MUSIC FESTIVAL CLEARS EXPENSE

With the aid of the small admission fee charged for programs given by the visiting high school musicians during the music festival held in Twin Falls last week, the event cleared expenses and paid for itself, Edward Rogel, chairman in charge, had announced today.

Total expense was about $700, he said. Part of this was paid by the entry fee charged each school for the entries it made.

Chief items of expense were paying judges, issuing correspondence and bulletins to participating schools before the fete started, and paying for music used in the sight reading tests. Other expense included miscellaneous items such as paying for extra help, transporting chairs, paying expenses on the lights at Lincoln field for the marching contest held there, and other minor outlays.

Trophies were furnished by the merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, and programs were made possible by a group of merchants.

M·J·B WHY?

"I found the answer at 10,000 feet..."

1 The boss phoned from New York: "I want you here tomorrow to help me close that Simpson contract. Just like that I barely had time to kiss the wife goodbye and catch the evening plane. Early next morning the stewardess asks if I'd like some breakfast. 'Sure,' I say, so she fixes a tray and pours me a cup of hot coffee from a thermos bottle.

2 It smelled great and I took a sip. "Gosh," I said, "do I have to fly every time I want such a swell coffee?" She smiled. "We'd like to have you, but frankly it's M·J·B—same as you get in any grocery store. We've standardized on M·J·B because its fine, full flavor makes a hit with everybody."

3 "Thanks for the tip," I said. Next day I wired the Mrs. from New York: WE GOT THE CONTRACT I GOT A RAISH SWITCH TO M·J·B LOVIE. She must have thought I was crazy, but she took the hint.

CHAMBERLAIN FUTURE DEPENDS ON NORWAY VICTORY

BRITISH LEADER FACES STRUGGLE TO RETAIN POST

By WERNER MILLER
LONDON, May 3 (U.P.)—The future of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government and of British war policy was believed today to depend on good news coming from Norway or some other war zone before the house of commons debate Tuesday.

Britons took calmly the news that their troops had been forced to abandon their base at Andalsnes. Hope was expressed. Chamberlain and his cabinet colleagues were looking forward to some big development which might give a complete new turn to the Norwegian debate which Chamberlain had promised commons.

But it was forecast that unless there were favorable developments by Tuesday, Chamberlain would need all of his political ingenuity to meet his critics in parliament—not only those of the opposition parties but of his own.

Fear Other Effects
It was not so much the retreat of a small, lightly armed British landing party before a strong, well-armed German force that caused anxiety in Britain but the effect of the retreat on Norwegianians, Swedes, and people all over southeastern Europe, particularly Italians.

Further there was the most important question of the effect on Premier Paul Reynaud of France and his government of an allied reverse, in view of the highly critical attitude of French political parties toward him. The French parliament was in recess until May 16.

It was agreed the Norwegian reverse could be overcome and it might some time develop the allies right held the balance in Norway. But the political situation here, as opposed to the military situation, was becoming critical.

Here's the Question
As the independent conservative Daily Mail put it: "There remains one fundamental question: 'Are we conducting the war in the right way?'"

Implicit in that question was the question whether the right men were conducting it from Whitehall and Downing street.

A big development in some other theater would be calculated to relieve pressure on the government for the moment, but for the moment only.

In his speech yesterday Chamberlain had said of Germany: "An attack can be launched with light-

U. S. Army Air Chief Sees Need of Plane Redesigning

WASHINGTON, May 3 (U.P.)—Admissions by the chief of the army air corps and the secretary of the navy that American airplanes and warships must be redesigned in the light of European war developments brought demands from senators today to "slow down" the national defense expansion program.

Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, told a senate appropriations subcommittee yesterday several technical changes must be made in the army's planes if they are to be a match for those being used by Germany.

Temporary Revision
Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison said Wednesday a general revision of warship design is necessary to offset the "temporary advantage" now held by bombing planes over surface craft.

Edison will be called before the senate naval affairs committee next week to outline a proposed warship modernization program, possibly including a "whale back" ship. Committee Chairman David I. Walsh said Edison would be asked to expand his views on warship construction in connection with a house-approved bill authorizing an 11 per cent increase in naval strength. His decision to re-open the hearings was ing rapidly in any one of many fields. We know they are prepared and would not scruple to invade Holland, Belgium or both. Or it may be that their savage hordes will be hurled against their innocent neighbors in the southeast of Europe. They might well do more than one of these things in preparation for an attack on the western front or even a lightning swoop on this country."

