was the inspiration for a charmingly appointed tea one afternoon last week, and also for a miscellaneous bridal shower.

Hostesses at the tea were Mrs. H. H. Fisher, Kimberly, aunt of the recent bride, and Mrs. Miss Kelsey, her mother, at the Piler home. Mrs. Evangeline White and Mrs. Pete Sand arranged the shower at the home of the former.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are at home to their friends at 1114 1/2 First street, Boise. They have been home guests at the H. H. Piler home during their visit in this section of the state.

From Six Towns

Guests from six towns, Twin Falls, Piler, Hollister, Burley, and Kimberly, welcomed Mrs. Shaw at the tea. Miss Alice Porter, Twin Falls, played background music throughout the reception.

Mrs. Fred Parrott, Buhl, and Mrs. Eleanor Buhl, Boise, presided at the tea. The table was decorated with a box of crystal bowl of "Follies" roses. Illumination was provided by pastel pink tapers in two candleholders.

The hostess was assisted with baskets of garden flowers for the occasion.

Mrs. Shaw, who formerly taught at Piler, has been a faculty member of Boise schools the past few years. Mr. Shaw is associated with the government procurement bureau in Boise.

Guests included Mrs. P. T. Parrott and Mrs. Walter Wright, Buhl; Miss Ruth Buhl, Boise; Mrs. H. H. Fisher, Kimberly; Mrs. Mabel Crouse, Piler; Mrs. G. C. Graves, Mrs. N. P. Anderson, Mrs. E. F. ### Farrell Singles

Last night, with the score knotted at 5-all as the last half of the ninth inning rolled around, Ernie Bishop started off the inning by striking out. Verne Reynolds flied out to left field and then George Farrell was safe on a hit down to the left of shortstop. McNamce strode to the plate and Sandel, on the mound for Pocatello, threw three straight balls.

Saturday night saw the Twin Falls club rally in much the same way as they did in the Sunday tilt. With the count tied at 4-all, George Farrell walked and then McNamara came through with his home run in the last half of the ninth to tuck the game away.

EIGHTEEN STATES JOIN TO STABILIZE OIL INDUSTRY

CONFERENCE TO BE ORDERED TO GET PROTECTION

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 14 (AP)—State executives, governing agencies and producer representatives in most of the 18 oil producing states joined today in seeking immediate measures to stabilize the industry in the face of a general crude price reduction directly or indirectly affecting the economic welfare of millions.

The 20-cent a barrel reduction in crude prices inaugurated Wednesday by the Sinclair-Petroleum Marketing company had been followed with similar reductions by virtually every crude processor represented in the meeting.

The wholesale action lowered the tax income of at least a dozen states, played havoc with small producers, and the budgets of tens of thousands of oil field workers and indirectly affected other millions in the midcontinent area where oil rivals agriculture as the principal source of income.

Loss in Taxes

It was estimated that should the reduction be continued a year it would mean a loss of nearly a half billion dollars in tax revenues to oil producing states. In Texas alone, from where approximately 40 per cent of American oil production is piped, the loss would total annually about $100,000,000.

Although Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel was in constant communication with the chief executives of several other southwestern states and the Texas railroad commission, governing body for oil production in the vast Texas fields, had voiced a prior desire take drastic action only in conjunction with similar agencies in other states affected, the commission today moved to clamp a paralyzing shutdown order on every field in the state, halting the output of $7,000 wells.

Similar Steps

Governing bodies in Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and, perhaps, Arkansas, were expected to take similar, if not so drastic, action. However, reports from those states indicated a desire on the part of state and producer officials for unified action.

Gov. Payne Ratner of Kansas telegraphed the chief executives of 10 states proposing an interstate conference in an attempt to alleviate what many of them described as "the worst crisis in the industry in a decade." He said today the response had been gratifying and it was indicated the governors would meet with the interstate oil compact commission when it convenes in extraordinary session tomorrow in Oklahoma City.

Reason for Boost

The Sinclair reduction announcement which precipitated the industry-wide cut and only in explanation that it was in line with a statement by Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the company's board of directors, to the effect that refining prices were too small and that either the retail price should be raised or the crude lowered.

