STATE GENERAL FOR BORAH

England Refuses Any Peace Plans With Nazi Leader

(By United Press)
 Great Britain's determination to win the war and her refusal to make peace with the Hitler government was vial today by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, in a speech at Leeds.
 To those who have argued, in Britain and abroad, for a compromise settlement Lord Halifax said:
 "The reason why peace cannot be made tomorrow is that the German government has not yet given any evidence of readiness to repair the damage wrought to weaker nations, British capacity to produce more than the world that any pledge to which they may subscribe is worth more than the paper on which it may be written."
 Blames Germany
 The foreign secretary further accused Germany of direct complicity in "brutal and totally unprovoked aggression against Poland."
 As he spoke, Europe speculated on when more active hostilities will break out.
 While diplomatic sources in London reported a German drive through the Netherlands into a possibility, the French war office heard two additional German divisions totalling probably 20,000 men, had arrived in the Belgian-Netherlands frontier region.
 The Germans already have a strong force in the area, variously estimated at 500,000 upwards, and the massing of troops has served to keep the two low countries in a state of tension, military preparedness for defense.
 New Drives
 There was no indication, however, of any impending drive by either side of the western front, although land patrol and aerial scouting appeared increased, despite the fact that the temperature in the Vosges mountains rose.
 German planes concentrated their flights over northern France, chiefly in the Belgian border region, apparently in preparation to meet allied troop movements and to determine whether the allies have shifted troops to the frontier.
 Diplomats in London were busy speculating on whether the war would spread, and where. Opinion for the moment favored Holland and not Scandinavia or the Balkans.
 A French war office spokesman said confirmation had been received in Poland that German aircraft troops had been sent into the Russian-occupied part of Poland. However, the movement was attributed in Paris to a desire by Germany to help guard the railroad which runs from Rumania through that part of Poland. The railroad is generally believed to be under German control to the westward shipment of oil which Germany must have.

County Votes Tentative Budget Set at $489,945

Proposed budget totalling $489,945 for 1940—$6,480 less than the tentative budget for 1939 and $81,020 more than that finally approved for 1939—was fixed today by the board of county commissioners.
 The commissioners set to a 10 percent increase in the proposed budget for the month of January to $489,945. The increase was to offset the increase in the cost of the 1940 budget. During that week the board can also the tentative budget downward but cannot make any revisions upward. Decreases are the invariable rule.
1939 Final Budget
 Total final budget, which saw substantial additions paid off the preliminary figures, was $488,926. For 1939 the final budget was $481,510.
 Included in the proposed 1940 budget approved today was a $50,674 item for business expenses out of the practically all of which will be returned to the county by the end of the year. This constitutes no drain in the form of expenditures. There is no tax levy for them.
 Chairman Ben E. Potter, George R. B. and H. B. B. in 1939, plus the proposed budget, pointed out that the amount finally approved after the five-day hearing would be $489,945. It was the only budget authorized, and all of it will not be spent.
 Estimated unmet cash balances remaining from last year's budget, as of Jan. 8 this year, showed those unmet balances at $26,000.
 Current expense, $30,000; county hospital, $10,000; poor fund, $11,000; agricultural land, $5,000; general school, $5,000—total unmet, $66,000.
 The proposed budget for 1940 lists a total current expense outlay of $489,945 subject to the downward revision in February. This includes an aggregate of $75,400 for county salaries and wages and $17,150 for all other expenses of the same description.
1939 Salaries
 Amount tentatively budgeted for salaries and wages in 1939 was $74,700. In the final 1939 budget this was cut to $67,843.44.
 Largest single item in the proposed budget, as customary in the county hospital which has been allocated $150,400 under preliminary figures. That includes, however, a tax item of $17,700 for equipment under a law passed by the 1939 legislature.
Poor Fund
 Tentative allotment for the poor fund and indigent is $66,954. Commissioners' allocation, which includes the cost of the poor relief fund, for county expense, was $66,954. This is an increase of $8,000 over the final 1939 figure.
 The preliminary estimates on salaries and wages for 1940 show increases for 150 of the county's 275 employees. Some increases are slight.