Study Speech
It was in connection with this statement, and Chamberlain's announcement of an allied fleet concentration in the eastern Mediterranean, that political quarters studied with eager interest today the possible meaning of a paragraph in last night's authorized British Broadcasting company in the Rumanian language.

It urgently appealed to Rumania not to delay any necessary request for allied aid and added:

"In Palestine, Syria and Egypt great armies of England and France are massing. Hitler understands nothing but force and the allies have enough force in the near east to smash utterly any Balkan adventure Hitler may undertake."

the result of recent reports from Norway.

Claim Planes Obsolete
Arnold's testimony was on a $785,000,000 army supply bill for 1941. It brought immediate charges from Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, R., Mass., a member of the committee, that all U. S. military planes are "obsolete according to European war standards."

Sens. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., and Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., also expressed opinions the army's planes would have to be redesigned. Adams has been an advocate of "slowing down" the expansion program to take advantage of technical advances revealed by the war.

WHEELER FEARS RESULT OF WAR

FULTON, Mo., May 3 (U.P.)—More than 300 students learned the workings of national politics firsthand compounded "platforms" today with the admonition of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., that "we stand at the crossroads of peace or war."

Wheeler's address last night keyed the mock party conventions of students from throughout the nation gathered at Gustere Westminster college. If there was levity in the students' conventions, there was none in Wheeler's speech. He is a Democratic presidential candidate.

"If you go to war," he said, "it will be a war to determine European and Asiatic boundaries. . . to solve the European and Asiatic political and economic problems not of American creation and not on our continent."

Fledgling himself to vote against U. S. entrance in foreign wars Wheeler said: "During the last few months we have been advancing step by step down to road to war."

"The last world war left its bitter scars—it jeopardized our economic and political systems," he said. "The next one can have only one basic result: The destruction of our present republic and the birth of a totalitarian state."

Arthur M. Hyde, former Republican secretary of agriculture, condemned the New Deal and said it was fostering "collectivism to supplant liberty."

Eight hundred species and subspecies of birds have been noted in China.

TRUCE ENDS MILK DRIVERS' STRIKE

CHICAGO, May 3 (U.P.)—A truce in the strike of 6,300 milk handlers who had shut off 90 per cent of the city's milk supply was reached today.

Representatives of the two American Federation of Labor unions involved and the dairymen signed the truce, the telegraphic orders to producer depots were dispatched immediately to resume shipment of milk supplies.

The agreement provided for further negotiation by representatives of both the milk wagon drivers and the dairy plant employees unions with dealers until June 1 to attempt settlement of the wage scale differences that had precipitated the strike.

The temporary agreement also provides machinery for arbitration of the wage dispute if negotiators were unable to reach a final settlement by June 1.

Bee Hive Girls Arrange Banquet

WENDELL, May 3 (Special)—The Bee Hive Girls of the Wendell ward gave a banquet at the ward house Wednesday night, honoring their parents and also in commemoration of the organization's 25th anniversary. The girls cooked and served the dinner under the supervision of the Bee Keepers, Mrs. Bernice Dille and Mrs. Jane Petersen.

A large three-tiered white cake with pink and blue candles and decorations made an attractive centerpiece.

Corsages of tulips were used as favors. Nut cups were made to represent bee hives and the menu cards were shaped like May day baskets.

Prayer was given by H. D. Huffaker, and toasts were as follows: "Service," George Dille; "Initiation," Mrs. Jane Nelson; "Loyalty," Mrs. Carl Petersen; "Valiant," Mrs. Lillie Richardson; "Eternity," Bishop John F. Dixon, and "Reward," by William Winegar.

Lake Ladoga, scene of fighting in Finland; is Europe's largest lake. Its area is slightly less than Lake Ontario.

Dramatist Was 'Maude Adams' Of Utah's Amateur Theatricals

By JEAN DINKELACKER
As a Jane Addams of southern Idaho, an expert in social welfare work, Mrs. Kathryn Marquardson Kirkman has been known since she became president of the Twin Falls stake Relief society here in 1921.

But not everyone has known that she was the "Maude Adams" of Elsinore, Utah, 45 years ago, one of the pioneer boosters of the "Little Theater" movement before it became known as such, and who is still enthusiastic over any opportunity which gives a person dramatic experience.

