NAZI ANGER FLARES AFTER BERLIN BOMBING

Cloudy Skies May Slice Attendance; Rodeo Opens at 8

FILED, Sept. 11 (Special)—With officials casting anxious eyes at cloud-laden skies, the county fair now in progress here was a mecca for Twin Falls residents as Twin Falls day observance was held.
At 2 p. m. this afternoon the crowd coming through the gates was far greater than that visiting the grounds opening day and by the time the rodeo ends tonight, after getting underway at 8 p. m., officials feel sure that a "good record crowd" will be written in the attendance books.
Tomorrow's afternoon program in front of the grandstand starts at 2 p. m. as did the program today with the first number being a stock parade. The regular program, featuring a three-ring circus act, will get underway about 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Gate Admission Lowered
Gate admissions are lowered each day at 6 p. m. officials pointed out.
It was also pointed out that school children from over the entire county will be admitted Friday, until 6 p. m. admission free, the day being designated children's day and set to close.

Second big rodeo show is set to start at 8 p. m. today after the initial performance last night attracted an estimated 9,000.
Orange exhibits and flower arrangements today continued to attract hundreds of visitors as did Future Farmers of America contests. Like-wise many were enjoying the rides and shows at the carnival which is running at a peak.

Live Stock Auction
One feature of the fair will be a livestock auction, scheduled on the grounds Friday at 2:30 a. m. with C. J. Walker as auctioneer.
The stock to be the property of members of the various 4-H and Future Farmers of America clubs included in the sale will be 21 head of hogs, four lambs, 10 calves and 10 heifers. Many buyers have indicated their intentions of attending this sale.

COURTS HITS AT BOTT'S CHARGES
ROBE, Ida., Sept. 11 (UP)—Gov. C. A. Bott's charges that the Republican party is being hampered by Democratic "corporations of confusion" were answered today by George H. Curtis, Democratic secretary of state.

The governor is as pleased as punch with his army little phrasemongers of confusion and repeats it at every possible occasion.
"Much as I hate to repeat myself I must repeat my request that the courts remove all one or two—of the obstructions which obstruct him.

Even if the governor's vague charges had anything in them he forgets that logic as good as his will injure the people to whom a Democratic secretary of state is complete view to obtaining more vision, energy and accomplishment from their government.

Old Timer and Cowgirls at County Fair

An even 30 years of rodeo experience is represented in the above picture, taken today as the "old timer" and the more or less "new comers" of the fair. The trio (left to right) are Alice Greenough, bronc rider; Edward K. Lane, the world's oldest cowboy; and Margie Greenough, bronc rider. The two girls, both rodeo champions, have been in the same 10 years each, while Lane's home for the past 30 years has been a saddle, having made his first ride at the tender age of three years. All play active parts in the Leo Cremer rodeo now showing at the Filer fair grounds at 8 p. m.

Oldest Cowboy--Who Rode at San Juan With Teddy R--Now at Filer

By O. A. KELKER
FILED, Sept. 11 (Special)—He isn't smiling, ivory tusked Teddy Roosevelt but he was with him at San Juan hill and was a member of the late President's famous Rough Riders.
That's Edward K. Lane, 70 years young, the world's oldest cowboy who continues a saddle as necessary for comfort as most men his age consider a soft, easy chair.
For 70 years, figuratively speaking, a saddle has been his "home." Today, as a breeder of fine Palomino and Appaloosa horses, he is with Leo Cremer's rodeo which is now showing at the Filer fair grounds.
Famed Cowboy
Maybe it's the "father in me," he said today as he posed for his picture along with two girls who are equally as famous in the rodeo world. These two girls, Alice and Margie Greenough and they are world's champion bronc riders.
"Think crack about the father in him," the two girls said concerning Lane. "Is no fool." He really is just like a father to us.
But getting back to Lane, records show that when the Rough Riders with the famous Roosevelt Rough Riders in '98 he was never hit by any bullets although his captain and one lieutenant were killed and several other men wounded all around him.
Cowboy 53 Years
He now 53 years of age. Most, who for 53 years he was an active cowboy on the Platteau Indian reserve. To him a saddle is as necessary as a shaving brush. Without it he would be lost.
"I've been with Leo Cremer's rodeo for several years now," Lane said, "and hope to be with it for several years more. I've been a lot of good shows in my day but none can compare with this outfit at the present time. Without a doubt, the stock is the best in the United States."
When they see the show, Twin Falls county people will be of the same opinion.
"Let's talk about enough," Lane said, "I'll keep under my wing."
And so the talk shifted to the Rough Riders who come from a long line of riders that is all explaining their mother.
"Mother didn't ride," Alice said, "because she was a sweet eastern girl."

