

CHANGING OF FSA FOLLOWS POLICY

Final word on transfer of the county headquarters of the farm security administration to Buhl as aftermath of a free rent embargo that raged in Twin Falls was given today in a communication from Cong. Henry C. Dworshak.

Mr. Dworshak sent to the Chamber of Commerce an explanatory reply he received from the farm security administration at Washington, D. C. The reply was made after the congressman, at request of the Twin Falls C. O. C., registered a protest relative to the change in location. The change has now been carried out.

Regulate Policy
Buhl's free rent offer, the deciding factor in the shift, was accepted as part of the regular policy of F.S.A., Assistant Administrator R. W. Hudgens informed Mr. Dworshak. His communication to the congressman:

"This is in reply to your letter of Sept. 6 bringing to our attention a number of comments you had received regarding the moving of our county office from Twin Falls, Ida.

"The space we now have at Twin Falls is not adequate to our needs. Other space there cannot be obtained for less than $70 a month and, as you probably know, free space is available at Buhl. It is believed that the clients in that area can be served efficiently through the office at Buhl and in view of the economy involved, it is considered desirable to move the office there.

Many Offices
"Offices are maintained by the farm security administration in nearly all the agricultural counties throughout the country, and the cost of maintaining these offices is, of course, a sizable amount. It has been our policy to accept offers of free space whenever such space is available in a location geographically convenient from the client's point of view. It is thus possible to spread the cost of making and servicing of loans in such a way as to render maximum assistance to our clients."

ARTHRITIS

The word "arthritis" means inflammation of a joint. As with most inflammations there are acute and chronic types. This week we will discuss acute arthritis, next week the chronic forms.

The sensible way to approach acute arthritis is from the standpoint of cause. It may, for example, be the result of allergy.

Allergic Arthritis
Allergy affecting the nasal tissues produces hay fever, in the bronchi, asthma. Sometimes when diptheria, an infection or pneumonia serum is given to a sensitive person he will develop swollen painful joints. The condition though disagreeable is not serious and recovery without disability results in a short while.

Arthritis From Injury
Injury may cause acute arthritis. E. g., a dislocation or fracture may be followed by a transient inflammation in and around a joint. Hot applications and the use of casts or splints will bring about recovery.

Arthritis Following Infection

Elsewhere
A boil or carbuncle, a mastoid infection, an infected wound, or any other condition in which germs invade the blood stream may cause arthritis. The microbes reach the joints through the circulation. Conditions in which this may occur include scarlet fever, meningitis, influenza, undulant fever and typhoid. Pneumonia not infrequently causes arthritis of one or more of the larger joints. Most of these cases go on recovery when the joints are immobilized, but in pneumonia and scarlet fever it may be necessary to open and drain the joints surgically.

Gonorrheal Arthritis
Usually the germs of gonorrhea

stay in the pelvic and reproductive organs but sometimes they spread into the joints—especially if the patient continues working, goes on a spree, is carelessly treated by a quack, or has diabetes, or some other debilitating disease.

Most commonly gonorrheal arthritis affects the knees, feet or hands. The joints involved are very much swollen and very painful. At times they continue chronically enlarged, and severe cases may have actual destruction of bone or cartilage and therefore permanent stiffness. Some of these patients must be operated on.

Furthermore gonorrhea may localize in a single joint, such as the knee, without causing pain, the patient suddenly noticing that the joint is stiff and swollen. This variety tends to become chronic and resistant to all sorts of treatment.

Rheumatic Arthritis
As a menace to life and health the most important type of acute arthritis is the acute rheumatic fever of children. This infection moves from joint to joint, causing much pain but eventually going on to complete restoration of joint function.

The sad part is that in 90 per cent of the cases the heart is invaded. If the seriousness of the condition is not recognized and the small patient is not kept in bed under treatment for weeks or months, chronic heart disease will result. The outlook then is one of partial invalidism interspersed with recurrent bouts of joint and heart infection, until death ends the process. (See articles in this series on rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart, published in February, 1938.) (Next release on chronic arthritis)

ADVISED ON CRICKETS

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Hint to the Nevada motorist who is unaccustomed to Mormon crickets on the highway: Don't pay any attention to the crickets when you run over them and they squeal; just slow down and watch the road.

