FDR MOVE WOULD FORM COALITION CABINET IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt today moved to form a coalition cabinet nominating two leading Republicans—Frank Knox of Chicago and Henry I. Stimson of New York to the navy and war posts in his cabinet. The White House announced that Secretary of War Harry Woodring has tendered his resignation and will be succeeded by Stimson, who served as secretary of state and secretary of war during separate Republican administrations. Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for the vice-presidency in 1928. Knox succeeds Secretary of Navy Charles Edison who has resigned effective June 24 to seek the governorship of New Jersey. Woodring, in tendering a letter of resignation to the President, asked that it be made effective immediately. White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said Woodring's withdrawal from the cabinet will become effective at the moment when the senate confirms Stimson as his successor.

Reasons Listed Woodring's letter of resignation, Early said, listed many personal reasons for his withdrawal from the cabinet. The reasons, said Early, were so personal that this letter will not be made public. Edison has been preparing to step out of the cabinet for several weeks. His withdrawal was occasioned by his decision to seek election as governor of New Jersey and was announced after he won, without opposition, the Democratic nomination for that post. The stunning action by the President—shattering political precedents—came on the eve of the formal opening of the GOP national convention in Philadelphia, where Republican leaders even now are seeking to draft a platform criticizing Mr. Roosevelt's conduct of the preparedness program.

The nomination of Knox had been rumored for some time, but inclusion of Stimson in the cabinet came as a surprise. Stimson served as secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet and as secretary of war under President William Howard Taft. Support FDR Policy Both Knox and Stimson have supported most aspects of the President's foreign policy. Stimson, as secretary of state, laid down the American policy of non-recognition of territorial conquests by force in connection with Japan's conquest of Manchukuo in 1931.

Knox recently fostered, with the President's approval, a program to popularize aviation training among American youths. The plan is part of the larger administration program to train some 50,000 civilian pilots during the coming fiscal year. The nominations astounded members of the senate, where a majority vote confirming them is necessary to put the coalition cabinet into operation. Students of government said, pending a search of records, that action was unparalleled in this country. The President submitted the two Republican nominations without comment. He previously had indicated he had no immediate intentions of forming a coalition cabinet, despite frequent consultations at the White House with Knox.

RANCHER KILLED BY HAY DERRICK

JEROME, June 20 (Special)—With three of his sons as witnesses to the accident, Carl M. Nutsch, 45, sustained a fatal blow to the head on a farm near Jerome this morning. A guy wire broke on a heavily-laden derrick at Mr. Nutsch's stacking hay. The derrick swung with a force that crushed his skull. He was working on the farm of his brother, Raymond Nutsch, three miles south and one mile east of Jerome. Witnesses to the tragedy placed the victim in a truck and rushed him toward Jerome, but he died en route. Present when Mr. Nutsch was struck were the son, Edwin, in his teens; his younger twin sons; his brother, Raymond, and Darrell Danling. Mr. Nutsch lived on a farm near Jerome. He was born Sept. 21, 1894. The body rests at the Jerome funeral home.

PHONE WORKERS ELECT SALT LAKE CITY, June 20 (U.P.)—Paul E. Griffith, of Chicago, Ill., was re-elected president of the national federation of telephone workers at a convention session which lasted until late last night.

Forget War—Let's Lick the Heat!

With thermometers climbing to 104 degrees in the shade yesterday to equal the all-time June high in Twin Falls, what to do about the heat became topic No. 1 in this area. The Evening Times roving cameraman came back with these suggestions. Top, pretty Billie Kaufman, 17, Twin Falls, offers you one proposal by way of a bathing suit, a refrigerator, an electric fan, a cold drink and an ice cream cone. Below, Leah Rae Hunter, 3 1/2, Twin Falls, shows you something more practical. (Times Photos and Engravings)

HEAT MODERATES AFTER EQUALLING JUNE RECORD

With yesterday's high temperature of 104 above equalling the all-time June record for Twin Falls, the mercury today apparently was destined to remain in "more respectable" altitudes as the official reading at 1 p. m. showed 89 degrees. The high yesterday equaled the 104 which was recorded in June of 1928. Records at the bureau of entomology show that the next greatest temperature recorded in Twin Falls during any June month came in 1910, and was 100 above. Records have been kept here since 1906. Long Stretch During the past eight days (including Wednesday) the mercury has reached 92 or better as a maximum. On June 17 it hit 100, on June 18 an even 102 above was officially recorded and yesterday the all-time record was equalled.

BRITAIN RAIDED BY NAZI PLANES; RAF RETALIATES

LONDON, June 20 (U.P.)—More than 100 German planes raided Britain last night as the royal air force struck back fiercely with bombing attacks deep into German territory. The German attack on Britain was the second on successive nights. German planes bombed parts of England, Wales and Scotland. An authoritative source said "considerably more" than 100 German planes carried out the attack. Three German bombers were brought down by RAF fighters, another was believed to have been destroyed by anti-aircraft fire and several more were believed damaged badly. "Large numbers of bombs," it was said, "were dropped in various parts of the country. It was the biggest raid yet." Visibility last night, it was said, was poorer than on the previous night, a factor that aided the German bombers in avoiding interception. The raiders concentrated to a greater extent on industrial areas, it was said. Buildings Damaged "Some damage was done to certain industrial factory buildings," it was said, "but considering the great number of bombs dropped the damage was slight." At least six persons were killed and 60 wounded. The British blackout, it was said, was exceedingly effective and proved of great assistance in thwarting the bombers. British Retaliate British air attacks on German airfields in France were said to have "proved very successful." The air ministry reported that during the daylight attack on German air fields in France yesterday 35 German planes were attacked at the Rouen aerodrome. Several German planes burst into flames and direct hits were scored on the hangars. In the late evening two strong attacks were made on the Amiens airport, destroying 13 planes and three hangars, the air ministry said.

FLAMES CHECKED IN YELLOWSTONE

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., June 20 (U.P.)—The Chipmunk creek forest fire in Yellowstone national park, most severe in many years, was being checked at some points today, Chief Ranger Francis Lanoue reported. Fifteen hundred to 2,000 acres of valuable timberland in the remote southeastern section of the park have been swept by the blaze. After an aerial survey of the situation early today, Lanoue began organizing camps of 100 men each along the fire front. He expected to have 400 men on the fire line tonight. Three hundred thirteen CCC enrollees from Teton, Rocky Mountain and Glacier national parks and regional officers from San Francisco and Omaha are cooperating in attempts to control the blaze. A small amount of rainfall last night had little effect on the fire. Local thunderstorms and gusty winds were forecast for this afternoon. All available boats on Yellowstone lake were in fire service, rushing men and supplies to the scene. Airplanes were used to transport supplies when wind conditions permitted. The Chipmunk creek fire was one of four started by lightning in the park during the past two days. Skeleton crews had little difficulty in controlling the others near White Lake, Soda Butte and Fire Hole cascade.

GERMANS LAUNCH BORDEAUX RAIDS

BORDEAUX, June 20 (U.P.)—Casualties in last night's German air raids in Bordeaux were placed today at more than 100. At least 150 bombs exploded in the city and a score more were found unexploded. In two raids the Germans bombed Bordeaux and the docks of the Gironde river. (Rome announced Italian planes participated.) Destruction and casualties had been exceeded only by the raid on Paris June 3, when 254 persons were killed and 852 wounded according to official announcement. In the first raid, 100 German bombing planes dropped more than 100 demolition and incendiary bombs on the city and hundreds more on nearby airports and docks. In the second raid, the Germans were driven off by combat planes and land defense batteries without serious damage. Bombs in the first raid fell over a 50-mile radius. As in the Nanterre school shelter during the Paris raid, a bomb made a direct hit on an open shelter trench in a public square causing several casualties. More than 50 residential structures were destroyed. German bomber plane bases are now so close to the emergency capital that the first bombs dropped before air raid precautions men had finished sending their three minute warning, after receiving reports the raiders were approaching. Shipping in the Gironde was a special target. It was forecast the bombings of Bordeaux had only begun but nevertheless the people of the city went about their work as usual and there was panic only among the refugees from the north.

Battle May Continue if Petain Accepts Hitler's Terms for an Armistice

Petaun Declares France Beaten; Asks Calmness

BORDEAUX, June 20 (U.P.)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain appealed today to the French nation to await with calmness Germany's terms for an armistice and said French emissaries departed yesterday to receive them. Petain, speaking by radio to the people of France, declared France had been defeated. He said France had had too few allies, too few arms and too few men to resist Germany. Since the victory of the World War, he told his people, the spirit of sacrifice has been absent from France. This, too, he said, played a part in the defeat. He told his listeners that the French plenipotentiaries left here yesterday to meet with German negotiators and receive the terms upon which Chancellor Adolf Hitler will permit fighting to cease. "These terms, he said, must be awaited with calmness. "I have asked our adversaries to end hostilities," the marshal who had stopped the Germans at Verdun in 1916 declared. "Yesterday the government named the plenipotentiaries charged with the mission of receiving their conditions." He said the decision had been a hard one but that the military situation had admitted of no other. Gen. Maxime Weygand, he said, had hoped to stop the German advance on the line of the Aisne. "His name alone bespoke victory," Petain said. But the line—despite the regrouping of armies ordered by Weygand—could not resist the German pressure.