By WALLACE GARROLL

In during glide attacks through a violent German anti-aircraft gun fire, the British planes swept silently down and leveled hundreds of incendiary bombs, and showers of high explosive bombs, into the station and the surrounding areas.

News-papers disclosed today that in yesterday morning's big German raid on the capital a missile of tremendous destructive power, believed to have been an aerial torpedo or an improvised land mine, made a direct hit on a refugee-filled school house in the east end of London.

Dusk to Dawn Raid
The nightly dusk-to-dawn German raids which ended at dawn this morning, were less destructive than the raids of the three previous nights but more homes were ruined, more factories and warehouses were wrecked and two more hospitals were hit.
There were two air raid alarms today.

The Potsdam station is one of Berlin's main terminals, handling traffic by way of Magdeburg and Schwerin, the two largest of heavy bombs and several hundred incendiary bombs when the royal air force again raided the German capital.

Germans Charge British Targets Are Non-Military

By FREDERICK C. OCHSNER
BERLIN, Sept. 11 (UP)—British planes, raining bombs on the government and embassy quarter of Berlin for two hours, raised German anger to the boiling point today and brought the official charge that the aviators had had express orders to bomb non-military targets.

Not only was the raid the greatest of the war on Berlin but official reports made it evident British planes had blasted objectives elsewhere in Germany and occupied France and Belgium, concentrating, it was said, on "non-military goals."

Controlled Secators
The morning's conference did not touch upon the more controversial aspects of the measure, such as the house provision to raise the draft age limit from 21 to 18.

Several minor changes were made in the measure, including a new provision that would enable conscripts to return home for elections at government expense, provided their homes are within a day's travel from training stations.

The proposed compromise on the draft age limit was expected to come up soon after the conference recesses.

DELAYED NAZI BOMB DAMAGES BUCKINGHAM PALACE

CRATER DUG IN GARDEN GROUND, NONE ARE HURT

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—A 250-pound delayed action bomb dropped from a German plane exploded on grounds of Buckingham palace early Tuesday, damaging King George's study and Queen Elizabeth's drawing room.

Almost all of the windows on the north side of the palace were shattered, a 15-foot deep crater was torn in the ground, 20 holes were punched in the roof by shrapnel and the swimming pool used by Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose was wrecked.

The royal family was absent at the time of the blast and there were no casualties. The bomb exploded about 1:30 a.m. on Tuesday. The king and queen inspected the damage later.

The bomb fell near the Belgian suite of the palace. Among the rooms which suffered shattered windows were the king's study and the queen's drawing room.

The palace, at the west end of St. James park, originally was built by Lord Corning during the reign of James I, but was rebuilt after a fire in 1674 and in 1703, the last time by John Sheffield, the duke of Buckingham. There have been many additions since. The king's residence contains a priceless collection of paintings and other treasures. It has about 40 acres of gardens.

There was no serious structural damage done to the palace but flying glass and roof blown down the chimneys marred the walls and furniture of many rooms.

One side and part of the roof was torn off a Georgian style building housing the swimming pool.

SIX BOMBS FALL AT U. S. EMBASSY

BERLIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—The official German news agency D. N. B. said today six bombs fell in the garden of the United States embassy in Berlin last night.

"There is no question of the bombing being an accident since immediately before bombing, British flyers dropped several flares over the embassy, lighting up the building as if by daylight," the agency said.

The embassy was damaged slightly. A metal fragment, either part of a bomb or an anti-aircraft shell, crashed through the window of the office of Donald R. Heath, first secretary of the embassy. A fragment dug a hole in the wall of Heath's office.

The embassy today was functioning normally but part of its garden was closed off.

HEAD-ON SMASH KILLS 1, HURTS 7

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 11 (AP)—A head-on collision between two speeding automobiles on the Bingham highway today killed an 18-year-old youth and injured seven other persons.

Charles W. Hoosmer, 18, of Salt Lake City, died of multiple injuries at a local hospital a few hours after the crash.

Hoosmer was riding in a westbound automobile driven by Lloyd Jensen, 21. It struck a machine operated by Wilbur Thomas, 19, of Bingham.

Both Thomas and Jensen were fatally injured. Two girls, Shirley Kidd, 14, Midvale and Dorothy Nelson, 15, also of Midvale, were passengers in the Thomas car. Both were badly hurt.

Evan I. Colledge, Jr., 18, Salt Lake City, Glen Turner, 31, Midvale, and Ralph Nielsen, 18, Copperfield, all riding with Jensen, were less seriously injured.

