85 PER CENT OF MARITIME UNION TERMED AS REDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—William C. McCusker, former Communist, today charged before the Dies committee that 85 per cent of the National Maritime Union (N.M.U.) are members of the Communist party.

McCusker is being held by police in connection with New Orleans police investigation of the murder of Dr. C. C. Curran. Curran was killed last September. McCusker charged that the N.M.U. was trying to "frame" him.

McCusker said the 85 per cent figure was "giving them the benefit of the doubt." He said that only seven per cent of the membership is Communist.

Nearly All Reds

Of 37 top union officials listed by Dies, 31 were designated by McCusker as Communist party members. He said the full list of officials would include "many more" Communists.

Joseph Curran, president of the maritime union, is a Communist, he said, although he testified he had never seen a party card made out for Curran. Curran has declared before the committee that he is not a Communist.

Communists are able to keep in control of the union, McCusker said, "because out of a membership of 40,000 only 3,000 are present to vote at a convention of these." He said the full list of officials would include "many more" Communists.

McCusker said that he was expelled from the union after he walked out of a convention protesting a "lack of democratic methods." He said his only knowledge of the expulsion was that he was expelled.

New Patient Tests Freezing as Cancer Cure After Woman Dies

By JAMES DOWNING
PRYOR, Okla., Nov. 1 (AP)—A 50-year-old Oklahoma man placed his life in the hands of Dr. Van Dolph Herrington today, his hope unshaken by the ironical death of refrigeration therapy's most publicized case.

He came here yesterday to follow Mrs. Homer Stout, 46, Locust Grove farm wife and mother of four, who had joined Dr. Herrington in the most urgent test so far of the potency of a cold as a weapon against cancer. He stayed today and prepared to become the subject of a second test while relatives arranged funeral services for Mrs. Stout.

Had "Grand Hope"

She died on the threshold of what Dr. Herrington considered a "grand hope" for continued life. He and E. H. Leach, who aided in the autopsy, pronounced the cause of death as strangulation precipitated by backing of the bile in the stomach when the bile duct clogged with gallstones.

She had entered Herrington hospital to undergo the refrigeration therapy experiment after having been pronounced a "hopeless case." The therapy was employed on her through Dr. Herrington's homemade refrigeration apparatus and a unique freezing blanket, on Monday, Oct. 23.

"Nothing to lose" was not afraid to have nothing to lose. She had informed her husband, at last, only three weeks to live.

For four days, refrigeration treatment was localized. Then, last Friday, it was employed over the entire body.

How "Hibernating Sleep" Works

Although Mrs. Homer Stout, an Oklahoma farmer's wife, died today, following treatment with "frozen therapy," a new patient was at the hospital of Dr. V. D. Cunningham at Pryor, Okla., to further test the theory. Above is shown Mrs. Stout, with the coils of the ice machine which kept her in "suspended animation" for several days. She died of causes other than cancer and unassisted by Dr. Cunningham.

SOLO DEMANDS RETENTION FOR ARMS EMBARGO

By JOHN R. BEAL
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Rep. Bruce Barton, R. N. Y., a former supporter of arms embargo repeal, today urged the people to retain the ban of shipment of arms lest its removal be interpreted as a "signal to start a war."

Barton carried forward the fight of embargo repeal forces on the floor of the administration today, saying the people of Europe are going to ask "what's the purpose of this war?"

"The longer we postpone our action over here," Barton declared, "the longer the people of Europe are going to ask 'what's the purpose of this war?'"

Cockeyed War

"I have come to the conviction that this is the most stupid, and the most crazy, the most cockeyed war in human history," he said.

Rep. W. H. Clegg, D. Cal., argued for lifting the embargo on grounds that Germany had been buying the materials for war from the United States for six years.

Democratic Whip Patrick J. Buchanan, D. Penn., who previously has avoided any definite vote prediction, said he was confident of a minimum 20-vote majority for repeal, and thought it probably would be more.

Majority Leader Sam Rayburn said he proposed to move to shut off further debate at 2 p. m. tomorrow and begin voting on whatever amendments are pending, unless the opposition makes an earlier move.

Help at Allied Expense

Barton said after reading the entire debate on neutrality he concluded that "logic was in favor of keeping the embargo and France, but not at their own expense."

"If I wake at night and hear my neighbor, Mr. Adams, and say, 'I think one of them is attacking the other and then it is going to attack me, under this bill I would be shouting to Mr. Adams, 'If you have $25 and will send your boy over here I'll send my shotgun.'"

Craft Sends Out Call for Aid After U-Boat Attack 450 Miles Out of Boston

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—The British freighter Coulmore was feared today to have been sunk in an attack that brought the war close to American shores.

Six coast guard ships and two airplanes raced to the scene of the attack, about 450 miles east of Boston. The first one to arrive there found no trace of the freighter or its crew. The search continued in heavy seas.

The Coulmore's distress calls last night indicated that it had been attacked by a submarine. But this was not definitely confirmed. British naval circles discussed the possibility that a German surface raider — perhaps a pocket battleship — made the attack.

The United States, trying not only to save the ship but to obtain all possible information on naval operations near these shores, mobilized all available rescue ships. The Coast Guard cutter, the position correctly, the attack occurred just inside the American neutrality zone proclaimed by the Panama convention.

Shoshone falls as it was 35 years ago, not as it is today, may be viewed in all its glory tomorrow during the "open house" and dedication of the new $55,000 Twin Falls public library building.

The old painting, which Mrs. G. Gooding, local art teacher and Twin Falls resident for many years, has been completing, will be hung at a point of vantage to be selected by Miss Jessie Fraser, librarian.

Mr. Gooding painted the picture partly from memory and partly from a photograph taken by G. E. Blum in 1904 when the old building was completed.

Dedication will begin at 2 p. m. and open house will be observed from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The library will be closed during the day as far as routine work of checking books in and out is concerned, and no other library privileges will be permitted, the building open only for the program.

