ICKES INVADES TEXAS IN OPPOSITION TO JOHN GARNER

SECRETARY WILL BOOM 3RD TERM FOR ROOSEVELT

By LYLE C. WILSON
 WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes tonight to deliver in Texas a speech to be followed shortly by an ambitious effort to persuade the state to desert Vice-President John N. Garner and support a Roosevelt third term.

Those are the facts. But, whether Ickes' Texas appearance is coincidental or was thoughtfully arranged to enable him to play a part in the third term boom, remains to be seen. The secretary denied political objectives would take him to Texas. It was recalled, however, that on his last previous journey to Washington he appeared in California this month and smoothed over a quarrel which was jeopardizing the election of a third term delegation from the state to the Democratic national convention.

Opposed May 7
 Garner and Mr. Roosevelt will be opposed in the May 7 California presidential primary which will bind the state's 44 convention delegates. Texas will select its 46 convention delegates May 28 in a state party convention. Until the past (garment) there had been no intimation of a contest there against Garner.

But former governors James E. Ferguson and Dan Moody are taking over third term leadership in Garner's home state. Mrs. James E. (Ma) Ferguson who served two terms as governor, after a campaign for vindication of her husband who had been impeached, is sampling Texas sentiment on two third term questions.

"Ma" Might Run
 "Ma" says she might run for a third term, herself, and in that event would be for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt. That Ickes could go in and out of a state where such developments were current without making some political medicine is more possible than probable. He will speak in Kilgore, Tex., March 27 in ceremonies marking the 10th anniversary of the fabulous East Texas oil field and proceed to Chicago.

On April 1 the Moody-Ferguson forces will begin their formal campaign for a Roosevelt-instructed delegation to the Democratic convention which will meet in Chicago July 15. But Garner organizers in Texas are willing to fight and are planning a big rally of their own. The vice-president's presidential campaign would fold up, of course, if New Dealers could break through his home state defense.

ATTACK MADE IN DANISH WATERS

BERLIN, March 25 (AP)—A British submarine attack on the German steamship Edmund Hugo Stinnes IV was made inside Danish territorial waters, the official news agency said today. It was alleged also the ship was shelled before the crew had time to take to lifeboats and that two members of the crew were wounded.

Danish coastal reports said that the "sun men" were injured in getting into lifeboats after the submarine had dropped them to leave the ship within 15 minutes.

The captain was kidnapped," the agency said.

Horse, Stage Veteran, Dies From Old Age

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—Anna, veteran of 25 years with the Metropolitan opera is dead in a New Jersey barn.

She was a horse, a spotlessly white mare of gentle disposition and even temperament. She was rare because the blaze of brasses in the triumphal scene of Verdi's Aida never disturbed her. That was the only scene in which she ever had a part. She died out in glittering jewelry and jutting the chair for Rhodanes.

She had handled some celebrated tenors in that role including Enrico Caruso, Benjamin Gigli, Lauri-Volpi, Morgan Kingston, Giovanni Martinelli and Arthur Carron. Only once did she neigh on the stage, and everybody agreed then that the tenor was off key before she interrupted. She had a brief movie career, carrying Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" and Marlon Davies in "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

Death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was 33.

Will Our Armaments Be Obsolete?

Idealistic pacifism has no place in the picture when a country is in imminent danger of being led to the slaughter like an innocent lamb, but on the other hand it is possible to be worked into a frenzy over even a remote chance of being drawn into a major conflict.

Right now the United States is up to its ears in a race to build armaments. It is perhaps the largest program of its kind ever to be undertaken by Uncle Sam. In view of conditions abroad, his reasoning may be thoroughly sound, but nevertheless it is interesting to consider the views of such organizations as the National Council for Prevention of War.

"The people of this country need bread and jobs far more than they need more battleships and cruisers," it contends in a recent pamphlet. "They don't want to lose their farms and their homes. They want employment for their youth and adequate schools for their children. There is nothing in the world situation that requires giving the American people cannon instead of bread, $100,000,000 battleships instead of constructive employment."

