

POPE PIUS DEPLORES DIVORCE, BIRTH CONTROL IN U. S.

RAPE-BREAKING DOWN OF FAMILIES IN LIFE IN STATES

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 11 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in an unexpected episcopal address to the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States, deplored today the breaking down of family life and the spread of birth control and divorce.

The encyclical, issued without prior intimation that it was being prepared, marked the 180th anniversary of the founding of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States.

"Let those who have the care of souls be concerned in teaching the sanctity of the Christian marriage, the one and indissoluble and the strongest barrier against the spread of mixed marriages and the disastrous results of the practice of divorce," the Pope wrote.

"Oh, if only your country had come to know from the experience of others rather than from experience of its own people the danger of its which derive from the plague of divorce."

The most far reaching and bitter of evils today in teaching the sanctity of the Christian marriage, the one and indissoluble and the strongest barrier against the spread of mixed marriages and the disastrous results of the practice of divorce," the Pope wrote.

"Oh, if only your country had come to know from the experience of others rather than from experience of its own people the danger of its which derive from the plague of divorce."

AMISTICE REMINDER
Editor, Evening Times:
About this time each year I take from a safe place a newspaper and read it with interest. It is a daily paper printed in one of our larger cities, and is dated Nov. 11, 1918.

The headlines of this issue are particularly impressive; in large print it reads, "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth PEACE." It is shocking to read in its columns the reports from the war department that millions of the boys who were killed in action, most of whom were in the prime of life, are now in the hands of the enemy, and that the joyous celebration already going on in every city and town of our country; this is the face of the terrifying influenza epidemic then sweeping our states.

It is interesting to try to know what many of our great men had to say regarding the Armistice. Here are a few of their quotations:

"The greatest day in the history of the world next to the day when the Savior died to redeem the world."

"It is the most glorious day that ever happened and will be in centuries."

"This day is worthy of an annual world-wide holiday."

Later, Armistice day was duly made one of our great national holidays, a day to which religious and civic thanks for the cessation in the sacrifice of human lives; a day to honor our soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice; a day to remember that we are still fighting the battle. I had hoped that we, in our country, would observe this day as a real holiday and it seems to me that rather than forget what this great day means we should, especially in these times, try to again at our very doors, observe this day by calling "time out" from that great holiday of life we are all rushing so rapidly and so carelessly to the purpose it was proclaimed. Let us not lose sight of the fact that this day is our day of thanksgiving for the things material which can be they seeds that can develop so big as to get us entangled.

It was very gratifying to me to note the announcements in your paper by some of our friends that they were going to recognize Armistice day as a holiday. That is as it should be, and I sincerely hope that on this day, in all parts of our country, we will look upon Nov. 11 as one of our great holidays and use it for the purpose for which it was set apart.

Sincerely,
R. J. SCHWENDMAN,
Twin Falls, Nov. 11.

DID THEY DIE IN VAIN?
Editor, Evening Times:
Armistice Day... It is a sacred day to those men who were in the world who were either today to commemorate in reverence and prayerful thanksgiving, the significance of what the memory of that November day in 1918 means to the world.

Again, today, we, the nations of the world, pause from the dizzy whirl of life to pay tribute to the memory of those, our sons, who in the dark bewildering days of that fierce struggle, gave unwaveringly of their lives, that they would survive, and the generations which would follow, might live in lasting peace.

And today, as we stand in deep solemn reverence, it is not for us to question whether they were right or wrong in their belief, but to recognize in the plan of the universe is finished, they have done their part, and in making the supreme sacrifice, they have left us a heritage that we, who claim their sacrifice, might live at peace. Rather, we might we pause in shame and humiliation before the great God, and we reflect back over the course of events since that first day of peace, to determine where, by our greed and misanthropy, we have erred in bringing to fulfillment the cause for which they died.

In your issue of the eighth instant, there occurs the following by H. L. Craig: "You May Not Know That." A town named Biddville was laid out on Big Wood river in 1880. When it was a thriving two-year-old Biddville aspired to become the county seat and considering its undignified name a handicap, changed it to Bellevue.