BORAH REFERRED TO AS GREATEST OF U. S. ORATORS

(By United Press)
 Sen. William E. Borah was one of the finest orators ever to serve in the senate. He often was compared with Daniel Webster. The Congressional Record for the last 33 years is filled with memorable addresses made by the "Idaho lion."
 The Republican party lost two important committee posts in the senate as a result of Borah's death. He was ranking member of the judiciary and of the education and labor committees. He also served on the senate foreign relations committee, public lands and survey committee, and on a special senate committee on silver.

Borah held only one elective office during his long public career—the U. S. senate from Idaho. His election to the Congressional Directory (furnished by senators themselves) required only seven lines.
 Borah's 33 years as a senator brought him international fame for his independent action, knowledge of foreign affairs and his ability as an orator. It was his reputation as an orator that led virtually every legislature to ask that Borah be pointed out. Borah made his last speech Jan. 11—a stirring defense of the bill, 11—after the senate.

Passing of Borah makes Sen. Ellison D. Smith, D. S. C., the dean of the senate in point of service. Smith followed Borah in the senate by two years.
 Only a few orators ever have been compared with Borah—his recent American history probably only Franklin D. Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan were his match.
 Citizens of Lyons, Kan., recalled Borah wanted to be city attorney five years after he passed the state bar examination but elder political leaders decided he was not qualified for such a responsible position.

Borah's death was considered a blow to presidential hopes of Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination. Gannett, a close friend of Borah, anticipated vigorous support in his campaign by the veteran Idaho statesman.
 Berlin expressed regret at Borah's death, saying the viewpoint he frequently had agreed with that of Germany. "China expressed sorrow, saying Borah had been a great friend to China," Shanghai newspapers praised Borah as a man of great character with a fighting, unyielding and uncompromising nature. "The Hungarian press said '... We regarded Senator Borah as a great friend of our country and of peace in general...'
 High officials and close friends went to the Borah apartment to express their sympathy to the senator's wife. Among them were Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes and Mrs. Cordell Hull.

The National Monopoly Committee—a probe dear to the heart of Borah—was in the news today. It is a title to him and then adjourned in respect of him.

At the White House conference on children in a democracy, Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins paid tribute to Borah as author of the child labor law. The children bureau and the labor department, the conference observing a moment of silence in respect to Borah.

Borah's Widow, Secretary Loom for Post in Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UP)—President Roosevelt today asked cabinet members, leaders of political parties and the nation at large to give support to Mrs. William E. Borah, his widow, for a post in the senate.
 In a formal statement telephoned to newspapers less than an hour after Borah died, the chief executive said:
 "The senate and the nation are greatly bereft by the passing of Senator Borah. He was a true leader of the people and a true friend of the people. His death is a great loss to the country."
 Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau; "I am, with all Americans, already grieved by the passing of Senator Borah."
 Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins; "A tremendous loss to the nation which he served so well."
 Secretary of War Hates H. Woodring; "... A truly great statesman."
 Sen. Wm Pittman, D. Nev.; "A man of great character, individuality and independence."
 House Speaker William C. Clegg; "A great and dominating spirit with a true sense of the public interest, political and economic questions which he vividly comprehended his countrymen during the long service of his public service."

Whoever that woman there for will leave across a year and remain covers in January. But the Republican sentiment was strong in Borah and hard-headed political points out that Mrs. Borah was almost as familiar with Idaho legislation and national politics as the senator himself.
 As prominently mentioned was state Senator Thomas Heath, Republican, who said, "Mrs. Borah is a brilliant statesman."

Gas Fumes Kill Three of Family

MEER, Pa., Jan. 20 (UP)—Three members of a family were found dead in their home here today. The family included a mother, 42, and a daughter, 10.

While Sen. William E. Borah, known through the nation as "the Lion of Idaho," had many important highlights in his life, here are two that stand out. At the top of the Idaho lion was pictured with Sen. Wm. Frank Johnson of California after the two had successfully fought to prevent the United States from entering the world war. Below Sen. Borah is pictured as he announced to Ohio Republican leaders that he would seek the GOP presidential nomination in 1920—a nomination that eventually went to Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, who went down to accepting defeat. At right is "The Lion" in action on the senate floor, where he was noted as the greatest orator in congress in the 80th century.

