The Gentleman in the Third Row

Sad Comment on Our Voice

We listened to our own telephone voice played back to us on that machine at the phone company's exposition.

Startling, we looked around behind us to see who that guy was shouting in a gruff voice.

But there wasn't anybody behind us.

We tried it again.

The same gruff voice barked a strident "hello" at us.

Sounded like somebody ready to chew off an ear.

And all this time we were figuring complacently that we had a personality voice by way of the telephone.

Sorrowfully, we decided it was just potentially.

But from now on you won't know us, we're going to be so dignified.

This is Pot Shots, it's a tra la, speaking.

STEP UP AND EXPLAIN.

Dear Pot Shots:

Maybe some of your detective staff had better look into this.

Over at the telephone company's little shindig, where they have a lot of stuff including that "hear your own voice" contraption, somebody asked Mel Delving if the device is the same as that used at the San Francisco World's Fair.

"You betcha," said Mel emphatically. "It's the same as they had at San Francisco—except for that red-headed girl at the fair!"

Pants

Speaking of pants—as nobody was, but we are saying about them—when Novelsworth Ernest Rembing was shot, a duck, he has no intention of letting it float away again.

Be-matched Ernest went hunting in these parts Thursday.

Down at Blue Lake ranch, he spotted a duck and whammed away at it.

But in becoming deceased it landed on the water and started floating away.

Didn't worry hunky Mr. Rembing?

Yes.

The author of "Farwell to Arms" immediately changed his tune to "Farwell to Pants."

He discarded trousers, shoes and socks.

And barged right in after the deceased duck.

He understood he couldn't get his socks on again until last night.

But we assume he got the pants on all right.

Even our author must wear pants most of the time.

(P. S. N. B.—We have some testimony that the duck was NOT one of Burton Perline's tame ones.)

OH WELL, IT'S OUTDOOR EXERCISE ANYWAY!

Your contrails have been talking an awful lot about one Harold Moltenau, who can even miss pheasants in the air now.

But let's shift to ducks and Mr. Barney Glavin. I'm told he can fly the air with more shot and still be merciful to ducks than anybody in the county.

"Foreclosing" on Islands

A few congressmen are again talking about a plan to take over French and British island possessions in the West Indies as settlement of war debts aggregating $9,483,000,000.

In normal times, any such proposal would be scoffed at by England and France, neither of whom desires to relinquish her American possessions. But these are not normal times. And both Britain and France may be willing to "talk turkey" if there is any possibility of such a deal removing the limitations of the Johnson act, under the terms of which no nation with outstanding debts from the last war will be permitted to borrow American cash.

It is pleasant to contemplate the prestige the United States would gain if it took over these hundreds of islands. But will the added prestige be worth all the headaches we are likely to suffer? The Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, and a few other United States possessions, valuable as they are from the military point of view, have already caused this country a peck of trouble. Will America want to multiply these difficulties by 100?

SERIAL STORY

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

YESTERDAY Joan and Dan spread an anxious air in the kitchen. There is little chance of success. When the head of the household, he is asked to tell him that he makes no difference. He will see the love Dan Webber.

CHAPTER XXVI

"DAN," my father's money doesn't mean a thing to me any more. She touched his hand over to slightly, but he refused to take the hint.

"In fact," she added softly, "I wish he didn't have a dime right now."

He looked down at her. "That would leave you in pretty bad shape," he said, nodding toward their captors.

She looked at Big Ed, hunched over his cards. Of all times and places at which to discover she was in love. The irony of it made her smile faintly.

"What's so amusing?" Dan asked.

She shook her head. "You might never know."

They sat for a long time without saying a word. It must have been at least 15 minutes before Joan broke the silence.

"What're you thinking of?"

"Well, if I want to let about it, I'm thinking about the game, tomorrow. If I tell the truth . . . I'm thinking of you."

Her heart took a flip-flop. Perhaps it wasn't so hopeless after all.