The county seat contest referred to occurred on Sept. 12, 1881. Bellevue, in June, 1880, had its postoffice established as Bellevue. None of the early residents of Bellevue ever heard the name Biddville. Years ago I talked with two of the very earliest residents of Bellevue and they told me that in 1880, when it was a thriving two-year-old Biddville aspired to become the county seat and considering its undignified name a handicap, changed it to Bellevue.

U-P AIDS BATTLE ON POTATO 'ROT'

OMAHA, Nov. 11 (Special)—Establishment of a research laboratory by the Union Pacific railroad in cooperation with the University of Idaho, college of agriculture and experimental station, to study the causes, control and eradication of the bacterial ring rot disease in potatoes was announced today by President W. M. Jeffers.

In accepting the fellowship, Dean E. J. Jennings of the college of agriculture at Moscow stated that the Idaho experiment station has begun an intensive study of this new disease of potatoes which has become a serious threat to the potato grower of every state, and that the establishment of this research laboratory by the Union Pacific railroad has made it possible to secure the services of a qualified and trained graduate student to devote his time and study to the disease.

President C. W. Hungerford at the same time announced the selection of Edward Melchor Graves, Idaho Falls, Calif., as research fellow at the University of California, B. S. in plant pathology, to receive the fellowship. He is now studying the disease at Davis, Calif., experiment station and will begin laboratory studies Dec. 1 at Moscow, Ida.

The fellowship will continue for two years. By this time it is hoped that control measures will be so developed that the costly losses from the disease now experienced by many growers can be eliminated.

Jaycee President Talks at Banquet

BUHL, Nov. 11 (Special)—Ben Johnson, Preston, Idaho Junior Chamber Commerce president, presided at the banquet Tuesday night at the Buhl club. During his talk he stressed the fact that the Junior Chamber drive to sell Idaho could accomplish results impossible for any individual club.

At the banquet Jaycee officials and members were present from Preston, Jerome, Twin Falls, Boise and Nampa. President of the Buhl order, Harry Crippen, presided. Visitors urged that the Buhl club state and national Junior Chamber organizations and also contribute to the magazine "Future" for its members.

In his talk President Johnson stated, "We don't need to wait until we have gray hair and gray whiskers before we attempt to accomplish things; many of the great leaders of the world did their best work while comparatively young."

In discussing his organization's state program for Idaho he mentioned the embargo on American tourists in Europe and showed that much of that money might be diverted to Idaho under proper encouragement. The Junior Chamber should direct its publicity toward those people who have money to spend rather than those from the distressed areas, he said.

Other speakers during the evening were Don Chapman, Boise, national Junior Chamber director for Idaho; Ned Harlan, secretary of the Junior and Senior Chambers; Frank Heltz, Jerome, president; Russ Stephenson, president of the Boise Jaycees; Bob Tillison, secretary of the Boise Jaycees; and Jaycees; Charles Smith, Nampa, state secretary; Don McLaughlin, Nampa; Lionel Campbell, Twin Falls; Bill Warner, Twin Falls; Merwin Kinney, Nampa; Berwyn Burke, Jerome president; Brick Thompson, Jerome.

PANDA

RAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11 (AP)—Mel-Mel, the cuddliest black-eyed panda in the Chicago zoo, was today a companion, and whether it will be a little sister or a husband had experts baffled today.

The third ship-ade report from the U. S. President Cleveland, which is bringing the 10-month-old baby panda, Ling-Ling, here tomorrow, said another traveler failed to determine whether Ling-Ling was a little boy or little girl. Earlier reports said it was a girl, but experts have been baffled before by the panda's sex.

Pari-Mutuels Will Boost N. Y. Racing

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Legalization of pari-mutuel betting in New York, on top of a green light in New Jersey, prospects racing to the distant future. It has even known.

New York tracks getting a stipulated percentage of the money wagered on races, especially in view of the fact that they must now compete with New Jersey plants just across the river.

The new and fabulous setup truly is a bonanza for horsemen all throughout the entire country, all the way along the line.

