Damage Reaches $1,000,000 as Mining City Sinks; 4,000 Flee Twisted Homes

SHENANDOAH, Penn., March 4 (UP)—A 24-block area of this anthracite city sank into mine diggings today, afflicting property worth more than $1,000,000. More than 2,000 persons living in the affected area were rendered at least temporarily homeless. As many more were made jobless.

The cave-in was the worst in the history of the southern anthracite field. City officials estimated actual damage at upwards of $1,000,000 and more than 1,500 of the persons living in the affected area were rendered at least temporarily homeless. As many more were made jobless.

Police roped off the district and prevented residents, who hoped to salvage their household goods, from re-entering their homes.

POT SHOTS

WITH
The Gentleman in the Third Row

To a Certain Guy at Salmon

As we promised on Lou Wall, our content up at Salmon, the Pot Shots Crystal Gazer did a little work over the week-end.

So our Kex was sending down a look back to the brimstone in the circulation department, although Pot Shots sent him a lock of the brimstone tresses. Lou said he was going to leave it up to Pot Shots to determine whether the Wall head he took or not.

So our Kex gazed into the crystal depths. And found that Mr. Wall—

a) Has blond hair, rather curly. b) Is about 32 years old. c) Is temperamental. d) Was married once but is now single again.

Is that enough, Lou?

The usual charge, our Crystal Gazer says, is $5 for this service. In this case, however, the Crystal Gazer will compromise on the jacket of a baked Idaho potato and a lock of the Wall hair for the brimstone.

WHO PULLED THE TRIGGER OF THAT GAS GUN?

Just keep the record straight, Pot Shots passes on to you today Deputy Sheriff Claude Wiley's day remark that he is indignant at the traffic officers who go around pulling the trigger of tear gas shells in the hip pockets of deputy sheriffs.

However, still in the interests of keeping the record straight, Pot Shots admits that Claude didn't mention Perry Ervington by name. We wouldn't want any unjust inferences or anything like that.

Unmasking the Bustle

What is a bustle, children? Bustle is a fraud. Why is a bustle a fraud? A bustle is a fraud because it makes a lady look out where she doesn't.

Can a lady look dignified while getting into a bustle, children? No, she can't. She is dignified while getting into a bustle.

If you do not believe this, children, study the picture above.

It is the Pot Shots contribution to The Amalgamated Society of Househus and Who Oppose Return of the Bustle, Inc.

LET'S ALL BE ONE BIG HAPPY FAMILY!

Dear Sirs of the old Row: We are detectives on the trail of the bustle. Editor and find out if he holds from the village of them.

Note: Concerning the above cartoon mailed from Twin Falls, Pot Shots knows for a fact that the spirit editor lives one town just as much as you, and that the Pot Shots is not a fraud. We wish you would lay off the pot shots and, incidentally, the youth always came with a signature, we couldn't get any more. We are followed by a very creditable drawing of a telephone. Duhny wuy.

It is a pretty serious thing to be called officially a pauper. It knocks the wind out of you. It leaves you humiliated and desolate. People don't take the pauper's oath unless there isn't much else they can do.

It is equally serious to be stripped, at the same time, of your right to vote. A man forced to live on relief for a long period of time is not necessarily a poor citizen. He is more likely to value his franchise than does the man who has a job and security. He has more time to think about it.

One can't blame Colonel Glover for wanting to do something. Maybe he was thinking of the New Rochelle, N. Y., family, on relief for four years, who maintained a summer cottage along with a town residence. Or he might have been thinking of the eight Jersey City officials, awaiting sentence for relief fraud.

There have been abuses in relief everywhere. There has been some pampering along with some privation. Enough cases of mismanagement have been turned up to make taxpayers very sick to their stomachs. But the way to end this sort of thing is not to strip people of their franchise. Somehow, there must be a more equitable way of straightening things out.

War Interrupts Prosperity

Things were coming along nicely in Finland before Joe Stalin came and smashed everything.

The Finns were enjoying a period of prosperity greater than they had seen for a long time. According to the Finnish Trade Review, aggregate value of exports from January to August, 1939, was 5,769,000,000 marks as compared to 5,177,000,000 for the same period in 1938. The 1939 figure was the highest in history for comparable periods.

Obviously, the last thing the Finns wanted was war. They were doing too well. Perhaps that's what Stalin thought. Maybe he, too, saw the Trade Review figures. Maybe he was jealous.

