ROOSEVELT PROCLAIMS STATE OF LIMITED NATIONAL EMERGENCY

Rodeo, Thrills Bring East End Visitors to Fair

FILER FAIRGROUNDS, Sept. 8 (Special)—Heading down the home stretch toward final events Saturday, the county fair observed East End day today, with Kimberly, Hansen and Murtaugh sending large delegations for the special day.

Schools and stores were closed in the towns participating in the event, and it was expected the crowd would reach a peak in the late afternoon and again for a third performance of the rodeo starting at 8 p. m.

East end representatives attending the fair today had their last chance to witness the "Cavaliers of Thrills" presented before the grandstand by Capt. Jerry Edwards. Saturday the program will be replaced by the Idaho state "Tin Lize" championship derby.

Finals in the rodeo will be held tomorrow night. In the meantime, special free attractions presented on the midway continued to draw large crowds.

Crowds thronged to the produce exhibits to examine prize displays. Honors for displaying the largest sugar beet went to Gals Bevecombs of Twin Falls who exhibited a beet weighing 11 pounds, eight ounces.

Largest ear of corn. The longest ear of corn was 16 inches in length. It was grown by W. G. Holmes of Filer, a member of the Cedar Draw Grange.

Large melons on exhibition. A. T. Greed of Filer displayed the largest melon. Judges said that only 41 of the vegetables were required to fill a 50-pound sack.

Community winners. Filer Grange exhibited in the community department was awarded two first places, for completeness and for quality. First in the third division, artistic arrangement, was awarded to the Hansen exhibit.

In the quality class, Cedar Draw Grange drew a second-place rating and Fairview placed third. Besides the first for artistic arrangement, Hansen Grange also was awarded a second for completeness and a third for quality.

Kimberly Grange won second and Fairview third place for artistic arrangement.

Other exhibits in the community division were entered by Hollister, Knott, Northview, Mountain Rock, Twin Falls and Clover Grange, and the Future Farmers of America.

MEETING PLANNED ON PEDDLER LAW

Final decision as to the stand of Twin Falls business toward enforcement of the "Aberdeen ordinance" was decided in a letter from Earl G. Reed, president of the chamber of commerce, to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce, advising that a general meeting of the merchants' bureau, next week, it was announced today at the Chamber of Commerce directorship gathering in the Rogerson hotel.

The ordinance, if approved and if enacted by the city council in Twin Falls, would practically abolish door-to-door peddling and other forms of itinerant hawking. Exemptions would permit farmers, growing their own produce, to sell it in the city to housewives.

Urges Study. Judson Clark, merchants' bureau chairman, advised C. O. G. directors that R. F. Robinson was named chairman of a committee to study the ordinance. The board of directors will meet on Wednesday evening. Date of the bureau meeting then will be fixed on open consideration of the peddler measure.

Valuation of the chamber secretary. Comments are to be in by Wednesday evening. Date of the bureau meeting then will be fixed on open consideration of the peddler measure.

One of the outstanding agricultural engineers of America will visit Twin Falls Oct. 4, the chamber was advised in a letter from Earl G. Reed, Omaha, Union Pacific supervisor of agricultural and industrial development. The expert is expected to see the city's agricultural extension work for the R. I.

On Both FRONTS

Today's rival claims in the European war:

Rodeo Finals—High command reports stage of Warsaw started with bombing of bridges as Nazi forces move closer than three directions: German drive from south reportedly reaches Minsk, 25 miles from Warsaw, while other drives approached within 20 miles on north and northwest with Russian moving up at greatest distance from west and southwest; another drive, parallel to Slovakian border, seeking to cut off Polish forces between Lublin, to which the government fled, and Rumanian border; Pomeranian (border) now being "mopped up"; action on French front minimized.

ALGERIA—French claim attacks on German-held Algerian defenses. Told division of 100,000 Nazi forces from Poland to main fortified line, French increasing pressure on German forward positions in Saar region into big-scale battle; British military observers say the fact that German claim to have captured only 20,000 men and 126 artillery pieces in Poland shows Polish armies still intact, although admittedly in precarious position.

IDAHOANS OPPOSE NEUTRALITY SHIFT

BOISE, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—The entire Idaho delegation in congress will resist vigorously any attempt by President Roosevelt to revise the neutrality act, Congressmen Henry Dworshak, R. Ida., asserted.

An overwhelming majority of Idahoans favor preserving American peace based on neutrality, Dworshak said he discovered during a statewide tour during which he contacted a cross-section of his constituents.

The Monroe Doctrine is a bi-lateral agreement which obligates America to stay out of European affairs as well as prohibiting foreign nations from interfering in the western hemisphere, Dworshak said.

The present advances in commodity prices, particularly wheat, will benefit Idaho farmers, Dworshak predicted.

Domestic Business

Registers Advance NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—Domestic business took the grim face of European war in stride this week and advanced, continued strong in both retail and wholesale markets, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today.

The trade authority estimated that sales for the country as a whole experienced an average gain of 4 to 11 per cent over the corresponding 1938 week, and reported that wholesale markets in some instances had their most active weeks in years.

POLISH CENTER TAKEN

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, JR.

BERLIN, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—The German high command issued a radio bulletin tonight saying that Nazi mechanized forces had entered Warsaw after brief fighting.

The fall of the Polish capital after just a week of war was triumphantly announced by radio to the German people.

Capture of the city of Sandomir (Sandomierski), 55 miles southwest of the temporary Polish capital of Lublin, also was announced by Nazi military circles, which said German advances through the south of Poland threatened to cut off the normal line of Polish retreat toward Rumania.