The national council advances the following three reasons for going slowly in naval building:

1—Caution should be observed if all our naval building until the European war has determined the relative value of different types of ships. Nobody knows whether a $90,000,000 battleship can ever protect itself against the torpedo fired by a cheap submarine, such as sunk a modern British battleship in Scapa Flow.

2—Caution should be observed also in the quantity building of airplanes at a time when the progress of invention may any day make today's types obsolete. Our worst alarmist does not threaten us with immediate invasion. There is, therefore, no ground for cluttering up our national defense program with second-best airplanes.

3—Caution should be observed for still another reason. The administration has started to explore the possibility of neutral negotiation of a lasting peace in Europe, to be accompanied by general reduction of armaments. No nation on earth can afford to keep up the present race in armaments. Congress certainly does not intend to waste the people's money on unnecessary ships, when it is so badly needed elsewhere. Should not all contracts now made include provision for cancellation at the discretion of the President?

No less an authority than Lester Barlow, inventor who furnished the formula for most of the bombs used by the A. E. F. during the World war, has now informed United States naval authorities of a perfected plan for aerial bombs he claims will make navies and battleships obsolete.

Although army and navy officials are holding back co-operation in recommending adoption of Barlow's device, probably because it might jeopardize their jobs, that is no sign that other countries will not perfect a similar implement of destruction to render our expensive battleships defenseless.

Maybe the potentialities of modern and future warfare should be given more careful study before we sink too much money in armaments that might soon become outdated.

Learning the Hard Way

Too many of us have to learn things the hard way. Safety for instance. We've got to be jolted good and hard before we really understand that accidents are pretty horrible.

We read about tragedies such as that of the 27 fruit pickers who were killed when a train smashed their truck near McAllen, Tex. We nod sagely over sound advice. We study statistics. But, too often, all these things aren't enough. We've got to see cars run together, heads cracked open, blood spilling before we're convinced.

A lot of catastrophe could be avoided if we just took the safety people's word for it that auto accidents are not pleasant. If everyone remembered the rules and tossed in a little extra common sense, there wouldn't be a thing for any motorist to worry about.

Kids Needn't Be Criminals

Circuit Judge Fremont Evans of Benton Harbor, Mich., judiciously regretted that, instead of sending juvenile delinquents to reform schools, he couldn't simply prescribe a hearty dose of "an old-fashioned wooden shoe, a big strap, and someone who would use it with a vengeance." The jurist said he thought that it would do more good than sending the youngsters away.

Maybe it would, too. Psychologists have been known to debate that question far into the night. Whenever youthful delinquents are shipped away to places where they can crush up on the fine points of crime they didn't know about, almost any course would be better than detention.

We Worry Over Easter Telegram

No. 315

Pot Shots is worried. He's worried to say worried until he gets word from his mother, back in Chicago, that she got his Easter telegram okay.

Getting Easter almost upon us Saturday, and to Easter greeting dispatched as yet, we turned for the first time in our history to those ready-made holiday telegrams the Western Union has on tap for any and all events.

Running up and down the list, we selected Easter Message No. 315, a bright but restrained little piece. It said: "Wishing you the brightest, happiest and sunniest Easter ever."

That sounded fine to us. But later we discovered that customer get the special holiday price only because the company merely has to transmit the number to the other end, doesn't bother sending the words. And the gent at the other end sends out the message to fit the number, in a cheery envelope.

Then we got to wondering what if the gent at the other end was out on a binge the night before and couldn't read numbers too well. Or what if he were in such a rush that he couldn't read numbers hastily and got 316 instead of 315?

No. 316 wouldn't go so well with a mother: "May Easter bring you the best of good wishes to you, our dearest friends."

We got more worried than ever when we contemplated Message No. 324. If the gent on the other end got hold of this number by mistake, we'll have a lot of explaining to do. Says the message: "Happy Easter season and to express our thanks for your past year's gifts."

If our mother got that one inadvertently Sunday, even the discomfited Chicago to Idaho won't save us.