French Fleet Still Active

LONDON, June 20 (U.P.)—A refugee French government may be formed outside France to carry on the war with the French air force, navy and colonial resources even if the Petain government accepts peace on Adolf Hitler's terms, it was reported today. Any such government would assume power on the assertion that Marshal Philippe Petain's "peace" cabinet had never been given a vote of confidence by the French parliament. The view was taken here that not only important elements in France proper, but most of the French colonies, favor continuing the war and would endorse the action of any government which was formed in opposition to Petain's. However, spokesmen for Petain had said he would accept only an honorable peace and the situation on French-German negotiations remained unclear. French spokesmen said at Bordeaux the French fleet continued in full activity, coordinated with the British fleet, and French airplanes were flying south throughout the day away from the battle zone "to establish new bases."

FRENCH RECEIVE ARMISTICE TERMS

BORDEAUX, June 20 (U.P.)—French plenipotentiaries received Adolf Hitler's armistice terms from German plenipotentiaries this afternoon. It was announced officially the French delegates had established contact with the Germans to receive the armistice conditions at a place within five hours by automobile of the seat of the French government. The French government, however, left Bordeaux today for Biarritz, near the Spanish frontier, it was believed. There were reports, however, that the cabinet would merely pause at Biarritz and then go on to Algeria. These reports were not officially confirmed. (In Berlin newspapers forecast that every French soldier, aviator, airplane, sailor and warship would have to be surrendered to the Germans. They said no French military unit would be allowed to continue fighting and one, Nachtausgabe, said "the hour for pity in Europe is past.") (Radio Rome said all French warships had been ordered to report to French ports for instructions.)

RECEPTION ORDERED

BERLIN, June 20 (U.P.)—The German high command today issued orders for reception of four French plenipotentiaries appointed to receive German armistice conditions. (Continued on Page 3, Column 3) ACTRESS WINS DIVORCE HOLLYWOOD, June 20 (U.P.)—Gloria Dickson, former Pocatello, Ida., girl, of the films today won a divorce from movie makeup man Perc Westmore on cruelty charges by testifying he "worried" her by constantly keeping check on her activities.

Late FLASHES

WASHINGTON, June 20 (U.P.)—The senate today approved the supplemental $1,777,459,768 army and navy appropriations bill containing funds for additional expansion of the armed forces, and sped it back to the house for final action. LONDON, June 20 (U.P.)—A French radio communique said today the Germans had occupied the great eastern industrial city of Lyon, center of the country's silk and artificial silk industries. The admiralty announced also the British naval trawler Juniper was overdue and must be considered lost.

Expert Declares Hitler Fears Reprisal If Nazis Bomb British Civilian Areas

By J. W. T. Mason United Press War Expert Though Germany is now sending large squadrons of night raiding air bombers over Great Britain, it is noticeable that attacks on the civilian populations of big cities have not formed part of Hitler's tactics, as yet, in his war against the British. In France, however, German aviators have been attacking residential cities, killing many non-belligerents. Paris, Tours and Bordeaux have suffered severely, but London and the other British civilian centers have escaped deliberate bombing. In Great Britain the Germans have been aiming at military objectives and few civilians have suffered. In France the Germans give the appearance of being far more indifferent in scattering their bombs. German efficiency is such that there is a definite reason for the dissimilarity in the air offensives against the British and French. France has done little retaliatory bombing in German territory. The French high command has had pressing need for its aviators in active battle. Few French aviators could be spared from front line operations. The terrible battlefield struggles since the German invasion of Holland and Belgium have taken such heavy toll of French aircraft that Hitler has been able to disregard the possibility of effective reprisals by France to his aircraft assaults on the capital cities of France. The French, in fact, to safeguard their civilian population, have proclaimed all places whose inhabitants exceed 20,000, to be "open cities," hoping thus to keep German airplanes away. The British have not had to announce such non-belligerent zones. They have challenged the Germans in the air to a far greater extent than the French by continual bombing of the enemy's reserve positions and storage centers for in the interior of Germany. Indeed, it was the British, not the Germans, who took the offensive in behind-the-line bombing, though holding their attacks to military objectives. The Germans thus know the British are competent to retaliate against civilians. This fact must have had important influence on the way Germany is directing her air tactics. The British and French air forces have not been coordinated in the same way as have the allied military and naval units. Each country has had freedom to carry the air war into Germany according to its own individual ideas. The British have shown such persistent activity in this field, especially since the beginning of the battle for France, that the Germans have developed discretion. British civilians thus have suffered far less than the French. Whether there will be a reckless disregard for civilian lives as the fighting between Britain and Germany reaches a more intense stage is at least doubtful. Even in France there has been some restraint by the Germans. The expectation that poison gas would be used to "starve" civilians from the air has not been realized. Indeed, the conflict, to the present time, has been more humane than during the last war. Correspondents who have followed in the wake of the German army in Belgium and France report much less devastation than they had expected while the French government has advised civilians not to flee before the German advance. There is reason to believe that the bad moral effect on neutrals of reckless "stratag" is remembered from the last war.

TERMS HARB

There were indications, according to various reports, that the Petain government itself was taking a changed attitude toward Germany in view of reports Hitler would exact the utmost of humiliation and sacrifice as the price of peace. Some hope was even revived here that the present government in the end might elect, possibly in exile, to fight on. These indications included: A French spokesman's radio assertion that France would fight on rather than accept a dishonorable peace. Union Considered A French spokesman's assertion the Petain government was still considering the British offer of a close British-French union. There were reports that the French government, finding Germany's terms too severe, might be fleeing to North Africa or possibly to Britain to carry on the war from there. In London there were fears as to the fate of Paul Reynaud (whom Petain succeeded) and of some of his close associates. Some French circles believed they might have been arrested. Army Drives Germany reported her armies were driving forward across France and there were editorial warnings that if armistice terms were rejected the destruction of France would be intensified. It was reiterated unofficially that complete military capitulation would be insisted upon and the influential Nachtausgabe declared that not a single French soldier, not a single airman or sailor would be permitted to continue fighting.

In accepting the resignation, Mr. Roosevelt praised Brown for his services in the important fiscal post. DEADLOCK LOOMS IN GOP NATIONAL CONVENTION MONDAY

DEWEY AND TAFT LACK NECESSARY MAJORITY POWER

BY LYLE C. WILSON
PHILADELPHIA, June 20 (U.P.)—Republican leaders concerned themselves today with the unwelcome prospect of a deadlock in the national convention which convenes Monday, and the possibility that a dark horse presidential nominee will result.

Surveys of delegate strength rate both Senator Robert A. Taft, Ohio, and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, far below the 501 majority vote necessary to nominate. Some estimates here give both Taft and Dewey less than 300 first ballot votes.

Pennsylvania Important
Representatives of dark horse candidates who include all but Dewey and Taft are insisting that an early ballot nomination will be impossible. There is some evidence the powerful Pennsylvania delegation casting 72 votes may start the hand waving for the successful candidate as it did in 1920 and 1928.

Gov. Arthur H. James is Pennsylvania's favorite son but few persons outside Pennsylvania give him more than a remote chance to take top honors next week. James said the prospect was for a rather protracted convention in contrast to the series of one ballot nominations by which Republicans have chosen their presidential candidates since 1920.

Defeats Nomination
From a sick bed in 1920, Senator Boies Penrose, Pennsylvania, and Republican party leader, dictated the presidential nomination of Warren G. Harding after a state-mate developed among Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California, General Leonard Wood and Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Again in 1928 when a rank and file movement was awaiting aggressive leadership, the late Andrew W. Mellon put Herbert C. Hoover's nomination in the bag by announcing the night before the first ballot that Pennsylvania would vote for him.

Some party leaders believe Pennsylvania is maneuvering for another such political master stroke and that Taft or a dark horse candidate will benefit. Joseph L. Bland here reports that Joseph P. Kamp, Pennsylvania boss is lukewarm to Dewey's candidacy, that he does not want Wendell L. Willkie, of New York, but is under heavy business pressure to support him, and he would not be likely to hop aboard a Hoover-for-President band wagon except under considerable compulsion.

No Regret Made
Willkie and Dewey, nevertheless, although Governor James gave much support to the reports of a stop-Willkie movement here by saying, "I don't believe Willkie has made any progress in Pennsylvania."

Friends of Alf M. Landon were busy today denying in strong terms that the Kansas is heading up, or even participating in, any stop-Willkie movement.

