NAZIS MOVE TO STOP ALLIED RETREAT TOWARD ARGONNE

WEYGAND FACING DIFFICULT TASK TO MOVE TROOPS

BY J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

Intensified German pressure is being exerted to drive the right wing of the allied army back upon itself for the purpose of confining Weygand's area of operations and heading off any retreat eastward toward the protective terrain of the Argonne. The operations for the capture of Paris have now become in effect secondary, while the German high command is preparing for a decision to follow the anticipated capitulation of the capital.

Pressure Develops
The primary German pressure now seems to be developing along the Marne, following the capture of Reims. The Germans claim they have taken Chalons, 20 miles southeast of Reims, which shows a major movement temporarily away from Paris, not toward it. The purpose is to swing around the allied right flank. If this new strategic plan shows success, the next advance of the Germans should be toward Vitry le Francois, southeast of Chalons, where the canal connecting the Marne river with the Rhine begins.

Should Weygand not be able to block the German operation he will have to bend his right wing westward toward Paris or else risk thinning his line too much by retiring southward away from the Argonne. The situation is difficult for him but not yet precarious if the Germans themselves are reaching the end of their resources in manpower. It would become very dangerous, however, if the Germans were heavily reinforced by the Italians.

Reach Suburbs
The drive on Paris has reached the outer suburbs but the Germans are slowing their pace somewhat in that area, awaiting the development of their major plan of encirclement. The main objective of the Germans is not the capture of Paris but the annihilation of the allied forces. Weygand's tactics now are to escape slowly while inflicting the maximum damage on the Germans to weaken them and slow up their drive. Should the German offensive become hesitant through approaching exhaustion, that would be the time for a counter-attack "miracle." But, signs of any such change in the situation are not yet apparent. If exhaustion comes to an attacking force, however, it gives little advance warning.

France's decision to make Paris an open town means the city will not be defended by street fighting, though the outer suburban defenses can continue to block the enemy's advance. The French have shown wisdom in not subjecting Paris and its civilian inhabitants to destruction and terror. To make the city a beleaguered bastion pounded by artillery and air bombs would serve no military purpose. It is becoming noticeable that the destruction of cities in the western campaign is less prevalent now than in the last war.

Italy Hesitant
The Italians still show hesitancy in their strategy. Reports a naval battle in the Mediterranean is impending suggest that the allies are preparing to challenge the Italian fleet to come forth to assert Mussolini's claim that the Mediterranean is "our sea." To the present, however, Mussolini has contented himself with laying mines to guard his harbors in the harbor haven. The exchange of aims between the allies continues to be a minor detail without significance.

TRUCK BROKEN IN 3-WAY ACCIDENT

Loaded with gravel, a Twin Falls highway district truck "broke its back" Wednesday afternoon in a road crash involving another truck and a passenger car.

The two gravel trucks were thrown into the borrow pit, with the highway district vehicle collapsing at the midway point between the cab and the loaded body. Deputy Sheriff Claude Wiley said George Metcalf, 64, operating the highway district truck, started to pass another truck operated by Lyle Murphy, 30. As he did so he observed a private car, driven by Mrs. Josephine B. Wooten, Eden, in the Metcalf truck "kicked" the Wooten machine and then "kicked" with the other truck. Both large vehicles left the highway and an estimated $800 in damages resulted. No personal injuries resulted.

The mishap occurred about 2 p. m. yesterday two miles east of Twin Falls on Addison avenue.

CHILDREN PARADE FRIDAY MORNING

With hundreds of youngsters expected to participate, plans for the flag day parade of the downtown area tomorrow morning were completed this afternoon by Miss Verline Richards, recreation director, and Gordon Day, Scout executive.

All youngsters in the city are urged to participate in the parade, which forms at the corner of Main avenue and Third street north at 10:45 a. m., starting the thorough town march at 11 a. m. It will disband at the city park where a brief flag program will be held.

Recruiter Speaks
Principal speaker at the park services will be E. F. Roberge, assistant navy recruiting officer for this section. He will talk on the history of the flag.

Five hundred ice cream bars will be given the first 500 in position for the march. Prizes will also go to individuals and groups with the best decorated bicycles and costumes.

Participating in both the parade and the park ceremony will be the American Legion and auxiliary junior drum and bugle corps and the Boy Scout drum and bugle corps.

Elks Services
Scheduled as another highlight of flag week in Twin Falls is the program at city park at 8:15 p. m. today, when the municipal band and the Elks lodge will join forces in a ritualistic ceremony. The band will play a half hour of patriotic melodies, after which the Elks will take over to present their flag ritual. The bandmen will assist by providing appropriate melodies during the ritualistic procedure.

J. H. Blandford, attorney, will deliver the address, discussing "What Will It Be?"

Wilton Peck will read the Elks flag service, and Boy Scouts will assist the lodge officers in the ritual as Mr. Peck reads. The ceremonies will portray the history of the flag, with Scouts planting nine flags of different eras in the nation's history.

The Star Spangled Banner will be played twice during the city park event. It will be offered by the band at conclusion of the first half hour; then will be played again as a finale to the ritualistic service. Chairman Peck this afternoon urged the audience to remain after the first rendition of the national anthem because the ritual ceremony will follow at once.

VIGILANCE NEEDS TOLD ROTARIANS

Emphatic comparison of America's freedom as compared with Europe's plight—and a vigorous call for protection of "liberty hard won and dearly bought"—were presented to the Twin Falls Rotary club Wednesday by J. H. Blandford, Twin Falls attorney.

Blandford urged "eternal vigilance" in furthering Americanism, in halting subversive activities, and in training youth to appreciate the benefits of American citizenship.

Boy Scout troop 68, under John Keenan, presented a special flag week ceremony. A male quartet—Elmer Jones, Dick Duval, Clinton Anderson and A. Stanley Brown—offered vocal selections.

Dr. L. T. Miller, Jerome, was a visiting Rotarian. Guests included E. Breshner, Salt Lake City; D. E. Smith, Jerome; J. O. Pumphrey, municipal judge.