But he didn't volunteer anything. He picked up the paper again and turned to the sports section.

"Chuck Mitchell's taking my place," he announced.

"Will he do?"

"He's okay offensively, but Slocum doesn't need offense for Pitt. He needs defense . . . jobs of it. Mitchell can be sucked in too easily on fake spinners . . . and Pitt'll spin him dizzy."

She nodded vaguely as Rogers words came back to her.

"Guys like Rhodes . . . dime a dozen . . . where would he be . . . without that guy Webber . . ."

Webber's guy that makes 'em tick . . . most valuable . . . Webber . . ."

She closed her eyes and hoped for the best.

Ed looked at her in a hurry, see? "Sure, sure," Sam said. "Just as soon's I change my shoes. These are terrible, walking me."

"We'll be packing out there tonight . . . either way," Ed said meaningfully, nodding toward Joan.

"You're calling me a quitter," he heard toward Dan. "Maybe you better get back up there."

"Too stupid," Dan replied sullenly. "I'm not going to make any trouble."

Ed looked at him long and hard. "Okay, kid," he said. "You better lie down."

"Tularemia, or rabbit fever, takes its name from Tulare county in California. It is a disease of the wild game in Tulare county died by thousands because of a plague. Investigators found a germ responsible for the infection."

Since then the infection has been detected in almost every state in the country.

It is a germ which affects wild rabbits, although other animals, including even bears, have been stricken with the fever. Apparently the rabbit does not run readily to another by the bites of ticks or fleas.

The germ gets into the skin of a rabbit being through a sore, scratch or a cut. Shortly afterward a swelling appears and develops into an ulcer. Then the glands become swollen, and the victim may become seriously ill.

Warnings for hunters:

(1) Do not pick up a rabbit that is not well. The hare that runs and jumps is a healthy animal. The one that seems stupid and dazed points for the infection.

(2) Never let a scratch, a cut or a sore come in contact with the flesh of a rabbit or with its blood. Wrapping paper which has contained the bodies of dead rabbits should never be burned.

(3) In preparing rabbits for eating, wear rubber gloves.

(4) Whenever a lot of a sore become infected, call a doctor.

IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Before autumn is very cold, the C.I.O. is going to create an industrial union in the building construction industry will get into high gear.

The campaign really began early in the summer, when the United Construction Workers' organizing committee was set up under the chairmanship of A. D. Low. Since then practically nothing has been heard of it.

Some progress has been made, however. Locals exist in a number of cities—some on the west coast, some in the middle west, and a few on the east. For the most part, organization work has been handled through central C.I.O. offices rather than through the committee's own organizers.

ALL TO THE HILT

It is not likely to be any peace treaty between the C.I.O. and the A.F. of L. when the C.I.O. swings into action with a high-powered organizing campaign in that field. It is fairly safe to assume that there is going to be war up to the hilt.

But the organizing campaign has brought nothing more than skirmishes between the two groups. A sample of the kind of skirmish that has been going on appeared in Washington not long ago, when a building contractor who previously had been operating with a union-label signed up with the C.I.O. local.

Before his men got to their jobs, the contractor signed a picket line was moving around the scene of work.

Picket lines are not the only obstacle the building union will face. An organizer tells this story:

In a big midwestern industrial city, a contractor signed up with the C.I.O. local—and immediately found that no builders' supply house in the city would sell him any material.

He tried to buy his supplies outside, and learned that he could not get them trucked to the scene of operation. In the end he was built.

Here, "I'm open to you," she said, "I'm a little bit of a quitter."

"How about some coffee?" Big Ed looked at her. "Sure . . . could use a little swift myself."

She had her plan worked out now, but she wanted to prepare Dan. She picked up a magazine and showed him a good picture of football hero. "I called to him. 'Want to read this?' She winked."

"That ain't no good at all," Ed said. "I told you to keep them and check on it in a hurry, see?"

Here, "I'm open to you," she said, "I'm a little bit of a quitter."

