WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—D. Worth Clark, D. Ida. Whose views frequently coincide with those of his Republican colleague—Sen. William E. Borah said today that Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D. Mont., "is a natural" for President in 1940.

Borah has not named Clark but is known to be one of Wheeler's strongest admirers.

Wheeler, who left his party in 1924 to run for vice-president on a progressive ticket headed by the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, said recently his 1940 intentions would not be made public until President Roosevelt had cleared up the third term enigma.

Clark described Wheeler as the

 "Wheeler was fighting the up-hill battle of liberalism 20 years ago when many of those who are now so head in their own tails were in the political swaddling clothes," Clark said, adding the third term contest was not involved because "it is to be assumed the President desires a third term."
 The constitution, and, particularly, the bill of rights, which protects our cherished liberties can find no more gallant or more champion than Wheeler, he said. "He is neither a business-batter nor a business-saver," he testified.

Cinderella Motif Featured by MeT at Annual Christmas Dance

A Cinderella ball, more magic than the original one in that none of the feminine dancers' beautiful forms turned into rags and tatters at the witching hour of midnight, was arranged by the MeT club at Radioland last evening, marking another big dancing party of Christmas week for members of the younger set.

Joe blue dance programs bearing silver slipper designs; a huge silver slipper with a spray of mistletoe, suspended from the center of the dance pavilion, and a floor show during intermission, with the Cinderella theme, established the dance motif.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Lionel T. Campbell were patrons of the evening.

Pages Herald Dance
Two hundred couples, members of the MeT and Tri-O clubs, alumnae of the Radioland club, and a group of ninth graders and their escorts, danced throughout the evening to music by Will Wright's orchestra.

Miss Marilyn Brooks and Miss Ann Perry, wearing the black hosiery, black knee pants and frilly white blouses that were reminiscent of old court days, bearing baggies with MeT banners attached, accompanied by Miss Barbara Price, who was similarly attired, announced the grand march.

They approached Miss Jane Douglas, MeT president, and her escort, Gaylord Toler, and with proper ceremony presented an edict from "the king," ordering the guests to "make proper use of the mistletoe on the silver slipper."

Following Miss Douglas and Mr. Toler in the grand march, were Miss Joyce Miller, secretary, and Bill Moon, Miss Fran Thompson, treasurer, and Gordon Gardner, and Miss Mary Frances Bates, sergeant-at-arms, and Joe Ryan.

Miss Leona Rae Hughes and Miss Ladean Stokes opened the intermission number, singing a duet, and then Miss Margaret DeWeller entered singing "Somebody My Prince Charming Will Come." A trio, Miss Pat Downs, Miss Billie Kauffman and Miss Doris Reed, sang "When a Prince of a Fellow Meets a Cinderella" and Gaylord Toler, as "Prince Charming," sang "Cinderella Stay in My Arms." Group singing of MeT club songs concluded the program.

Punch was served in Radioland buffet by Miss Phyllis Kimble, Miss Betty Kline, Miss Bobby Jean Douglas, Miss Joan Wilson, Miss Barbara Price, Miss Ann Perry, Miss Marilyn Brooks, Miss Patty Cappel and Miss Dorothy Krenzel.

Reverend of MeT
Members of the club, in addition to the officers, are Miss Helen Brown, Miss Ruby Carlson, Miss Pat Downs, Miss Marietta Downs, Miss Genevieve Benoit, Miss Dahl Green, Miss Anila Hardesty, Miss Mary Haney, Miss Leona Rae Hughes, Miss Shirley Hutchinson, Miss Billie Kauffman, Miss Doris Reed, Miss Mickey Pumphrey, Miss Dorothy Wagner, Miss Paul Warner, Miss Arlene Porter, Miss Orice Brey, Miss Margaret DeWeller, Miss Bonnie Brown, Miss Eppy Jane Briggs, Miss Betty Jean Sommer, Miss Margaret DeWeller, and Miss Margaret DeWeller.

Honorary members are Miss Peggy Cavanagh and Miss Barbara Cavanagh.

Red Knights, Zu Zim Clubs Honor Alumni

An illuminated sign, "Welcome Alumni," will greet the honor guests of the Red Knights club, alumni of the group, when they enter Radioland this evening for the annual Christmas holiday formal. Poinsettia red dance programs, the covers simulating grogskin taffeta, and bearing the insignia of the club in gold, will be presented as favors.

Alumni of the Zu Zim club will have their inning Thursday night, when the club, of which Fred Latham is president, will entertain at a holiday formal at the Elks ballroom, which is resplendent with the trappings of the season for the dances of the week.