SNOOZE

Because he slept in the wrong place, Ben Martinez, Twin Falls, was in county jail today.

Sheriff's officers said Martinez was found snoozing alongside U. S. 30, two miles east of Twin Falls. He was slumbering perilously near passing motor cars. So today he faces probable charge of intoxication in a public place.

From Mountains to Prairies to Ocean: Here Is What 1940 America Is Thinking, Saying

(Editor's note: This is the third in the series of articles on "What America Says," by Sheila L. O'Neal, the Evening Times' own traveling reporter. Miss O'Neal is making a bus trip over the entire nation, making questions as she goes.)

BY SHEILA L. O'NEAL

NEW YORK, June 13 (Special)—It used to be true that Americans met Americans when they traveled abroad; now they travel at home and meet America instead. "From the mountains, to the prairies—to the ocean, write with foam"—it's easy to gain a new appreciation for the beauty of the country and comprehension of its size.

It's easy to get a fresh viewpoint from the people—in first hand interviews on what they think and why. There's much to laugh at, too, even in these days.

Where's Idaho?
Numerous times, adult Americans who looked educated or enlightened, have asked me in all seriousness where Idaho is. One lady in New York inquired if I didn't mean Ohio; another asked if Idaho was somewhere near Oklahoma.

In Iowa a group of boys splashed in a pool beside the highway without benefit of bathing suits or worries of education. In Canada, a shop displayed hosiery and a very English sign which read: "Apparel for the legs."

Another sign along the way indicated: "A. Damn—Grocery—Offers Fine Eggs."

Everywhere Americans offered a symphony of freedom to live and laugh as they follow their daily pursuits.

There is much to be seen and heard on every hand to make you thankful just to be an American. A man born in England groped with shaking hands for his American naturalization papers on going into Canada. His wife explained that he had lost his hearing in the first World war. She added that his brother and two nephews were fighting for England two months or more back—but maybe dead now.

Two Russians, working in the Ford factory, were glad to be in America where they can sleep without fear. They explained that when one goes to bed in Russia now he doesn't know whether he will be lucky enough to be alive by morning. If he makes it until 4 a. m. he can then be pretty confident of getting in two hours of real sleep unmarred by nervous fear of the Russian secret police, who enter unannounced and drag people away to answer questions. . . usually not to return.

They Talk Third Term
Everywhere, however, men and women are talking politics or some phase of Americanism. In Rochester, N. Y., one average appearing American declared "the man in the White House looks worn these days. He shouldn't try it another four years—but of course he will."

A hotel clerk in the same city broke into lavish words of praise for Mr. Roosevelt. "Yes—yes—we'll put him in for 33 terms—if necessary," he insisted.

Here in New York City, I caught the name Roosevelt from the lips of a prosperous looking businessman on Fifth avenue. Deliberately I drew near and, while pretending to stare into a gorgeous shop window, listened in.

"It won't," the speaker declared, "put another dollar into my business until I know what he's going to do. He's smashed every American tradition so far and he'll smash this one on the third term as well, I'm afraid."

Harlem In Favor
From the top of a sightseeing bus, pausing temporarily in Harlem, I looked down on four very colored gentlemen trying to shout each other down in efforts to state just why Mr. Roosevelt should be elected again. In contrast, two Columbia university students debated the issue and left the matter decidedly in the negative.

On the boat going out to gaze up at "Liberty Personified" in New York harbor were men, women and children of every imaginable race and culture. One father was instructing his small son on what American liberty meant in a way that brought tears to the eyes and lumps into the throats of these fortunate enough to listen in.

Another father and mother wanted

ed pictures of their son with Liberty herself as a background. One mature American citizen murmured to his neighbor, an evidently typical housewife: "We've got Liberty now and we've got to see to it that she goes on holding up that torch."

When the symphony orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner at the New York fair that night, 300,000 people jammed together to witness the magnificence of the fountain display, took up the air voluntarily. . . and hummed or sang with evident appreciation for its present-day significance.

In Philadelphia, however, a new note of the current thought was blazoned in letters two feet high along a fence guarding an old cemetery. Whitewashed there for all to read were the words: "Write F. D. R. now. We want jobs, not guns."

Commenting on the slogan, a young man from Baltimore, Md., shook his head grimly: "Yes, we may say we don't want guns, but we're going to get 'em whether we like it or not. Sure we're heading for war."

A defensively argumentative voice broke in with: "Roosevelt will keep us out of war."

"He can't," retorted the young man. "Not under the conditions we're up against now. Woodrow Wilson was reelected on a platform that he kept us out of war, too, but it didn't work."

Questions Pence
Said another man who looked as if he might have had military training: "Peace is the best campaign slogan any man could ever get—but I'm not certain it's right for today."

"I hear politics all the time in the office," complained a girl sitting beside me in the bus. "I hoped to get away from it on this trip. You see—I work for the New Jersey safety commission and they've been doing a lot of talking lately about this Spencer Tracy picture, 'Edison the Man.'"

"How does that connect with politics?" I asked.

"Why, you see Charles Edison has resigned as secretary of the navy to run for governor of New Jersey, and the picture about his father is going to be a big help to him."

A westerner broke in to opinion then: "Everything is grist for the political mill. But what's the talk in Philadelphia as to who will get the Republican nomination?"

G. O. P. Fight Useless?
There was cynical laughter from several men in response. "Nobody seems to care very much who gets it," explained a bus driver off duty just then. "There's a growing feeling everywhere that it's a useless proposition. The man in the White House now can't be beaten, no matter who runs against him."

And everywhere, as this survey trip of mine lengthens, that seems to be the conviction. As a nationally known editorial writer put it: "When a great European war and an American election come in the same year, the result is bound to closely affect us all."

And yet—there is little evidence on the surface of any uncertainty or fear as to the course ahead.

Swinging back to New York—a personification of the American attitude was evident on Fifth avenue and 42nd street during the rush hour.

