GERMANS CRACK MAGINOT LINE

ROAR OF GERMAN AIRPLANES FILLS HOLLAND CAPITAL

By FREDERICK KUH
LONDON, May 15 (U.P.)—German troops entered The Hague, capital of The Netherlands, today and Dutch troops surrendered their arms to them, the Holland radio announced.

Townpeople of The Hague awoke this morning to hear the roar of motors of low-flying German airplanes, the radio said, and a column of 100 German motorized vehicles drove into the city.

A speaker announced as Gen. Henri Gerard Winkelman, commander in chief of the Dutch armed forces, said over the radio:

"I have deep admiration for what has been achieved by commanders and their troops. It is not their fault that at some places reinforcement was impossible, so that they could not hold out. All of you acted in accordance with a soldier's honor."

The broadcasts meant Holland had joined the countries which the Germans had overwhelmed since 14 months ago today when they entered Czechoslovakia. Holland's queen and its government were in London, and the country—all but Zeeland province at the entrance to the River Scheldt—was conceded to the Germans. The Dutch fleet had joined the allied navies.

Radio Amsterdam aired out a long list of statements—all in German. One, announced as being made in behalf of the burgomaster of Amsterdam, said everything had been prepared for the "smooth" entry of German troops.

"The population will keep quiet," said the announcer.

A German radio said to have been that of Lt. Gen. R. Weninger, air attaché to the German legation to The Netherlands, broadcast "to the German foreign office" a request that Germany send representatives to The Hague, the Dutch capital, "for discussions regarding steps to be taken to maintain order."

Air Defense Mobilized

It was announced Holland's air defense corps had been demobilized and volunteers should go home. The blackout of cities was cancelled.

The Amsterdam radio had announced last night that Gen. Henri Gerard Winkelman, Dutch commander in chief, had ordered all troops to stop fighting.

Afterward the Amsterdam radio read a dispatch in the German language asking the German commander in chief to stop the German airplane bombardment of The Hague, Holland's big naval base at the tip of north Holland province.

The Netherlands legation here announced early today the surrender order did not affect the Dutch fleet.

Queen Notified
As soon as the capitulation order had been received here, the Netherlands minister, Michiels van Verduynen, went to Buckingham palace and notified Queen Wilhelmina.

The news had been telephoned to the legation from The Hague shortly before it was read over the Amsterdam radio.

The legation notified members of the Dutch cabinet, now here, and they held a meeting at once at Grosvenor house, where most of them are staying.

Gen. Winkelman, the Dutch commander in chief, had been given a free hand to surrender if he thought advisable, so he had not consulted the queen or the cabinet beforehand.

BRITAIN ATTACKS ITALY CENSORING
LONDON, May 15 (U.P.)—A foreign office statement today said recent measures of the Fascist party in Italy "cannot but damage the religious well-being of Italy."

Belgian Capital Feels Brunt of an Aerial War

As German armies slashed through Holland and Belgium, the capital of the latter country felt the brunt of Hitler's war and Nazi bombers staged a series of air raids. Demos Arrive for State Parley and McNutt Talk

With one Democratic presidential possibility en route to Twin Falls and with a possibly stormy Democratic state delegate convention scheduled tomorrow, Twin Falls became the state focal point this afternoon for Idaho Bourbons.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, will arrive at the Rogerson hotel at approximately 6:15 p. m. He speaks at the high school auditorium at 7:45 p. m.

At noon Thursday the nominating convention swings into session at Radioland.

Vanguard of prominent Democrats from many parts of the state had already descended on Twin Falls by mid-afternoon, and state, political talk ran rife in hotel lobbies and on street corners.

Convention Tops
Although McNutt's address tonight—comparing Democratic and Republican methods—will come first, the nominating convention held top importance as the Bourbons began to arrive. Their early arrival gave opportunity to open caucuses a day ahead of time as they gathered to hear McNutt.

The preliminary caucuses may speed up convention action tomorrow on four main questions:

1. Election of a national committee.

2. Election of a national committee.

3. Election of delegates to the national convention.

4. Instruction of delegates.

Major battle of the meeting is expected to develop between supporters of State Sen. Carl Brown, McCall, and Ramsay Walker, Coeur d'Alene, incumbent, for national committee. About an equal number of county delegates has been instructed for each candidate.

Mrs. Emma Alexander Simons of Boise and Mrs. Frankie Alworth of Twin Falls are opposed for national committeewoman.

A majority of the county delegations have been instructed to vote that the Idaho delegation to the national convention be instructed for President Roosevelt for a third term. If the instructions are approved, Mr. Roosevelt will pick up eight more convention votes.

The keynote address will be delivered by Sen. D. North Clark, a supporter of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for the presidential nomination.

Close Battle
Although Twin Falls supporters of Mr. Walker for committeewoman said they believed they held a slight edge, Ada county's action last night in repeating its stand for Mr. Brown had apparently brought assurance of a stiff battle.

State police officers were escorting Mr. McNutt toward Twin Falls this afternoon. Earl Small, Jerome officer, met the party at Gooding and was to be joined at the rim-to-rim bridge by Perry Drawington, state officer here. McNutt stopped

FRENCH RUSH TO FRONT AS NAZIS DRIVE TO SOUTH

By M. S. HANDLER
PARIS, May 15 (U.P.)—The French high command today hurled thousands of French troops into a new battle in the Meuse where German forces have won a dangerous foothold in the Maginot defense area at Sedan.

(The German high command claimed the Maginot line had been broken at Sedan.)

A furious German attack was expected tonight in an effort to widen and deepen a four-mile foothold which the Germans gained after crossing to the west bank of the Meuse river, in the midst of the concrete pillboxes and underground bunkers of the Maginot fortifications.

Danger Point
The Sedan battle at the moment was the danger point of the 200-mile battlefield that runs from the bastion of Antwerp, Belgium, down through Lovain, to the Meuse and on to the Maginot line itself as far as Longwy at the Luxembourg corner.

It was reported here that scores of divisions have already joined battle or are moving up rapidly to reinforce the battered troops at the front line.

(A division comprises about 15,000 men. The French reference to "scores of divisions" would indicate possibly 1,000,000 men or more are now battling at the front or ready to go into action.)

All might long the French rushed up new forces to the threatened positions at Sedan. In the air both French and British bombers were pounding with unintermitted vigor against the pontoon bridges which the Germans had placed across the Meuse.

Hit German Column
Other squadrons of bombers and fighters struck at the German column which was observed moving toward Sedan. To the north along the fighting line running into Belgium the allied troops were resisting stubbornly, trying to slow down the smashing drive of the German armored columns.

But the crisis at the moment was at Sedan, the historic spot where the Germans defeated the French and won the war of 1870. A real breakthrough there of the Maginot line would enable the Germans to strike for the heart of France, attack rail communications to the Belgian front, flank the allied forces in that vicinity or even attempt to smash southward and flank the whole Maginot system from the rear.

Battle Rages in Sedan Region as Nazis Push Ahead

By FREDERICK C. OCHSNER
BERLIN, May 15 (U.P.)—German troops have broken through the French Maginot defense line in the Sedan area, the German high command claimed today.

A high command communique said, in claiming the breakthrough, that German forces had crossed the river Meuse "over a broad front" between Namur, Belgium, and Givet, and that French counter-attacks on the west banks of the stream had been repulsed.

The French counter-attack had been made with tanks, the Germans said. But German airplane fighters and destroyers (bombing) formations had destroyed a larger number of them in what was described as "a battle on the west bank of the Meuse."

Neutral military circles were said to have received the same report from their sources of information.