TOWN GOES DIXIE

DIXIE, Miss.—Yeaton, Miss., has bowed out. Railroad officials noted that the main activity in Yeaton was the up-and-coming tung oil business. The largest company was the Dixie Tung Oil Development company, so Yeaton became Dixie.

SPRINGDALE

The following took part on the M.I.A. Sunday evening conjoint program: Hulda Johnson, Naomi Bronson, Raymond Johnson, Jennie Ostlund, Olen Adams, who recently returned home from a mission, was the speaker. He is from the Unity ward.

Miss Velda Tolman, Boise, is spending the next few weeks here with C. O. Tolman and family. Mrs. Orval Hyman entertained Saturday afternoon honoring her daughter, Phyllis' birthday anniversary. A Weiner and marshmallow roast featured the party.

The following took part in the road show which was presented three nights last week: George and Helen Johnson, Fred Christensen, Olen and Ray Bronson, Laura Hurst, Maile, Raymond, Junior Worthington and Beverly Luke.

The Springdale beet dump commenced receiving beets Tuesday. Several of the farmers are digging potatoes.

There are 12,500 officers in the British army. Each year 600 additions are needed to keep it up to strength.

What's the difference between neutrality and the Dodo? Well, one is that the Dodo is also extinct and everybody admits it.

Dear Pot Shots:

Two gentlemen, returning from the north side of the Jim-to-Jim bridge, entered into the following conversation with the toll station keeper:

Station keeper: "How is the country up north where the Indians are?"

Driver of Car: "Well, as far as scalding is concerned as far north as we went, we didn't find any who were any worse than right here!"

WORKING WIVES

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, N.E. SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, alone with her could be proud. But she was not. She was just a woman who was tired. She was tired of the war, of the men, of the world. She was tired of everything. She was tired of being a woman who was tired.

CHAPTER XXVI
THE years had slipped by. A more expensive apartment, still a better one, furniture, clothes, Dan's path going steadily onward. Marian's sweeping up and away. He had tried to show interest in her progress, but he had instinctively recoiled from it. After the depression he had gradually worked back to his salary of $35 a week, and there he had remained.

After a while he hadn't called her Glad anymore. After a while she hadn't been particularly glad about anything. She was the dressed woman in the Loop, her friends were among the other well-dressed women in the Loop. Dan had never quite changed. She raised her head. "Before you finish, G. F., I want to tell you something and ask a question."

"All right—something." He had a relieved expression, as if he had been prepared for anything.

"You've got those charts in fine shape. I've been going to look at them. Now I'm suggesting that you take a seat, say six months on pay."

"That was the thing she had dreaded, but her smile did not change. She raised her head. "Before you finish, G. F., I want to tell you something and ask a question."

"You've got those charts in fine shape. I've been going to look at them. Now I'm suggesting that you take a seat, say six months on pay."

"That was the thing she had dreaded, but her smile did not change. She raised her head. "Before you finish, G. F., I want to tell you something and ask a question."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The situation at stake in the fight over revision of the neutrality law is both simpler and more profound than the general trend of argument so far has revealed it to be. Basically, it is just this:

Is this country going to decide now, once and for all, that the most important thing is to see Hitler beaten—or is it going to decide that the most important thing is to stay at peace even if that may mean having to swallow a Hitler victory over England and France?

Underneath all of the window dressing, that is what is at stake. The struggle over repeal of the arms embargo has become a symbol. Doled down, it is not now meant to be taken as a symbol, or don't we? "The one driving force behind the effort to remove the arms embargo is a conviction that this country cannot afford to stand by and see Hitler win."

IS ADMINISTRATION NEUTRAL? That conviction rests on the belief that the world just won't be big enough, in the long run, to hold both democracy and the totalitarianism. Because of that belief, this country has been in the neutral camp. It wants to help England and France, and that is why it wants the arms embargo lifted. And since the lifting of the embargo will mean the lifting of the arms embargo, it is a conviction that this country cannot afford to stand by and see Hitler win.

But it is equally true that the reason for trying to get the embargo lifted is a desire to exert America's influence against Hitler. The administration wants to see Hitler beaten, and if we can't do it, we can't do it. On the other hand, there are the isolationists.

Like the administration, they are anxious that their attention on the arms embargo itself. For the basic fact that underlies all of the talk about "true neutrality," and the like. On the other hand, there are the isolationists.

