WHEELER LASHES DONOVAN AS AIDE TO CONSCRIPTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., challenged today the value of the support given to the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill by Col. William J. "Wild Bill" Donovan, World War hero who was sent to Montana to investigate Wheeler's activities during the post-war period.

Donovan, an assistant attorney-general in the justice department when it was headed by Harry H. Daugherty during the Harding administration, was one of a group of investigators whose findings resulted in Wheeler's indictment in 1923 on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government by accepting fees for appearing in all cases handled by the interior department.

Wheeler was acquitted by a Montana jury which did not leave the box. He also was cleared by a senatorial investigating committee which termed the charges completely lacking in foundation. Wheeler always maintained his charges were "trumped-up" because of his attempt to inform the public of Daugherty's malfeasance in office.

"All you have to do is to read the record," Wheeler retorted. "Either Donovan was misled by people in the justice department or he was not a good lawyer."

Sailplane Expert Cracks World Record for Height

SUN VALLEY, Aug. 13 (Special)—Soaring on the wings of a strong thermal updraft, Lewis B. Barringer, Orange, N. J., had climbed to 14,100 feet above Ketchum today to claim a new world's record for two-passenger sailplanes.

Barringer said the mark is the first world gliding record held in the United States in the past six years.

"We may keep the barograph until the end of the week, but we expect to ship it in because it isn't likely we can better this mark at present."

"The forest is in an explosive condition," Herndon said. "As the present time there are 340 men on both blazes. If they are able to keep the blazes in control this afternoon and evening, the worst burning time then they can probably arrest the spread and win the fight."

Hundreds Of Planes In Attack

LONDON, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—German planes, their attacks growing in intensity each hour, rained death by bomb and machine gun on towns and villages of England, Wales and Scotland today.

TEXAS COMPANY LEADER OUSTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The mysterious activities of Dr. Gerhard Aloys Westrick, trade counselor to the German embassy, resulted today in the chairman of the board of directors of one of the nation's largest oil companies losing his job.

The Texas Oil Corp. announced resignation of Captain Torikild Rieber, a Norwegian immigrant who rose from a deck hand on an oil tanker to head of the corporation at a $100,000 annual salary, because of "existing circumstances."

Rieber's connection with the Nazi envoy was disclosed two weeks ago. Last Friday it was testified at a hearing before officials of the state motor vehicle bureau, he had ordered a $175,000 automobile for Westrick with Texas company money. The bureau had questioned validity of Westrick's application for a driver's license, registration certificate and license plates. They were revoked when it became known Westrick had given false information in his applications.

The much publicized activities of Westrick, who said he was in this country only to promote United States-German trade "after the war," disclosed he had been given Texas company offices as a business address.

Insisting his relations with the German embassy had "no political significance," Rieber said the automobile merely was a courtesy which the company would extend any foreigner with which it had business. A company spokesman explained, however, it had had no investments in Germany for more than 20 years, and quoted Rieber that no oil had been delivered to the German government since before start of the war.

HOUSE TO STUDY MOBILIZING ACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Chairman Andrew J. May of the house military affairs committee, said today the house will take up tomorrow the national guard mobilization bill which would authorize President Roosevelt to call up some 300,000 guardsmen and reservists for training or for hemisphere defense.

"The measure has senate approval. My committee late yesterday reported the bill favorably but made one important change which may meet opposition on the floor."

It struck out a provision which would have made employers who refused to rehire draftees subject to prosecution under the Wagner act.

May refused to disclose the vote by which the Wagner act "protection amendment" was stricken but indicated he believes adequate protection could be given through another bill he is sponsoring. That measure, endorsed by the army, would protect trainees by deferring whatever payments they owe on rent, insurance, taxes and other fixed expenses.

Semi-Blitzkrieg Under Way Over British Territory

GERMANS AVOID LONDON, FEARING BERLIN'S ATTACK

By J. W. T. MASON

United Press War Expert
The cumulative intensity of German air raids over Great Britain during the present week is assuming the form of a semi-blitzkrieg. A full blitzkrieg, seeking to destroy British resistance and force capitulation would require far more planes than have yet been used and would necessitate the bombing of London where British defenses are directed.

To the present the German attacks have deliberately avoided London—the Germans presumably not wishing retaliation against Berlin. The purpose of the present modified blitzkrieg thus does not seem to be aimed at quick annihilation. Through the German attacking planes are numbered by the hundreds, the daily visitations must be regarded as experimental, intended to discover how the British defenses react to large scale assaults.

Withhold Major Offensive
If the German high command decides the British defenses are weakening and mass attacks can dominate the air, then the real blitzkrieg may be expected. But it is well within the requirements of realistic strategy for the Germans to withhold a truly major offensive until they have experimented further with their large squadrons. This form of war is new and the Germans themselves must learn by experience how to plan an attack involving a thousand or more planes.

No Importance to Claim
Berlin's unofficial claim that the Germans have control of the air over Dover would have major importance if an invasion were being launched against the almost impregnable cliff coast of Britain. But with the air battle moving quickly from place to place, control of a small air area means at best no more than temporary ability to drop more bombs. It is not the same as control of a city by an army during land operations.

