4 Convicts Use Wooden Pistols to Escape

CRASH PUTS END TO FLIGHT FOR LIFE-TERM MEN

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 26 (Special).—Authorities discovered today that four long-termed convicts used a wooden pistol to kidnap four prison officials and escape Marquette prison last night.

They were captured three hours later near Menominee by a posse of state and city police and sheriff's deputies. They were driving an automobile at a high speed when it overturned.

Marquette is the "Alcatraz" of Michigan—where life term and dangerous convicts are confined. Late yesterday two members of the parole board, Warren Marvin L. Coon, and a deputy warden were meeting in the classification building. Four convicts broke in. One brandished a pistol which looked real. The others had knives and clubs.

Thought It Was Joke

Coon said he thought at first it was a joke. The convicts, with others, had been in the building to appear before the parole board. But he decided quickly it wasn't a joke. He held up his hands and advised the others to do likewise.

The convicts ordered him, his deputy, William Newcombe, and parole board members A. Ross Pascoe and Earl Rish into the warden's automobile in the yard. The car sped out of the prison unopposed by guards who feared that opposition would forfeit the lives of the hostages.

Five miles from Marquette the convicts released Newcombe and Rish into the hands of the police and tried to stop them or the hostages would be shot. Escaped Barred

Five miles northeast of Menominee, almost 200 miles from the prison, the convicts evaded a road blockade by turning west onto a country road. Pascoe leaped from the car at this point and was slightly injured. The convicts then sped up the car and tried to turn into a main highway. The speed was too great and the machine overturned. It was surrounded at once by police and deputized citizens. The convicts surrendered.

Joseph Muir, 21, and Thomas McCarthy, 26, were given life terms for murder in Detroit in August, 1932. Ralph Stearns, 36, who once attempted escape from the southern Michigan prison, was designated as a guard, was serving life for banditry. John Thompson, 29, was serving life for kidnapping.

Rolling Pin Throw Will Offer Fun at Kimberly

KIMBERLY, Sept. 26 (Special).—It won't be a shooting contest for husbands to watch, but in spite of that Kimberly announced plans today to hold the Idaho state championship rolling pin throwing tournament.

The rolling pin contest will be open to all comers, as long as they're females. Married women are expected to dominate the field but single ladies won't be barred. Committee members feel the bachelor maidens may need the knowledge.

The Idaho rolling pin throwing championship will be decided Saturday evening on Main street here as a novel feature of the annual Harvest festival. Rolling pins will fly under floodlights in the first journey of its kind ever staged in Idaho.

Target will be a dummy in the form of a man. Distance of the rolling pin throw was undecided today. Harvest festival leaders said a committee is now at work trying to decide the average distance from which such a weapon is thrown in customary domestic arguments. Most committees were holding out for 10 feet, but others suggested 20.

Points will be awarded in this order:

1. Direct hits to the face.
2. Direct hits to the stomach.
3. Direct hits to arms or legs.

Suitable trophy will be awarded immediately after the contest, and the Idaho state champion will be officially crowned by Harvest festival judges.

Judges will either be chosen from men with rolling pin experience, or from men who have had absolutely no experience and who will therefore be approaching the matter with unprejudiced eyes.

CREDITS OFFERED BY STUDY COURSE

Any person, 18 years or over, who is not attending school and whose application is approved by this local high school principal or superintendent, may enroll in correspondence courses for high school credit through the University of Idaho. It was announced here this afternoon by Carl B. Yanik, field supervisor, adult education.

The provision for the course has been made by the University of Idaho, the state department of education, the CCC and the adult education program of the WPA, Yanik said.

"At this time every effort will be made to have out-of-school people 16 years of age and over take advantage of the splendid educational feature offered them," the field representative said. "Students lacking a few credits to complete their high school work should, without fail, benefit themselves by this means. These courses will be accepted as college entrance requirements."

"The production, grading, reading and administration of these courses will be under the WPA adult education program of the Idaho state department of education."

A registration fee of 75 cents per half unit is charged by the University of Idaho to cover cost of its participation. Yanik pointed out. Complete information can be had by contacting Mr. Yanik at the Twin Falls recreation center, 302 Third avenue north, or by telephone at 215.

W.C.T.U. District Institute Planned

GOODING, Sept. 26 (Special).—Plans to entertain members of the W. C. T. U. district institute were completed here last week by committees of the local organization. The district meeting here will be Thursday, Sept. 28, and will attract delegates from Richfield, Fairfield, Shoshone, Wendell, Jerome, Hagerman and Gooding.

Annual election of district officers is scheduled during the business session. The opening conference will begin at 10:30 a. m. at the Gooding Christian church. At noon a lunch will be served visiting delegates and in the afternoon a program is planned. Rev. H. J. Reynolds of the host church has been invited to speak during the afternoon.