Great Moments in Life of Sen. Borah

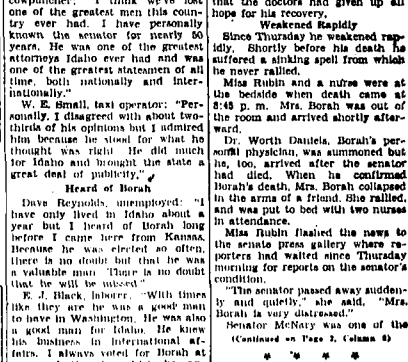

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (UP)—William Edgar Borah, statesman and senator at large to the world who died last night, will be honored by a state funeral in the senate chamber where he served for 33 years.
 President Roosevelt, members of his cabinet, the Washington diplomatic corps, members of congress and other high government officials will attend.
 It will be held at noon Monday. Borah's body will be placed aboard a train for Boise, Idaho, at 5 p. m. Burial will be at Boise.
 Borah succumbed to a cerebral hemorrhage at 8:45 p. m., last night. He was stricken Tuesday. Death came peacefully at his home while he was in a coma. He was 74.
 The capitol, which was stunned with announcement of Borah's critical condition Thursday morning, mourned the passing of a man whose death leaves a mighty gap in the front ranks of great men.
 President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, with whom he disagreed vigorously on foreign policy and fearlessness. Mr. Roosevelt prefaced a radio address at 10:30 p. m., with a tribute.
 He acknowledged they had differed on various problems, but added "his purpose and my purpose and the ultimate objective of everybody in this room interested in the future of America—those purposes were identical."
 Next March 4 Borah would have begun his 34th year of service as the Republican member from Idaho. For two decades he more his voice thundered in this nation's senate while other statesmen listened at home and abroad. With Henry Ford and Charles Spencer Chaplin, the unrivaled man from Idaho achieved a unique world citizenship.
 Back home the people, the people, great and small, listened to him, too. Every six years they returned him to Washington where he first came—a fiery young advocate—in 1907.
 Hundreds of telegrams from the entire country and abroad arrived today with expressions of sympathy for the senator's widow and mourning the passing of the man whose congressional battles were known the world over.
 A week ago Thursday Borah delivered in the senate his last major address—a stirring defense of the constitution's Bill of Rights. Monday he joyfully told his colleagues of a recent physical examination and of the doctor's pronouncement that he was in excellent health.
 Tuesday morning he was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while in the bathroom. He had struck the edge of the bathtub as he fell. He was found unconscious on the floor by his wife and was sustained for nine days by medical attention.
 Physicians examined him when found a conclusion as the base of the skull but that, in the opinion of the doctor, was independent of, and was not the cause of, the hemorrhage.
 His critics in the senate were not known, except to a few intimate friends until Thursday. His absence from the senate had been attributed to fall in his recovery.
 The capitol was stunned Thursday morning at the announcement of Mrs. Gene Rubin, Borah's secretary for 30 years, that he had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. A few hours later Mrs. Rubin, known as "the Borah," said he had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and that he would die.

Average Man To Feel Loss Of Sen. Borah

Officialdom high and low, in the United States and many foreign nations paid sincere tribute today to Sen. William E. Borah, departed "Lion of Idaho."
 But the voice of the "man in the street" could not be heard.
 Offering a nation cross-section of that voice, the Evening Times interviewed today a farmer and a carpenter, a taxi driver, an unemployed man, a farmer and a laborer. They said:
Last Greatest Man
 A. T. Wood, farmer and former member of the senate, said: "He was one of the greatest men this country ever had. I have personally known the senator for nearly 50 years. He was one of the greatest attorneys Idaho ever had and was one of the greatest statesmen of all time, both nationally and internationally."
Big Voice of the People
 Offering a nation cross-section of that voice, the Evening Times interviewed today a farmer and a carpenter, a taxi driver, an unemployed man, a farmer and a laborer. They said:
W. E. Small, taxi operator: "Personally I disagreed with about twenty of his opinions but he admired him because he stood for what he thought was right. He did much for Idaho and brought the state a great deal of publicity."
Heard of Borah
 Dave Reynolds, unemployed: "I have only lived in Idaho about a year but I heard of Borah long ago. He was one of the greatest because he was elected so often. There is no doubt but that he was a valuable man. There is no doubt but that he will be missed."
E. J. Black, laborer: "With times like they are, he was a good man to have in Washington. He was a good man for Idaho. He knew his business in international affairs. I always voted for Borah at every election in which he appeared."