LOWERY RUNNING FOR SHERIFF JOB

Election contest between the incumbent sheriff of Twin Falls county and the man who was chief deputy under him and under the late Sheriff Art C. Parker loomed today when Warren W. Lowery, Twin Falls, filed declaration of candidacy.

Lowery's petition entered him in the Democratic primary race for the Bourbon nomination.

Sheriff L. W. Hawkins, Republican, is certain to file declaration as candidate for the G. O. P. nomination. Success for both in the Aug. 13 primary would send them into the November general election as opponents for the sheriff's office to which Hawkins was appointed last January.

Lowery filed his declaration on the Democratic primary list this morning. Yesterday he resigned his post as west end labor supervisor for the noxious weed bureau. He had been named to that job May 1 after resigning as chief deputy sheriff. He entered the county law enforcement staff Feb. 19, 1937 under E. F. Prater after farming south of Hansen since 1917 except for a year in the navy during the World war.

Only one new filing prior to noon today was that of W. A. Minnick, Democrat, for county surveyor. Minnick had previously filed for Democratic precinct committee in Twin Falls No. 5. He has held both offices for several years.

Hart, Neal Enter
Yesterday's declarations of candidacy placed the first Democrat in the county commissioner race when George R. Hart, veteran member of the board from Buhl, filed his entry for re-nomination. Hart, the lone Democrat now on the board, was chairman until he resigned this year.

First state senate entry came yesterday with declaration by Floyd W. Neale, Twin Falls, on the Republican ticket. Mr. Neale is the incumbent in the state senate post and had been regarded as a certainty to seek re-nomination for his second term.

Fire Raging in Primitive Area

MCCALL, Idaho, June 20 (U.P.)—Supplies were dispatched by airplane today to 175 CCC enrollees fighting a 150-acre blaze in the Idaho national forest primitive area, 90 miles east of here.

Forest service officials said the blaze was under control.

The officials were also carried to the area by plane to direct fire-fighting, but the main body of men walked 12 miles to reach the remote section. The fire, north of Lookout mountain, was one of 18 started by lightning. Three hundred men were fighting fires throughout the forest.

In the Boise national forest, Fire Chief Walter Berry reported three new lightning fires. A crew controlled one fire and men were being sent to two others.

ARMY MANEUVER SET FOR AUGUST

Intensive training maneuvers, which will see members of the national guard, the regular army and the reserves taking part, will be held at Ft. Lewis, Wash., early in August and will continue for approximately 28 days, it was learned here this afternoon.

Among the troops taking part will be members of company E, 116th engineers with headquarters at Twin Falls. They are under command of Capt. J. H. Sewer, Jr. Local reserve officers also will participate in the maneuvers, which will be similar to those recently held in Louisiana and Texas.

Participants will be divided into the invading and defending groups. Playing an important part in the maneuvers will be regular army airplanes of various sizes, ranging from fast pursuit ships to large bombers. Exact details of the maneuvers have not been learned here and many details, in all probability, will be known only to army members.

Indication that the maneuver might be staged even sooner than August is gained from the fact members of the local unit of the national guard are prepared to move "at a moment's notice."

Service station attendant scratching head in started way as huge road grader is backed into station for oil, grease and wash job. Two wives asking municipal judge just when they can get their spouses out of the battle. Parade of youngsters in various stages of undress, headed for city swimming pool. Big truckload of fence posts departing from courthouse grounds after officers manage to sell it. And Willton Peck frantically grabbing straw hat in nick of time as gust of wind swoops along Main avenue.

ACCIDENT VICTIM CONDITION 'GOOD'

Although one of four women injured yesterday afternoon in an automobile crash at the intersection of Highways 30 and 93, west of the city, is believed to have a broken back, her condition this afternoon was said by hospital attendants to be good.

The woman is Miss Arnette Wetherill, a resident of the Bronx, New York. She was driving her own machine, carrying the other three women, at the time of the mishap. X-rays taken this morning were to be read by physicians this afternoon to determine exact extent of her injury.

The other three women who were injured included Miss Effie Cole, a fractured ankle, cuts and bruises; Mrs. Alice Villito, strained arm, cuts and bruises; Mrs. Louisa Wasserman, cuts and bruises. All are suffering from shock. Like Miss Wetherill, the other three reside in New York.

All four of the women are registered nurses, and two of them are married to New York City physicians.

Driver of the other machine involved was Joe Corbin, Buhl. He was not injured. Both machines were practically demolished. At the time of the crash the New York car was traveling north on highway 93 and the Buhl machine west on 93. Passing motorists took the injured women from their machine, which turned over at least twice, and they were brought to the county general hospital in an ambulance.

The mishap was investigated by state and county officers.

If You Ride Around On Motorcycle—And It's Noisy, Beware!

Opening of an intensive campaign to rid the city of noise caused by motorcycles operating without proper mufflers was announced here today by Police Commissioner Carl Ritchey and Chief of Police Howard Gillette.

The police officials today had issued orders to members of the force to "crack down" on violators of this particular city ordinance and "see that the offenders are brought into municipal court." Numerous complaints have been received by police regarding alleged violations by various motorcycle operators.

Convicted violators are subject to a fine not exceeding $100 or a corresponding term in the city jail.

A joint statement, issued by Gillette and Ritchey, follows:

"Those residents who have been annoyed by loud motorcycles, which are often operated during the night time, are justified in sending in complaints. We also ask, however, that they assist the department by obtaining license numbers or other identification of motorcycles or their riders, and by informing the police of the violation as soon after it occurs as possible, so that offenders may be apprehended."

CHECK CHILD AGE, BEET MEN URGED

Beet growers enjoying children should secure certificates of age to protect themselves from unintentional violation of the child labor provision, according to word received here today at offices of the county superintendent of public instruction from John W. Condie, state superintendent and also special agent for the children's bureau of the department of labor.

The sugar act of 1937 forbids employment of any child under 14, in cultivation or harvesting of sugar beets, if the producer is to receive federal benefit payments.

The age certificates may be secured through county superintendents, or by writing direct to Mr. Condie.

PARIS RETURNING TO NEAR NORMAL

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN FRANCE, En Route From Paris, June 20 (UP)—Paris is approaching the normal for a city occupied by an enemy.

The sun-bathed boulevards are crowded with strollers, cafes and restaurants are reopening, newspapers have reappeared.

High German officials are arriving, including, it is reported, Heinrich Himmler, chief of the dreaded Gestapo. There are frequent arrests by French policemen of suspected fifth columnists, by Germans of suspected anti-German agents.

The city of light and life is under a 9 p. m. curfew—when it is still daylight.

German radio sound trucks blare to the crowds in the principal streets translations of German high command communiques reporting French troops are laying down their arms.

Jews and foreign political refugees are in mortal terror. Thousands of refugees from Nazi rule in Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Austria were caught here. Some are hiding in the woods around Paris or in cities to the south, and the Germans are closing in inexorably on them.

Coordination of the German military and civil administrations is proceeding and it is believed likely that a German commissar will be appointed to govern France, like those in Poland, Norway and Holland.

TORPEDO BOATS GO TO BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, June 20 (UP)—The White House has announced today the navy has released 20 high speed torpedo boats to the allies with President Roosevelt's approval.

The transaction was made in connection with the policy of extending all possible material assistance to Great Britain and France, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said.

Mr. Roosevelt approved the release after having received recommendations to that end from both the navy and treasury departments.

Early explained by releasing the boats, Early said, the navy will get better boats, at a lesser cost and with standardized torpedo tubes which were not included in the 20 boats being made available to the allies.

Early denied the charge by Chairman David I. Walsh of the senate naval affairs committee that the deal was negotiated "surreptitiously."

"There was nothing surreptitious about it," Early said.

How One Woman Lost 26 Lbs. of Fat

NEW YORK—Special. In 40 days Mrs. Helga Blaugh reduced 26 lbs. Took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7 1/2 inches off waist. Writes: "I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose 15 pounds of fat in a few weeks! How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and abdomen and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of water first thing every morning. Then eat your fill of food that has low caloric value. After 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Kruschen is a famous English formula made in U. S. A. It comes in either the new pleasant bubbling form or plain non-fluffy form for those who prefer to take it in hot water. A bottle lasts 4 weeks and it costs but a trifle. Money back if not joyfully satisfied. KRUSCHEN'S BATHING DRUG STORES.

HEAT WAVE HITS IDAHO CHERRIES

EMMETT, Ida., June 20 (UP)—Shippers and growers had reported today a heat wave has scorched nearly one-half the Emmett valley cherry crop, representing a loss of about $50,000.

High temperatures caused the cherries to mature too rapidly and were unfit for shipment to eastern markets, shippers said.

Other crops were also adversely affected by the heat. Peas in the Nampa district ripened rapidly and some damage was reported to wheat in southwestern Idaho regions.

