

THREE ACCEPTED BY FLYING CLUB

Wash. today had joined the Idaho Fish and Game association.

The three men, C. J. Clayball and William Moore of Washington, and Jack Wise, Twin Falls, were accepted at a meeting of the association held last night at the Rogersan hotel. A dinner preceded the business session. Mr. Wise has established a flying school at the local field.

During the season a report on the Burley air meet, sponsored by the association, was given by C. G. Wyllie, Burley. The speaker was one of the largest of all arrangements, H. Sewell, manager of the Burley airport, was a guest at the session.

U. S. Physicians Fishbein Says Move Would Degrade High Standards of Practice

The American Medical association opposes any effort to introduce compulsory socialized medicine because it would be bound to degrade the standard of medical service and because it does not believe it is the business of the government to regulate the practice of medicine.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman for America's physicians and surgeons, told 300 Town Hall members last night at the U. S. Capitol.

Dr. Fishbein's vigorous and often humorous address was the (inaugural) address on the 1939-40 list of the Town Hall club.

"Security is fine," the editor of the association's journal said, "but when you put someone else in charge of your security, you are not in full possession of that security."

"The medical profession is continually interested in this whole problem. It is working with the government to secure adequate medical care to the low income groups."

Opposes Social Principles
"In addition, the medical profession intends to maintain American democratic principles. The problem of American democracy as compared to encroachment of authoritarian principles is a far more important question than the medical profession itself."

Dr. Fishbein, nationally known as the profession's vigorous exponent in the federal government's efforts to promote the American Medical association under the anti-trust law because of the organization's opposition to the government's plan to create a national medical unit in the east, explained the stand of America's doctors in that light.

"We know that medical organizations could victimize the average man. Such victimization has made the American Medical association one of the most powerful of commercial groups in medicine."

"They solicit business. Doctors do not, anyone who does solicit is a peddler. It is not to render professional service. In most of these groups the peddler who does the soliciting gets 40 cents out of each dollar taken in. Now, the entire amount is just about enough to offset medical care, without taking out that commission."

Rise of the move for some sort of system for socialized medicine, he pointed out, came after magazines began printing articles concerning the cost of medical care. "Certain European nations had instituted or tried compulsory sickness insurance, and these were pointed to as a model."

But no foreign country has shown us any system that would work under American conditions and under the American idea of democracy," Dr. Fishbein asserted.

Old age and unemployment insurance provisions were urged enough for America to inaugurate, he pointed out, since each worker is forced to have a small sum, the employer is forced to contribute, and the state puts in a portion.

But in that relatively simple position, however, the speaker pointed out that the "warmer himself really pays the total bill whether he knows it or not."

"The employer, unable to absorb the load, passes it on to his goods. And the government's share is paid back to the worker."

Dr. Fishbein took sharp exception to President Roosevelt's inference that "one third of a nation" which the executive said is ill-clad, ill-housed and ill-fed also lacks medical and dental care.

"One per cent of the population in this country to live on $1,600 a year or less," he said. "The President's assertion is evidently taken from this figure, since $1,600 per year would not permit other than the essentials for a family in the city."

Chalmers Baskin, secretary, said "I maintain that this figure is an incorrect basis, because we must differentiate in regard to those families who live on $1,600 a year. On the farm, for instance, a family could buy many things either through barter or through the mail."

Stubblefields Plan Golden Wedding Party

Mr. and Mrs. John Stubblefield, Twin Falls residents for the past 16 years, have been wedded 50 years, and yet they never had a marriage license.

"They were married in the territory of New Mexico, before it became a state, and marriage licenses were not required. But plenty of witnesses to our marriage are still living, to prove it if we should ever need proof," Mrs. Stubblefield, who will be 70 years old in December, remarked brightly, as she told of plans for their golden wedding celebration tomorrow.

Family Dinner

The Stubblefield home on Sidney street will be the locale for a gala family dinner tomorrow in celebration of the marriage of Miss Josephine Walker to John Stubblefield at the Springer hotel in the frontier town of Springer, N. M., Oct. 10.

It will be one Sunday dinner that Mrs. Stubblefield will not be obliged to cook, for her daughters and nieces are "taking over the kitchen and dining room" for the day. Both Mrs. Stubblefield and Josephine Walker are of the opinion that the wedding party should be a bright sunny day, "just like October should be, and just like it was on our wedding day."

