

BRITISH CLAIM BREACH BETWEEN ITALY AND GERMANY

HITLER REPOSED MUSSOLINI PLAN, REPORT ASSERTS

By FREDERICK KUH
LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's "final peace offer" not only faces rejection by the allied powers but it may mean an apparent gap between Germany and Italy, it was understood today.

Scorn and derision were heaped upon the Nazi leader's rephrased speech in quarters representing the British national opinion. But nobody here, taking the government and the people as a whole, had the slightest idea the speech would be acceptable.

Against Due Advice
More important, it was understood Hitler made his "peace" offer against the strong advice of Premier Benito Mussolini, and that Joachim Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, had brusquely brushed aside a program offered by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, in the name of his father-in-law, Mussolini.

Well informed embassy quarters reported that when Ciano went to Berlin, he was the invited guest of the German government. It was reported also that Mussolini was invited first and declined to go. He conveyed to Ribbentrop and Hitler a conciliatory peace plan which Mussolini had worked out, providing among other things for the creation of an independent Polish state of restricted size, its integrity to be guaranteed by all the great powers of Europe instead of by Germany and Russia alone.

Suggested Conference
Mussolini also was reported to have suggested that all other problems, ranging from disarmament to colonies and an economic new deal, should be discussed at a five-power conference, including Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Russia. Ciano, in presenting this plan to the Nazi chieftains, was said to have urged that it would be extremely difficult for Britain and France to refuse such an offer.

Ribbentrop, however, turned it down, informants asserted.

The Daily Mail reported today that Ribbentrop made a speech in the house of commons Monday, replying to Hitler. In any event, Chamberlain had announced before Hitler's speech that he proposed to make a statement on the progress of the war on Wednesday.

SOLOON FEARS EFFECTS OF WAR-TIME BOOM ON U. S.

SEES NECESSITY OF LENDING CASH AFTER ONE YEAR

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Reports of Washington improvement attributable to war conditions coincided today with warnings that war-borne prosperity would lead to industrial confusion and double the national debt.

No accurate estimate is available here of prospective foreign business if Europe's war continues. There is talk of some effort toward a big business push to gain South American markets normally served by British, French or German manufacturers. Estimates of what Great Britain and France might purchase here if the arms embargo were repealed—or even if it were continued—appear to be pure guesses.

Ready for Big Purchase
A high government official so closely identified with big purchasing programs that his estimates should carry considerable weight told United Press that the French and British were ready to spend $1,000,000,000 here "immediately" if the embargo were repealed. Pressed for details, the official trimmed his estimate to "substantial" expenditures.

Sen. Sheridan Downey, D., Calif., told the senate yesterday that British and French purchases during the next 15 months would approximate $5,000,000,000 creating new jobs here and tremendously increasing the consuming power of the United States.

"This addition to our internal buying power," he continued, "will boost the price of the remaining goods at least 15 per cent. Further, several billions of dollars doubtless will be expended in re-tooling, refitting and building new factories to supply belligerent nations."

Would Have to Lend
"By the time the war trade has been carried on for a year on a large scale, the cash resources of the allied empire will be exhausted. At that point we will have millions of workers employed in war industries with a wide distortion of prices, profits and wages. We will then have to extend credit to the allies to buy or cut off employment of millions of workers overnight."

Downey estimated commodity prices would increase by 15 per cent in that process and that the national debt would swell to $100,000,000,000, which is more than twice the present debt.

To date, reports of immediately improved business conditions reflect only an increase in domestic purchases.

Homesick Girl Runs Away from Coastal School

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (AP)—Mary Elizabeth Ryan Wertheimer, 16, apparently preferred the life of a runaway with less than $1 in her purse today to that of a homesick girl in a fashionable finishing school.

Police said no trace had been found of the girl who disappeared Wednesday from the away-Westlake school for girls. She is the daughter of Al Wertheimer, wealthy owner of the Dunes and the Colonial House resorts at Palm Springs.

Mary left a note to her mother begging her not to believe she was ungrateful because "I appreciate this beautiful school," but—

"I want so much to be at home with you and go to school wherever you live. You see, I was always away at school and last year when I was ill I had a chance to be at home and realize what a home meant."

The girl had less than $1, but was wearing valuable jewelry when she left, her parents said. The family had just returned from the family's ranch near Missoula, Mont.

As Huge Semi-Trailer Crashed Off Highway

Although his truck left the highway near Gooding, turned end over end and then rolled over sideways twice, R. A. Wright, driver of the Hayden Truck line vehicle pictured above, was only slightly injured. The mishap occurred Thursday morning. The truck was badly damaged. First aid to the driver was given at the scene by R. A. Wright, East Smith, Jerome. A mechanic who inspected the truck said the king pin in the steering mechanism stuck, causing the accident. Hitler Sees Battered City: Not One Citizen Views Him

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, JR.
BERLIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Adolf Hitler has had his triumphant entry into Warsaw. Viewed from a two-hour parade of his troops across the city's ruins, and returned safely, and not a single Polish citizen has cast eyes on him.

