Writing Platforms for 1940

Democrats and Republicans alike should be grateful to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, candidate for the G. O. P. presidential nomination, for the clear-cut program he offers his party as 1940 objectives, even though it is negative and not constructive in its approach.

Briefly, here is what Taft wants the Republican party to back:

1. Reduction of government costs and balancing of the national budget.
2. Repeal of the payroll tax.
3. Repeal of the capital gains tax as a means of increasing employment.
4. Amendment of the wages and hours law to make it simply a minimum wage law.
5. Amendment of the National Labor Relations act, which the senator contends is being administered one-sidedly.
6. Abandonment of attempts to fix prices in basic industries.
7. Repeal of the Guffey Coal act.

Vital Facts for Stamp-Lickers

Dear Pot: It is a vital matter which no part of the stamp or envelope, feel that a few words of advice should be given on how to lick stamps and envelopes. Everybody is called upon to lick both stamps and envelopes. Fortunately indeed is the tongue which catches the adhesive, for instance, at Christmas-card-mailing-time.

Stamp licking is divided into several schools of thought. The Post Office readers who have been plodding along in the rut of the same old method for years might get a new lease on (tongue) life by perusing the results of my investigations.

No. 1 school, in point of numerical frequency, is the Give-It-A-Solid-Lick School. To this group belongs 80 per cent of all conscientious folk who believe that they do it the way they should do it.

Method: Stick tongue far out and give stamp a virtual lick, skipping no part of the stamp or envelope. As I say, this is the rut into which most of our people have fallen.

On the contrary, it is so correct as to be fatal. Devotees of the Give-It-A-Solid-Lick School taste the "lickum" in its horror. They are the ones campaigning for pepper-mint stickers. But Jim Farley has ignored their pleas.

Another school is that of students of this method often find their stamps and envelopes not sticking well. This is because they've eaten most of the stickum.

School No. 2 is the Lick-and-Skip School. This method calls for a good part of the corner with thumb and finger, moistening the remainder of the stamp much as in the Give-It-A-Solid-Lick School.

Advantage: Less aching tongue. Disadvantage: The tongue frequently overlaps and hits the finger and thumb. If these are not moistened, the stamp will not stick. Besides, the unsealed corner of stamp leaves a fine starting point for stamps to peel.

School No. 3 is the Finger-on-Edge School. This applies only to stamps. Enthusiasts of this method cover a good part of the corner with thumb and finger, moistening the remainder of the stamp much as in the Give-It-A-Solid-Lick School.

Advantage: Less aching tongue. Disadvantage: The tongue frequently overlaps and hits the finger and thumb. If these are not moistened, the stamp will not stick. Besides, the unsealed corner of stamp leaves a fine starting point for stamps to peel.

School No. 4 is the Moistening-Finger-First procedure. This has no advantages and gives onlookers a queer smile. It does not stick. Besides, the unsealed corner of stamp leaves a fine starting point for stamps to peel.

School No. 5 is the Lick-and-Skip School. This method calls for a good part of the corner with thumb and finger, moistening the remainder of the stamp much as in the Give-It-A-Solid-Lick School.

Advantage: Less aching tongue. Disadvantage: The tongue frequently overlaps and hits the finger and thumb. If these are not moistened, the stamp will not stick. Besides, the unsealed corner of stamp leaves a fine starting point for stamps to peel.

If Democrats are willing to fight the campaign on the basis of these seven simple points, the ground is laid for the 1940 battle. In other words, does the New Deal program stand or fall?

Here are issues everyone can understand. They are stated simply, and they concern vital affairs at home. Whether you agree with the views of the senator from Ohio, the issues he outlines touch every citizen.

It will be a good idea for American citizens to remember that this country is a long way from solution of some of its most harassing problems, most of them centering around unemployment. The war will very likely be injected into the campaign many times before the votes are counted in November, 1940. But the war is not an issue. It should not be an influence in next year's vote, for the majority of both parties agree that the United States should stay out of it.

While it would be nice to believe that the 1940 campaign will be carried on around a program as simple as that proposed by Senator Taft, the final platforms adopted by both parties will probably be nowhere nearly so concise. Unimportant issues are likely to assume great proportions, and the real disputes may be buried under a deluge of words.