For the Love of Freedom

I call for effort, courage, sacrifice, devotion. Granting the love of freedom, all of these are possible.

And the love of freedom is still fierce and steady in the nation today. It is, Mr. President.

And no President has ever called on the American people for effort, courage, sacrifice, and devotion without receiving those things in overflowing measure.

George Washington called for them when the patriots starved and froze at Valley Forge. Lincoln and Davis called for them as they led their momentarily divided sections, Americans all, against each other. Woodrow Wilson called for them when an ambitious European autocrat once before dashed to bits the peace of the world.

Each time the American people responded, and showed a devotion to their ideals that all the world respected. They will not fail to respond today.

Today it is not war which immediately demands the effort and the sacrifice. It is a re-dedication.

A whole generation has enjoyed the benefits of peace and freedom without having had to shoulder the load of duties that go with them. We have all, from millionaire to relief client, accepted what we could get from our free governmental and social system, but precious few have felt the need to give service and devotion in return. That is not true of all. There have been men and women in both classes, millionaires and relief clients, who have devotedly given service in return for what they had received. But now all must give, all must serve.

We have inclined to think that our freedom was a thing absolute, handed down only to be preserved, like the draft of the constitution kept in a glass case in the library of congress.

Faced with the grim reality of the brutal events tumbling over each other in Europe, every American now realizes that his freedom is a thing for which he must pay in service and devotion if it is to be preserved.

Only those who know the American people imperfectly imagine that they are "decrepit." What is needed to preserve freedom, the American people will give in overflowing measure. Who challenges that freedom will find that the President was right when he said:

And the love of freedom is still fierce and steady in the nation today.

Loyalty

It is the fashion right now to go back to the World war experience to show how "Fifth Column" activities were prevalent even then, and to draw from this a warning for today.

That is right enough, but we ought not to forget the lesson graven on the other side of that coin. That is the fact that when the showdown came and war was actually declared, the overwhelming majority of Americans of German descent flocked into the ranks with all other Americans and served this country well and faithfully.

So today the action of the Sons of Italy in Ohio is a beacon light of loyalty. Through Raymond A. Boccia, grand venerable, a letter has been issued saying that the members of that order are "stunned" by Italy's declaration of war, but that "we as Americans stand ready shoulder to shoulder with other Americans in assuming the responsibility of upholding and safeguarding our form of government."

For American citizens who take this attitude, no matter what the country of their origin, other Americans should have respect and brotherly hand of welcome in every activity of our great American society. For it is of such loyalty from all conditions and groups of men that America is made. It is from such loyalty that she draws her magnificent strength.

Those who allow sentimental regard for, or political attachment to another land or another kind of society, and who allow that interest to overrule the loyalty they owe to this country are the real "Fifth Column." It is they who are to be watched with care, never trusted in positions of responsibility, and always rendered powerless by vigilance.

But citizens of foreign descent who are loyal, who "will support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic," and "bear true faith and allegiance to the same"—these are one of the chief glories of our common country.

The British pilot who got lost and found himself flying along in a formation of Messerschmidts will recall it as the time he got into a Messerschmidt.

A new formula concrete dries hard in a very short time, which means the stars at Grauman's Chinese theater won't dare be late.

The Missouri youth who roller skated 300 miles to join the army no doubt was thinking of American unpreparedness when he bought his own mechanized equipment.

BLITZKRIEGS AMONG THE INSECTS NOW!

Dear Third Row: The example of Hitler and Mussolini has even affected the bees and the ants in Twin Falls.

At a residence-out on Blue Lakes boulevard north a swarm of bees had set up housekeeping. Last week another huge swarm (Hitler) attacked the first group in a swift blitzkrieg. Thousands of bees bottled in mid-air, with the casualties dropping thick and fast to the ground. The buzzing was terrific.

And then along came Scavenger Mussolini. Yes sir, a whole colony of ants appeared on the scene and dragged the dead bees away. —Sandy

EXCUSE—FOR THE BOSS, BY ALBERT YOUNGSTER

Pot Shots mentioned last week the case of K. Algot Westergren, Times-News circulation mogul who called a meeting of carrier boys who called a meeting of carrier boys who called a meeting of carrier boys.

After this absent-minded performance, K. Algot offered a cash prize for the best excuse one of the carrier lads could write in explaining his (K. Algot's) non-appearance. Here's the offering composed by Eldon Fisher, winning one-half the funds:

"Excuse for Al. "Wife asked me to go shopping with her. "I said I wouldn't. "She got mad. "I went."

AND IF YOU'RE PERFECT, BE MORE PERFECT!

Dear Third Row: Figure this one out if you can. And if you find you're genius enough to figure it out, please tell that certain Twin Falls radio announcer what 100 per cent means.

I turned on my car radio Wednesday morning. As usual, that certain announcer was conducting the "leaser" question period. As he finished he summed things up in this masterly remark: "I hope all of you got 100 per cent on the answers. And if you did, just chalk it up some place and try to beat it tomorrow!" —Buhloney of Buhl

ICE CREAM CONES AND WHISKERS!

Dear Pot Shots: The man with the beard runs into a great deal of difficulty eating ice cream cones, so I've discovered lately. To be truthful, it isn't the beard so much as the mustache that gets in the road.

Since Pot Shots knows all, you'd better help us out on this point. My own investigation provides only limited assistance in this matter but I'm glad to tell other bearded and mustachioed males what little I've learned.

The usual attack-with-gusto system is no go. This distributes ice cream on all portions of the mustache and usually on the chin whiskers.

The eat-with-spoon method is guaranteed to keep debris off the whiskers, but that system of consuming ice cream from a cone went out with knee-length bathing suits in 1911.

The tongue-lick system seems at the present writing to be the only feasible method for whiskered folks. This can be employed either from the top or the sides, and if used judiciously will make contact with the ice cream only by way of the tongue. That leaves as the only trick the matter of swiftly pulling the tongue into the mouth without leakage to the whiskers.

Once the ice cream level is below the tip of the cone, of course, the matter becomes relatively more simple. A careful cone consumer can usually get by without being forced to remove cream from his whiskers more than two or three times per cone. Par for the course is two.

Admitting that as a researcher I am not in the class of Pot Shots or of Theophilus Squire, I am anxiously waiting for further enlightenment. —Borne

SERIAL STORY

Ticket to Hollywood

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: When Gusty and Francie play and sing for the Elsiebeth City Jam Session, a movie talent scout hears them. He tells of a super-broadband and forthcoming movie in which youngsters from 49 states are to be starred. Unable to resist the offer Francie or Gusty should have the chance for fame, the scout leaves tickets snatching out of them to participate in the Hollywood broadcast.

CHAPTER II

It was Francie who finally broke the silence, a silence strictly their own, walling them off from the music and chatter that filled Maw's Airport Rendezvous. "Gusty?" "Huh?" "Was—was... he really here? I mean, we didn't just dream it?" "Now," Gusty tried to sound disgusted, but his voice shook. "You can see the ticket, can't you?"

Francie nodded dreamily. "Jerry Finney..." she breathed, and the name raced, a chill along her spine.

Gusty was deep in a reverie of his own. "I got 50 bucks in the bank," he said finally. "A guy'd have to squeeze some to get there on that."

"You!" Francie exclaimed. "What about me?" "Don't get yourself in an uproar, Sugar. Girl singers are a dime a dozen. Good hot trumpet men are mighty scarce. Besides, it was me he was talking to."

"Oh!" Francie's brown eyes were stormy. "That's not true. You're—you're so conceited you think no one else..."

"Holy smoke, Francie, wasn't it me that first got you to swing out?" Gusty stared reproachfully. "That old aunt of yours was teaching you a lot of long-hair stuff. Didn't I fix it with Duke so you could sing with the band?"

"Well, I am!" Francie raged. "Mr. Koon distinctly said he didn't care which of us went."

Gusty snorted. "Just because you reminded him of an old sweetie. He took out the pigskin wallet Francie had given him the previous Christmas. Calmly he folded the ticket and slipped it inside. 'I got to think this over, Francie.'"

"Gusty Gair, don't you take that!" Francie cried. "If—if you don't, I'll never speak to you again."

"Sugar, you can't get along without me," Gusty grinned. "I meant what I said," Francie replied, without conviction.

For an instant Gusty's face showed genuine alarm, then hardened into its "so-what?" mask. "Okay, Francie. I guess no girl's going to tell Gusty Gair what to do. No, sir!" He arose slowly and swagged across to the piano.

JOHN WESTON stared in amazement as his daughter entered the house. Francie's Aunt Hat, who kept house for them, sat across the living room playing solitaire.

"What miracle brings you home before 11 on a Friday night?" Mr. Weston asked.

Francie crumpled at his feet and buried her head in his lap. "Oh, Pops, I hate him."