New officers of the local W. C. T. U. were elected last week. They are Mrs. Betsey B. Day, re-elected president, Mrs. C. T. Knight, vice-president, Mrs. H. A. Whitton, secretary, and Mrs. Hulda Beeman was re-elected treasurer.

Benefit Planned For Health Fund

FAIRFIELD, Sept. 26 (Special).—Miss Margaret Thomas, field nurse of the Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis association, is visiting at the schools of Camas county to give the school children a thorough examination. The "T. B. test" will be given to all high school pupils and to others who wish the test.

A child health council has been organized and will aid Dr. Parkinson to give the diphtheria antitoxin to the children. An eye clinic has been arranged for Thursday, Sept. 29, with Dr. Jones, Boise, in charge.

In order to create a revolving fund to be used to defray expenses of those unable to pay, the Relief society, Legion auxiliary and the Camas club are sponsoring a show Sept. 28 at Manard hall.

Gooding P. T. A. Chairmen Named

GOODING, Sept. 26 (Special).—Committees and chairmen for work in the Gooding Parent-Teacher association were named this week at a meeting of the executive council. A report on the summer health program was also given by county P. T. A. health chairman, Mrs. John Kornher, in which she reported that about 80 homes have been contacted this year in regard to check-ups for the pre-school health clinic.

New chairmen and committees are: Program, Mrs. Verne Carrell; Mrs. O. T. Knight and Miss Harriet Cunningham; publicity, Mrs. Fred Orwig; budget and finance, Miss Ann Cady and Mrs. Glen Barker; national magazine, Mrs. M. W. Tate; membership, Mrs. Gabe Rayer; health chairman, Mrs. John Kornher.

In the Congo, the Belgian government maintains a school for elephants. The animals are trained, then sold or hired out.

Weed Campaign Termed Successful

GOODING, Sept. 26 (Special).—Gooding county's noxious weed campaign carried on this year for the first time on a large scale basis with both chemicals and the cultivation methods, has been termed highly successful by county weed supervisor, William Bryan.

At the present time there are four crews at work in various parts of the county. Three are chemical crews and the other the cultivation crew who are handling approximately 120 acres of weed infested areas.

Supervisor Bryan hopes to expand the cultivation program next year, since it is more practical and economical when treating larger areas of weed.

Crews will continue the gas operations until the first serious freeze. They will then change to chiselers to continue the program this winter.

Girls Punished For Taking Car, Going to Game

JEROME, Sept. 26 (Special).—Leah Mickelson, 14, Jerome, and Charlotte Anderson, 16, Salt Lake City, were both placed in schools of correction this week after they were brought before Probate Judge Herbert N. Folkman, on charges of ascertained automobile theft.

The girls "borrowed" a car from the Wolverines, employee of the Shovelers Ice Co. last Friday afternoon and left him a note stating that they were going to attend the football game at Wendell and that they didn't want him to worry about it because they "had a driver's license."

Upon complaint to sheriff's authorities here, the car was soon recovered when the machine was spotted returning from Wendell that same afternoon. The left front fender was damaged and officers said that the girls jammed two other cars in backing out and driving forward at the football field in Wendell.

The Mickelson girl had been paroled last winter after she had been found guilty of ascertained theft of a handbag belonging to an employee of the Tugwell store here. The Anderson girl, paroled to her grandmother here in Jerome from Salt Lake City, had also been paroled from a house of correction in Utah for alleged infractions there.

Sheriff Lee S. Johnson of Jerome returned to Jerome Sunday after taking the Mickelson girl to St. Anthony reformatory. He placed the Anderson girl in custody of the Children's Welfare society in Utah.

Damages to the Wolverines machine, including a damaged gasoline cap and a damaged front fender, were estimated at about $5 or $6, officers here said.

TELEGRAMS READ
These and two other brothers, because of distance, could not attend the ceremony here, sent telegrams which were read.

Music for the Rupert rites included three vocal selections, "Through Deepening Trials," "Oh, My Father," and "Sometime We'll Understand," rendered by a double mixed quartet composed of George Catmull, Grant Catmull, Mrs. Milton Patton, Mrs. H. H. Judd, Mrs. Lyman Schenk, Mrs. Claude Bingham, Earl Gray, and Cliff Johnson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Catmull, and two vocal numbers, "Oh, Restless Sea" and "Hope Beyond the Grave" by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Payne, Burley, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Floyd Butts.

The invocation was given by Henry Catmull and the benediction by Bishop Earl Oliver, Burley. Speakers were Bishop Hyde, who read the obituary, the telegrams and a poem written as a tribute to Mrs. Humphries by her step-daughter, Leona Humphries; August Hadin, Pocatello; R. C. May, president of Mindoka state; Miles L. Jones, Oregon, president of the East Central States Mission with headquarters at Durham, N.C.; Bishop M. W. Ovington, Twin Falls; and Charles A. Collins, member of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles, Salt Lake City.