The Germans are not concentrating on specified areas as would be the case in land fighting. They have taken all Britain as their objective and the channel as well. This would seem to imply continuation of efforts to feel for undisclosed British weaknesses and uncertainty by the Germans as to the proper positions where their offensive might be centralized.

THREE AUSTRALIA CABINET MEN DIE

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Three cabinet ministers, the chief of the Australian general staff, two other passengers and a crew of four crashed to death in a royal air force airplane two miles from Canberra airport today. When Mayor George H. Lysle suggested Humansky might be rehired as a repairman, George W. Farley, head meter reader, said: "That's impossible — he can't see."

The introduction of new record books in the water bureau revealed Humansky had been faking readings for years. When actual readings were taken water bills doubled and tripled.

Mac Picks Pastor to Win Over Conn--But He Can't Say Why

BY HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—Tweedledum fights Tweedledee at the Polo Grounds tonight. I pick Bob Pastor.
Don't ask me why I like Pastor over Billy Conn, because choosing between them is like naming the more handsome of Siamese twins, or selecting which pea in a pod is most likely to succeed, or choosing between jumping off the Empire State building or the Chrysler building.
Early and Bob are that much alike as fighters. To start with, neither is a full-sized heavyweight. Conn, despite all the talk of how he has grown in the last three months, won't weigh much over 175 pounds tonight, and Pastor will come in at 183 or thereabouts. Neither can punch much harder than your little brother. You could put the two of 'em in a paper sack and they'd have to work as a team to get out.
Then there is the matter of speed. Conn is faster than a whip-lash for supper, and Pastor is only a shade less speedy with his hands and feet.
Both of them are Fancy Dan fighters, a Fancy Dan being one who goes through the boxing motions with the grace of a ballerina, giving off the dying swan. They are the type of boxers who delighted the soul of the marquis of Queensberry and brought forth "bravos" and "well dones" from the old boy.
There is nothing to choose between the courage of the Pittsburgh Actons and the New Yorker. Conn has proved in a score of fights he has his full share of fighting heart, and one had only to see Pastor get off the floor four times in the first round of his Detroit bout with Joe Louis to know there is no "chicken" in his make-up.
So, why do I like Pastor?
I don't know, unless it be because I feel Pastor is the smarter of the two. Not smarter in book learning, but smarter in the ways of the ring. The New Yorker hasn't had it quite as easy as Conn. Pastor has fought just about everybody in the country, including Louis. He came up the

DARING BOATMEN EXPLORE SALMON

Their craft were three 17-foot kayaks, made of rubber-covered fabric stretched over wooden frames.

COMPROMISE SET ON CONSCRIPTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Administration leaders today made the first move toward compromise on the peacetime conscription bill and hoped the step would thin the ranks of the measure's opponents.
Chairman Morris Sheppard of the senate military affairs committee accepted an amendment proposed by Sen. Josh Lee, D., Okla., to raise the basic pay of enlisted men from $91 to $30 a month. Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley said he approved of Sheppard's action.
The move, if carried out, would go part way toward meeting the demands of a group which contends that low army pay has been an obstacle to recruiting. At the same time, it would eliminate discrepancies between army and navy basic pay which have been a subject of bitter criticism in recent years.

GERMANY'S FORCE CLAIMS AIR CONTROL OVER DOVER

BRITISH PLANES REPORTED SHOT DOWN BY NAZIS

By RICHARD C. HOTTELET
BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP).—German informants asserted today the German air force had won control of the air over Dover, Britain's vital seaport on the southeast coast, after a series of air fights this morning in which the Dover balloon barrage was smashed.

It was asserted a large number of British fighter planes had been shot down and 16 had been definitely counted. Supplementing a statement by a usually well informed source that at least four barrage balloons had been shot down, the official news agency said:

"Air battles ensued in course of which the Germans won control of the air over Dover."

A well informed source commented without explanation:

"Today's raids appear to be the heaviest thus far, according to reports."

"Greater news is to be expected in the course of the day."

"In today's air battles over Dover British planes avoided a fight with the German attackers. The British air force seems desirous of avoiding risks," an informant said.

Raid Army Field

German planes attacked airports at Eastchurch, Aldershot and Portsmouth, and did severe damage to the flying field, hangars and airport buildings. It was asserted. In these raids, it was said, 14 British planes and five German planes at least had been shot down. Fires and explosions were observed at all three fields, it was asserted, and grounded planes were destroyed.

(Aldershot, a big British army base, is 34 miles southwest of central London and 25 miles from its outermost suburbs.)

Earlier the official news agency had said German and British air forces were fighting fiercely in a series of battles over various points in England and the English channel.

Field Marshal Hermann Goering's newspaper organ, the National Zeitung of Essen, said editorially:

Plan Steady Attack

"Day by day the blows of German attack will strike the British Isles until Great Britain's war mongers find themselves forced to capitulate."