A retail price boost had been attempted in certain sections, the announcement added. Companies following the Sinclair cut with reductions of from three cents to 32 cents a barrel demanded the action as necessary to meet competition.

PRESIDENT SEES SALVAGE BATTLE

ABOARD THE YACHT MARY CHILTON, OFF PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 14 (AP)—Vice President Roosevelt's personal message of "Well done," navy salvagers hoped to lift the sunken submarine Squalus and its 26 dead men 100 feet nearer the surface tomorrow or Wednesday.

Divers sought to adjust the topmost pontoons downward so the second lift would raise the Squalus 100 feet above the uncharted mudbank on which it grounded while being towed shoreward Saturday.

President Roosevelt arrived yesterday afternoon aboard the cruiser Thetis and stayed an hour and a half. Though commander-in-chief of the navy, he insisted that he be considered an "ordinary sight-seer."

After the second lift the submarine will be towed five miles to a sandy bottom, nine miles off Portsmouth between the Isles of Shoals and the mainland north of Rye.

Only one other lift and tow was expected to be needed then to dry-dock her at Portsmouth navy yard where the 26 bodies will be removed.

4 DRIVERS NAMED FOR SAFETY ACT

Jerome, Wendell, Rupert and Burley motorists were named winners today of $25 safety awards for the week ending Aug. 12.

Only the Wendell driver, however, received the cash prize because the other three had not qualified in the Safety Legion sponsored by two gas and oil firms. The Wendell man was a sandy bottom, nine miles off Portsmouth between the Isles of Shoals and the mainland north of Rye.

Another $100 in prizes will be awarded next week for the seven days ending Aug. 19. Sponsors are Idaho Southern Gas and Oil and Covey Gas and Oil. George P. Childs, manager of the former concern, urged drivers to secure entry cards which require no purchases.

DANZIG LEADER VISITS FUEHRER

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Great Britain has been officially informed that Dr. Karl J. Burckhardt, League of Nations high commissioner for Danzig, left Danzig for Berchtesgaden, Germany, Friday night in compliance with an invitation by the German government.

Belief was expressed here that Burckhardt had conferred with Adolf Hitler at the Nazi Fuehrer's mountain villa near Berchtesgaden and had now returned to Danzig. Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, and Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, conferred with Hitler Saturday afternoon and yesterday morning.

Notifies England

A few hours before he left for Berchtesgaden, Burckhardt notified the British foreign office he was going.

A British spokesman explained that in its capacity as high commissioner, Burckhardt was authorized to discuss only Danzig.

The notification was made confidentially and officially to Great Britain as secretary of the league committee of three nations in Danzig, France and Sweden or the other nations.

It was understood that immediately on his return to Danzig Burckhardt would confer with Marjan Chodacki, Polish diplomatic representative for Danzig, and Arthur Greiser, president of the senate, the ruling body of the free city.

No Report

The foreign office had as yet received no report from Burckhardt on his conversations with Hitler.

Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, was expected back in London today to study the Danzig and other situations.

Burckhardt, a Swiss who is internationally respected, has been mentioned frequently as a potentially valuable man if ever a way was found to start negotiations on the Danzig problem.

come to Twin Falls

SO THOSE WOMEN who attach importance to quality, this will be welcome news, for there is no finer line of shoes than I. MILLER's. We are proud that we shall present an adequate selection of I. MILLER shoes at the same time they appear at Fifth Avenue and in Hollywood. Each season I. MILLER creates exciting new colors which set the pace for the country—colors which are perfectly keyed to costume colors. This season is no exception—and we sincerely invite you to come in and see for yourself! You'll agree I. MILLER is a leader in quality and styling!

open toes this fall?

closed toes this fall?

More than ever in I. MILLER's! They're featured in free-fitting toes...designed to forewarn your foot just as this step-in pump in brown suede with brown calf trim with. It's a popular spectator style.

what for out-of-doors?

Fall is an out-of-doors season...and I. MILLER responds with a walking type shoe that combines a rugged style with discreet attractiveness. The rag heel is new and the brown calf with brown suede trim is a delightful combination.