Depends on Maginot Line

The effect of such a German triumph could scarcely be underestimated, France depends on the Maginot line to serve as an insurmountable obstacle to German invasion. Without that line, France would be little better off strategically than other countries overrun by the German military machine; although the French army is far superior to any Germany has encountered.

Sedan is 130 miles northeast of Paris. It is on the Meuse river, 10 miles inside France, but outside the Maginot line.

In Belgium the direct threat to Brussels increased, the Germans said, when German divisions, mainly from the east of their blitzkrieg, reached the fortified river Dyle area only 18 miles from the Belgian capital and near Lovain. The Belgian defense was described by the communique as "weakening."

French Losses Heavy
French losses in the French counter-attack in the Sedan area were described as "heavy."

"At one point more than 70 British and French fighters and pursuit planes were shot down," the communique said. "On the 14th of May more than 200 enemy planes were shot down altogether. Of these, aircraft downed 170 and the others were destroyed on the ground."

The high command said that Tuesday the German air force struck heavily at "retreating" enemy detachments, transport routes and debarcation stations.

35 German Planes Missing
The enemy suffered heavy losses in attempting to hinder German air activity without noticeably affecting German freedom of action," the communique claimed.

The communique said 35 German planes were missing as the result of Tuesday's actions.

The communique told of the capitulation of the Dutch in the fortress of Holland fortifications. It said the German fight in defense of the Norwegian Arctic port of Narvik was continuing and that the Germans were active on the central section of the western front, especially near Pirmasens, north of the Vosges mountains sector.

BILL WOULD HIT COAST GIO HEAD

WASHINGTON, May 15 (U.P.)—The House immigration committee today recommended passage of a specific bill to deport Harry Bridges, west coast leader of the congress of industrial organizations.

For the first time in the memory of members of the committee, such a measure specifically named a proposed subject of deportation and that name was that of Bridges. The bill, itself, did not state why this action was sought against the union leader, but its author, Rep. A. Leonard Allen, D., La., said Bridges was a communist and as such should be deported.

Labor department deportation proceedings against Bridges on the grounds that he was a communist and was attempting to subvert the government were dismissed several months ago. Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard university law school, appointed to make a special inquiry in the case, concluded Bridges was not a communist and did not advocate overthrow of the government.

Present law provides for deportation of aliens who advocate that Bridges is a subject of Australia.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN FEVER COEUR D'ALENE May 15 (U.P.)—Physician said last night, 16-month-old Dennis Upchurch was critically ill with Rocky Mountain spotted fever, the second Coeur d'Alene county child stricken with the deadly this week. Yvonne Ferguson, 1 died of spotted fever Sunday.

2 BURLEY YOUTHS KILLED BY CRASH

BURLEY, May 15 (Special)—No inquest will be held into the deaths of two local high school seniors, fatally injured yesterday about 6 p. m. when the automobile in which they were riding left the highway three miles north of Oakley.

The dead: Fay Hogge, 18, who died 30 minutes after the mishap. Melvin Wheeler, 19, who died at 1:30 a. m. today in the Burley hospital.

Veered Onto Gravel

Deputy Sheriff George Bray, Cassia county, said after an investigation that the two youths were apparently talking as the car rolled along at a moderate rate of speed. The car veered over to the gravel shoulder and Wheeler, who was driving, attempted to pull it back on the oil. The car went to the other side of the road and then veered again to the left side, leaving the highway and turning over several times.

Second check-up by Deputy Bray showed this afternoon that two tires on the death car were blown out. Bray was not certain, however, whether the crash blew out the tires or whether the blowout contributed to the accident.

Both boys were thrown clear of the car, and were not imprisoned in the wreckage as at first reported. Passing motorists took them to Burley.

Wheeler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wheeler, Burley. He was a star member of the Burley high school basketball team, district champions this year. He was also active in other athletics.

Son of Sugar Official
Hogge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hogge, his father being assistant superintendent at the amalgamated Sugar company plant here.

BELGIUM FORTS REMAIN INTACT

LONDON, May 15 (U.P.)—Radio Brussels asserted tonight that the Belgian fortresses of Namur and Antwerp still were intact and that the Liege forts still were resisting the Germans.

The radio asserted Belgian troops were fighting ferociously to halt the Germans and claimed the enemy had not achieved any important successes.

McNutt Sees Investment as Top Need to Produce U. S. Recovery

This is the second of six articles in which leading presidential candidates tell John T. Flynn, noted economist and writer, how they propose to bring about recovery if elected.

BY JOHN T. FLYNN (NEA Service)

Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. I put to him the question: "If you are elected what should be done to produce recovery?" Basing his answer upon the theory—which is a correct one—that the revival of investment is essential to recovery, Mr. McNutt said:

"The Number One obstacle to sound investment, I believe, is monopoly. The Number Two obstacle is lack of buying power in the lower two-thirds.

"What we want, however, is not something that merely looks like investment. One way to get that would be to repeat what we did in the 'twenties, restore 'normalcy,' shut our eyes and buy every piece of paper offered. I believe such a speculative boom would collapse within a year or two with disastrous results.

"The harder way—but the better way—is to go on attacking real obstacles. At the same time we should go on using a part of our savings to increase national wealth and security in ways that create a minimum of debt."

I asked Mr. McNutt to state for me specifically the policies he would follow to do this.

Tax Revision Urged First
"First of all," he said, "tax revision. I would reform taxes so as to discourage concentration and encourage buying power. I would urge reduction of sales taxes and nuisance taxes.

"I would exempt small corporations from federal taxation. I would continue the reciprocal trade agree-

House Committee Approves Billion Dollar Relief Bill

WPA GETS MAJOR SHARE OF FUNDS IN NEW MEASURE

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The house appropriations committee today reported a $1,111,754,916 relief bill for fiscal 1941, including $975,650,000 for the works projects administration. The bill authorizes WPA to spend this money, if needed, in eight months beginning July 1.

The total relief fund is $543,075,084 less than the relief bill for the current fiscal year and the appropriation for the WPA alone is $351,350,000 less than the sum allotted to the WPA by the last congress.

But if the money is spent in eight months, as the committee anticipates, WPA spending per month would be about the same as this year.

Work for 1,950,000

The reduced funds, the committee said, should provide work for 1,950,000 jobs for eight months, compared with this year's monthly average of 2,000,000. To keep employment at that level for an entire year would require $1,350,000,000, the committee estimated.

Simultaneously the committee, a subcommittee of which conducted an inquiry into the WPA under authority of a house resolution, filed a report asserting the relief program has been made in some instances a vehicle for Communism, private gain, politics and waste. The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum, D. Va., praised Commissioner F. C. Harrington for progress toward better management.

Among the "many past misdeeds" found in the inquiry into 13 states, the investigation found the worst situation in Louisiana.

WPA Difficulties

"Those familiar with the administration of the affairs of that state by the regime which was recently repudiated by the voters of that state must realize the difficulties of operating a WPA program with such sponsorship of projects," the committee report said. "The predilections of sponsors, however, are no excuse for lax federal administration. It is incomprehensible that federal officials, at least in Louisiana, were not cognizant of the waste and diversion and misapplication of public funds that were taking place there."

The report added:

"The chief sources of abuse of public funds occur in the improvement of private property at public expense, the lack of proper supervision, the employment of persons not in need, the operations of projects of doubtful public utility, padded sponsors' contributions, purchase of excess equipment and hire of equipment at excessive rates, operations of projects on which a high percentage of non-relief labor is required."