Stag Banquet
Preceding tonight's Red Knight dance, a stag banquet will be served at the Park hotel at 6:30 o'clock, with Harry Benoit, club president, in charge of arrangements. Benoit will preside as toastmaster, calling on the club alumni for brief remarks. Singing will be featured and Curtis Eaton, club sponsor, will be a special guest.

A red and gold theme will be featured in the banquet decorations, and the Radioland club will be in charge of the decorations and dance programs, and Duane Toler is in charge of the intermission program at the dance. Parents have been invited to call during the evening.

Harry Benoit and Miss Arlene Smith; Albert Benoit, vice-president, and Miss Jane Douglas, and Duane Toler, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Mary Jean Shuman, will lead the grand march at the Red Knight dance.

Punch will be served by Miss Ann Perry, Miss Phyllis Kimble, Miss Joan Wilson, Miss Patty Cappel, Miss Barbara Price and Miss Faith Kliney.

To Lead March
Leading the grand march at the Zu Zim alumni ball tomorrow evening will be George Iscoe, vice-president, and his partner, Don Thorp, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Pat Smith, and Bob Colner, sergeant-at-arms, and Miss Betty Babcock.

James Powell is in charge of the program and Bob Colner the intermission program.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Casey, sponsor of the club, and his wife, will be patrons of the evening. Parents are invited to call throughout the hours of dancing.

Gooding Groups Have Exchange

GOODING, Dec. 27 (Special)—The Senior Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church and last week at the home of Mrs. Foy Osborne. It was the annual Christmas party and gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Clyde Crawford presided at the business session and also led the devotionals. A program of Christmas readings was enjoyed.

At the home of Mrs. Anson Thompson, the Baptist auxiliary held a Christmas meeting. Mrs. Lloyd Bulvey and Mrs. Jack Peterson were in charge of the program. Gift box opening was a feature of the meeting, the money being used for missions. Refreshments were served.

The Methodist General Aid society held the Christmas meeting at the church. Mrs. Blythe Clemens led the devotionals and Mrs. F. H. Jeffries gave the program on "Christmas Thoughts." Hostesses were Mrs. Van Amburg, Mrs. Ed Nelson and Mrs. J. H. Gromwell.

Grade School Gives Christmas Operetta
HOLLETER, Dec. 27 (Special)—Thursday the grade school directed by Mrs. Agda Berman presented the Christmas operetta, "The Kidnapping of Santa Claus." Between acts a solo by June Oleson and "Silent Night" by high school students were presented.

Recitations were also presented by Olive Courtney and Billy Wesson. After the program, Mrs. Berman gave out treats.

Eastern Star Has Public Installing Of New Officers

Mrs. H. N. Champlin and J. H. Glandon were installed as worthy matron and worthy patron of the Eastern Star, last evening at the Masonic temple at an impressive installation ceremony witnessed by members of the lodge and approximately 50 guests. A stated chapter session at 8 o'clock preceded the public installation ceremonies.

Mrs. Ray D. Agee and William Mitchell are retiring worthy matron and worthy patron. Other officers installed last evening were Mrs. A. D. Eubler, associate matron; Dale J. Wakem, associate patron; Mrs. Catherine Potter, secretary; Miss Beulah Carlson, treasurer; Mrs. Carl Shaberg, conductress and Mrs. Bert Sweet, associate conductress.

Officers who were appointed by Mrs. Champlin are Mrs. Helen Taylor, chaplain; Mrs. W. B. Brooks, marshal; Mrs. Ronald Graves, organist; Mrs. Ray Holmes, Adah; Mrs. James Watts, Ruby; Mrs. Herbert Glandon, Esther; Mrs. Claude Gordon, Martha; Mrs. H. H. Burkhardt, Electa; Mrs. Frank Horvack, warder and C. J. Shaberg, sentinel.

At the brief business session, warder reports were presented. Refreshments were served in the dining room following installation. Mrs. Emma Clouche, a charter member of the chapter, and Mrs. Champlin presided at the refreshment table, which was centered with a large poinsettia plant, flanked by four lighted red tapers and surrounded by holly. Quins of evergreen were attached in decorative design to the cloth.

Numerous Parties to Supplement OAO Dance

Socially brilliant will be the Christmas program danced at which the O. A. O. Dancing club will entertain this evening at 9:30 o'clock at the Elks ballroom. Several hosts will extend the hospitality of their homes to guests before and after the dance.

Host committee for the dance, which will feature at least two special numbers, is Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Schwendman, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duvall, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Welker.

Club Alumnae Meet For Event Prior to Dance

Gay among the events which preceded the annual MeT holiday formal last evening at Radioland was the Tom and Jerry and cocktail party at which Miss Fran Thompson and Miss Jane Thompson were hostesses last evening at their home on Buchanan street.

Guests were a group of MeT and Tri-O alumnae and their escorts. Five of the girls had met for dinner earlier in the evening at the home of Miss Jane Braliford, who is here from the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, for a holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Braliford.