J. O. Bradley, chairman of the building committee, will preside at the dedication, and the program will open with selections by the Twin Falls high school band, under the direction of Charles Macdonald.

Mr. E. E. "Red" and Mrs. E. O. Murphree, Hansen Community church, and former Methodist minister in Twin Falls, will promote the event.

Joe Koehler, representing the city council, will offer introductory remarks and greet throngs expected to be present.

Firemen Join Police; Fight Against Kids

GLENDALE, Calif., Nov. 1 (AP)—Police and firemen went out early today to break up a riot of an estimated 2,000 Halloween celebrants who were practicing wrecking a block of the downtown district.

Approximately 75 boys of elementary school age were seized and hauled into jail.

Frantic calls first came to police that a small army of boys had slipped into the downtown district and massed. A store window or two was broken, and signs began coming down. Boys began ripping up mailboxes and traffic signals. Automobiles were picked up and overturned.

Charging police were stopped by a beautifully aimed barrage of overripe tomatoes.

Tear gas was not overly effective. The boys caught the gas bombs and tossed them back where they exploded and gassed the police themselves.

A fire company was called out and the firemen turned hoses on the mob. The boys charged ammunition from tomatoes to rocks and hard apples.

Finally the police gave it up for a lost cause. The boys, who could lay hands on and hauled them to jail. Apparently tired out, the rest of the rioters dispersed.

FOR DENIES 3RD TERM KNOWLEDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt denied knowledge of reported plans by western liberals to launch a third-term boom at a meeting to be held at some future date.

He told the press conference yesterday that vague charges of a meeting had reached him. They were, however, in general terms, he said, and his understanding was that the conference was to be strictly non-partisan.

GIO President John L. Lewis, as chairman of the non-partisan league, charged that progressives from 11 western states were being organized, without Mr. Roosevelt's approval, to meet at Lake City to organize a third term boom.

The chief executive recalled that last August he was told of a forthcoming liberal meeting at Lake City, but was given to understand that it was to be a purely non-partisan attempt to review all phases of government—agriculture, security and other lines in particular.

On the understanding that the meeting was to be non-partisan, he said, he planned to attend it, but said he heard nothing further regarding it. He said the conference was apparently a non-partisan attempt to review all phases of government—agriculture, security and other lines in particular.

Finland Terms Russian Demands 'Unacceptable'

By NORMAN R. DEUEL
HELSINKI, Nov. 1 (AP)—Russian demands on Finland, he outlined yesterday by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov in a speech before the Soviet supreme council, were "unacceptable" here today as "unacceptable."

The government permitted Moscow despite grave apprehension throughout Finland over Molotov's announcement of the Soviet demands.

The Finnish government was calm and no military measures were taken but it was emphasized in all quarters that, if necessary, Finland would defend her independence and neutrality by all means.

Lost Key Blamed For Judd Escape

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 1 (AP)—Dr. Louis Saxe, head of the state hospital, for the insane, said today a stolen ward key enabled William Judd, the "trunk man," to make his sensational escape from the institution last week.

A key to her ward which he had used as long as months ago was found on her person when she returned, Dr. Saxe said. The ward woman apparently had stolen the key and kept it hidden until she found an opportune moment to flee, he said.

THREE INJURED IN CAR CRASH HERE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—An 18-year-old girl was in the county general hospital here this afternoon in a serious condition after being injured in a car crash. The girl was being treated for minor lacerations as a result of an automobile accident at the end of Third Avenue west 100th street.

The injured are: Miss Velma Hendrick, 18, severe fractures of the upper arm and lower jaw and also face lacerations and shock.

Miss Thelma Dyer, about 10, minor lacerations.

Don Husted, 24, driver of the machine, minor lacerations. All three are injured residents of Twin Falls.

The mishap occurred when Husted was driving down the avenue and failed to give the car a wide berth at a point where it intersects the old baseball grounds. The car, which was traveling at a "high speed," according to local police, struck the dirt embankment and bounced over it, coming to a stop in the field.

Clear Macintosh, a resident at Arlington's cabins, rushed the injured to the hospital.

The car was badly damaged.

Police were continuing their investigation of the crash this afternoon, but the cause was not yet determined. It was not yet determined whether or not charges would be filed against the operator of the machine.

Politics, Hitler, Stalin, Football, Artistry and Just Plain Soap Highlight Novel Halloween Fun

By O. A. KELKER
Frosted fingers and stinging toes didn't stop the gliding of pieces of soap over downtown windows last night as scores of local youngsters participated in the Halloween "window art" contest. After the 9 p. m. curfew, the signal to stop drawing and the judges had made the rounds, Francis Kieffer, 14, San Fourth avenue cut, was on "top of the heap."

His clever drawing depicting a couple of children playing in a realistic struggle caught the eye of the three judges and for his efforts he received $5, donated by the merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

He stands Guilty

Young Kieffer, evidently believing that he had "nailed" there, stood guard over his drawing until the judges arrived.

First prize in the artwork division went to Betty Lou House, 11, 212 Locust, and as a result also received $2.50. First prize under the comic division went to George Clapper, 16, 420 Second avenue east. He also received $2.50. With an award of $1 each, second prize in the artwork went to Mary Ann Dwyer, 14, 208 Buchanan, and second in the comic to Jerry Mobley, 13, 1300 Addison avenue east.

An Evening Times reporter, making the rounds, discovered one thing—that the youngsters enjoyed the contest as much, if not more, than the youngsters.

And by making the rounds the reporter "picked-up" the following oddities:

One boy drawing Andy Gump; using a newspaper comic page as a guide.

Habit Collector

Youth completing drawing of Roosevelt while 10 traveling men from a nearby hotel applied.