TO CHECK CONSTIPATION Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chance for the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestine.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

WITH

The Gentleman in the Third Row

'National Unity' and 'Coalition'

There has been a lot of talk about establishing some sort of a "coalition government" in Washington by means of the advice of the "best minds" of the country regardless of party. There has been a great deal of talk about "national unity" in the face of a chaotic world beyond our borders.

All this sort of thing wants to be thought through pretty carefully.

Certainly it is true that any pressure exerted on national policies at so critical a time from the point of view of mere party advantage is unthinkable.

Certainly it is true that once a policy has been legally decided upon by congress as representatives of the people, a "united front" will be presented to the world in support of it.

But what is just as certainly not true is that there is any obligation on the people to render unthinking support to any policies which they have not had as direct a hand as possible in making. Some argue that any appearance of "disunity" might encourage or discourage certain rulers abroad in certain policies, and that therefore the American people ought to suspend all debate on what they want to do, and simply do as they are told.

This is not a very cogent argument. In the first place, we are apt to exaggerate our influence abroad. It is extremely doubtful whether the prospect of American participation or non-participation in Europe's tangled affairs has any real deterrent effect on anybody. It has not had such an effect in the past; certainly did not in 1917. There is little evidence that it has done so since.

This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. . . . The chief magistrate derives all his authority from the people. . . . By the frame of the government under which we live, this same people have wisely given their public servants but little power for mischief. . . . Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people?

So spoke Abraham Lincoln, at a time more critical for the country of his day than this day for ours. He had faith that the people would decide rightly. He urged calm thought and careful consideration, not unthinking "unity."

The time for unity is after the people have decided on their course, decided in a legal and deliberate manner, after full opportunity to consider. But before that deliberate decision, any "unity" that is simulated by "coalitions" and "councils" is a delusion, perhaps a danger. If it be true that the sympathy of most of the American people is already fixed regarding the European war, it is certainly not true that there is any unity on what ought to be done about it. And until such decision is reached, at least on broad lines, it is idle to talk of unity.

Europe knows, and has ample evidence, that this unity will not be lacking once definite decisions have been reached.

War Prices?

The advance in price of American commodities since the war has been marked, leading some people to talk about "war prices."

But the remarkable thing about the price, say, of wheat, is not that it has risen 20 cents a bushel and more, but that it is still far below not only the war levels of 1918, but even below the 1910-1914 normal. That was figured at $1.16. Wheat closed recently in Kansas City at 82 cents, whereas it was pegged by the Food administration during the World War at $2, and after those restrictions were removed, jumped to $2.76 in 1919.

Up to now, the war in Europe has not meant "profiteering" for the farmer, whose price is still well below the "parity" sought by the Agricultural administration, and only a third of real World War prices. If there is going to be any "war bonanza" for American farmers, it isn't in sight yet.

War Closes in

In Germany, a "fanatical member" of a sort of Bible students (perhaps the Judge Rutherford organization) is shot as a conscientious objector to the war. Another resident of Halle (once a Red stronghold) is shot for "arson and sabotage." In Paris, a Hungarian chambermaid and an Algerian cook are jailed for speaking sympathetically of Hitler.

Let us not be critical or Pharisaical. No nation engaged in a life and death struggle would do less.

This, too, is war. It suggests no reflection on other Germans or French. If we remember rightly, some of the Tories were roughly handled during the American revolution, and some of the Copperheads during the Civil War.

It is not hard to say that in war, truth is the first casualty, freedom is a close second. This must be remembered in war, and let's not forget it.

Justice as She Is Dispensed

Snooping hither and thither in the interest of his constituents, Pot Shots has trailed down the tale of the "strangest court-art of the decade."

The Judge—Art Shultz, of the wood bureau.

The prosecutor—Kenny Ridgeway, of the sheriff's office.

Defense attorney—Harold Hovr, who also publishes the Kimberly Advertiser.

Complaining witness—St. Givens, sonable of Kimberly and Paris.

Defendant—Elwin Shultz, Coeur d'Alene youth.

Crime—Hit and run. Shultz threw his cap at a motor car on the highway, hit the windshield and ran.

Strangest part of the trial was the fact that Shultz, the defendant, was in deadly earnest about it and hadn't the least suspicion that everybody wasn't what he seemed to be.

Shultz was caught and arrested by Givens and Deputy Warren Lowery after he fled wildly across a field. He had thrown his cap at the car driven by H. E. Powers, over Kimberly way, presumably for a joke or because he got a headache ride. Powers halted, looked the officers car and the chase was on.