Unfortunately, that's the way platforms are usually written. And the voters, for whom they are intended, will have to guess at what they mean or vote by instinct on personalities.

Forecasting Business

Something that wasn't on any of the business charts happened recently in steel town of Farrell, Penn., with its 15,000 inhabitants. Almost overnight, this town shook off its depression, and its workers went back to the mills. Everything is booming again, and the townspeople are cheered by the factory whistles that sounded again for the first time in nearly two years.

The same thing has happened in other cities, wherever there is industry. One day the factories are quiet, the workers jobless. And then a factory whistle blows and the town brightens up and merchants get rid of the stock that lay idle so long. Economists don't expect these things to happen because the graphs don't indicate prosperity.

One thing the business charts don't show is the psychology of the people. Business crests and depressions are not ruled alone by hard statistics. When economics is finally boiled down to an exact science, it will probably comprise a mixture of statistics and psychology.

Sabotage Warning

The ghost of the First World War keeps popping up in this country, even while American citizens have turned their attention to the new struggle. Over the protests of the German government, the German Mixed Claims commission has awarded nearly $60,000,000 to private Americans for two munitions explosions which occurred more than 20 years ago before the United States entered the First World War.

The first blast occurred on Black Tom island, off New Jersey, in July, 1916, when two million pounds of ammunition were set off. The second was at Kingsland, N. J., where half a million three-inch shells blew up. The commission decided last June that both blasts were the work of German espionage agents.

The disposition of the Black Tom and Kingsland cases comes as a warning to this country—a warning that there is another war and that the allies will again want munitions. With the neutrality act finally repealed to permit export of war supplies to warring countries, the United States must expect repetitions of sabotage acts. Wars sometimes are fought a long way from the battlefield.

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONFIELD

He and Sam resumed their casual game after playing, playing steadily. Rocco sat hunched in a chair and glanced idly through a magazine. Every once in a while one of them would take a look at Joan.

Sam nudged her. "Say, what was your idea in getting to chummy before. Helping with the money, I mean?"

"Might as well be friendly," she whispered. "That'll keep 'em relaxed. Never can tell when we might get our chance. They are giving us a lot of freedom, you know."

They looked Joan in her room that night and ordered her upstairs into the garret. His single window also was boarded securely. Escape for either of them seemed impossible.

AFTER breakfast, next morning Big Ed gave Rocco careful instructions. "Sam'll take you to the city limits only. Take a cab in from there. Meet him at the same spot at 4. Call Alex, but don't go near that campus... can't tell who might have taken a good gander at us down there."

Sam nodded briefly and he and Joan went out.

"You kids stay in your rooms until Sam gets back," Ed growled. "They were crestfallen. For a brief moment they thought this might be their opportunity with both Sam and Rocco gone. Ed released them an hour later when Sam returned.

"Maybe when he goes back again for Rocco..." Joan whispered. But again they were disappointed.

"They're still running" around like a bunch of headless chickens," Rocco reported. "They're actually bumping into each other. Here, take a look at this." He tossed a paper to Big Ed. "It's old man in town... he's puttin' up a $10,000 reward and raisin' all kinds of hell in general."

"Let 'im raise," Ed grunted. "What did Alex have to say?"

"Alex thinks the old man will come through... figures he'll hold out to the last minute and phone New York for his guys to leave the dough. Whaddya think, Ed? Alex usually figures things out okay, don't he?"

"He ain't missed yet," Ed grunted to Joan. "Maybe you want to play cool again, sister?"

SHE busied herself for the next hour, helping Sam once again with the meal.

"Ever peep potatoes?" he asked her, shoving a bagful at her. "You can try it now, if you ain't?"

He watched her in apparent disgust for a couple of minutes as she sliced off thick slices. "That ain't no way to peep potatoes," he said. "Here... open these beans."

She looked up and saw Joan laughing at her, silently. She might have resented it a short while ago, but she grinned good-naturedly in reply.

When they were through eating they asked if they could see the paper.

Big Ed tossed it over.

