Bank Robbers Hunted After Escape From McNeil Prison

TACOMA, Wash., April 12 (Special)—Officers of two local law enforcement agencies are hunting for Joseph Paul Crezter, 28, "bank robber No. 1," and his brother-in-law, Arnold Thomas Kyle, 26, both nationally notorious bandits who made a daring escape from McNeil island federal prison.

The most intensive search was conducted by more than 60 guards on the 4,200 acres of the island. In Washington and Oregon, local and state officers took up the hunt on the chance the fugitives had reached the mainland.

They threatened a trusty yesterday with a shoemaker's awl, took his truck and roared by prison guards at the institution's rear entrance. The guards fired but missed the fugitives. The truck was abandoned two miles away.

Warden E. B. Swope believed they were still on the island, possibly hiding in the woods or in the brush. Four boats that constantly patrol the island had been notified 10 minutes after the escape, he said.

and had needed to swimmer. The nearest approach to the mainland is 900 yards.

Crezter is the most dangerous of the two men, officers said. Federal bureau of investigation agents said that he was "bank robber No. 1" and former "public enemy No. 4." He was dangerous with a gun, they said.

25-Year Sentence

They each were sentenced to 25 years in federal prison for robbery of a Bank of America branch at Los Angeles Feb. 3, 1938. Crezter was arrested in a north side Chicago apartment last August by federal agents.

Kyle was arrested in St. Paul, Minn., in 1934 on a reckless driving charge and a kidnapping. James D. Cooney, 23, of Lewiston, Ida., third member of the gang, committed suicide while police were questioning him about the Los Angeles holdup.

Mrs. Crezter went to a Martinez, Calif., jail last February to serve a three-month term for contributing to the delinquency of a 19-year-old Montana farm girl.

RUMOR PLAGUES SWEEP BALKANS

BEGRAD, Jugoslavia, April 12 (Special)—A plague of hysterical rumors swept the Balkans today.

None of the alarming ones were confirmed today. There was confusion from all sides—Germany, Italy, Russia and the allies—and there was an ominous upsurge of internal intrigues.

Here, it was reported that: Italian paratroopers landed at Zara, Italian port on the Yugoslav coast; 40,000 Italian "workers" had reached Albania; British troops had landed at Salonika, Greece; British warships had entered the Black sea.

May Boost Defenses

Calmer heads could not keep the excitement down and it was said in authoritative sources that if the tension persisted, Jugoslavia would have to strengthen her defenses even though the flooded Danube makes her safe from invasion for the present.

Belgrade police rounded up numerous persons last night to question about German propaganda leaflets, strewn through the city by persons in automobiles and thrown from an airplane. The leaflets said, "It is not too late to come over to Germany's side—but it may soon be too late." They said also that all nations which had cooperated with the allies had fared badly.

German Pressure

German pressure for control of the Danube caused much of the trouble. It was understood that most of the Yugoslav river pilots who for years have guided ships and barges through the treacherous, rocky Iron Gate straits, suddenly have gone into retirement, further hampering the movement of supplies from the Balkans to Germany. Rumania, which got sections of Russia, Bulgaria and Hungary in the world war, and which controls the outlet of the Danube to the Black sea, was under pressure from every side. Persistent reports reached Bucharest of the marching of German troops on the Hungarian frontier. Rumanian military experts said today that was not alarming—that from 100,000 to 300,000 German troops were known to have been close to Hungary since the war started, mostly in Slovakia.

WITH
The Gentleman in the Third Row

ALTERNATIVE FOR GENTS WHO ARE AVERSE TO WHISKERS!

Ever helpful, Pot Shots has devised a method by which whisker-haters can avoid beards and still hold favor with the powers-that-be. Our method we have modestly termed the Pot Shots Plan for Relief of Men Whose Whiskers Turn Green.

It needs no explanation other than that offered by our staff photographer, viz., I. C. status quo, ne plus ultra, etc.—

Vigilantes vs. The U. S. Army

After faithfully reporting for his constituents the sub rosa threat of Vigilantes to Vigilantes the Vigilantes, Pot Shots discovered today another possible threat in the path of whickerdom's dirty dozen.

This theory is the danger of an armed clash with the United States Army, no less.

Ken Ridgeway, who used to be deputy sheriff in Doc Hawkins' office, went highbrow on the boys and got himself a fine job at the federal farm camp, with a modern house and everything.