Photographer to Pay Crash Costs

Damages incurred in a three-car crash near the front of the Rex Arms apartments early Monday morning will be paid by Leon Posdenley, local photographer, state police records showed this afternoon.

The police records show that a car operated by Posdenley crashed into one belonging to M. A. Hunter, resident of the apartments, which was parked at the curb. The Hunter car rebounded and struck the rear fender of the state police car assigned to Officer L. L. Hunsall, who also resides in the apartment building. The photographer's car was also slightly damaged in the mixup.

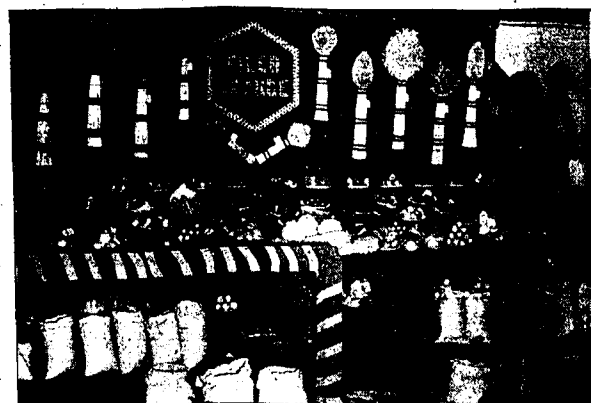

SHORT

Two Jerome girls started out to see the world—but got only as far as Twin Falls last night as which time they were picked up by police and held for Jerome officials.

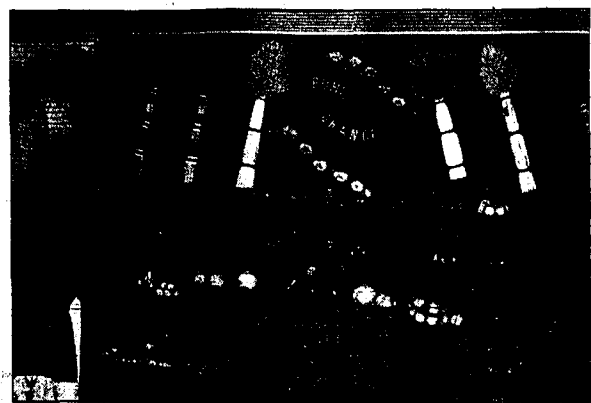

The two were Frances Davis, 15, and Naomi Miller, 13. Sheriff's officers at Jerome said that "wanderlust" overtook them but the "Twin Falls police weren't far behind."

THIRD TEETH OUT AT 84 LEWIS, D.D. — Eighty-four-year-old Jacob Morris is cutting his third set of teeth. An X-ray showed that Morris, a veteran paperhanger, had two new molars pushing through the gums of his lower jaw. He was advised to lay aside his artificial teeth until this process had been completed.

Grange Exhibits Stress Farm Wealth of County

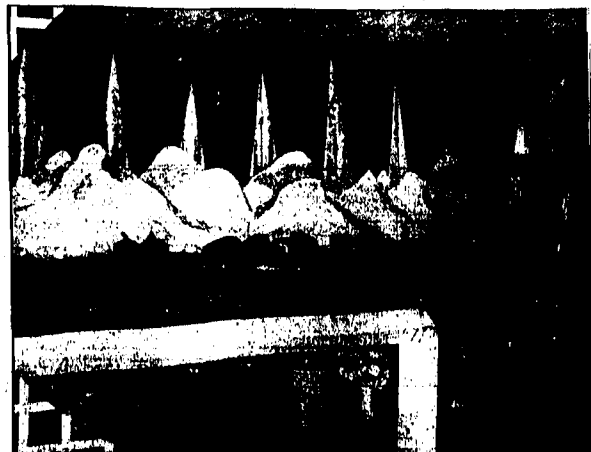

Figuratively speaking, the old slogan "everything from soup to nuts" might well fit the neat exhibit of the Filer Grange, 215. The exhibit has caused much comment and produce displayed was said by the judges to be among the best. The sacks contain various types of grain. (Times Photo and Engraving)

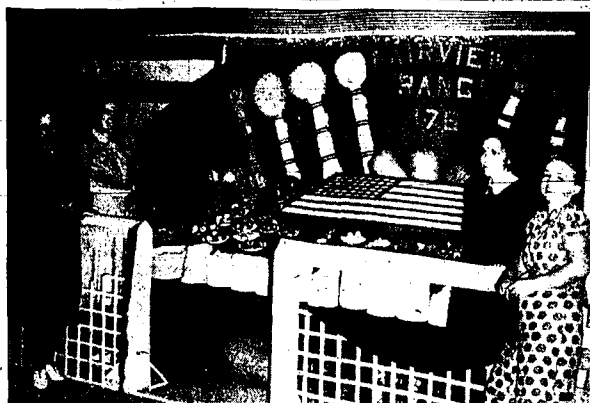

In contrast to the various Grange exhibits at the fair which feature all white backgrounds, is the pleasing dark-colored exhibit, shown above, of the Buhl Grange, Mrs. L. E. Stansell was one of the workers responsible for the attractive display of produce from the west-end section. The Buhl Grange is also sponsoring a chemistry exhibit in the same hall. (Times Photo and Engraving)

