He spoke to tens of thousands of soldiers and workers on the second day of a three-day celebration of the revolution.

Earlier, in his order of the day to the army, Voroshilov had announced Russia was "alert and invincible" and he denounced Great Britain and France for "instigating" the war in Europe.

Themes Outlined

The theme of the celebration had been outlined yesterday in the first manifesto by the Communist International since the outbreak of the European war, and in a speech by Premier-Foreign Minister Vlasov, M. Molotov. It was a verbal onslaught on capitalism and "imperialist wars."

Molotov, without mentioning the United States, obviously referring to it when he accused "some nations" of being neutrally to "make their war against and hope of huge profits at the price of misery and ruin."

The Communist International, devoted to the world-wide spread of Communism, urged "proletarians of all countries to rise up and wage war against the bourgeoisie."

British Claim They Have Sighted German Pocket Battleships

NAVAL LEADERS HOPE TO ATTACK 2 NAZI RAIDERS

LONDON, Nov. 7 (U.P.)—Neutral naval circles reported today that allied naval units had sighted the German pocket battleship Deutschland in the neighborhood of the Azores Islands.

The allied naval command has worked out a definite plan to hunt down the Deutschland because its presence in the Atlantic endangers shipments of allied war materials from the United States, a reliable source reported.

It was said the Deutschland's presence off Newfoundland 10 days ago had been confirmed, and an attempt was being made to keep a close check on its movements.

British Naval Minister Winston Churchill's visit to Paris during the week-end was said to have been for the purpose of perfecting a plan to immobilize the Deutschland and the Admiral Scheer, another German pocket battleship which has been reported cruising in the south Atlantic. The informant said the allied naval command had no knowledge of the present whereabouts of the Admiral Scheer although it was believed to be still in the south Atlantic.

It was pointed out that a hunt for the Deutschland and Admiral Scheer would be the logical sequence to the lifting of the United States arms embargo, to clear the Atlantic shipping lanes for the transport of millions of dollars worth of American war supplies.

MOTHER AND 2 CHILDREN BURN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 7 (U.P.)—A mother and her two children perished early today in a fire which destroyed their home at La Mesa, eight miles east of San Diego.

The three, who suffocated, were Mrs. H. B. Godfrey, about 40, her son, about 11, and daughter, about 14.

Flames were seen bursting from the front of the house by three COO youths walking past on the highway. They heard screams from the bedroom but the heat drove them back when they tried to enter.

Before the La Mesa volunteer fire department and forestry trucks arrived, the house was gutted.

Mrs. Godfrey's husband is in Billings, Mont., where the mother and children formerly lived.

YOUTH BAGS BIG 300-POUND BEAR

BOISE, Nov. 7 (U.P.)—Arnold Gearhard, 18, proudly displayed at his Boise home today the pelt of a 300-pound bear he shot while hunting with two companions in the hills back of Arrowrock dam.

Gearhard, 18, of Omaha, Neb., hunting only with a 32 caliber pistol, first saw the bear and shot at it. Enraged, the bear charged him, and Gearhard turned just in time to drop it with a rifle bullet to the heart.

Idaho Onions Go Stylish in Ranch 'Home'

Although he isn't as impressed on the market this year as he ought to be, the Idaho onion has stepped up practically to the rank of "society" out on Addison avenue east.

Out there, one and three-quarter miles from town, the only structure of its kind in Idaho provides an unprecedented home for the onions of one leading Twin Falls grower.

Air Conditioned

"Air conditioning? This onion 'home' has it. Ventilation? It has it. Furnace and air blower? It has them too.

The new onion storage building is on the John L. Peters ranch, and was completed about two weeks ago. It is no less than three stories high, with three different storage floors for the big onion crop Mr. Peters raises annually.

This air-conditioned structure, 48 by 48 feet in dimensions and 20 feet high, holds 30 carloads of onions at one time. "It's just about full right now," said Mr. Peters, adding that he isn't in commercial onion business but erected the building for his own crop.

Keep Long Time

There are 20 openings for ventilation, and the grower said that onions of the current crop will keep well in the buildings until about next April. That will provide time to hit a better market than exists at present.

The onions are carried up or down in the building with an elevator system.

A big sorting room, 6 feet by 12, is included in the storage house, and beneath it is a concrete cellar with furnace and air blower. Peters, who put in 30 acres of onions this year, has been a leading Magic Valley producer of that crop for the last 20 years.

Hats Off to the Junior Chamber!