Safely ensconced at the camp, our boy, Kenny, is disporting himself without the faintest sign of whiskers.

This lack of whiskers on his part regarded by the vigilante committee as very unpropitious. The chairman regard it as little short of treason.

And while the vigilantes have decided that when they get underway they'll go right to the homes of their victims, they've put Kenny under the same threat.

But the farm camp is federal property. It's the United States army must defend it if it's invaded.

The vigilantes had better ponder the fate of one John Brown, who also invaded federal property.

MAGGIE ON BEARDS

My name is Maggie the Mouse. I live in one of the best houses in town. Right at the moment our house is the Old Gray Mare. She ain't what she used to be. The Mister and I haven't shaved for two weeks. And the Mister—his beard's getting as long as my hair. As only ladies know how to keep all that time. She hasn't shaved the beautiful Mister in two weeks. And you've figured that woman can't kiss until the Mister gets rid of those bristles. The Mister says now is the time for every good man to do his duty. And raise a beard. And besides I've noticed him staring into the mirror. Appreciatively. With a look that said 'I rather fancy myself in whiskers. He told the Mister that whiskers are about the one and only challengeable privilege left to males. I'm glad he saved British away. To which the Mister shrugs in a very indolgent way. And goes about his business with the thing that's called a razor. I'm glad he shaved. He's a beauty. Among him.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

YESTERDAY Playing checkers, Eddie tells Val he took up a position in the future. The reason between them goes slightly and Val ends up by being a little bit more than a little bit better.

CHAPTER XII

THE weather became rougher as they neared north past Cape Haggerty. It was a dull, leaden dawn that broke over the Pacific, and Val noticed through the port-hole that it was impossible to penetrate the mist for more than 75 feet. Steve Hansen must have been on the-bridge all night, she figured.

When she stepped outside her cabin the wind almost knocked her flat. Gratefully, she grabbed one of the lines that had been strung along the deck for support. It was treacherous, slippery going and every time she stepped on the Northern Belle pitched deep into a cavernous trough of water. Val had to stop and hang on grimly.

She virtually had to fight her way up to the bridge. "Hi, Stevie," she greeted Hansen. "Nice day to fly a kite, what?"

"You ought to go below and stay there," he answered. "This is unusually dirty weather for this time of year and I don't like it, now. No air, I don't."

Val looked up into the sky. "Looks like we're going to have a lot of water above and below us pretty soon."

"More'n might be good for us," he muttered. "The barometer has been droppin' like a ton o' lead. Tell you what you do, honey. Have Wong Lee send you a pot o' coffee and a couple sandwiches and have Barney MacGregor see that everything's ship-shape in the hold. Might anchor that minging gear a little more, too. Can't afford to have any of that stuff break loose."

She bumped into Pop Grimes coming out the companionway. "How's Kalo getting on?" she asked.

Pop grinned. "Stick as ever. He swears we're being half way around the world by now. I tell him it's only been four days, and he calls me a liar."

"We'll be in Prince Rupert tomorrow night. Maybe that'll cheer him up," she said. "And you can also tell him I received a wire from our San Francisco office. They've persuaded the boxing commission to rescind their order on that $5000 bond. That ought to bring him right out of his bunk."

When Barney MacGregor took Mike Kelly, Eddie Cavalier and another man down in the hold she went along with them. She watched silently as they threw more ropes around the mining gear and secured everything tightly.

"Where do you go from here?" she asked Eddie after a few minutes.

"Back to the galley, of course. Wong says he can't release me until you give him the word."

"I can't do that," she replied somewhat lamely. "Be bad for discipline and general morale. But I will give you a hand, though. C'mon."

She was opening a can of sardines when the ship lurched heavily. It threw her off of balance slightly, but just enough to strike her finger across a jagged edge of Eddie.

Eddie helped her bandage the wound. She winced as he bathed the cut in iodine.

"Anyway," she murmured. "This ought to be proof."

"Proof? Of what?"

"She held up her finger. "Blood," she said succinctly. "Not ink. Remember?"

He nodded. "You sure do gain your point the hard way, though. And before I forget—thanks for getting your office to square that fottling bond for us. You didn't have to do that."

"Forget it," she said.

But Eddie Cavalier found he couldn't forget it—completely. Twice he caught himself looking up at her when she wasn't aware of it. There was something disturbing about the set of her blood-curling head. He had seen a lot more beautiful women, but he couldn't recall one with as much stick.