"How about some coffee?" Big Ed looked at her. "Sure . . . could use a little swift myself."

She had her plan worked out now, but she wanted to prepare Dan. She picked up a magazine and showed him a good picture of football hero. "I called to him. 'Want to read this?' She winked."

"That ain't no good at all," Ed said. "I told you to keep them and check on it in a hurry, see?"

"Sure, sure," Sam said. "Just as soon's I change my shoes. These are terrible, walking me."

"We'll be packing out there tonight . . . either way," Ed said meaningfully, nodding toward Joan.

"You're calling me a quitter," he heard toward Dan. "Maybe you better get back up there."

"Too stupid," Dan replied sullenly. "I'm not going to make any trouble."

Ed looked at him long and hard. "Okay, kid," he said. "You better lie down."

"Tularemia, or rabbit fever, takes its name from Tulare county in California. It is a disease of the wild game in Tulare county died by thousands because of a plague. Investigators found a germ responsible for the infection."

Since then the infection has been detected in almost every state in the country.

It is a germ which affects wild rabbits, although other animals, including even bears, have been stricken with the fever. Apparently the rabbit does not run readily to another by the bites of ticks or fleas.

The germ gets into the skin of a rabbit being through a sore, scratch or a cut. Shortly afterward a swelling appears and develops into an ulcer. Then the glands become swollen, and the victim may become seriously ill.

Warnings for hunters:

(1) Do not pick up a rabbit that is not well. The hare that runs and jumps is a healthy animal. The one that seems stupid and dazed points for the infection.

(2) Never let a scratch, a cut or a sore come in contact with the flesh of a rabbit or with its blood. Wrapping paper which has contained the bodies of dead rabbits should never be burned.

(3) In preparing rabbits for eating, wear rubber gloves.

(4) Whenever a lot of a sore become infected, call a doctor.

FINNS FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT WITH SOVIET RUSSIA

STALIN DEMANDS EXTRA PORT ON NORTHERN COAST

By NORMAN R. DEUEL
HELSINKI, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—Failure of the Finnish delegation in Moscow to reach an agreement with Soviet Russia was announced by a Finnish foreign office spokesman today.

No common basis for a Soviet-Finnish agreement had been found in the Moscow negotiations, the spokesman said.

The statement followed a meeting of the inner cabinet which considered the report sent by the Finnish delegation last night after it had met for an hour and a quarter at the Kremlin with Josef Stalin and Soviet Premier-Vice Premier Vladimir Vlasov.

Foreign Minister J. E. Erkko and members of the government were studying the latest report from J. K. Paasikivi, head of the Finnish delegation to the Kremlin, to decide whether the Finns would remain in Moscow for further negotiations.

Officials indicated the state of negotiations between the Russians and the Finns was worse than at any time since the Soviets first made demands for military and naval bases on Finnish territory.

Recall of Paasikivi and his colleagues, it was believed, would definitely close discussions and would leave the next move in the crisis up to the Russians.

Finnish officials recognized gravity of the situation and decided upon further conferences before definitely recalling the Paasikivi mission.

Go to Moscow

Paasikivi had gone to Moscow with Finland's reply to Soviet demands for territory on the Karelian Isthmus, near Leningrad, and for a Soviet naval base at Hangö, important Finnish port.

Since then, it has been reported but not confirmed that Russia has demanded the north, ice-free port of Petsamo in addition to Hangö.

At Moscow, it was said Stalin's presence at the conference last night indicated that the negotiations were nearing a conclusion, that Paasikivi had presented Finland's counter-proposals which Stalin probably was studying and that he would reply to them tomorrow.

Blunt Lesson to Cyclists

Here's what happens when bright lights of an oncoming machine blind the driver of another machine traveling behind a bicycle without lights, local police declared today. The officers are strictly enforcing a city law which requires a headlight and a rear red light on bicycles. They are also entering the statewide drive to cause motorists to dim lights when approaching other machines at night. Luckily, the youth riding the bicycle above, being inspected by City Patrolman Lee McCracken, was not injured, but his bicycle was wrecked.