Song

Unmistakably, someone was singing. Many in the Gotham throng, waiting for the lights to change from red to green, peered about anxiously to discover that it was the officer on duty in the center of the traffic. In the center of what could

Jerome Troopers Get Federal Okay
JEROME, June 13 (Special)—Word has been received by Capt. Ward C. Howard that the 116th Ordnance company of the national guard had satisfactorily passed its annual federal inspection. The company was inspected by Captain P. M. Reeve of the 10th engineers battalion, stationed at Camp Ord, Calif. Captain Reeve in his written report made the following comment relative to his inspection:

"This new unit has a fine spirit, drills very well and the individual members show remarkable familiarity with small arms and ammunition. As soon as the new armory facilities are provided, this unit should be issued artillery material upon which to train also."

Word has also been received that the balance of the company's trucks are on the way, as is the machine shop equipment.

Captain Howard states that there remains one vacancy in the organization. Eligible men should contact Lieut. George B. Bennett, in the Jerome ACA office, if they are interested in enlisting.

Let Congress Saw Wood

Just at the time when everybody else is being urged to work harder and to slug away all the more earnestly at important business, congress proposes to pack up and go home.

Month after month of work is tiresome for congressmen, it is said. So it is for all of us. Congressmen have campaigning to do this fall, they protest. The country isn't interested in that.

The country is interested in getting its work done. The country is interested in seeing that the armament program is actually followed through and results shown.

The country is interested in seeing that arrangements are made to pay for armament. It is ready to be taxed for security.

For congress merely to appropriate any requested number of billions of dollars and then go gaily home is not good enough.

Congress may have its faults. But they are the faults of the people. Congress is the people in action. To argue that its presence in Washington would somehow hamper and handicap the preparedness effort seems foolish. We have not yet reached the point which England reached when it turned everything over to Churchill.

Congress is highly valuable. In times like these as a sort of national listening-post and broadcasting station in Washington. Its presence should have a steady influence on the President, a constant reminder that he is responsible to the people, a constant source of strength in the thought that the "other half of the defense team" is still pulling.

A tax bill to take care of increased military expenditures should be passed before congress adjourns. The old political belief always was that levy taxes in an election year was unpopular. This year things are different. The nation is aroused. It may be more unpopular not to levy taxes than to levy them.

The session should not close before definite provisions have been made for the Alaskan and Pan American highways. Both are defense measures that should be pushed forward this summer, not next year. Access to Alaska and the Canal Zone by land will not wait. There are many other vital measures awaiting action.

The European situation cannot be predicted 24 hours in advance. The rise of any morning's sun may look upon some completely unforeseen situation. Congress, direct representative of the people, should be on hand, not at the discretion of the President to recall it, but because, like everybody else these days, it is sticking to its job.

'Belling' the T. B. Germ

May we intrude on the all-engrossing war news for a moment to tell how a man has struck a blow for life, and not for death?

Dr. William C. White and several associates are experimenting with the results of a plan they worked out for getting radioactive phosphorus into tubercle bacilli, the germs of tuberculosis. That makes the germs "visible" to certain electrical tests. And if their course can be followed in the human body, it is hoped that much can be learned about the dread disease. Today such germs, after being injected into an animal, disappear for 14 days, when they show up in little clumps known as tubercles. If their course and activity during those first 14 days could be known, further cures and attacks on the disease might well follow.

Surely it is not impertinent to note that among all the destruction and death, the forces of life too have made some progress.

Taking No Chances

The action of Governor Lehman of New York in placing a 24-hour guard over the state's national guard armories is worthy of attention.

It is true that in New York state, and especially in New York City, the Nazi and Communist groups have been unusually obstreperous. Such extreme vigilance may not be necessary everywhere.

But it would not be a bad time for every national guard officer, non-commissioned officer, and private to scrutinize carefully their own organizations, to make certain that disloyal groups are not using them for their own purposes.

This is no reflection on the national guard or its personnel. In 999 out of 1,000 cases they are loyal to the core. But one rotten apple can spoil a whole barrel of fine fruit, and it is only for the protection of the rest to toss the rotten one out into the gutter.

A 9-weeks-old child turns up with two molars, to the surprise of everybody, and in a few weeks more will probably be endorsing six different brands of tooth paste.

POT SHOTS

WITH The Gentleman in the Third Row

Strange Tale Of the Lady With The Pain

The Pot Shots classroom will now come to order. Please direct your epithets at any target except the teacher. Our lesson for today is The Lady Prisoner Who Sat Down Too Hard, or, The Baneful Osteopath.

For the benefit of all you students, the Pot Shots sleuths have uncovered a few facts from which the class can undoubtedly obtain much edification.

Among the prisoners in the county bastille, known to some of you pupils as the penthouse, to some as the jail and to some as the klink or jug, there happens to be a lady of not unattractive appearance.

This lady lost her footing in the lavatory for feminine customers of the bastille (and/or penthouse, jail, klink, jug).

The lady fell hard against the edge of the bathtub. To be specific, she sat down violently on the edge of the tub. This was very painful, as you students can well imagine.

The lady demanded treatment for the sector in which the pain was paling the most.

Doc Hawkins, the sheriff whose nickname is not an idle gesture, has an osteopath's certificate hanging around someplace.

But Doc, now occupied with other pursuits, was apparently too bashful to respond to the distress call.

The lady survived but still finds occupation of a chair something of a tribulation.

NEW PERIL FOR HEADLIGHT BEAM ON AUTOS: Dear Pat: I am a driver for a large motor freight company. One night last week while coming into Twin Falls from Nevada, I ran into a very strong cross wind. It was such a strong one, I thought you should know about it.

I had been making good time until I left Hogson, and ran into this big blow. But from there on in I could only go about 5 m.p.h. Believe it or not, Pat, the wind was so strong it blew the headlight beams out in the field on the right side of the road so I couldn't see to drive any faster.

P. S.—When I checked in late the boss wouldn't believe this story. Can you imagine that?

WARNING—A HEXER IN OUR MIDDY: Dear Pat Shots: The power of suggestion is very strong—particularly in the "back shop" of the Times-News.