She was the kind of girl, Eddie thought, who probably had a dozen or more guys cluttering up her doorway. She was the kind of girl who could spend it and a lot of spare time to do it. Guys who played polo, maybe, and belonged to two or three clubs. She was the kind of girl who had a little blue in her blood.

After all, he told himself, her work took her among people like that, and with her looks it would be only natural for them to go for her. She had a certain class.

He stared at the huge bowl of apple sauce he was mixing. So what? So why should he be wrestling with thoughts about the lifted bit of wood on spoon and whacked the apple sauce flatly.

That's what it was ... the whole thing was apple sauce. She was the kind of girl who would have been a little more certain of his convictions.

"THE gale broke in all its fury just before dark. Steve Hansen remained at mess just long enough to bolt something warm and bark a few orders.

"Get everything battened down and check the pumps. I don't want to see any more water in that number three hold."

"Barney, double the watch and bring a stouter life-line up swift. We're getting a drift over our bows every time we bite into a deep one."

Even as he spoke a jagged streak of lightning stabbed the murky blackness. An instant later a terrific clap of thunder rolled about them.

"Got some oilskins and a sou'-wester for me?" Val asked Barney casually.

"You don't have any idea about going about decks, have you?" Barney growled. "Because if you have, you better forget 'em."

"Those orders are better," said Barney. "Please Miss Douglas," MacGregor pleaded. "I don't want to order you to do anything. But it's murder up there. We've got a 50-mile wind blowing and we can't take chances."

Eddie Cavalier watched her closely. He wasn't sure he was phased by MacGregor's warning. So when she borrowed some oilskins from the ship's carpenter he stopped her.

"Where you going?" he asked quietly.

"She was surprised. "Up on the bridge. Don't you think Captain Hansen can keep us going without your aid?"

"I'm going for your interest," she said coldly. "but I don't need a nursemaid."

She started up the companionway but he seized her arm. "Don't be a fool!"

He didn't realize how hard he had gripped her. She turned on him and he brought her fist down sharply against his face. There she ran up the steps.

Eddie touched his cheek where the red imprint of her fingers were outlined against the bronza of his skin.

HITLER EXPECTED TO GAMBLE ON WEST WALL ATTACK

GIGANTIC TROOP MOVES THROUGH BELGIUM; FEARED

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—Tension increased through western Europe today in the belief that Adolf Hitler might at any time embark on the supreme gamble of his career with a gigantic German offensive on the western front.

It was believed in some quarters that any attack would most likely be made through the Netherlands and Belgium with lightning swiftness and on a scale equaling if not surpassing the historic German attack on Verdun in 1916.

Home leaves of the French army and the British expeditionary forces and royal air force in France had been suspended, Belgium and the Netherlands, determined to defend themselves, had made new military preparations. Netherlands authorities had started evacuating some women and children from German frontier areas.

Some military experts here suggested that the entire German Scandinavian operation, dramatic as it was and entailing a great naval and air force engagement all the way from the Kattegat at the entrance to the Baltic to the Arctic region of the Norwegian west coast might have been only a preliminary to a German western front offensive.

The tension noted in western Europe was felt over the entire continent. It was reported Germany might demand facilities for transit of troops and supplies from Sweden; the Swedish coast had been mined and the key Swedish port of Malmstad had been blacked out during the night; Premier Benito Mussolini was reported to have called five army classes to the colors; Rumania was nervous over the possibility of action by either Russia or Germany.

Britons resigned themselves to a wait of possibly several days for full details of the naval and air force fighting in the Skagerrak and the North sea.

It was recognized that time might prove an urgent factor both to the allies and to Germany in Scandinavia. It was up to Germany to establish communication lines to support its forces in Norway. It was up to the allies to cut any such line and, by a series of dangerous coastal raids to attack the German forces in Norwegian ports.

People remained convinced that the allies had won a notable victory in naval and air operations in the north. But today's newspapers clearly showed their disappointment that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, had been unable to announce a smashing allied victory in his house of commons speech yesterday.

SWEDEN'S SHIPS ORDERED IN PORT

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Sweden's 1,277 merchant ships have been ordered to seek sanctuary in the nearest neutral, allied or home port until German aims in Scandinavia are made clear, according to Martin Kastengen, Swedish consul general here.

He said the order had been radioed to the masters of all Swedish ships at sea.

The order paralyzed a merchant fleet aggregating almost 1,500,000 tons.