Agriculture Research Can Assure Bright Future, Expert Declares

Industrial Use of Farm Products Dependent on Study, Livingston Says

A brighter future than agriculture has ever envisioned awaits America's farmers through use of farm products in industry—if agriculture does its job in financing the research needed to put its products into form for industrial usage.

That was the significant message brought to Magic Valley by Larry F. Livingston, nationally known agricultural engineer who heads the farm extension division of E. I. duPont de Nemours company, Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Livingston, former president of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, told approximately 85 businessmen and farmers at the Park hotel last night that products of the soil have already been transmuted by chemistry into an amazing number of products.

Just beginning "And chemistry has just scratched the surface," he declared, pointing to the multitudes of uses of cellulose—fibrous material which can be derived from practically every plant—as the gateway to future farm prosperity.

But he warned that agriculture must finance the necessary research, and must not expect research "in one or two years."

"Research is the key to this expanded horizon for agriculture," he said. "The duPont company spends $10,000,000 annually on research, almost four per cent of its gross revenue."

"All chemical industry spends two to four per cent of its gross on research."

"All manufacturing industry spends one-half of one per cent of its gross on research."

Farmers Spend Little "And yet agriculture—with all the money being poured into it by the government, by state experiment stations and the like—spends only one-tenth of one per cent of the value of agricultural products per year."

"Agriculture is the seller and industry is the buyer."

"Agriculture should thus spend three and one-half times the present amount for research, merely to get on a par with industry in the research field."

Sketching the future that awaits the farmer through factory use of his products, Livingston said "I don't want to create any false hopes. Research is the key. I don't know any other thing we can depend on today that will give a more lasting benefit than research."

Coal in Industry Pointing out that "almost 20 per cent of the national coal output goes as chemical raw material," he said dramatically:

"What would happen if 20 per cent of your farm products also went into industrial raw materials?"

Cellulose, originating on the farm and already the base for hundreds of industrial products, stands today with any of the principal minerals, not even excluding iron, as raw material for industry.

"The same thing," he said, "we hope is going to happen to a great many other raw materials from the farm."

The necessary research work which looms as the one factor agriculture must finance in order to put its products into usable form for industry—into form of cellulose, for example—must be given adequate time to show results, according to the duPont expert. He explained that it requires an average of six years from the time a product goes into duPont test tubes until it reaches the market.

Hinges on Research "If we can get enough research work going on all the various farm projects," he said, "agriculture will be on the way to a bright future."

Industry wants to buy agriculture's raw materials. But it isn't industry's job to find out whether you can make cellulose, fit for our job, from wheat straw and from asparagus. That's agriculture's job."

Spends Not Yet Answering an Evening Times query after the meeting, Mr. Livingston said that potatoes apparently did not seem an adequate source for cellulose supplies on the basis of present knowledge.

"Certainly the potato vines," he said, "could offer cellulose, but the content of the tubers themselves probably would not."

Livingston opened his talk with a cheerful forecast of American self-sufficiency if the European war cuts

Sending Light Around the Corner!

A slight matter like sending light around curves and corners—through a solid rod of lucite, stronger, lighter and better than glass—is just another of the magic feats of modern chemistry. Here is Larry F. Livingston, left, duPont extension division manager, showing the lucite to Ralph W. Carpenter, C. of C. representative and electrical power executive who probably can see a bright future for electric signs under the reign of lucite. (Evening Times Photo) off raw materials. "That self-sufficiency," he said, will come through the chemical industry and through chemistry: industrial use of agricultural raw goods through chemistry.

Woeful 1914 Plight He contrasted sharply the woeful plight of America when the World War in 1914 cut off its foreign imports, with the status as it exists today. He pointed out specifically the fact that "U. S. chemistry now assures adequate supplies of nitrogen, dyes, synthetic rubber (from coal, limestone and salt), fine optical glass, camphor and the new material 'nylon,' which in a few months will be used in the manufacture of fine hosiery."

"The chemical industry," he said, "stands as a solid guarantee of American self-sufficiency."

Livingston displayed scores of articles now being manufactured from agricultural products. All of them, he said, "had somebody's farm as a starter."