But Powers was too kind to sign a complaint after the youth was jailed at Kimberly. Hence, before turning Shultz loose, Givens decided a kangaroo court would speed him on his way with an object lesson.

Shultz, really quaking at thought that this liberty was at stake, was brought into "court" in the basement of the bank building at Kimberly. The charge was read to him; "Prosecutor" Ridgeway and "Defense Attorney" Hovr wrangled, argued, objected to his honor, and in general had a legal battle.

"Judge" Shultz's face dropped about a foot as the "Judge," ennobled behind a small bar with a foot tall in front, declared him and passed sentence: "Thirty days in jail." Then "his honor" suspended the sentence providing Shultz furnish $250 in 30 minutes.

"Yes, your honor," said Shultz gratefully. "Thank you."

He shook hands with the "prosecutor" and "defense attorney," and then he was out. He promised to send Hovr his fee as soon as possible.

Only upward incident of the trial came when Givens asked whether he was running north or south when he chased the defendant. Counsel got into a wrangle and the "Judge" held up proceedings for a while.

Today Mr. Shultz is probably back at Coeur d'Alene, thankful for the quick leniency. If he ever discovers it was just a kangaroo affair, Pot Shots may have more things to chronicle.

THINGS TO DREAM ABOUT

Pot Shots' short fairy tale—

Dear Idaho Game Department: I stole by a wire dispatch that I've received no permit. It seems a deer catch. It seems a deer catch. It seems a deer catch.

SERIAL STORY WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NPA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Marian tried to laugh off the situation but then she began to cry. She told her husband that she was going to leave him. She was going to leave him for good.

CHAPTER XVII

MARIAN was hurt and angry. She asked herself rebelliously, "Must one go through life being frightened? First you're afraid of being poor, then you're afraid of losing your job. Then you're afraid of other things—and finally you're afraid of your husband and it's a different kind of fear, hollow and helpless."

They spent the evening as usual. Dan read and played a few games of solitaire. Finally, Marian eventually crossed the hall to Dolly's door.

Lying on theavenport with her head buried under her arm, Marian indulged in an orgy of self pity. The old, dog-eared query presented itself to her. What had she done to deserve this?

Behind her lay conscientious effort and well-placed energy. Through circumstances, circumstances for which Dan was responsible, she had been denied all the things which belong to a woman by right. Protection, easy living, pride in her man, security—most of all, a job.

And now that she had adjusted her life to the circumstances, it was only to learn that she was being asked to leave him. She had been denied all the things which belong to a woman by right. Protection, easy living, pride in her man, security—most of all, a job.

"Oh, yes," said Marian, "I know that Pete and Dan are friends and he's been wanting to show the bride and groom a little courtesy because Julie was his secretary before her marriage."

"Gee—it's a small world," Marian mused. "Has she quit her job?"

"Oh, yes," said Marian, "she is the domestic type. Andy, he doesn't employ married women."

"He doesn't? Why not?"

"Well—he doesn't believe in it," Marian said. "He thinks it's a narrow-minded and egotistical thing to do."

"I didn't think Randy was like that, narrow-minded and egotistical, still playing with the idea that it's a man's world."

"Women have a place of their own," said Marian. "I don't think it's a very important place."

Marian frowned angrily. "What does he have to say about the woman who is dependent on her husband, and those whose husbands are not gainfully employed?"

"This with a beautiful woman who did not appear to be listening."

"Do you really want me to tell you, Marian?" Dolly asked, "or shall we change the subject?"

"I don't think so," said Marian. "I don't think so, it sounds like a question."

"Well—has there wouldn't be a woman who is dependent on her husband, and those whose husbands are not gainfully employed?"

"This with a beautiful woman who did not appear to be listening."

"Do you really want me to tell you, Marian?" Dolly asked, "or shall we change the subject?"

"I don't think so," said Marian. "I don't think so, it sounds like a question."

"This with a beautiful woman who did not appear to be listening."

"Do you really want me to tell you, Marian?" Dolly asked, "or shall we change the subject?"

That was when the chart of their married life had many high spots, when even the low ones held contentment and love. Marian removed the eye pads and went across the hall. Dolly was at the telephone, her eyes bright, a pleased little smile on her lips. Dan did not look up from the evening paper. Marian sat down and idly turned the pages of a magazine. The magazine reminded her of the doctor's office and she threw it down. Dolly joined them. All the happy family she said, giving Marian an affectionate pat on the shoulder.

"Did you say happy?" Marian asked.

"Can said nothing and Dolly changed the subject. "That was Randy on the phone. The party is growing."

Marian felt Marian with distaste. More effort, more wasted energy. "Sounds exciting," she said indifferently.

"Oh, really? I'll be glad to meet her."

"I know that Pete and Dan are friends and he's been wanting to show the bride and groom a little courtesy because Julie was his secretary before her marriage."