Mrs. Stubblefield does not remember just how John "popped the question," because it has been so long ago she does not recall that her brown serge wedding dress, fashioned with the staid bow waist, white gloves and a play, was the prettiest wedding dress that she has ever owned.

"Became Ferocious" Mrs. Stubblefield had just remarked that "we may have had our ups and downs in life, but very few quarrels," which prompted Mr. Stubblefield to smile on his bride of 50 years ago and say:

"If each side will use a little common sense and be honest with each other, I can see no reason why couples should ever part."

"We all make mistakes, and if the wife is good enough to overlook yours, you should consider hers," Mrs. Stubblefield remarked.

Expected to be present at tomorrow's dinner are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brandon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Brandon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamilton and family, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ramsey, Twin Falls, sons-in-law and daughters and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Stubblefield.

Another daughter, Mrs. O. McCoy, Boise, Ia., and a son, Delbert Stubblefield, New Mexico, will be unable to attend. William Cook, a grandson, and his wife, and their two sons, great-grandchildren of the honorees, will be here from Buhl for the occasion, as will several nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Rose and his daughters, Mr. and Mrs. May Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Hildman, all of Caldwell.

Bruins, Sophs Share Honors at Good Luck Dance

Good luck horseshoe was given an opportunity to prove its magic last evening, when the Boys' club of the Twin Falls high school entertained at an all-school mixer, honoring the sophomores class and extending good wishes to the football players. Approximately 300 attended the dance.

A mammoth horseshoe, pennants offering good luck and best wishes slogans, and the blue and white school colors, figured in an elaborate theme of decoration. Blue and amber lights afforded illumination.

Brice Evans, club president, officially welcomed the honor guests during intermission. Bob Jones, sophomore class president, and Bob Humphreys, who will captain in the team's next encounter, responded. Miss Olive Henry, solo, accompanied by Glen Boren.

A novelty act concluded the program. Participating were Miss Judy Jones, Miss Marjorie Leah, Miss Mary Jean Shipman, Miss Malba Holmes, Paul Taber, Earl Hayes, Don Toolson and George Toast. A dance during the skit was directed by Miss Margaret Eger, with Miss Pat Smith as accompanist.

Dick Price was in charge of the punch table, assisted by Charles Thomas, Ted Becker and Bill Schell. Patrons of the evening were Superintendent and Mrs. Homer M. Davis, Principal and Mrs. Edward Regel, Mrs. Edna Henry, Miss Edgewood, and Gerald Wallace, boys' adviser; club advisers, Miss Helen Minnie, Miss Rose Dunagan, Miss Josephine Thompson, Miss Madeline Garvin, W. K. Howell and Larry Hughes, and class advisers, Miss Helma Toland and Miss Gora Jensen, seniors; Miss Agnes Schubert and Miss Helen Lindeman, juniors; and Miss Bernice Minnie, Miss Kathleen Foley, sophomores.

Committee chairman were Duane Toland, decorations, and Max Wells, horseshoe. Members of the executive board made arrangements. Music was by Will Wright's orchestra.

Relief Society Conducts Rally

Approximately 100 women were present at the "Back-to-Relief society" rally, held at the church in the reception hall of the L. D. S. church, the initial event following a summer vacation. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Anna Arrington. The program was directed by Mrs. Juanita Hull. The social hour was followed by the serving of refreshments. Autumn flowers in profusion decorated the hall. Next meeting will be Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Mrs. Myrtle Dibbbs will lead the theology lesson.

The program included piano solo, "Gavotte," by Mrs. Kathryn Merrill; brief address by Mrs. Kathryn Kirkman, state president, in which she stated "There can be no real happiness without gratitude"; address, "The Lives of the Apostles," by Mrs. Bertha Mae Hansen; selection, "Out of the Dark to You," by Arthur J. Lamb, solo; by Mrs. Mary Richards, Mrs. Myra Barlow, and Mrs. Verla Richards.

TURKEY, BRITAIN CONCLUDE MUTUAL ASSISTANCE PACT

WAR MATERIALS TO BE SENT TO EASTERN STATE

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Great Britain and Turkey have completed the draft of a definite pact of mutual assistance and a Turkish military mission is on its way to London to negotiate with the British government. It was understood today.