The goods ranged through such varied displays as these:

Wide Range Dynamite, smokeless powder, camphor, pyrolytic castings for fountain pens, motion picture film, coated wire mesh (cello-glass), safety glass, enamel, cellulose insulation (not yet out of the laboratory stage), cellophane, metal cloth, the "spinelite" which plays a vital part in making any synthetic fabric, cellulose sponges, cellulose-coated wood for ladies' high heels, fabric (cotton, leather, non-flammable velvet (from wood cellulose), cotton cord for heavy duty truck and bus tires.

In addition, he displayed other recent results of research work not necessarily arising from farm products.

Marvel "Glass" Outstanding among these was lucite, "the ace of all plastics up to the present time." This weighs half as much as glass, is a clearer optical glass, has equal strength of 6,000 pounds per square inch and flexural strength of 12,000 pounds. It can be treated into a piece of hard wood.

This new-type glass, as Livingston showed by experiment with a flash light, actually sends light around curves and corners.

Of vital interest to women was the nylon material he displayed. "This does," he said, "everything silk will do, but it is stronger than silk, cotton or rayon." Hosiery made from nylon (coal, air and water) amazed the men who examined it.

As far as "runes" are concerned, it would be many times more resistant than present silk material.

"Our Japanese friends," said Livingston with a chuckle, "are going to be out of luck."

Amazing Future His concluding statement held his business and farm audience absorbed. He said: "I am positive that if we can get enough research work done, regardless of whether the work results will come out that will amaze all of us in use of agricultural raw materials."

R. S. Toffenire acted as toastmaster. He introduced Mrs. May Janka, Twin Falls businesswoman, and her guest, A. S. Cobb, a well-known farmer still operating the same ranch he drew in the original drawing. "And it hasn't got a mortgage on it," said Mr. Cobb.

Earle O. Reed, Union Pacific director of agricultural and industrial development, was introduced, and spoke briefly. He promised that the unique "potato exhibit train" would be in Twin Falls during the winter.

Contestants in charge of the Chamber of Commerce dinner were O. T. Koster, chairman, Ed Thoker and Jack Leinen.

Gun Accident Takes Life of Troy D. Smith

MACKAY, Ida., Oct. 5 (U.P.)—A gun accident last night took the life of Troy D. Smith, 50, Democratic speaker of the Idaho house of representatives in the 1935 and 1937 legislative sessions.

Smith was cleaning a 12-gauge shotgun when it accidentally discharged into his abdomen.

A resident of Idaho for 26 years, Smith engaged in farming, livestock raising. He served as Ouster county commissioner and state legislator for several terms.

His concluding statement held his business and farm audience absorbed. He said: "I am positive that if we can get enough research work done, regardless of whether the work results will come out that will amaze all of us in use of agricultural raw materials."

FRENCH PREPARE TO ARREST REDS

PARIS, Oct. 5 (U.P.)—The government adjourned parliament today to strip 48 Communist deputies of immunity from arrest, and dissolved the governments of 47 municipalities in which Communists were in control.

ties were in the inner Seine department, constituting the "Red" slugs suburbs of Paris; 34 in the outlying Seine and Oise departments and six in Pas de Calais, the northern mining region.

It was reported raids had been made on Communist quarters during the night and warrants had been issued for the arrest of two Communist deputies, but this was not confirmed officially.

France had undertaken a hurried campaign to drive Communists from public office and throttle their agitation for the acceptance of Adolf Hitler's peace terms.

TEACHERS HEAR 2 FROM ALBION

ALBION, Oct. 5 (Special).—Miss Frances Farrell, second grade supervisor, and Miss Jennie Williams, junior high school supervisor, represented Albion State Normal school at the fifth and sixth district teachers' conventions Sept. 28 and 29 at Pocatello and Rexburg.

At the Pocatello meeting Miss Farrell presented to the modern elementary curriculum division a unit on Indian life worked out at second grade level. She spoke to a combined group of about 300 primary and intermediate teachers, and gave a discussion of the development of a typical social science unit suitable for these grades.

Shows Exhibit

Her part of the program consisted of an exhibit of freckling drawings, clay models of wild animals, puppets, musical instruments, original photographs and other articles associated with Indian life, made by second grade children under direction of student teachers in the art and social science classes at Albion. One main feature of the exhibit was a display of some 100 books on Indian life suitable for elementary grades.

In the junior high school division at Rexburg, Miss Williams introduced a seventh grade reading unit on wild animals of Idaho. Material for this unit was developed by student teachers in regular reading classes during the winter and spring terms of 1938 at Albion.