Sandomir was described as the center of Polish armament industries.

The German advance, halted north of the city, had been moving up from the south to close the vise on the Polish capital. Prior to the announcement of the fall of Warsaw, the German high command had said that Nazi troops were in Sandomir, 14 miles southeast of the capital.

Brief but apparently bitter resistance by the Poles in the south-east of Warsaw was reported in the south before the German advance broke through with the use of tanks, armored cars and airplanes which raked Polish columns with machine gun fire.

The German troops had pushed eastward of Warsaw on the north and were rapidly encircling the city on the south. The German forces had been slowly occupying territory that was controlled by their twin thrusts toward the capital.

The announcement that Warsaw had fallen also closed a great loop around the rich Posen area of western Poland, where the German forces had been slowly occupying territory that was controlled by their twin thrusts toward the capital.

President Takes Power to Boost Army and Navy

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—President Roosevelt today proclaimed a state of limited national emergency.

The action was taken to strengthen United States neutrality in the European war and to bolster national defenses within the limits of peace time authorization.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was acting under his emergency powers which repose in a number of statutes. He did not specify the exact laws under which his proclamation was issued.

The President will follow the proclamation by executive orders by virtue of authority granted in the proclamation.

These will:

1. Make increases in army man power within the authorized peace strength by recruiting and calling back first line reserves.

2. Make similar man power increases in navy strength within peace time authorizations.

3. Provide increases in munitions capacity, personnel, and peace time authorizations.

4. Provide government investigative agencies with broader powers to combat propaganda subversive to the U. S. form of government and to prevent episodes such as occurred in 1914 and 1915 before America entered the World War.

Mr. Roosevelt today extended the U. S. proclamation of neutrality to include the Union of South Africa.

He explained that when he issued the original neutrality proclamations this government had been informed that South Africa had declared a state of war with Germany.

Extension of the neutrality proclamation, Mr. Roosevelt said, had been prepared Mr. Roosevelt said, but will not be proclaimed until and unless the Canadian parliament takes final action in declaring a state of war.

Peace Time Basis

It was made clear that the proclamation of limited emergency does not contemplate putting either the national defense or the national economy on a war time basis.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the proclamation was a peace time basis and that it would be on a peace time basis. He said he does not contemplate any steps which would go beyond peace time authorizations.

Mr. Roosevelt said it could be assumed that when he called the call of the peace time basis, he would ask it to repeal the mandatory embargo on shipments of arms to belligerents and little or nothing else.

Nazi and French Troops Engage in First Battle

Infantry Leads in Wooded Hills Fight

By RALPH HEINZEN

PARIS, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—A review of local operations on the Saar front widened today into the first battle of the French-German phase of the war.

French war communiqué No. 9, issued by the general staff at 11:30 a. m. (8:50 a. m. E.D.T.), said:

"We were able to achieve local advances of variable importance, substantially improving the conditions of our advance at certain points."

French divisions were thrown into action on the Saar river sector, where French pressure continued under protective shelling of his caliber artillery in the Maginot line.

The battle was fought chiefly by infantry, supported by hundreds of tanks on both sides. In

U. S. WARNS AGAINST PROFITEERING ON FOODSTUFFS

HOUSEWIVES TOLD RESERVE SUPPLY OF NATION HUGE

By FRED BAILEY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (U.P.)—The government assured housewives today that reserve supplies of foodstuffs are ample and said there is no excuse for any sharp increase in prices. It warned that vigorous action would be taken to prevent profiteering.

The price of sugar, meats, canned fruits and other commodities has risen markedly since the outbreak of war in Europe.

Officials said that some increase in living costs might be expected but that the sudden spurge in prices is unjustified.

No Reason for Boost

Especially in the sugar market, where prices have risen more than a cent per pound, is the increase without reason, experts said. They added that there was no danger that either war hysteria or monopolistic control would send the price of sugar to the heights of 1918-19, when it was rationed out to the public at 30 cents a pound. Before this would be permitted, they said, the market would be regulated by the lifting of import restrictions.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace blamed the general increase on "middlemen" and asked the federal department to study methods of preventing profiteering. Farmers, he said, have not benefited by the increased cost to consumers.

Wallace said the price increase may be largely due to the action of consumers themselves who are creating an abnormal demand.

He said he believed the majority of middlemen were as much concerned with the price increase as the government, realizing the implications of charges of profiteering.

"Scarcity Psychology"

Officials said that no evidence of "scarcity psychology" has been found, but that an unwarranted "scarcity psychosis" is being built up by price increases. In some towns, the government, realizing the implications of charges of profiteering.

Officials pointed out that reserve supplies are ample and said there is no excuse for any sharp increase in prices. It warned that vigorous action would be taken to prevent profiteering.

Farm crops, at least for a year or more, are not likely to show any considerable increase because of the war, agriculture department economists said. They said European nations which would not be able to obtain supplies from this country already had built up large reserves of food.

SIX NAVY FLIERS DIE WHEN GIANT BOMBER CRASHES

HUGE SHIP HITS RADIO AERIAL IN WESTERN FLIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The charred remains of six navy fliers were taken today from the ashes of a B-2 bomber, one of the navy's "flying dreadnaughts" which crashed late last night and exploded into a roaring inferno 10 miles east of the naval base.

The navy opened an investigation to determine cause of the crash.

Officials said they recovered six bodies from the ashes with-angled metal of the ill-fated craft. They were burned beyond recognition.