The story was splashed all over the front page and they read it together. Suddenly Dan looked up from the paper, regarding Joan quizzically.

"What's all this?" 7 Millionaire heiress... daughter of J. G. Johnson... powerful eastern utilities magnate...

He shook his head, bewildered. "It's this... I tapped the paper. 'Is this... true? You mean you're an heiress to all this?'"

"What difference does it make?" she asked softly.

He put the paper down and stared across the room.

"I asked you a question," she repeated.

"What does it mean?" he echoed. "It... it doesn't really make any difference to me. Herpiedulee! 'Not a bit.'"

But she knew what he meant and there was a funny feeling in her throat. Everything indicated to her with a rush and she knew in an instant of panic that, somehow, she would have to make him love her.

She knew then that she was in love with him.

TREATMENT OF GONORRHEA

The first thing to be desired in gonorrhea is to eradicate the primary focus of infection (usually in the urethra in men, the cervix in women).

The best place for the patient during this stage is in bed. The doctor who attends him will prescribe and direct local applications of heat and irrigation with antiseptic solutions. To attempt self-treatment is foolhardy; the expert use of instruments and injections will only spread the infection.

The treatment must be continued until all symptoms disappear and the discharge from the tissue contains no microbes.

Sulfanilamide in Gonorrhea

Since 1937 much has been heard about the use of this new drug in many infections. A great deal of research, observation, and experimentation has been done and certain conclusions can now be drawn.

The gonococcus is a delicate microbe and sulfanilamide in the proper dosage is effective. Because the medicine can be taken in tablets by mouth its use is simpler than many other forms of treatment. It is a cure for gonorrhea in the disappearance of all acute symptoms, but unfortunately (1) the germs in many cases merely retreat into the deeper tissues where they survive for long periods during which the patient can pass on his infection to other people and (2) there are some people in whom sulfanilamide treatment is not successful.

There is always the danger that the patient, seeing his symptoms gone, will decide that he is cured while his body still contains the germs. Far better to continue local treatment and irrigation along with the medicine, and check carefully for the presence of germs until complete cure can be assured.

Dangers of Sulfanilamide

The mass deaths following the use of Sulfanilamide Elixir in 1938 were due to the fact that it was dissolved in the liquid in which it was dissolved.

About 30 per cent of persons who take this drug have some or all of the following symptoms: Nausea, vomiting, headache, dizziness, mental depression, rash, jaundice, and bluish discoloration of lips and skin are also quite common. These reactions are not dangerous in most cases, but they indicate that the patient's tolerance for sulfanilamide is low and that it must be given with care.

About 1 per cent of the cases severe reactions occur. Sometimes the red color of the blood is destroyed, the white cells are destroyed, and again there is high fever or neuritis or blood in the urine.

Because of the possibility of reactions, patients should not take sulfanilamide without a doctor's supervision. Physicians using the drug should examine the patient's blood counts and urine examinations frequently. Employed in this way, sulfanilamide is of great benefit in many cases of gonorrhea. It should be employed carefully it is dangerous.

Artificial Fever

In chronic gonorrheal infections of joints or of the pelvic organs, artificial fever promises much. The best type of apparatus at present has been devised by Dr. D. M. G. which the patient's body is enclosed while his head remains outside.

Ordinarily from three to six treatments are required, during each of which the patient's temperature is brought up to 100-102 degrees Fahrenheit (normal is 98.6 F) and maintained at this level for four to ten hours.

The apparatus is expensive, special training is necessary for the operator, and the patient must remain with the patient during the entire time of such treatment, and the treatment themselves are definitely uncomfortable for the patient. But the results in properly selected cases are excellent.

In gonorrhea as in all other diseases, it is not the disease but the patient who must be treated. No hard and fast rule can be laid down for such treatment. But the chief objective is to get rid of the first focus of disease before other portions of the body become involved. (Next week syllabus)

St. Edward's Arranges Education Week Event

One hundred parents and patrons responded to the invitation of the Parent-Teacher association of St. Edward's school to attend an open house and evening tea last night at St. Edward's school. Mrs. Alfred Puglione was general chairman of arrangements.