We know Manager Jim Groff would be glad to reassure us, but we're the post office and we hear positively that Message No. 315 got through.

SERIAL STORY

$15 A WEEK BY LOUISE HOLMES

"That's what's mine," she said. "That watch belonged to my father. And this roll of silver, well, that's mine, too, one by one, myself!"

Mr. Temple stood before her. Gravelly he looked into her white face. His expression was one of disappointment rather than blame.

"May I have it a moment?" Ann held out her hand and he took the watch. "See?" she said, handing it back to him. "My father carried that watch until he died. I've had it ever since."

Mr. Temple looked at the inscription. He took a pair of spectacles from his pocket and looked again.

"Well, Plunket—" Mr. Temple began, nipping off the end of a cigar.

"I know where your watch is," Plunket said defiantly. "I been suspicious of Miss Brown ever since she came. My silver has disappeared from the dining room and I took the liberty of looking for 'em in her room. I found 'em all right. She looked awful satisfied."

"Go up and look for yourself. Look in the bottom drawer of her dresser. Your watch is there and a roll of silver. I seen 'em with my own eyes."

"Ann shook with rage. "I have never stolen a thing in my life, Mr. Temple. If your things are found in my room they were planted there—"

"At this moment, Irene, dressy-eyed wearing an exotic negligee, drifted into the room. "What's the excitement?" she asked.

"My watch has disappeared," her father explained. "Plunket says it's in Ann—Miss Brown's room."

"If it is, Plunket put it there," Irene said calmly. "How do you know so much, anyway?" she asked of the cook.

"Well—I—"

"I know—you were snooping. That proves my point. You took the 'borrowed' watch last night. Dad," he said. "Mine was on the blink. Hope you don't mind. The watch he handed over was exactly like the one Ann held in her hand."

"Well, I'll be—" Mr. Temple muttered. He held out his hand to Ann. "Forgive me, but you?" he asked, smiling at her.

"Of course."

ANN was trying to reason it out. Plunket, snooping in her room, had seen the watch. When Mr. Temple came to the breakfast table she had seen it. But she didn't think that events had played into her hands. She was probably convinced, at that moment, that her troubles with Ann

ANN nodded. She felt chilly. It accused of stealing. And she hadn't a doubt that Mr. Temple would return with the damning evidence of the stolen watch.

"You may go, Plunket," he said, placing a roll of silver on the table and fingering the watch. Ann stared at the watch.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON (Evening Times Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The next 90 days will be the critical period in the European war, in the opinion of qualified observers here. Within that time, it is believed, there is likely to be a final decision whether the war is to end in an actual peace or to flare up in one form or another of the "total war" that has so long been expected.

Surprisingly enough, there is reason to believe that this decision will be made in London and Paris rather than in Berlin.

HITLER FEELS SAFE BEHIND WESTWALL

Here for the first time is an analysis of the German situation as made by an American military authority who returns to his country resort after spending several years in Germany. This man is convinced that Germany's war plans today shape up roughly as follows:

—No extension of the war in the west if it can be avoided—hence no "active" offensive of the kind so often predicted. Hitler feels secure behind the Westwall; the only frontier open to attack is the short coast stretch between Denmark and Holland. Continued threats to invade France via Holland and Belgium may be made in order to induce those neutral countries to work for peace.

—No war in the Balkans. Hitler looks in this direction for economic supplies, and thinks he can best get them if peace prevails. Also, his "Eurasian" plan envisages economic control rather than actual conquest and political possession.

—No trouble with Russia. Hitler is convinced he can bargain for needed supplies; also, the German general staff is said to have told him that he need not fear Russia's invasion since he is certain that the German army could do necessary smash all the way across the Ukraine in three months.

—No " blitzkrieg " by air against England. Hitler wants to gain his air superiority and his oil reserves.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

HINCLAIR LEWIS

Still heavily under the influence of his active interest in the legistic and literary world, Lewis has come out with a novel of stage life, "Bethel Merriday" (Doubleday, Doran, $2.50).