Senator Made Last Visit to Idaho in 1937

BOISE, Jan. 20 (UP)—Sen. William E. Borah made his last visit to Idaho in the summer of 1937 when he welcomed President Roosevelt to the state. He had returned to a crowd in front of the statehouse, Boiseans greeted him.
 Illinois recalled him from returning last summer and the outbreak of war in Europe kept him in Washington during the Christmas season.
 Borah defeated O. Ben Ross, former governor, in his last Idaho campaign in 1936. He assumed the state but lost for reelection.
 Nine men have served in Idaho's 29th senatorial term during the 53 years Borah was born. He was the first in the political domain that was not, unknown to Borah. He failed by four votes to get the senatorial nomination in 1922 when the senate was the nominating body.
 He lost by several thousand votes in 1908 when he polled the majority party regular to become an Silver Republican candidate for the state. He lost the 1908 race for "lucky attorney."

Business Marches On

That wasn't just a mirage you saw—the business curve is really heading toward the ceiling.
Glance at the evidence, noticeable in reports and utterances released every day. John W. Hanes, until recently under-secretary of the treasury, who might be expected to know, had this to say: "There are signs that, if the abnormal circumstances and conditions abroad do not prevent, we have begun to enjoy what should be a reasonably long and sustained period of good business, increased industrial production and higher employment."
On the same day, the General Electric company reported substantial increases in the quantity of electric power used, with resultant orders for expensive new equipment, coming in from all over the country.
And the Pennsylvania department of public assistance announced that one-third fewer persons were compelled to accept state aid in 1939 than in 1938.
Yes, sir, this looks like the real McCoy.

"Tax Me, Please"

Offhand, anyone would say that it isn't possible—except that it has really happened.
A man in Newark, N. J., asked to be taxed. He said he had lived in Newark a number of years, always earned a decent salary and had never received a tax bill. He even sounded a little hurt about it.
Well, Newark officials discovered the man owns no real estate. But they're going to assess him for personal property, and maybe they can find a few other taxes to levy against him, just to make him feel that he belongs.
Anyone else who wants to complain in a similar vein may do so. A few more incidents like that and congress won't be so worried about its tax program in an election year.

IN the same instant she knew she loved Gilbert Lenox, Mary Carroll realized her first loyalty was to Vincent Gregg.
They had been engaged and she'd promised to marry him when she was free. Gilbert had a brilliant career ahead of him and Vincent had nothing but her. Vincent needed her.

The newspaper she had brought home lay tossed aside on the table, its importance forgotten in the overwhelming surprise of Gilbert's return. Now in the sudden loneliness of the room after Gilbert's departure, Mary momentarily recalled Vincent's arrival. He would talk to him about this turn of events which would make her a witness in the reopening of the Moravia investigation.

When he didn't appear for their usual tea, she decided to stroll toward Trafalgar Square to meet him.
In the streets, the ever-present testimony of war defense could be everywhere. You had to watch lest you fall into a dug-out or stumble against a sandbag while, high in the air, a floating platform of silver testified the vigilance of the Royal Air Force.

Mary had gone but a few squares when a chauffeur-driven car drew up beside her.
"Mrs. Lenox, I'd like to speak to you," a voice called from the car's tonneau.
Mary looked up, startled. She was face to face with Carla Marchetta. But there was nothing disturbing about Carla. Her smile, instead, was disarming.

"You must forgive me," Carla went on, "for this informal way of speaking to you. I was, in fact, on my way to your address when I recognized you."
"But what do you want?" Mary asked.
"I want to talk to you about something that concerns all of us. Won't you come with me to my home for tea?"

Mary hesitated. Fear of Carla held her back, but the magnanimity of the woman drew her on. After all, she was a friend of Vincent's. Why should Mary be afraid?
Before she realized she might be involving herself, she stepped into the limousine. But when she saw Carla exchange a look with her chauffeur, Mary felt she had been hastily about accepting the invitation.