Guard on Political Uses

While granting President Roosevelt's request of authority to spend the WPA fund in eight months the committee sought to guard against any political use of the relief program by putting in the bill a specific ban against increasing the rolls beyond 1,800,000 in October and 2,000,000 in November, the final periods of the presidential campaign. Virtually all restrictions in the present relief act were continued in the committee draft.

The committee cut Mr. Roosevelt's requests for other items in the relief bill by $14,300,000. The agriculture department's rural relief work took the biggest cut, $8,000,000. This left a total of $115,000,000.

U. S. 30 BACKERS SELECT CHOICES

Specific recommendation designating the improvement projects desired first for the Old Oregon trail in this area had been mapped today by the U. S. 30 Improvement association.

As charted at a meeting here Monday night, the recommendation asks:

Underpass First

Construction of underpass at the dangerous Cedar crossing east of Buhl, scene of fatal and near-fatal accidents in the past year.

With next available funds, elimination of curves and grades on U. S. 30 to a spot approximately nine miles northwest of Buhl.

With future available funds, realignment of the highway from that spot to reduce the distance from Buhl to Glenns Ferry.

The motion approved by the association will be placed before the May gathering of Southern Idaho, Inc., scheduled for next Monday evening at Buhl, President James H. Shields, Jr., said.

Burley is "100 per cent" in favor of the moves taken by the improvement association although its delegation could not attend the Monday conference, President Shields added. Delegates were on hand from Kimberly, Filer, Murtaugh, Buhl and Twin Falls.

Full support in the U. S. 30 drive was given Saturday night by the Twin Falls county Pomona Grange, which had previously initiated a similar move some months ago.

Cranney Will Coach Bruins In Basketball

succeeded John Flatt, veteran chemistry instructor and club team mentor who stepped in last winter at request of the school board to fill the position left vacant by death of the late R. V. Jones. Mr. Flatt's objective is collegiate teaching.

Cranney, prior to his seven years at Oakley, was athletic director and history teacher at Grantville high school in Utah. At Oakley he was also instructor in social studies.

The new Bruin coach, now 34, is a graduate of Logan high school and the Utah State Agricultural college. He did graduate work at the University of Southern California, at Utah State and at the University of Idaho. His "majors" were social studies and physical education.

Put Out Great Teams

Cranney comes to the Bruins with the reputation of putting out fighting teams that are always considered a threat—whether it be on the football or basketball field. Year in and year out his Hornet teams have been at or near the top in games won and lost in both football and basketball against Class A schools of south central Idaho—all of which had much larger enrollments.

Height of the Cranney coaching career at Oakley was reached in 1937 when his underrated Hornets won the district championship in basketball here, defeated Glenns Ferry in the play-off system used at that time between Class A and B schools, and entered the state tournament.

Hornets Always Good

Since then, though the material has been short some seasons, the Hornets have always been in the thick of the race for the title and this year his club reached the finals, only to bow out to a great Burley quintet after a fine battle.

Handicapped by lack of weight in his football clubs, Cranney nevertheless has put good gridiron teams on the field. With a group of youngsters that didn't average 145 pounds, his club held the Twin Falls Bruins to a scoreless tie in 1938 and has nearly always given a good account of itself on the football field.

Health Camp's Staff Is Named

Dates were set and staff members named for the operation of the McCuskey health camp at Buhl this summer, when the Twin Falls county Anti-Tuberculosis association met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Jessie Gordon, Burley, will be superintendent of the teen age girls' camp to be held from June 9 to 30, and Miss Rea Moyer, Castelford, will be assistant superintendent. Mrs. Nelson, Caldwell, will be the nurse.

Mrs. Mabel Wilkerson, Filer, will be boys' matron for the children's camp, July 7 to Aug. 18. Mrs. Wanda Dale Dapp, Rupert, will be older girls' matron, and Mrs. Esther Undercoffer, Boise, younger girls' matron.

Mrs. Martha Lipson, Oakley; Miss Irene Scott, Hansen; Miss Elizabeth Prestidge, Aberdeen; Miss Joan Jensen, Buhl; and Miss Beth Wimer, Shoshone, will be teachers in the younger girls' camp.

Those wishing to sponsor campships are requested to call Mrs. Doris Stradley or Mrs. Frank Smith.

Marry? Marry? Quite Contrary!

The report that film actress Arline Judge and New York socialite James McKinley Bryant were married after attending the derby in Louisville, Ky., is not true. Nivison also wrote of an explosion which occurred in the torpedo shack of the U. S. S. King, sister ship of the Humphreys, while the two were lying side by side. One man was killed, one man was blown overboard and at least two were blinded. Regarding the man blown overboard, he wrote:

"We have been diving and dragging every day but we have not recovered his body."

A court of inquiry was ordered to investigate the blast, and of the court Nivison writes:

"Tomorrow I have to attend a court of inquiry which you will never hear about and I am not permitted to tell even you as to the cause of the explosion. However, I do know that the same thing can never happen aboard the Humphreys."

NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES

Gentleman's Estate for Sale

Two things happened to appear in the same newspaper a few days ago. One was an account of a speech made by former President Hoover in New York. The other was an inconspicuous classified ad.

Mr. Hoover spoke of the American dream, the dream of a great country and a great civilization utterly free from the class distinctions which mar Old World civilizations.

Mr. Hoover was right, and he might have gone on to say that the degree to which we achieve this dream and make it real, is the degree of our success.

Then the little advertisement caught the eye. It read: "Gentleman's estate for sale..."

It is not an uncommon expression, and yet it jangles fiercely on the ear against such words as those of Mr. Hoover.

What was meant here by "gentleman's estate"? Obviously the term was meant to call up the picture of the English country gentleman, the hereditary heir to vast estates, the country magnifico, fox and hounds, the tenants pulling a forelock as "the master" canters by.

It is true that Washington, and even democratic Jefferson, and scores of the founding fathers of this country lived on "gentleman's estates."

The term "gentleman" is not, and must not become a class term in America. It is far too precious for that. Our American hope is to produce gentlemen in all classes, with and without estates.

As Mr. Hoover made clear, America alone sets up the ideal of a truly classless society. The Marxists imply dictatorship of a single class, the proletariat. The Fascists turn over the conduct of affairs to an elite class of party functionaries.

America still strives for a society where there shall be no verbal connection between "gentleman" and "estate," as indeed there is none in fact.

Mussolini's Mentor

At the table where Italy's crown prince and Italy's dictator sat discussing war the other day, there may have been another presence, unseen but not unheard.

Niccolo Machiavelli, who wrote for Lorenzo the Magnificent a political guidebook under the title of "The Prince," is not unread in Italy today.

Crafty and unscrupulous Machiavelli felt it better to go to war than to be neutral, for "whoever wins will not desire friends whom he suspects, and whoever loses will not receive you as you did not take up arms to venture yourself in his cause."

Going Up

Figures on "national income" are slippery, as all statisticians know. Nevertheless, for what they are worth, they are always interesting, for everybody knows that an increased national income is what we need most desperately.

So it is encouraging to note that the national income for the first quarter of 1940 rose to a new high since 1930, as computed by the Alexander Hamilton institute. It was figured at $17,920,000,000.

Simple mathematics will show you that, should it continue at that rate for the full year 1940, it would total $71,680,000,000, a substantial upward stride of more than 6 billions in one year toward that 80-100 billion national income which economists believe will mean the end of unemployment and the more pressing of our present troubles.

Discovered in New Orleans is a man 180 years old. And, it might be added, he doesn't look a day over 116.

The Gentleman in the Third Row

ZOUNDS! TREASON AMONG THE VIGILANTES!

Dear P. S.: Since you see and know all please identify the whisker vigilante who, during a week-end visit to a certain city, appeared with very few, if any, facial adornments. Wouldn't that constitute an act of treason, Pot?