While the love-lovers will protest that the story is too gentle and that the red-head, once-venomous No. 1 prize winner is growing mellow, the book is a masterpiece of young woman idealism, provides sound enlightenment and an inside peek into the world beyond the college life.

Bethel's year for acting dates back to the age of 5. When she graduates from college she goes over to the world of the actor, later gives Bethel her first real job in a modern-day version of "Home and Away" after she has married her first love, a man who is a member of the "Theater." Most of the people she runs into here attack with her through the rest of the story. Andy Deaton, a writer and producer, later gives Bethel her first real job in a modern-day version of "Home and Away" after she has married her first love, a man who is a member of the "Theater."

It is the gold-digger, one of the things in Bethel's life, who faces the world of the actor, and the novel is a masterpiece of young woman idealism, provides sound enlightenment and an inside peek into the world beyond the college life.

It is Zed Wintergalt, cynical and competent, whom Bethel finally meets. He is a man who has a lot to give her. It is this Bethel has learned a good deal of the conditions of show business, and she is a more mature person and, above all, the human qualities of the theatrical people, and she is a more mature person and, above all, the human qualities of the theatrical people, and she is a more mature person and, above all, the human qualities of the theatrical people.

KIMBERLY ANNEXES SECOND BOXING CROWN

EMMETT TAKES CLASS A CROWN; BURLEY WINS CONSOLATION

Jerome Comes in Second in Close Finish of Tourney

ALBION, March 25 (Special)—For the second consecutive year the battling Kimberly Bulldogs today held the Idaho state high school boxing title.

The Kimberly club put five men into the finals on Saturday night to edge out a great Jerome club, 22 points to 19. In winning the title, the Bulldogs also took three individual crowns. Jerome got two, Dietrich one, Sugar City one, Idaho Falls one, Castleford one, Shelley one and Malad one.

Saturday night's card was witnessed by the biggest crowd of the three-day tournament that drew 900 entries from all over the state and their biggest thrill came in the ninth bout of the evening when Clarence Bishop of Jerome and Wayne Kirby City of Kimberly put on an old-fashioned slug-fest that kept the fans on their feet for all three rounds.

In the opening stanza of this heated battle, Bishop got Kirby off balance, then socked him through the ropes onto the floor. Kirby came back snorting fire and had to be held back by referee Ed Travler for the nine count before he came in swinging wildly.

However, Bishop went on to take two out of three rounds and win the crown.

Expected fireworks in the George Kono-Ola Hughes bout failed to materialize as the buzz-saw Jailed fighter from Sugar-Balem took new tactics to get a decision. He waited and waited for Hughes to attack and finally took a dull three-round edge.

Standings of other teams in the Idaho tour: Malad 13, Shelley 11, Idaho Falls 10, Dietrich 7, Sugar City 4, Castleford 3, Rupert 4, Mountain Home 4, Montpellier 2, and Shoshone 3. Anthony and McCall one each. Three teams, Riggs, Albion and Ririe failed to score a point during the meet.

Gough Wins Fight
One of the highlights of the meet, from Kimberly's point of view, at least, was the victory achieved by Leland Gough in the heavyweight class. Gough, who had fought a hard battle all year and who just joined the tournament to fill out an entry in the 170-pound and over division, drew a bye into the finals of that division and then took a decision over John Ellis of District to annex the crown. They were four persons in the big-boy class.

Championships were awarded winners in the following final bouts:
22 POUNDS—Division of Earl Jones, Malad, defeated Benton Russell, Shelley.
106 POUNDS—Howard Humphrey, Dietrich, defeated Isaac Fich-everria, Mountain Home.

118 POUNDS—Frank Stanger, Kimberly, defeated Clifford Peterson, Malad.
124 POUNDS—Lynan Holloway, Jerome, defeated Junior Morgan, Malad.

132 POUNDS—Clarence Goodwin, Idaho Falls, defeated Gilbert Hall, Jerome.
140 POUNDS—Bud Welsh, Castleford, outpointed Keith Wilson, Rupert.