Not so many years ago, Twin Falls was confronted with the need for a municipal swimming pool. Several attempts were made to promote such an improvement, but they failed to materialize.

At that time no one even dreamed of having a baseball park like that which the Twin Falls Cowboys now have as one of the clubs in the Pioneer league.

It was regarded as practically necessary that several tracts of land surrounding Harmon park be acquired if ever the city's playground facilities were to be properly developed.

Today all this is a reality, and most of the credit goes to the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce. Since it first undertook the project of developing Harmon playground, the Junior Chamber has constructed one of the finest municipal swimming pools in the inter-mountain west. Then it acquired more land adjacent to Harmon field, and the Jaycee baseball park followed as another major improvement. Now the organization has just completed the purchase of the last six acres of land embodied in the general plan the Jaycees first visualized some six or seven years ago. It serves as a reserve space for future development of the city's recreational center.

Those familiar with the Junior Chamber's activities realize all these improvements have involved a tremendous amount of work, ranging all the way from hauling lava rock for the sub-structure of the swimming pool, to sponsorship of many benefit events.

Particularly to the Jaycees' credit is the fact they have done comparatively little out-and-out panhandling. At every step in working out their program, they have exhibited remarkable enterprise.

In years to come Twin Falls will even better appreciate the Junior Chamber's foresight and initiative. When Harmon and Jaycee parks are fully developed, Twin Falls will have a recreational center second to none in this part of the country.

It's encouraging to see what can be done, once some aggressive organization like the Junior Chamber of Commerce undertakes an outstanding job—and does it!

Let's give the Jaycees a big hand.

America Seen Through New Eyes

"When I die, I will tell the dead about it."

It was an incredulous, happy old lady speaking—and she was talking about America. She had been brought from her village home in Rumania by her son, who had lived in the United States for some time. It was her first visit to this country.

The things she saw and marveled at when she reached this shore were the things most citizens see every day. They were little things, most of them—but all integral parts of a land that is still comparatively rich and free. On a drive through the country, she was struck by the dairy herds on American farms—the unbelievable size of the full udders. Cows are not so productive in her homeland.

To this little lady, America is the most remarkable place in the world. She couldn't get over the fact that she could travel for several hundreds of miles, across state lines, without once showing a passport.

How often do the citizens of this country stop to think what that means? Americans travel thousands of miles across the continent without once being stopped for identification, unless they run afoul of the traffic regulations somewhere.

Americans don't stop often enough to count their blessings. They accept all the details of their lives as part of their heritage—automobiles, telephones, electric lights, radio, healthy cattle, freedom of interstate passage, opportunity to become successful. They belong to America, and the citizens here have become used to them. They have become so much a part of the general acceptance of things that no one ever stops to reflect over them.

"What about the houses?—there aren't any fences around them. And where do the watchdogs stay?" Leaving houses unprotected while their owners slept seemed to her like over-reliance on the virtue of humanity. She is learning now that houses don't get robbed in this country—most houses don't, at least.

It might do a lot of people some good to shut their eyes for a moment and open them again—on a new America, a country they never saw before because they were too close to it. Count your blessings, the little ones as well as the big ones. They belong to American way of life today, but they didn't always. They had to be fought for.

The little old lady from Rumania knows all about these blessings, and perhaps she will teach a few veteran Americans a thing or two before she "tells the dead about it."

The Class Ponders Beans

The class, dear children, will now come to order.

The subject for today, as you all know from your homework, is "Beans."

No, Reinalda, beans are not just some food that is carried to pork and put in a can.

Nancy Ann, please sit down and stop mumbling that verse about beans.

Beans, dear children, are an important item of livelihood for farmers.

Livelihood, as all you bright little students know, is the condition by which people make enough to live on. If you will listen to Papa and mama, argue tonight, you will find how important livelihood is. Incidentally, children, you yourselves are factors which indicate Papa's livelihood quite a lot.

However, let us get back to beans and the farmer.

And you all know, little dears, the government is trying to be a Big Papa to the farmers.

This Big Papa says he is trying to make the farmer more money so the farmer can pay more goods and the merchant can sell more and the factory man can earn more cash so the farmer can grow beans and make more money.

But then, children, pops up a country named Chile.

No, Reinalda, Chile is not what you get when you go outside without your coat.

And, Nancy Ann, Chile is not what you buy when you get that funny red stuff in a restaurant.

Chile is a country which grows beans.

Now Chile must pay Big Papa a certain amount of money to get its beans into this country. This is called a tariff. If it were for sale, Chile's beans would be very nasty to Idaho's beans.