MAN, WOMAN END LIVES WITH LEAP

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—For a long time before dawn today Sam and his wife, who had been married for 20 years, were standing before the opened windows of the 21st floor of the hotel New Yorker, a room for which they had spent their last few dollars.

Their eyes were fixed on the cigarette-lit floor to the window and leaped together to their deaths on an extension roof 22 stories below.

"That was the way detective reconstructed the tragedy.

The couple had registered as Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wilson of Detroit. They left no notes but Detective James Sullivan traced a call they had made from their room to Mrs. Helen Yeakle, of West New York, N. J., a sister of Mrs. Walker, and soon learned the pathetic story.

Walker, was an impoverished salesman. His wife suffered from bronchial trouble. They were $41 in arrears on the rent of their furnished room. Their clothes were shabby.

Last week-end they drew the few dollars that were left and went to the hotel, Sunday and Monday and Tuesday they went out and enjoyed themselves. Today the money was gone.

Mrs. Yeakle said they had talked to her of suicide but she had believed she had persuaded them to give up the idea.

ITALIAN SHAKE-UP SEEN AS DIPLOMATIC BOOST FOR ALLIES

TURKEY, FINLAND REBUFFS TERMED RAP AT GERMANY

By WALLACE CARROLL

LONDON, Nov. 1 (U.P.)—Italy's sweeping governmental shake-up and Premier-Minister's visit to Turkey and Finland, the Russian ambassador's speech to the Russian supreme soviet marked the continuation of a new and favorable diplomatic trend for the allies.

Turkey's signing of a mutual aid pact with Great Britain and France, to Russia's chagrin; Finland's stout resistance of Russian demands on her and the United States senate's vote on the neutrality bill had come previously.

Pro-Nazi Men Removed
Premier Mussolini's shake-up removed from their posts men regarded here as pro-Nazi.

Accuse Italy's Foreign Minister, Achille Starace, secretary general of the Fascist party. Dino Alfieri, minister of national culture, and Alberto Pariani, undersecretary of war and chief of staff of the Italian army.

Neutral observers went so far as to say that the shake-up meant that the Berlin-Rome axis had been broken; more cautious ones expressed belief that the influence of Italy's pro-axis group had been definitely weakened.

Nazi Disappointment
The news of Mussolini's speech was certain to disappoint the Nazis because he offered Germany no military support, made it plain Russia would maintain a free hand in international politics, and left the way open for trade and possibly other negotiations with the allies.

News seemed real hope here that British-Italian relations could be improved. It was felt certain Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announcement that Britain was ready to appoint a consul general to Albania, thus implicitly recognizing Italy's occupation, would please the Italian. Only last week a British-Italian trade agreement was concluded, to serve as the foundation for improvement of economic and commercial relations.

GERMANS 'SATISFIED' WITH NEW RUSSIAN ATTITUDE

MOLOTOV BLAST FOR VERSAILLES TREATY LAUDED

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG, Jr.
BERLIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—Authorized German sources expressed satisfaction today over Premier-Foreign Commissar Vichnevsky Molotov's speech but elsewhere there was disappointment that he had failed to promise Germany additional support.

"We have reports from Paris and London that we are dissatisfied with the Molotov speech," an authorized source said. "Whoever wrote that apparently did not read the text of Molotov's speech or else they never would be able to say that."

The source stressed the similarity of many German-Russian views, especially concerning the Versailles treaty.

War of Stalemate
Germans who were disappointed because Molotov did not promise Germany military support, foresaw continuation of a war of stalemate and stagnation unless Premier Adolf Hitler decides to attempt a knock-out blow against Great Britain.

An authorized source declined to comment on Russo-Finnish relations beyond saying: "We recognize that Russia has several questions to settle with Finland."

The source reiterated that under the German-Soviet agreement there is no provision that Russia enter war on the side of Germany.

"We have no interest whatsoever in spreading war, which the Anglo-Franco-Turkish pact threatens to do," the source said. "Our policy is hands off."

It was said Molotov's speech did little if anything to alter the present European situation, and that the powers—including Germany—were left guessing as to whether and to what extent Russia might eventually aid the reich.

Responsible Germans had talked openly for several days before the speech of the "likelihood" Molotov would announce a military alliance with Germany. Only a few hours before the speech, newspapers hinted Molotov would disclose such firm support of Germany as to surprise the allies.

The newspapers in inspired editorials commented freely on the Italian governmental shake-up and ignored the reports abroad that Premier Mussolini had demoted men known to be pro-Nazi.

INFLUENCE

GALVESTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Dale Carnegie may know how to win friends and influence adults, but he is just as inadequate as any man when it comes to winning over babies.

Carnegie called on the Badgett quadruplets but, although he "kitty-cooed" and did the other things believed to entrance a baby, the four little girls continued to cry. Then, Nurse Ella Ague showed the famed personality man how she gave each quid a bottle of milk and the tears gave way to smiles.

GENERAL DEBUT FOR NEW HYBRID

Michels hybrid grass, which is said to have linked the good qualities of both Modosa winter wheat and wild rye parent, is making its general debut into the Magic Valley. It was learned here this afternoon.

The new grass, produced by crossing the wheat and the rye, will be handled over this section by C. H. Francisco, of Paul. His sons handle the same product in Moscow, Ida.

Concerning history of the plant, the following is noted:
"Like all other inter-generic crosses the first generation plants failed to get seed. This, in order to perpetuate the hybrid combination the first generation plants were back crossed with the pollen from the wheat parent. Some 50 odd plants are still living although they have been transplanted three times and have gone through four winters. All of these plants show a decided perennial habit of growth. Pasture and hay feeding trials have proved that all classes of livestock relish this hybrid grass."

The new seed was developed by C. A. Michels, agronomy department, University of Idaho.

Test plots for growing the hybrid seed proved highly successful the year on a ranch at Twin Falls and another at Rupert.