Not that it would be the least difficult to imagine this stately, poised woman with the well-groomed white hair as being perfectly capable of swaying the emotions of an audience across the gas lights, but it took an occasion, such as was given last evening in honor of her retirement as stake Relief society president, to bring to the attention of the community just one more accomplishment of this versatile woman.

Subject of Play
When Mrs. Stella Oaks stepped upon the stage last night at the L. D. S. recreation hall and read, with all the gestures and the deep emotion of the old dramatic school, the selection, "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," she was emulating Kate Marquardson as a school girl, for Kate was an enthusiastic "elocutionist" in her younger days, and carried it over into a "play acting" career that was to lend vitality to her entire outlook on life.

Feature of the program and dancing party, given in honor of Mrs. Kirkman, Mrs. Bertha Mae Hansen and Mrs. Eva K. Thomas, retiring stake board Relief society members, was a play, written and directed by Mrs. Oaks, and hilariously presented by an expert cast, entitled "Kate Marquardson's School Days."

Mrs. Kirkman still has the wig which she wore as "Millie the Quodron" in a melodramatic offering presented by the Elsinore Dramatic company of Elsinore, Utah, 45 years ago. So many others have worn it since in roles that varied from a barefoot boy to southern belle, that not much is left of its once lustrous curls, but Mrs. Kirkman cherishes it as a keepsake.

"We paid the outlandish price of $5 for it, and thought it was a small fortune," she laughed.

Theatrical Mementoes
Among her souvenirs is a gown that "looked like velvet" as she swept about the stage in the role of Lady Madge-Oliphant in "The Stolen Dispatch," but which in reality is upholstery material in maroon and gold, with black lace at the neck.

"It's not much to look at any more, but I keep it to prove that I could once wear a gown that was 18 inches around the waist," she added.

While Mrs. Kirkman could not wear that gown today, she could still play the role if called upon. She has the script, tied with two bows of red satin ribbon. She also has handbills and programs printed in the quaint-looking type of that era, and remarkably preserved. One dog-eared advertisement she tore from a tree, because she had omitted getting a program for her collection.

As for makeup—she can't remember of using a powder puff in the days the Elsinore Dramatic company toured the surrounding towns; theatrical cream was unknown to the cast, and something red that looked like rouge, but wasn't called by that name, was about all the makeup they had, besides powder.

No Powder Puffs
"We applied powder with a rabbit's foot, or a clean cloth. We removed our makeup, such as it was, with vaseline. But we were compensated, and we gave our audiences—an insight into the 'outside world,' such as the movies, the radio offer today," Mrs. Kirkman summed up the value of dramatics in these days.

She expressed herself as grateful that the melodramatic plays, with a black mustached, deep-dyed villain as an ever-present menace, and the actors engaged throughout the production in a series of calisthenics, registering emotion, as a thing of the past.

"I believe that dramatics have the same effect as music and aesthetic dancing as an outlet for 'better something' in one's being. Dramatic experience increases the power of memory, creates poise and gives the individual the assurance of standing before an audience and saying what he thinks," Mrs. Kirkman's enthusiastic praise of the theater.

Favors "Little Theater"
"Although I have done little in the way of active participation in dramatics for several years, I have never lost enthusiasm for it, and I am especially interested in the progress of the Twin Falls Community Theater association, which was recently organized.

"Once I was a quodron—and once I was a lady—" says Mrs. Kathryn Marquardson Kirkman, displaying two mementoes of the days when she was a member of the Elsinore Dramatic company of Elsinore, Utah, 45 years ago. A one-act comedy, written in her honor, was featured at the Twin Falls stake Relief society party last evening in honor of Mrs. Kirkman, who retired in March as president of the stake Relief society organization, after a term of office dating from 1921. May Pole Motif Featured at Tea By Home Ec Girls

Girls in an eighth grade home-making class in Twin Falls junior high school honored mothers at a May day tea in the dining room Wednesday.

A May pole centered the table from which refreshments were served, with May baskets forming part of the decoration. A musical program of songs and instrumental numbers was given.

Presiding at the tea table were Peggy Haggard, Lillian Gwin, Peggy Hendricks and Ruby Howard. Assisting in serving were Zola Bartlett and Nancy Hart.

Receiving guests at the door were Imogene Beath, Pearl Babel, Barbara Montgomery and Evelyn Anderson. Hostesses were Shirley Hayes, Flora Campbell, Gloria Wilson and Dortha Bush.

Arranging the program was Martha Barnett. Taking part were Imogene Beath, Flora Campbell, Marjorie Holloway, Gloria Wilson, Beverly Olson, Shirley Hayes and Maxine Beath.