"Gee—it's a small world," Marian mused. "Has she quit her job?"

"Oh, yes," said Marian, "she is the domestic type. Andy, he doesn't employ married women."

"He doesn't? Why not?"

"Well—he doesn't believe in it," Marian said. "He thinks it's a narrow-minded and egotistical thing to do."

"I didn't think Randy was like that, narrow-minded and egotistical, still playing with the idea that it's a man's world."

"Women have a place of their own," said Marian. "I don't think it's a very important place."

Marian frowned angrily. "What does he have to say about the woman who is dependent on her husband, and those whose husbands are not gainfully employed?"

"This with a beautiful woman who did not appear to be listening."

"Do you really want me to tell you, Marian?" Dolly asked, "or shall we change the subject?"

"I don't think so," said Marian. "I don't think so, it sounds like a question."

"Well—has there wouldn't be a woman who is dependent on her husband, and those whose husbands are not gainfully employed?"

"This with a beautiful woman who did not appear to be listening."

very logical. Randy says it all the women, especially married women, would drop out of business, thousands of jobs would be available for men. The old men, who have been shoveling out of the way by veterans, do the filing and accounting in offices, lots of things like that.

Marian laughed scornfully. "The employers would lose a lot of doddering old men."

Dolly ignored the interruption and continued. "If all the married women, who were vacated there would be a shortage of help. Capable men with poor positions would be moved up to better ones. They'd make more money, their fathers would be put back on the payroll, and the women would be provided for."

"And how," Marian said indignantly.

"It's an idea, Marian," said Dolly. "And a darn good solution." Dan put in.

MARIAN'S eyes blazed at him. "You're blaming her for her inferior complex—weak persons always find alibis."

"You can't make the world over," she argued. "You've got to meet it as it is and do the best you can. If I quit my job another girl would take it. Nothing would be lost."

Dolly shook her head. "There's nothing personal about the discussion, honey. What would be right for me might be wrong for you. Let's talk about what we are going to wear tomorrow night."

"I said seriously, 'I have a nifty gray suit. It's over from last year but, with a few new accessories, a tie, perhaps a gray skirt for my hat—I should look pretty nice.'"

Marian worried her lower lip. "Dolly laughed, she asked, 'What will you wear, Marian?'"

"My new Easibeam. Tailored dresses are smartest in the fall. You can wear them anywhere. The fuzzy things come later—during the holidays."

Dolly decided on a black suit and frilly blouse. She frowned. "My hat is pretty awful. I've got to look for a new one. They're so funny this year."

"You always look good to me," Dan rumbled from behind the paper.

"Oh, I'm added generously, 'And you've looked good to Randy.'"

Two little stars flickered in Dolly's blue eyes. "I want him to look at me when I'm smiling, adding, with nod of her yellow head. 'But I mustn't let him know it.'"

State President Will Address Gem Federation at Reception

Auspiciously opening the annual convention of the Idaho Federation of Women's clubs, in session here tonight, tomorrow and Thursday will be the reception of the state president at the Elks hall, convention headquarters at 8 o'clock, with the Twentieth Century club as hostess.

Highlight of the evening will be the address by Mrs. B. S. Arrington, Pocatello, president of the Idaho Federation, who will preside at all convention sessions. She has chosen as her subject, "Are We Interested—Enough?"

National Official

Mrs. Arrington is not only prominent in club federation activities of Idaho, but is now a General Federation director which places her on the executive board of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

She began her club life in Idaho as district auditor, then was elected first vice-president, and then district president. After that in rapid succession came the position of state director for the first district, and lastly, the position she now holds.

Mrs. Arrington received her normal school training at Pocatello, Kan., where she taught school for two years before becoming president of the state of Oklahoma. She is well versed in national and international affairs.

Youngest Federation Member Visits Here

Coming in for her share of attention at tonight's reception honoring state officers and delegates to the annual convention of the Idaho Federation of Women's clubs, will be Sandra Jean Evans, three-year-old, of Mountain Home. Sandra Jean is the youngest member of the state federation. At the time of her birth, Sept. 11, 1936, the federation met in Mountain Home, and she had the distinction of being the only baby ever recorded in the minutes. The federation made her a member of the organization.

With her mother, Mrs. Wallace J. Evans, she will attend the reception this evening at the Elks hall, and will also be at sessions of the convention tomorrow.

On her first birthday, she was presented with a silver spoon with the inscription, "A Silver Spoon for Sandra Jean Evans, born Sept. 11, 1936, at Mountain Home, Idaho." Club women at the age of three, Sandra Jean Evans, "dressed in white, with a bow in her hair, and lemon, and coffee, too, at tonight's reception, receiving a glass of milk as a bedtime libation to Morpheus."