SERIAL STORY

$15 A WEEK

BY LOUISE HOLMES

Copyright, 1940, by Louise Holmes

Ann slowly climbed upward. They appeared her insolently. "Hello, baby," one of them said. "Good evening," she answered, not looking at them. "Welcome to our modest room."

"Thank you."

Clara relieved Ann of the suitcase. "These fresh mugs," she muttered. "If Mrs. Follet keeps a respectable house why does she rent rooms to guys like that?"

"They climbed another flight of stairs, arriving in a square hall. Doors stood open and the hall appeared to be filled with girls. Clara made an informal introduction.

"This is Ann Brown," she announced, pointing with her finger. As she went around the circle, "Hello and hello," she said. At this two identical girls, wearing identical pale pink suits, smiled identically.

"Myrtle Follet—her husband is Mr. Follet's son—Myrtle was a really little thing with a broken look," she said. "Hello Ann, a kind, sweet girl."

"Hey, Florabelle," Clara called and an apparition appeared in one of the open doors. She was clad in blue and gray, and was poised. She held a long pipe cigarette holder between two fingers. A plume of smoke floated upward. She wore an ornate, ruffled housecoat. She nodded lazily.

"Ah," she said throatily, "an adorable bird come to see my husband. He's in the living room. He'll be glad to see you."

"Hello, Ann," she said. "Do you want a room?"

"Yes," Clara asked me to come. "I'm to share her room."

"Can you give references?"

"Well—you may call Mrs. Pringle at the Pringle at 420 West 12th. Mrs. O'Brien on Harrison street."

"How do you know?"

"The elvish, of course."

"Oh, rascal! Your particular elf is Clara Brooks and she talks too much."

They were walking again. Paul nodded at a house so much like the one Ann had just left that it might have been her there on a flying carpet.

"This your new home," he said. Putting her bags on the porch, he removed his hat. "Good night. Any time I can be of service."

"I've a good mind to tip you."

"Better not. I have my pride."

"You're right. It is difficult to tip while she carried her trappings inside. He bowed. She dropped her bags to the floor and turned back to the door.

"We don't get along very well, do we, Mr. Hayden?"

Ann smiled down at her. "I'll try to be a good tenant," she said. "I'm—see that you are. My name is Mrs. Follet—if you want to call me that."

"Thank you, Mrs. Follet. I am Ann Brown."

"A voice called down the stairs. It was the maid. "The lady who is in the upper hall. 'Wall,' she called. 'I'll help you with your bags. My name is Mrs. Follet. I am Ann Brown."

"Thank you, Mrs. Follet. I am Ann Brown."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 4.—There are few pushing things among Senators and a "mediation bill" to promote industrial peace.

Senator N. C. Contrary to published reports, labor department's mediation service was consulted in the drafting of the bill. The head of the service, Dr. John R. Steadman, didn't know what was in the bill until he saw it in print after it had been filed.

Senator N. C.—Although the bill seeks to expand the service's field of operations, in actual practice it might go the reverse.

Senator N. C.—The method of expansion it envisages is the kind which the secretary is supposed to make after the afternoon spent in making articles for a bazaar to be held early in May.

Mrs. Emma Flack, president of the Perry Ryan unit of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Florence Craig, department American chairman, were guests at a meeting at 8th Thursday. Mrs. Craig spoke on the auxiliary's Americanism activities.

From Sheriff Wayne Flack's office comes a report of a car accident on Highway north of Gooding Thursday night. The car, which was a three-man board, directed to work for industrial peace in all cases where there is a dispute between labor and management. It gives it a broader legal base—but narrows its field by raising the liability limit from $10,000 to $25,000. As of today, the service will tackle a three-man dispute in a cross-road picnic factory; it can act only if both parties are willing to pay and it never needs to worry about interstate commerce.

LABOR DEPARTMENT

As things are now, conciliation service is simply a representative of the secretary of labor. Its sole legal reason for existence is the cases where the secretary is supposed to settle industrial disputes when and if he can. It has no authority wherever and doesn't want any.

The Flack-Shoemaker, driving south, sidetracked a car owned by George Rutherford and driven by Ewar McArthur. The car was driving south, the latter car traveling north.

Sheriff Wayne Flack and Coroner Dr. J. E. Manuel were called to the scene of the accident on the death of Henry Pulley, about 68, resident of Hagerman and operator of the Mountain service station. It had been found dead in the station. Investigation proved that death was caused by a heart attack.