The status of Danish and Norwegian shipping was less clear. Lack of official reports from either country left it up to hidden ship captains to decide what they would do.

Beet Pay Scale Remains Unchanged; Acreage Gains

Listed as one of the three compliance phases which must be met by farmers to secure federal benefit beet payments, the labor pay scale for beet workers in 1940 has been fixed at the same level as in 1939. It was announced here today by Ray W. Lincoln, secretary of the Twin Falls county Agricultural Conservation association.

Although the scale is identical with last year's, it has been widened to permit payment of hourly wage rates if desired, Mr. Lincoln said.

To qualify for benefit payments, south Idaho ranchers must comply with the minimum wage levels fixed by the USDA; must comply with certain soil-saving practices, and must comply with child labor provisions regarding beet work.

Blocking and thinning the pay scale has again been set at $2 per acre and second hoeing $1. If the rancher and the laborers prefer the hourly pay basis, Mr. Lincoln said, thinning will draw 40 cents per hour and hoeing 35 cents.

Popping and loading minimum as set by the government shows: Six tons per acre yield—$1.20 per ton. Seven tons—$1.23. Eight tons—$1.16. Nine tons—$1.10. Ten tons—$1.05. Eleven tons—$1.01. Twelve tons—$0.97. Thirteen tons—$0.94. Fourteen tons—$0.91. Fifteen tons—$0.89. Sixteen tons—$0.87. Seventeen tons—$0.86. Eighteen tons or over—$0.85. If the topping and loading is done

HICKS AMONG TOP FLYING STUDENTS

MOSCOW, April 12 (Special)—All 30 University of Idaho students who have been appointing wings as pilot trainees in Uncle Sam's civil aeronautics authority program have completed the ground school or classroom course, and more than half have passed final flight tests.

All but four have received ground school certificates, and will be granted pilot's licenses when a government inspector passes on their flying abilities. Three students had to take the examination a second time in meteorology and a fourth had to bone up on air regulations.

Highest ranking students in the ground school course were the following: Wayne Hudson, Welter, 90; Leo C. Moon, Kamiah, 90; John Knepper and Joseph Moodle, Salmon, 89; Eldwood Come, Moscow, 88; John Moults, Boise, 88; Hillard Hicks, Shoshone, 87; John Kantjas, Polatch, 85; James Ross, Aberdeen, 85; Peter Badart, Elm, N. J., 85; Hilton Thrapp, West Chicago, Ill., 85, and William Hayes, Kellogg, 84.

TOASTMASTER was Miss Olive Hughes who formally welcomed the senior girls who gathered for an annual banquet at the Christian church Monday evening.

Gooding A.A.U.W. Honors Seniors

GOODING, April 12 (Special)—AAUW, Gooding branch, entertained the senior girls of the high school and state school at an annual banquet at the Christian church Monday evening.

The room was decorated as a Japanese garden with lanterns and baskets of blossoms and forsythia. A large Japanese mural was used at one side of the room. The table centerpieces were miniature Japanese gardens with bowls of violets between. Covers were marked with printed program-piece cards and nut cups with parasols.

Response from the girls was given by Frances Bishop, Mrs. J. H. Cromwell addressed the girls on the subject, "You Are the Heroine." Mrs. Cromwell gave out a set of quiz questions which were answered by all present.

Mrs. Bert Bowler gave a group of readings including "The Fighting Failure" by Grantland Rice; "An Ophioid Cat," and "God Bless the Commonwealth." Mrs. A. W. Peterson gave a whittling solo, accompanying herself on the piano. Miss Melissa Stone played "The Birth of St. Mary" and "Mighty Like a Rose" on the marimba.

EQUALITY CALLED THEME OF DEMOS

POCAHELLO, April 12 (AP)—Equality for all was the theme for business, agriculture and labor are the principles sought by the Democratic party, Delbert M. Draper, prominent Utah Democrat, told party members at a Jefferson day banquet here last night.

Legitimate business need fear no difficulty from a Democratic administration, Draper declared. He warned labor against "united forces to embarrass business, lest government control of labor result."

He predicted the national labor relations act, the securities exchange commission act and the holding company law would not be repealed because "they strike at evils too long endured to permit the bars being taken down again for business on the loose."

The meeting was the first of a series of Jefferson day banquets in the state. Others will be held at Lewiston, Grangeville and Epworth tomorrow night, and at Twin Falls Monday night.