The crew aboard when the ship fouled ahead was a naval radio aerial several miles inland from its base and flustered helplessly to its doom a mile distance was identified by the navy as follows:

- Death List
- 1. Lt. A. H. Irons, Wilmington, Del.
 - 2. Ensign L. W. Latamore, Cambridge, Mass.
 - 3. V. E. Morris, aviation ordnance man second class, and naval pilot, Akron, O.
 - 4. H. G. Berry, radioman third class, Trumann, Ark.
 - 5. Frank Vukovich, aviation chief machinist's mate, Milwaukee, Wis.
 - 6. H. O. Wilson, aviation machinist's mate third class, Medford, Calif.

The plane was one of the navy's flying patrol of flying boats attached to squadron 12 at the great base here. It and five other ships had left the North Island ship early last evening on what the navy described as a "routine night practice flight."

The weather was clear, but the navy later became overcast and when the patrol turned back hours later the ceiling was only 700 feet.

Just what happened to the ill-fated bomber between the time it swung back toward the base and the beginning of its observed difficulty has not been established. It seemed apparent that it became lost, and with its fuel supply dwindling, it was in a dangerous position on the ground. It crashed 10 miles inland, its flight was first noticed by men at the naval radio station in Cholla Heights, East San Diego. The plane was wobbling out of the low lying clouds and struck either a radio aerial or a tree, careened crazily and crashed. Immediately attendants at the radio station heard a terrific bang and saw flames coming up from the brush canyon where it crashed.

Roaming at the Fair

By LOWELL DICK

Some fun! Seeing the county fair is a Hollywood with a blond on each arm and a society editor and a photographer bringing up the rear.

Cummun Slinky, let's get a couple of shots of Grange exhibits over in the produce building. (Slinky is the photographer, otherwise known as Pagin.) That's right, climb up on the table and just make yourself at home. Okay, shoot it now while there's no one in front of the exhibit. Hold it! How did everyone in the building get down here so fast?

Well, we got it, didn't we, Pagin? Say, Honey here is straying toward the carnival, so I'll meet you at the cattle barn in about an hour. Sling Slinky, Ah, the gay midway! Looks like it's our turn to go to the building get down here so fast?

Here comes that death-defier from the amusement park, a terrific ape! But he fails to mention the noise. Yeah, sure he made it. Looks like he's going to try to hurt the car over his wife. She's lying out there now. Wonder if she carries any insurance? Two false starts, and now here he comes again. That should be a tough strain on Mrs. Edwards, just lying there and waiting while he dashes around the track a couple of times. That was real McCoy; he made it. Cummun Honey, let's go find Slinky and a couple of cows.

Say, this Western Vocational school cow looks like a champ. Well, twank Hitter's nose! That guess was correct. Yeah, want a picture as soon as Pagin shows up. Let's go look for another champ.

Hello, Mr. Dowdle, Oh, Nobby Bors! Blossom Maid DID win the grand champion title. Where's Slinky? Say, Honey, how'd you like to hold a cow for a picture? No, no, not bet her back down on the ground and Mr. Dowdle can do the honors.

Don't go away mad, sugar. Oh, you're just going after a hamburger. We'll be waiting here, won't we, Pagin? Now where did that guy go?

Oh, he's over there shooting craps with that bull that looked

SCHOOL SELECTS LINCOLN DRAMA

At this time of crisis, when the American ideal of tolerance, which Lincoln advocated and practiced is increasingly important to everyone in this country, all school plays selected to be given by Twin Falls high school Oct. 18 and 20 is "Prologue to Glory," by E. P. Conkle, a historical drama based on the younger, formative years of Abraham Lincoln in New Salem.

The drama the announcement today by Miss Florence Reed, director. Selected for the role of Lincoln is Jess Williamson, a newcomer to Twin Falls high school but a well-experienced in dramatics, who all most fits the part physically. He is five feet, two and three-fourths inches tall, Lincoln was two inches taller than that.

Partly Double Cast

Roles will be partly double cast, with 45 experienced and unknown actors taking parts, costumed in clothing of the pre-Civil war era. Much of American origin and ideal will develop the theme, an affirmation of the American ideal. In the three acts of the play are eight scenes.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of new uniforms for the Twin Falls high school band.

"Our purpose in producing this play is that we will not lose sight of our ideals," said Miss Reed, in announcing the selection.

Title of the play literally means introduction to glory, and the play shows an important part of the development of the man who became one of America's greatest.

Young Lincoln

It reveals the Lincoln of 22 years, who left his father's farm to work in a little country store in New Salem, and his first tragic romance.

Well known figures who will appear in the cast are Lincoln's father, Tom Lincoln; his stepmother, Sarah Lincoln; Ann Rutledge, his sweetheart; her father and mother, and the owner of the store where Lincoln worked.

Author of the play is a professor of speech at the University of Iowa, who has directed the university dramatics, considered one of the most progressive in the United States. He has studied in Europe on a Guggenheim fellowship.

Beth Lincoln Fashion

The play was published in 1927 and has been produced as a federal theater project play. With "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," a hit on Broadway and soon to be filmed, it sets the fashion for Lincoln pictures of which the recent movie, "Young Mr. Lincoln," starring Henry Fonda, was one.

Production of the play follows a series of dramas on the younger life of the great President, following the present trend to Americanism. As a subject for biographical drama, young Mr. Lincoln offers no rivals.

This play is intended to stress the value and glory of tolerance.

Arrangements were completed to erect a memorial to the early pioneers who founded the organization. The memorial will be built on the old Union State Normal school campus.

Deposed

Ben E. Weeks, village marshal at Shoshone, was deposed by the board of trustees in a surprise move. Differences between the board members assertedly caused the action.

SHOSHONE BOARD OUSTS MARSHAL

SHOSHONE, Sept. 8 (Special)—Tuesday night's session of the village board of trustees carried something of a local jolt in several ways.

