JAPAN PUTS NEW POWER INTO PROGRAM TO CRUSH CHINESE

ROAD CLOSING IS NO BUSINESS OF U. S., SAYS HEAD

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor

Japan put new power today into a program designed to crush Chinese resistance and win dominance of the far east while Europe prepares for the long-threatened offensive of the axis powers against Great Britain.

At Tokyo, the foreign office announced the British government had agreed to close the Burma road over which supplies move to China for three months and otherwise to aid in cutting off Chinese war materials.

The Japanese spokesman said the Burma road was no concern of the United States, despite a statement by Secretary Cordell Hull that its closure would be an unwarranted obstacle to world trade.

War of Nerves

The war in Europe continues to concentrate on nerves and propaganda, mixed with sporadic but heavy aerial blows by both sides. The Rome radio strongly discounted reports that the axis offensive against Britain would start this week-end and that Italian Foreign Minister Ciano had sailed for London.

A dispatch from London reported Josef V. Stalin had informed the British that the Soviets not only intended to keep out of the war, but saw no reason for concern over prospects that Adolf Hitler would soon complete German domination of Europe. Stalin was said to have explained frankly to British ambassador Sir Stafford Cripps that Russia had nothing to fear from Germany.

Ready for Bid

That the axis powers are about ready to make their climactic bid for victory over Britain appeared certain, but a flurry of threats from Rome and Berlin gave no definite clue to how or when. In Rome, it was believed Adolf Hitler would address the reichstag prior to the showdown, but in Berlin it was insisted that nothing was known of the fuhrer's plans.

As the showdown approached in Europe, the Japanese moved to take advantage of Britain's position by a stronger drive for a dictated peace with China and for spread of Japanese influence throughout Asia and to the south seas.

Ground Class Open to Many

Although age limit is 25 for persons wishing to compete for OAA non-college flight scholarships, south Idahoans of any age may take part in the ground school training which precedes the scholarships. It was pointed out today for those who wish the ground training as prelude to their own private flying lessons.

Sign-up is now underway for the ground school with a total of 30 already listed, according to Milton L. Powell, Chamber of Commerce aeronautics committee chairman. Powell said that if more than 50 enroll by Saturday noon, two classes will be held instead of one.

Five government flying scholarships will be awarded the five highest competitors who fill age and other qualifications. The five will be expanded to 10 scholarships if two ground classes are necessary here.

Air-minded south Idahoans desiring to try for the scholarships must secure their physical examination certificates by Saturday noon from Dr. Dean H. Affleck, examiner. Those not intending to try for the actual flight course need not take such examination.

Scholarship competitors must be 18 years of age or older, and cannot be more than 28 as of July 1.

Persons desiring the ground school training only are to pay a $10 fee. Similar non-college training is available also at Burley.

Mrs. Durham, mother of seven children, appeared for sentence today after admitting yesterday, in misdemeanor assault trial, that she slapped her neighbor, Mrs. Gayle Barnes. She told the court the slapping occurred after Mrs. Barnes assertedly said the Durham children were thieves.

Judge Bailey, in suspending the jail sentence, warned the defendant that any similar violation will mean she must serve the 10 days.

In a previous case in which Mrs. Barnes was the defendant, Mrs. Durham was complaining witness. Mrs. Barnes was acquitted of a charge that she struck one of Mrs. Durham's children.

BRITISH COMMONS PROTESTS CLOSING OF BURMA ROAD

AGREEMENT FOR CUTTING CHINESE AID BRINGS FIGHT

By FREDERICK KUH
LONDON, July 17 (U.P.)—The government's agreement with Japan to close the Burma road to war shipments to China provoked an uproar in the house of commons today when members, shouted it was a "shameful" deal and asserted it had been protested by the United States.

At almost the hour the Japanese foreign office was announcing terms of the agreement in Tokyo, the house of commons was told of the terms by Richard A. Butler, under secretary for foreign affairs. Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax made a similar statement in the house of lords.

Members of both houses protested the government against closing the road over which China was receiving supplies and against putting pressure on China to make peace with Japan as had been reported like.

Agree to Close
(At Tokyo, the foreign office said Britain had agreed to close the road for three months from July 18, shutting off war shipments; to cease all shipments from Hong Kong to China and to permit Japanese consular officials at Rangoon and Hong Kong to check on the effectiveness of the order.)

The British action, upon Japan's demand, leaves China with only one supply route and that is a slow one by way of Russia through Turkistan.