168 POUNDS—Martin McCullough, Dietrich, defeated Richard Cole, Jerome.
156 POUNDS—Clarence Bishop, Jerome, defeated Wayne Kirby, Kimberly.
164 POUNDS—Bob Emerson, Kimberly, outpointed Elmer Stenberger, Idaho Falls.
170 POUNDS—Island Gough, Kimberly, defeated John Ellis, Dietrich.

At the conclusion of the meet, Sport George Deiman of Burley, on behalf of the Idaho state athletic commission, presented the team championship trophy to the Kimberly club.

Individual gold gloves went to the divisional champions and silver gloves went to runners-up. The tournament was managed by Curtis Hill, Albion normal athletic director. Bud Travler of Twin Falls

Feud Spreads Between Jacobs and Dempsey

NEW YORK, March 25 (U.P.)—Jack Dempsey vs. Mike Jacobs. That's one of the conflict angles when Heavyweight Champion Joe defends his title against Johnny Paycheck Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Dempsey probably is the most respected man ever to be an active participant in prize fighting. Mike Jacobs unquestionably is the greatest promoter since the hey-day of the late Tex Rickard.

Dempsey says "They didn't tell me this fight at Madison Square Garden Friday was for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund. Otherwise I wouldn't have said what I said at Minneapolis. I said then Louis should knock out Paycheck in the first round. I said it and it was printed, so what can I do now?"

Rapped Jacobs
In Minneapolis, Dempsey made a lot of remarks about Promoter Jacobs' conduct of the fight game. Dempsey insinuated Jacobs had a monopoly on most because of his contracts with the various champions.

But Jacobs says, "Perhaps Dempsey has forgotten he and Madison Square Garden started the business of tying up champions. Dempsey was always under contract to Tex while Tex was alive."

Meanwhile Dempsey says, "The Paycheck is a mediocre mid-western fighter who is a fair boxer who can't punch a lick. He is a straight up-and-down fighter made to order for Louis."

Dempsey for Humana
But Promoter Jacobs explains as far as Dempsey is concerned there is only one heavyweight contender. He is Red Burman of Baltimore, who is a fair fighter, but he got licked by Tommy Farr in London in Burman's last important bout. And Farr was beaten first straight times when he fought in the United States.

Dempsey says, "Farr's night's fight shouldn't last more than one round. Jacobs should hit him out quickly."

But Jacobs says, "Paycheck is a good fighter, or he wouldn't have fought him in the first round. About this fight, we've got Johnny under contract in case he beats Louis. Don't go out on the limb."

Southwest Cagers Put On Whirlwind Finish To Annex State Title

MOSCOW, Ida., March 25 (U.P.)—The trophy emblematic of the Idaho state high school basketball championship for 1940 today had the name "Emmett" engraved on it.

The Emmett cagers, darkhorses of this year's tournament, won the prep school title Saturday night by staging a scoreless upset to defeat Coeur d'Alene, 29 to 28.

Coeur d'Alene led until near the end of the third period. In the scramble that followed the score was knotted three times. The decisive basket was scored by Harold Mayer, Emmett center, while the turnover was being raised to end the game.

The consolation title went to Burley by virtue of a 40 to 20 triumph over St. Maries.

The Bobcats coasted through most of their contest with St. Maries, displaying a marked superiority in all-around play. The Burley club ran up a wide 22-10 advantage at the half after a 7-3 lead at the quarter.

From there on in the Bobcats loafed and St. Maries closed in on the score, but in the final few minutes Joe Accatturi and Emory Miles had poured field goals to give the south central Idaho quartet its final 16-point margin.

Pfeifer Retains Slalom Championship and Durrance Takes Harriman Cup for 3rd Year

BUN VALLEY, Ida., March 25 (U.P.)—For its national slalom champion, America today still has — for the second year in a row — Friedl Pfeifer, former Austrian, who now competes under the colors of Sun Valley.

