Britain Will Avoid Drawing Neutrals Into War, Says Chamberlain

ENGLISH LEADER REVEALS SINKING OF NAZI U-BOAT

DORCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 31 (Special)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain reminded Europe's neutrals today that the exercise of allied belligerent rights might cause them inconvenience and loss but a pledge that Great Britain would avoid any effort to draw them into war.

Chamberlain, who announced the destruction of a German U-boat yesterday by British aircraft, said today that Germany "threatens the existence of a small number of neutrals who are too near them for defiance, and said that Nazis show 'the most callous indifference' to the rights of neutrals and 'the very gravest violation of common humanity.'

He declared that the allied powers intended to fight the war "to the end of the line" and that they would not permit any economic agreement with the United States to be a truce for a year or so. We must put out and to the victory of economic nationalization and authority, which we fear the last peace settlement."

His Fear of Allies

"There is not a single non-belligerent country that feels itself threatened by this enormous (allied) accumulation of power," the prime minister said in discussing the British military preparations at a luncheon meeting.

He did not raise a moment question the rights of neutrals to decide whether they shall go into conflict or stay out, or if they choose to stay out, in what fashion they shall use the neutrality they have chosen."

Chamberlain made a friendly gesture toward Japan in an apparent effort to soothe Japanese anger over the seizure by a British warship of 21 German seamen from a Japanese liner off the Japanese coast.

No Interventionist

"Nothing would distress me more than that there should be in the minds of the Japanese people or the Japanese government any idea that we deliberately or intentionally encroached our belligerent rights as we see them with want of courtesy or want of consideration to the Japanese," he said.

Chamberlain's speech generally was intended to offset the anger aroused by the Japanese against the seizure of German seamen by British warships. He said that the British navy is not in a position to take any measures open to us to frustrate the machinery of a powerful and utterly unscrupulous enemy," Chamberlain said. "But certainly the last thing we want to do is to affront the self-respect of a friendly nation with whom we want to live in peace."

1,500,000 Men Under Arms

Chamberlain said the empire now had upwards of 1,500,000 men under arms and that the total of German submarines—estimated here as close to 40—had been increased by yesterday's aid and naval operations.

Chamberlain said that the destruction of the U-boat resulted from the first attack in a "long time" by a German submarine on a British naval convoy.

"Very differently from the German practice, we saved the majority of the crew," he said.

Potato Oddity

KEETCHUM, Jan. 31 (Special)—The odd growth of Idaho potatoes without the aid of water, soil or sunshine, achieved in the car-penter shop of Frank Silver, Keetchum, has excited curiosity as well as some good-natured badinage. Frank received letters from Nampa, where he formerly resided, accusing him of seeking a membership in the national Farmers' Club, but he still has plenty of evidence to show that the tubers grew after a sack of spuds had been placed under a covering of shavings to avoid from the bur-lap and the young spuds are making the grade.

The photo above represents an unusual "potato bug," the main tuber placed on matches being a good-sized Idaho baker. The three on the toothpicks on its back are three of those grown on the outside of the sack.

U.S. Won't Challenge Aussies for Davis Cup

By LESLIE AVERY
NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—It would be something less than cricket to flag a bold Davis cup challenge at a nation in the throes of war, so the United States will pass up the midnight deadline and give Australia ample opportunity to rehabilitate her tennis forces before challenging for the big international trophy again.

THE PAYOFF

by HARRY GRAYSON (NEA Sports Editor)

NEW YORK — Contractors say it will cost $3,000,000 to prepare the five New York tracks for parliament and the larger crowds that go with them.

Something like $1,350,000 already is being expended at Jamaica, Aqueduct, Belmont Park and Empire. More than twice that amount will be spent before the first ticket purchasers go to the windows at the metropolitan stables and Saratoga.

Race-goers may be unable to recognize the old places.

Grandstands, clubhouses and catering facilities are being rebuilt to accommodate more patrons and to provide space underneath the stands for the main body of machines.

About 300 miles of wire must be installed to operate the machines and the totalizer.

While mutual clerks are not so well paid as were bookmakers' assistants, there will be much more employment under the setup that is new to New York but old elsewhere.

There will be 200 ticket-selling and 150 saying windows at Aqueduct . . . more at Belmont.

Regardless of what anyone thinks of machines making betting on horses simpler for the rank and file, with them racing in New York really is going to be big business.

Branch Rickey believes that the racing scene on farm systems, Commissioner Landis is ruining baseball in the smaller towns.

Judge Landis speaks of the Three-1 and other minor league clubs all being independently owned 20 years or so ago.

But Rickey, director of the far-flung St. Louis Cardinal chain, points out that residents of towns within reasonable access of major league cities no longer remain at home to watch their ball club.

"Good roads and radio account for the difference," asserts the highly respected B. R. "Fans go to the city to see the major leaguers.

"Minor leagues began to drop off years ago. There was only one way to save them . . . more farm systems."

Again using the Three-1 as an example, nearly all the clubs now have major league backing.