Work on exhibit included original stories, poems, drawings, soap carvings, news bulletins, animal maps, charts of animal tracks, block prints in animal designs and a movie by the junior high school pupils. Poster work on related subjects done by first year students in art classes under the direction of Eva B. Kirkton added novelty and interest.

Outstanding Feature

Twelve episodes from Ernest Thompson Seton's "Biography of a Grizzly," illustrated with freckling drawings by Ade Harkins, Deola, Max Mathews, Burley, and Mary Alice Pratt, Lynden, Wash., student teachers, during the progress of this unit, and members of the 1939 graduating class, proved an outstanding feature of the exhibit. Drawings were done in book form with plywood covers made and decorated by Clifford Crist, Richfield, also of last year's student teacher class.

A book display of animal classics, recent books on wild life and teacher and pupil references attracted attention of visiting teachers. Placards introducing popular books were drawn by Frances Chaburn, Albion, and conservation cartoons were done by Robert Wilson, Piner, student teachers of the 1939 graduating class.

These two displays were also exhibited by special request at the eastern Idaho state fair at Blackfoot, Sept. 22 and 23. On this occasion Miss Farrell and Miss Williams served as judges for the competitive entries of the school systems within the fair district.

PAIR BRUISED BY MOTOR ACCIDENT

JEROME, Oct. 5 (Special).—An auto accident which occurred at about 4 o'clock Sunday and a half mile east of the Greenwood school house in Twin Falls county, damaged a car being driven by Morris Humphrey, Twin Falls resident, approximately $150, officers who investigated stated.

Two other men in the car suffered bruises and cuts. One of the men sustained a broken nose. Humphrey escaped injury.

The mishap occurred as Humphrey is reported to have been following another machine on the highway. The car in front of Humphrey passed around a truck and Humphrey decided to pass also. During his negotiations to make the pass around the truck, an oncoming car made it impossible for him to do so and Humphrey's only alternative was to turn into the rear of the truck.

A member of the Idaho state police investigated the accident.

Man, Ungrateful For Hospitality, 'Resting' in Jail

SHOSHONE, Oct. 4 (Special).—It happens that way at times, but it happened here, an old time resident and baker, a little peevish. He had extended the courtesy of his house and laundry to one Ralph Williams for several days, as Ralph was a little under the wing of depression. Then he disappeared, along with the contents of the refrigerator, various tools and other things, including a watch.

"Jack" swore to a petty larceny charge and Sheriff George Brown and Deputy Albert Bayless swung into action. Went to the "jungle," found the camp of Williams, and nobody home. It was cold and the sheriff went back to the office for tools. Bayless staying on the job, as had been figured.

In a short time Williams appeared, started to locate his spots when the deputy nailed him. Starting to town, Bayless kept close tab until they reached the limbo, when the prisoner ducked and made a run. Bayless was not a racer like some of his 10-second men and he soon felt behind in the speed contest. But he saw five negroes and in a hurry induced them to "get 'im."

They did, picking up a dollar watch and a bit of gold on the way back. Williams' grip and other things were later picked and were identified. The cheap watch was not. Jackson's timepiece was later picked from the pocket of an inside shirt.

Williams appeared before Probate Judge Howard Atkins, was assessed a small fine with costs and six weeks in the county jail, which he can serve at the rate of $2 a day.

FERRYMEN EARN FIREMEN TROPHY

JEROME, Oct. 5 (Special).—Glenns Ferry fire department carried off the handsome trophy awarded them as a prize Sunday during the Southern Idaho Firemen's association, for accomplishing the quickest hook-up to a fire hydrant. Competing teams who participated in the contest Sunday included Glenns Ferry, Jerome, Gooding, Burley, Buhl, Rupert, Wendell. To retain the trophy permanently, the team must win the award three consecutive times, it was announced.

Over a hundred firemen and their families convened here at an all day session where a business meeting was conducted during the morning at the recreation hall of the Washington school. Aside from the regular routine of business transacted, an election of officers for the year was held. New officers named were: President, Ralph Burke, fire chief of Burley; vice-president, Fred Markus, chief at Rupert; R. Bukley, Burley, secretary-treasurer.