Reclamation Parley Will Eye Vast Western Area's Future

DENVER, Nov. 10 (Special)—West of the 100th meridian are 15 states, nearly half the land of the United States, about one-tenth of the population and only five per cent of the farmed and cropped area of this nation.

In these 15 states are 700 million acres of lonely, uninhabited territory, fit at best only for grazing herds of cattle and sheep.

Looks to Future

What has been done to reclaim this land and what can be guaranteed for the future of the reclamation movement will be examined here in Denver Nov. 14, 15 and 16 when the governors, senators and representatives of the 15 western states, and the 1,500 other members of the National Reclamation association meet in eighth annual convention.

The reclamation area was mapped by early explorers as the great American desert. Pioneers hunted and trapped the territory, mined it for gold and other metals, fished its streams, cut into its forests and then pressed onward and westward.

They had to for permanent population is based on agriculture, and most of these 700 million acres lacked enough rainfall to grow crops. Even the Indians realized this. Centuries ago in the southwest, they built their crude little dams and ditches to divert water for tiny bean and squash patches.

Irrigation Vital

Since the frontier disappeared, the growth of the west has been keyed to its irrigation construction. Only three per cent of this vast area is now irrigated, but this small fraction provides the major support for 12 million Americans—almost one-tenth of the population.

In recent years, the job of reclaiming the arid west has been taken over by the federal government.

Uncle Sam is on a reclamation spending spree. The like of which has never before been seen in the history of the world. Seventeen reclamation projects now under construction will cost when completed, about three-quarters of a billion dollars. The government estimates that these projects will provide opportunities for 225,000 people on 41,600 farms and in cities and towns not yet located.

New Land

Nine of the projects will develop all new land; six will add supplemental water to lands already developed but in need of more water. The reason for this tremendous construction boom is two-fold: (1) to provide new farms for settlers, principally those who have migrated westward from the great plains drought area; (2) to conserve and utilize the natural resources of water and soil.

More than 450 million dollars has been expended for reclamation in the last eight years, since the founding of the National Reclamation association, as compared with 307 million dollars spent for this purpose in the previous 30 years. The federal government calls reclamation a self-liquidating proposition, and it would seem to be so. Of the millions spent on irrigation development, 67 per cent of the amount due and payable to the government already has been repaid through sales of water and power.

Valuable Crops

Last year, crops grown on reclaimed land were worth 100 million dollars. And the benefits of reclamation to the entire nation are apparent in the fact that farmers on irrigated land in the west last year bought 200 million dollars worth of machinery, automobiles, clothing and processed foods in the industrial centers of the east and midwest.

Row Ralph L. Carr of Colorado, mindful of the huge sums authorized for expenditure for reclamation, said in his address to the "short-sighted national defense plans" may endanger availability of these funds, has invited the 14 other western governors to attend the Denver convention.

Western leaders face the gravest decisions in years. O. B. Warden of Great Falls, Mont., president of the National Reclamation association, said in his convention announcement:

"Small national defense plans include irrigation and incidental power development as part of our preparation for any emergency, or will the west's reclamation program be deferred or curtailed during the present national and international emergency?" he asked.

He said that the reclamation program is a "long-range plan" and that it is "not a question of whether we can afford to do it, but whether we can afford not to do it."

YOUTHS WARNED OF BIKE PERILS

Local police today impounded their cars to enforce a city law which requires that all bicycles be equipped with a front headlight and also a rear red light or red reflector.

To back up their contention that the riding of a bicycle without lights is dangerous, officers pointed to a recent mishap in which a youth narrowly escaped serious injury or death when an automobile crashed into the rear of the wheel he was riding at night. The wheel had no lights.

This particularly crash, police point out, was partly caused when an oncoming machine's driver failed to dim bright lights, blinding the driver of the car approaching the bicycle from the rear.