The trip was made Thursday by plane. I and other foreign correspondents were taken along. We saw a wrecked city. But while Hitler was there, we didn't see a civilian.

All Raped Off
All streets Hitler passed had been raped off. Nobody was permitted out-of-doors, except German soldiers. Every building had been looted or boarded up. German soldiers with bayonets kept all pedestrians at least a block off the parade route. Hitler didn't see one of his new subjects and not one of them saw him.

Hitler went directly from the airport to the reviewing stand in the comparatively undamaged diplomatic district, and after the parade, directly back to the airport. After he left I toured the city and it was only then that the devastation of Warsaw could be fully realized.

AIR COMPRESSOR RENTAL IN COURT

An air compressor became the focal point of a lawsuit here today. Emil Wavra, 34, asked for $410 in a probate court civil action based on rental fee he claims is still unpaid for usage of his air compressor by E. P. Prater, former sheriff, J. T. Robinson and Kimball Elquist. The judgment Wavra requests includes expenses for a trip to Nevada he says he was forced to make in order to regain possession of his compressor.

The lease for the compressor, Wavra says, was signed last Jan. 23. The defendants assertedly retained the machine until Aug. 23, paying him $200 per month rental for March and April but none for May, June, July and August.

Earl Walker, Twin Falls, is attorney for Mr. Wavra in the civil action.

Mac Recalls Some of Most Famed Gomez "Goof" Tricks in Baseball

By HENRY McLEMORE
CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 (U.S.)—Gomez goes today.

It was a matter of Gomez going against the Reds or going out. Less than a week out of the hospital, and bound with enough bandages to make a full dress suit for a mummy, Gomez has been beside himself (and beside everybody else) who had any chance of influencing Manager Leo McCarty for a chance to pitch in the world series.

The world series is Gomez' meat. If I may turn a neat cliché, he has pitched six games against the National League champions, and has yet to be defeated. When he is suffering intensely from torn stomach muscles last week only one person, other than Gomez, thought he would manage to work against the Reds. That was Bill Dickey, battery mate.

"If McCarty doesn't figure to use Gomez this series," Dickey told me at the stadium a week ago, "then he'd better say he's got chains and a cage and put Lefty in it. Because he is rarin' to go."

ament or no ament. And I'll betcha he'll be in there."

Lefty or Vernon or Goofy, or whatever he calls him, he has been a man of action, if not a man of few words, ever since he joined the Yankees 10 years ago. The first time he was called on to pitch he amazed the spectators, his teammates, and the enemy, by rolling at break-neck speed from the bullpen to the box, which is almost a Pullman jump at the stadium. It took him five minutes to recover his breath.

Shortly after this his teammates began calling him Goofy and he never has let down those who nicknamed him. Not long after he joined the club, he was pitching in a close game at Boston. With a runner on base, Gomez suddenly turned and whipped the ball to Tony Lazzeri at second.

"Tony was astounded and demanded to know why the ball had been thrown to him."

"Well," said Gomez, "everybody has to be smart, but I want something clever."

Once, returning from an exhibition game in Montreal, the customhouse inspector passed through the Yankees' car, asking if anyone had anything to declare, and received a negative answer until he reached Gomez.

"I've got something to declare," Gomez said. "One hundred and ninety pounds of dope."

The inspector jumped.

"One hundred and ninety pounds of dope. Where is it?"

"Right over there on the seat across from me," Gomez said, pointing to George Selkirk, Yankee outfielder and one of his closest friends.

"Two years ago in a world series game against the Giants at the Polo grounds, and with runners on base, Gomez balled his windup for a pitch to Mel Ott, and started gazing skyward, a look of fascination on his face. For two full minutes he held up the pitch while he admired an airplane passing overhead.

"I'm nuts about those planes," Gomez called down to Ott. "I wonder where it's going to?"

They Went After Deer—But Came Back With Bear

They went after deer—and got a black bear.

And Buell Warner, Twin Falls, in whose home the bear will henceforth be an impressive rug, said today that the animal "was the toughest bear we ever heard of."

Warner, doing most of the shooting, and his companions, Louie Meigs and Bob Stevens, pumped enough lead into the bear to stop a score of deer. The bear finally gave up the ghost, defiant to the last, after his wounded charges had once brought him to within 15 feet of Warner.

500 to 600 Pounds

The animal weighed approximately 500 to 600 pounds, the trio estimated as closely as possible. They salvaged only about 50 pounds of meat "because the bear was shot up so bad," said Warner.

The hunting party had gone up to the Blue creek territory, some 15 miles west of Ketchum, in search of deer at opening of the season Thursday. They got no deer, reporting they hardly saw a trace of one closer than 600 yards away.