Ever since Lowell Dick landed from Oregon, he's been asking Marge, the blindery girl, if she ever got her finger caught in the electric attcher.

For days, Marge has said "No." in a loud, proud voice. Yesterday morning she DID get it caught, and has a blood blister to prove it.

She accuses Dick of being a "hexer."

Which, of course, adds another title to the little man's collection, what with his U. of Oregon colleagues voting that "most likely to succeed" matter.

—An Evenlimer

MEN FEAR THE SMART DAMES! Dear Sir: Heard this significant comment of interest to the ladies, as I passed a couple of fellows gabbing on the main drag here in Gooding.

Says one to the other: "Yeah, she's beautiful—but darn it, she ain't dumb."

—Estelitta

WHAT! NO GUN? From what Pot Shots understands, the cordial greeting custom of the CCC lads out at Rock creek camp had a couple of deputy sheriffs pretty worried for some 30 seconds the other day.

It seems that when the CCCers are off duty, they flock around any car coming into the camp. Just friendly curiosity, we presume.

But the deputy sheriffs weren't aware of this custom.

So when Claude Wiley and Roy Fuller drove out to the camp to pick up a couple of gents the commander wanted to put temporarily in the county cooler, they were greeted by a solid group of some 100 husky youths.

Not knowing whether there'd been a riot or what, Claude and Roy weren't too cheerful as the huskies surrounded the auto.

Pot Shots is even informed that Roy muttered to Claude: "Doggone—and I haven't got a gun with me!"

The "menace," however, passed without bloodshed.

FAMOUS LAST LINE: "He was feeling fine—until somebody said it was 100 in the shade."

SERIAL STORY

AN EYE FOR A GAL - BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

COPYRIGHT 1940, NEA-SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Hannah argues with Rosy, tries to convince him that Steve is right, it was Steve who spied on the Tollivers, Rosy leaves her, knowing that she came home to see Steve. He wishes to town, and Judge Leverage about the land.

CHAPTER VIII

OLD Jesse Leverage blinked at Rosy McAfee. The ancient man rose and switched on the light. There was a TVA power line in Hell'n-Damnation now, lighting the world. He groined in an old secretary and came forth with a packet of yellowed papers.

He mumbled, "Seems like I made copies of all the papers, on account your pappy was a friend of mine, and I kind of had some funny notions about that deal myself." He sat down at the table again and with shaky hands untied the pack. He looked through some of them while Rosy looked through the rest.

"That's the conveyance," Leverage said, and spreading it on the table, he read it. "Um-mmm, I said then he was in good law, and I say again it's still in good law. This original was the handwrite of your paw, Rosy. I'd take my oath on that. It gave to your cousin Steve the land and timber on Wild Cat Ridge. Um-mmm. That was enduring of the time when your folks was having trouble with the Tollivers over that land line. Something about hogs getting over into the Tolliver crops. They was fixing to shoot it out or law it out. Let me see. Just let me see-a-ee." He scratched his head. Finally he shook his head. He got up again and searched for something else.

Judge Jesse came back with a memo book, worn and dogeared. He leafed through it. He made a sound as he discovered a date.

"That's right. Them Tollivers was to see me about the law in that case June 10th of that there same year. I told 'em, I recollect, if they could prove their damages, they could collect. I didn't want no trouble. No more feudin'. I ast 'em to be patient, that your paw was my friend, and I knowed he would do the right thing about it.

"Well, I named it to your pappy soon as I seen him, and he was agreeable. He would settle out of court if they'd agree to arbitrate the dispute and get three disinterested parties to appraise the damages. Well, I thought I had it all hog-tied and ready for settlement when the next time them Tollivers appeared they was hell-bent on lawing and killing, too. I told your paw that. That was going on toward July, I recollect.

"The next thing your paw done was to come in and sat me to fix up these here papers. So the land the Tollivers stout of mind claim to become Steve's now—he was the boy's guardian—and right after that, inside a week, I reckon, your pappy was killed in the same, and then Steve he put in his claim, and he had the papers, and all I could do was what I done—I told your mammy the land wasn't her'n, not your'n, but the Hogs'. And that's the way it's been from that good day, son!"

Rosy made to rise. "Thankee, Uncle Jesse. I think I got what I wanted to know."

ROSSY went out and stood in the night. He hadn't known there was sweat on his face until the cold wind touched his brow. It came to him with terrific completeness that his father had really transferred the property to protect himself, knowing by that dodge he could outplay the grasping Tollivers. They would gnash their teeth in defeat and take a reasonable settlement. Later, Rosy's father planned to take back the land. That had all been worked out between him and the Hogs, at that time close to the family.

But no one could foresee the events of the Fourth of July, and after that, all Steve would have to do was make his claim and possess the property.

"That's what he done! Now he thinks because I'm in college I'm going to learn too much, get too smart, and he has to timber off the stuff and sell it to clean up while he can. Afterward, in case I got it back, would could I do about it, anyhow? The dirty scoundrel! The low-down thief!"

He moved off swiftly again, and when back up the mountain, he came to the place where, after the game that day, he had knelt in the bushes, prayed as he had seen hill preachers pray, and told God he was going to kill the man who did this to his father.

He stopped there at the spot, and a sense of strangeness possessed him. He seemed to be alone, but there was the ghost of his father.

"Do I have to kill a man, after all? Not any Tolliver, but one of my own kin—Steve Hogg? Looks to me like I'm looking for the wrong eye and tooth. Not in the head of my enemy, but in my kinfolks!"

Abruptly he started away, not toward home, but toward the cabin where Steve Hogg lived.

ROSSY had not gone far before he was stopped by the sound of voices somewhere down the path from him. He knew Hannah's very well. It was one of those penetrating voices that carry a long way, and when pitched in singer go even farther. The other voice was lower, a man's. It took Rosy some while to conclude it was Steve Hogg's. Moving closer, he paused and listened.

"Well, all I got to say, Steve, is you'd better look out for Rosy McAfee! The first thing you know he's going to find something, and then it's going to be trouble!"