Former pupils of the school appeared in musical selections throughout the reception hours. The sisters and room mothers received the parents and patrons in their respective rooms. Chrysanthemums formed the decor for each room.

The table was attractively appointed in blue and silver, blue tapers shedding a soft glow over the tea table which was centered with a silver vase of blue and white flowers.

Mrs. Owen Buchanan and Mrs. Claude Deweller were at the service during the hour from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Dean Beatrice Olson Guest of B. P. W. Club

Miss Beatrice Olson, dean of women at the University of Idaho, during whose term as national program chairman of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, two highly worthwhile innovations were made, was honored by the Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's club last evening at a no-hostess dinner in the private dining room at the Rogerson hotel.

She was largely responsible for the establishment of a new type of program, compiled by experts, which provides a complete program outline together with kits of source material so arranged that even the smallest clubs can find something suitable to their needs. It was also at her suggestion that the entire program for the year is now printed annually in August in the independent Woman, official magazine of the organization.

Miss Olson served in the capacity of program chairman during the administrations of Mrs. Celine McDonald Bowman and Miss Chae Williams, and was also national representative to the California and Wyoming state conventions a few years ago.

Other guests
Miss Margaret Bennett, former secretary to the president of the School of Library Science, New York City, and also former secretary to President King of the University of North Dakota, was likewise a guest of honor.

Miss Bennett came to Idaho with Miss Olson, following her resignation as dean of women of the University of North Dakota, and is now a resident of Moscow.

Also among the guests was Mrs. Rose Murray North, dean of girls of the Twin Falls high school, with whom Dean Olson conferred today while a guest at the local high school.

Frances Forsight
"The women who were responsible for the launching of the Ten-Year Objective, with its study of economic conditions and their social implications," laid a better foundation than they knew," Dean Olson told the women at last night's dinner.

Miss Marion McClench and Miss Emily Koenig were instrumental in launching the course of program study at the national B.P.W. convention, Richmond, Va., which has been patterned after by numerous other organizations in the succeeding years, when everyone has become acutely aware of economic stress.

Dean Olson, speaking informally, added sparkle to her talk with personal anecdotes that brought repeated laughter from the dinner guests. She was particularly complimentary to the Idaho federation for its undertaking of an employment survey of the state, and for its second objective of the year, "At least one representative from every club attending the regional convention at Glacier national park next June."

Approves Survey
"The point of view with which your federation is approaching this fact-finding survey should be of equal interest both to men and women, inasmuch as it is to be directed in an unbiased, unprejudiced manner," she said today.

Asked a question concerning the attitude of the modern young woman, for whom she desires "a better business world," Dean Olson said "It is just as natural for a woman to be motherly as it is for her to be a business woman. If you appeal to any girl on the basis of welfare of others,

Beatrice Olson

Dean Olson told entertainingly last evening of her experiences as national program chairman and of national representative for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's club.

TOWNSEND PLANS
THANKSGIVING DINNER
Townsend club No. 1 will entertain at a Thanksgiving pot-luck dinner at the Odd Fellows hall Monday evening, Nov. 27. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and later in the evening Claude Pratt and his cast will present a home-talent play.

Plans for the event were made Tuesday evening at City hall, where Mrs. Albert Pustke presiding. In the play will be Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Bob Pratt, Clifford Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt and a small girl, to be named.

In the presentation of the play, Mrs. Pratt gives two readings; Mr. Pratt gives two solos and Mr. Grant plays selections on a saw.

The play reflects what the Townsend plan hopes to do for the poor and destitute, according to officers.

H. S. PLAYS EARN HIGH RECOGNITION

Two plays which have been presented at Twin Falls high school recently under direction of Miss Florence Rees, dramatics director, have just received added recognition.

Photo of "Prologue to Glory," all-school play given here last month for the first time by any high school, will be on exhibit at the Western States Teachers' conference at San Francisco during Thanksgiving holidays, according to word received by Miss Rees from the educational adviser of Samuel French publishing company. The picture shows details of the presentation of the play.

Expected Discussion
The educational adviser informed Miss Rees that the photos of the Twin Falls production will "undoubtedly" cause considerable discussion at the conference.