And you all know, Big Papa has decided to let Chile get by without paying that tariff money.

Idaho beans will feel very badly about this.

It will give them an inferiority complex, because along with Chile's beans will come beans from other countries, some of which are called "most favored nations."

You don't have to know what that means, children, because nobody else can figure it out either. In fact, these things nobody can figure out anything.

And now children, let us have reason to be proud of bean-land. If anybody is caught using Chilean beans in his bag, teacher will see that he doesn't sit down for a week.

AN IRATE LADY WHAMM

The MEN: Potos (and NOT dear). You can tell newspapers are mostly edited by men. The males let their own silly prejudices, their own feeling of inferiority, their own jealousy, against women, intrude on their work.

This time it was a headline in the Eyewitness Sunday, showing blatantly in black type: "Women Blamed for Europe War."

First time a baptism class ever got out.

ABSENT THEY ALL PINK? Honorable Earl, of course, of feminine undies being stolen off various and sundry little girls.

But a neighbor of a neighbor to the lady involved tells me a new one was stolen from her. This lady lost a couple of pair of hooley off the clothes line. But pinned to some steps that were on the line and the rooming lady was a scrawled notation: "Lady, your choice of colors is awful. I'm leaving this for you."

FAMOUS LAST LINE "I say the lady of your beauty is very, very unusual."

SERIAL STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

JOAN'S feeling of terror gradually left her as she thought of her father. He'd know how to handle this. Nothing had ever stopped him.

"It's an awful lot of money," she said. "He doesn't have that much." He added almost desperately.

Big Ed smiled crookedly. "What're you tryin' to hand us, sister? The old guy can raise four times that much in an hour and you know it. He knows who he's dealin' with."

Joan looked at her curiously. What did he mean by that?

Ed grinned with satisfaction. "We got quite a reputation. Guys who know us never doubt our integrity, as they say in the papers. Say, Rocco?"

Big Ed spread his hands. "Now that everybody understands every body else, we'll get along."

And then, more curiously: "Rocco, you go back into town. Keep low but keep your eyes and ears open. I got a hunch her old man will come bustin' in."

Joan. "It ain't gonna do him a damn bit of good, though."

"Sam, see what that other kid has in his pockets that he shouldn't have, kid?" he asked Dan after Rocco had left.

Dan told him. Sam tossed his wallet to Ed who looked through it hastily and tossed it back.

"Here... you can keep it!" "Thanks," Dan said sarcastically. "Ed looked at him bleakly. 'Don't be a fresh punk, now. You ain't supposed to be in this party, you know. His face grew hard. 'Mebbe he shoulda dumped you out somewhere, at that. You'd only be in the way.'"

"As long as you kids behave yourselves we'll let you be a little bit free. One bad move and you'll be back in the pen."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A half-billion-dollar government corporation, which would try to cushion the effects of boom and depression by buying industrial products in bad times and selling them in good times, is projected in a far-reaching program now being formulated by New Deal planners.

In substance the idea is simply an adaptation to industry of Henry Wallace's "ever-normal granary" scheme. It has not yet got into the public discussion stage, but it will probably be ready for presentation to Congress some time next spring—perhaps early in the winter, if there is a business recession.

WAR ROOMS

INDUSTRIAL INDEX

Industrial production stood at 101 for January of this year, ran a little higher for the first nine months. Then when the European war began, it jumped; now, on unofficial estimates, it stands between 120 and 130.

But it isn't war demand that caused the boom, say Commerce department experts; it was simply fear of a war, for production has been built up to forestall such a price rise, and has gone up much faster than consumption.

If the process continues, and if neither an export trade boom, a sharp increase in domestic demand, nor a boom in capital expenditures by business develops, there will be an equally sudden slump.

So this plan for an adaptation of the ever-normal granary is taking shape.

Under the plan there would be set up a government corporation, backed by at least half a billion of resources—possibly more.

WOULD BUY

When a slump developed, this corporation would buy heavily of industrial materials—both crude products and finished goods, such as the like, and semi-manufactured goods.

Purchases to which army and navy purchases would be correlated would serve to cushion the slump.

Later, when another boom began, the corporation would sell the materials it had bought. This, say the planners, set it would check rising prices. Manufacturers would risk prices that did not need to be raised. Their inventories ahead of a wave of rising prices, and hence increased industrial activity would be kept constant.

Which, in turn, would make the prospects of another slump later on more remote.