"Yes, and you'd better be looking out for him, too! How come you got to go back to Lincoln? What's the idea in all that, anyhow?"

"I am to get me an education or bust."

"An education! And what'll you do after you get one, in case you don't bust first?"

"Well, one thing certain, I won't marry you then, Steve!"

"Yes, and another thing certain if you got wit enough to get a college education, which I doubt, I wouldn't have you on a Christmas tree. Me, my wife's got to be ignorant."

"It would take that kind to be fool enough to marry you!"

The two passed, while Rosy withdrew in the bushes, watching. So, after all, Hannah had been going to see Cousin Steve. It must have been important. The hunger for murder had gone out of him. But he did have to get back to Lincoln as quickly as possible and see if he could get a lawyer to tend to this land matter. It was not clear in his mind what would have to be done. But Steve could not have his land. Steve could have Hannah, but nothing else.

A LONG time before day on Monday morning he was up, had breakfast by lamplight, and rode through an icy dawn down the valley. The week-end had cheered him. He wanted to get back to college.

Yet, when he finally reached the bus station on the main highway, he found Hannah there, too.

It was their misfortune to have to take the last two empty seats, and all the way down to Lincoln campus they sparred and chewed the rag, always just ready to take a slash at each other's throats. That trip wore Rosy to the bone. He was never so glad of anything in his life as when the town loomed up, and he saw the bus stationed at the corner of the campus, and felt the bus slow for the stop.

Coach Hud stepped up to meet Rosy. He nudged and grinned at Hannah. He took Rosy aside.

"I've got to see you right away, McAfee. Something's come up—something mighty important that can mean the biggest thing in your life. Come on over to the gym and I'll tell you all about it."

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 13—Unless the United States soon prepares and puts into operation a broad-gauge program for new world defense and economic cooperation, the republic of Cuba will presently be wholly dominated by Fascist-Nazi interests bitterly opposed to everything the United States stands for.

This, at any rate, is the warning given by a distinguished Cuban scientist who is now visiting in Washington. Since he is about to return to Cuba, he asked that his name not be used. He is, however, a man of standing who is in an excellent position to know what he is talking about.

His size-up of the Cuban picture—which has been brought to the attention of government officials here—is of interest not only because of Cuba's nearness to the United States, but also because, to a certain extent, what is going on in Cuba is symptomatic of many other Latin-American nations.

SPANISH FAMILIES PRO-FASCIST According to this source, then, here is the picture: All of the old conservative, Spanish-descent families in Cuba are deeply Fascist and anti-American in spirit. Their link with the overseas dictatorships is principally through the Spanish Phalange and General Franco; the Phalange itself is very strong in Cuba.

General Batista, the boss-man in Cuba, wants to solidify his own personal power and does not bother much about any ideologies. A few years ago he was playing ball with the Fascist groups; when the U. S. state department frowned he swung more to the left, and today draws support both from liberals and conservatives. In the end, he is likely to string along with whatever side looks like the winner, be it American democracy or European totalitarianism.

But if there is a strong anti-democratic, pro-Fascist bias among the conservative and wealthy classes, among the masses there is a liberal tradition dating back to the long struggle for independence which is still a power. This tradition could be made dominant, and Cuba could be cemented solidly into the new world democratic bloc—if the right stimulus came from Washington.

MILITARY MISSION FIRST STEP What should that stimulus be? According to this Cuban, it should begin with the dispatch of a high-power U. S. military and naval mission to Cuba to reorganize the Cuban defense system. Immediately following this there should be an economic mission to reorganize the country's economy. By trying both moves in together, he believes, overwhelming popular support could be gained—particularly if at the same time Batista could be persuaded to clean house politically, throw a few grafters and extremists in jail, and demonstrate to all Cubans that politics would be honest henceforth.

"This would be intervention, of course," says this Cuban scientist. "But it would be intervention in the interests of the people of Cuba, and they would recognize it as such. It would be an intervention of democratic diplomacy instead of dollar diplomacy.

"If something of this sort is not done soon, Cuba will drift into the Fascist camp."

JOBS for JUNE Graduates

By F. M. STAVELY Director of Personnel, the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

Frequently young people fail to secure employment for two reasons. First, they have no definite objective in mind, and second, they do not present their experience and qualifications to the best advantage.

It is very difficult for an employer to become enthused about a young man's prospects when he is uncertain about what he wants to do. On the other hand, if the applicant has attended salesmanship and during his summer vacations has clerked in a store, or done house to house canvassing, or sold magazines, and is definite in his desire to get into sales work, the employer obtains a much more favorable impression.

The young man who sits across the desk from you and in an eager and earnest manner endeavors to persuade you of his capacity to do a given job, arouses a definite interest and makes the most favorable impression. While the young man who is indecisive and does not contain either give one the impression that he wants to do a certain thing creates an unfavorable impression on the employer.

Personal appearance, conduct and poise are important factors in evaluating applicants for jobs. Carelessness in appearance at the time of the interview indicates a lack of respect for the job in question and creates an impression of indifference.

The young man who earned a substantial portion of his expenses in school or who has used his summers constructively to equip himself with some type of experience in his chosen field has a distinct advantage over those who used this time only as a vacation period.

Some young men do not get jobs because they give one the impression that they are just shopping around, rather than trying to find the type of business in which they can build a career.

For example, a young man may be too much concerned about small initial differences in starting salary. He inquires about such things as retirement plans rather than endeavoring to impress upon the employer that he has the industriousness and the capacity for hard work that is so necessary for future success.

Some fail to obtain jobs when they make written applications, because of their carelessness in properly filling out the application form. The application form is an invita-

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

F. Van Wyck Mason has three stories to tell in "Stars on the Sea" (Lippincott; $2.75)—the story of Tim Bennett, son of a New England trader who wanted to be a privateer; the story of Desire Harmony Bennett, his sister, to whom war and love brought a succession of tragic misadventures; and the story of the beginning of the American navy.