"The law requiring bicycles to be properly lighted is on the city books and we intend to be sure that it is enforced," said Chief of Police Howard Gillette. "Operators of bicycles without lights will have their wheels taken from them until such time as lights are installed. We intend to see to it that no deaths result among bicycle riders in Twin Falls."

NAZI PLANES IN BELGIUM FLIGHT

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—Foreign airplanes, believed to be German, flew over Belgian territory again this morning and one was reported shot down in Limburg province, but this was not confirmed.

Limburg is the northeast corner of Belgium, adjoining Holland. It is believed here that it might send his troops first through Holland, then into Belgium from the north through Limburg.

Belgians found some relief from the tense situation in estimates that British or French troops could reach the Belgian front within an hour if needed.

The general belief here today was that the situation had improved somewhat, from Belgium's standpoint, and there was no immediate danger of a German invasion.

However, all possible precautions were taken against an attack on the northern frontier, which is the most vulnerable.

Lodi, accompanied them to Paul to be in attendance at the funeral of his uncle, Henry Parwon, which was held Friday morning. He was late for the funeral, he visited relatives for a few days, leaving Monday by bus for his home in Lodi.

JOHNNY BUTLER'S SPECTACULAR 66-YARD RUN FOR TENNESSEE'S FIRST TOUCHDOWN IN SMASHING 21-0 VICTORY OVER ALABAMA

Jerome J. C. Club Maps Sports Events

JEROME, Nov. 10 (Special).—Jaycees at their meeting here Monday night arranged plans down to the most minute detail to make the annual turkey shoot which they are sponsoring Sunday, Nov. 28, the most outstanding and successful sports event in the history of their organization in southern Idaho.

The shoot is the fourth annual affair and chairman of the arrangements is Walt V. Ode. It has been anticipated that approximately 150 birds will be given away. The birds will weigh from 8 to 12 pounds and will be dressed on the grounds ready for delivery.

Committees Named
Committees named to head the event are: "Buck" Thompson, turkey; advertising, Earl S. Williams; cashiers, N. O. Griffith, Bill Weigand, C. J. McCarthy, punchboards, Murray O'Rourke, Connie Whaley; twenty-two targets, Ernest Raby; traps, Frank M. Long; trap guns, Murray O'Rourke, Connie Whaley; law enforcement, Deputy Sheriff Richard R. Seely.

Other important business included reports of the recent Jaycee dance held on Halloween by Kenneth Polkman. It was stated that approximately 300 had been taken in from the dance. State board meeting reports were given by F. O. Thompson who said that more than 34 representative delegates from the various Jaycee organizations were present here from Hallett, Clodine, Twin Falls, Bluff, Nampa, Boise, Preston and Jerome.

Frank M. Rettig has been named as chairman of the ice skating committee to arrange for the rink here at Jerome. It was announced that plans have not been completed as yet for the exact location but several places for the rink are in mind. It was also planned to have an annual football dinner for the Jerome high school team which is to be held shortly after the season ends. The committee named to head the affair is Tom Gamble.

Todd Nelson and Frank Seely are also being arranged with Clark Heise and George Bennett named to investigate a suitable skating rink near the Butte crest of Jerome.

An invitation was received recently from the Nihil organization to attend the Jaycee dinner three Wednesday evening. It was announced that several Jerome members are planning to attend the affair.

Guests at the meeting were John Darnell, Wendell, and Mr. Brown, instructor of Jerome high school.

Pro Gridders Make 89 Per Cent of Kicks

NEW TOWN, Nov. 10 (UPI).—Notes from a football pressbox here show that 89 per cent of the points after touchdown have been converted in the National Football League over the last three years. The pro point kicking with the crossbar on the goal-line is about 20 per cent better than the college boys' and more booting for the extra point. In four years only three National League games have been lost because of failure to add the point after touchdown. Jack Manders of the Chicago Bears once booted 73 in league competition without a miss.