MAX EXPAND

"STAMP PLAN"

It is the authors of the plan, this would not be enough—unless there was simultaneous action by the government to stimulate public demand when a slump hit.

That would mean more spending along the traditional lines—via WPA.

It is also suggested that the stamp plan by which surplus agricultural products are now being disposed of to the public.

Community Idealism Stressed by Speaker

American idealism cannot grow haphazardly; there must be a pattern that combines the thinking of experienced people with the dreams and hopes of youth, if America is to build a pattern of life that will appeal when youth takes over the responsibilities of a democracy. Mrs. John E. Hayes told members of the Twentieth Century club at the November luncheon this afternoon at the Park hotel.

Discussing "Trail Blazers in a Democracy," Mrs. Hayes emphasized the specific need for community leadership in establishing trends in American thinking, and commented, "This country can hold onto democracy as a way of life and government only if the people understand and cherish the principles of democracy."

Conscience Defined

She pointed out that in every community there is likely to be a great variation as to standards and ideals of the people, and that some group is needed to correlate the standard good for the community.

Mrs. Hayes recently attended a youth conference of high school juniors and seniors at which conscience was discussed at length.

That group defined conscience as the response to external pressure, and agreed that although home training has its effects, those standards that are acceptable to the community, largely affect youth's habits of conduct.

Mrs. Ronald Graves and daughter, Miss Patricia, were guests of honor. Mrs. Hayes was chairman of the luncheon committee.

Heritage of Americans Reflected in Program

By means of a "time clock," Alley Oop and Oola this afternoon introduced famous women who have played their part in America's history in a program presented by the senior unit of the Girls' league for the league and special guests, mothers of senior girls and members of the American Association of University Women.

At the clock turned back to earlier periods in America's history, the women were presented in their own costumes and surroundings, emphasizing the theme, "American Girls' Heritage," that women play as important a part in this country's destiny as do its men, and that there are women who have formed its history as much as have men.

From Stone Age

Presiding at the start of the program was Miss Jane Douglas, league president, who introduced Miss Joyce Miller, president of the senior unit, which had charge of the program. Miss Miller spoke, welcoming the guests.

Oola, or Miss Laura Leen Henderson, a stone age sterner, and Alley Oop, played by Miss Irene Goodnight, a stone age athlete, costumed in a stone age clothing which they wear in the Evening Times comic strip, carried the clock to introduce each sketch of a character.

First to appear were Priscilla, taken by Miss Royce Church, and John Alden, Miss Dahl Green, dressed in Colonial costumes, in the incident in which John Alden proposes for Miss Standish and Priscilla answers, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

Next to appear on the turning of the clock was Betty Ross, portrayed by Miss Betty Reynolds, sewing on first stars and stripes. Mrs. Plunkett, who showed the delegation who came to see her about the flag, including Gen. George Washington, how to cut a five-pointed star with one snip of the scissors.

In the third scene, Gaelewyn, Miss Margaret Arns, is leading Lewis and Clark, or Miss Fran Thompson and Miss Joyce Kelley, and an Indian scout, Miss Edna Warner, through the wilderness toward the Pacific ocean.

In a girl's school, a schoolgirl, Miss Gladys DeKloia, and Emma Willard, American educator who founded a celebrated girls' school in the last century, taken by Miss Lark Tyler, were seen in the schoolroom.

Second of a series of dances sponsored by the Twin Falls stake M.I.A. of the L.D.S. church will be held Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at Radioland, with Glen Bates' orchestra playing the dance music.

Interest in the dances this year has been far-reaching. A blanket invitation has been extended to the Burley stake, which is made up of nine wards. Dance representatives from Oakley, Rupert and Jerome will also be in attendance.

Guests from Burley will be admitted by passes issued by the stake president, Adonis Nielson and Mrs. Mary Rencher, and will wear colored bougainvillees as special recognition from the Twin Falls stake.

The inter-stake dance plan was developed by C. Vern Yates, Twin Falls, making it possible for Gaston, Burley, Blaine and Minidoka stakes to join the Twin Falls stake in the cycle of season's dances, thereby broadening the program, as each stake will take its turn at entertaining.

In December, Oakley will be guests in Twin Falls and will Wright's orchestra will play. Mrs. Juanita Hull is in charge of all publicity.

The formal dances will take place tomorrow evening in the ballroom of the Elks temple, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, the informal hour scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

CASTLEFORD, HEYBURN MEET FOR CROWN

2 Teams Will Tangle at Buhl Thursday

The two best six-man football teams in south central Idaho—and perhaps the state—will battle at Buhl for the championship, it was announced here today.