Only a skillful author could tackle this assignment and produce a readable, integrated account of the Revolutionary war on the sea.

While Tim Bennett's adventures occupy the greater part of the novel, and the birth of the navy supplies historical background, it is the tragedy of Desire Harmony Bennett that holds the reader.

Desire was the daughter of a stern Quaker shipowner; she loved a British naval officer, found him dead after redcoats railed and burned her home. Miss in shame and fear from her own people, Desire lives briefly with Nat Coffin, an American officer, later moves into the south with a roving Shakespearean actor. The actor murdered, she finds friends in Charleston—which provides opportunity for description of the slope of the city—almost meets Nat Coffin again. Her brother's friend, a rough backwoodsman, marries her and she finds final release in the hills of Kentucky.

Tim's story is simpler. He deserted the army, accompanied the first U. S. Marines in the attack on the Bahamas, gets his privateer and promptly loses it. But he comes home at last, disappointed in one love affair, to find his first sweetheart waiting and promise of a future as a naval officer.

Don't get the impression that Mason's novel is a series of disconnected histories. It is not. Rather, it is an intensely interesting account of an almost untouched portion of colonial history.

tation to the prospective employer to sell himself to employer. If he is careless about any information regarding his education, business experience, etc., he handicaps himself by making an unsatisfactory first impression. Carelessness in spelling, grammar and clarity are often present in the written application of those who do not get jobs.

Many employers request a photograph of the applicant to be attached to the written application. Here again the job applicant often does himself an injustice. He will send only a snapshot or attach a cheap, hastily taken picture that offends him as little resemblance and never does him justice.

In these small but nevertheless important ways too many young men seeking work fail to create the best possible impression. In these days of keen competition for employment, they should not overlook any opportunity, however slight, to sell themselves to a prospective employer.

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

DEWEY OUSTS NEW YORK COMMITTEEMAN IN SHOWDOWN

WILLKIE SPRINTS INTO SECOND IN GALLUP SURVEYS

By LYLE C. WILSON
 WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Campaigns of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie for Republican presidential nomination are moving today under impulse of good pre-convention breaks.

Dewey forces ousted Kenneth L. Simpson as New York Republican national committeeman in a showdown fight in which defeat would have darkly clouded the district attorney's prospects. Simpson is leader of the stop-Dewey movement.

Willkie Second
 Willkie sprang into second place in the Gallup poll of G. O. P. presidential sentiment. In a National Press club speaking appearance here he placed before scores of political writers a program designed to offset charges that he would be merely a big business candidate if he got the nomination.

Dewey's organization ousted Simpson by a vote of 55 to 37 at an Albany meeting of the New York Republican national convention delegation. The victory strengthens Dewey's position in and out of his own state but it falls far short of assuring him the 92 New York votes Simpson is expected to hold some or all of his 20-odd delegates away from Dewey from the outset.

Gallup poll returns showing Willkie risen from fourth place and a three per cent rating a month ago to second place and 17 per cent. Some are for Willkie—and his following includes a notable name or two in congress—but others are divided among those who determine object of his seeking the nomination at all and those who are maturing to themselves that anything might happen and that perhaps they should look the New York business man over.

He told press conference questions here that he could have up to 70 first ballot convention votes. He is counting now on first or early support from Missouri, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Utah, Indiana, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Iowa, and possibly Florida. Some of those states have favorite son candidates and would not be expected to aid Willkie over their own favorites were out of the running.

Business as Asset
 Willkie told questioners here he felt that his business connection would be a campaign asset because of what he interprets as a trend toward competence in government. He generally related he contributed $150 to the Roosevelt campaign in 1932 but switched to support Alf M. Landon for President in 1938. He said he never had contributed directly or indirectly to the American Liberty league which was organized in 1938 to stop the New Deal.

He said the prime campaign issues were:
 Inability of the New Deal to build for national defense.
 The necessity to start the flow of private capital into plant replacement to shift men from relief rolls to pay rolls.

WOODEN NICKELS TO BOOST BIG JUBILEE

They won't look like nickels, dimes and quarters—but they'll be as good as gold in Twin Falls.

Plans for "wooden nickels," special Magic City jubilee booster currency, were completed today by Junior Chamber of Commerce committeemen in charge. Presses were ready to roll in producing the jubilee currency as soon as the supply of thin-wooden slabs arrives, probably this afternoon or Friday.

It's Spendable
 The wooden nickels will be distributed to merchants as part of the July 3-5 celebration, but will be passed out in advance of the big festival, probably Saturday or Monday. The currency—in denominations of one, two and five nickels—will be passed out as change by the merchants and in turn can be spent anywhere in the city as "regular" money until the redemption date July 3, according to F. P. Gorman, jubilee pageant director, and John B. Robertson, general chairman.

Good Souvenirs
 The thin "wafers" of wood will carry printing to boost the Magic City jubilee. Hundreds of the nickels will probably be sent away as souvenirs by residents of Twin Falls.

"Wooden nickels in denomination of one, two and five will be distributed to merchants and all business places in the city," Robertson said. "The merchants will give them as a part of the change due from various purchases and they may also be spent at any place in the city at face value."

"In addition they may be retained as souvenirs and can also be mailed to friends residing in other communities."

GOODING, June 13 (Special)—Baptist church held a children's program Sunday evening as the culmination of daily vacation Bible school. A pageant, "The Children of the Bible," was given under direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Grifhorst. Piano accompaniment was played by John Alexander. Special songs and recitations preceded the pageant. Rev. C. H. Northrop presided. Attendance awards; more than fifty children completed the full amount of work given. The average daily attendance was 70.

Six teachers in charge of the school teaching handwork, Bible lessons, temperance, and games as well as preparing for the pageant were Ada Mae Harms, John Alexander, Lorene Adams, Mrs. R. W. Day, and Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Northrop.

Friday afternoon the children enjoyed a picnic at the city park.

Chaplin Wins Court Order Against Life

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Charles Chaplin today had won an injunction in federal court restraining Life magazine from distributing its next issue shortly after he had filed a $1,000,000 damage suit against the magazine for printing a full-page picture of himself in his newest film "The Dictator."