Following the meeting the group convened at a local cafe where a banquet was enjoyed. Presiding over the business meeting was Fire Chief Jameson, Wendell. Master of ceremonies was Fire Chief E. E. La Turner, Jerome. Mayor L. M. Zug of Jerome gave the welcoming address. Musical numbers were offered by Miss Marjorie Freeman, Bob Zeller and Gilbert Achenbach.

The group later viewed the most modern fire fighting equipment, on display at the local fire hall in addition to a "foamite" demonstration in extinguishing a gasoline and oil blaze.

Speaker Attacks 'Cash-and-Carry' Neutrality Plan

"Why send missionaries to China to convert the heathen Chinese, and guns and ammunition to Japan to now them down?" J. H. Blandford, Twin Falls attorney, challenged the American Legion auxiliary last evening in an eloquent attack on the proposed "cash-and-carry" bill concerning neutrality.

He continued, "Our missionary societies throughout the United States are sewing, knitting and collecting dimes to help the missionaries build up the Chinese, and those in favor of the 'cash-and-carry' want to sell war materials to Japan to shoot them down. It is inconsistent."

"The economic principle back of the bill is not sound. We should adopt a policy of 100 per cent neutrality and favor no nation, either in the Pacific or Atlantic," he concluded.

Mrs. Earl S. Johnson, new president, presided. Mrs. Alta V. Dickey, legislative chairman, told of sending telegrams to congress to protect the change in neutrality and read a reply from Henry Dworshak, Idaho representative.

Mrs. V. R. Lawson, club welfare chairman, gave a report on the amount of clothing and food collected during the month. Mrs. R. E. Joslin, membership chairman, reported on the progress of the membership committee. It was voted to give a naval print plate as the membership award. Mrs. Thoma Bucklin reported on radio activities.

Mrs. C. D. Pryor, program chairman, introduced Mr. Blandford. Miss Lola Stearns gave "The Spirit of Abraham Lincoln Still Lives," and Fred Hamerlath told of the all-school play, "Prologue to Glory," to be presented at the high school auditorium Oct. 19-20, proceeds to go toward the purchase of uniforms for the Twin Falls high school band.

THERE'S STILL A JOKER IN

PIONEER EXPANSION PLANS

... BRUIN-BRAVE CONTEST

LOOMS AS BRILLIANT BATTLE

As stated before in this column, we doubt very much that the Pioneer league will increase its membership to eight cities—and press reports to the contrary notwithstanding we'll still hold to that opinion.

Sure, the directors voted they would be willing to increase the size of the loop. But did you notice the catch in it? Right then and there those owners inserted a clause in the ruling requiring that any city seeking a franchise have a park with up-to-date fixtures, a lighting system installed and the field in condition to play by Dec. 15.

Now, we know that such a condition is an impossibility as there will be no other parks ready by that time—therefore no additions to the league.

Lawton appears to be set for another year in the loop, but we have a sneaking suspicion that the league owners will find some way to move that franchise to Idaho Falls while Lewiston did not move that Oregon franchise to Boise. It would be a long jump from Boise to Lewiston—nearly 300 miles without a stop. That always proved expensive and the Idaho Falls team seem much more logical—being hundreds of miles closer to every team in the league with the possible exception of Boise.

The league was very much of a success in 1939 and with these six teams it would do just as well or better in 1940. The members have given indication that they are willing to get together with other cities to form an eight-city loop in 1941. By that time the cities seeking franchises should have everything in readiness when the loop moguls convene to do their electing.

Of course, we may be wrong on all this reasoning. We have been before. But we believe it's correct this time.

The choice moped on the Twin Falls Bruin high school football schedule will be fed to south central Idaho fans tomorrow night and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand for the festivities.

Coeach Hank Powers has as good a chance as he ever will have to cop a state title with the current edition of the Bruins and if we know the Powers boys, Mr. Hank is going to overlook no bet.

However, the Boise team is going at the present time, it will be necessary for the local lads to be at the top of their game because Coach Darwin Burger puts out no teams that are dumb—however weak the material may be (and we understand his material this year is far from weak, despite early season setbacks).

The Bruins have gone into Boise contests heavy favorites in past times, but in late years they have had little success in the way of victory. Friday will be their big chance to hand the capital city boys a lacing that they have been looking forward to during their four years of high school. It's their last chance and from the way we have heard some of the Bruins talk, they are not going to miff it. Not ccky, you understand, but just determined.