FLOWER BEDS TO UNDERGO CHANGE

Transformation of various city owned flower beds throughout the city will do much to beautify the community next spring and summer, it was pointed out here this afternoon by S. Claud Stewart, city park superintendent.

Stewart announced that at the present time various types of bulbs were being taken up for storage in greenhouses throughout the winter. Fertilizer is also being spread on the beds.

Change in the planning of the beds will be especially noticeable next spring in the rock garden in the city park. This year the arrangement brought favorable comment from hundreds of persons, including many tourists from scattered points throughout the United States.

In addition to the work on the beds, all leaves are being removed from the ground before the first snow flies, Stewart said.

The entrance hole of a worm house should be the side of a 25-cent piece.

YOUTHS HURT AS AUTO CRACKS UP

JEROME, Nov. 1 (Special)—Three Richfield young men cheated death early Sunday morning when the coupe in which they were riding was almost totally demolished as it crashed into and a half mile west of Richfield.

Driver of the car was Don Comer, who was the least injured of the trio. Hugh Wagner, 21, sustained bruises, cuts and shock. He was unconscious for a time. Don Roseberg, 19, sustained broken ribs, sprained ankle and contusions.

The youths were treated at the Shoshone hospital.

The accident occurred about 4:30 a. m. Sunday, state police reports indicate. Out of control, the coupe swerved some 175 feet on the left shoulder of the road, then struck the abutment of a concrete culvert. Impact of that crash overturned the car a number of times. It finally halted on its right side.

The three youths lay in the wreckage for a considerable time, but, said, before Comer managed to reach a nearby ranch home. He told the owner about the crash and then fell into unconsciousness.

In another north side accident over the week-end, damage of $100 was inflicted on the car driven by H. F. Wilmoth, Shoshone school superintendent. Returning from the

Double Thanksgiving Matter Has Post Office in Dilemma

Local postoffice officials are pulling their hair—so to speak. Reason is that November has two Thanksgivings, one designated by the governor and the other by the President.

To date the officials here have received no word as to which one they shall officially observe, but it will probably be Nov. 23, referred to by many as "Roosevelt's Thanksgiving."

If the postoffice observes that day the possibility exists that they will be closed while everybody else will be open. If this is the case then the postoffice will be open Nov. 20 and everybody else will be closed.

They opine that it's going to be rather hard to deliver mail when all other places of business are closed, or to stack up much of a volume on their closed day when all other stores will be open.

Car Hits Truck
Teachers' institute at Twin Falls Saturday night, Mr. Wilmoth was passing a truck when the latter vehicle is asserted to have turned. There were no personal injuries.

Also involving a truck was the mishap at 11:30 a. m. Sunday 15 miles east of Jerome on highway 25. Francis Chandler, Wendell, heading for home from Twin Falls, saw the clearance lights of a truck ahead as he was rounding a curve.

Investigators said Mr. Chandler evidently thought the truck was marked. He applied the brakes, but the left front wheel of his machine locked too quickly and the car was pulled across the center line.

It hit the left front end of the truck, which was traveling about 35 miles per hour, according to officers. Russ Preston, Twin Falls, was driving the largest vehicle at the time. McVey's, Twin Falls, owns the truck.

Encouraging News for Twin Falls

While we are watching the war news and other unfavorable developments, it is well to pause for a moment and give thought to the things we can find that are more encouraging.

Let us remember that in the United States—different in that respect from almost any other country on earth—we have plenty of reasons for encouragement.

Take, for instance, the words of encouragement from Thomas R. Cole, professor of school administration at the University of Washington, Seattle. Mr. Cole was principal speaker at the teachers' institute recently held in Twin Falls. While here, he made a careful survey of our public school system's facilities.

That he was thoroughly qualified to appraise the system is borne out by the fact that the district school board selected him to make a survey of the entire system in 1937, with instructions to inform the board "what was wrong and what was needed."

Following his recommendations, the board started a program of building new schools. The $350,000 building program included the new Lincoln and Bickel schools, high school and junior high school improvements, and work at Washington school.

Now, after the program has been carried out, this is what Mr. Cole has to say:

"Twin Falls is the only city I have visited where I believe the system is 100 per cent successful. It has the best elementary equipment in Idaho. The Bickel, particularly, is a wonderful institution. Twin Falls has received more for its money than any other school system I know of. It has made greater strides in changing and improving its school system than I had expected."

Not only should Twin Falls be proud of its school system, but of its school board and Superintendent Homer Davis as well. They have done an excellent job.

Now, isn't that something encouraging!

Next Treaty a Real Problem

No international commission ever had a problem so intricate and confused as the peace conference will have when war finally ends in Europe. There will not be mere questions of dividing the spoils, shifting boundaries, placing the blame.

Whole peoples have been juggled around central Europe. Some have been driven out of their homelands, forced to seek refuge elsewhere on the continent or on another part of the globe. Others have swept into their domain, taken over the land, moved into their jobs. Dictators have mixed up Europe's population to a point where logical solution of the problems fomented will be a gargantuan, if not an impossible, chore for peace conference.

Long before war began, Jews were being driven out of Germany in great droves. Then, in line with the policy of his axis-brother, Mussolini finally agreed to the exile of all Jews who had not been in Italy before 1919. The repatriation of Poles from the Baltic states is under way while Nazi leaders plan the exchange of minorities with Jugoslavia.

Russia has now decided to move Poles to her Don river coast area from conquered Polish regions. There will not be room in Poland for both the Russians and the Poles. The Poles will have to get out. Germany, too, plans to use her half of Poland for settling her own people. Jews are to be driven out; but it is apparent that a number of non-Jewish Poles will also be forced to leave simply because there isn't room enough for everyone.

In co-operation with Germany, Italy recently announced that 200,000 citizens of the Tyrol, granted to Italy after the first World War, will be compelled to seek new homes in German territory. These people have lived in the Tyrol for the past 600 years. They are simple, home-loving people—rooted to the soil, not accustomed to the vicissitudes of empires.