Federal Judge John C. Knox ruled the injunction would not apply to 1,000,000 copies of Life which already have been distributed to news-dealers dated June 17 for sale Friday. But he held the magazine company could not release an additional 1,200,000 copies now in its possession.

Chaplin in his complaint stated that advanced publication of the picture would damage prospective profits.

Irrigation Fight Ends in Shooting

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., June 13 (AP)—An argument of years' standing over use of an irrigation ditch had ended here today in the death of Nick Konen, 50, who shot himself through the head after seriously wounding a neighbor, Joseph A. Parr.

Parr was in critical condition in a local hospital.

The shooting occurred on Parr's farm near Osgood. Officers said the pair became involved in a heated debate over the course of an irrigation ditch and Konen fired at Parr and then shot himself.

Bott on Franklin Pioneer Program

FRANKLIN, Ida., June 13 (AP)—Residents of this southern Idaho town were preparing today for the annual Idaho Pioneer day celebration to be held here Saturday.

Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen and a member of the Latter Day Saints church first presidency will speak. The date, a legal holiday in the state, is in celebration of the arrival of a party of 13 Mormon pioneer families that arrived here on June 15, 1860, to establish the first permanent white settlement in southern Idaho.

Auxiliary Elects Staff at Shoshone

SHOSHONE, June 13 (Special)—The American Legion auxiliary held the annual election at the Legion hall Monday night with Miss Graye Pease elected president; Mrs. Ross Borden, first vice-president; Mrs. Frank Clem, second vice-president; Mrs. Harry Stoner, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. E. Vredenburg, historian; Mrs. Alice Swope, chaplain, and Mrs. L. N. Erpolding, sergeant-at-arms.

The nominating committee was Mrs. Frank Kelley, Mrs. Carrie Wilken and Mrs. J. J. Lockie. Reports of the year's work were given by the various committee chairmen. Because of the state convention being held in the northern part of the state the auxiliary voted not to send a delegate to the convention this year.

After the business session Mrs. Frank Clem, program chairman, had charge, the theme being on the correct use of the flag, in keeping with flag day proclamation of the governor. This will be the last meeting until next September.

HOLDHUSEN HURLS WAY TO 8-4 WIN

Pitcher Stars As Wranglers Even up Series

POCATELLO, June 13 (Special)—The Twin Falls Cowboys beat Pocatello last night behind the seven-hit hurling of Stu Holdhusen to even the series here. Tonight the Twin Falls club will probably send Damon Hayes out to the mound for the last of the three-game series.

Holdhusen went the route last night. While he was yielding seven hits to the Cards, Cowboy batsmen pounded out nine safeties off two local pitchers. Just to complete the picture, Holdhusen smashed out a double, driving in a pair of tallies.

Hurls and Hits

Stu Holdhusen hurled and hit the Cowboys to an 8 to 4 win over Pocatello. He struck out nine and gave up seven hits. At the plate Stu connected for a double, driving in two tallies.

Pocatello started out just as though the local club was a cinch to win. The Cards chalked up two runs in the first two frames and then rested for a few innings. The visitors failed to score until the fifth inning when a lone tally was made.

Score 5 Runs
Then in the sixth the Cowboys went berserk with a five-run spree to sew up the game. Later the same inning the Pocatello outfit scored a pair of runs, and then were held scoreless the remaining three innings while the Wranglers went ahead to push two more runs across the plate in the ninth canto.

Canavan Hurt
Manager Frank Tobin's club played without the services of its first baseman, Tommy Canavan, who is on the injured list with a bad ankle. Endress played Canavan's corner while Al March held down third.

Errors were plentiful as the Cards had six misplays chalked against them, half committed by Barney Bridgers, shortstop. Twin Falls men made three errors.

Bishop Leads
Bishop was leading hitter with two safeties for four times at bat for a neat .500 batting clip. Wake gleaned two hits in five trips to score two runs. Endress and Randall hung up doubles for the Cowboys.

After tonight's contest here, the Cowboys will move to Idaho Falls for a three game series Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the Russets. The Idaho Falls club downed the Bees 5 to 3 last night to remain just a half game ahead of the cellar-dwelling Cowboys.

Bees Drop Decision To Russets
The league-leading Salt Lake Bees dropped a 5 to 3 game to the Idaho Falls Russets last night.

It gave each team one game of the series and gives the Russets a chance to deal the Bees their third series defeat of the season when the two meet tonight.

Two runs in the third and a circuit run by Oldenberg with one on in the fourth sent Mel Ristau to the showers, and Nig Tate held the Russets to one more for rest of the game. Al Emmertson, a Salt Lake boy, gave the Bees eight hits but managed to win over six-hit pitching by Ristau and Tate.

The Boise Pilots moved up to three games behind Salt Lake with an 8 to 1 victory over the Ogden Reds. The Pilots bunched runs in the fourth and eighth, as Cook held the Reds to five hits, while his mates garnered nine off Ford and Heine.

The Twin Falls Cowboys beat the Pocatello Cards 8 to 4. Archuleta started the Cards scoring with a homer in the first, but the Cowboys bunched five in the sixth and two in the eighth to clinch a victory. The Cards took seven hits off Holdhusen, while Archuleta allowed Twin Falls nine bingles.

Dodgers Pay Cards $250,000 for Joe Medwick, Curt Davis in Baseball's Biggest Deal

JOE MEDWICK

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—The balance of power in the National League today swung to Brooklyn with a $250,000 deal—the biggest in baseball history—which brought Outfielder Joe Medwick and Pitcher Curt Davis from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Dodgers.