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, called the agreement shameful and asked whether it could be expected to be more successful than previous "appeasement" moves such as the appeasement of Adolf Hitler at Munich. The Liberal asked whether the government in view of the "moral test" from Secretary of State Cordell Hull would refuse transit for United States goods to China. American goods have moved largely over the Burma road and Hull advised Britain the closure order was considered an unwarranted obstacle to world trade.

Butler, asked whether, in view of Hull's statement, the United States approved the action, said: "We must leave the interpretation of the American statement to the Americans."

Previously, it had been said the United States merely noted the British action—which China vigorously protested—without registering objections.

Closing of the road in line with the tightened Japanese blockade of China will be for the normal rainy season of three months, when traffic is comparatively slight, but it was regarded by Chinese as a severe blow.

Wasps paralyze their prey by stinging, and seem to know the vital spots of each type of victim.

SOLON FIRES AT 3RD TERM PERIL

JEROME, July 17 (Special)—Roosevelt third term would jeopardize this democracy, and in view of the high tension at present in Washington, congress should remain in session until the war crisis is abated, were the opinions expressed by W. H. Deweller, Hazelton, who addressed the Jerome county women's G. O. P. meeting here last week.

The session was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Sinclair, Rep. Deweller, among other items, discussed the platform adopted at the recent Republican national convention in Philadelphia, which he attended as a delegate. He conducted a round table discussion at the conclusion of his formal address.

Mrs. H. C. Duffin, county chairman, presided. Appointments of Mrs. Clarence P. Smith as transportation chairman was made. The next meeting of the ladies' G. O. P. club will be held in Eden, with the place to be announced. Anyone wishing transportation is asked to contact either Mrs. Smith or Mrs. E. W. Sinclair, the secretary. At the next meeting Mrs. A. E. FARMERS PLAN TO STORE GRAINS

BURLEY, July 17 (Special)—With wheat harvest in full swing from one end of Idaho to the other, many farmers are thinking about taking advantage of commodity loans to avoid the usual harvest-time "soft" prices, states H. A. Shaw, jr., member of Cassia county agricultural conservation committee in charge of commodity loans.

"Since barley is eligible for loans from the commodity credit corporation this year, too, storage facilities may be somewhat cheaped on Cassia county farms," Shaw said.

Farm or Warehouse
Wheat put up as security for commodity loans may be placed either in suitable farm storage, or in warehouses which have been approved by the loan corporation. Warehouse storage for loan barley in north Idaho recently was allowed by the corporation. Farm storage for barley is accepted in all parts of the state.

Farmers who intend to store wheat and barley under seal on their own farms as security for their loans should be sure their bins are in condition to keep the grain without spoilage.

Present granaries and buildings to be used for storage, and new structures farmers may build for the purpose must be built to keep out vermin and weather. Structures should be constructed tightly enough for fumigating and all entrances must be closed and locked.

Roof and Foundation
"A good roof and a good foundation are two vitally important requirements for safe storage," said Shaw. "Loan grain is inspected periodically to see if it is in condition, and any loss must be made up by the borrower."

If loans are paid off by turning wheat over to the commodity credit corporation when they mature, seven cents per bushel will be allowed as a storage payment to the producer. Barley loans are seven cents higher per bushel for farm-stored grain than for grain stored in warehouses.

"Old buildings which are repaired and properly strengthened, patented steel bins, and farm granaries built expressly to hold loan grain have been used with complete satisfaction during the last two years when wheat loans have been made in the state," Shaw said. "Farmers build granaries in a number of different styles, some even from logs. Up to now, however, there have been no losses which have been over the safety limit allowed when the loans are made."

AIRPORT PROJECT SOUGHT BY CITY

Designation of a WPA project for improvement of the Twin Falls municipal airport as a part of the national defense program loomed today as a possibility after the city council at a special meeting yesterday afternoon filed an application for a project estimated at from $150,000 to $160,000.

Chief improvement under the proposed project would be oiling of runways, with cost estimated at $50,000 each for the three runways at the port. Each of the three old runways would be 500 feet wide and 4,000 feet long, according to information included in the application. Surfaced portion would be 150 feet wide.

A three-inch surfacing over an oil base and six inches of gravel would be used on the runways. Removal of 300,000 cubic yards of dirt for fill, leveling of the port and drainage of the field also would be included in the project.

Financial participation of Twin Falls in the project would be on a 70 per cent basis if the project is designated as part of the national defense program. Other projects call for 25 per cent participation by the sponsor.

Mayor Joe Koehler pointed out at yesterday's special session of the city council that construction of a station and administration building at the airport would almost certainly follow development of the field. The mayor and council met yesterday with Robert Hampton, district WPA supervisor, and Flex B. Wilson, city engineer.

The application for the airport work will have to be approved by the district WPA office at Buhl before being sent to regional offices in Denver. Final approval must be given by headquarters in Washington, D. C.