Col. Matt Winn, whose Kentucky derby prize money from $50,000 to $75,000 was vastly more than a move to prevent young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Pinlole Frodoes, with its futuristic provision, from overshadowing the Louisville classic.

Colonel Winn was looking forward to the time when New York and New Jersey, with the machines, would be after the derby's scalp.

The rise of the pari-mutuels gave Churchill Downs and Pinlole an opportunity to swipe much of the thunder of tradition-steeped and highly important New York races, but now New York works on an equal monetary footing . . . and so does New Jersey . . . and with the great bulk of the population.

Want Top Runners

At first glance it would seem that establishments would have to quarrel about races and horses. There will not be a shortage of thoroughbreds, as more are being bred in the United States today than ever before.

But the supply to top runners always has been limited. And top stakes bring in the crowds which pay the freight for cheaper races, and give the strips the most valuable sort of advertising.

New York and New Jersey, with machines installed, have it in their power to keep the majority of good horses in that area during the entire warm weather racing season.

They can plan a series of rich stakes which might rob even the Kentucky derby of its importance, because the derby wouldn't be the derby if the better three-year-olds failed to put in an appearance.

So, with racing on the threshold of its most prosperous era, next spring and summer will see a general upward swing of purse throughout the land.

The next racing season even may see purses mount as high as they were at Santa Anita park last winter, where there was one $125,000 stake, one each for $50,000 and $25,000, 11 for $10,000, a feature for $2,000 or more daily and no purse less than $1,500.

Wagering Simpler

Certainly, more the oval will raise money higher than it was in the golden days of 25 years ago when minimum purses were $1,200 in the majority of racing.

New England and Chicago tracks have to bid higher to maintain what they have. So do Keeneland at Lexington, Ky., and the Detroit and Cleveland strips.

Meanwhile, the winter bidding between Santa Anita and Hialeah will continue unabated.

New York will have to greatly reduce its admission prices . . . $2.50 for the grandstand and $1.50 for the clubhouse . . . to compete with New Jersey.

With track bookmakers gone and New York and New Jersey tracks and machines making wagering much simpler for the bettor, you will see mutual handicaps and attendance the like of which you've never seen before.

Racing indeed has hit a new high . . . one so lofty, in fact, that few of the more conservative fear an ultimate fall.

After all, the baker and butcher must be paid.

HITLER UNEXPECTEDLY APPEARS AT BOMB VICTIMS' FUNERAL

CHAMBERLAIN IS GIVEN BLAME IN DEATH OF SEVEN

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 11 (AP)—Adolf Hitler appeared unexpectedly today at the funeral of seven Nazi killed in Wednesday night's beer cellar bombing and stood silently, while the deputy fuhrer, Rudolph Hess, in the funeral oration, said: "The instigators of this deed have finally taught the German people to hate."

Hitler presumably came by plane from Berlin, where he had been seen last night, and stayed only a few minutes. His attendance had not been disclosed in advance. The bomb which killed the seven whose funeral was held today, had missed him by only 10 minutes.

Visits Ruins
Late in the afternoon, Hitler visited the ruins of the Burgerbrau beer cellar, where the funeral was held, and the hour at which the war to end ended 21 years ago in humbling defeat for Germany.

The hour chosen for the funeral was 11 a. m.—the hour at which the war to end ended 21 years ago in humbling defeat for Germany.

Hitler's presence Hess said: "The German people bid farewell to those who were victims of a terrible criminal act, whose intended victim was the fuhrer, Germany will never forget them. Their death warrant brought to the German people a realization of the extent and violence of what was planned against the fuhrer."

Made Nation Stronger
To those who instigated this act, we say you wanted to take the fuhrer from us but you only brought him closer to us. You wanted to weaken us but you made us stronger. Never was the German people closer to victory than today. And when you set in motion the forces of evil, victory is still ours. Our victory is in the memory of these dead."

The seven bodies had lain in state in the night at the Feldherrnhalle in Munich, where they had been kept in the light of the giant pillar inside the wall.

German newspapers, inspired by the government, claimed that Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain personally was the "mastermind and chief instigator" of the bombing.