Pot Shots note: Our contrib, Heh-Heh, should know that we're too polite to put any vigilante on the spot. So—although our sleuths have looked into this matter and bared the name of the guilty vigilante—we will refrain from accusing the gent.

Just Among Us Fish

Dear Shot-in-Row 3: With my patented Piscatorial Palaver detector, I listened in on a couple of trout talking underwater last week in the Big Wood river. I vow with all the energy at my command that my report herewith is strictly accurate.

First trout: Water's still darned roilly, hey?

Second trout: Yah. I pity those poor souls up above, trying to make us bite on those silly hooks they throw in.

First trout: Fishermen are certainly boobies.

Second trout: The biggest in the world. Pardon me a moment while I snatch that nice juicy morsel going past.

First trout: With all the food in this roily stream those fishermen expect us to bite. I'm inclined to think humans must be a pretty funny collection.

Second trout: Funny? Say, they're excruciating. I have it on good authority they still don't know the Idaho Trout Union bailed the same department to move the season up a month.

First trout: My conscience still hurts me about that. What say we make it up a little to the guy on the other end of yonder hook?

Second trout: Okay. Let's call Ned the Nulsnance—every trout in the river hates him.

First trout: Hey, Ned!

Second trout: It's like this, Ned. See that swell bit of food dangling over there? Well, we just can't decide which one of us gets to eat it.

First trout: Yeah, Ned. So we compromised by agreeing you can have it. Then we won't fight about it.

Ned: Aw gee, guys. Tanks, Pardon me while I gobble it.

First and second trout, in chorus: Well, there goes Ned. One fisherman's happy. Ned the Nulsnance is gone, and that's that.

And off they swam in the roilly waters.

OUCH! WE KNOW THIS WAS COMING!

Say, You Lugs: Dang it all, Pots, we Jerome folks won't put that wad of wad fair and square and now comes a Twin Falls fellow to hint that we had more men pulling on the rope than his team did.

Blankety blank such guys, anyway. How you gonna settle an argument when the loser won't admit he's licked right?

We not only didn't have more men on the rope, we probably had less. We can spot any team in Idaho two men and still whale the tar out of 'em in a tug of war any time, any place.

So, Pots, you tell that Ima Tug Man to go bury his head in a bucket of sand.

AND ANOTHER NORTHSIDER GETS INDIGNANT!

Pot Shots: Them's fighting words this guy Ima Tug Man throws around so recklessly like.

SERIAL STORY

BET ON LOVE

BY CHARLES B. PARMER

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Willie Bond and Ted (all Sherry of their plans to be married after the Derby. A gambler calls on Sherry, offers her $5000 to keep Pepper Boy out of the race. Sherry refuses angrily, orders him out. Sherry drives down to borrow money on her own.

CHAPTER XVI Sherry said nothing of the $700 loan made on her motor car to Willie and Ted, for the less those love-birds know of her worries the better.

Willie announced at Sunday lunch: "Red Soldier went the mile and a quarter Derby route in 2:04 this morning—that's fast! John-Lawson won it in 2:04 4/5 in 1938—John-Lawson had to stop in 2:03 3/5 to win from Chalidom last year. Don't you think Pepper Boy ought to be speeded up a bit?"

"I do not!" Sherry answered positively, butting a bit of toast. "I'm not going to leave his race on the track in a workout; he's going to run his fastest in the Derby—not before. Tomorrow he's going the route—but under wraps."

WHILE Pepper Boy was being saddled, shortly after dawn the next morning, a familiar lanky figure hove in view. "Sheep Grant!" Sherry exclaimed. "Why aren't you working out Monitor?"

"Haven't you heard the news?" he asked glumly, hands in pocket. "He's out of the Derby. Picked up a stone while working out yesterday—came limping back to the stable. Leg's big as an elephant's this morning."

"Sheep, I'm sorry—I truly am!" He smiled wryly. "Maybe it's poetic justice—for buying him to beat your colt."

"Forget it, Sheep! That's racing." "I know, but I—I do want to make it up to you, Sherry. Have you engaged Madden to ride Pepper Boy in the Derby?"

"No. Will you take the mount, Sheep? I wish you would!" "Will it? You bet I will!" A great load slid off Sherry's shoulders; at last she had the right jockey for her colt; a rider who could make the weight without adding lead—and as keen a judge of pace as there was on the track. Even Paul admitted that.

"Suppose you take him out now, Sheep. I want him to go the Derby route in two minutes, six seconds." "Right!"

TENSION at the track grew tighter as Derby Day approached. Visitors were pouring into the city, overflowing to the track to see their favorites.

Friday morning, Sherry, with Uncle Willie on one side, Ted on the other, was first at the secretary's office as it opened to receive Derby entries. Pepper Boy's name went into the box first, followed rapidly by 21 others.

Sharply at 10 the entries closed and drawing for post position began. Red Soldier got No. 4, at the rail. Castaneda was No. 1, and Pepper Boy was seven places out.

Sheep Grant had come in, and as positions were announced, he moved over to Sherry. "Never mind Red Soldier being on the rail," he said with confidence. "We've got the best chance. If Red Soldier delays just one split second after the bell, the field sweeps over and jams him back, pockets him. I can shoot a long diagonal to the rail."

Paul Wharton joined them. "Hello, Sherry!" He ignored Grant. "Looks like a real horse race."

"So it does," Sherry answered warmly. There was something about Paul that did funny things to Sherry's heart. Even in their quarrels she had to admit his fineness.

"Red Soldier's on edge," Wharton went on. "Made fastest time of any horse on the track, has the best position. And I've got a crack heavy-weight jockey in Mann, brought in especially from the Coast."

Sheep Grant stepped in: "Oh, you trying to win the Derby, too, Wharton? Too bad you couldn't claim Pepper Boy back in New York—then you'd have a real chance."

"Real chance? Red Soldier's already ready favorite!" "That means nothing! Only 30 post-time favorites have won in the past 65 years!"

into the city, overflowing to the track to see their favorites.

"If you beat me today," Paul Wharton grinned, "I'll—"

"Better not make a threat, fellow—for I'm sure going to make your tag take dust," Shep said.

Willie Bond leaned forward. "Won't this—ah—heavy breakfast make you overweight?"

"Noggs—not at all! Another biscuit, please! Thanks. You see, I won't carry an ounce of lead. Wharton," he turned again to the man on the other side of Sherry, "let us drink—to the winner!"

He whipped out a flask; and before anyone could do more than murmur, he'd poured four fingers in a heavy water tumbler, shoved it across to Paul. Then poured a stiff drink into another glass, which he held tightly as he got to his feet.

Paul Wharton—his face without expression, was on his feet, holding the glass. He was meeting Sheep Grant.

Sherry stared dumbly for a moment. Paul wasn't riding—he could drink all he wished; but Shep had the leg on her colt—Paul had no business encouraging her jockey.

"Paul, I'm—" she broke off, her lips frozen. Wharton raised his tumbler to Shep's and in a flash slapped it against Shep's hand. Both heavy tumblers clattered to the floor.

"You—you—" Shep stared. Willie Bond, on his feet instantly, seized Shep's wrist in so firm a grip that the rider's curse broke off. He swung around toward Willie Bond.

"Let me go!" "Shut up, you fool!" Bond commanded, in tones so low he couldn't be heard at the next table. "And now, my lad, you and I are leaving breakfast. And we're staying together until time for you to go to the jockey room to dress."

"What the devil!" But all Shep's bravado had departed.

"I think, Shep," Sherry said cuttingly, "you've spoiled my first Derby breakfast."