CARLA chatted amiably. "I know all about you from Vincent. What a miracle it was that you're alive after that terrible disaster!"
The car drew up to a side entrance of Mayfair. The chauffeur helped them out. The house was far more luxurious than Mary had expected.
"We'll go upstairs to the drawing room," Carla directed. With a smile she turned to the chauffeur. "Will you bring us tea?" To Mary again she explained, "During war time, I've had to cut down my staff. Felix is my man of all trades."

Upstairs a fire was blazing in the richly ornamented fireplace. "You wanted to talk about Vincent?" Mary asked when they were seated.
"Yes," Carla answered. "I feel he's in very grave danger."
"Danger? How? From what?" Mary was alarmed.
Carla smiled pityingly. "Vincent is a very indiscreet young man," she replied. "For both your sakes, I believe it would be better if you did not testify when the Moravia investigation is reopened."
"But I must," Mary spoke with spirit. "I almost lost my life and I can help in any way to prevent other lives being lost. I'm going to do all I can!"

A silver tray laden with a handsome tea service was brought in. Felix had changed his white-cloth jacket to a starched, white coat.
Mary saw him look at Carla searchingly. Almost imperceptibly he nodded to her. Then he said: "There's a call for you on the wire."
"Will you excuse me?" Carla asked Mary. "Felix will pour your tea."

MARY sat before the crackling fire sipping her tea. Her hand shook and the cup slipped, spilling some of the tea on the rug. A fresh feeling of alarm had come over her with Carla's warning of Vincent's danger. Carla Marchetta had always been able to fall in with her with a sense of foreboding.
But despite all this she found herself stalling over her, a strange numbing drowsiness. She tried to fight it off. She wanted to stand up. But she could not rise from her chair.

HOURS must have passed. It was dark. Mary woke from a heavy, dreamless sleep. Where was she? She had no way to guess. With the sharpening of senses she realized she was surrounded by her own. What she heard was so shocking, so unbelievable, she was fully awake at once! Carla's pale face, dilated and staring, looked at her. Felix's lower tones. Something about a ship. Mary held her breath.
She must get away on the instant. Outside her room were sounds of hurried packing, the flurry of footsteps back and forth.

She heard a man's voice: "What are we going to do with the girl?"
"We'll take her with us!"
"To Bristol? To Von Blum's? You're crazy. Von Blum's not asking us for week-end party."
"What about Vincent?"
"Vincent can take care of himself. Did you send that message?"
"Certainly. Stand on the time signal."
MARY heard a key turn in her door. There was the sound of departing footsteps on the stairs and in the hallway below. An outer door closed. Then all was silent.

Despite her reeling head and weakness, she managed a few faltering steps. When she opened the door she found a man's face looking at her. He was a man of about thirty, with a serious expression. "What's your name?" he asked. "I'm Felix. I'll take you to the car."
MARY heard a key turn in her door. There was the sound of departing footsteps on the stairs and in the hallway below. An outer door closed. Then all was silent.

SIDEGLANCES ON LIFE OF BORAH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Side-glances at the life of personality of Senator William B. Borah, who died in a hospital here last night, are being published in a series of articles in the "Life of Borah" by the Senate Historical Committee. The committee was set up by the Senate in 1919 to prepare a history of the life of the senator. The committee was set up by the Senate in 1919 to prepare a history of the life of the senator.

Borah was often called "the great dissembler." A friend once told President Coolidge he had seen Borah in the back of the car at the time of the Senate election. "I saw the senator going the same way as the horse" Coolidge said.

Borah occupied the same desk throughout his long Senate career. Workmen were never permitted to move desks even an inch. As a result of this habit, a wide space finally developed between Borah's domain and adjacent desks. The desks in the room were placed two small tables, resembling night tables, to the right and left of the Idaho veteran's desk. "This gave me my independence," Borah said.

Borah's habits seldom changed and were well-known to newspapermen assigned to the senate. He liked to see his name in the papers across from the capitol and in chilly weather draped himself with a thick army blanket as he sat in the open, often reading some book on international affairs.

Luncheon to Borah was one interruption after another. He sat at the same table daily and always had the same dessert—a helping of ice cream. The waiter delivered dessert with the first course, invariably a fresh pear. As Borah talked to his committee in the ice cream would melt. Soon it would resemble soup. "Much easier to eat this way," Borah would say.