FREEZERS PROGRESS IN SLOW GULFS

The service finds plenty to do. Its present staff of three-score-odd is kept busy. Steadman has a very 100-man staff as his goal. When he appeared before a house appropriate for a 100-man staff last year, to argue for a 100-man staff in his argument, he explained that he couldn't make the jump to that big house. He had to make a very gradual expansion, he said, could the service build itself up for a position of greater usefulness.

"I much prefer to be conservative about our future activities because, as I previously stated, an overnight expansion would be unwise."

"I don't think we should do feel, however, that if we could have twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars additional to carry out our planned program, it would enable us to do far more effective work."

CHANCE OF PASSAGE APPEARS SMALL

In one unlooked respect, the Wagner bill would greatly expand the agency's field—in a different direction.

The bill states that it would be the service's job to encourage any business enterprise "to make and maintain agreements" covering pay, hours, etc.

This is considerably different from the present situation. The service likes to see agreements drawn up and has helped in the drafting of thousands of them; but its prime concern is to prevent or end industrial warfare; and to make it officially recognized, the extension of collective bargaining would be quite a change.

If the Wagner bill has a chance of passing this year, it is hardly visible to the naked eye. A number of congressmen have suggested that its introduction was a

Thirty Guests Attend Hilarious Barn Dance

Greeted by a flickering old-time gas lamp which illuminated a scribbled "Come In" sign, the 30 guests attending the barn dance party arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Al Westergren and Mrs. Henry Molony Saturday night, found their course charted with many humorous placards.

Bidden to attend in rustic attire, the guests complied to the nth degree. Tobey, St. Perkins, Sis Hopkins and other typical rusticators being easily identified. The party began hilariously with charades, a mock operation and other stunts in the recreation room at the Westergren home on Lincoln street, and later the locale shifted to Buhl, where the "barn dance" broke into full swing with the Paul Jones and the Virginia Reel.

Following the arrival of the guests at the foot of the stairs leading to the recreation room, a coy creature kicked up as the original inspiration for the "farmer's daughter" stunts, directed an amusing system, the inebriate voice breaking early in the evening to reveal a masculine impersonation for the amusement of the club yesterday afternoon.

Parents of club members were present for the impressive taperlight service, which took place at the J. O. Thorpe home, Heyburn avenue.

Mrs. Casey, wife of the sponsor, was unable to attend yesterday, but she always presides as a gracious hostess at the social affairs of the club.

Fred Latham, club president; other club officers and members took part in the initiation, welcoming Junior Farmer, Bill Hawkins, Don Kottraba and Pat and Paul Day into the group.

IDAHO'S BORAH
Beached is the mighty vessel,
The sails are furled and folded down,
The stalwart crew rests lightly on the sand,
The engine silent, idly waiting now,
The wise direction of your guiding hand,
I shall remember well the course you steered,
Courageous, able, wise and strong you steered,
Choosing perhaps the roughest path,
Knowing full well that right is never wrong,
The pilot's journey ended now—good night,

PAUL, HEYBURN CLASH FOR CLASS B CROWN

Feature of Seabiscuit Uncertain After Santa Anita Handicap Win

2 Mini-Cassia Clubs Meet in Wendell Battle

By HAL WOOD
Evening Times Sports Editor

WENDELL, March 4 (Special) — Mini-Cassia sub-district today was assured the south central Class B district championship today as Paul and Heyburn, champion and runner-up, respectively, of that area, will go through the same battle they did at home to determine the district title here tonight.

For the first time in many years, two teams from one sector will battle it out for the championship and for the first time since the Class B teams have had a state tournament of their own, Glenn Perry will not be represented in the play.

The River Pilots bowed out of further competition on Saturday night by losing a close 22-20 decision to the fast-breaking Heyburn quintet. Heyburn and Paul enter the play-off game tonight with one loss each already charged against them—each defeat inflicted by the other team.

The two clubs pulled through the rest of the entries in the tournament without a loss, but Paul defeated Heyburn Friday and on Saturday morning Heyburn won over Paul.

During regular season play the Heyburn quintet chalked up three victories over Coach Paul's club but in the sub-district meet the Paul Panthers closed fast to edge the Heyburn team and take the title.