Invitations were in charge of Peggy Haggard. Heading the serving committee was Peggy Hendricks, and other members were Harriette Holler, Colleen Penneck, Mable Brewer, Glenda Bailey, Beverly Olson and Patricia Cappel.

Bonnie Smith headed the cleanup committee, including Jean Coffin, Leona Cullinan, Stella Hobson and Vera Lancaster.

Comedy Abounds In Play Honoring Retiring Leader

Flashback to the days when Kathryn Marquardson, now Mrs. L. G. Kirkman, gave "readings" with fervor, was the one-act play, written in her honor by Mrs. Stella Oaks, which was staged last evening at the L. D. S. recreation hall in connection with the party arranged in honor of Mrs. Kirkman, who has resigned as president of the Twin Falls stake Relief society; Mrs. Bertha Mae Hansen and Mrs. Eva K. Thomas.

Wearing authentic attire of many years ago, most of the apparel loaned by a local woman, the cast presented an hilarious interpretation of "Kate Marquardson's School Days."

Mrs. Bert Bollingbrooks was the school teacher; C. F. Lawrence the president of the board of trustees; Mrs. Juanita Hull as the little "sassy boy" sang a song and also appeared with Mrs. Lorinda Phillips in a dialogue.

Mrs. Oaks, as Kathryn Marquardson, gave a "super-dramatic" rendition of "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight"; Mrs. Claude Brown as one of the scholars, played an organ solo; Russell Robertson gave the reading lesson; Mrs. Mel Carter recited; Mel Carter, who sat on a dunce stool, also sang a song.

Mrs. Uarda King sang "Little Yellow Dandelion"; Mrs. Virgil McBride "spoke a piece"; Mrs. Carrie Rappleye sang "Clementine"; Mrs. Ben Bailey, Mrs. C. L. Luke and Mrs. Lawrence were the parents. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Abbott were scholars.

Approximately 400 persons attended. Old-time dances were led by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Winkler, Buhl; Mr. and Mrs. George Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jenkins, Twin Falls, with music provided by Mrs. Wilda Orin and company, Buhl. Mr. and Mrs. Mel Carter furnished music for the modern dances.

In addition to the play the Murtagh ward furnished ballads by a "barbershop quartet"; a group of Singing Mothers from Buhl were demonstrated class harmony in two numbers; Mrs. Horatio Cox, Buhl, gave a reading and sentimental ballads were sung by Mrs. Christie Robertson, Twin Falls; the Buhl mixed chorus sang fireside numbers; Mr. Freeman, Twin Falls, played violin solos; Mrs. Stella Wood, Buhl, voiced for the Relief society members a tribute which she wrote in honor of the guest trio; Mrs. Pearl Allenbeck, Buhl, was in charge of the program.

A picnic lunch, served buffet style, concluded the evening.

Gooding Teacher, 4 Blind Pupils Honored on Radio for Verse Work

GOODING, May 3 (Special)—Residents of Gooding listening to NBC's program, "Between the Book Ends," Monday morning were delighted to hear Ted Malone tell of an interesting project carried out by four blind students who attend the state school for the deaf and blind at Gooding.

Introducing his quarter-hour by reading a letter from Mrs. Mildred Holman Ferris, the teacher of the children, he explained that they had written in Braille a number of their favorite poems. They had sent six sets of the poems to him, and he in turn would send a set to any reader of Braille upon request.

Mr. Malone gave the names of the students and read several poems from the collection including two written by Mrs. Ferris: "My Neighbor" and "Idaho Spring." This project completed by Neida Jackson, Pocatello, Robert Walton, Montpelier; Vanda Keller, Burley, and Joyce Barnes, Gooding, was suggested to Mrs. Ferris at the time she visited in New York during the Christmas holidays.

One of the poems written by Mrs. Ferris and read Monday by Mr. Malone, follows:

MY NEIGHBOR
He had a little plot of land—
Two acres, a poor grade of sand,
Was all he owned; beside the shack
A line of light gleamed from each crack.

But when you drove up to the door
He shuffled forth, a hearty roar
Beginning deep in him; 'bout
That grew and welled as firm and stout.
As he himself was. Came his laugh,
"Walk in, neighbor. Set and chaff."

PASTOR SPEAKS AT LUTHERAN MEETING
Lutheran church Ladies' Aid society met Thursday in the church parlors. Rev. M. H. Ziegel gave a talk on missions.