The Tyrolese, before the World War, were part of Austria. Essentially, they are similar to the Swiss. During the past two decades, all of Mussolini's efforts to Italianize the Tyrolese have met with notable failure. These simple folk have clung tenaciously to their own customs, their own language.

Now they are to be "repatriated"—which means in less pretentious language, they will be kicked out.

Will the peace that must finally come be no more conclusive than was the Versailles treaty? Can any settlement that accepts the turmoil of population as an irrevocable fact accomplish permanent security?

The attitude of the extreme pessimist—that Europe's second war is paving the way for a third conflict—cannot be summarily cast aside. Even at this early stage, it is apparent that the eventual peace may be bloodied even more precariously than was the peace of two decades.

Doleful Item on Hallowe'en

Mayhap Pot Shots has left his youth too far behind him. Sometimes we think so when we notice an old pair of trousers doesn't fit so well around the waist. But on Hallowe'en, the old pair is pretty well back along the trail (which we don't), so still feel we have a right to shake our heads solemnly at the old man's modern youth at Hallowe'en time.

Tak, such goings-on. You, you understand, that we cast old-fashioned eyes at these harmless things as soaping windows. Or carrying everything movable down into the next block.

Or even performing acts of dereliction on certain small and isolated structures, when such small and isolated structures are still around the premises.

Those represent mere exuberance. If we mentioned some of the results of our own exuberance as an adolescent at Hallowe'en, the constabulary would probably look up at us and say: "You're a little bit out of your mind."

It is not of such things that our forebodings for the younger generation come. It's the old man's modern "tricks or treats" that's taking.

Last night the youth of the neighborhood, armed with the Pot Shots doorway with the usual ultimatum. As soon as they found from Mrs. Pot Shots it was to be "tricks or treats" they went in and tried to get the treats with thankful grins.

They did not. They pulled their hands from behind them with very large paper sacks, already half full.

Preparings, we saw, to save until tomorrow what they couldn't last night. This is an evil omen to Pot Shots, indicating that our youth has lost its reverence for the old man's no confidence in tomorrow.

A tiny little lecture could be delivered on this matter of the big paper sacks, in sleep.

So with a hundred eyes at the future, we pause to other things. But our foot, up on this Pot Shots deck, is asleep.

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Joan asked the chairman of the church tele. Keith is pleased over her failure to catch the bus. She said she and he go to tell her "Joan, I love you."

CHAPTER XVIII
JOAN felt her heart race at his words. It was something she had wanted to hear from him. . . something she was confident he would say sooner or later. And here was the moment.

She buried her face against his chest for a long moment. Her thoughts raced along with her heart, and racing, they became confused, jumbled, conflicting.

It was the moment she had been waiting for but she didn't know how to meet it. After all, she thought she had given the idea it suddenly occurred to her that she still wasn't sure.

Finally, "Keith, I must be honest with you. I did want you to tell me. And I don't want to feel selfish, concealed motives. I didn't want you to feel my ego. But now . . . oh, Keith, I don't know what to say."

"Afford you'll hurt me by giving the wrong answer?"

"No, Keith. I just want to be sure. I can't tell you I do love you . . . but I can't tell you I don't."

He kissed her again, tenderly. "You're the loveliest fellow-sinner I've ever seen."

BUT late that night the answer came to her. The suddenness of it made her feel all bright. From her across the campus came the clear, mellow chimes from Haddon Tower, tolling "cock."

She propped herself against the back of the bed and stared out the window at the opposite end of the room. The moon danced on the branches of the trees away from the window. A street lamp flickered dimly, trying desperately to compete with the moonlight.

Everything was so clear now. Everything she saw it all. If she were in love with Keith she would have known it when he confessed his love for her. That's what she had been waiting for. But she didn't know it.

She could recede. But one thing she was sure of. She wasn't in love with him now. It was a relief to know that much.

The Family Doctor

First of two articles dealing with hygiene problems of the adolescent girl.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBURN

Medical Association of the American Republics, the Health Magazine

The average age at which girls become young women in the United States is between 12 and 16. Normal girls may mature before 12, however, or after 16.

The periodic functions begin at adolescence. The menstrual periods vary widely with different women. The average interval between functions is 28 days, although it may be as short as 21 days or as long as 35.

Moreover, the length of the cycle may vary from 21 to 35 days, and there are as many variations in the severity of the function as there are in the length of the cycle.

Slight variations should not cause mental distress. If, however, the periods are accompanied by great suffering, or if there is a marked change, a physician should be consulted.

It is well established that anemia, which is a wasting disease, may interfere seriously with the regularity of the duration and the intensity of the menstrual period. It is also known that typhoid fever, rheumatic fever or tuberculosis may bring about irregularity.

Under medical supervision, the use of underdevelopment or disturbances of the thyroid gland, the pituitary gland or the ovarian glands.

Dr. E. V. Meigs has pointed out that the cycles may start normally in girls as young as 9. However, whenever the cycle starts unusually early, there should be an investigation to make certain there is no trouble with any of the glands involved in this function.

Moreover, if the functions are late in beginning, there should be an investigation to determine whether the organs involved have developed as they should.

If there is too much delay in the beginning of the menstrual period, it is also known that the functions may ultimately make normal reproduction impossible.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—When President Roosevelt issued his order closing American ports to German submarines, he did not make the order broad enough to cover armed merchant ships. This omission he explained by saying that submarines and armed merchant ships could not be lumped together "than peace and apples."

However, when congress wrote the resolution under which the President issued his order, the two were lumped together. It is the President's duty to see that the law is carried out.

"Whenever, during any war in which the United States is neutral, the President shall find that special restrictions placed on the use of the ports and territorial waters of the United States by the submarines and armed merchant ships will serve to maintain peace between the United States and foreign states, he may, in his discretion, prohibit the use of such ports or waters for the use of any submarine or armed merchant vessel to the United States or its territories."