The wealth of Twin Falls county is displayed in exhibits of the various Granges which feature at the county fair now underway at Filer. Above is the exhibit of the Cedar Draw Grange, 184, Williams Zink, one who helped set up the attractive display, looks on. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Just a glance at the exhibit of the Northview Grange, 181, will convince any spectator that hours of preparation went into the construction and arranging of the booth. Produce of the valley fields are displayed with a background of tall mountains setting it off. Jars contain various types of choice fruits. (Times Photo and Engraving)

Four women responsible for the clever Fairview Grange, 176, exhibit at the fair, have their pictures taken here. Centerpiece of the display is an American flag made from various grains in natural color. The women pictured are (left to right) Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mrs. Helen Baxter, Mrs. Lois Noh and Mrs. Mary Noh. (Times Photo and Engraving)

British Raids on Reichstag Considered as Retaliatory

By J. W. T. MASON

United Press War Expert

British air attacks last night on the governmental quarters of Berlin must be considered retaliatory for the German bombing of the Buckingham palace grounds. Hitler, each belligerent has abstained from bombarding the headquarters of the other's capital, conforming to the unwritten rule of warfare making the areas of central command safety zones. The Buckingham palace bomb broke the rule early Tuesday, resulting in last night's British comeback over Berlin.

There has been a noticeable difference in the strategy of the bombings of Berlin and London. The British have shown understanding of the fact that no essential military purpose is served by air offensives against the enemy's capital. British aviators, therefore, have not concentrated their attacks wholly against Berlin.

Inflict Military Damage From the commencement of the present crisis and counterattacks, the British have kept in mind that the primary purpose of warfare is to inflict military damage on the enemy. So, while retaliating moderately against Berlin, most of the British night attacks have been aimed elsewhere, seeking to cripple the enemy's combat strength. Battle and channel ports and German factory centers have received most of the British bombs.

German bombing, however, has been concentrated predominantly against London to the neglect of the real British military areas. Apparently, the German high command has now begun to realize the defects of such tactics, for last night London was bombed by fewer planes than previously, while the Germans diverted other squadrons to attack British industrial regions and ports.

Temporary Respite? Whether this means only a temporary respite for London probably depends on Hitler's judgment of the weakening of German morale by British bombings of Berlin or its strengthening by the bombings of London. Though the British doubtless would terminate attacks on the German capital if the Germans let London alone, there is no evidence whatsoever the British intend to cease night bombings of general military objectives in Germany and Germany-occupied territories.

The Germans announced at beginning of the news attacks on London that the purpose was to force Great Britain to abandon night bombings entirely, whose successes have raised questions in Germany about the inviolability of Nazi air power, so frequently emphasized by Hitler. If the night attacks by the British continue, the outcome must be considered unfortunate for Reich Marshal Goering, who took personal command of the new offensive from the French side of the channel.

Goering's name, which was given as much prominence in Berlin sta-patches when the attack on London began, now seems to have disappeared from the German reports. Whether this means the German high command has decided the consequences of the London bombings do not measure up to anticipated results cannot yet be fully determined. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the British have increased, rather than diminished their night air operations since the start of the London offensive, while the German assaults have somewhat slackened. If the London raid was devoted hastily as an end in itself, solely aimed at ending night bombings, as Hitler indicated, then it has not been successful.

"Kids" Enjoy County Fair, Too

Don't think for one minute that the "oldsters" get all the fun out of a county fair. As evidenced by these candid "kid" shots taken yesterday afternoon by the Times photographer, the children get out of the "big" fun, too. The two boys facing skyward (upper left) were watching the aerial artist perform more than 100 feet above the ground. Startled by the camera man's flash, the oldest boy said to the other "come on, let's get out of here." Above a little miss clings to the steel "hatch" of a merry-go-round horse and, from her expression, it's some fun. The little girl in the car at the left is having a hard time keeping the machine on the track, although it couldn't get off if it wanted to. She bites her tongue just to be sure she'll make that next curve. Perhaps that's a "back seat" driver behind her, looking intently at the little boy just coming around the bend. The auxiliary rehabilitation fund, turned over to the national service fund, totaled $3711. More than $20,000 was expended in welfare work during the past year. The large percentage deriving from forget-me-not day sales, Mrs. Wolter said.