Fair Honored by Friends at Declo

DECLO, Sept. 26 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. Ella Jensen were given a reception and shower Thursday at the Declo L. D. B. church home by the bride's father, Elmer Bakton. The bride was formerly Miss Peru Gustafson.

The evening was spent playing games under the direction of Mrs. Gail Ward, Miss Margaret Merrill and Miss Gail Fellows. The following program was rendered: Ophelia chorus, under the direction of Marjorie Philpott; two humorous readings, Mable Banner, Unity, a cousin of the bride; two vocal duets, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Easton; musical quartet, Mrs. Sanford; an original sketch under the direction of Gail Ward; vocal duet, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Molyneux; readings, Maurine Philpott.

Refreshments were served. The honorees received a number of lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen were married recently at Ogden, Utah.

The bride attended the Declo high school. She is employed at Pikes in Burley where the couple will live. There was 125 guests present.

Lutheran Church Group Has Picnic

Fifty-five members of the American Lutheran church entertained at a picnic dinner Sunday following the morning services in honor of Rev. Edwin Kaster, pastor.

So successful was the event that the group voted to have a similar affair in the not too distant future. Dinner was served on the lawn at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Rubler. Contest games were played late. Rev. Kaster's team winning from the team captained by Mrs. Erikson, vice-president of the Devereaux society of the church.

The winners were presented with a huge watermelon, which they shared with the losers.

Entertainment for the children was in charge of Mrs. Rubler. Late in the afternoon a picnic lunch was served, bringing to a finale the gala "get-together."

New Collegiate Football Rule Change Opens Way to More Shovel Passes; Game Speeded

Under the rule change penalty for forward pass striking ineligible man (1) is 15 yards and loss of down. Formerly the penalty was loss of ball at point where it struck offensive guard or tackle. Ineligible players are prohibited from advancing beyond line of scrimmage before pass is made, which prevents use of line-man (2) as illegal-decoy.

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Services Sports Editor

The most important collegiate football rule change this fall should open the way to more shovel passes behind the line of scrimmage, with an end or wingback coming around to take a short forward flip from the tailback.

Another alteration places a further check on the unscrupulous. The first change provides that the penalty for a forward pass striking an ineligible man is 15 yards and the loss of a down.

Formerly the penalty was loss of the ball at the point where the ball struck the ineligible man. If a forward pass went astray and the ball hit a guard or tackle in front of the intended receiver, the defensive team got the ball.

Now the passing team simply loses 15 yards and a down, which is bad enough, but they still can't score while we've got the ball.

On a play from which a forward pass develops, ineligible men are prohibited from advancing beyond the line of scrimmage before the pass is made.

Previously, an ineligible receiver could pass the line of scrimmage, but was supposed to keep out of the zone into which the pass was to be thrown, and wasn't allowed to get ahead of the ball.

There was nothing to prevent the use of line-men as decoys.

Simplified Defense

And some teams even changed drawing a penalty by sending a line-man into the zone of the pass and then off on tangent, trying to pick up a defender on the way.

As Elmer Layden of Notre Dame points out, this new rule simplifies pass defense to some degree and makes the game fairer.

The penalty is a loss of 15 yards from the spot of the preceding down, the play to count as a down.

The first of four rule changes provides that the referee must check the ball to be used. Its weight, air pressure and measurements must be checked 30 minutes before the game.

Thus the squad with a superlative passer won't be able to ring in a ball which is slightly narrower and thus easier to grip and throw than the one provided for by the rules.

The strong defensive team can't supply a ball a little faster than regulation to fit its star punter's foot.

Pads Thickened

The fourth and last change is a safety measure calling for an increase in the thickness of knee pads and required padding, specifying calipers for the shape and size of conical cleats and makes head protectors mandatory.

To the spectator, this means no more Dick Neabitt, Jack Cannon, Red Woodworth and Bill Bevens flying about the field with locks flying in the breeze.

Football fatalities and serious injuries have decreased steadily in the last several years, but of the 17 fatalities of 1938, eight resulted from skull fractures.

Speed Up Game

The tendency is to speed up the game.

Black Bass Biting in Salmon Dam Waters

Black bass, relatively new to Idaho waters, are flourishing in waters of the Salmon dam and continued plantings of this type fish will be made in that body of water next year, it was announced this afternoon in a report released by officials of the B Club of Sportsmen.

Termed as the "hardest fished water in this section of the state," officials pointed out that reports from various fishermen indicate that the bass planted in that area are now "taking the hook."

One party of fishermen, it was stressed, caught some 20 of the fish and not on was under 10 inches long. Some of them weighed over the one and one-half pound mark.

"From this and other reports we are able to announce that the bass are doing exceptionally well in the body of water," commented L. A. Drexler, secretary of the group. Records show that to date over 2,000 black bass have been planted there. Among this number were 500 choice spawners weighing over a pound each.