"Great Scott, Sherry—I'm sorry. I really am! But this—Wharton had no business slapping my hand."

Willie Bond broke in, "You've no business drinking, Derby Day, my lad. Now, will you?" Wharton turned to his hostess.

"Sherry, I know you'll pardon me, I forgot—something important at the stable. See you in the paddock."

He was out the door before she could say him.

"Sheep—Sheep," was all that she could say.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON Evening Times Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, May 15—After years of neglect, the government is suddenly realizing Alaska is, or ought to be, highly important in the nation's defense system.

At this moment, the total U. S. defense force in Alaska consists of 263 infantrymen stationed at Chukot barracks, near Eklagway; and half a dozen naval planes at Sitka. If anyone wants to worry about a "Russian menace," strategists point out that Russia has been fortifying various spots within easy striking distance of Alaska, having recently put a submarine base on Bering Island, which is only 300 miles away.

Any hostile force which seized Alaska, it is added, would be within fairly handy bombing range of northwestern U. S.—and, as Delegate Anthony Dimond of Alaska says, could with a few incendiary bombs take an awful bite out of our vast timber reserves in the state of Washington.

The navy now is building two big air bases, at Sitka and Kodiak, which will probably be ready by fall. Army is putting up a $4,000,000 cold weather experimental air station at Fairbanks, and is asking $12,000,000 for a huge air base at Anchorage. House of representatives killed this item, but the senate may restore it.

WHERE THOSE DEFICITS COME FROM When you compare the money Uncle Sam has been sending out to the states with the money he has been getting back from them you can begin to see where all those deficits come from.

Loans and grants made to and in the states and territories since the start of 1934, covering everything from farm benefits to relief, public works and old age benefits total just a little more than $42,000,000,000.

In the same period, internal revenue receipts from those states and territories ran to just a little less than $28,000,000,000.

From only six states did the government collect more in taxes than it paid out in loans and grants. In four states it distributed more money than the total assessed value of taxable property. Of the $42,000,000,000 it sent out, nearly 75 per cent in the form of outright grants; the rest, made up of loans, is (presumably, anyhow) mostly recoverable.

FHA TRE WAY UP NOW Federal housing authority officials are liked because a weekly paper stated FHA is getting stuck with too much property on insured mortgages that went sour. Currently, says FHA, its losses on foreclosures are averaging only 16/100 of one per cent. The insurance fund that covers losses is building up nicely, and is figured capable of standing losses running as high as 10 per cent.

General opinion is that FHA is plenty safe—unless another 1932 comes along. In '32, it is recalled, private lenders got stuck with loads of real estate on which they'd loaned up to 50 per cent. FHA loans up to 80 and 90.

Although politicians don't see how Wendell Willkie can actually get any important delegate strength, the Willkie camp apparently means business. At any rate, Mr. Willkie is starting to organize his own brain trust.

27 YEARS AGO MAY 15, 1913 George F. Sprague arrived in the city Tuesday evening from Boise, and will remain for several days looking after his property interests.

In an attempt to find some remedy for the too prevalent dandelion and other weeds growing in the vacant lots of this city, Attorney Ashton has discovered that the last session law did not cover that points most desired and that the city will have difficulty enforcing a weed ordinance.

J. E. Kelley, representing the Australian government was a visitor in Twin Falls and investigated the whole tract with a view of getting pointers on irrigation for his government.

You May Not Know That—

War Hits Club VERNON, B. C. (UPI)—The war is still thousands of miles away, but western Canada is beginning to feel it in more ways than one. Latest results was the announcement that the Vernon Hunt club, only Canadian draught club west of Ontario, was to be disbanded because of the war.

HOW to EAT to BEAT the HEAT

By ALICE H. SMITH Nutritionist, Cleveland Health Council

Teeth! Everybody uses them, but how many do anything about them? Apparently too few. Poor teeth are one of the great health enemies today. Hundreds of surveys have shown the appalling number of decayed teeth among school children alone. And there are millions more suffering all forms of dental difficulties.

Likely, with most of these, the trouble began in their childhood; even before childhood, since the "baby teeth" are formed before birth. Permanent teeth are formed early in life. You can have your teeth fixed anytime you want after that; but you can never restore what your teeth lost in the beginning.

Which brings us to the question of how and when to begin dental care.

As yet science has not been able to tell us the whole story about the cause of, and cure for, dental caries (decayed teeth). Science has, however, shown the importance of diet in forming normal teeth and in keeping them. Teeth, like any other structure, stand up better when well fed.

One exhaustive research gives us a pretty clear picture of tooth structure and tooth needs. Teeth are made up largely of minerals, calcium and phosphorus. They are nourished by the same supply of blood nourishing all other parts of the body.

To build these teeth, we must have generous amounts of vitamin D and C. In terms of common foods that means milk, heading the list; fruits and vegetables, especially tomatoes and citrus fruits, next. The vitamin D is not supplied very generously in food, except vitamin D milk, and so it must be secured either in a concentrate, such as fish liver oil, or else by exposing the body to the ultra-violet rays of the sun.

To assure good teeth for children a campaign of education should be begun with the mother. She must learn the necessity of an adequate prenatal diet and she must continue that adequate diet for the child with the protective foods from the first day of the child's life.

NEXT: All about vitamins and where you find them.

GREAT BRITAIN ORGANIZES ANTI-PARACHUTE 'MINUTE MEN'

NAZIS TAKE OVER DUTCH AIRFIELDS NEAR TO ENGLISH

By WALLACE CARROLL
LONDON, May 15 (AP)—British "minute men" responding to a government call for volunteers, jammed police stations today after a German conquest of Holland which brought the Nazi air force within 30 minutes' flying distance of the British coast.

Germany had obtained 18 Dutch civil and military airbases, the closest within 112 miles of the coast, and German long distance planes were now able to fly freely across Holland from bases in Germany.

Germany had shortened the flying distance to Britain so the threat of a blitzkrieg attack on the British Isles was now imminent. Further, Germany was given additional striking power in Belgium, because its planes, taking off from Dutch fields, could harry allied troops and fighter planes, based on Dutch airbases, could intercept British bomber planes bound for northern Germany.

Asks for Volunteers
 Anthony Eden, new war secretary, who resigned from the Neville Chamberlain cabinet in protest against "appeasement," in a speech in the nation's last night, appealed for "large numbers" of volunteers for his local defense force. Though the danger to the country of parachute troop landings ought not to be exaggerated, he said, the government had laid full plans for the prompt defeat of any German parachutists who might dare a landing in Britain.

The result of the appeal was that within a few minutes thousands of boys and men, ranging in years from 17 to 65, were crowding police stations and lining up outside to volunteer.

Gen. Sir Walter Kirke, commander in chief of the home forces, and aide-de-camp to King George, took charge of the anti-parachutist volunteers.

In Old Army Uniforms
 Volunteers will be given old army uniforms, obsolete because army men now are dressed in new "battle dress," something on the order of a child's rompers, developed during the Spanish civil war. The volunteers will live at home and defend their own areas.

Crack shots among the volunteers will be assigned to patrol lonely downs and moors and isolated villages.

Preparing for the big fight, the new cabinet issued a drastic anti-profiteering order, fixing prices of medium grade clothing, shoes, sport furniture, radio sets, gramophones, bicycles, perambulators, clocks, watches, drugs, soaps, candles and matches.

Reports from Belgium said the allied forces are fighting off heavy German attacks with their left flank resting on the bastion of Antwerp, vital Belgian port.