The Family Doctor

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

Hygiene, the Health Magazine
Orthopedic surgeons have been giving a great deal of consideration to the feet, particularly since feet are being used less than they were before the coming of the automobile. Once the small foot was admired, it was the large foot that was the object of government officials who were opposing collectivism.

If Russia had been as successful in the war as the British Empire was the Poles, it would have convinced the world that Russia was the big bad wolf that they had long suspected of. Then without a moment's warning the Russian fleet would have struck an unexpected blow on one of the most dark nights; what would have happened in this country? Well, I can tell you, every able-bodied man would have rushed to the nearest military camp and enlisted. Immediately the officers in charge would have let us wear you in the army.

Cong. Dies has informed us that there are 200 Communist holding office in the government. Now, if Henry Dvorak on the same subject, there are 500 Communists in high government positions.
A large military force is a dictator's coat of mail; without this a dictator cannot exist.
It was through this kind of formality that Premier Edouard Dailleur of France and Premier Neville Chamberlain of England rose to dictatorial positions.
If the invisible government would attempt to frighten the American people out of their democracy after the usual blunder that has been made in Finland, the incident would not attract any more attention than that of the American cutthroat shooting across the Rio Grande.

It will go on in history as one of the greatest events of the 20th century.

The board of directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight in special session to consider the matter of taking steps toward construction of a ring-tim bridge across the Snake river at a point two and one-half miles east of the point where the Blue Lakes boulevard would reach the canyon wall, and to hear the report of President Shad L. Hodgkin, who, with C. A. Robinson, went to Boise last week to take the matter up there. Assurance of greatly increased auto traffic was received at Boise from state and national officials.

The downhill and slalom were scheduled to be run off on Baldy ridge on an elevation of 7,676 feet. The downhill course drops 3,000 feet in about two miles. Most of the runs abandoned the linked turns and cut through open timber, hurtling straight down the steep mountain side.

The Colorado and Idaho teams were the favorites. Colorado won last year.

Foreign Among Favorites

Idaho and California women skiers are expected to receive the spotlight in the battle for feminine supremacy.

On the home state club will be such outstanding experts as Gretchen Fraser, Pacific northwest downhill champion in 1933; Nancy Reynolds, the women's world champion; Kathleen Harriman, Bennington college, Vermont, winner of the girls' events in the Sun Valley intercollegiate and the Duran and Eleanor Steiglitz.

Utah Women

Detroit First Baseman Will Not Be Holdout

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (U.P.)—Hank Greenberg today squelched reports that he had major league managerial aspirations that would be a holdout or that he was dissatisfied as a member of the Detroit Tigers.

"The thing that surprises me is that everyone says I had a bad year," said Greenberg. "I don't think I did. I hit .312, only three points under my 1933 average. I was second on the Tigers in hitting and drove in 112 runs, fourth in the league."

"I suppose everyone thinks I had an off year because I hit only 23 home runs compared to 18 the year before. Well, I had an outstanding year in 1938 in home run production. I'm not that good a home run hitter."

Burley Turns Back Jerome Quintet, 35-13

BURLEY, Jan. 20 (Special)—It appeared today to local backers that the Burley Bobcats have plenty to review on their hand after Coach Rulon Budge used an entirely new set of players last night to hand the invading Jerome "Tiger" 35-13 including in a regular season Class A basketball game.

The home coach started five reserves in the lineup and never used a man from the first-string outfit during the entire game. Biggest surprise was the way Harold Seeds, a junior from the football squad, came through with a total of 16 points.

Jay Brown, another member of the football squad, made 10 counts. John Stille counted five points for the Bobcats.

The home club led from the start, taking a 7-0 lead in the quarter and leading 13-0 at the half. Third period count was 20-11.

Lineups:
BURLEY: Brown (10), F. (4) Bedall, Larson (2), F. (3) Belding, Knight (1), G. (5) Stille, Bradley (2), G. (5) Peters.

RUPERT, Jan. 20 (Special)—Coach Wes Shurtluff had his first string Pirates were starting to go wild, so he started a full second string outfit against the Filer Wildcats and the result was that the home club could never recover from a 2-0 deficit that the visitors gained in the first two quarters.