After discussion of sealing the street surface and other minor things, out of a clear sky came a motion for discharge of Village Marshal Ben E. Weeks. It was offered by Trustee Ward Wilson, member of the council, and seconded by J. P. Christensen. Weeks was sustained by Henry Hill, George Warburton, another member, was absent. There being no tie, that left the mayor, Ben Darrah, without a vote, and Weeks was relieved of service.

The incident involved considerable controversy arising prior to the spring election, when the marshal was persistently opposed by a new member of the board, Weeks, a former postmaster, active in politics and fraternal affairs, said he had no comment over the situation at present.

Parents Partly Responsible

Reopening of the schools reminds us once more that everyone should take a serious interest in the prevention of traffic accidents involving children.

Ordinarily when precautions of this kind are called to the public's attention, all of the responsibility is thoughtlessly placed upon the motorists, a mistake which probably accounts for numerous accidents in which children are injured.

Particularly is that true of children riding bicycles, scooters and the like. Many times their carelessness results in accidents for which the motorist is no way at fault.

That is why the parents of all these school children likewise have a responsibility which they should recognize not only for the protection of their own youngsters, but for the success of the campaign to reduce motor accidents generally.

No matter how conscientious a motorist may be in his desire to drive safely, there is nothing he can do to avoid an accident if some youngster pops out from nowhere directly in front of his car. Neither can he be held responsible if some child riding a bicycle swings in front of him after he has given warning and proceeded carefully.

Everyone driving a car knows that some children are entirely oblivious to traffic, particularly when they are riding bicycles. Very often while riding in a group they swing back and forth across the street without even looking for oncoming cars.

It's a situation every parent in Twin Falls should consider seriously, particularly if these parents want to do their part in keeping their children from being injured, perhaps fatally.

Several children already have been hurt in this manner and more will be injured unless parents assume their responsibility. They must impress upon these youngsters the importance of watching where they are going while in the streets. They must discourage their youngsters' practice of cutting diodes on the streets.

Traffic accidents are a serious problem—one that requires the co-operation of everyone, instead of the motorists alone.

Don't take it for granted, like parents often do, that your child is the exceptional little darling. Perhaps he is one of the worst offenders and as such may be seriously injured through no one's fault but your own.

How We've Changed!

There came in today's mail a pamphlet boosting the candidacy for President of Paul V. McNutt. Unwittingly, it illustrated the great change that has come over the United States and its relation to the world during the past 30 years.

The pamphlet designates McNutt as "Lawyer—Educator—Statesman—Trained in Leadership and Government—Experienced in World Affairs."

H'm! "Experienced in World Affairs." Those would have been fighting words back in 1910, practically enough to insure the defeat of any candidate to whom they were applied. If there was anyone our fathers didn't trust in politics during the bicycle and mustache-cup era, it was somebody who was "experienced in world affairs."

But technology has dumped the world in our lap, and today everyone realizes that, whether it seems desirable or not, it is necessary that a presidential candidate be, if possible, informed and experienced in world affairs. For world affairs today, as the present crisis shows, are everybody's affairs.

Graceful Gesture

The world is such today that any gesture of friendliness and good will stands forth like a light in darkness.

That is why the action of Turkey in issuing new stamps featuring the portraits of two Presidents of the United States is notable.

In ordinary times it would be nothing but a philatelist's curiosity. Today it is a phenomenon.

Willed before he died by Kemal Ataturk, one stamp carries his portrait with that of Washington; another shows Ismet Inonu and Franklin Roosevelt, thus memorializing the founders and present heads of both countries.

It is a small matter, of course, to note while the world poles on the brink of suicide, but let it be recorded that even in that day there was one small gesture of friendliness and good will.

Hitler has told five of Europe's Little Nations that he will respect their neutrality. That makes just five more countries that can start building air raid defenses.

The Nazi-Soviet accord leaves open to mind the thought of Fritz Kuhn and Earl Browder playing double solitaire up at a summer bunk camp.

Your friend "Jericho" isn't the only one who's been looking into this war business. I've done a little research, too, and here's what I've found. There are three main types of people, three men and two women. They live at Buhl, Twin Falls and Burley. I've lumped all their answers into one average, so you can call it southern Idaho speaking.

Here's the interview, using the average answers I got asking questions as I hit the towns named in the course of my business.

Q. What do you think of Hitler?

A. He's a rat—but I'm neutral.

Q. Who do you want to win the war?

A. England, France and Poland—but I'm neutral.

Q. Who do you think is in the right?

A. The allies—but I'm neutral.

Q. What do you think about those bombing of civilians?

A. Hitler should be strung up for permitting them. I'm strictly neutral.

Q. Should we sell war supplies to the allies?

A. H-m-m. Well, if we don't, they might go by gun. But I'm neutral.

Q. What do you hope British planes will bomb Berlin?

A. Yeah, it might teach the Nazis a lesson. But I'm neutral.

Q. Should America get into this war?

A. No, a thousand times no—let's stay out.

CHORUS: HITLER IS A MANIAC AND WE HOPE THE NAZIS LOSE BUT WE'RE VERY NEUTRAL!

SERIAL STORY

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, SEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, at the office, Marian had a pleasant surprise. Her husband, Dan, had been promoted to the position of assistant manager. She was so happy that she had to tell him when he came home.

CHAPTER 21

MARIAN'S heart sank. Had she not moved practically the same move 10 years ago? Every day she seemed to be drawing nearer to the shore into which Angie Doran had crashed.

She said sharply, "We've never felt the need of an understudy. Miss Herrod has been able to handle my work when necessary."