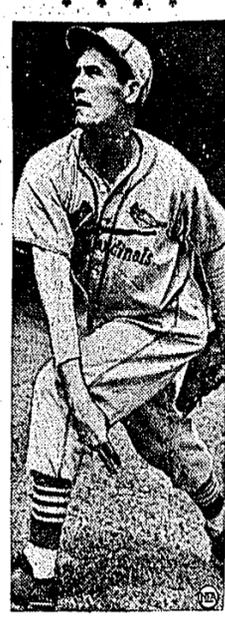

The deal, engineered by President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers and President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals last night in St. Louis, sent three Brooklyn minor league players—Pitchers Carl Doyle and Sam Nahem and Infielder Bert Haas—with alternate Outfielder Ernie Koy to the Cards for Medwick and Davis. The Cards also received the reported sum of $250,000.

From whatever angle the deal was considered, Brooklyn gained. With a daily outfield gap to plug and a pitching staff generally upset by injuries, Manager Leo Durocher today brings his team back home in first place, .017 percentage points ahead of the Cincinnati Reds.

The addition of Medwick should, from all indications, strengthen Brooklyn immeasurably. Batting champion and adjudged the most valuable player in the National league in 1937, Medwick brings a .304 batting average to Brooklyn.

Davis is the "dark horse" of the deal. A 22-game winner for the Cards last year, he has been unable either to win or finish a game in seven starts this year. If he should regain his former effectiveness, he will round out a pitching staff, weakened by the sore arm of Hugh Casey, now in Baltimore for treatment.

St. Louis fans, already soured on the playing of their team may have more reason for displeasure with the latest Cardinal gesture. Koy, now hitting .339, is the only player who may help the Cards. Haas and Nahem are both in the minor leagues and Doyle should be.

Coast Wins Most Bids To NCAA Meet

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—The far west scored its first victory of the national collegiate track and field championships today by landing 31 of 90 invitations issued by the N.C.A.A. to "superior performers of 1040."

Each invitation carries with it a check to cover a major portion of the athletes' expenses to the N. C. A. A. games in Minneapolis next week-end.

More than 100 other stars will be on hand at expense of their respective schools, completing one of the finest fields in years. The field is so strong that 11 of the 14 records on the books are endangered.

Once more the Pacific Coast conference led the way with 31 invitations. The Big Ten had 13 and the rest were scattered over 14 states.

Southern California's defending champions led all schools with nine men.

Donovan Hit For Article On Big Bout

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Manager Al Weill demanded today the boxing commission refrain from appointing Arthur Donovan as referee for the Louis-Godoy championship fight a week from tonight, because the Donovan already has "voted in print" against Challenger Godoy.

Weill charged Donovan "passed judgment" on the fight in an article appearing under his name in this week's issue of a national magazine. Weill took this action because it seemed virtually certain Donovan would officiate. Donovan refereed all 14 of Joe Louis' previous New York fights and one in Cleveland. In the first Louis-Godoy tilt on Feb. 9, Donovan gave Louis 10 rounds and Godoy four. One of the two judges gave the fight to Godoy by a wide margin.

Weill and Godoy are particularly incensed at conclusion of Donovan's article which emphasized Louis can cut loose against Godoy this time "and win," since the champion probably will retire after the battle and hence need have no fear of injuring his hands.

SERIES IN WEST MAY DECIDE AMERICAN RACE

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—American league pennants are won in the west. Seventeen out of the last 20 American league winners have been eastern clubs and the hall-mark of all these champions was the fact that they got fat on western junkies.

So beginning tomorrow watch the progress of the Red Sox and Yankees through the western end of the circuit for the tipoff on which club is likely to win the American league pennant. Or if both clubs should falter, then the way will be left open for either Cleveland or Detroit to step up as a serious challenger.

Yanks Win Again
During the eastern invasion just ended by the western clubs, the Yanks showed some signs of making progress by winning 8 out of 12 with half of the victories over the Browns. The Red Sox had a home stand, losing six and winning five.

But just before leaving home to open in Chicago tomorrow the Red Sox came to life and clouted out two victories over the Indians. They trimmed Bob Feller Tuesday and yesterday knocked out Al Milnar to beat the tribe, 9-5.

Washington snapped the Browns' 5-game winning streak when Ken Chase outdueled Eldon Auker for a 3-2 triumph.

Both national league games played were night games. Paul Derringer won his fifth straight and sixth of the year when he hurled the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-1 win over the Philadelphia Phillies before 17,289.

Five-hit relief pitching by Whit Wyatt enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to whip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-4 before 20,179.

Helen Jacobs in Tournament Lead

Haverford, Penn., June 13 (AP)—Helen Jacobs, former national and Wimbledon champion, led the field into the quarter-finals today in the Pennsylvania and eastern states women's tennis tournament following the upset elimination of second-seeded Sylvia Henrotin of France.

Mme. Henrotin was defeated by Barbara Stroth of Merion, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.
Miss Jacobs defeated Anne Parry of Germantown, 6-0, 6-0.

Coast Coaches Interpret National Football Rules

SUN VALLEY, June 13 (AP)—Interpretation and application of national football regulations today drew the attention of Pacific Coast conference football coaches at their semi-annual meeting here.

Wherever necessary to improve the standard of the game on the coast, the grid mentors indicated they would place more emphasis on certain parts of the national code. The regional interpretation of rules brought approval of a new section which made the penalty for roughing the kicker more severe in the conference than nationally.

Uniforms Banned
Because of their poor visibility, silver and white uniforms were banned for night games.
Coaches of two major non-conference schools, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara university and Red Strader of St. Mary's, sat in on the coaches' private meeting and agreed to abide by all rules adopted by the league.

Running Shifts
The coaches reaffirmed previous action barring running shifts of linemen on the line of scrimmage. The 1942 grid schedule continued to tie up graduate managers at their meeting. The slate will be used as a pattern for schedules from 1942 to 1945 and will include Montana and Idaho on a round-robin basis.

The faculty group considered raising the 50-cent per hour maximum pay for athletes employed on the campus and continued study of a proposal to limit freshman sports to intra-squad play.

Athletes Empowered
They also gave Commissioner Edwin N. Atherton authority to do "whatever is reasonably necessary to proper performance of his duties."

There are 2500 square feet of glass in the 2000 portholes on the liner Queen Mary.