But on Placer creek Warner suddenly spotted the black bear some 75 yards off. He shot, evidently wounding the animal, which started up after Warner. The hunter fired again, and the bear turned off at right angles. Warner shouted a warning to Stevens, who came over and joined him.

He Charges Them!

The bear reappeared over the brink of the hilltop after circling completely around. It approached, growling and angry because of its wound, heading downhill at the yards of them. Stevens admitted cheerfully today that he hopped for a tree. Warner shot three times.

The bear approached within 10 or 15 feet before veering off.

"Shooting then was just reflex action," said Buell today. "Next time I'd probably be in the tree."

The bear turned, then stopped. Warner shot three more times. Wounded again, the bear lumbered off, joined by Meigs, Warner and Stevens trailed the bear until he regained his trail and found the bear in a patch of grass. The animal got up and growled, so the artillery boomed again. Stevens, using an army rifle, knocked the animal down twice and Meigs put a bullet into its head to finish it.

The trio found that the bear had been sent in spite of it that it was still standing and roaring at the last shot.

Golf Course Viewed as City Recreational Area

Should the city of Twin Falls see fit to take over the Twin Falls Country club property as a gift from members of that organization, it would not only provide a municipal golf course for use of all but would in addition open a new field for recreational development.

The city council met this afternoon by R. P. Robinson, club member and also a member of the committee discussing the matter with the city council.

Members of the club have offered the city the area at no cost, pointing out that the investment, including the land and developments, approximately $20,000, is in the case where other golf properties have been given to various communities by a club, all members ask in return that they be permitted to play the course without charge for a stipulated number of years.

100 Acres

Members of the Country club committee and the councilmen are now studying the proposition and action is expected in the near future. The property includes 100 acres.

Visualizing a long-range program of development at little cost to the city, Robinson said that the area is especially suited for picnic grounds, tennis courts, possibly a small swimming pool and also a park area.

"Such a program would not be expensive and could be completed over a period of years," Robinson declared. "When such an area was completed the families of Twin Falls would have a centralized spot at which to spend the day, engage in various sports, and picnic."

Robinson pointed out that three miles of way are part of the club average, which at the present time is a nine-hole improved golf course which has always paid its own way in that the fee membership was limited.

Public Playground

One of these eight-hole-way consists of a graded, level area of nearly four acres owned by the club, it is this area which the city is now considering to develop into a public playground except accessible to all. Should the city accept the offer of the Country club and take over the property, such development would come naturally and steadily, and the city of Twin Falls should have a municipal golf course and this city can now secure one, largely developed, as a gift. Development of the recreation possibilities by the city, in connection with the golf course, would come as a matter of course and at little expense," Robinson said.

The Country club is located just west of the city and, at the present time, is most easily reached by taking highway 90 and turning south shortly after crossing the bridge which spans the canyon.

The entire state of Maryland was originally granted as a proprietary colony to George Calvert, Lord Baltimore.

Snow Blankets Forest; 231 Deer Are Slain

Rains had given way to snow in Mindoka national forest today, not quite half the total 500 deer taken at checking stations, Grove C. Davis, conservation officer, first grade, informed the Evening Times by telephone this morning.

Deer checked out by 8 p. m. yesterday, Davis said, reached 221. That's about a normal take after the first two days of the annual special hunt which closes Monday night.

Exactly 117 of the lucky 500 permit-holders had not yet entered the forest of their deer. The total checked in at that time was 383, Officer Davis said.

Weather Inclement

"Rain which had fallen off and on for much of the preceding two days turned into snow last night. 'Flurries' is good," said Davis, "but the weather is a little inclement."

Although some of the 383 hunters checked out minus their deer, a considerable number was still stalking the forest in the snow today.

Deer checked out by 8 p. m. yesterday at the various stations: Shoshone ranger station, 119; Rock creek, 21; Crooked in search of 12; North Water, 22; Elba mountain, 23; Trapper creek, 15; Big Cedar, 15.

Check-in of hunters at the same stations showed Shoshone, 145; Rock creek, 50; Crockett springs, 21; North Water, 57; Elba mountain, 38; Trapper creek, 15; Big Cedar, 20.

Next Step Up To Bondsmen In Case Here

In Case Here

Next step in a liquor nuisance case in which the Idaho supreme court rejected the appeal of a Twin Falls man was up to two bondsmen.

The high bench's memorandum decision affirming the conviction of W. R. Cameron arrived today at offices of the district court clerk. The decision affirms both the conviction and the order of Judge T.

Bondsmen are W. B. Lawrence and Richard S. Robertson. They are pledged to the sum of $1,500.

Citing the Conner case, the supreme court said "the questions of law here present are so nearly identical to those decided in that case that nothing will be gained by discussion of the facts of this case and of the law applicable thereto."

Concurring in the memorandum decision were Justices Allsitt, Budge, Givens and Holden.