Miss Herrod had been with the office for 30 years. She was a plain, unimaginative person, thoroughly satisfied with her position as bookkeeper.

"Miss Herrod is getting old," Mr. Fellows objected.

"She's only 38."

"Well—that's getting along," Marian wanted to say, "But she's safe—the doesn't want my job." Thirty-eight—getting along—in six years Marian would be 43—and the last six years had passed like a brief, monotonous whiff of nothing.

"You're unfair," she remarked with spirit and the frankness engendered by years of acquaintance. "You men are just started at 38." Using Miss Herrod as a subject, she was arguing in her own behalf.

He shrugged. "Just the same, Miss Herrod is getting old. We can't let the office go to seed. We've got to be constantly on the lookout for new talent and fresh slants."

"You're not planning to let Miss Herrod go?" he asked.

"No, I'm not," he said. "Mr. Herrod doesn't demand personality. Long as she can manipulate figures she doesn't need a figure."

THE telephone buzzed and Marian answered.

"Marian—this is Carmie."

"Yes, Carmie—when did you get back? Carmie's yearly trips abroad were the envy of her friends."

"A week ago."

"Why haven't you called me for lunch? Possibly Carmie had found a suitable winter outfit for her in Paris. Marian's mind made a hurried and doubtful estimate of her bank account."

"I haven't been in the mood. Marian—have you heard about Mack? Mack's voice was thick and unsteady."

"Yes, Dan told me."

"I've got to go to your. Meet me at the office. I'll be there."

"Of course—12:30—I'll reserve the corner table at Jacques." Replacing the instrument, Marian attacked the mail, sifting the envelopes and glancing at the contents. Making several piles of the open letters, her mind reverted to Sally Blake.

"Sally Blake should be given a little more opportunity," she said, putting out a finger.

"Mr. Fellows answered promptly."

"She couldn't let it go at that. On the other hand," she said thoughtfully, "I don't know as it pays to spend too much time on the young girl. You get them trained, get to depending on them, and about that time they leave to be married."

"These people aren't once they get married. You left to be married," he said. "You tried to get married, but you didn't."

"I would not have here today if Dan had been able to get any where in the business world."

MR. FELLOWS leaned his finger on his chair, touching his finger.

"Have you ever let Dan imagine that he is wonderful?" Mr. Fellows words brought back memories to Marian. Could she ever expect to have that same confidence, that same, useless love again?

They had been so happy.

It was a reflective attitude. He had thought Dan was slated to be sales manager a few years back. The head of his company talked enthusiastically about him to Mr. What happened?

"I don't know—exactly," Marian did know, she remembered the incident with bitterness. There had been a question as to whether Dan or Sims Carmie should receive the sales management. The fact that Sims had a dependent wife and two children had tipped the scales in his favor. Marian had refused to blame herself at the time and she still clung to the theory that, if Dan had been good enough, capable enough—

"How's he getting along now?" Mr. Fellows persisted.

"Just the same," he said. "He makes just what he did when we were married. He was cut during the depression—that's when I came back. I was a young fellow drawing $25 a week again."

"That's pretty good, considering the times. Might be of use in making what we were 12 years ago." It was a surprising observation and Marian felt something behind it.

"But we couldn't live on it—"

"Sure you could. Thousands of families in this country live on much less. It just takes a little management. There's a budget to fit every income."

Marian wrinkled her nose disdainfully. "Budget—I hate the very sound of the word."

"Too many modern women feel like that. It's the answer to the ever-increasing number of women in offices and stores."

Marian stared at him. Was he paying the way to tell her that she had a husband who earned, that her place should be given to a girl who was dependent upon him? In the present economic straits there was a trend that way.

"I would not have here today if Dan had been able to get any where in the business world."

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Although official Washington is keyed up to the hounds of war, the machinery of government has been revolving on just about its usual midsummer basis. Few vacations have been cut short or cancelled; little or no midnight oil has been burned.

Now, however, developments promise that the capital will be a hotbed of activity at almost any moment.

The state department, of course, is kept very busy. Secretary Hull is on the job with all of his assistants and division heads. The department remains in close touch with the White House, and the job of keeping the government informed about developments overseas is carried through on a non-stop basis.

In the department of agriculture, the commodities exchange administration has had to do some extra work. It has drawn up plans for controlling the commodity markets, keeping speculation within bounds, preventing sudden price fluctuations, and believes it will be able to stabilize the farm market pretty well.

The treasury, whose Secretary Morgenthau is in Europe when the war begins—a close eye is being kept on things, particularly on currency fluctuations (which gets the stabilization fund people up pretty early in the morning).

The secret service has a pretty busy job on the various foreign agents it has to watch. Secret goes for the FBI over in the department of justice.

War and navy departments are watching things closely, but aren't being much inconvenienced. They've been pretty busy all year anyhow, and the crisis brought little if any change.

The commerce department will be extremely busy. It has compiled a good deal of trade and financial data for FDR, but took it all in its stride.

Besides those on the Dies committee, only 10 representatives remain in Washington. Eight senators are in the city.

Some of the men of the local plant of the state highway department, and seven of the trucks, have been transferred to Buhl for the time being, where 3½ miles of oiling toward Twin Falls is under way. It is in the Buhl highway district. Entrants, both of Bolls, near Shoshone has been completed, and the new work contemplated will be deferred for the time until it is determined how the present type of surfacing stands up.

A marriage license was issued here by A. D. Ducker and Miss Kay Ducker. The marriage will be held at the home of the bride's parents, John Duncan, connected with the state department of law enforcement, was in town Monday and Tuesday. He states that the capital city is plodding along in the usual progressive way, and that Governor "Bitterman" hasn't lost his smile nor gained a gray hair since he has been in office.