"Hate whom, dear?" "Gusty. He's nothing but a big..."

"Amen." Aunt Hat nodded vigorously over her solitaire lay-out. "Never..."

"Please, Hat..." Mr. Weston frowned. He was a big man with iron gray hair and a gentle smile. He ran his hand over Francie's disheveled curls. "Now what's wrong, dear?"

Incoherently Francie told them about the amazing Mr. Koon. "Francie, darling, what an opportunity!"

"Easy, Hat," Mr. Weston protested. "The whole thing's undoubtedly a joke."

"Oh, Pops, not if it was printed right on the ticket."

Illustrated by G. P. Whitford

"Gusty Gair, don't you take that!" Francie cried. "I'll never speak to you again."

"Okay, Francie. No girl's going to tell me what to do."

"You're taking this much too seriously, dear. I'm afraid Hat's been filling your head with foolish ideas. Even if you had the ticket, I wouldn't like the idea."

He chuckled. "I'm hardly the type of father for a glamor girl."

"Aunt Hat said sharply, 'I suppose you'd rather she stayed in Elsiebeth City and married a garage mechanic like that windbag Gusty?'"

"Perhaps," John Weston said. "It doesn't happen to agree with your opinion of Gusty. Hard knocks have made him the way he is. It's his defense. His mother died when he was 10. His father puttered around in show business and doubtless neglected to send money for Gusty's keep."

Francie stopped crying and listened wide-eyed.

John Weston continued: "I remember when the boy was holding down three jobs at once. He worked for his trumpet lessons and at the same time sold magazines and learned the garage business."

"He needn't be such a braggart," Aunt Hat sniffed. "He's not a—" Francie broke off, remembering that she hated Gusty.

"The boy's only trying to sell himself, Hat."

"So you uphold him in snatching the ticket away from Francie?" Aunt Hat demanded indignantly.

"I do not," Mr. Weston retorted. "However, I will say that he probably was under the influence of the same glamorous nonsense you've been stuffing into Francie."

Aunt Hat retired sulkingly to her game. The cards snapped against the silence. Mr. Weston toyed with Francie's hair.

"Hollywood's just like Elsiebeth City, dear. People fall in love, marry and have babies the same as they do here. Actresses don't live on spun sugar and moonbeams. They work hard and have their sorrows the same as you and I. If you went there, you'd see for yourself."

JOBS for JUNE Graduates

By MAX B. ROBINSON Director of Co-operative Work, Penn College Y. M. C. A., Cleveland

Sell yourself—not your college degree. The employer is only interested in what you can accomplish for him. Your degree in itself guarantees nothing.

Know what you want—apply for something definite. And don't forget the smile.

These pointers and many others are offered to college seniors about to seek their places in business or industry. More of this guidance and coaching could still be used.

Employers seek college trained men to provide future leadership. Except for a few jobs requiring highly specialized or technical knowledge, their immediate needs could be filled from non-college ranks.

In using graduates, therefore, employers expect other qualities besides mere knowledge of facts. The ability to influence people, to analyze, to find facts as needed, and to make reasonable decisions—these must accompany the college degree or it may be worthless as an aid to employment and promotion. One should not ask so seriously,

"What are the chances for advancement?" and expect the would-be employer to outline his whole future. This man is always "willing to begin at the bottom" but in the same breath he wants to know how long he will have to stay there.

This may be a perfectly natural question, but some of the smarter seniors are leaving it un-asked. To the employer, the chances for advancement seem good for the right man. Most employers would not hire college men unless they felt they could advance.

On his first job, the graduate should remain inconspicuous as a college man in the eyes of other workers at least until he is well oriented and has the "feel" of the organization.

One of the greatest aids to college men is actual working experience before graduation, say during summer vacations, (if obtainable then) or during a year out of school.

Co-operative colleges which regularly schedule quarter or half years at work in between similar intervals of college work, are on the right track. They are bringing education and the needs of business and industry into close relationship, and are giving the student an opportunity to build a perspective which the student without experience must lack.

The opportunity to try one's self at work under real discipline, to observe different jobs at different levels, to understand worker attitudes through close contacts at an earlier age, may prove to be guidance aids out of all proportion to the remuneration received. That is why co-operative graduates have experienced little trouble in finding satisfactory opportunities after graduation.

That many graduates find the doors to employment and promotion wide open is more than a matter of luck. It suggests that those who have trouble may be definitely at fault, and need a clearer understanding of what is expected and the procedure involved.

With this in mind, our college and Y. M. C. A. personnel bureaus are giving increasing effort to occupational guidance and to the art and strategy of job finding.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 20—Expected senate approval of the house plans to boost the army to 375,000 men would soon give the United States a compact, up-to-date striking force of nine infantry divisions, two mechanized divisions, two cavalry divisions, and enough supplemental troops to form the whole into two complete army corps ready for immediate action.

This new enlargement of the army, which goes beyond increases previously voted, would give the nation a mobile field army of close to 135,000 men.

DE KRUIFF PICTURES 'HUMAN EROSION' CALLS FOR ATTACK

A small but fighting book by Paul de Kruiff, "Health Is Wealth" (Harcourt, Brace: $3). Main thesis of the author of "Microbe Hunters" is that it costs the nation more to let people stay sick and hurt than when they die than it would cost to keep them well.

Accordingly, De Kruiff argues for a national health program and he argues well, as witness these striking excerpts on "human erosion":

Saventy thousand of our people still die yearly from tuberculosis. As a murderer of Americans between aged 15 and 45, the tuberculosis microbe is surpassed only by accidents...

For every one of the 70,000 yearly dying, five others are sick with consumption... Pneumonia kills more than 100,000 people yearly, cripples 300,000. So we approach our first million of citizens who cannot be called essentially healthy.

Now to these we add those cancerous. Cancer is not scoffed at even by the most complacent. Terror of 14 is justified by reason of the 140,000 it yearly kills, and this annual death toll is growing.

Next are the mentally sick—at this moment more than 500,000 of them crowd our asylums... The menace is growing... The number of people in hospitals for the mentally sick went up by 40 per cent between 1926 and 1938.

The blood test drags now being swept through so many communities by healthmen and doctors make it clear that more than 5,000,000 of our people carry the blood taint of syphilis. Indeed, recent figures indicate that this number is nearly one out of 20 of our population—close to 6,500,000.

To the millions already counted, other cohorts must be added. Here is a grim army of half humanity which, if it had the strength to parade before us, would stretch from coast to coast. This is the human erosion that strikes—in one form or another—into every home of America.

RADIO OPERATORS ORDERED TO FILE

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The house committee today had arranged for consideration of a bill authorizing G-men to tap wires in espionage and sabotage cases, and the federal communications commission took new steps to curb the use of radio by possible undercover agents.

The commission ordered the nation's 100,000 radio operators—both commercial and amateur—to file by Aug. 15 proof of their citizenship, together with their fingerprints and photographs. Proof of citizenship would be in the form of a sworn statement.

The house committee's action came on a bill by Rep. Emanuel Celler, (D-N.Y.). The group was unanimous in sending it to the house floor. Wiretapping, now outlawed by the federal communications act as interpreted by the supreme court, would be made a permissible practice in many cases where the national defense is involved.

1939 Production Of Power in U. S. Sets New Record

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The federal power commission had reported today that 1939 was a record-breaking year for production of electric energy and the installed capacity of electric generating facilities with a 12 per cent increase over 1938 in power production.

The report said production rose to a new peak of $130,335,000,000 (B) kilowatt-hours during the year, as the installed generating capacity increased 1,275,619 kilowatts, placing 40,318,000 kilowatts of capacity in operation at the end of the year.

Librarians Given Sun Valley Bid

The 200 persons who attended the meeting of the Pacific Northwest Library association at Timberline lodge, west of Portland, Ore., recently, received an invitation to meet at Sun Valley next year, according to Miss Jessie Fraser and Miss Edith Dyer, who attended the sessions.

It will be the duty of the cabinet to decide later whether or not the invitation will be accepted, they said.

Few Idaho Libraries

That Idaho has a strong need for "library influence," was indicated in a report made at the Timberline lodge convention.

In this state 68 per cent of the population does not have access to library service, as compared with 49 per cent in Montana, and 40 per cent in Washington. Oregon has the most widespread library system in the four northwestern states.

Librarians must know more about the basic needs of their individual communities and their relative importance if the libraries are to respond effectively to changing needs. It was pointed out by speakers at the convention, according to Miss Fraser.

To know borrowers individually in terms of their actual needs, their reading habits and ability and how they would respond to a policy which places stronger emphasis upon books of educational value, is paramount, delegates agreed.

Knowledge of Country

"We are also of the opinion that the two chief objectives of libraries have been to establish new forms of service which might be useful to the community, and to attract people to the library," according to Miss Fraser.