Any believer in the old adage that history repeats itself should have a small wager on next season's Notre Dame. In their only previous meeting Iowa broke a 20-game winning streak with a 10-7 decision. Nearly 500,000 fans will play to see Notre Dame play this year. The traditional Duke-North Carolina meeting is a 50,000 sellout, a score-guzzling pool on the Ohio State-Chicago game has started. Most of them are guessing the Buckeyes will try to top Michigan's 85-0

by HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—While I doubt that the government will succeed in putting an end to the dissemination of racing information, which it seeks to do while prosecuting Moses L. Annenberg in Chicago, success along that line would prove a turf boom.

It would also help the circulation of newspapers.

With no racing wire, the parlay bettor no longer could place his two bucks downtown on a nag at Narragansett, Pimlico or Sportsman's park, get runaways, etc., a call and know the result the instant the first three steeds are past the finish line.

To obtain results and prices he would have to wait until his favorite newspaper was on the street.

If he resides in the vicinity of a track in operation he would have to go to the course to place his wager.

That is where the track owners would benefit—in larger attendance.

Dr. Charles Henry Strub, the old baseball man who showed racing men how to run a track, said the first to see the strength of keeping race wires out of his plant.

The service, as it is known, has never had a wire within the gorgeous Santa Anita layout.

It has served its clients throughout the country, all right, but it has just to obtain its figures and results from outside the park.

Santa Anita Service
It is a fact that throughout Santa Anita's first winter meeting, the service with the aid of a high-powered glass was operating from a house outside the place. The operation since has been a little more comfortable... operating from a house at the Santa Anita racetrack.

But the service is still on the outside looking in.

Dr. Charles H. Strub will have no part of it.

The good doctor also was the first track operator to close every book in the vicinity of his racing strip during his meetings by putting Pinkertons to work with local police.

Dr. Strub's object was... and is to get the customers of his racing establishment at a fair advantage.

Win... North Carolina may try to overthrow Davidson in an effort to approach the 345 points they rolled up in 1939.

A New Orleans reporter named Fred... of Newburg, Miss... of Auburn, Me... of Cleveland and Leland of North Carolina on Tulane's all-opponent backfield.

Colgate and Texas Tech are both called the Red Raiders... Coach Andy Mery of Colgate scouted the Cornell-Colgate game and went back to Hamilton with the word that a fighting club could beat Cornell.

What does he call Colgate? Nine players were in there 60 minutes, and for the and the other for 87... They millance fee and where the track and state get their respective percentages of money bet. Nobody but bookmakers and crooked politicians, who protect them where protection is required, get anything out of the millions bet annually in poolrooms, or betting offices.

The result of Dr. Strub's stand was... and is... the world's model track, outdrawing all others in all the long history of the gamblers, having the biggest handle on record and paying the richest purses.

It is safe to estimate that such action would throw out of employment close to 200,000 men who are engaged in the poolroom business in one way or another.

Find a Way
But racing wires always have found a way and I suspect they will continue to serve their clients regardless of the government drive now on against them.

For example, there has been no racing wire in Pennsylvania for a matter of 10 months, but Pittsburgh bettors get the dope via telephone from Scrantonville, Pa.

After all, anybody can have a business telephone installed, and long distance calls hardly can be secured.

The wiping out of the racing wire would affect racing publications such as The Racing Form and tip sheets only in the way of circulation. They could be published just as newsprint outside the place.

The trouble in their case would be that with no place to bet the horse player would be interested in them when a track was operating in his locality.

It is true that tracks in isolated spots have some "house" money. The good doctor also was the first track operator to close every book in the vicinity of his racing strip during his meetings by putting Pinkertons to work with local police.

Dr. Strub's object was... and is to get the customers of his racing establishment at a fair advantage.

crippled the Big Red so badly four key men may be out of the lineup this week and if Colgate wins Kerr can thank the Lions for softening up Cal finally's team.

Colgate still leads Navy five games to four in their series. But the Middies have won the last four and hope to make it five in a row tomorrow... Jim Connell, husky Penn. fullback who broke his leg near the end of last season, will get his first starting assignment against Penn State tomorrow.