Assembling at the Thompson home, prior to the dance, were Miss Eleanor Hollingsworth, Miss Alice Reed, Miss Fran Wilson, Miss Ruth Perrine, Miss Betty Magee, Miss Braliford, and the hostesses.

Howard Parlat, Buhl; George Bennett, Jerome; Sherm Williams, Piner; Woody Reed, who is home from the University of Idaho, Moscow, for the holidays, and David Fox, Ralph Wilson, Grove Wiley and Max Brown.

Dinner guests of Miss Braliford were the Thompson girls, Miss Wilson and Miss Magee. The girls were covered table centered with sweetpeas in pastel hues and greenery.

IDEA TO EASE CHRISTMAS CARD BURDEN!

Third Row Gentleman: After acquiring writer's cramp addressing my Christmas cards, I've concocted an idea I'm filing for use next year.

Instead of shopping out dozens of cards to folks in Twin Falls, I'm going to put a lot of names on one card, mail it to the first guy and tell him to pass it around.

Chatter: Better Christmas card, sorta.

FUN, SLIGHTLY ANEMIC!

For Shobos: Do you want a punk pun for your own?

Well, we call it "kisseloff" instead of miseloff.

And, boy, can I work under it if and when somebody holds the miseloff.

—Homelown Hanaiah

OR BOX, COOPERATION!

Dear Third Row: Assuming that the "row" in your cognomen is sometimes pronounced "row" and "row" is a synonym for "row" to stir things up.

You know about the boat-turkey campaign supposedly underway at present? Well, Mr. Third Row, we've planned no less than seven different Twin Falls restaurants the other night in a search for cold turkey or cold chicken.

And not a single one had any turkey.

So the truth, so help us Hanaiah.

RED FLANNEL DEPT.

My Dear Pot Shobos: It has been some 18 months since you last heard from me in my official capacity, and I had finally resolved to retire permanently from professional life but due to circumstances which have arisen, it is necessary for me again to return to the public.

There have been several rumors floating about which have captured my interest to look some little bit of my time to satisfy my curiosity, and confirm them for the general benefit of those who might find it of interest to their minds.

First, the rumor that Santa Claus (her husband) asked Hanaiah some red flannel, but the old fellow, not being satisfied, brought her two pairs.

THE KNITTING BUNNERS MUST BE BOOMING!

Dear Pot Shobos: Gladie Develer should start a club of those who received Christmas gifts of knitted wools.

Also prepared for the bluffs of the winter, the items referred to in yesterday's Pot Shobos, are Joe Blaudand and Arthur P. Dred.

Anybody know of any more of the brethren?

AND JEROME, TOO!

Dear Potter: If I interpreted that squib in yesterday's column correctly, we have a great over here in town who's called the same kind of knitted gift.

The gift is more often than Brink Thompson.

Rehabilitating the Wagner Act

After eight days of testimony by the special investigating committee of the House of Representatives, it has become generally apparent that some reforms in the Wagner Labor act are desirable if the law is to serve its prime function of molding better relationships between employer and unionist.

Until Jan. 5, the five members of the House committee will recess to study the 300 pages of testimony thus far garnered from unreticent witnesses. Almost from the first day of hearing, it appeared that all was not functioning smoothly on the National Labor Relations board, which is the statutory enforcement machinery of the Wagner act.

Most vociferous criticism of the board's functions was implied in the reports of unharmonious intercourse among the board's personnel. From some of the testimony, it would appear most of the NLRB employees, from executives down, were employed largely in writing caustic memoranda concerning the shortcomings of their colleagues. Where there is that much smoke, there must be at least a small fire.

Principally inherent in all of the voluminous testimony that has so far been offered is the demand for changes in the law itself. The Wagner act defeats itself if neither labor nor the employer trusts it. If the administration of the act is incompatible with the best interests of those for whom the legislation was designed, then congress should take from the board some of the powers of discretion it now enjoys and should substitute a strict course of procedure.

From the criticisms so far recorded in the hearing, it appears that already a number of reforms are suggested. The "red tape" in handling cases might be trimmed, definition of a bargaining unit might be formulated, strict duties for examiners and prosecutors should be laid down so their jurisdictions will not overlap, employers should be given an opportunity to confer with NLRB representatives before they are held before examiners, and the entire conduct of cases should be handled with a regard for due process of law and the common courtesies allowed in a recognized court.

Other suggestions will probably become apparent before the hearing is over. Already the National Association of Manufacturers has proposed a 12-point reform program, which would outlaw the closed shop and check-off system of collecting union dues and would set up six restrictions against strikes. The result of the proposed amendments on strikes would be to remove almost completely this potent labor weapon.