From the isolationist group whose fight from the beginning has been based on the feeling that the present administration is strongly pro-British, the President's action was a pointed comment on the President's order.

All the submarines are German, and all the armed merchant ships are British," says Senator Downey sarcastically.

"The merchant ship is as much a ship of war as a submarine," says Senator Tamm. "They may say it is a neutral ship, but it is a ship of war."

IDAHO GUYS FOR COMEBACK WIN OVER AGGIES

Vandals Hope to Chalk Up Second Victory of Season

MOSCOW, Nov. 1 (Special).—It's going to be a tough day for the invading Utah State college gridiron club if the Vandals of the University of Idaho can possibly make it so on Saturday afternoon.

That was the general consensus of opinion from the squad today as it went through intensive drill in preparation for its second contest in three weeks with teams from the Big Ten state. A victory would be the second of the season for the Vandals against four defeats that have been handed out on successive Saturdays by such powerhouse clubs as Oregon State, Gonzaga, University of Utah and University of Montana.

The Vandals will be in just as good a shape—and probably a little better—as they have been in for any contest this year. The starting lineup will be just about the same, with any one of eight backs expected to get the call as a starter. However, Rex Dugdale, the former Utes usually-potent passing attack had been handed out on Saturday by the powerhouses of Oregon State, Gonzaga, University of Utah and University of Montana.

Last year the Vandals scored a 14-0 victory on the Boise field and found the State college club not too tough. However, the Idaho club was a much better team in 1938 than the present one (on records) and was on a winning streak that saw it win four out of five games.

The Utah aggregation, a Big Seven Rocky Mountain conference club, has been the top team in its own league and as a result the game can be called pretty much of a toss-up—with a tie score not being 1-0. The Vandals are expected to win the game, but the Aggies look to be a tough team to beat.

With an epidemic of flu keeping nearly half the club out of practice today, the Idaho club is actually preventing practice being called for two days. The Panther squad has been a setback that will put them at a definite disadvantage.

In five games this year the Idaho team has emerged on the low end three times. Non-conference games have been won from Montana, Mines and Boise junior college, and lost to University of Idaho, Southern and the College of Idaho. One league game was won from Rick's.

Weber's record shows victories over Pasadena, Mesa junior college and the Branch A. C. Games were lost to Western State and Idaho.

Probable starting lineup for Albion will include Hanning and Patrick, ends; Turner and Harabarger, tackles; Palla and Allison, guards; Brown, center; Regia, quarterback; Powell and Hawkes, halves; Vanderhook, fullback.

Weber's starting lineup: Childs and Clark, ends; F. Bergland and Peterson, tackles; M. Bergland and Nye, guards; Thomas, center; Christian, quarterback; Nelson and Dyer, halves; Clark, fullback.

Pro Gridders Will Play All-Star Contest on Coast

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—National Professional Football league officials hoped today that their proposed post-season game between the pro champions and an all-star team would be a big draw.

Carl Wootch, league president, announced the annual pro championship would meet an all-star team picked by fans from the nine other clubs under auspices of the Los Angeles Times at a stadium to be chosen later.

Tony Canzoneri Gets Big Comeback Test Tonight

By HARRY WERGINSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—Out of the long ago, like some Halloween ghost that returned to earth last night and then disappeared, Tony Canzoneri, a little man with a strange face to guide us on a journey into yesterday.

The journey begins tonight when the smoke hangs heavy at Madison Square Garden and the clock stands at 10. There he will be, with the old-time glint in his funny face, the scars of too many battles around his brow and his nose shifting the reality and the limit.

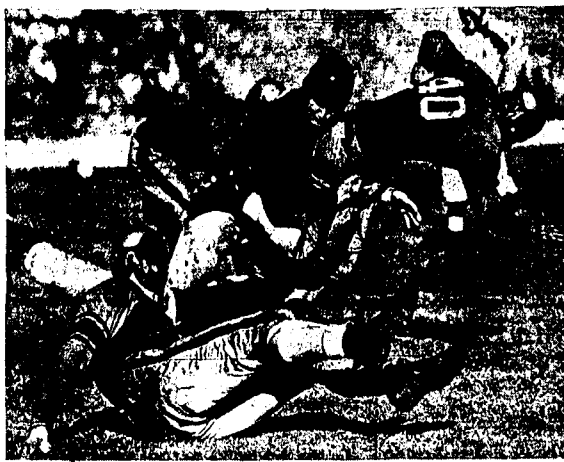

They counted out that you can't balance a ledger by throwing a line hook at it.

So late last year he came back to the ring, tonight 22 fights and slowly and painfully worked his way up to the great chance that will be his tonight. If he wins, he goes on to a bout for the welterweight championship with Henry Armstrong.

It was a golden flood will pour in again.

Stanford Backfield Star Downed Behind Goal

With a score that sounds more like baseball than football, University of Washington won over a fighting Stanford eleven 8-5, for the first victory of the year. Here is how the Huskies scored their first points as Don Means, Washington quarterback, downs Norm Standlee, Indian star fullback, behind the goal line as he tried to get away on an end run. Washington and Stanford players are shown running to the point where Standlee (22) is lying on the ground.

Purdue Bowls to Santa Clara in Intersectional Upset

U. C. L. A. blasted the championship hopes of Oregon university's Ducks when the Bruins knocked Oregon out of the coast's undefeated ranks, 18-6, in the Los Angeles coliseum. Here is U. C. L. A. fullback Bill O'Brien (16) just after he is kicked from behind his own end line. The punt was partially blocked.

Snavely Picked As Nation's Coach of Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—They felt sorry for him when he led his team into Columbus to play mighty Ohio State—they didn't know he had a pretty good eleven.