During the week somebody on the highway got by rather easy. Not so three hours. The bodies of the three road hogs were removed by a highway foreman, but their owner or driver of the car was not ascertained.

Work was started this week on the Wendell-Harman highway by the C. R. Nelson Construction company, Ogden, Utah. Gravel is being torn up preparatory to filling in the old road bed. Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Cornelison.

Rev. N. Smith is attending the Presbyterian synod being held at Friday for Ridgefield, Wash. to attend the synod for Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Caldwell spent Monday in Boise. Miss Theima entered Boise Business college.

Miss and Mrs. G. W. Hooten entertained at dinner Friday for Mrs. Edna Meacham, Gwendolyn and Bobby. Mrs. Meacham and children plan to have a picnic on Sunday, Calif., to make their home.

Mrs. William Larsen and daughter, Lorraine, are here, were Wendell visitors Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Dyer spent Sunday and Monday camping and fishing in the hills.

SUMMER LEAVES; MERCURY DROPS

Summer has apparently departed from Magic Valley today but might turn a backward glance tomorrow.

Gradually colder temperatures in early morning with the "warmest" point in the afternoon matching the morning readings in ratio, were climaxed in Twin Falls today by a low of 33 degrees. That's just one degree warmer than freezing. It represents a slump of five degrees from the top of Thursday morning and no less than 15 degrees drop from Wednesday.

Although "Indian summer" may still dispel the chilly weather here in late September and early October, the warmest afternoon reading yesterday was only 68 degrees, according to the U. S. bureau of entomology. That was a sharp drop from the 82 degrees Wednesday.

Mercury levels at Boise yesterday were more moderate than in Twin Falls both as to maximum and minimum. Coldest point in early morning there was 45; warmest during the afternoon was 75. Pocatello, however, showed a chillier late-in-the-day reading with 69 degrees, but the mercury didn't sink as low in early hours, slumping only to 45.

Salt Lake City showed 60 and 42. Forecast for south Idaho tonight and Saturday, however, is "fair and warmer."

TWIN FALLS OPENS LEWISTON SERIES HERE TONIGHT

New Time Marks Set as 4,600 See 2nd Rodeo

FAIRGROUNDS, Filer, Sept. 8 (Special).—The world's greatest gang of cowboys will really get down to business tonight when the third day of the annual Twin Falls county rodeo gets under way, with the finals set for Saturday night.

The show tonight is again to get under way at 8 p. m., and officials hope to better, or at least equal, the attendance mark set last night, when something over 4,600 fans paid their way into the grandstand.

Two nights' times showed continuous improvement over those displayed the first day of the four-day show, which they make up that much different tonight there will be more records set in most branches of the old-american sport.

McCoy's best horse, a 10.5 second faster than Mr. McCoy, the biggest cowboy in the show, did the opening tilt and gave him a long lead in the race for the bull-dogging championship. Weighing well over 200 pounds and standing over the six-foot cowboy, McCoy can force a steer to lay down with his sheer weight.

In the calf roping, three men posted better times than the 10.5 second mark that Joe Welch on Wednesday night. Joe Welch, Carlbad, N. M., had the best mark—1.8, and that put him in the lead for that tilt, although he just barely topped Carl Sheppard of Phoenix, Ariz.

The rest of the show was on an equal par with these times. Rodeo Director Harry Ross turned loose some really tough horses, steady that the amateur bronco riders couldn't even commence to handle. There were even a couple of "bull" riders who thrilled the audience plenty and one of these animals, a mean-looking sorrel, was the barbed bronco busting section, and he got just about the biggest hand of the evening—outside of the announcement that another gang of cowboys (baseball players) had defeated Pocatello in a ball game.

GABBY HARTNETT

Hartnett Sets New Major Mask Record

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—It's a long grind—18 years behind the plate—but as long as he is able and as long as the Chicago Cubs need the booming bat of Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, the old war horse will keep on firing.

After 1,227 contests, more than any other major league player has caught, the great Gabby is getting ready to quit. He has grown gray in the service of the only major league he ever played for. He wants to quit and run his ball club from the bench.

"I'll have to stick around as long as they need me on the field," Hartnett said. "There's still a lot of baseball left in the old husk. At that, maybe I can set a record really worth shooting at before I retire."

Turnout Face set his endurance mark yesterday, bettering by one game a record set by peppy Ray Schalk in 1924 through 1928 with the Chicago White Sox and in a five-game stretch with the New York Giants in 1929.

Mac Dozes Through an All-Star-Pro Grid Game

By HARRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—It was a hard-fought game, but I was a boy.

Instead of pleading lifelong loyalty to the team, I should have gone on record with a vow never to watch a football game between all-stars and professionals. The whiskey might have killed me, but it wouldn't have bored me to death.

After a few games have come close to doing for me, and the one I saw last night at the Polo Grounds came too close for comfort. It involved a group of college boys, mostly from Pittsburgh, and the head of wild west that Steve Owen has correlated and branded with the iron of the New York Giants.

The Giants won that is, they were downed 10 to 0 when I went to sleep sometime during the fourth quarter, and I feel quite sure that the all-stars never scored. They couldn't have with the type of attack they brought on the field, which was a singular one based on the belief that it was easier to run through the Giants' line than to throw the ball through the air.

21 Model T Fords to Race for Title

So you laughed as you went past that old Model T Ford on the road yesterday?

Well, maybe you were within your rights, but it's just about a 10-1 bet that that same tin lizzie could beat you in a 100-mile race around the circular track at the Twin Falls county fairgrounds.