THUNDER of WAR

ITALY TO BOOST FIGHTING POWER

ROME, May 15 (AP)—Intensifying public demonstrations against Great Britain and France — apparently with Benito Mussolini's approval — and new demands on the national treasury for expansion of the fighting service increased the Italian war fever today.

The official Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, which reflects the views of Pope Pius and the church, was not circulated outside Vatican City for the first time. It publishes both the allied and German versions of the war and Italians have attacked it as "pro-ally."

Beaches New Peak
 The anti-allied demonstrations had reached a new peak with the burning of the British and French flags by fascist students within view of the British embassy yesterday afternoon.

Mussolini appeared on his palace balcony and acknowledged the cheers of the demonstrators who were led by uniformed fascist officers who made speeches attacking Britain and France and hailing Italian-German friendship.

Budget Increases
 Budget increases totaling nearly $100,000,000 for the ministries of war, navy, air and colonies were announced in a decree which said they were for "needs of extraordinary character depending upon the international situation."

The voluntary restriction of Osservatore Romano's circulation to Vatican City followed demonstrations which caused authorities to station troops near the city's gates. Regular readers, including diplomats and journalists, went to Vatican City to purchase their copies direct from the printer.

Oldest Buhl Mother, 91, Says She Feels Only 19

By MRS. OLIN SMITH

BUHL, May 14 (Special)—Mrs. Cynthia Abel, believed to be the oldest mother in Buhl, is 91 years old, but she prefers to think of her age as in reverse, "19 years young."

"One is just as old as one feels, you know, and I am expecting to celebrate Mother's day when I am 103."

Of Sturdy Ancestry Mother Abel recounted how her grandmother had crossed the Blue Ridge mountains in a caravan with Daniel Boone, and how her great-grandmother at the age of 101 came across the plains to California with the 49ers.

At the divide she climbed out of the covered wagon and walked for a quarter of a mile across the divide to show them she could take it.

"And so you see, I have a good chance to celebrate Mother's day 12 years from now," said the great-grandmother proudly, as she plucked another flower from her garden.

This mother has borne eight children, six boys and two girls. Three died in infancy and three others before they were 25 years of age. Her eldest son was in the Klondike gold rush. He died in 1898 at the age of 83 years. Her only living child is Mrs. I. C. McPherron with whom Mrs. Abel has made her home since the death of Mr. Abel in 1934. She has two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

This spry little west end woman was born March 9, 1849 at St. Joseph, Mo. She was one of 12 children, and understood the hardships as well as the pleasures of a large family. Many times she and her brothers and sisters helped her mother shear the sheep, card the wool, spin the thread, wind the skein and weave the cloth for all their clothing and bedding.

"I'd rather weave than eat," she said Sunday, and regrets having disposed of her spinning wheel. Her mother wove the cloth for her wedding dress and she trimmed it elaborately with tatting, the lace of that day. Mrs. Abel spends much time crocheting at which she is very adept.

Concerning her father, a veteran of the Civil war, she told a vivid story of how the soldiers came to the home of her parents demanding gun powder. The father told them he had no powder but they did not take his word and searched the place, lastly they crawled under the house but that search didn't last long because their pet dog and her pigs lived there, and objected to the search.

Wife of Freightier During her courtship days, oxen and heavy wagons were the only means of transportation. Several couples usually rode around together. She was married to the late Homer Abel at a double wedding ceremony read Feb. 1, 1872, at St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Abel moved to Fairplay, Colo., soon after their marriage where Mr. Abel freighted from Colorado Springs to Fairplay and also to Denver.

He hauled the first smelter to Leadville, then known as California Gulch. Mother Abel managed a boarding house at Fairplay. She told of giving away many keesakes to the Indians in their section of the country. They came often to beg either clothing, bright articles or cooking ware and were always given their preference of anything in hopes they would not tarry.

While living in Colorado, Mother Abel did much horseback riding to and from her neighbors' homes where she was often called to nurse. Every one in those days nursed and took his turn at helping the sick and afflicted. The three children who died in infancy this mother "held out" herself, and when the other three died she cared for them with the help of the neighbors. In those pioneer days a mother was obliged to meet every occasion with nerve and to face her burdens with her husband and the few neighbors who were always on hand in time of need.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary in McCollum addition where they established their home 21 years ago. Mr. Abel died Dec. 1, 1934, at the age of 84 years.

Last fall Mr. and Mrs. McPherron

Pictured in her multi-colored flower garden, where she spends much time these sunny spring days, is Mrs. Cynthia Abel, acclaimed the oldest mother in Buhl, receiving congratulations on the 1940 Mother's day, Sunday. (Times Correspondent Photo—Times Engraving) and Mother Abel drove to Seattle, Wash., where they had a boat ride. Mother Abel did enjoy that "trip and especially the ocean she had waited 90 years to see.

"It was fine," she said. "Now I've had a ride in everything except an aeroplane, and I'll just skip that."

Pictorial Treasure One of the most prized possessions in her home is a picture estimated to be 160 years old and first owned by her great-grandmother. The picture is named "The Stages of Man's Life From the Cradle to the Grave." Each "stage" is rightly described in verse, according to this mother who has passed all but the last which she expects to reach in eight more years.

In the left hand corner of the hand-hewn frame is a tree in full bloom. Stairs ascend to the center of the picture, and on each step stands a man of the age. On the right side the steps descend and in the background is the same tree, old, gnarled and withered, standing as a sentinel of time.

ROOSEVELT WILL ASK FOR RECORD DEFENSE FUNDS

ESTIMATED COST REACHES NEARLY BILLION DOLLARS

BY LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt will ask congress today or tomorrow for a war preparedness program that may exceed the original $500,000,000 cost estimate, but will fall short of $1,000,000,000.

Major emphasis is expected to be placed on land and air forces. The army—notably anti-aircraft defense and mechanized equipment—apparently is about to come into its own after four years.

The new defense program will cover additional immediate spending and future authorizations. It will again break all peace-time national defense spending records.

Mr. Roosevelt has asked congress several times to break previous peace-time records for armaments. But this request comes in the face of Europe's spreading conflagration and in an effort to keep that "four-alarm" fire out of the western hemisphere.

Cost Divided
Overall needs for the army's proposed "protective mobilization force" to put 1,000,000 men in the field within three months of the outbreak of war would cost about $1,465,000,000 divided as follows:

- $840,000,000 for "essential" items.
- $335,000,000 for "critical" or first priority items.
- $300,000,000 for the air corps.
- Approximately $100,000,000 for improving industrial production conditions.

High on the "essential" list is anti-aircraft armament. Mr. Roosevelt's emergency measure probably will draw heavily on the protective mobilization force plan but not present the whole $1,465,000,000 program.

Members of congress are disputing whether the emergency defense bill should be paid for by new taxes or more borrowing, and whether congress should remain in session through the summer.

Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday the method of payment—taxes or more debt—was a minor detail. He said there was no reason why congress should not adjourn on schedule with the understanding he would summon a special session if conditions warranted. Republican and Democratic senate leaders will be requested to remain "in easy reach" during the expected adjournment period.

Would Hurt Allies
The foreign policy association, meantime, warned against over-enthusiastic preparedness here. "From the allied point of view," the association said, "the immediate danger is that in the next three to six months, which may prove decisive, the United States, yielding to panic, may commander all available resources for its own military preparedness program, and thus prevent the allies from obtaining airplanes and other war materials in this country."

Although Mr. Roosevelt will leave it to congress to decide whether to levy taxes or borrow to meet emergency national defense needs, his statement that the method of minor detail—evidently means that the white house will exert no pressure for new taxes. Under such circumstances, congress probably will take the easier way which would be to avoid the issue until next session or at this session merely act to increase the national debt limit which now is fixed at $45,000,000,000.