Food for Bass

Drexler added that crickets in the locality where the fish were planted have tended to supply food for the bass.

Last Sunday 3,000 bluegills were planted there in selected locations. The balance of this stock is being held for spring planting. Two hundred large spawners were among the fish held over for next year at the rearing pond which was constructed and which is operated by B club members and which is located at Blue lakes in the Snake river canyon. The plant of bluegills last Sunday was the last major plant planned this season.

In addition to planting the "private stock" for the benefit of other fishermen, B club officials point out that the organization has been instrumental in securing stock from the state hatchery where which has been planted over this area.

These plantings of trout have, at the present time, totaled over 180,000 and are continuing at the present time. Today the state truck took 30,000 trout far up Rock creek.

Other Plantings

Other plantings which the B club was instrumental in securing included 30,000 in Salmon reservoir, 40,000 in Magic reservoir, 30,000 in Roseworth reservoir, and 10,000 in the east fork of the Jarvis.

Pointing out that the club's own rearing pond at Blue lakes will be "100 per cent better in food value next year," officials said "more fish than ever before will be transported to the favorite fishing places and planted next year."

Officials of the B club, aside from Drexler, include Lawrence Murphy, president; Roy Atwood, vice-president, and George Gerlach, treasurer.

Nazi Attack Feared in Holland

Switzerland Also Included In New Plan

PARIS, Sept. 24 (U.P.)—French sources expressed firmer belief today that Germany would soon attack France through Switzerland or Holland or both despite its assurances of neutrality, in an attempt to bring the war to a quick end.

An attack through Holland, it was said, would permit the Germans to skirt behind Belgium's first line defenses and head into Flanders.

Reports persisted of the massing of German troops on the Swiss frontier.

Enemy Action

High command communique No. 45 of the war said today:

"There was persistent enemy artillery action southeast of Zweibrücken. During the 24th several air combats occurred with enemy combat squadrons."

It appeared that the German big gun fire was due partly because of concern at the extent of French advances in the salient southeast of Zweibrücken and partly to test the strength of the French advance positions with a view to counter-attacking.

Patrol Driven Off

A German patrol attacked a small farm occupied by the French in this sector yesterday but was driven off.

As regards the official mention of airplane activity, the French claim definite air superiority. It was said that they had won the biggest air fight of the war yesterday and had shot down four or five German planes, of which two, falling within the French lines, were listed officially. The high command does not list German planes which fall in German territory.

GERMANY

High command announces capture of Fort Mokotowski, Warsaw parade ground; claims five French planes and two French balloons shot down on western front. German submarine warfare forces Sweden to suspend, at least temporarily, shipment of cellulose and timber. Russian troops advance steadily westward in Poland toward line of demarcation with German troops; occupy Suwalki, 10 miles from east Prussia.

ALLIES

French, pounding German west wall with heavy guns, claim superiority in air; report German troops repulsed in Saar sector. British announce royal air force has dropped 16,000,000 propaganda leaflets on Germany. Poles still fighting at Warsaw, Modlin, Hela peninsula and west of Lwow; reported they are forming "Pilsudski guerrilla legions" to harass Germans behind Nazi lines. Warsaw radio asserts Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch, brilliant German militarist, was assassinated by Gesteapo instead of being killed in action as Germans announced.

Fair Board Decides to Omit Saturday in 1940

Twin Falls county will have just as impressive a county fair as ever next year—but merchants won't lose Saturday business and farmers will be able to do their customary Saturday shopping.

That was the decision today after the fair board, at its "clean up" meeting last night at the fair grounds, voted in favor of the request by Buhl and Twin Falls chambers of commerce for a fair closing on Friday night instead of Saturday.

Won't Hurt Fair

Both organizations had requested the change for business reasons, pointing out that the fair itself would not be harmed and the annual rodeo would draw fully as much as heretofore.

Dates for next year were not fixed by the board. In view of its decision to omit Saturday, trustees discussed two alternative plans for the 1940 classic-opening on Monday, Labor day, with free admission that day and then closing Friday night, giving a five-day fair; or opening on Tuesday as usual and closing on Friday providing a four-day fair without a free admission day.

The 1939 fair report, drafted by Secretary-Manager Tom Parks, was approved by the board and became its official summary of this year's event.

The fair board and manager reported to the county commissioners and the taxpayers that "another successful fair has been added to the many good fairs of the past, not only financially but in many other ways." The free admission on the opening day, it was explained, "afforded everyone the opportunity to see what we think to be the real fundamental idea of having a fair, and giving everyone a chance to see the wonderful exhibits that were displayed—a chance to see on display and compare all the modern machines, also all kinds of household appliances as well as tires, oils, greases, furniture, automobiles, in fact anything that the public ever needs was on display by leading merchants."