Refreshments in keeping with the spring theme were served, each tray carrying a lilac corsage. A surprise shower of pottery was given Mrs. Charles Kevan, the gifts being tied in lavender and white in keeping with the motif of the afternoon.

The meeting marked the beginning of the 1940 torch program, and Mrs. Glenn Doud as leader, called on members to be "witnesses of the Light."

MORNINGSIDE HAS PROGRAM ON CHINA

Carey Looks to Work Renewal At Dam Vital to Future Hopes

CAREY, May 3 (Special)—Continuation of the Carey dam project is expected this month, it has been announced here.

Center of a situation which resulted in the threat of "armed demand"—that the project be continued under the WPA so that the necessary water could be provided, the work is now held up pending issuance of new bonds.

Bonds originally sold totalled $39,000. It will take an issuance of $70,000 more bonds to take care of the landowners' share of the project's cost. The Reconstruction Finance corporation will take this latter loan but it insists on also carrying the original bonded indebtedness.

Must Retire Originals

That fact necessitates issuance of a new issue of $109,000 in bonds, of which $39,000 would go to retire the first issue. Chief difficulty now, it is understood here, is that the original bonds carried a high interest rate and present holders are reluctant to give them up.

For this reason the completion of pending negotiations may take some time.

The new dam would irrigate a district which extends north as far as the Jim Carey ranch, south to the Olive Payne ranch, east to the M. A. Condie ranch and west to the Dave Kelley place.

The land which would be irrigated by this Little Wood river dam will actually be 8,300 acres but will include 8,000 acres in all.

The dam will impound and provide for an estimated 12,000 acre feet of water and the Little Wood River Irrigation district has been formed with 130 stockholders representing from 80 to 85 ranches.

1,100 Feet Long

The dam will be 77 feet high and 1,100 feet long at the top. Approximately 400,000 cubic yards of material is being moved to build the dam. The concrete tunnel, 300 feet long, the control gates and the spillway are practically completed. The rock fill is nearly all in and a start has been made on the clay fill section.

The dam can be completed within five months if the WPA resumes operations the early part of this month, officials say. Upon completion it will assure the Carey valley an adequate water supply and will greatly increase the natural wealth.

A history of the district shows that it was organized by a resolution of the board of county commissioners of Blaine county on Feb. 11, 1935, under and by virtue of the irrigation district laws of the state of Idaho. The primary purpose of its organization was to bring about the construction of the dam, and the impounding of water in the Little Wood river so as to furnish a supplemental water supply for the lands situated in the district, which lands did not and do not at the present time have an adequate supply of irrigation water.

Here's Evaluation

In a personal commentary on the project, Raymond J. Briggs, consulting engineer registered in Idaho, Oregon and Washington, said: "The usefulness of the best land is nil, unless adequate irrigation water is available. Until conditions beyond the control of man, prevailed, the Carey valley had sufficient water for maturity of crops. There is ample water to supply the district with an all-summer flow if the dam is completed and the reservoir filled. Hydrographs indicate more than enough flood water to fill the reservoir each spring."

Resourceful People

The people resident in the district, and its neighboring areas, are resourceful people and are largely native stock of pioneers and their descendants. The area is not one of government colonization, with its inherent troubles, but owned by people who are experienced farmers and stockmen.

"The families are not downtrodden and stolid looking, but alert, ambitious, clean cut people asking only for an opportunity to provide themselves with the one facility through which they may attain the solution of their financial problems. I do not know of a more worthy project, nor of people who will feel more grateful. I have been affiliated with irrigation most of my life, and regard this project as one of the best, most beneficial and safest irrigation supplemental water supply projects, within my knowledge, under current consideration or construction."

This Holds Bright Crop Hopes

Shown above is a section of the concrete spillway at the Little Wood river dam near Carey. Construction work on the dam, which will result in its completion in a period of some five months, is expected to resume by June. When WPA work on the dam stopped, farmers of the district threatened "armed protest" unless provision were made to complete it. Water which it would impound is vital to the welfare of hundreds of Idahoans cultivating from 6,000 to 8,000 acres. (Times Engraving)

URGES TOLL HOUSE FOR REST ROOM

Editor, Evening Times:

I have seen several suggestions as to what to do with the toll house out at the bridge. Here is an idea: Why not let the highway department keep it and convert it into a public rest room for tourists and others who visit the spot?

I'm sure it would be appreciated.