Pfeifer retained his title Saturday by finishing down the three-eighths mile Sun Valley course that drops almost vertically from the summit of Baldy mountain in the amazing times of 50.2 and 49.5 seconds.

His combined point score was 100, but all association rules put most emphasis on the downhill time in the slalom run, only two points — Pfeifer and Walter Prager, Hanover, N. H., ski athletes — were able to make both their runs within the time limit.

The slalom phase of the times bubbled the two leaders were: Prager, 57.8; Pfeifer, 58.2; 58.2; Durrance, 57.8; Prager, 58.2; 58.2; Barney McLean, Hot Sulphur Springs, Colo., 59.0; 58.5; Christian Behrman, New York, 59.0; 58.4.

Third, fourth, fifth and sixth places in combined scoring were awarded respectively to Prager, 200; Polowarszewski, 222; Hal Collins, Woodstock, Vt., 245 and McLean, 249.

The women's open and amateur slalom events went to Nancy Raymond, Montclair, N. J., with times of 55.4 and 58.8; Marian McKean, Beverly Farms, Mass., as second in 59.0 and 50, with Marilyn Shaw, Stone, Vt., third in 65.2 and 71.2.

Miss Shaw, only 16, became the open and amateur women's combined champion when her slalom runs were combined with her first downhill time of 4:11. This gave her possession of the women's Harriman cup, donated by William Harriman, chairman of the board of directors of Union Pacific railroad.

All slalom of Bun Valley, national slalom champion, made two perfect flights of 134 and 147 feet Sunday to win the exhibition ski jumps which brought to a close the week-end event.

Prager was strongly pressed by Gordon Wien, Steamboat Springs, Colo., who made jumps of 144 and 150 feet. Although outjumping Prager, Wien lost points on form, scoring 140 to Prager's 151.1.

WOMAN STARTS ON NATION'S TOUGHEST PROBING TASK

VETERAN CENSUS TAKER SETS OUT ON COUNTING JOB

By Lloyd Tipling
BOISE, March 25 (AP)—Mrs. Elva A. Canfield, 60, today set out for the River of No Return to begin one of the nation's toughest census jobs and on a return haul—dozen men had reached.

From Florence, Idaho, she will travel through 250 miles of wilderness in Idaho's panhandle where the population averages less than one person per square mile. The rugged, mountainous country, but the early prospector and timbermen referred to it as the River of No Return, and for that terminology needed no explanation.

Assemblies pack
She assembled a pack containing the bedding and food she will need for the trip. She will travel through 250 miles of wilderness in Idaho's panhandle where the population averages less than one person per square mile.

Shelving gear the 6,000-foot ranges of the Salmon range in the Colorado mountains. The rugged, mountainous country, but the early prospector and timbermen referred to it as the River of No Return, and for that terminology needed no explanation.

In 1925, she covered the area for a census. There were no roads, so she took her skin through the undergrowth where the peaks are 8,000 to 10,000 feet high. Many times she camped out overnight and traveled two or three days without finding a new or camp.

The fact that she was nearly smothered when she cracked up on a steep hill, dislocating bones in her feet.

Kept Moving
"I knew I had to keep moving, so I skied all day," she said. "I didn't reach a patch and I wanted a horse for a couple of days until my foot got better."

"A lot of animals of course not there, but it was a trial of will. The trees and the animals are nature and nature is God. I wouldn't think of killing anything unless it was absolutely necessary. The fact is, a person is safer in the woods than in the city."

She carries no arms.

TRASH-GATHERING STARTS CLEAN UP

Initial pick-up of trash in the 1940 Twin Falls citywide clean-up campaign got underway here today.

City workers from the garbage collection crews of I. G. Prescott began gathering material piled at various points in the city.

One of the main scenes of operation today was at the intersection of Main and Third streets, where a large pile of refuse was being hauled away.

Response by householders was apparently better to prove excellent in the 1940 drive, on the basis of the trash pick-up by the city today, despite inclement weather.