Large Premiums

The fair paid out $6322.53 in premium money to attract the impressive herds of livestock and other exhibits.

The report summarized the high caliber free entertainment as part of the board's policy of giving the paying public "value received."

Although the board pointed out its aim is not to build up profits—but to make Twin Falls county fairs grounds one of the best in the northwest and to build the fair to be the equal of any county fair—the recently-completed exhibition brought in $1289.99 in late box office.

Although total receipts this year will be beneath those in 1938, the report explains that 1939 operating costs were cut "so as to be in line with revenue received." Only in the premium and awards division was there a substantial increase in costs, and that was only $637.25 over last year despite increased size of the fair. Revenue received from Jan. 1 of this year was listed at $21,069.63, with some $600 still to be collected. Of this, the day gate raised $4210 and the night gate $2467.11. The carnival brought in $2,500 and the county tax $4,766.01.

Day admissions this year were only 130 less than in 1938, but the night attendance fell short by 1933 paid admissions. Afternoon admissions—always the hub of the board—finally showed an upturn, bringing in $656.80 more than a year ago. Night rodeo receipts dropped $1728.50.

Expenses paid to date total $10,788.84. The largest item was the $6322.53 payment for premiums. The rodeo expenses were $2389.50. Some bills are still not presented.

The fair report is available for scrutiny either at the offices of Mr. Parks or the commissioners.

Bombers Plan on Spokane Flights

BOISE, Sept. 24 (U.P.)—A squadron of 15 U. S. army bombers will stop in Boise late today en route to maneuvers over Spokane, Wash., airport attaches announced.

The squadron, under Lieut. Col. Ralph Royce, will visit Pendleton and Salem, Ore., before going to Spokane to make an imaginary air raid on a railroad center, five miles north of there.

Logan Plano Trust, Twin Falls, Adv.

WITNESS TALKS IN MURDER TRIAL

BOISE, Sept. 24 (U.P.)—Testimony of an eye-witness that he saw L. G. Carter, 45, Idaho Falls, formerly of Piler, charged with second degree murder in the death of Ralph Curry, 31, Boise, kick the victim in the head was the key evidence presented as the trial went into its second day.

Don Stewart, state's witness, said he saw Lee Little strike Curry for using obscene language. When Curry fell to the floor, Carter kicked him in the head, he said. The state contends the kick caused Curry's death. The altercation occurred in a Boise beer parlor.

Defense Attorney Elbert Delana brought out in cross-examination that Stewart said at the preliminary hearing he was not certain he saw Carter kick Curry. Stewart said he misunderstood the question at the preliminary hearing and distinctly remembered witnessing the act.

Burroughs

—the Adding Machine with the SHORT-CUT KEYBOARD

Figuring with pencil and scratch pad is one long round of drudgery, made still worse by mistakes that must be found and corrected.

With a Burroughs Adding Machine the same work becomes a light, easy task done in just a fraction of the time and with results that are absolutely accurate.

The Burroughs Short-Cut Keyboard is the fastest, simplest type known. On no other type keyboard can entire amounts be written in one motion. Further, ciphers print automatically, thus reducing the number of key depressions (and consequently the chance for error) about one-third.

National NEWSPAPER BOYS Week

Get Better Acquainted with Your Times Carrier This Week... He'll Serve You Better Than Ever!

THIS week, National Newspaper Boys' Week, is dedicated to the youngest group of businessmen in America: the carrier boys whose duty it is to deliver your daily paper at your doorstep winter, summer, rain or shine. The youngsters who save you time, trouble, and inconvenience 265 days in the year.

Whether your newsboy's name is Joe or George or Bob you'll find him representative of the fine group of conscientious youngsters who are associated with The Times. You'll find him ever ready to serve you promptly, punctually, and courteously... aware of his responsibility to his paper and to his subscribers alike.

WE, the staff of The Idaho Evening Times, are just as proud of him and all that he represents as he is of working for us. We're glad we are in a position to offer an eager young chap a chance to earn money in his spare time, through his own efforts and initiative and pluck. What's more, we know that with some of the Joes and Georges the money they earn is used for their livelihood... and that its absence would be felt.

Like any other businessman, your newsboy has his financial difficulties. He has to buy his "merchandise" at wholesale and retail it at a profit. When customers are slow to pay, he suffers an undeserved loss. His business thrives on prompt payment. He appreciates your friendly cooperation in this respect.

THIS advertisement is published in behalf of your newspaper carrier... a lad who merits all the friendly cooperation you can give him. Make it a point, this week, to know him better. He plays a major role in the Times' record for dependable service to its subscribers.

Why Not Recommend Your Newsboy To Your Friends and Neighbors?