The teams are Castleford, winner of the Central division title, and Heyburn, champion of the Mini-Cassia region. The two aggregations will meet for the crown at 2 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 9, on the Buhl high school field.

Big Crowd Expected

The contest between the two ace clubs is sponsored by the Buhl Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis club and Rotary club and is expected to attract the biggest crowd at a six-man game ever staged in south central Idaho.

While these two teams have continued their play strictly to the south Idaho region, the contest will be for the Idaho state championship. It was announced by the state board of athletic control and the winner will be officially proclaimed as "Idaho state champion."

Remarkable Records

The two teams have come through the season with remarkable records. Castleford, winner of the Central division crown, has not lost a game this season and is reputed to be the only team in the league without a blemish on the record. The Wolves, coached by Paul Jones, have won over Minidoka, Hansen, Eden, Kimberly and Hasleton.

Heyburn, coached by Dick Stevens, has lost one game—to Kimberly. In other titles the Heyburn aggregation won over Paul, Rupert, Acquia and King Hill—the latter title a play-off between Mini-Cassia and Western division clubs.

Twin Falls, Boise Men Fined for Road Shooting

SHOESHOTING, Nov. 7 (Special)—Nowhere during several recent incidents it remains that gunners now and then will essay shooting from the highway. The state highway department has issued regulations. Any form of shooting from the highway is strictly banned, state the warden and shooting across the roads is regarded as the worst form of it.

Wilson's Store Takes First In City Loop

Undisputed first place in the City league bowling was in the hands of Wilson's Store today, following a 3-1 victory scored by that club last night over Orange Transportation in a "crucial" series.

The winners took the first and second games and total pins. High man for Wilson's was Roy Weller, who turned in a 657 total. Top single for the contest, however, went to Merlin Edwards of the losers, who rolled a 213 in his second. Edwards topped the losers in total pins with a 538.

In the Commercial league Schiltz took four in a row from Zip-Way. High honors for the evening went to Yey Gish of the losers, who got a three-game series of 554. His 211 second game just missed by two pins of being high single. Domes Berish of the Schiltz club took that honor with a 215. Corky Carlson topped the winning team with a three-game series of 537. Four of the Schiltz bowlers were over the 510 mark.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Daily Maroon, University of Chicago campus daily, editorially censured the university today for having failed to encourage a better football team through athletic scholarships and said it hoped the alumni was interested enough to "buy a good team."

The team has lost four out of five games this season and has scored only 13 points—in a victory over Wabash—against 201 for its opponents.

OPPOSING GRID PLAYERS FIND CHUCK THOMAS OF BRUINS HARD TO STOP; MARRIED MEN PLAY ON COLLEGE GRIDIRON TEAMS

If you want to find out how good a football player really is, the proper place to go is to the fellow who plays against him—tackles and is tackled by him; the fellow with which he has to match wits.

Along that line we offer you as probably one of the best backs in the state of Idaho young Chuck Thomas, a Twin Falls Junior, playing his first year as a regular with the Bruins.

Never anything spectacular on the field, but always in there plugging, Thomas, despite the fact he is a backfield man, sometimes escapes the notice of the average football fan. But not so with the fellows he has to play against—the opposition coach.

In the last three games he has played Chuck has been the outstanding man on the Bruin team—and this word from players to opposing teams. After the Idaho falls contest, members of the Tiger squad were loud in their praise of Thomas' work in the Twin Falls backfield.

Then at Caldwell on Friday afternoon we are told that he was given a great ovation from the Caldwell squad when he was helped off the field in the fourth quarter after being kicked in the thigh. At Pocatello three weeks ago, he was brilliant in defeat.

Young Mr. Thomas must have something on the ball to attract so much attention from the opposition. Maybe it would be a good thing to keep your eye on him in the Pioneer game here on Armistice day. He might display something that some of us have been missing all these week-ends.

Short story: Three University of Missouri football players are married. They are Lowell Pickett, guard; Bob Wakeman, tackle; and Rayburn Chase, fullback.

Hockey we are told that he was in the east. The idea is to increase scoring. . . . The Louisville Colonels said a new American association record when they were charged with 183 errors. However, the least any club in the Pioneer league, what with its new field, climate, etc., was 212—by the Boise Pilots. Twin Falls was the second high club in the loop with 284—only 11 less than the Salt Lake City club, which led the loop in that department.