The United Press nominates as coach of the week Carl Snavely of Cornell.

The best team from Ithaca had rolled along undefeated this year in its own league. It was given a clean sweep as eastern teams go. But best Ohio State—the team that had conquered Missouri, Northwestern and Minnesota? What a laugh!

Even Snavely—they call him the Gray Fox—says the blues, but not after his team had won 23-14.

Snavely is first, last and always a football coach. He has none, unless it is golf, which he shoots in the 80s.

Snavely went to Lebanon Valley college in Pennsylvania, where he played football, baseball and basketball. He played a bit of professional football, baseball and began his coaching career at Kalamazoo in 1927. Snavely got a big time college coaching job at Bucknell. He stayed there seven years and went on to North Carolina in 1934. In 1935 Cornell called him to replace Old Doobie and Snavely's been high above Cayuga's waters ever since.

Bank Explains "How to Look At Grid Game"

By DAVE DRYDEN

MOSCOW, Nov. 1 (AP).—Coach Ted Bank is one gridiron mentor who likes to "call 'em as he sees 'em" and as he sees modern football the average fan isn't getting his money's worth and it's his own fault.

It's Bank's well-considered opinion that the average fan misses the big thrills of the game because he forgets that a team has 10 men—besides the one who is delegated to carry the ball.

"Maybe the thought isn't original with Bank, but of those who share the theory, there are few as emphatic. To prove his point, the University of Idaho coach has even permitted release of a brochure entitled "How to Watch a Football Game."

"Technically, every play is good for a touchdown," Bank relates. "If every man on the team executes his particular task, a touchdown is the result."

It's All in Execution
It's this business of "execution" that Mr. Fan overlooks.

To Bank the man who packs the ball is just that—the man who packs the ball.

"The fan would center his thoughts on the end runner, watch the linemen charge, the backs block, and then watch the ball carrier plow through the openings made, he would get more enjoyment out of the game," says this man who learned his football from Pleading (Burr) Up! Yost and Bernie Bierman.

Defensive play is another important item to a platoon athlete. Bank believes the average ticket-holder keeps his eye on the team in possession of the ball. When a brilliant play is broken up, Mr. Fan knows as much of how the offense was smashed as the man who stayed home to listen in on the radio.

Defense formations revolved through the entire team on defense and note how they meet the different type plays," advises Bank. "Each team has a special defense for line plays, and passes, and punts."

For instance, on a punt the fan should watch the protection line forms around the safety man, as he scoops up the ball. On a pass, the fan should watch the defense gather around the eligible pass-receiver while the line eludes offensive blocking and charges the passer. On line plays, keep an eye on the linemen and backs who smash through to smash up some coach's "dream play."

"Perfection is a touchdown," declares Bank. "A missed block is misery for the coach, but it makes the game exciting for the fans."

And it might be added—it's the fans who make the game "interesting" for the coach if there are too many of those missed blocks.

Catch of Bass Proves Point, Says Sportsmen

There was much talk and excitement in fishing circles around this neighborhood today—and especially in the B. club of Sportmen.

And all the comment revolved around the catching of a big bass—a perfect specimen—in canal just below the artificiality of Mullanburg lake yesterday afternoon by Everett Reed, Murtagh.

The fish weighed five and one-half pounds, was 19 inches long and the girth was 16 inches, according to the statistics of the B. club. Mr. Reed estimated that the fish could be anywhere from three to five years of age—but that its exact amount of years would be determined.

Years Planned
The B. club is sending a series from the fish from above and below the lateral line to the Idaho fish and game department where it will be tested by experts. Outlets and stomachs of the bass will also be examined to see just what the fish has been feeding on to keep in such excellent shape.

First planting of bass in this region was made about four years ago, according to Mr. Reed, and this fish may be one of the first ones planted. At any rate, the catching of the bass convinced sportsmen that planting of lake fish in reservoirs and streams of this area was a success.

Merchandise
The B. club has scheduled a meeting for Monday night at the pro-ceedings court room in Twin Falls and at the meeting the distribution of 80 channel catfish will be decided upon. These fish were brought from Utah by Burton Reed and A. H. Roth, assistant fish culturist, and

EVERETT SWEELY, OLD-TIME MICHIGAN STAR, FINDS NEW TEAM ABOUT SAME AS GREAT CLUBS AT TURN OF CENTURY

Outside of presentation of a passing attack, the 1939 edition of the University of Michigan football team is just about on a par with the clubs that represented the Wolverines at the turn of the century, in the opinion of Everett Sweeley, who today had returned from a reunion of old grads at Ann Arbor over the week-end.

"The 1939 team is a great club," said Sweeley, who played on Michigan teams in 1899, 1900-01-02. "They have about the same power, precision and blocking as our club, but on top of that they have a passing attack which wasn't used in our day. However, we used kicking when they were passing, so it appears the two clubs would be on about a par."

"You know we had some great teams in those days, too, but they were not a bit bigger or tougher than the one we saw trim Yale on Saturday by 27-3 score. Our team in the three days averaged about 180 to 200 pounds—and that's about the weight of the Wolverine club today."

"The 1939 Michigan squad is a fine club—and has the makings of a great team. Fritz Criter is a careful slow-working coach and his team is somewhat inexperienced yet, but is Wolverine of 1940 should be a great club—the making of a championship team is there."

We asked Mr. Sweeley what he thought of young Tom Harmon, the junior who is already being generally picked for an All-American.

"Harmon is a fine running back, but he still has lots of room for polish. He has a good head, is a hard worker and is fast. If he doesn't make All-America this year, he certainly will next."

"His backfield running mate, Forrest Eveshazy, is as fine a blocker as I've ever seen, but we old-timers enjoyed most the work of the Michigan center, Kodus. He seemed to be in on every play and was as busy all afternoon as one of those little rat-terriers you see running around. He enjoyed playing the game and besides that was probably the outstanding man on the team."