SERIAL STORY
FLYING CO-ED
BY MARY KINNAVEY MOORE

CHAPTER I
ANNE NORRIS pulled her leather flying helmet down over her long bobbed, golden-red hair. Above the roar of the "revving up" motor and the whirling prop, she raised her voice to call to a dark-eyed girl standing near the hangar door.

Illustrated by Carol Johnson.

Watching Tony's roadster, Anne walked across the field, forgetting flying, her uncle's ultimatum, and the whirling propeller. The first warning of her danger came with Georgette's scream: "Anne!! The prop!!"

National Income Rising

The national income for 1939 was nearly $70,000,000,000, the Commerce department has announced. That is still well under the peak of $82,900,000,000 for 1929, but because things produced in these times bring lower prices than in 1929, actual physical production is probably about equal to that year.

BRUCE GATTON IN WASHINGTON

CHICAGO, July 17.—The shadow of a man who isn't there falls over the Democratic national convention, just as a similar shadow cast by another absent brother fell across the Republican convention a fortnight earlier.

President Roosevelt was an unseen but potent influence at Philadelphia. Wendell Willkie is the same kind of influence here.
A convention which goes to work under that kind of handicap tends to be vague, uneasy, like a man who suspects he is being followed even though he can't actually see anything when he turns his head to look.

Bridal Pair on Way From Canadian Trip

Rev. and Mrs. R. O. Stovee, Mekinock, N. D., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Esther Rosamond Stovee, to Manley W. Hendricks, the ceremony being performed July 3, at the Ness Lutheran church there, the bride's father officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks, now on a wedding trip to Canada, will return to Twin Falls July 27. The bridegroom is a native of Twin Falls, son of local pioneers, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hendricks.

For her marriage the bride wore a gown of sheer silk and lace organdie over satin and carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses. The wedding veil was shoulder length.

Her maid of honor, Agnes Constance Pyre, wore light rose lace over satin and carried roses, and her bridesmaids, Miss Donna Bekkedal and Miss Julia Nette, wore blue and rose moire taffeta dresses and corsages of yellow and red roses.

Mrs. Stovee, mother of the bride, played the wedding march from the "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner and nuptial songs were sung by Olaf Stovee, brother of the bride.

Bridegroom's attendants were Olaf Stovee, Robert Stovee and Kenneth Charles Pyre, Mekinock. Kenneth Bekkedal and Verona Henarud were ushers.

Twenty-four guests attended the wedding dinner served following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Hendricks is a member of the Twin Falls county general hospital nursing staff. Mr. Hendricks, a graduate of Twin Falls high school, is associated with the Home Plumbing and Heating company.

Activity Booms On Burley's Golfing Course

BURLEY, July 17 (Special)—Things are booming at the Burley Municipal Golf Club and week in and week out there is a tournament of some kind or other going on—or some other sort of activity.

Last Thursday was ladies' day and a big crowd of feminine golfers was on hand for the event—17 to be exact. The blind bogey match was won by Mrs. Charles Haight. In the driving contest Mrs. Louise Culbertson took first, Mrs. Evelyn Judewine second and Mrs. Charles Haight, third.

The putting contest went to Mrs. Pearl Rambo, with second place to Mrs. Culbertson and third to Mrs. Pearl Craner.

Best Ball Meet
The best-ball tournament for men nears conclusion and the first team to reach the finals was that of Dr. H. L. Shade and partner, Glen Hunter.

They gained the final round by disposing of Jack Roper and Bill Peter last year's champions. Shade and Hunter will meet the winner of the Jim Roper-George Kronkhitte vs. Jess Black-Fred Judewine match.

Joint Meeting
Recently a meeting was held with members of the Cassia Rod and Gun club, the Boat club and the Golf club in attendance. It was an early morning breakfast held at the fire place on the golf course and a total of 57 showed up.

After due consideration and much discussion the three groups decided that the Boat club would get a landing at Scholer park, the Rod and Gun club could leave its pheasant pens on the golf club property until next year and the Golf club named as president of the organized new officers.

ization was H. O. Hall. C. W. Harris was elected vice-president, while George Denman was named secretary-treasurer. On the tournament committee were Harry Colwell, L. L. Culbertson and Glen Hunter; membership committee: Orville Hill, H. P. Lewis and Earl Buras; greens committee: William Roper, H. P. Deardorf and Fred Laidlow.