Man Seized for Non-Support of Minor Children

ther will be returned here to face charges filed 10 days ago and accusing him of failing to provide for his four minor children, ranging in age from seven to 14 years.

The man is Julius T. Petersen.

Police officers advised Sheriff Art Parker today that they arrested Petersen yesterday and are holding him for Twin Falls.

Mrs. Christina Petersen signed the complaint against the father Oct. 30 in probate court. She claims the failure to provide continued from Dec. 1, 1938, to Oct. 29, 1939.

JEFFENRACH TALK

TOPS DEDICATION

"History certainly repeats itself. In 1811, as in 1939, the great question in the minds of the American people was how to keep out of war with Europe. Let us pray that we succeed better this time than we did then."

Defenbach pointed out that the historic party consisted of some 50 people traveling in canoes, four or five to the boat. With the expedition was the Dorian woman, an

"Dryer Desert"
"A dreary desert of sand and gravel extends from Snake river almost to the Columbia. Here and there is a thin and scanty herbage, insufficient for the pasturage of horses or buffalo. Indeed these treeless wastes present vast desert tracts that must ever defy cultivation and whose dreary and thirsty wilds between the habitations of man in traversing which the wanderer will often be in danger of perishing."

In closing the speaker dedicated the monument "to Idaho children, to whose hands this still incomplete task will soon be given. This one marks no battlefield; it is a constant reminder that only along the paths of peace can there be happiness and prosperity and advancement for any people."

Named Rock

Persons present at the dedication recalled that it was Defenbach who named the rock "Clippene Rock."

and who also first termed the Indian squaw with the expedition "The Dorian Woman."

B. H. Beasley, Bolse, president of the Idaho Historical society was in charge of today's program. Speaking briefly was L. L. Breckenridge, Twin Falls, who unveiled the monument.

JAILED 60 DAYS

JAILED ON DUTY
Sixty-day sentence in county jail had been meted out today to Mrs. Myrtle Graybeal, Twin Falls, on charge that she drove her auto while intoxicated last Tuesday. Mrs. Graybeal pleaded guilty and sentence was decreed by Probate Judge C. A. Bailey.

On the same charge last February, Mrs. Graybeal was found guilty by a probate court jury and was sentenced to $100 fine, costs of about $50 and 60 days in jail. On that occasion, however, the jail term was commuted to six months' parole.

WOMAN APPEALS $55.60 VERDICT

Appeal had been filed in district court today by the woman who lost a justice court decision totaling $50 plus $5.60 costs.

The appeal was filed on behalf of Thelma Kerr against the verdict of Oct. 19 by Justice H. N. Boland in favor of Alma Hardin. The original plaintiff claimed $50.70 because of money ascertained advanced to the defendant.

Cross-complaint in justice court asserted that Thelma Kerr had worked for Alma Hardin and that payment from the latter is still owing.

C. C. Hall is counsel for the appellant and Edward Babcock and George M. Paulson are attorneys for Alma Hardin.

Idaho Kidnapers Held in Jail After Caldwell Surrender

Releases Girl Without Harm Near Highway

CALDWELL, Ida., Nov. 10 (U.P.)—A former convict was held in jail today after being accused of kidnapping a 17-year-old high school girl and other crimes including the holdup of a gas station and abduction of its attendant.

State Police Officer Earl Conn said he would file formal charges today against Donald W. Harper, 35, who has prison records in 1914 Idaho and Missouri.

Leona "Tiny" McNicholas, high school student of Star, Ida., whose father allegedly held captive for 12 hours as she drove through the desert countryside in a stolen car, was not harmed and could give no reason for her abduction.

Subsiding Attendant She told Police Chief J. L. Balderson of Nampa that she, another girl, Harper and John P. Develier, his roommate, attended a dance in Meridian, Ida., Wednesday night. Following the dance they drove to Nampa where Harper allegedly held up a service station and abducted Develier. Conn, attending.