Body of Man Is Found in Stream

POCAHELLO, March 25 (AP)—Police today were comparing fingerprints taken from a body recovered from the Fort Neuf river with those on file here.

From a hotel key found by a pocket, the body was tentatively identified as Vern Johnson, about 22. Police said the body had been in the water for several weeks and believed it was that of a person sought for a series of residence burglaries over a period of months.

Consumer A. W. Hill said there would be no inquest if identification was supported by fingerprint comparison.

AROUND the WORLD

(By United Press)
LONDON—The admiralty said today the trawler Loch Asseter, 210 tons, had been sunk by a mine and that its crew of 13 had been rescued by the trawler Statuimittel after 15 hours in an open boat. All were sent to hospital.

ISTANBUL—Turkey—British warships have seized the Turkish steamer Sabir, 2,612 tons, and taken it to Beirut, Syria, on the ground that it took 2,000 Jews from Constantinople, Hungary, and other lands clandestinely in Palestine. It was announced today. The government, it was said, made representations seeking the ship's release.

ESBJERG, Denmark—Twenty-one members of the crew of the German steamship Ferdinand Hugo Stimmig IV, torpedoed by a British submarine as it fled down the Danish coast, arrived yesterday in Germany today. The twenty-second member, the captain, was a prisoner aboard the submarine.

BIRMINGHAM, England—Delegates representing the national union of shop assistants, waitresses and clerks, declared in a resolution today the war was an imperialist one in which the working classes had no interest.

BEHLIN—The high command asserted in a communique today that German paratroopers had shot down a French reconnaissance plane in an aerial fight near Zweibrücken, the western extremity of Germany, planes reconnoitered over France, it was noted.

PARIS—Moonlight during the night caused unusually active patrol work on the western front, a military informant said today, with the result that French troops captured a German patrol west of the Saar river and took several prisoners, including a sergeant.

NEW YORK—A basic rate of two cents a mile for each travel on eastern railroads went into effect today with a sliding scale for round trips, cutting the cost in some instances to as low as 1 1/2 cents. At the same time, major bus lines announced fare reductions some as high as 30 per cent.

WASHINGTON—Public and private electric utilities promise to spend $591,829,333 this year for construction of generating and other electric plants, estimating a total of 1,017,000 kilowatts, the federal power commission stated today.

PEACE OFFICERS' "SCHOOL" OPENS

Peace officers of this section of Idaho this morning completed the first session of a police school which will run throughout the week and which features the "teachings" of members of the federal bureau of investigation.

An estimated 40 officers attended this morning's session, which started at 8 a. m. and was completed at 11 a. m. at the Idaho Power company auditorium. In charge was W. C. Thomas, F. B. I. instructor.

Topics discussed during the initial session were report writing and note taking. The same topics will be discussed today at a class which will run from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. By duplicating the notes each morning and evening it will not be necessary for an officer to remain away from his regular duties, and he can attend the class which fits into his schedule.

Tuesday morning from 8 to 9:30 a. m. a film on the technique and mechanics of arrest and search of a person will be shown and from 9:30 to 11 a. m. practice sessions will be held. The same topics will be repeated at the evening session which gets underway at 7 p. m. In charge of Tuesday's session will be I. E. Sittler, also an F. B. I. special agent.

All school sessions will be held in the auditorium at the Idaho Power company. The course will continue through Saturday night.

COOKS
KANSAS CITY—An era of women chefs in America's hotels and restaurants was forecast today by George Recker of New York, dean of American chefs. The kitchen work of the American housewife is being taken in the general direction of getting better while young men do the cooking as "too sexy," Recker believes.

Four Hours—You Want More: That's 'Gone With the Wind'

When one can sit at a motion picture for four hours and then wish for more when the final scene comes, that film must be good. And that appeared to be the consensus of opinion here last night at the conclusion of the first day's showing of the world's greatest extravaganza "Gone With the Wind."

Filled to a teeming point that in many places stood on the screen before starting so many names' names, the picture was a real treat and following the original of Margaret Mitchell's best-selling novel, the change of pace in the picture is so great that it left the audience howling with laughter one minute and actually sobbing the next.