Qualifying Rounds
Next Sunday qualifying rounds start for the club championship. Defending champion is Jack Roper and according to some of the scores shot this year, he is really going to have some tough competition. Among those who are given a good chance at annexing the title are L. L. Culbertson, Harry Colwell, Jess Black, I. H. Harris, Dr. Shade, Glen Hunter, Dr. Denn, Bryan Culler and a good many others.

Ralph Stowell and Jim Roper are listed as "dark horse" threats.

Ladies' Day
There will be another ladies' day this Thursday (July 18) and Mrs. Pearl Rambo and Mrs. Pearl Craner in charge—assisted by Professional Jim Edward.

Plans are for the organization of a 10-woman team to play matches with other ladies' teams in southern Idaho.

HERE'S TEXT OF FDR MESSAGE TO BOURBONS

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—The 146 words given to the Democratic convention last night in behalf of President Roosevelt by Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, follow:

I and other close friends of the President have long known that he has no wish to be a candidate again. We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of delegates, or upon the opinions of, delegates, or upon the opinions of, delegates, or upon the opinions of, delegates, to this convention.

Tonight, at the specific request and authorization of the President,

I am making this simple fact clear to this convention.

The President has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of President, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office.

He wishes in all earnestness and sincerely to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate.

This is the message I bear to you from the President of the United States.

British Air Raiders Bomb Big Italian Port in Africa

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

British air raids over Tobruk on the Mediterranean coast of Libya today to efforts to impede Italian supplies reaching Mussolini's forces in north Africa. Tobruk is the principal naval harbor of Italian north Africa, the only port where large draught Italian vessels can unload heavy material for military use in Italy's north African campaign.

If Tobruk were made untenable for Italian shipping, communication between Mussolini's north African empire and the mainland would be severed, except for air transport. This objective forms the secondary part of British strategy in the Mediterranean.

There has never been a closer blockade than the one Britain is now enforcing on Italy nor a simpler one to Britain. The Mediterranean is practically an inland sea and by holding control of Gibraltar and the Suez canal, Great Britain really commands the waterway. Italy's only means of breaking the blockade would be to challenge the British fleet to combat and defeat it.

No Initiative

The Italians have shown no desire, however, to take the initiative in a naval engagement. Italian warships are speedier than the British in almost all classes, though not so powerfully armed and armored.

How much concentrated effort Great Britain may apply to the Mediterranean campaign's secondary phase of cutting off supplies for Libya depends on future military developments in Italy's African colonies. To the present time, operations by Mussolini's colonial troops have been negligible.

Minor Struggles

There have been minor struggles for frontier mud forts in Kenya having no bearing on the outcome of the war. There have been exchanges of air raids in north Africa, also without any military value. Army operations in Africa, in fact, have not even reached the size of ordinary military peace-time maneuvers.

Each side is pin-pricking the other. British air assaults on Tobruk are of this character. But, it is humiliating to naval pride when a belligerent persistently bombs an essential harbor base of its enemy. By impeding normal communications between Italy and Libya, Great Britain is flaunting her Mediterranean power before the eyes of Mussolini. If that were to succeed in enticing the Italian navy to move out from its bases and offer battle, the British would consider their work well done. But Mussolini probably is too realistic to fall into any such trap.

Keep Sea Locked

The major purpose of British Mediterranean operations is to keep the sea locked at the Gibraltar and Suez ends so supplies from abroad cannot reach Italy. To the present the British fleet has succeeded in making this plan effective. No vessel bound for Italy from any port beyond the Mediterranean area can reach its destination.

TRUSTEE ASKING FUND RECOVERY

Suit by which the trustee for a Wendell bankrupt seeks to recover various sums totalling about $50,000 had been filed in district court today.

Claimant is Fred P. Bates, Twin Falls, trustee for Clifford Mathias Carpenter, Wendell. Defendants are Idaho Sales company and Otto Steinberg, Kimberly and Twin Falls, manager and vice-president of the produce brokerage concern.

The suit advised the court that Carpenter was partner with Steinberg in three ranches in Gooding and Elmore counties during 1937, 1938 and 1939. The trustee claims $18,778 as Carpenter's share of potato, onion and barley crops for 1937. Claims of $5,000 each are made for the 1938 and 1939 crops and an accounting is asked for those two years.

Other sums requested in the suit are $7,000, asserted to be value of farm equipment and machinery which Carpenter assigned to Steinberg, and $1,500 as rental value for the machinery.

Harry Benoit is attorney for Bates in the action.

Caution Lights Replace 'Stops'

Amber lenses for flasher lights at all "five points" in Twin Falls were ordered today to replace present red lenses in the lights, said Howard A. Gillette, chief of police.

The caution lenses were ordered on recommendation of the city council when it was pointed out that the red stop lights are confusing to tourists and might result in a serious accident.