JAIL SUSPENDED IN CHILD-BEATING

Thirty day jail sentence—suspended for the time being under specific conditions—hung today over the head of a Twin Falls father who admitted he whipped his 10-year-old daughter until her back was a mass of welts.

The suspended sentence was decreed by Harry N. Thomas, WPA worker, by Probate Judge C. A. Bailey late yesterday.

The sentence was suspended on condition that if Thomas and his wife are granted custody of their daughter after a hearing, they treat her well thereafter. If any cruelty occurs, the court order sending the father to jail for 30 days will become effective.

Hearing to decide whether the couple receives custody of its only daughter was set for 10 a. m. Wednesday, April 17.

Thomas pleaded guilty to whipping his daughter last April 2 with a doubled-up strap. Complaint was filed by John A. Brown, county probation officer, on information from neighbors and friends who asserted they had witnessed continual mistreatment of the child.

Beet Acreage Climbs

Survey of beet acreage sign up in Magic Valley today showed that added contracts since the tabulation issued Tuesday by Amalgamated Sugar company officials have now boosted the total above 25,000 acres. The figure Tuesday was 23,717 and Harry Elock, Idaho manager for Amalgamated, said that last year's total of 27,740 is necessary to assure operation of all three south central plants.

The contracts still coming in indicated today that the Twin Falls, Burley and Rupert plants will all be operating when the season for processing opens next fall.

Approximate figures now indicated today that the Twin Falls, Burley and Rupert plants will all be operating when the season for processing opens next fall.

WHAT'S the REASON?

We could tell you all about its superior flavor and significant texture, and the exacting conditions under which it is baked, but the fact that Butter-Krust leads all other breads in popularity in Magic Valley demonstrates its excellence more effectively.

The majority of Magic Valley housewives prefer Butter-Krust to any other bread, and there's only one reason for this preference. Butter-Krust is "lops".

Your grocer knows that Butter-Krust is not only a superior bread, but that it's delivered fresh daily to assure complete satisfaction.

Interest Increases as Music Week Nears

Auspicious ushering-in of the local observance of National Music week, April 28 to May 3, will be the Community choral concert Sunday evening, April 28, at 8 o'clock at the Methodist church, if last night's rehearsal of the large musical group is an indication.

Attended by more than 50 enthusiastic singers of Twin Falls and community, an exceptionally fine rehearsal was held last evening at the Methodist church, according to Mrs. Frank Fonda, chairman of the Twin Falls Federated Music club, which is sponsor of the week's program of music.

More Singers Wanted
Because of the caliber of the voices taking part in the choral presentation, and because some numbers are being repeated from last year, it is found that only two more rehearsals, April 18 and April 25, both at the Methodist church, will be necessary to round out the numbers under an excellent performance April 28, chorus leaders announced today.

Rehearsals are held each Thursday at 8:30 p. m., and it is hoped to augment the chorus to at least 70 voices for the May 3 performance. Charles Shirley is choral director. All singers of the community are invited to participate.

In addition to the National Music week events, as outlined by the local Federated Music club, one more affair has been planned for the week's observance, Mrs. Fonda announced today.

School Operetta
Pupils of St. Edward's school will present an operetta, that favorite of all, "Snow White," Tuesday evening, April 30, at the Twin Falls high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. The production will be beautifully costumed.

The students' night concert, presented by pupils of local music teachers, will be presented Monday evening, April 29, at the Methodist church, and Wednesday evening, May 1, is designated as artists' night.

Out-of-town night will be Thursday evening, May 2, when musicians of 10 outside communities will be responsible for at least two numbers. Both will be presented at the Methodist church.

Towns never before taking part will be included on the Thursday night program.

Final program of the week will be the school concert, presented Friday, May 3, at the Twin Falls high school auditorium.

Girls' League Employs Dream Theme at Banquet for Mothers

Tribute to their mothers was paid by girls of Twin Falls high school at a mother-daughter banquet held last night in the school gymnasium, with rainbows overhead, a pot of gold and rainbow colors in decorations symbolizing the dream theme of the program.

"A Dream" presented by junior girls, and a "nightmare" skit by the Girls' Athletic association were principal features of the program. Toastmaster was Miss June McKinster.

Covers for 400
Rainbow streamers in the colors of the rainbow, ranging through red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet, were stretched above the long tables at which about 400 guests were seated, and a pot of gold was placed on a standard.