Take Saturday night's game between Glenn Perry and Heyburn saw the Panthers get into an early 6-0 lead and hold a 6-1 edge at the end of the quarter. However, the River Pilots recovered sufficiently to knock Paul out at half time, 10-6. The quarter, only to see Heyburn climb back into a 10-7 lead at the half-time.

In the third period the Mini-Cassia club went into a 16-12 advantage, but in the last quarter the Panthers closed to tie the game at 16-16. Heyburn collected two points on free throws and added a field goal to make it 17-16. However, the Heyburn stole the ball out of a Heyburn goal's hands and dribbled half the length of the floor to make it 22-20 with 37 seconds of play left. But that ended the scoring as Heyburn kept the ball for the rest of the game.

The story is the racing equivalent of the "ugly duckling" and the final chapter of it was written in the Santa Anita Saturday afternoon.

It was then and there that Seabiscuit, who once had a pair of only $2,500 on his head, pounded the dust into the clear and began erasing Sun Beau's name from the books as the greatest money winner of all time.

He wasn't made to do it. The little gonzo of a fellow on his back didn't touch him with the whip. He just sat there, a passenger, as one of the six out-throated of all time did what he best liked to do—run.

The crippled legs that forced him into retirement for a year might have been tearing him apart, but the burden on his back might have been heavy, but you never would have known it. He crossed the finish line, driving and driving away, the dust he threw back was literally gold dust. Because the $50,000 that went with his victory in the handicap race the Seabiscuit's all-time earnings are $375,754.

This reporter has seen many demonstrations in his time, for kings and prelates, athletic champions and war heroes, but never has he seen such an ovation as the one tendered the tough old campaigner, Seabiscuit, when he jogged back down the track after the finish and made his way into the unassuming limo.

A crowd of between 75,000 and 80,000 roared, yelled, laughed, cried, sang and shouted for fully five minutes. Not until he was wrapped in the faded blanket that has warmed him after victories on almost every track in this country, disappeared from sight, headed for his stable, did the ovation end.

Part of the roasting salute was directed toward Jockey Johnny Pollard. It must have been, because the red head deserved it. Because the $50,000 that went with his victory in the handicap race the Seabiscuit's all-time earnings are $375,754.

Because the $50,000 that went with his victory in the handicap race the Seabiscuit's all-time earnings are $375,754.

This reporter has seen many demonstrations in his time, for kings and prelates, athletic champions and war heroes, but never has he seen such an ovation as the one tendered the tough old campaigner, Seabiscuit, when he jogged back down the track after the finish and made his way into the unassuming limo.

A crowd of between 75,000 and 80,000 roared, yelled, laughed, cried, sang and shouted for fully five minutes. Not until he was wrapped in the faded blanket that has warmed him after victories on almost every track in this country, disappeared from sight, headed for his stable, did the ovation end.

Part of the roasting salute was directed toward Jockey Johnny Pollard. It must have been, because the red head deserved it. Because the $50,000 that went with his victory in the handicap race the Seabiscuit's all-time earnings are $375,754.

Howard Horse Sets All-Time Money Mark

By JACK GUENTHER
ARCADIA, Calif., March 4 (UP)—The last line of the Seabiscuit saga can't be written yet—because old Mr. Bones may just keep a rolling along.

If he does, then look for him in the third running of the $50,000-added Gold cup at Hollywood park some sunny day next July. And keep right on looking, too, for maybe—just maybe—there will be a meeting with Challeon somewhere farther along.

But if he doesn't, then America's gladiator horse goes back to the ranch for the life of a country squire with nothing to do but to see him and Challeon's sons and daughters up to the races to carry his name through the years.

Arguments for Both

Those who say that to run into the future for the Biscuit, but today there was no actual word as to which of the roads it would be. There were arguments for both, so many arguments that owner Charles Howard and trainer Tom Smith said they would be able to announce a verdict for at least a week. But there was many a hint as to what that verdict would be.

Said Howard: "Seabiscuit is sounder today than he was the day we bought him. He never has been fitter or more full of run. He never was in finer running condition. And he loves to run, so why should we retire him now?"

Said Smith: "Personally, I would like to see Seabiscuit set to stud. He is a whole horse now and that is how he should retire. But I'd like to see him put on a track one more time before he goes. Right now I'd send him against Challeon and not even give the jockey a whip."