Twin Falls public library, in line with other agencies interested in educating the public on the privileges and obligations of a democracy, has concentrated on a "know your country" program the past year.

Several volumes on travel in various sections of the United States; a comprehensive collection of American biography, and other books of this nature are on the local shelves.

Style Show for Recreation Tea

Fourteen girls and women have been selected from playground participants to model clothes at the mother-daughter fashion tea at the Twin Falls recreation center, 302 Third avenue north, Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

A five cent charge will be made for refreshments. Entertainment in the form of dancing and music will be furnished by playground children from Harmon and Drury parks.

Six Twin Falls stores will loan costumes for the review.

TWIN FALLS AMAZED AT LOCAL RESIDENT'S STARTLING STATEMENT

Indigestion, Gas, Bloating, and Pains, Bad Breath, Backache and Nervousness All Disappear After a Short Treatment of Hoyt's Compound, Says Mr. D. W. Holt

MR. D. W. HOLT

If you suffer from physical misery, you should not hesitate another day to come to the Majestic Pharmacy and learn of the new and modern Hoyt's Compound. One of the latest local residents to publicly praise Hoyt's Compound is Mr. D. W. Holt, who resides at 149 Adams St. He says: "For ten years, I have been suffering from indigestion after eating. It felt as though all the foods I ate would lay in my stomach like a solid ball, heavy-like, causing an acid taste in my mouth and I was filled with gas, causing a terrible bloating—very often I could not retain my food at all. I have been a constant sufferer of constipation, and always had to be using cathartics to get any relief. I have had sick headaches due to my stomach and bowels, and it was next to impossible for me to get a sound night's sleep as my nerves were in such a bad shape.

At that time, I am feeling like another person. I am now able to enjoy my meals, and am eating whatever I like, and there is no more vomiting spells and that acid-like feeling in my mouth has left me. My bowels are more natural in movements and regularly. All of my nervousness is gone and when I go to bed, I can get a good, sound, restful sleep. When I get up in the morning I am feeling fine and ready for a good day's work.

Sufferers: Why not take the advice of Mr. Holt? Call at the Majestic Pharmacy and investigate this new medicine. Another day's delay may mean just another day of needless suffering. Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by all druggists in this entire section.

GERMANS CLAIM 200,000 PRISONERS TAKEN IN DAY

BREST FALLS TO NAZIS; VESSELS HIT IN CHANNEL

BERLIN, June 20 (AP)—The great French port of Brest, where thousands of American troops landed during the World war, has been taken by German forces, the high command announced today.

In a communique issued from Adolf Hitler's headquarters the high command said also that in Normandy German troops had reached the lower course of the river Loire and that the stream had been crossed at several points from Nantes to Tours.

200,000 Taken

Yesterday alone, the high command claimed, more than 200,000 prisoners were taken by the Germans, including Gen. Marie Robert Altmeier, commander of the French 10th army.

Announcing that the German air force had begun reprisals against Britain, presumably for continued royal air force raids on northern and western Germany, the high command said German bombers successfully attacked the British nitrogen works at Billingham last night.

Planes Lost

It claimed the allies lost 21 planes yesterday and it was admitted the Germans had lost six planes.

The high command said that in operations in the English channel German speedboats had destroyed a steamer of 4,000 tons. It was claimed an 8,000-ton vessel had been sunk by a German submarine and that another U-boat had torpedoed three vessels which were steaming in convoy.

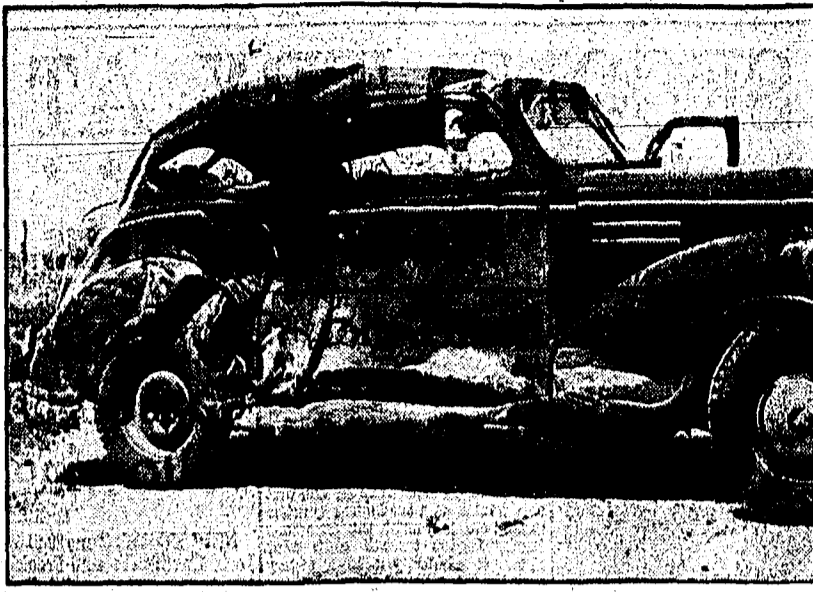

Retreat Blasted

The command, indicating there had been no letup in German military operations in France, said the air force continued to blast retreating French columns, particularly south of the Loire river.

It reiterated earlier claims that Lunenburg, Epinal and Toul were in German hands and that in northern France between Epinal and Toul and in the upper Vosges French forces which had not already been captured were being "remorselessly crushed together."

New breaks were reported in the Maginot line.

The young singer collapsed yesterday at the set. Physicians at Hollywood hospital found she was suffering from a severe attack of tonsillitis and had a temperature of 102 degrees. Susanna admitted she had been sick for three days but had hidden the fact for fear she would delay the picture.

AIRLINE MERGER PROPOSAL DENIED

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The civil aeronautics authority late Wednesday denied the United Airlines application to acquire control of Western Air Express Corp. on grounds such a merger would restrain competition.

The authority, however, approved a United Airlines application to interchange sleeper plane equipment with Western Air Express, thus giving United a through route from New York to Los Angeles.

Under this arrangement, United sleeper planes will stop at Salt Lake City en route to Los Angeles. Passengers would not have to transfer, however, since Western Air Express pilots would take over the plane and continue to Los Angeles.

United's application to acquire control of Western Air Express had been contested by Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., and a group of minority stockholders, of Western Air Express.

It was the first merger proposal made to CAA involving major airlines.

U. S. STEEL MAN CHARTS DEFENSE

The man who succeeds Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as chairman of the board of directors of U. S. Steel with Stettinius' appointment to the national defense commission, is himself an authority on defense problems.

He is 57-year-old Irving S. Olds of New York, a native of Erie, Penn. From 1917-19 Olds served as counsel for the purchasing department of the British war mission to the United States and in 1918 was a special assistant in the U. S. war department.

Upon graduation from Yale and Harvard, Olds was secretary to Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court, 1910-11. He then became associated with a New York law firm where he has since practiced corporate law.

He has been director and member of the finance committee of U. S. Steel since 1938.

CCC ENROLLMENT OPEN TO YOUTHS

Enrollment has again been opened in the civilian conservation corps for young men of the Twin Falls area between the ages of 17 and 23, according to H. M. Paddock, local CCC selecting agent for the department of public welfare.

Paddock said about 300 jobs in the CCC will be available in July for unmarried Idaho youths who fill other requirements of the corps. Applicants may confer with Paddock at the county building across from Legion hall.

"We want it distinctly understood," he said, "that the CCC is strictly a civilian governmental organization and that it is not possible under present laws for the CCC to be inducted into the United States army as a body. A CCC youth is a civilian and remains so. In war times his status is that of any other civilian. CCC enrollees are not given military training, nor are they subject to military law."

MILLION DOLLAR EVASION CHARGED

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Howard O. Hopson, one of the founders of the vast associated gas and electric system, was indicted by a federal grand jury today with three of his attorneys on charges of conspiring to evade payment of $1,886,408 in taxes on an income of $7,140,139.

The indictment grew out of an earlier indictment in which Hopson was charged with conspiring with others to defraud the billion dollar utility of some $20,000,000.

Named with him today were Garrett A. Brownback, George M. Leppine and Edward F. Huber, all former partners in the firm of Travis, Brownback and Paxson.

The indictment lists profits of $15,943,792 on the sale of stock rights, $1,095,834 on sales of stock, and $409,518 in interest on notes, and alleged illicit profits, according to the indictment, were placed in Newfoundland companies, particularly the International Public Utility Investing Company, Ltd., for the asserted purpose of preventing the government from learning that taxes were due.

The defendants also, according to the indictment, filed false affidavits and gave false testimony in court proceedings. The maximum penalty on conviction of the single count of conspiracy in the indictment is two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

RHUMBA DANCER GETS SECOND TRY AT LOUIS

Brooklyn Smashes Cardinals 8 to 3 in Near Riot as Fists Fly

Challenger in Superb Shape; Odds Favor Joe

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK, June 20 (U.P.)—Arturo Godoy, a bobbing, weaving rhumba dancer from the slopes of the Andes, gets his second shot at boxing's richest prize tonight when he crawls into the ring at Yankee Stadium to try to wrest the world heavyweight championship from Joe Louis.