The final score was 26-20 for Bill Powers' scrapping quintet every man on the Filer team scoring during the contest.

Rupert had all sophomores and juniors in the lineup for the first half. These were replaced with the first-string outfit in the third quarter and the regulars failed to do any better against the Twin Falls county club.

Game Commissioners Set $287,440 Budget

BOISE, Jan. 20 (U.P.)—The Idaho state game and fish commission today was expected to complete its first general session of 1940 after yesterday making arrangements for spending of $287,440 by budget during the year.

Included in the commission's budget is a reserve fund of $38,000, and $12,000 for 12 new trucks to be built for transport of fish and game.

The blue and ruff grouse hunting seasons for southwestern Idaho counties were set for Sept. 1 to 10 inclusive by the commission.

Adams, Gem, Valley, Boise, Payette, Blaine, Elmore and Owyhee counties were affected by the order. Early Hungarian partridges may be hunted in the same counties, Sept. 1 to 10, in the same district way.

The two-week pheasant season for southwestern counties, Nov. 1 to 15, was adopted. The commission closed the Boise river watershed hunting season.

The commission received a telegram from the North Idaho Sportsmen's club requesting officials to attend an early program from the club against an early opening, May 1, of the fishing season.

New Hearing On Lewiston Night Baseball

LEWISTON, Jan. 20 (U.P.)—A court battle over night baseball at Lewiston, Idaho, today was remanded to the district court for rehearing on one point by the state supreme court.

The high tribunal sustained its earlier decision in reversing a lower court ruling and ordered the district court to issue an injunction against the New Percio county independent school district No. 1 of Lewiston.

The injunction was requested by G. H. Hansen, owner of a nearby home, who complained the bright lights, crowds and fly balls hindered his sleep.

The supreme court ordered the lower court to hold a hearing on the issue of whether the injunction should be granted or not.

Original cause of the dispute—the Lewiston Indians Pioneer league baseball team—is no longer a factor since the franchise has been moved to Idaho Falls, Lewiston, however, must conceivably contemplate return to the Western International league in which case the night baseball ruling will be important.

High scoring honors went to Al Smith for the home side, while Smith got seven for Haxelton.

In the preliminary the Kimberly football squad annexed a close 14-11 fight. Flowers topped the scoring for this tilt by getting six points for the home team.

Henry May Be Barred for Life on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20 (U.P.)—The California athletic commission has threatened Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight champion, with life suspension in California if he failed to complete a scheduled bout with Cefelino Garcia Feb. 22 in Los Angeles.

At the same time the commission approved a match between Al Hoxst of Seattle and Garcia at San Francisco July 4 to settle the middleweight championship of the world.

Armstrong said in New York last week he refused to go through with the fight because it was sponsored by the Hollywood American Legion post. He said the post did not allow other Negro boxers to appear at its stadium in Hollywood.

Both Armstrong and his manager, Eddie Mead, were given 10 days by the commission in which to decide whether they would go through with the bout or be barred for life from California boxing.

TRIAL OF STOCK MAN LURES MANY

BURLEY, Jan. 20 (Special)—Despite the bitter cold weather, large crowds of spectators and especially people from Malia and vicinity are attending the trial of John B. Burtley, prominent stockman of the Malia community, and Clarence Corral, his employer, both charged with the theft of sheep belonging to Alex Wrigley.

Among the first witnesses for the state was T. J. Burtley, who told of finding 18 head of his father's sheep at the ranch of the defendant. The defendant was picked up, he testified, and the brand of the defendant put in their place. Wrigley has claimed a loss of 88 sheep, with 18 being found at the Hill ranch and the remaining 70 never accounted for.

Request that the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce try hard with an association whose No. 1 platform plank is a fight to expand and defend the mountain state sheep industry.

“Young” Team Nips Oldsters In J. C. Drive

It was a bitter pill for Jayce “oldsters” to swallow today. After enjoying high good spirits last night because preliminary count showed they had edged out the “youngsters” in the annual membership drive, the old members discovered that their rivals actually had won the town “basketball game” by exactly one-half a point.

Score, as announced by Referee John B. Robertson, for final tabulation was 102½ to 102. The half-point will cost the oldsters from a dinner, instead of dinner at expense of their rivals, they will now have to furnish the feed.