The manufacturers' proposals are far too drastic. When congress considers changes in the Wagner act, it must bear in mind that neither labor nor the employer should be strangled. The law has no motive if it does not operate to the eventual benefit of both.

There is a natural tendency, after a law has been permitted to run along laxly, to screw the bolts too tight. Progress does sometimes come from this pendulum-swinging process—but it must take a path much more tortuous than is necessary. The best kind of advancement is the kind achieved along a middle course, aimed gently upward.

Love Changes Key

A pretty reliable barometer of the current status of romance can be found in songs of the day. As the song writers go, so goes the nation. Love itself may be as immutable as the Rock of Gibraltar, but a lot depends on how you look at it.

It seems a little refreshing, therefore, that the latest crop of popular ditties should approach the eternal problem with a little more realism. There is not so much gushing over the moon, not quite as much tear-jerking sentimentality over unrequited and jilted love. Crooners are warbling, instead, about chatterboxes and scatter-brains. They are confessing "you might have been a headache, but you never were a bore." In one song, the singer regrets that he got up that particular morning because he knew everything would go wrong—and it did.

All of this reflects a much better psychological approach to a problem as old as the world. It's really no use kidding youngsters any longer about the shimmering moon and the banks of the Swanee.

Link With the Past

A little sad is the story told by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, physical anthropologist of the Smithsonian institute, that a Russian scientist has discovered a new Neanderthal skull to provide another link in the story of mankind.

It is particularly ironic that the discovery should have been made in a land whose leaders have reverted to the Neanderthal tactics of brutal clubbing and pillage. The whole incident is a poignant illustration of the struggle science has carried on against the old.

BLACKOUT

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

BLACKOUT in London!

Outside, the shaft in Trafalgar Square looked like a ghost, towering and dim.

Inside, in a restaurant on a nearby street, blue bulbs cast eerie shadows on two figures.

You could see at a glance that Mary Carroll and Vincent Gregg were Americans, and Americans in love.

"Maybe this time next week we'll be back in New York," Mary said. "I'll be heavenly to see Broadway blazing in lights after all these weeks of blind man's buff. I've had enough wear to last a lifetime."

Vincent chuckled. "Well, we'll have something to tell our grandchildren—you and mine, I mean. You and I being here refugees from Paris and being here in London in blackouts. It's a quite a yarn to spin from a rocky chair."

Mary smiled slowly. "Funny, isn't it?" she mused. "You're already talking about our grandchildren and a few months ago we hadn't even met. It was all so strange, our meeting in Paris. I never could have believed it was the first day that you, my dashing, romantic soldier of fortune, would ever want to settle down."

"But I do," he said convincingly. "Never thought myself that I'd love a girl more than a war. But here you see the evidence before you. Our passports in order, our tickets bought for the Moravia. And all I want now is to get back to New York and marry you. I'll find a job making plans instead of flying them. You'll live in a little house with a rose garden and forget all about what the well-dressed woman is wearing!"

"Never thought myself that I'd love a girl more than a war. But here you see the evidence before you. Our passports in order, our tickets bought for the Moravia. And all I want now is to get back to New York and marry you. I'll find a job making plans instead of flying them. You'll live in a little house with a rose garden and forget all about what the well-dressed woman is wearing!"

"But I do," he said convincingly.

Mary screamed as she fell. . . . "Steady there!" a strange male voice cautioned. Mary felt strong arms holding her, glimpsed a smiling face above her as the flashlight's beam outlined her.

style-wise as mannequins she had sketched in Paris. But no pencil sketch, as Vincent had often told her, could do justice to the pale, colored hair or the morning glory blue of her eyes. Tonight she wore a gay dress with a dusty blue belt. It followed the lines of her slim body and against the bright fabric her fair skin glowed like opal.

"As long as you're real, nothing else matters," he answered, after a pause.

Her smile flashed tenderly. "Something tells me I'm crazy about you."

To Mary at that moment, it seemed as if nothing could ever come between them. Not blackouts, not bombing planes, not evacuation orders. As she reached for his hand, she sensed a stir in the room.

"TURNING," she saw a regally slender woman sweeping in. Mary watched as the woman slowly surveyed the diners in the dim light of the blue-green blackout bulbs. The stranger's gaze rested at last, upon Mary, then Vincent.

Then she bowed slightly and with a lazy smile, turned and followed the waiter to a table at the far side of the room.

The intimacy of the glance she had exchanged with Vincent gave Mary a feeling of vague foreboding. "I think you're going to be a very jealous wife, Vincent. I'm seeing at the way that gorgeous woman looked at you. Who is she?"

"She noticed Vincent looked his usual aplomb as he answered, flustered. "Why, darling, that's the famous Clara Magenta."