If Star Landis continues to fight chain stores, Rickey's plan declares the Three-1 will be only one of many minor leagues to go out of existence.

16 Teams Will Take Part in Elks Tourney

By Galbraith

BURLEY, Jan. 31 (Special)—Burley B.P.O.E. Elks' Outlaw Basketball tournament gets under way at 8 p. m. Thursday. For this is of the strongest teams in Idaho competing. Games will be played in the big Burley high gymnasium, which has a seating capacity of 1,000. The proceeds of this tournament go to charity and this year's show looks as if it should draw better than ever before.

Eight Snake Valley league teams, including the league-leading Burley Elks, a strong Jerome C. team, Gooding with its best team of recent years, Rupert—back in its 1937 and '38 winning stride, a good Decatur team and Burley's second entry, Sprague's Sport Shop and the smooth, hard playing Pler-Twin Falls entry are among the entries. Add to this teams like Hart's of Idaho Falls, upper valley champs, Sugar City Independents, Trough, the Pocatello Athletic club, Orange Transportation of Pocatello, Pocatello Tent and Arwing, Okanogan, Madras G.C. and it's a clinch to be a real snow of the best basketball talent in the intermountain country.

Again using the Three-1 as an example, nearly all the clubs now have major league backing.

If Star Landis continues to fight chain stores, Rickey's plan declares the Three-1 will be only one of many minor leagues to go out of existence.

STRIKES to SPARE

After dropping the first game, Dell's came back and took the last two and total pins from the Elks in the Commercial league play last night.

Ray Tread topped the Dell's quintet with a 582 total. He put together games of 209, 180 and 183, his 209 being Dell's highest. He also got a 564 total, McDonald had 519.

For the low position, N. O. Johnson and Walt Rigger, had quite a battle with N. O. Johnson and getting the honor of riding the bench next week. This week it was Charley Bruggemann.

John Ford topped both teams for high total and also best single, getting a 388 series and 221 total. John's 221 leads for this week's high single.

The Iron Firemen surprised themselves by taking three out of four from Firestone as Bill Jones showed the way with a 530 total.

It was the only Fireman over the 500 mark. Bill's first game of 198 was the best single for either team.

Top total for the Firestone club was a 512 turned in by Ray King. King's 512 was topped in 503 for his three games.

Perrine Hotel's 2,590 is still tops for league totals for this week.

Firestone had few bowling last night for the second week in a row:

The Public Forum

Editor, Times:
It should be necessary in times like this to point out how helpless the American people are without organization.

Also, they can do nothing about securing a reduction of the terrible debt burden that makes slaves of them and their families. It is the shadow of foreboding lurking all near. Also, they can never hope to establish real home ownership in this era of inflationary treatment with the sharks of the present structure.

Also, they can't hope to smash the giant trusts and monopolies that have sucked a large part of the American public dry and then turned it into a sea of inflationary and a public charity ward.

Also, they can't even put up a fight to get the relief many of them need. It is to keep a roof over their heads, coal in the bins, clothes on their families and food in the pantry.

In fact, all there is a little they can do except at home and work. Neither howling nor wishing ever saved a home or fed a family. Also, their case is utterly and completely hopeless.

Common sense tells them that they need the Townsend plan, through which they can do for themselves the things they can never do alone. Working together in a large organization made up of loyal understanding members there is hope for the future.

If an organization is to be strong enough to do the job quickly and well, then they should add their strength to it. They have no right to expect a free ride.

Aviation Terms Offer Spice in Juniors' Drama

One of the picture-que terms of aviation which Twin Falls residents may soon be using with the growing interest in aviation is the "hit the silk" or to make a parachute jump.

This is the same thing used in the Twin Falls high school junior class play, "Catching Zero," to be given Feb. 15. The play carries an appendix of air terms.

The name of the story is another term, meaning in this case that the number of feet to which it is safe to fly above the ground is zero. Another term for the same thing might be "bird walking weather." This phrase becomes clearer with the explanation that birds do not fly when the ceiling and visibility are zero.

Different words for fog are cotton, bloom, dirt, or goo. An "early bird" is the flyer's term for a pilot who learned to fly before the war, while a "solo bird" is a student practicing solo flying.

Balloons Another bird which is used in the terms is the Kiwi, an Australian bird which does not fly. In a "balloon run" the meteorologist, or weather expert, releases small balloons at regular intervals and observes them by instruments to determine the force and direction of the wind at various altitudes.

Among the more familiar terms which are used are blind and blind dual instruction, radio beam, forced landing.

SCIENCE AWARD PUT ON DISPLAY

Now on display in Twin Falls high school is the Hausch and Lomb honorary science award offered annually to the high school science student who in the opinion of the faculty has made the greatest progress in science studies during his high school career.

The award is offered by the Hausch and Lomb Optical company, and has been given in the Twin Falls high school for several years.

The company states in offering the award that science has been pervasive in the latest progress, although it is possible for it to hit much of the load of suffering, and that since high school students are capable of retaining the influence of science and many of them will contribute to its growth it is offered as an incentive for them to work for recognition in the sciences.