IMPORTED LABOR HITS BEET AREAS

WALSBERG, Colo., May 15 (AP)—Importation of sugar beet labor into the Colorado and Wyoming beet raising areas is creating critical local employment problems. Fred Sabon, Walsenburg, manager of the Colorado employment service, declared here.

Sabon charged that trucks loaded with transient workers are pouring into the two states with the results that great numbers of Colorado and Wyoming field workers will remain unemployed this summer.

Cuts Local Jobs
The employment service manager said that last year he furnished nearly 600 beet field laborers from Huerfano county but added: "I will be lucky to supply one third of that amount this year."

Units of workers from Texas and New Mexico already have moved into the northern sugar beet regions and "cornered" the majority of available jobs, Sabon said. These transient laborers are on the farms now and have the jobs clinched, he declared, and one of "Colorado's largest beet sugar companies reports all jobs are filled."

Some to Idaho
The movement to the beet fields is starting from Huerfano county now and a few local workers will be sent to the Utah-Idaho fields, Sabon explained. The first shipment of workers from Walsenburg will leave the first week in May and will probably consist of about 100 men. It was expected to be the largest single group sent out this year.

Sabon explained that each season welfare officials of this county look to the sugar beet work as a shock absorber in local unemployment conditions. In 1939, county relief rolls were reduced by 500 men finding jobs in this industry.

Beet laborers cannot be certified to WRA jobs and with transient labor encroaching on those jobs that have been available, it was predicted direct relief rolls in the county will see no decrease during the summer.

Flat-Foot FLUVIUS

THE PEOPLE of ancient Pompeii were an unrestrained lot. To the modern doodler who scribbles usually only while talking on the telephone or listening to a salesman, the Pompeian would be an indulgent son-of-a-gun. While the modern doodler confines his scribbling to small scraps of paper which he promptly discards the Pompeian doodled on walls. No less than the Encyclopedia Britannica avows these inscriptions (called graffiti) "are generally the mere expression of individual impulse and feeling, frequently amatory." It is not hard to visualize a disgruntled and possibly bruised Pompeian youth returning from the villa of his favorite oomph girl and scribbling on the walls as he went: "Her old man seen us, phooey on Venus." But all Pompeian graffiti were not inscribed in the interest of pure doodling. In some instances sordid commercialism was the motive, as witness the doodling of Gnaeus Marius who doodled as follows: "To Rent—from the first day of next July, shops with flowers over them; fine upper chamber in a house in the Arrius Pullis' block, owned by Gnaeus Marius." As a penalty of turning the noble art of doodling to such a venal use, Gnaeus probably was made to suffer a lack of results; for his "advertisement" was to be seen only by passersby who chanced near the wall on which it was inscribed.

Had Gnaeus Marius lived today, he could have phoned an Adtaker of the Times and News and offered his vacancies in a place where his notice would be read by more than 16,000 families in Magic Valley.

TWIN FALLS ANNEXES FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN

Cowboys Move up In Standings by Taking 9-5 Victory

IDAHO FALLS, May 15 (Special)—With four games out of five tucked under their belt on the current road trip, the Twin Falls Cowboys play their final contest tonight against the Idaho Falls Russets before returning home.

The 1939 champions last night rolled up their most impressive total score of the season and their fourth consecutive victory by drubbing the Yankees farm by a 9-5 count.

Last night's victory jumped the Cowboys from fifth to fourth place, with the win the night before lifting them out of the cellar.

Bees Keep Top Spot With Win Over Boise

(By United Press)

A sharp single into center field by Catcher Jack Hatchett with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth gave the Salt Lake Bees a 2-0 to 1 victory over the Boise Pilots Tuesday night and left the Bees in the Pioneer league lead.

Hatchett's hit came when the score was tied at five-all. A homer by Ben Gutlin of Salt Lake in the seventh inning with two on bases accounted for half the Bees' runs and tied the score. Mel Ristau hurled seven-hit ball for the winners, and his teammates climbed on Rene, the Pilots' hurler, for 12 safe hits. It was Ristau's fourth straight victory without a defeat.

The Ogden Reds made good use of the four hits allowed them by Sandel to defeat the Pocatello Cardinals, 2 to 1. They scored in the first and sixth innings, after the Cards had scored 24 runs in the first on a fielder's choice and an error. The Reds' winning run came after Hughes singled, went to second on an out-field fly and came home when Farquharson threw wild to second to try to catch him.

The Reds staved one game behind the Bees, and increased their lead over the third-place Pilots to one and a half games.

The Twin Falls Cowboys captured their fourth straight, defeating Idaho Falls, 9 to 5, and moving into fourth place above Pocatello. The rough-riding Cowboys made seven of their runs—enough to win the game—in two big innings, the first and seventh.

McKechnie Blames Umpire as Dodgers Take Lead

World Speed Champion in Action

Idaho's speediest motorboats will vie for honors next Sunday at Thousand Springs as the annual regatta is staged, starting at 9 a. m. and continuing through the day. In the picture above, taken during the races last year, J. C. Stuart, Nampa, holder of the world's speed records in class F boats, is shown (nearest the camera) racing a boat operated by O. A. Schwartz, Twin Falls. Schwartz won as the propeller shaft on Stuart's motor broke. The two will race again next Sunday afternoon in one of the feature events. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Plans Push Ahead for Annual Boat Regatta

BUHL, May 15 (Special)—With "Red Chief," the world record holding speed boat entered, plans pushed ahead here today for the third annual regatta and water carnival to be held on Sunday, May 19 at Thousand Springs park.

The meet is being sponsored by the Buhl Chamber of Commerce and Charley Wing, owner of the park.

Russets Cut Club To Reach Limit

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., May 15 (UP)—In order to get within the 15-man player limit, the Idaho Falls club of the Pioneer league optioned Pitcher Jack Sperry and Ray Parmenter, and Outfielder Bob Wittig to Big Springs in the West Texas league.

At the same time, the club placed Leon Wilson, third baseman, Bill Beard, catcher, and Carlo Forn, shortstop, on the suspended list. All are out with injuries.

Hearing Ordered In Consolidation

First step in proposed merger of three Twin Falls county common school districts—Excelsior, Seedrow and Rock Creek—had been taken today as the board of county commissioners set hearing for 2 p. m. May 18.

The hearing, at offices of the board, will determine whether the commissioners call an election in the three districts.

Padres Beaten But Retain League Lead

(By United Press)

The league-leading San Diego Padres blew a two-run lead in the ninth inning and saw Sacramento inflict a 10 to 8 defeat last night, but San Diego maintained its 2½-game margin over the second-place Oakland club because the Oaks dropped a 6 to 4 decision to Los Angeles.

The Padre-Solon game was a free-hitting, free swinging affair. The seven pitchers who worked gave up 27 hits, and a fight in the fourth inning required the services of the copper. It was precipitated by a passage-at-arms between Gene Hanley, Sacramento shortstop, and Ed Stewart, Padre outfielder.

Outland outfield Los Angeles 13 to 1, but the Angels played light ball behind Julio Benetti to win their game last night. Taking advantage of Mito Candini's early-inning wildness, the Sgraps got off to a four-run lead and never were headed.

San Francisco took undisputed possession of fourth place by forcing out Hollywood 8, to 6. Ferris Fair's single over Babe Herman's head with the bases loaded in the ninth produced the win.

Portland and Seattle were traveling.

Brooklyn Captures 13-Inning Contest To Push Reds Down

NEW YORK, May 15 (U.P.)—Deacon Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati's venerable pilot, hunched over and shouted up at Umpire Bill Klem: "How can you let the runner go to third? Section six, rule 48, says positively no base runner can advance when a batted ball hits an umpire unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base runner."