Reus has been received from the Ski club of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey for permission to stage "As You Like It" on Ski's junior class play written by Miss Rees from Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and presented last week in an ultra-modern setting. The Ski club learned of the play through the Dramatic Play service of New York City, the secretary of the group said.

Magazine Publicity
At the time of its production, "As You Like It" on Ski's received recognition in the national dramatics honorary publication, Theatrical magazine, and word has been received from the editors that pictures and a complete story on "Prologue to Glory" will appear in that publication soon.

Membership for Local Post

Mark Hennefer, membership chairman of the local American Legion Post, this afternoon urged that membership at the post be increased at once in order that an all-time record could be set.

Hennefer added that the present membership drive ends Armistice day, next Saturday, and that all dues should be paid before that time. Payments are being accepted by Hennefer or by W. W. Francis, post adjutant.

CHAMBERLAIN REJECTS MONARCHS' PLEA FOR PEACE

LEADER ASSERTS ALLIES WILL NOT LAY DOWN ARMS

By WALLACE CARROLL

LONDON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today rejected Britain's intention to lay down her arms "until she has been assured 'Europe has been freed from the threats which long have paralyzed the life of her people'."

In a speech read for him at the lord mayor's luncheon at Mansion house by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, the prime minister left little doubt that the peace offering by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold would fall in view of Britain's distrust of Germany, on which he laid responsibility for the war.

Simon read Chamberlain's speech because the prime minister is confined to his bedroom by an attack of gout.

In his speech the prime minister wrote "his was never would have come it, on the side of the German government, there had been the same genuine desire for peace as there was here."

Derides Nazi Chiefs
He then derided the "stiff-necked men to whom Germany has handed over the guidance of her destinies." "Events have shown," he said, "that they would be satisfied with nothing less than repetition of forcible attainment of their desires, which they had unsuccessfully tried before."

Chamberlain said that since start of hostilities the position of the allies has strengthened while that of Germany has deteriorated and he initiated repeal of the American arms embargo had contributed greatly to the stronger position of the allies.

Appreciates Motives
"Every one will appreciate the lofty motives which actuated the sovereigns of Holland and Belgium in offering their good offices," Chamberlain said.

"I confess I am not hopeful of a satisfactory response from the German government," he said.

"It will be necessary for us to consult with the Dominions and with our friends in allied countries."

"The position of the allies has, as the weeks have gone by, rather strengthened than deteriorated. The treaty with Turkey will be a powerful instrument for peace in south-western Europe."

On the other hand, the pact between Germany and the Soviet union has gained great advantages for the Soviet but only humiliation and loss for Germany."

Chamberlain said he based his optimism regarding Hitler's reply to Wilhelmina and Leopold on "past experience." He said, however, "we do not want to continue the war a day longer than necessary if a satisfactory settlement can be obtained in another way."

Twin Falls Boy At Aerial School

Wallace is a son of H. B. Wallace, who now resides at Homedale. The Ryan school which Wallace is attending is one selected by the U. S. army to give primary flight instruction to air corps flying cadets.

Among the technical subjects the youth will study during the course, in addition to the six hours of daily practical instruction, are navigation, meteorology, aerodynamics, instrument flying, radio, blue print reading, airplane design, welding and sheet metal.

They Fly Army Bomber Here

Pictured above are two officers and two crew members who next Sunday will fly one of the U. S. army's large bombing planes to the Twin Falls airport for public inspection. The ship will arrive here at 11:45 a. m. and will remain until the following morning. Airport visitors will be shown through the seven-ton plane. In the picture above, taken as the officers planned the trip to Twin Falls, are (left to right, standing) Lieut. Clifford J. Heflin, co-pilot; Lieut. Russell Grussendorf, pilot, and Staff Sgt. T. F. Adams. In the plane is Private Otto Jones, radio operator. (U. S. Army Photo-Times Express)

170 Sign for REA Electricity Plan

SHOEBONE, Nov. 9 (Special)—Tracts of Richfield and Dietrich are soon to get rural electrification, according to the announcement that 170 signers to the project have already been obtained with the prospect of 35 more. Richfield presented 99 of the signers and Dietrich 71. District REA representative, E. E. Carms, met with Dietrich residents and felt that the necessary number of signers had been secured. There must be two power users for every mile of power line. Maps of the district are in the hands of James Kingdon, Dietrich.