University of Minnesota has a freshman and, Bob Green, who is said to have caught every pass on which he got his hands in his last two high school seasons. . . . Boston Red Sox have signed up 18. . . . George T. Moran, Jr., who pitched three no-hit games, for

Sun Valley in Line for Ski Championships

SUN VALLEY, Nov. 7 (AP)—The European war has pushed America into the leadership of world skiing competition for 1940—unless peace comes, before next spring—in the opinion of Friedl Pfeiffer, head of the Sun Valley Ski school.

The U. S. National Downhill, Slalom and Combined Ski championships to be run in conjunction with the Harriman Cup open tournaments at Sun Valley next March 22, 23 and 24, are expected to be the world's biggest skiing events of 1940, for both men and women.

Europe's outstanding ski competitions have been cancelled because of the war that has sent to the front some of the world's outstanding competitors.

The 1940 Winter Olympic games were scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, but even before the war broke out, it had been decided not to hold ski competitions as a part of the winter games. The 1940 Olympic competitions were confined to bob-sledding, figure skating and speed skating with skiing purely an exhibition feature.

A controversy between the Federation Internationale de Ski, head of all organized skiing in the world, and the Olympic committee caused the skiing competition to be eliminated from the Olympic events.

In a compromise, all nations agreed to send their teams to Garmisch for the Olympics, but only for exhibitions. Following the Olympics, the teams were to go to the twin feature.

Hazelton Gridders Tuck Uniforms Away for Season

HAZELTON, Nov. 7 (Special)—Hazelton's six-man gridiron team today had tucked away football suits for the season and Coach Stanford Steigle had opened plans for the next year.

The local club ended the grid year on Friday by trouncing the Paul team by a score of 35 to 6. The game was played on the Paul field and Paul scored first. But after that it was all Hazelton, with the local team counting four touchdowns during the tilt.

Iowa Guns for Irish Scalp

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—Notre Dame again rules midwestern football but out where the tall corn grows the surprise team of the year is brewing trouble for the undefeated Irish.

Iowa, with a new coach and an unfamiliar system, is in second place in the Big Ten, trailing only Ohio State, and its rapid rate of improvement spells a major hazard for Notre Dame this week on a Saturday originally considered as the one real breather on the Irish schedule.

When Dr. Eddie Anderson's destruction Holy Cross to begin reconstruction at Iowa he expected to take three years to bring the disorganized, disinterested Hawkeyes out of their slump. He did it in three weeks.

Pepper Martin Looms as Trade Material

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—A question still being argued by hot stove leaguers in this baseball circuit is what is going to happen to the "Pepper Pot" of baseball—John Leonard Martin.

The ace pitcher of the Cardinals, who has played more baseball in one inning than some players do in a season, isn't the flash of steel that once shot around the base paths.

Martin's temperament, whether on third base or in the outfield, calls for a brand of play every bit as furious as of old, but the tissues aren't what they were and "Pepper" no longer could be in the lineup as the St. Louis Cardinals' spark plug day after day.

Fans Worried

It is the case of a fading star and St. Louis fans well know the usual procedure in such instances. The player, under the Cardinal formula, is traded down the river or released, and St. Louis doesn't like that prospect for Martin, probably the most popular player ever to wear a Cardinal uniform.

Fans like his modesty, his trait of being just himself and, most of all, his flaming spirit on the ball field. His daring head-first dives for second, third or home, seemingly in defiance of the laws of gravity, always bring prolonged cheers.

Martin is not old in years—in fact, he has had only seven birthdays, being a leap year baby. He was born in Temple, Okla., Feb. 9, 1904, so he rates a regular birthday but once in four years. However, his almost unbelievably hard style of play has taken its toll.

Perhaps Radio

Some wonder if radio will be the answer for the "Pepper Pot." Some have called him a "natural" for baseball broadcast.

Curtain Rings Up on Elsie's Knees So Everything Is Quiet in Nevada

By NICK DOUGHERTY

RENO, Nov. 7 (AP)—To avert the threatened self-annihilation of a vaudeville troupe, the University of Nevada's dean of women rung up the curtain today on Elsie Crabtree's knees.

She acted none too soon. Nevada's Wolf Pack basketball team was in the hospital, the band had gone to strike and every freshman and sophomore in the university was reciting his economics in blank verse.

There was more at stake, Dean Margaret Mack decided, than Elsie's knees so she withdrew her decree of last Friday which made them taboo. It was on that day that she first glimpsed Elsie, chief marksmen of the Wolf Pack band, prancing up the street in breathtaking white silk costumes, short skirts, and with her flashing knees the cynosure of all eyes.