Yes, expect to see qule some battles on Friday night at the new Lincoln field stadium.

And speaking of good high school football teams recalls to mind that we were just received a letter from Jimmy O'Brien, the wild Irishman who formerly coached at Piler and who is now the guiding hand at Pocatello. Jimmy put out championship clubs at St. Anthony and Kellogg before his stay at Piler, and before moving to the Gate city. Last year he had the state title at Kellogg until his Indians met the Boise club at Boise and took a 5-0 set-back.

This year, the genial mentor looks forward to an even better club than last year's team in that good enough to beat Twin Falls 21-0. And apparently he has a fine start on a great seasonal record. In his first game the Indians defeated a Dillon, Mont., club by a score of 34-0. Now that, on the surface, shouldn't mean anything except that it was the first loss for the tough Montana regiment in games. The Indians followed that up with a 33-13 conquest of Davis county high school, Utah, one of the toughest Utah grid clubs. Last Christmas the Davis team won a 25-0 decision over Phoenix, Ariz., a state championship club.

Be that as it may, the Pocatello club we believe will use its hands full when it tackles the Twin Falls Bruins or the Nampa Bulldogs, the three teams being considered just about the strongest in the state at the present time.

One thing the Bruins and Indians will have in common will be weight. Both clubs will average around the 175-pound mark—plenty heavy for any high school team.

Shoshone Party Gets Three Elk In Selway Hunt

SHOSHONE, Oct. 5 (Special)—R. L. Cummins and his wife were visitors in Shoshone Tuesday, from their camp in the hills. They came down to put three elk in cold storage.

Bob and his hunting companions spent 10 days in the Selway forest region, and one morning when stalking the waptiti, he "did" and "do you see what I see?" and he did it with a well-directed high-power behind the shoulder. It was a seven-point buck, with a beautiful pair of tines.

Each of the other fellows got a bull elk, and felt well satisfied that the trip was a great success, particularly Cummins, who is originally from Ohio and had never slung a cap on an elk before, and he was not troubled with "back ache."

The trophies will be allowed to "ripen" for a time.

Mac Sees New York's Infield as Greatest in Baseball History

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—If the $100,000 infield" of the Athletics of treasured memory were really worth that sort of money, that combination of J. P. Morgan, all of Hatty Green's heirs, the Aga Khan and King Midas would be needed to swing a purchase of the Yankees present infield.

Bring all you want to, you old timers, about McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker; or Chance, Evers, Thayer and Steinfield of the old Cubs; or Houston's Tenney, Low, Long and Collins; but they never saw the day they could paired the best between first and third like Dahlgren, Gordon, Crosetti and Rolfe.

Not for the money, at least, or the 30,000 patrons who watched them in action against Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of the world series yesterday.

Why, bless you, all Babe and his forty thieves never robbed princes of money the way Babe, Plais, Frankie and Red robbed the Cincinnati of base hits in that first game. Gordon at second and Crosetti at short put on an exhibition in pulling three double plays that never had been surpassed in baseball. Well, I'll tell you, if any second base combination had ever done any better they would be in some museum now, stuffed and mounted, and with a Barker charging you two bits to see 'em.

With Billy Myers winging toward second, and ready to interfere all he could with a throw toward first to nail Dahlgren, Crosetti scooped up the ball behind second and lobbed it backward to the first baseman. With unbelievable speed and skill Gordon took it, spun around, evaded the oncoming Myers, touched second and lifted the throw to Dahlgren, who picked it out of the air with one hand. It was a one-way way killing at its very best and, according to Manager Bill McKeebin of the Reds, was the play that won the ball game for the Yankees.

Even if it wasn't quite that important, it played a whole of a part, just as did the other two double plays and Gordon's tremendous stop of Wally Berger's slapping wallop in the eighth inning.

Now comes the second game and one is forced to ask one's self how the Reds expect to beat the Yankees. If they can't win by beautiful pitching as Derringer gave them yesterday, what are they going to use? Power? Well, hardly, because if matters ever get down to a slugfest match the Yankees are more than a match for them. And, after yesterday's game, they can't very well count on fitness pulling them through, because the Yankees appear to have too much of that, too.

The Yankees, apparently, are an odd sort that they can beat you by snipe ways than there are to skin