Anyway, 21 of the fastest tin lizzies in the state of Idaho will compete for the Green championship at the Twin Falls county fair tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 2 p. m., and the biggest afternoon crowd in the history of the fair is expected to see the race that will last in the neighborhood of two hours—or until the cars complete 100 miles of racing.

$500 In Cash

Besides the state championship, the drivers are competing for $500 in cash and just about the same amount in merchandise with the show being sponsored by Capt. Jerry Edwards, the state devil who has been entertaining the afternoon crowds at the fair during the last three days.

Competing in the show will be the state drivers from throughout the state—men who have won the first prize, or finished in the money at six other Idaho shows sponsored by Capt. Edwards. These include two money winners from Lewiston, four from Pocatello, one from Blackfoot, three from Boise, plus the winners of the Twin Falls meet held here earlier this season.

All Present Colors

The cars will be painted in all different hues, and the name of the town the driver comes from will be painted on the sides to enable the spectators to root for their hometown team.

Entry list up to noon today included the following:

Leo Werts, Jerome; Leo Johnson, Kimberly; Black Bear Wrecking Co., Buhl; Frank Holman, Twin Falls; Ray Morris, Burley; Don Ludwig, Boise; Jack Hanson, Boise; Hank Kunneke, Mountain Home; Vance Cornell (two cars), Caldwell; Wm. Blackfoot, Blackfoot; Lew Baucke, Blackfoot; Fred Hobbs, Lewiston; and John O'Connor, Pocatello.

The list of drivers is limited to 21 entrants and a wrist watch is being given by Capt. Edwards to every man competing in the race.

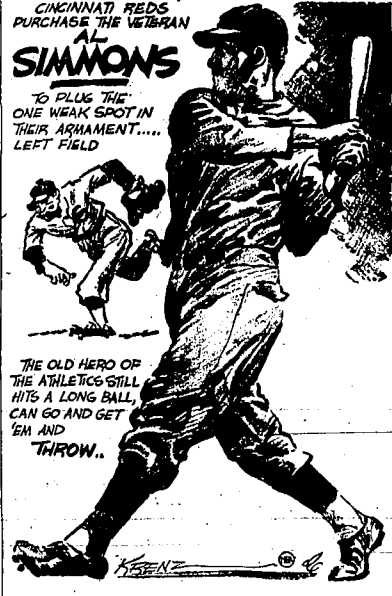

College Grid Stars Sail For Honolulu

SA FRANCISCO, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A football squad made up of American college stars sailed for Honolulu on the S. S. Matsonia today to play in a unit in the Hawaiian amateur league this fall.

The squad will be known as the Hawaiian Polar Bears and will be coached by Hugh White, of the University of Texas and New York Giants players.

The athletes will not be paid for their services, but they will be furnished with round trip transportation, living expenses, incidental expenses of $50, and complete medical care during a two-month stay ending Nov. 17.

Reds Figure New Way To Lose and Cards Cut Lead to 4 1/2 Tilts

By GEORGE KIRKNEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—When better ways to lose ball games are figured out, the Cincinnati Reds will be the boys who'll do it. It looks like they refuse to put on a spurt and clinch the National league fall so everybody can settle back and get ready for the world series.

Two rookies, fresh from the minors, played the leading roles in helping the Reds beat themselves yesterday. Bob Elliott and Maurice Van Hagen, a pair of outfielders from the International league, made seven hits between them and drove in four runs as the Reds bowed, 8-7, in 11 innings to the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Reds had a 5-0 lead going into the last of the fifth, but tossed it away.

Tight Hurling Features Play In Coast Loop

(By United Press)

Five airtight pitching performances featured the Pacific coast league last night, although only one of the six games was a whitewash.

Tom Seaver of Sacramento and Ad Liska of Portland came through with three hitters; Bill Fleming of Hollywood and Paul Gregory of Seattle combined four-hit games and Lou Salvacion of Oakland pitched a five-hit shutout against San Diego.

Seattle routed San Francisco, 4 to 2, behind Gregory's pitching. One of the Seel runs came on Dom DiMaggio's triple and his subsequent steal of home.

Salvacion's pitching likewise featured Oakland's 3 to 0 win over the Padres.

Portland dented the Angel hopes twice, 5 to 4 and 4 to 1.

Hollywood and Sacramento split a pair, the Stars winning the opener, 3 to 2, behind Fleming's four-hit pitching. The Solons evened the evening with an 8 to 1 romp.

U. S. Net Ace Upsets Jugoslavian

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A new threat for the national singles lawn tennis championship was seen today in Frank Guernsey, national intercollegiate titleholder from Orlando, Fla., who opened his bid with a victory over the highly touted Franjo Puncec of Jugoslavia.

Guernsey, who recently conquered top-seeded Bobby Riggs at Sonoma, came from behind to eliminate the Jugoslavian ace, who won the first game, 6-4, in 10 minutes. Feature of the game was Guernsey's cracking the major league catching record by appearing behind the bat in his 1,272th fifth, but tossed it away.

The Cardinals trimmed the Reds last night, 4 to 2, in 10 innings, as they beat the Cubs, 4-2, in 10 innings. Feature of the game was Guernsey's cracking the major league catching record by appearing behind the bat in his 1,272th fifth, but tossed it away.

Wry Team Splits Two Games With Cards; Six Home Tilts Left

Manager Charley Wry and his battling band of Twin Falls ball players were back in their own yard today—all set for the opening tilt of the Lewiston series here tonight at 8 p. m.