He approaches this great hour of his life in superb condition, with a do-or-die glint in his dark eyes and with utter confidence that he can out-fight one of the great fighters of all time.

That confidence is not shared by the icy, realistic men who fix the betting odds and the result is that: Louis is a 4 to 1 favorite to win.

Louis is a 2 to 1 favorite to win by a knockout.

Even Money
Louis is an even money bet to win by a knockout before the seventh round.

History teaches that every time a man stays the distance with Louis and makes him look bad, the lightning descends on that unfortunate creature in the return bout. Max Schmeling beat Louis, and in the return match barely got out with his life. Bob Pastor stayed the limit and the next time ended up a crumpled, bleeding mess on the floor. Boise Beats Cards 22-12 In Slugfest

By United Press

Tom Robello's homer in the seventh gave the league-leading Salt Lake Bees a 2 to 1 victory over the Twin Falls Cowboys last night.

The Bees tallied in the first but were tied when the Cowboys scored in the second, then Robello's circuit clout gave Salt Lake the game, to keep them three games ahead of the second-place Boise Pilots.

Pilots, Pitcher Tate and Sandstrom each allowed nine hits.

The Pocatello Cards and Boise Pilots staged a slugfest at Boise with the Pilots taking the nod, 22 to 12. Five homers were scored.

Waldron started a home run barrage for the Cards in the third with three on. In the fifth both Barney Bridgers and White knocked circuit runs for the Cards, but Walt Lowe and Jim Donovan came back for the Pilots to score homers in fifth and sixth.

Five pitchers were used. Sandell, Lilly and Pavlice allowed Boise 24 hits, while Pocatello got 18 off Snyder and Fields.

At Idaho Falls, the Russets continued their winning streak with a 5 to 4 victory over the Ogden Reds. In five days, the Idaho Falls aggregation has moved up from the cellar position to third spot in league standing. It was their sixth straight victory.

Salt Lake Bees tonight open the most "crucial" series of the year so far, in tackling the Boise Pilots at Boise. Idaho Falls plays at Twin Falls, and Ogden shows at Pocatello.

It may be a short, bloody, heart-stopping fight. Godoy apparently plans to shoot the works for a knockout, relying chiefly on a long left hook that Galento found to be effective against Louis. Joe will have his customary arsenal—a short, snappy left jab, a punishing left hook to head and body and a right that could be used for a rock crusher.

Beavers Take Oaks 3-2 for Second Win

The last place Portland Beavers today pointed to a two-game winning streak at expense of the San Diego Padres. The Beaver-Ducks turned in a 3 to 2 win last night over San Diego behind the four-hit pitching of Byron Speece.

Norbert Kleins shut out Seattle with six hits and Sacramento ended the Rainiers' six-game winning streak 2 to 0.

San Francisco Seals defeated Hollywood 2 to 2. Don Trower, Seals' rookie shortstop, tripled to score the Seals' final run.

Mac Predicts Mr. Godoy Will Run That 4-Minute Mile Tonight

By HENRY McEMORE

NEW YORK, June 20 (U.P.)—There will be a game of squat tag played at Yankee stadium tonight between Arturo Godoy and Joe Louis.

Godoy will do the squatting and Louis will attempt to do the tagging.

The second meeting between these two men is billed as a fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, but it stands little chance of developing into that.

Godoy's style of fighting Louis calls for a minimum of fighting. It calls mostly for squatting, bounding, jumping, swaying, grinning, clutching and almost anything else which will keep him so busy that he won't ever have time to stand straight up and exchange punches with the champion.

A fight expert with nothing better to do kept track of the miles that Godoy ran in his roadwork training for the fight and found that he covered 450 miles, or roughly the distance between Los Angeles and Phoenix. This stress on conditioning his legs indicates Godoy is ready for the race of his life tonight. There is a report Godoy has asked the boxing commission to ask the racing commission if he Godoy can use the electric starting gate in his corner, and also carry whip and spurs, so that he can get the best out of himself.

The A. A. U. also plans to have an official timer at the ringside to clock Godoy on the chance that he may better the time of Glenn Cunningham and turn in the long-awaited four-minute mile.

There are a lot of us, in and out of condition, who might do even better than that if we had an angered Joe Louis chasing us.

And Joe is likely to be angry tonight. He didn't like the boos and hisses the crowd gave him after his first fight with Godoy, and feels he was made a fool of by the cheering, crowing South American. In his training he worked chiefly with sparring partners who simulated Godoy's croquet wicket stance. Toward the finish of his training Louis had developed a crouch of his own and was using body blows to straighten up his opponents so he would have a chance at their jaws.

If Louis employs these tactics against Godoy tonight's fight should afford a novel spectacle, what with the champion and challenger bent over the canvas like bloodhounds hot on the trail of a fugitive. And Joe undoubtedly will fight Godoy in Godoy's own style because he knows from 15 rounds of experience that the South American won't fight his way.

The consensus of opinion is Louis will retain his title, but only by a decision after 15 rounds. If you don't care about the consensus of opinion, and would prefer a highly personal and incompetent one, here is mine:

Louis will knock out Godoy sometime between the eighth and 11th rounds. This prediction is based on the belief that no man, even if he be the most confusing of scallies in the world, can get 30 rounds with Louis and not get hit squarely on the chin at least once. And that's all Joe needs to flatten Godoy.

Tennis Stars And Unseeded Players Meet

RIVER FOREST, Ill., June 20 (U.P.)—Six high ranking tennis stars and two unseeded players carried their quest for the national clay court tennis championship into the quarter-final round today.

National Champion Bobby Riggs faced unseeded Harris Everett, a University of North Carolina student who yesterday upset Henry Prusoff of Seattle. Frankie Parker, present holder of the clay courts title, opposed Gardner Mulroy.

Allice Marble led the women's field into the semi-final round, although two quarter-final matches remained unplayed. Miss Marble opposed Virginia Wolfend, Berkeley, Calif., for a place in the finals.

One of the day's best matches was anticipated between Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, seeded third, and Bryan Grant, Atlanta, Ga., the little veteran who was extended to four sets yesterday to eliminate 16-year-old Jimmy Evert.

St. Louis Catcher Tossed Out of Game Following Battle

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, June 20 (U.P.)—The bitter feud between the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers flamed in new quarters today after a fist fight in last night's game between Dodger Manager Leo Durocher and Catcher Mickey Owen of the gas house gang.

Ever since Pitcher Bob Bowman hit Joe Medwick in the head with a "duster" in Tuesday's game, the players of both clubs have been at each other's throats.

With Ebbets Field jammed with 31,242 paid-customers last night, the Dodgers outgamed the Cardinals in a grudge battle, 8-3, and moved back to within .004 percentage points of the league-leading Reds.

The Dodgers broke their 4-game losing streak, longest of the year, inflicted the first defeat on the Cardinals since Billy Southworth became pilot and tossed in the Durocher-Owen fistcuffs all in one night.

Lands Left Hook
Owen opened the third inning with a single, and was forced at second by Stu Martin, Durocher to Coscarat. As the Cardinal catcher started off the diamond, Durocher yelled something to Owen, who had walked almost, to third base turned around and started back.

Durocher came in to meet him but Umpire Bleck Campbell rushed between them. Owen, however, reached around the big umpire and landed a left hook on Durocher's head. With Campbell between them they clugged away at each other.

Johnny Hopp, who was at the plate, charged out with his bat in his hand, and Umpire Campbell left the battlers to remove the weapon from the Cardinal player. He apparently wasn't going to use it but Campbell wasn't taking any chances. Players of both teams joined in the melee, and several took swings at each other.

Owens Ejected
After the fight was halted Owen was ejected from the game. Durocher was allowed to continue, apparently because he didn't swing until after Owen did.

Owen reportedly sent word from the club house that he would be waiting to meet Durocher any place he designated to settle their differences.

It wasn't any pink tea party the rest of the way. Stu Martin was spiked in a close play when Babe Phelps was retired trying to steal third. Don Padgett, who replaced Owen, tumbled across Joe Gallagher's head in a play at the plate in the seventh but appeared from the stands to apologize to the Brooklyn outfielder.

Case at Standstill
Developments in the Medwick case were at a stand still pending District Attorney O'Dwyer's announcement that he planned to investigate published reports that Cardinal Pitcher Bowman deliberately threw at Medwick after threatening him. President Frick of the national league, upon being advised of O'Dwyer's action, said he would not make any decision until the district attorney's investigation was completed.