Vivid Dominales
Of course, as foretold in all the advance notices, Vivien Leigh is the outstanding character—so much so, that Clark Gable's part as Rhett Butler appears really insignificant, especially in the first half.

Great Photograph
Despite all the outstanding talent, one of the major things that goes toward making this film the great success that it has been is the beautiful photographic work. Angle shots that are new in the moving picture world create some startling pictures. Beautiful technical views of sunsets and sunsets and the red sky during the burning of Atlanta are going to live long in many people's memories.

One of the more surprising things to us northerners at the picture was

F. F. A. SELECTS SEVEN CONTESTS

Seven contests had been decided on today for the 1940 Idaho Future Farmers of America convention. At the executive committee meeting in Twin Falls last Saturday afternoon board members approved contests in livestock, dairy cattle, poultry judging, farm mechanics, meat identification, meat grading and F. F. A. alumni public speaking.

No Site Chosen
Although the executive committee discussed possible locations for the 1940 convention, no city was definitely chosen.

An Idaho exhibit at the national F. F. A. convention in Kansas City next November was approved by the group. It was decided that Idaho champions will compete in livestock, dairy and poultry judging at the Kansas City gathering.

In the Pacific northwest public speaking contest at Portland, Ore., the Idaho alumni winner will represent this state, according to action taken Saturday. The contest will be in connection with the annual F. F. A. convention in Portland, Ore., position, which annually draws scores of Idaho F. F. A. and 4-H youths.

Officer Training
To secure greater efficiency in club programs, it was decided to institute officer training programs in various districts.

Among the other highlights topics discussed was formation of an Idaho F. F. A. band.

Five district advisers were present at the session here, as was H. E. Latta, assistant dean of the U. of I. college of agriculture. The F. F. A. officers in attendance included Ted Nelson, president from Sugar City; Wendell Myers, vice-president, Preston; Robb of Hammer, secretary, Ammon; Jim Stearns, treasurer, Caldwell; Danie Grosbeck, reporter, Shoshone; William Kerr, state director of vocational education and state adviser, Boise; Charles Wilson, Bull, president of the south central livestock district; Keith Carlson, Moscow, president of the north Idaho district; Boyd; and Daryl Whittie, Boise.

Marquee Planned On Store Fronts
Downtown business block improvements will include a metal and glass marquee over the walk at 143 and 147 Main avenue east.

At the former address a new structure is being erected by the L. E. Salladay estate for occupancy by the Claude Brown Music company. The marquee will extend over the front of that edifice and over the H. and M. cigar store next door.

Ernest White, building contractor is supervising the work.

Bitter Nazi Foe

Paul Raymond, bitter foe of Nazism, forced a new government for President Latham of France following resignation of the government of Premier Edouard Daladier. A more aggressive war policy is expected to follow.

He asked for it and so it was done. Police here are accommodating, to say the least. Sunday night, he received a call from a man who was accompanied by "wanted to be put in jail."

Police went to the cafe from where the man called. They took him to the station and put him in jail, booking him as a "deeper."

This morning the man decided he didn't want to stay any longer and so he was released and went home.

NEWSPAPERS SEE SHIFT IN CABINET

LONDON, March 25 (AP)—Newspapers emphasized today a long-repeated reorganization of the government was imminent and disagreed only as to the extent of change.

There seemed three possibilities: That Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would make only a few minor changes; that he would seek to draw labor and liberal men into a really national government; that he would inaugurate a small war cabinet composed of men without routine duties, to take care of big problems.

It seemed likely for granted that in any case Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, would be entrusted with more responsibility and that he might be put in charge of all three fighting services, army, navy and air force.

CULT MEETS AT GRAVE
SINGAPORE (UP)—Police raids on two big meetings in a Cantonese cemetery resulted in the arrest of nearly 100 Chinese who were suspected of being members of illegal secret societies. The societies usually hold their meetings at the grave of one of their slain members.