Program covers
A program covers reflected the same colors. Program covers pictured a girl in front of a rainbow, and favors, made by art classes of Miss Agnes Schubert, were suckers dressed as girls in full skirts and bonnets.

"When I Grow Too Old to Dream" was sung by Miss Mickey Pamphrey, and a toast on the subject was given by Miss Mary Alice Buchanan.

"Dear 'Tut' Dream," a humorous toast, was given by Miss Barbara Sutcliffe, as a tribute to the G. A. A. skit, "The Nightmare," in which things that girls do to give their mothers nightmares and things that mothers do to give their students nightmares were depicted.

Taking part were Miss Helen Thomas, Miss Lucille Thomas, Miss Mildred Patterson, Miss Sutcliffe, Miss Anna Ruth, Miss Phyllis Green, Miss Stearns, Miss Madeline Bracken, Miss Adda Mae Bracken and Miss Helen Gier.

A duet, "I've Got a Pocketful of Dreams," was sung by Miss Laubenstein and Miss Mary Jean Shipman, and a toast on that subject, a toast to mothers, was given by Miss Vera Sina.

Detroit Fails To Hustle in Spring Games

By GEORGE KIRKSEY NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Echoes from the spring training circuit.

The Detroit Tigers weren't breaking their necks hustling when seen in exhibition games on route to Detroit. They were quite a bit of kidding going on among the Tigers when they stopped off to play the Knoxville Smokies of the Southern association.

Once Del Baker stopped Dick Bartell at home plate between innings and after an animated conversation, was heard to say: "Well, try for the love of Mike, anyway. . . . Then when the Tigers got some of their signals crossed up, Red Kress, fourth on first, muttered: "Looks like a meeting tomorrow." . . .

Everybody sees Pee Wee Reese is a brilliant marvel but the tip is out he won't hit 200. . . . A veteran major league pitcher who pitched to Reese, said "Reese can't hit a curve ball at all but he can hit a fast ball past him. . . ."

Despite the praise for Detroit's brilliant rookie pitcher, Dick Conner, from the U. C. L. A. campus, from the best looking young hurler on the Tigers is John Gorskin, who had a record of nine wins and 17 losses last year with Beaumont. . . .

Barry McCoskey, the Tigers' rookie outfielder whose brilliant work was overshadowed last year by Ted Williams, and Charles Keller, is driving a ball farther than ever this spring and is a good bet to exceed his home run production of last season when he collected only four round-trippers.

Pace Predicts High Finish for 1940 Club

SPOKANE, April 12 (Special)—Business Manager Hugh Pace of the Twin Falls Cowboys today was headed for the Idaho city after predicting that the Ulrich club, 1939 Fluor league champions, would "be among the first three" at the end of the 1940 campaign.

Pace stated that the Cowboys would again field a good club and declared that Frank Tobin, new pilot, is a "great guy" and "has proven in spring camp he'll give Twin Falls a hustling ball club."

On April 22 the Twin Falls team will undergo a complete checkup. That day they will give a complete going over for any physical defects by Dr. C. W. Courtney, Spokane physician. Later, Dr. C. M. McEwen will check the squad for dental work needed—if any, and then Dr. T. I. Moore will go over the collective eyes.

TORONTO, April 12 (AP)—The New York Rangers need only one more victory today to win their first Stanley cup in seven years.

DETROIT, April 12 (AP)—Despite some bad breaks, the Weber Dally quintet from Joliet, Ill., stole the show at the American Congress last night with a 2917 total for second place in the five-man team event.

Dean Makes Progress Toward Being Most Hated Ball Player

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—If I were collector of autographs I'd get a bid in quick for Dixie Dean. Here is a genuine shyster ally and a Chipendale crackpot if there ever was one. Not to mention an authentic Jacobean jacksman and a Louis Loozon.

Now'd he have a good time to buy, too? I have a feeling the present owner of the early American pitcher, Mr. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, is a bit leery of keeping him on his shelves, being as he has enough curios without him. I am quite sure that Gabby Hartnett, manager of Mr. Wrigley's shop, would set an astonishingly low price and perhaps pay for freight charges, too.

Certainly the Cubs Curio Shoppe has every reason to want to get rid of this item. It is a real headache to Dixie Dean. Bought at a price that the Mona Lisa wouldn't fetch, Dean has pitched little more effectively than the Mona Lisa would have. Perhaps that accounts for the inscrutable smile on Leonardo da Vinci's fascinating face; perhaps she knew that Wrigley should have bought her instead of Dean, and that without even disturbing her gold frame she could have compiled a better record than Dixie Dean.