After driving around for several hours, Harper ordered all but Miss McNicholas from the car, firing a shot to hasten their exit. Balderson was informed.

John in Search of peace officers. Deputies from five counties in Oregon and Idaho joined in the search. Miss McNicholas was found waiting at the Boise-Meridian road, 10 miles east of Nampa late yesterday. She said Harper had forced her from the car.

Harper later abandoned the automobile, taken from Develier, in the desert near Caldwell, and was captured at a railroad siding near Orchard, 25 miles from Caldwell. He was exhausted and offered no resistance.

PROGRAM READY FOR BANQUETERS

With entertainment being provided during the entire banquet, plans were completed here this afternoon for the annual Armistice day "fleece" set for the Park hotel Saturday at 8:30 p. m. It was announced by Herb Smith, chairman of the American Legion committee in charge.

The entertainment will be furnished by 20 acts and bands, and mental and vocal numbers will feature. Many of the entertainers will be the same ones appearing here during the state American Legion convention, coming from Salt Lake City.

Because only 125 places will be available at the banquet, Smith urged those planning to attend to "get there early." Tickets will be available at the door.

All members of the Legion and its auxiliary as well as veterans and their wives, whether members of a service organization or not, are invited to attend.

The banquet will be the closing event of the local Armistice day observance.

SCIENTIST WILL PREDICT FUTURE

What sort of clothes will we be wearing 25 or 30 years from now? What sort of houses will we live in? How will we get our food? What weapon will be most potent in war time?

These and other questions of tremendous importance to every business man, farmer, workman, student and ordinary individual will be discussed at the November meeting of the Twin Falls Town Hall club by the one man in America who is best equipped to do it.

Dr. Gerald Wendt, whose new book, "Science for the World Tomorrow," is just off the press, is the director of science and education for the New World's fair. He speaks at the Twin Falls high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 16.

As research chemist in two great universities, a captain in the chemical warfare service during the World war (having had much to do with dealing America's gas masks) a lecturer at the Hayden Planetarium in New York, contributor to many magazines, editor of the "Chemistry Review" since 1927, editor of a vast six-volume "Encyclopedia of Chemistry," and recently director of the American Institute of New York, and this year recognized by being placed in charge of all scientific exhibits at the hundred million dollar New World's fair, Dr. Wendt is preeminently fitted to discuss scientific progress.

No Theorist Moreover, he is not purely academic. The modern scientist believes in facing realities, making things pay, junking obsolete ideas. Dr. Wendt has been director of science for the Standard Oil company, the General Printing Ink corporation, and president of the Coffee Products corporation.

In his appearance in Twin Falls he will exhibit some of the notable products being created in laboratories at the Standard Oil company in the years ahead. He will explain how common rays have been harnessed and tell of their potentialities. The modern scientist, Dr. Wendt maintains, practically all present discussion of the machine age among economists and social writers is already out of date, and that the results of the synthetic age will be even more important in their effect on human society.

Among the new developments which are already at hand, he explains, are the glass skyscraper, the steel bungalow, synthetic textiles for all purposes, utilization of farm wastes for all industrial purposes, dirigible balloons, television, newspaper and synthetic factory-made foods. They will make the next generation wonder how we managed to live in the present "dark ages."

DAUGHTER ASKS ESTATE DECREE

Request that a daughter of the late John E. Bayley be named executrix of his estate has been filed in probate court by two of the three surviving daughters.

Mr. Bayley, associated with Troy Laundry for more than 30 years, left an estate valued at $5,000 and included stock in the laundry firm. Petition was filed by Mrs. Agnes Aina, Jerome, and Mrs. Ernie Cronin, Salt Lake City, requesting that the former be granted administrative powers. Mrs. Juanita Hart, a third daughter, lives at Honolulu. Judge C. A. Bailey set Nov. 20 for hearing. John W. Graham is attorney for the daughters.