The Turkish embassy announced the impending arrival of the mission, under Gen. Kiazim Ordı, who on a similar mission during the summer, arranged for the purchase of British war materials.

The British-Turkish pact would be signed upon the return of Turkish Foreign Minister Baki Saracoglu from Moscow, where he is conducting negotiations with the Russian government.

The British-Turkish pact will contain a safeguarding clause stipulating that, under it, Turkey will never be required to take a hostile attitude against Russia. It was asserted here.

Britain looked to the pact as another factor in assuring Italian neutrality.

Caused Difficulty
The political and military clauses of the British-Turkish treaty had been completed some time ago, but economic clauses caused difficulty.

The Turkish government was anxious because of the rapid overrunning of Poland by Germany, and wanted Britain and France to provide it at once with large quantities of tanks, airplanes and artillery, and also to support the Turkish currency.

These difficulties had now been liquidated, it was believed, and Gen. Ordı, on his arrival here, would be able to make arms deals.

At the outset of the war, Turkey had said it would be faithful to its temporary mutual aid agreements with Britain and France.

Since then events had moved with such rapidity as to make Turkey's position at once difficult and most important, commanding as it does the narrow Dardanelles strait between the Mediterranean and Black seas.

Makes Confusion
Particularly the increasing close friendship between Russia, Turkey's friend of long standing, and Germany, the enemy of Britain and France, had made for confusion.

Turkish Foreign Minister Saracoglu went to Moscow. He had hardly begun his talks, when Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, flew to Moscow and negotiated a world important act of amity with Russia.

Saracoglu was left cooling his heels while the Russian-German negotiations were conducted.

(Berlin reported Russia and Turkey would make a common declaration today at Moscow and it would

TWO ESCAPE AS ENGINE HITS CAR

GLENN'S FERRY, Sept. 30 (Special)—Van Higgins and Hugh Sims escaped injury when Mr. Higgins' car was struck and badly damaged by an engine at the Commercial street crossing early Thursday.

After allowing a switch engine to pass, the crossing watchman removed his signal and Mr. Higgins started across the tracks. The flagman then discovered another engine coming from the roundhouse and again raised his signal. Mr. Higgins stopped his car and attempted to back off the tracks, but the engine struck him before he could get his car in motion again.

The engine struck the car in the center and pushed it some 20 or 25 feet before it could be stopped. The doors and side of the body of the car were crumpled in and badly smashed, but no other damage was done.

Weather Causes Deer to Stay in Highland Areas

BOISE, Sept. 30 (AP)—Warm, dry weather has left deer far in the highlands where they probably will make poor targets for Idaho big game hunters who open the season Oct. 5, game department officials said today.

The deer will remain in the high country until the first frosty storm. Brush is brittle enough to make stalking difficult.

Meanwhile, forest service officials asked hunters to be sure to extinguish their fires and refrain from blasting holes in forest signs.

BOY HURT WHILE BATTLING BLAZE

GLENN'S FERRY, Sept. 30 (Special)—Ralph Pasborg was in a Boise hospital today from injuries received when the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pasborg, was practically destroyed by fire at midnight Wednesday.

There was no one at home at the time the fire started. Mr. Pasborg, an engineer on the railroad, was out on his run, and Mrs. Pasborg was visiting relatives in Colorado.

Ralph stated he spent the evening in town and had returned home. He found he was without cigarettes and returned to town. He says he had been gone only about 10 minutes when the fire was discovered. Firemen battled the blaze over two hours.

Several neighbors state they heard an explosion and a few minutes later the blaze was seen, and the alarm sent in. What could have caused the explosion has not been discovered. The fire seemed to envelop the entire house almost at once.

Ralph, hearing the alarm and finding it to be his home, rushed back and succeeded in saving a large collection of guns, and a box of papers, but nothing else. A valuable collection of rags belonging to Mrs. Pasborg was destroyed. From appearances, the fire started in the basement under the rear portion of the house.

Ralph, in some manner during the excitement, suffered an old hernia break. He was taken to the home of his brother, Ernest Pasborg, and a doctor called. It was decided best to take him to Boise, where an operation was performed Thursday.