Heinrich Himmler's gestapo—the secret police—have engaged experts to make a study of fragments of the bomb found in the debris, and they expected to prove the foreign origin of the bomb from the metal.

Armistice Day Finds Two Lone Groups Determinedly Lobbying for U. S. Peace

(Editor's note: The men who laid the foundations for the world peace movement all are gone. Again their work has been obscured and peace forces reduced by war raging in the world. But war notwithstanding, peace still is an organized movement. This story tells of the work now actively underway for peace in this country.)

By BRUCE CATTON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—On this Armistice day marking the 21st anniversary of the event that stopped the last war in which the United States took part, survey of the 1939 organized "peace front" in America shows this:

Of all the variegated lobbies and pressure groups that agitate in behalf of particular interests in national affairs, there are but two groups conducting active, day-to-day lobbying work for the most important movement for the country today—peace.

Peace societies in the United States are almost innumerable; but the active campaigns for peace simmer down to a few which are clearly defined to make a broad survey of the peace movement fairly complete.

The two lone groups aggressively fighting with active lobbies at the national capital are the National Council for the Prevention of War, and the Women's International League for Peace and Democracy.

The National Council is composed of a number of national groups, ranging all the way from the American Federation of Teachers and the board of Christian education of the Church of the Brethren to the Peace Association of Friends in America.

It is financed by voluntary contributions, which come mostly from individuals rather than from the participating groups. Its national executive staff is directed by Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary.

During the neutrality debate the council worked actively to retain the arms embargo, proceeding through personal contacts with congress and through an energetic educational campaign across the country. Its headquarters, oddly enough, is housed in an ancient Washington building which during the latter part of the Civil war served as Gen. U. S. Grant's headquarters.

Equally energetic is the Women's International League. Founded in 1915 by Jane Addams, it was until comparatively recently a federation of other women's organizations; during the last two years, however, it has taken in individual members. It has no endowment and is supported largely by dues from its members.

Its Washington lobbying is in the hands of Miss Dorothy Delzer, national secretary. It also maintains offices in Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Chicago, and has an organization of volunteer committees in other leading cities to conduct its educational work. Like the National Council, it fought actively against repeal of the arms embargo this fall.

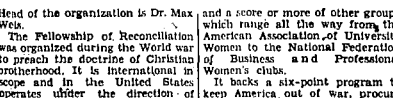

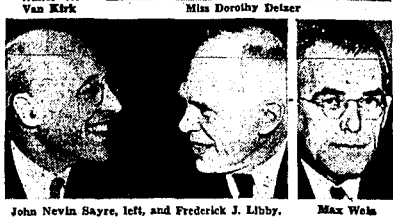

Make Up "Peace Bloc"

These two organizations, together with three others which operate out of New York City, are commonly referred to as the "pacifist associations," or "the peace bloc."

The other three are World Peaceways, the Fellowship of Reconciliation and the Keep America Out of War committee.

World Peaceways confines its efforts to advertisements and radio broadcasts. It has been given advertising space in various publications and a number of top-flight advertising men—among them, Bruce Barton—have donated their help; as a result it has carried on a striking and forceful anti-war campaign.

NYA CHIEF RAPS MAGAZINE FRAUD

A warning to the public to be on guard against petty racketeering by magazine sales persons who allege in their sales talk they are competing in a contest sponsored by the NYA or are competing for an NYA scholarship was issued here today by L. V. Folson, field representative with headquarters in Twin Falls.

Several instances have been reported to the head office at Washington that such a practice is being followed in various parts of the country.

To date we have noted no such cases in this section but if any citizen is approached in this manner by any person, then that citizen should inform the local police officers at once because no one is authorized to make such sales and the NYA is in no way connected with any such move, Folson said.

National youth administration officials, Folson pointed out, characterized the misrepresentation of magazine sales persons as a possible attempt by petty racketeers to cash in on the "Job Creation Contest" sponsored by the NYA in Illinois which received national attention.

Instances of misrepresentation which have come to the attention of the NYA are being investigated and will be turned over to the proper authorities for action.