Certainly Mona Lisa or even Gainsborough's Blue Boy couldn't have done much worse than Dean did in winning only seven games in 1938 and six in 1939 for the Cubs. And for a two-year salary of $40,000, as a matter of fact, the Blue Boy looks like pretty good pitching material. He has a stance reminiscent of Hubbell's and appears loose and easy.

But let's get back to Dean, unpleasant as it might be. Dean might not be too much of a problem if he would only confine his faults to an inability to pitch more than once every 10 days and score a victory once a month. But that apparently is asking too much. The glorious vitality of what must be the strongest pair of vocal chords in the world compels him to pop-off on the most tactless subjects.

Overhead, he puts the blast on clubowners and calls them misers, unwilling to pay a laborer for his hire.

Popular, he blisters his manager, Hartnett, and suggests that he quit trying to manage a baseball team and turn to some other field, be it making tufted quilts, breeding armadillos, or constructing shooting boxes on Scotland's moor.

On the down grade, he boasts, roars, bleats and challenges as if he were the greatest star in the game. Instead of being grateful for the chance to make $10,000 for doing little more than ornament one end of the Cubs' dugout in a becoming flannel suit, he bites the hand that feeds him, but the wrist, elbow and shoulder.

As a morale builder on a baseball team, Dixie must unquestionably take rank with the great disturbers of time. Given an opportunity, he could have the Dionne quintuplets flying at one another's throats. His only value as a team man would be in a game of solitaire.

Of course, there may be method in Dixie's madness. There is always the chance that he will make himself so disliked by the fans that they will troop to the park in thousands hoping to see him knocked out of the box, hit on the head by a fly ball, or in some other way embarrassed or hurt. Many a astute has made money by becoming extremely unpopular. Remember Heavyweight Champion Jack Sharkey? His value as a boxoffice draw was based on the fact that thousands of men, women and children wanted to be there when someone knocked him stiff.

If that is Dixie's scheme he is making tremendous progress.

Wife Claims Cruelty

Mrs. Alice Jean Hill Montooth charges extreme cruelty in a divorce suit which was on file today in district court against Roy Everett Montooth, Twin Falls. The couple married Feb. 15 of last year and has been separated since March 23. No children are involved. Earl E. Walker is attorney for the wife.

Flag Saluting Termed Step to Dictatorships

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—To uphold a Minersville, Penn., school regulation requiring pupils to salute the American flag at daily exercises would be a step in the direction of totalitarian government, attorneys for two Jehovah's Witness students told the supreme court today.

Edison and William Gobbins were expelled from school for refusing to salute the flag on religious grounds. They are members of the sect which believes that saluting the flag violates a biblical commandment.

Federal courts have ruled in favor of the children and the Minersville school board has appealed, asking that the regulation be held valid.

Asking that Stuart H. Taylor be named administrator of the estate of a late Twin Falls teacher, Miss Kate G. Bryson, petitions had been filed in probate court today by two sisters of Miss Bryson.

The petitions, filed by Mrs. Ella M. White, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Letty Stone, Gooding, ask also that Mr. Taylor be made administrator "with will annexed" in the estate of their father, the late John A. Bryson. Miss Bryson had been executrix of her father's estate.

In his display are diver's helmets, dress, shoes, weights, life belts and equipment besides a display of oil paintings of deep sea life.

CCC BOYS WILL WORK IN FOREST

BOISE, April 12 (AP)—State Forester Franklin Girard announced today 600 CCC workers would start work in about two weeks clearing fallen timber from about 10,000 acres in the Clearwater forest.

Thousands of trees felled by a heavy wind have created a serious forest fire hazard in the region, Girard reported on his return from a conference with federal forestry officials in Washington, D. C.

The Browns Creek camp, previously ordered closed, will be continued and two additional camps will be opened to provide for men to clear the fire hazard, he said.

Man Bound Over On Check Claim

Harry Caldwell had been bound over to face district court today on charge of forging a check for $450. Probate Judge C. A. Bailey set bond at $500. Unable to provide that sum, Caldwell is in county jail.

Complaint signed by Patrolman R. C. Winterholler alleges that Caldwell forged the check under the name of Charles E. Smith, with purpose of defrauding Snowball's Sport shop.