It said even the strongest air forces could not stand such losses as those the British have suffered, "let alone the British which is numerically inferior to the German and Italian air forces."

The British balloon barrages are favorite targets of daytime raiders, the paper said, and could endanger only night bombers.

Portsmouth was selected as the first objective of a big scale raid, the newspaper said, because it was the base for British anti-submarine patrols.

Beauty Winners Would Drop in— For a Guarantee

Miss Washington and Miss Montana want to stop over in Twin Falls en route to Atlantic City's Miss America contest.

Otis L. Oliver, of West Coast Productions, wrote the Chamber of Commerce here today asking whether Twin Falls would like to have the two beauty winners drop in. Twin Falls probably wouldn't since there would be the small matter of a financial arrangement.

The Montana beauty queen is to be named at the state fair in Great Falls; Washington will select its shapeliest beauty in competition at Tacoma.

At 8 a. m. the group will make a tour of this section, visiting the various experimental plots sponsored by the U. S. department of agriculture and also the Amalgamated company.

After the tour, members will return to the hotel for a business session, Elcock said. The committee includes beet leaders from the western states.

Deadline Set for Wheat Insurance

BURLEY, Aug. 13 (Special).—Closing date for acceptance of crop insurance applications in Cassia county was announced this week as Aug. 31 by H. A. Shaw, Jr., member of the county agricultural conservation association in charge of crop insurance.

The Aug. 31 closing date applies only to growers of winter wheat. Growers must have their applications signed and premium payments made to their county A.A.A. office before the wheat is seeded.

No applications will be accepted after this final date, even if the crop hasn't been planted, according to Shaw. Insuring before seeding gives assurance that all growers will be on the same basis with regard to the prospects of the wheat crops.

Insurance for winter wheat goes into effect as soon as the premium is paid.

Shaw asserted 89 British planes had been shot down yesterday with a German loss of only 24.

BOTHWELL CALLED "LOGICAL" CHOICE

Marshall Chapman, local attorney today had declared in a radio address that Judge James R. Bothwell, Democratic candidate for the United States senate, was the logical candidate "for those of us in south central Idaho" to support.

Chapman said that the party was fortunate in that it had two men, Bothwell and George Donnat, Welsler, either of whom if nominated is capable of beating Senator John Thomas in the general election in November.

Logical Choice

"However, to those of us in south central Idaho the logical candidate for our support is James R. Bothwell of Twin Falls," Chapman said. "I believe that, not only as a matter of local pride, but the possibility that a local man may hold the high office of United States senator from Idaho, but because of his intellectual attainments and breadth of experience, James R. Bothwell can in these times best serve the nation, and because of his close association with our irrigation problems, he can in any time best serve Idaho and Idaho agriculture."

Also giving a final radio appeal last night was J. W. Taylor, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket.

"Taylor asserted that 'Chapman was very ardent in his endorsement of my work in the attorney general's office until sometime in July of 1933.' Taylor was speaking regarding the 'tim-to-rim' bridge action which he opposed."

Diseasee Bridge

Taylor likewise discussed at some length the bridge situation here. The bridge is now free of tolls. Chapman has declared that Taylor and Ira H. Masters, now a candidate for congress, were instrumental in blocking the fight for the free bridge, thus delaying the action.

After the blast by Taylor last night, Chapman issued a statement in which he challenged the summary of the "bridge deal" as presented by Taylor, and added:

"It was most fortunate that all conversations with the attorney general in connection with the bridge purchase were made in the presence of other reputable citizens."

Chapman also said that nomination of Taylor today would mean "victory for Bottolseep and certain defeat for the Democrats in November."

THIS CHART MAKES CAR PRICES CLEAR

It shows all items in the price you pay, provides your best protection against "packed" prices

MAYBE you've been buying automobiles for a long time.

Maybe you figure that the way to get the best "deal" is to play one dealer against another until you get the highest trade-in figure for your old car.

But do you figure out the actual money difference between the old-car allowance and the new-car delivered price?

Do you take steps to make sure something has not been slipped into the delivered price to take care of the extra allowance you get for your old car?

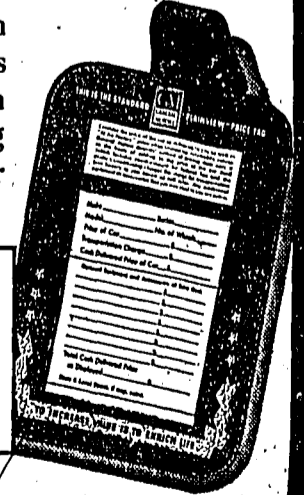

That is called "packing"—and your best protection against it is to get a full and itemized statement of all details in the price.

The whole deal is then out in the open, as it should be, and you can see exactly what you pay for what you get.

To help you see all the items of the price you pay, General Motors has furnished its dealers with "plainview" price charts similar to the one above and price tags to place on cars on display in their showrooms.

How about dropping in on your nearest General Motors dealer? Ask him to explain how "plainview" pricing helps you get real value for your money.