She did not understand Elsie was "the spirit of Nevada" the inspiration that made the Wolf Pack go. Neither did she understand that Elsie's knees, prancing in unrestricted glory before the stands, drew attention from the Wolf Pack's too often miserable play. The dean, you had never been to a football game. So, as the student paper editor said, she "rung down the curtain on Elsie's knees and the Wolf Pack's greatest asset," decreed long ago, longer what-uh-na-liga.

The chief marksmen resigned. The student body threatened revolt. The band leader frankly said "they boys cannot too." The Wolf Pack went down to Chico Saturday to meet the State Teachers, in a mood for self-destruction.

Chico ruled a top-heavy favorite. But the suicidal-bent Wolf Pack didn't care. They played like demons, throwing themselves into the game with terrifying abandon. They came off the field, the winners 3 to 0.

They came off the field in stretchers, mostly.

Then, yesterday, a committee called on Miss Mack. It was a matter of grave moment, the spokesman said. The Wolf Pack was badly crippled and the team itself, with hardly any reserves, might expire. The band had absolutely quit. Could she therefore reconsider the matter of Elsie Crabtree's knees?

She did, and Elsie will be back at the games with her dimpled knees.

The PAYOFF

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Butch Keeling fears that hockey has become mechanized.

There is no getting away from the fact that it has changed considerably, says the old major league now managing the Kansas City Greyhounds of the American association.

There no longer is a place for the individual star. Years ago each club boasted of some extraordinary performer.

Eddie Shore, great defenseman of the Boston Bruins, was the last of these to go.

"There won't be any more," Keeling says. "Hockey has become a team game. A player becomes part of a machine. Any tendencies he may have to stand out by himself are an attraction at the moment, but they are not as prominent as they once were."

Keeling speaks particularly of the National league, and supposes that the magnates were forced to take this step. Big names wanted the city hall and more to play and the fact that they were getting much more money than teammates created dissatisfaction.

Owners found that they could get two or three good youngsters for what they were paying their big shot.

Team play now is the thing and as a result Keeling would say hockey is not now as skillful as it was five years ago, although clubs may be as strong or stronger. He points out that the individual feats of skating and stick handling are not as prominent.

Yet he believes there are as many good players.

Maybe it's a case of the athletes putting out only what they are paid to put out.

Schultz started off the Commercial week's bowling by taking all four points away from Zip-Way boys. But they had to let Vey Gish get away with high score for the three-game total—564.

Corky Carlson, with 337, led the victors, but not by enough to brag about as Vern Jennings got 329, Al Westergren got a 335 total. He and Gish did most of the bowling for the Zip-Way team.

Domer Berghon got high single—215, but Gish crowded him for that honor with a 211. Both scores were made in their second games.

Mac Thinks James Joy Johnston Nearest Thing to Old Faithful

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—If you can't afford to go to Yellowstone and watch Old Faithful spout the next best thing is to come to the New York and watch and listen to man's nearest counterpart, part of that celebrated guy, James Joy Johnston.

As a matter of fact, Johnston may be even better than Old Faithful, which, as I recall, spouts only every hour or so. Johnston spouts every minute or so. Usually he spouts about boiling, which is close to his heart, which, in turn, is close to his pocketbook, being as he keeps that article sewed inside his vest.

Johnston's latest eruption came yesterday and even passed by 20 stories below his office at Times Square, paused to listen. He had chosen for his subject the refusal of Billy Conn, the light-heavyweight champion, to meet his heavyweight, Bob Pastor, in Madison Square Garden Dec. 18.

If you don't notice or don't care had been there one or both of them would have slapped Johnston's face, because he said some rough things about the Pittsburgh

Irishman and he didn't stop to smile when he said them. He challenged the Irish in Conn for a fight, saying he understood Irishmen like to fight and would take on all-comers just for the sheer delight of a brawl. Then, jumping into the patois of an Oxford don, he accused Conn of taking a "run out power" on Pastor. Translated into vulgar English "run out power" simply means "ducking" or "scrumping" or avoiding a certain situation because of fear of the consequences of staying and meeting it.

"Well," Johnston said, "I understand Conn doesn't want to fight my man because he thinks I'm too heavy. What an excuse! Pastor weighed 174 and Louis 208 the first time they met. And in Detroit this summer Bob was only 180 to Joe's 204. Only slates care about weights. Don't tell me Conn is an Irishman. He wouldn't fight to give more than five or six pounds to Pastor, and what's that?"