The game against the Indians, who took two out of three from the ace Boise club during the first three days of the week, may go a long way toward determining the 1939 pennant chances of the Cowboys. There are only six more games left on the home schedule—the other three against Pocatello.

Last night the local club easily double-dipped the Cardinals in the first game of a double-header by a score of 11-3, and then dented the final count 9-8, after having it appear only safely tucked away at least three times.

Badnick Looks Good

On the mound tonight could be any of the six Cowboy hurlers. All of them saw action in the three-game Pocatello tilt-to, and not one of the route-although Mike Badnick looked awfully good for seven innings in winning that 11-3 tilt.

Bob Kinnaman may get the call, however, although he pitched more last night in the second game than did John Stefan, the starter. Stefan, incidentally, is near certainly to start against the Indians. He has proved the most effective man on the staff against the northerners and in the last start against them scored a 4-0 shutout.

Bill Schubel, who worked in both games last night as a relief hurler, may also get the call, as he didn't get a chance to start against the Cards. Schubel pitched one of the best games against the Indians last week—but lost it when errors kicked in on many runners.

Look Like Champs

Last night the Cowboy looked like champions as they hammered Beers and Owens for 11 hits and 11 runs in the first game. Highlights were a home run by Fletcher, a double with two men on in the fourth inning, and then another in the big frame when Frank Falconi clouted for the circuit with the legs packed. Falconi, incidentally, got four hits in the two games out of nine trips to the plate. Meanwhile the home town Pocatello club was getting nowhere off the slants of Badnick and Schubel, who relieved him in the seventh.

We think that if you are going to need a shot gun or a rifle that NOW is the time to buy BECAUSE not only will the gun prices probably advance but the gun factories will likely do just like they did during the World War—stop making guns altogether because of the heavy demand for war materials in which case many kinds of guns will be unobtainable.

BRITISH AGENTS ROUND UP SPY SUSPECTS

SCOTLAND YARD HEADS USE LIST SET FOR MONTHS

By WEBB MILLER
LONDON, Sept. 8 (Special).—Secret agents of Scotland Yard and the naval and military intelligence departments have arrested more than 1,000 men and women as suspected enemy agents in the biggest spy hunt ever held, it was disclosed today.

Lists of suspects were fully compiled months before the war with Germany started; it was understood, and arrests were started as soon as the government announced that a state of war existed.

The special branch of Scotland Yard, which picked men and women for espionage, and the intelligence men of the navy and army, cooperated in raids which have now extended to all parts of the country, it was reported.

Three Divisions
Suspects were listed under three divisions: 1—Active enemy agents; 2—Persons suspected of acting as enemy agents; and 3—Sympathizers likely to assist enemy agents.

So effective were advance arrangements, it was said, that every suspected person on the secret agents' lists had now been detained and will be held during the war. Those of them who are British citizens, however, are permitted to appeal to the home secretary within 10 days for a hearing before a special tribunal.

Meanwhile ministry of information communiques indicated that naval operations against German submarines were becoming important.

Deep Depth Bombs
It was announced that it was believed an attack on a mine laying submarine had been successful, and that British destroyers twice dropped depth bombs while they were searching the Netherlands steamship Albatross yesterday when it brought Sir Neville Henderson back from his post at Berlin, where he had been ambassador. Depth bombs are never dropped unless those aboard warships are fairly sure a submarine is within range.

The German merchantman Inn, 2,807 tons, had been captured. The ministry of information said that the people aboard were taken off, including one woman, and that two cages of rare birds also were rescued. The Inn's crew, the ministry said, apparently scuttled the ship before a prize crew could board it, so that it sank.

CALLS ON CHRISTIANS TO OUTFLOW WAR

Editor, Times:
War—the word that sends chills of apprehension and dread to our hearts, is on our lips again, and we are again being called to arms to end all wars and save democracy. We fought. Very few of us but still carry the scars of this terrible slaughter which we know now war is started for the sake of ammunition.

America awake! Let us rise to action before it is too late. We have boys to send to this horrible destruction which we know to be the game of armament manufacturers, politicians and generals. Let us be rightly informed and then take our stand unanimously to forever end the huge organization of crooks who go on inventing scores of terror for the public into greater and greater defenses even in peaceful times, thus provoking war.

Christians of the world, may we take a common stand, lay aside old creeds and prejudices and take up the cross of Christ who came to teach right living and brotherhood among men. He who taught peace, not war. Hear again the angels who sang "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Search the Bible where you will and you will find that the teachings are practical—that they deal with our economic condition, not only individually, but collectively—our relations to our fellowmen, to our country, to our world.

"Love one another." "Love one another." "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "You are your brother's keeper." I Cor. 13, where love is shown to be the greatest of all things.

When we put these teachings into practice, we will have no more unemployment, wars or even rumors of wars. It is up to Christians to turn their lives into human happiness where greed and selfishness are no more.

May we protest when one man takes it upon himself to send ships upon the ocean with the excuse of self-defense when common sense tells us that there are no legitimate reasons when we send our own business and show all nations that we stand for universal peace and brotherhood among all men.

Oratorios Sung at Methodist Church
BUHL, Sept. 8 (Special).—Roger Harris, Dallas, Tex., furnished an unusual type of morning worship service at the Methodist church Sunday. Most of the service was in the form of tenor solos from the great oratorios. The pastor of the church, Rev. Leroy Walker, did not give a sermon but led the congregation in a service of worship, using hymns and responses.

The message of the morning was brought by Mr. Harris through the medium of great songs. He sang selections from Handel's "Messiah," Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and Haydn's "Creation." He also sang "The Lord's Prayer" for college students. All of high school age and over are welcome.