It was the seventh inning of yesterday's blood curdling battle for first place between the Reds and Dodgers, with 21,535 Flatbush fanatics making the welkin ring with their shouts, and plenty was at stake. The score was tied 2-2 and undefeated Bucky Walters was locked in a pitching duel with no-hit Tex Carleton.

Umpire Klem, drawing himself up to his full stature, looked down at the Cincinnati pilot and said condescendingly: "The ball never touched me. In all my career I was never hit by a batted ball."

Ball Hits Umpire

Everybody in the ball park except Klem knew Charlie Gilbert's grounder hid the umpire who was standing back of the mound on the grass between first and second. That play changed the complexion of the game in a flash, and Brooklyn had runners on first and third instead of first and second, with one out. Walters walked Coscarart to set the stage for a double play, but lost control and threw four straight balls to Dixie Walker, forcing in a run. Then Gilbert scored on Catcher Frank outfield fly to put the Dodgers ahead, 4-2.

The Reds tied the count, with runs in the eighth and ninth, and forged ahead on Mike McCormick's homer in the tenth, 5-4, but eventually lost, 6-5, in the 13th. That's why the Dodgers held command in the National League today by half a game.

Pitching Hero

Tot Fressnel, who had pitched only one inning this year, turned out to be the pitching hero after Carleton was relieved for a pinch hitter in the ninth. Walters also gave way to a pinch hitter in the same frame and his five-game winning streak was kept intact.

A walk to Gene Moore, Durocher's single to right, and pinch hitter Gus Mancuso's fly to center scored the winning run.

In the other two National league games, Hugh Mulcahy pitched the Friendly

Most of us remember our first "shivaree"—the fun we had beating the old dishpan to welcome the newly-weds to the neighborhood. The "shivaree" may be passing out as an American custom, but its underlying expression of neighborly friendliness will be with us always; for friendship is as necessary to everyday life as the air we breathe.

Through the ages, man has found few ways to enjoy friendship more thoroughly than over a glass of beer with his friends. Congenial people... friendly beer... friendship takes root and flourishes under such circumstances.

Bring more friendship into your life. Raise with a friend or two for a bottle of friendly Grain Belt Beer. Enjoy the refreshment... relax... re-affirm your friendship.

IT'S THE BARLEY

a case of friendship.

Frank Frisch Is Mac's Favorite For All-Time Managerial Zany

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, May 15 (U.P.)—Like many idiosyncrasy-loving company.

Which, perhaps, is why if all the managers in baseball, from the lowliest bush league to the majors, Frankie Frisch is my favorite.

Here is a genuine old master out of a zany. Here is an authentic homespun lun. Here is a sterling silver, 24-karat, guaranteed not to run out.

Frisch, I mean.

Anytime any of us behave queerly we have only to think of Frankie Frisch to be consoled by the knowledge that nothing we could ever do would match his voluntary acceptance of the job as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Look back a year ago. In 1939 at this time Frisch, after many arduous years in baseball, both as a player and a manager, was settled down in a soft broadcasting job. All he had to do was to report at the Boston ball park when the Hops were in town and describe the game over the air. For this he was paid a handsome salary. Some guesses fixed his income at as much as $25,000 a year. When the day's game was over and he went home without a thought of tomorrow's pitcher, the budding averages of his outfield, or the standing of the club. He had time for golf and sailing and puttering around in his garden.

Frisch made a decision that must have made every psychiatrist in the country prick up his ears and make a note to add his name to their mailing list. Frisch accepted an offer to manage the Pittsburgh Pirates. For much less pay he agreed to take charge of a club that didn't have a chance to do any good in the National League this season, and one packed with more problem children than an unfashionable reform school.

The Pirates, whether they deserve it or not, have a reputation of being good time Charleys, loafers, and quitters in the clutch. Frisch knew all of this, but with a declaration that he loved baseball so much he would make any sacrifice to get back in harness, he jumped at the job. Never in the history of the game has a man given such a demonstration of love for baseball. Compared to Frisch Alton Doubleday despised the game, Connie Mack hates it, and the Brooklyn fans loathe it.

Since Frisch took charge, the Pirates have won but six games while losing thirteen. And Frisch has suffered. They say that while the Pirates were losing nine straight games in the west only loving hands prevented Frisch from doing a swan dive from his bedroom window or swinging on himself with a tungo bat.

Red Sox Boost Lead

The Boston Red Sox increased their American league lead to 2½ games by beating the White Sox, 7-3, in 10 innings. Jimmy Fox's 425-foot homer, his second of the game, off John Rigney won the game.

The Athletics knocked Bob Feller out of the box in beating the Indians, 6-7.

Gerald Walker's homer, with a mate on base enabled the Senators to trim the Tigers, 4-2, as Dutch Leonard outpitched Rockie Hal Newhouse.

The PAYOFF By HARRY GRAYSON (NEA Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Brooklyn's phenomenal early start isn't worrying William Boyd McKechnie and the Reds. As a matter of fact, it will be quite all right with Bill McKechnie if the hustling Dodgers stay right where they are for a month or more.

But while the Dodgers are enjoying themselves, McKechnie and his Cincinnati champions are keeping an eye on the Cardinals. They know the St. Louis outfit will move sooner or later... the later the better for them.

Exhibit of Student Work Earns Praises of Throng

By MARGARET ELLSWORTH
Following a program of religious music by Twin Falls high school mixed choir, annual all-school exhibit was opened to the public last evening to show typical work of all departments of the high school and junior high school, as well as outstanding projects.

Musical program was given in the school auditorium for the Junior-Senior Parent-Teacher Association, under direction of Miss Marjorie Albertson. After the program the audience inspected the exhibit in the gymnasium. High praise was voiced on all sides at the excellent caliber of the work on display.

Art Exhibit
Among the first exhibits seen on entering the gym was that of the high school art department. Designs for costumes, flower posters, and travel posters were displayed. Among the travel posters, illustrated maps of ancient America, in the time of the Aztec Indians, of Europe showing traditional costumes, for the countries and of traditionally picturesque Japan were three of the outstanding ones. Outlines of the islands in the map of Japan were in Japanese alphabetical characters. Of the travel posters, a painting of Shoshone falls advertised Idaho.

Small objects were displayed on a table, including soap carvings of animals and other figures, among them a football player, and ash trays and tiny plaques. Centering the table was a small head of Lincoln.

Typed Pictures
Typed pictures were included in the commercial department exhibit. One showed Hitler, "my impression of unbalanced gray matter," according to the typist. Others were of Dopey, the dwarf, and of birds. Typing forbusness letters also was shown, with bookkeeping examples.

Autobiographies, illustrated in many cases with snapshots, were among the notebooks in the English exhibit. Included as titles were "Me," "Me and My Shadow," "Myself" and "As Far As I've Gone." Study of classics was represented by a table of illustrations made of classic stories, chief of which was a long framed painting of the Canterbury pilgrims of Chaucer. Modern writing was represented by original work by students, including work on the flag done this spring, and illustrations made of stories studied in literature.

"Raveloe Clarion," a newspaper compiled by students for the town of Raveloe in England in which the story of Silas Marner takes place, was of interest. Earliest issue was of 1815, and the other for 1829.

Looking Back at History
Included on the front page in addition to the story of Silas Marner were such international events as the peace treaty signed with the United States. Throughout the rest of the papers items dealt with characters of the book and such things as they might be doing. Sports items included horseback riding, social and local news was imagined or drawn from the book, and pictures were included in the editions.