Johnston to the contrary, Conn and his board of control probably are smart to duck Pastor. The best such a fight could draw would be around $100,000 and Conn might well get licked, Pastor being his equal as a boxer and having a decided edge in experience. By playing safe, Conn can be almost sure of an outdoor shot for the best prize, championship, next summer. And Conn and Louis would do half a million or more. Conn is reasonable, he has that intangible thing we call color and, not having been whacked to bits by Louis, could be built into quite a card. Of course, he would be under no obligation to fight ever going to lick Champion Joe, and Paddy Dan is just what Conn is. He is a pretty slow and a smile, but he can't hit. And when a fellow can't hit, Louis just shuffles in, brushes past and takes the first punch and is off.

The trouble Conn wouldn't be the echo of the referee's final instructions. One left hook, one drilling right, and Billy would be the little man who wasn't there.

But he'd get a lot of money and speaking as a man who has been a new, bright, crisp $3 bill, right in his own hands, money isn't bad stuff.

Do Your Best Each Day, Says Justice Holler, 84

By O. A. KELLER
During his life, especially for the past seven years, he has had many sorrows and most of these have belonged to other people. But despite all this, Justice of the Peace H. M. Holler, 84, said today: "Do the best you can each day. Let the past be past and the future take care of itself."

JUDGE H. M. HOLLER, 84, oldest United States commissioner in the nation.

He is 84 now. The judge is 84, having first seen the light of day on a farm at Martinsburg, Ia., on June 18, 1855. His grandfather, Daniel Martin, had laid out that community a few years earlier.

Judge Holler was first elected justice of the peace in Twin Falls in 1921 on the Republican ticket. He has served continuously since that time, winning out over all comers at each successive election. His appointment as United States commissioner came one year ago and with it came the honor of being the oldest commissioner in the nation.

During his terms as justice he has seen "many people come, and many people go." Records show that he has had 1,000 criminal cases and 762 civil cases.

CITY WILL MARK NOV. 30 HOLIDAY

Although no proclamation will be issued, city council members today announced through Mayor Joe Koehler that the municipality would observe Thanksgiving on Nov. 30, in keeping with the proclamation issued by Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen.

President Roosevelt issued a proclamation calling for the observance to come this year on Nov. 29, but Idaho's governor held to the well established date.

Councilmen last night also voted to permit city employees have a full holiday on Armistice day next Saturday. Local stores will remain closed during the morning but will open from noon on. The city hall, however, will remain closed throughout the day.

Making a report at last night's session, after attending a short course on water works and sewage treatment at the University of Idaho at Moscow was L. G. Satterlee, superintendent of the filtration plant. Among other things he reported that water at Blue lakes was being contaminated from sewage on the north side and that tests showed this to be the case. Facts learned at Moscow back up this statement, he declared.

Councilmen also approved building permits filed with the city clerk and likewise various contracts reported handed to the clerk by heads of the several city departments.

Charles P. Larsen, city superintendent, advised councilmen that four additional blocks on Shoupway between Fillmore and Harrison streets were being opened by the street department. The roadway was formerly little more than a trail and widening of the road was made possible by property owners.

Continuance of traffic lanes at various Magic Valley communities—without advance publicity—will be carried out by state police to check up on auto defects and on drivers' licenses, Lieut. A. E. Perkins, Buhl, announced today.

He said that two arrests were made at Jerome yesterday because motorists had no driver permits. The first was a man who was found to have either faulty lights or brakes despite the provision of each 30 days at a registered certificate station.

Jerome county and city officials cooperated with four state patrolmen in the northside safety lane.

Idaho Triplets Survive After Premature Birth

FERNWOOD, Ida., Nov. 7 (U.P.)—Triplets, two girls and a boy, born prematurely under near primitive conditions in a mountain cabin here, slumbered peacefully in an improvised incubator today and appeared capable of a normal existence.

The babies were born to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sampson, last Friday. They already have two sons, three and three pounds and three and a half pounds, respectively.

Mrs. Sampson is 21 years old. Her husband, 23, was a logger before he established a ranch here.

One child—the doctor doesn't know which—did not breathe normally after being spanked, and Dr. Platt was forced to use artificial respiration for nearly 15 minutes. He then filled a basin with blankets, pillows and hot water bottles to maintain even temperature.

The babies are fine and husky, though small. Dr. Platt said, "They already have two sons, three and three pounds and three and a half pounds, respectively."