But to go on with the reunion:
"One of the surprising things to me was to see that practically every man on our old team was still in fine condition—mostly weighing not more than five to 10 pounds difference than when they played on the football field."

Sweeley stated that it was discovered after they arrived in Ann Arbor seven members of the old team were still alive—and of these six were present. The missing member was Bruce C. Sherris, president of the Twin Falls-Jerome Intercountry Bridge company, who was unable to attend due to illness.

Probably the greatest of all football immortals at Michigan, A. Willis Heston, who was all-American backfield man and one of the trickiest players ever to perform on any field. Sweeley spent considerable time with Heston, who is living in Ann Arbor at the present time and is an active member of the Michigan Athletic Hall of Fame. Sweeley is a member of the Michigan Athletic Hall of Fame, a machinery merchant in Chicago, and a contractor and engineer.

There was a field day for photographers from Ann Arbor and Detroit, and reporters were just as much in evidence.

"It seemed to me that every time I turned around somebody was 'shooting' us with a flashbulb. We even had a hard time getting away from a photographer following us."

"And the questions those reporters asked. I'd have had to carry a brief case full of old newspaper clippings of the 1900-01 period to answer them. However, along that line we always referred them to Mr. Yost, who had the most remarkable memory. He apparently could recall just about every incident of those old days."

Sweeley stated that the crowds at present-day big games are just about double the biggest crowd he has famed "point-a-minute" club ever played before.

"For the Yale game there were about 55,000 present, while the biggest crowd I ever played before was around the 25,000 mark. Everything is on a bigger scale nowadays in college athletics and the facilities to handle the enormous crowds gathering are much better than in my day."

"I'm not much of an estimator on crowds, but I would guess that there were between 200 and 300 of us old-limers back for that reunion to honor Yost and we'll carry memories that will last us the rest of our lives."

"It is a great honor to Mr. Yost to have his old pupils coming from all over the world to visit him. Mr. Yost, 69 now, must retire from his coaching duties in a few years, but he still appears to have just as much vim and vigor as ever. He was everywhere all during our stay there and it seemed he never tired."

"Between halves of the Yale-Michigan game we old-timers paraded on the field to form a big 'M'—that was our only performance on the field for the day."

"However, we got together at various times for meals and at one big banquet which director of the reunion, Mr. C. Sherris, and the coach of Coach Yost, a much without an enemy on the whole Michigan campus."

The plants will probably be made in Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

It was stated by Lawrence Murphy, president of the club, that the planting of the catfish would probably be in the Salmon river canyon in Idaho, but it might be in the Salmon river canyon near Castleford and in Wisconsin.

DRUG FIRM WILL INCREASE SPACE

Foreshadowed for several weeks while negotiations for lease were underway, expansion of the Walgreen drug store (formerly Schramm-Johnson's) will double the present space and provide facilities of the type current in larger cities. It was announced today.

The concern will take over the vacant quarters next door in the W. H. Edridge building, according to W. J. King, local manager. Improvement work aggregating $10,000 will start about Monday and remodeling may be completed by Dec. 1.

The partition between the buildings will be taken out, interior remodeling will allow for a large soda fountain and food counter of the kind made famous by Walgreen's elsewhere, and fronts of the two structures will be made over in a modernistic style.

"The enlargement program," Mr. King said, "will double the space available for all our departments, including prescription and drug division, sundry goods, soda fountain, cigar and cigarette division and others."

VASSAR CELEBRATES

Miss Kathryn Starbuck, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a trustee of Vassar college, is heading the drive for $2,000,000 to be raised by public contribution. Miss Starbuck hopes to have the fund collected by 1940, when Vassar will observe its 75th anniversary. Miss Starbuck, in addition to being graduated from Vassar and from the Albany law school of Union university, is secretary of the Skidmore school of arts and chairman of the program coordination committee of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs incorporated.

All Walks of Life Pay Tribute to Van Guilder

KETCHUM, Nov. 1 (AP)—From every walk of life they came today to pay sorrowing tribute to an intemperate young man more widely known than even his friends had realized.

The tribute was to be paid at 3 p. m. today in funeral services for Gene Van Guilder, 34-year-old Sun Valley public relations chief who was killed Sunday in a duck hunting accident in Hagerman valley.

Novelist Gives Eulogy

Brief and personal eulogy was to be paid by Ernest Hemingway, world-famous as one of America's most noted writers—author of "Farewell to Arms" and other books. Hemingway's acquaintance with Van Guilder had ripened into close friendship during weeks of association while the author has been here writing a novel of war-torn Spain.

Rev. James Ople, Episcopal rector at Hailey, was to read the Episcopal service.

Van Guilder was to be laid to rest in a colorful little cemetery at the base of the towering Sawtooths, the scenic wonderland which Van Guilder made famous in his work for Steve Hannagan Associates, who made Sun Valley a national byword.

Classmates Arrive

Among the scores of friends who had arrived shortly before the services were a number of high school classmates from Twin Falls and college classmates at Oquendo college, which Van Guilder attended one year before going to James Millikin university at Decatur, Ill.

Also here to pay tribute were dozens of south Idaho sportsmen, associates of Van Guilder in the Frontier club, in Sun Valley sporting activities, and in the unique "Hunters' Position" which Van Guilder had arranged before his death.

Palbearers were to be Joseph A. Johnston, Ontario, Ore., high school classmate at Twin Falls; Jack F. Lane, Ketchum; W. Darroch Crookes, Portland, Ore.; Taylor Williams, Sun Valley sport staff member; Dave L. Benner, Sun Valley athletic director; Winston McGee, assistant manager of Challenger Inn; Lloyd R. Arnold and E. L. Chapin, Sun Valley photographers. The body was brought from the Albertson funeral home at Buhl.

Not one single year has passed since the "war to end wars" (World war, 1918) without one or more conflicts.