PARK-IN-MARKET STAGES OPENING

Featuring a wide stock marked by low prices, modern equipment and extensive parking facilities, the S. and H. park-in-market held its formal opening today at 151 Main avenue west.

Proprietors are C. L. Schumacher and Paul M. Hejn, formerly of Grand's Food Store.

The S. and H. park-in-market was formerly known as Hesser's, but the new proprietors have carried out extensive remodeling and redecorating since purchasing the establishment from George Hesser.

Presently holding on the interior provides a novel feature.

Robertson Chosen as Road Unit Attorney

Murrough highway district has retained Thomas M. Robertson, Jr., Twin Falls, as its general counsel. It was announced today by Secretary Oliver W. Johnson.

In addition to announcing the choice of Robertson as attorney for the district, Johnson said that election will be held Dec. 4 to name a director from sub-district No. 3. The post is now held by Fred Carlson.

Novel Drama Presented by U. of I. Cast

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Nov. 11 (Special)—A throwback on the ancient Chinese drama policy of depending heavily on the imagination of the audience, the University of Idaho presented the popular production, "One Town," before capacity crowds Thursday and Friday evenings, Nov. 9 and 10.

Using a minimum of stage setting, the play evolved around the stage manager who sat the stage, acted as narrator, and took several minor parts. Other cast members acted the story as the narrator read.

Included in the cast was Donald Swinney, Richfield.

Billard Hicks, Shoshone, was one of the 10 men pledged Wednesday evening by Scabard and Blade, up-perclassmen's national military honorary organization.

FIELD MEN TALK TO JERSEY GROUP

Two representatives of the American Jersey Cattle club addressed Jersey breeders Friday at the C. of O. headquarters here with Sam H. Kayler, local dairyman, presiding.

Speakers were Tom Warren, Portland, western representative of the Jersey organization, and Dr. A. Lounsbury, eastern representative in charge of milk distribution.

Both men explained to the breeders the objectives of the association and the benefits derived by dairymen from its extensive program.

BOMBING PLANE ARRIVES SUNDAY

Thousands of citizens of the Magic Valley are expected to take advantage of the opportunity of inspecting a large U. S. bombing plane which will arrive at the local airport Sunday at 11:45 a. m. and which will remain until Monday morning.

The ship, which has two 1,100-horsepower motors and which weighs seven tons, is one of the most modern in the air force. All during the time of its stay here, general persons at 6 time will be permitted to inspect the inside of the ship.

On hand to aid during the inspection, and also to discuss enlistment possibilities with the air corps, will be Staff Sergeant Morris, officer in charge of the local recruiting station.

K. OF C. TO ASK PEACE PRAYERS

Knights of Columbus in Twin Falls asked Magic Valley today to turn to the Prince of Peace to obtain the lasting tide of world turbulence. The Twin Falls council, K. of C., will distribute Sunday a public "prayer for peace," sponsored throughout the United States by the national Knights of Columbus organization. The prayer for peace, printed in combination with a prayer for Pope Pius XII, firm opponent of war, will be distributed here on a card bearing the pontiff's photo.

Harvey Quenell, grand knight of the Twin Falls council, said that distribution of the prayer for peace will be carried out by Columbian "not as haters, slanders or pacifists at any price but simply as sincere crusaders for the Christian world."

He said that the supreme council has been printing the prayers at the rate of 200,000 per day and that the distribution will be nationwide.

The plan was proposed by Supreme Knight Francis P. Matthews, who advised the Twin Falls council.

"When we recall in grateful, but saddened, memory those who fell in the World war, we are divinely inspired to pray that such an untimely sacrifice will not again be exacted from mankind."

At Both Masses
The Knights of Columbus will hand out the prayers for peace at both masses Sunday at St. Edward's church.

The prayer is as follows:
Prayer for Peace
"O God, from whom are holy desires, right concepts and just works, give to Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give; that our hearts may be disposed to obey Thy commandments, and that we may be able to resist the temptations of our enemies being removed, our times, by Thy protection, may be peaceful. Through Our Lord, Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with Thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, world without end, Amen."