Thornton Lee and the Chicago White Sox combined to hand the New York Yankees their fourth straight defeat, 10; the St. Louis Browns won their fourth straight and remained in a tie for fifth place with the White Sox by coming from behind to down to Boston Red Sox; 6-4; Detroit's Tigers increased their victory string to six with a double win over the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4 and 9-4, to move within half game of first place while the Cleveland Indians triumphed over the Washington Senators, 4-1, for their fourth in a row.

Lady Luck Patrols Bee Leftfield As Salt Lake Downs Cowboys 2-1

Lady Luck patrolled left field for the Salt Lake Bees and Ben Guintini, leftfielder, last night as the league leaders topped the Cowboys 2 to 1.

The Cowboys went into the last half of the ninth with the visitors leading 2 to 1 as the result of Tom Rodehe's long homer in the seventh and Perry's tally in the first. John Arnerich and Ernie Bishop walked, and the crowd was cheering Bill Randall for smacking what looked like a two-bagger when Guintini dove through the ozone on the dead run and speared the "hit" for the last out.

Last night's victory gave the Bees the three game series with two wins.

The Cowboys open at Jaycee park tonight at 8:30 against an Idaho Falls team which has climbed from fifth to third since the Twin Falls club played the Russets in Idaho Falls last week.

Bradley will probably pitch for the visitors, but Pilot Frank Tobin was uncertain this morning who will take the mound for the Cowboys. Dick O'Doyle will probably draw the starting assignment. He was slated to hurl last night, but Tobin started Sandstrom as the result of a last minute change. The Idaho Falls series is four games.

Evidently the Cowboys had recovered from the 9-4 beating at the hands of the Bees Tuesday night. The boys played heads-up ball last night and weren't out of the running until the last out was chalked up. The performance last night compared with the first game with Salt Lake Monday when the Cowboys edged the Bees in a 12-inning affair.

The Bees got their first run in the first inning on a double by Ray Perry and a single by Al Steele. Perry scored when Randall let Steele's rolling single set post him in left field. Manager Robello's homer accounted for the other tally for Salt Lake.

Twin Falls started out in the second frame. Four singles were good enough for only one run. Randall started the hitting with a single, and advanced to second on a hit by Ernie Endress. Tom Cannavan was safe at first on a fielder's choice, but Randall was nipped at third. Al Marchi reached first on a fielder's choice and Endress went to third, but Cannavan was caught at second. Tony Lombardi, the new Cowboy backstop, singled to score Endress.

That ended the Cowboy scoring, although Sandstrom singled to fill the bases after the lone tally had been scored, but Arnerich fanned for the third out.

Lombardi turned in a fine game in his second performance on the Cowboy diamond. He cleaned only one hit, but handled Hurler Rube Sandstrom all the way and on two different occasions caught men off first with lightning throws to Cannavan.

Matching Guintini's "miracle play" for thrills was the bullet-fast double play engineered for Twin Falls by Marchi in the sixth. Steele whammed what seemed a sure hit down the third base line, and Perry headed for home. But Al swooped over the bag, snagged the ball with a reverse pickup, tagged Perry and tossed to first to nip Steele.

British Defenders out to Tea When Nazis Attacked, Carey Man Reveals

By MRS. JOHN F. BURKHART
CAREY, June 20 (Special)—Nazi bombers roared over the giant Fifth of North bridge at Edinburgh, dropping their cargo of destruction on the British naval base and seeking to destroy the huge span . . . and the British defenders were out to tea!

That's one typical instance revealed here by Jack Adamson, who recently returned to Carey after a 30-month L. D. S. mission.

"Muddle" Tradition
The tea incident never reached the newspapers of the world, Mr. Adamson said. Censorship saw to that. But it illustrated the tradition that England can muddle through, a tradition which held sway through early days of the present war but which has now apparently faded in the British thoroughly by reason of the terrible power of a Nazi juggernaut that has crushed France.

Adamson, a missionary in England and Scotland, was obliged to return to the United States by way of the Orient. He stopped over in India, China, Japan and in Italy before that nation entered the war.

And here's his account of the hitherto unknown story of the Fifth of North bombing last fall:

"Late one afternoon 12 German planes flew over the city and bombed the Fifth bridge. Newspapers all over the world carried the news of this bombing but what they did not print was that all the guards, the anti-aircraft gunners and the aircraft pilots at the fort, were out to tea!

No Alarms
"As a result no air alarms were sounded and no notice was sent to headquarters. The civilians stood out in the streets and watched the bombing and finally after 15 or 20 minutes three British fighters went up against the 12 German planes. In the meantime someone called headquarters and told them that the Germans were there and were bombing the bridge but the officers said they couldn't be.

"They thought it just a joke and went on drinking tea. After some few minutes more, the air warnings sounded and several other British planes went up and drove the Germans away.

As for the shift in attitude as full realization of the Hitler power reached the British people, Mr. Adamson said:

"At the beginning of war the black-out was so intense, owing to the dense fogs over the island that more deaths were caused by the black-out than were reported from the front.

"At first all air raid shelters were built below the ground but these filled with snow and rain and proved unsatisfactory. In the cities some shelters are still kept below ground but they now have the facilities to pump them out, but in the smaller villages and in the country these shelters are now built above the ground of corrugated steel. These are not bomb proof but will be effective against machine gun fire."

The organization regarding these shelters is very efficient, he said. At no place in the cities and the villages are the shelters more than 500 yards apart and often much closer. Large white lines with arrows pointing to each one as well as large signs tell where each shelter is placed. The towns and cities are divided into districts and sub-districts and each small division has its own first-aid officers, its own fire-fighting apparatus and police patrols. When an air raid sounds each division goes into action and everything is coordinated readily.

All over England, the mail boxes are painted on top with a silver-like solution which will turn red, yellow or green when certain kinds of poisonous gas are used. It is the duty of the warden in the district to note the color of the tops and to telephone it out over the country.

Barricades Everywhere
"Both men and women are in uniform and are doing war work. Sand bag barricades are everywhere. The large plate glass windows in the shops are taped for safety. Foreign newspapers, even the leading German ones, are still sold in London."

Casoline is strictly rationed and the cost of living doubled while Mr. Adamson lived in London. Some foods were hard to get but an abundance of butter and meat could be had in the better class restaurants.

"The balloon barrage placed around London and a few of the other large cities," he said, "seemed to give the inhabitants a feeling of security. These balloons, gray in color, are anchored in staggered formation at an altitude of from 10 to 20,000 feet. They are kept up most of the time but can be lowered or raised in a very short time. Airplanes do not bomb effectively at or over 10,000 feet."

Inadequate Equipment
Declaring that under Chamberlain the government was slow and was "woefully unprepared to fight," Mr. Adamson said that equipment for the conscripted army was exremely inadequate although the smaller standing army was well equipped.

"The British navy," he said, "is second to none. Many of the English ships are not as new, not as good, nor as fast as the newer German fleet but the training in the British navy is far superior to that of Germany."

"The English air force is not as well trained as the German's but it contains the cream of the English youth as far as physical and educational requirements are concerned. Qualitatively the British military units are as good as the German but not quantitatively because the English do not have the war machinery nor the intensive training."

Finance Wizards
Mr. Adamson believes that the British are wizards of finance for they run their government and take care of their enormous navy on a third of what the U. S. spends on government. There, he said, the rich men are actually having to pay for the war expenditures and the armament program.

Mr. Adamson spent some little time in France and there he talked with the civilians as well as the soldiers. The Frenchman loves his country passionately, and the city of Paris stood on the same as ever. France, Belgium and Holland felt sincerely that the Germans could never come through again—and the average German felt the same.

The Germans whom Mr. Adamson talked with said that if they could only whip the French army, the rest of Europe would be easy.

Fear in Italy
"When you entered Italy, a sense of fear and depression descended upon you," declared Mr. Adamson. "There is an air of intense mistrust about everyone and everybody is afraid to talk. Every foreigner is suspected. There is no free speech or free press. The people do not dare to express their feelings even to their closest friends—or even to members of their own families. This sense of oppression grows on you the longer you live in Italy."

People to whom Mr. Adamson talked who had traveled or lived in Russia or Germany said that the same was true of those other countries.

"Our stomachs are empty, but our hearts are full," one old man told them. The people all over Italy are ragged and hungry and the living conditions there are as bad as they are in India and China among the lower class. Nobody has any idea as to what might happen to him tomorrow. His future depends entirely upon Mussolini's every whim."

Financing the war
The British are wizards of finance for they run their government and take care of their enormous navy on a third of what the U. S. spends on government. There, he said, the rich men are actually having to pay for the war expenditures and the armament program.

Mussolini's motto is 'Believe—Obey—and Fight!' The average Italian hates the German and is pro-ally. Even the Fascists distrust the Germans."

In the tiny town of Pugilano in Italy, Mr. Adamson and his companion counted 76 barefoot children—and this was in the winter month of January.