The recent benefit card party for the Veterans' hospital at Boise, staged in the capital city, was reported, and announcement was made that a similar event would be held soon. Quality's Winner at Flower 'Beauty Show'

The flowers that bloom in the spring are "pale ladies" in comparison with their more flamboyant autumn sisters who brave the "board walk" of the county fair in quest of beauty prizes.

As an exhibitor of flowers, have you ever wondered how the judges "got that way," in passing up your hundred-dollar collection of nasturtiums for a cluster of eight or a dozen next door to it?

Have you ever felt so frustrated that you wanted to smash your beautiful basket of flowers and dash away from the grounds because there was no ribbon on the handle, even though you knew that the rules required the exhibit to be left on display until the "final curtain"?

Then, here's a chance to get acquainted with flower judges, and their rules in a manner of awarding prizes. And here's a chance to improve your exhibit for the next flower show you enter.

Following the judging at the Twin Falls county fair last year, the judges considered it "fair" for publication, not in the sense of criticizing exhibits, but to help arrangers and growers of flowers to produce winning entries next year.

Quality's What Counts
When masses of flowers are arranged in a single container for exhibition, it's difficult, almost impossible, for the judges to see the quality of individual flowers. That's why it's best not to include too many flowers in an entry. The judges reason that if an exhibitor can grow a dozen perfect blooms, he or she can grow a hundred.

That statement of one of the judges should make it clear that quantity does not count in floral exhibits. One of the judges pointed out that quite a few of the double asters were disqualified because the centers of the flowers showed.

"A perfect aster has the center covered with a whorl of petals that are not so good, just to comply with what the grower believes is commercially essential in an arrangement or display."

Some of the exhibitors displayed this year, while gorgeous in color and form, quite frequently showed dark outer petals that pronounced them past their prime.

The judges agreed that next year there should be more classifications, so that the pot-pourri and large chrysanthemums will not have to be judged together, and so that the baby sinias and the large sinias

CAREY FUNERAL FOR C. A. RALLS

CAREY, Set. 11 (Special)—Funeral services for Charles Andrew Ralls, 51, Carey, who died suddenly at his home Saturday evening, were held from the L.D.S. church Tuesday. Interment was in the cemetery at Bellevue.

Mr. Ralls was born in Knox county, Mo., March 15, 1870, and grew up with his father and mother to the state of Oregon when he was a small boy. On Nov. 29, 1900, he married Miss Stella Aldin and they moved to Bellevue in the spring of 1908. That fall Mr. Ralls bought a large ranch near the headwaters of Main Fish creek and the family lived there until about four years ago when they moved into the village of Carey.

Mr. Ralls is survived by his widow, two sons, and five daughters, all living in Carey; two sisters, Mrs. James Pittman, Meridian, and Mrs. Minnie Little, Halley; and three brothers, Joe, Carey, Ben, Boise, and Jim, now in a hospital in Caldwell. He has nine grandchildren.

War or Not—

Reports from London say that women in uniform make up as carefully as ever they did before the war.

BUTTE MAN KILLS TWO, THEN SELF

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 11 (AP)—Police checked back into the past of Paul Bersanti, 53, today in an attempt to learn his motive in killing his wife, his daughter's mother-in-law and himself.

Bersanti, paroled from Montana state prison Monday, had taken with his wife and Mrs. Mary Clark, 63, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter yesterday noon, and a short time later killed both women and himself with three shots from a revolver. A blaring raid prevented neighbors from hearing the shots, and it was not until hours later that the three bodies were found by Norman Bersanti, 17, when he returned home from high school.

Bersanti was paroled from state prison after serving one year of a two-year term for lewd and lascivious conduct. Thomas Adams, his son-in-law, told police Bersanti had wanted his wife to rejoin him, but that he, Clark, had told the man he had to get a job first. Clark said Bersanti had been taking some of his meals at the Clark home, but had been living in a downtown hotel since his release from prison.

Mrs. Clark's body was found near the front door of the home, indicating she had tried to escape. Mrs. Bersanti's body was found in the kitchen, as was that of her husband. Mrs. Bersanti apparently tried to defend herself with a hot iron she was using, as one sleeve of Bersanti's shirt showed burns.

The triple slaying, the worst here since the Christmas day murders of 1935, paralleled a tragedy involving Bersanti's brother, Alfred, in December in 1928. Alfred Bersanti killed his wife and himself following what police believed to have been an unsuccessful attempt to effect a reconciliation.