Northwest Shoshone is now contemplating a similar move for rural power and lighting, though the details have not been fully worked out. It is stated.

CAUSES FOR AIR CRASHES LISTED

BOISE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Spills, stalls and inexperienced pilots caused the outstanding fatal aircraft accidents analyzed by federal investigators, the air safety board of the civil aeronautics authority informed Idaho Aeronautics Director W. H. Hill today.

Hill supplemented the analysis with a statement he believed the safety belt was an antiquated piece of air equipment that should be improved to prevent accidents of a minor nature from resulting in serious or fatal injuries.

Ramming Belts
The present location of these belts across the lower abdomen allows the upper part of the body free to be thrown forward or sideways, thus thrown violently in contact with the windshield or instrument panel. He suggested removal of the problem of improving or relocating the safety belt to offer the aircraft industry a solution to the problem.

Hill was injured seriously in a recent crash and believes an improved safety belt would have saved him. He also said he believed it would have saved the life of a woman injured recently in a plane crash near Burley.

210 Accidents
The CAA reported on 210 recent aircraft accidents, most of them private flights not in scheduled air carrier operations. Eleven of the accidents resulted in fatal injuries, 10 in serious injury and 15 in minor injuries of those attributed to stalls and spins. Low aerobically flying contributed five fatal accidents, structural failure four.

All of the accidents involved 344 persons, 32 of whom received fatal injuries, 17 serious, 27 minor. A total of 48 aircraft were destroyed and 13 received major damage. There were seven collisions and three fires in which two or more planes were involved.

RARE ELEMENT WOULD HALT PHOSPHATE WORK

BOISE, Nov. 9 (AP)—Development of phosphate ore deposits in four western states, vital to the nation's war needs, is prevented by the presence of fluorine, a rare element in the raw phosphate rock, geologists disclosed today.

Z. O. Peterson, president of Utah state college and chairman of the national phosphate committee, predicted solution of this problem in chemical means, would solve the state with an industry equal to all the combined mining industries of the northwest. He forecast a political battle between government ownership and private enterprise for control of the deposits.

Mostly in Idaho
Ninety per cent of the phosphate deposits in the world are located in Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Montana. Geologists estimate by the U. S. Geological survey accredited Idaho with 45 per cent of the total phosphate resources of the nation, or 269,299 acres out of a total of 396,416. The deposits are believed to total more than five billion tons, and are valued at more than a billion dollars.

Chemical means of breaking down the ore have been developed but they are deemed too expensive for widespread practical use. At present the only large scale operation is that of the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

The ACM ships quantities of the ore from Coeur d'Alene, in Caribou county to Anaconda where sulphuric acid, a by-product of the company's copper mining operations, is used for treatment of the ore.

The Tennessee valley authority has started experiments with electric furnace methods of reducing the ore and have met with considerable success. They continued to experiment.

A controversy over the value as a fertilizer of the raw rock has developed between the University of Idaho experiment station, which says it is not practical and the state land department which contends it is. The Idaho Orange is experimenting with raw rock.

GUARDSMEN WILL CAMP AT FILER
Military training maneuvers of Company 2 of Twin Falls, Company D of Idaho and also the local medical detachment will be held at the county fairgrounds at Filer rather than at the army, it had been announced today by Capt. J. H. Seaver, Jr., commander of Company 2.

As part of maneuver activities the members will gather at Filer Nov. 11 and 12, and also Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, 2 and 3. The troops will sleep in one building and cooking will be done in another.

Members of Company 2 and also the medical detachment will meet one another at the army here next Saturday at 8 a. m. and will make the trip to Filer by army trucks, which will come here from Boise.

"Thousands who visit my clinic have shoe trouble as much as foot trouble," says Dr. M. W. Locke. This is one reason the world-famous Canadian physician developed Dr. M. W. Locke Shoes—the shoes which proved to millions that aching feet can be comforted. Prove this for yourself—consult our expert Dr. Locke shoe fitters today.