Horse Made to Run

Howard was right when he said his horse loved to run. He wasn't happy when he went off the track with his injured ankle a year ago. Like so many an old trouper, the Biscuit didn't take kindly to domestic life. But he does have an offspring coming along in May and the responsibility of fatherhood may change him.

They Finished 1-2 in $100,000 Race

C. S. Howard's double entry of Seabiscuit and Kayak II finished first and second, respectively in the annual $100,000 Santa Anita handicap Saturday. The victory sent Seabiscuit's all-time earnings to a record high of $437,750.

Hilton Leads Scoring for Vandal Cagers

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, March 4 (Special)—Big-foot-eight-inch Vandal center Olin "Howk" Hilton led the Idaho basketball team in top scoring position, with 34 points, highest Vandal record for 26 conference games since 1932.

Hilton dropped 22 points in the 45 free-throw-in best Roy Ramsey in the point-gathering by his points. Ramsey, lanky junior forward, was third with 17, and "Chick" Johnson, fourth with 12.

Raymond topped the Vandal pack by scoring 11. The other scorers were: Ed Hill and Ellison's 4, but the skyrocketing center recorded 35 free throws to Ramsey's 22 and Harris' 21. Bad boy honors went to Allison, who had 41 personal fouls charged against him. Hilton and Bill English each had 20.

The Jimmy Water topped the list with the best percentage of free throws held, striking both of his 17 attempts, 10 of 17, out of 24 for a 287 percent average. Ellison, 55 out of 77 for a 714 average.

Portland Ball Club to Pack Heavy Punch

Wilson's and Laundry Pace Kegler Loops

National Laundry paced the Commercial League and Wilson's alone topped the City loop in Twin Falls bowling, but both teams were closely pressed, according to averages released today.

The PAYOFF By HARRY GRAYSON

LAKELAND, Fla.—It was to prove himself a team man as well as to maintain his place as the highest salaried player in baseball that large Henry Greenberg consented to play left field for the Tigers in order to make room for the correspondingly bulky Rudy York at first base and get another robust long distance batting average in the lineup.

Frederick is popular, knows baseball and is an excellent hitter. It is doubtful if he can play an entire season in top form, very managing worries.
Portland sold Irvine Jefferies and bought Fred Muller, fine pivoting strong-armed infielder to play second. Muller reached his peak a few years ago when he hit .300 in a streak—then lapses. He is not fast.

Lindsay Brown, 210 hitter from St. Paul, Minn., will play shortstop. He reportedly has class. Frankie Hawkins, suspended occasionally for various reasons last season, will be back at third. He hit .210 in the field. Eddie Marshall and Rookie George Pacheco are reserves.

It is said that it was for this reason the Yankees evinced not the slightest interest in Greenberg when they wanted him to be traded in 1938, even though Ed Barrow and Joe McCarthy knew Lou Gehrig would be around much longer and were fully cognizant of what a home-grown home run manufacturer like the Bronx Bomber would mean to the Yankees.

So Greenberg, who spent 10 years mastering the intricacies of first base, will make an earnest effort to properly swing files and smack between 33 and 58 home runs, his marks of the past two campaigns, for the Bengals.

But you gather that the personable Greenberg tackles his new job not without trepidation. His wife, Henry believes he will throw well enough from his strange surroundings in time, but points out that it takes years to learn how to capture the elusive New York tonight at Mangle Leaf gardens.

Pace was favored because of his huge reach and his speed and his youth. He was recruited as a champion by the U. S. National Horning association. But Salica, who held the title back in 1925, is recognized by the New York commission.

It is plainly no one has lost Hankus Pankus of the Yankees. He is a completely evident that he does not respect what is understood as the Detroit management has decided upon, which is that if York makes good it will be up to Greenberg to match the outfielder satisfactorily or face a salary slash or a change of clubs or both.

The tournament all-star team consisted of Nielsen of Ecker's and Klump of Puvon Lions as forwards, Nelson Weber, center, and Clark of Welles and Bird of Ecker's, guards.

But they tried him at third, in the outfield and behind the plate and now at first base. 'Perhaps if he had stayed in the outfield he'd be doing all right by now.'
'York wasn't a fine catcher,' he explains. 'Rudy didn't handle pitchers any too well. He became confused at times when a couple of runners started flying along the base lines.'

Coach Harry Jacoby of the junior college will enter his team in the national event, which will depend on whether the necessary funds could be raised.
