

Speculation Gains On Whether Nazis Will Try Invasion

By JOE ALEX MORRIS United Press Foreign Staff Editor The steady furor of German bombing attacks smashed against sturdy British defenses today, but served merely to increase speculation on whether Adolf Hitler would abandon invasion plans in favor of an aerial war of attrition and a thrust at other ramparts of the British empire.

Time after time British anti-aircraft batteries and squadrons of fighter planes turned back German war squadrons—sometimes as many as 300 planes—over southeastern England and around London, protecting the capital after a night of severe bombings. But the Nazi attack, directed by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, continued and there were seven daylight air alarms in London. At least 12 German planes were shot down.

Operate on Other Fronts The axis powers, however, were operating on other fronts and their purpose obviously was to keep the British guessing until the blow falls—or to wear down British resistance by prolonged uncertainty of everything except the relentless attack of German bombers.

Contributing to this "nerves" campaign was a sudden journey by Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to Rome, which the German press played up as of extreme importance and "most significant results, possibly in connection with Spain's attitude toward the war or with the civil campaign against the British empire in Africa."

But from all indications passing through the British leadership the Ribbentrop visit was a bluff. British nerves have not been reduced more than one day's consumption by Nazi bombardment and the royal air force apparently is being challenged by German air superiority with increased strength.

Officials gave the impression that the Ribbentrop visit was an attempt to produce a "Nazi impression" in the Axis camp, but war would settle into a winter stalemate, with air operations predominant.

ITALIANS CLAIM AFRICAN VICTORY

ROME, Sept. 18 (UP)—A war communique tonight said Italian bombing planes had "successfully" attacked British naval forces in the eastern Mediterranean and blasted British forces in Egypt.

The plane-ship engagement occurred in the Aegean sea where bombing formations, according to the communique, defeated a heavy cruiser and several other vessels of smaller tonnage. The exact location of the battle was not mentioned.

Successful aerial attacks also were carried out against Marsa Matruh and other British military objectives in Egypt, notwithstanding violent anti-aircraft fire, the communique said.

10-Hour Night Raid Alarm Sounded in London; Fear Casualties May Be Highest

LONDON, Sept. 18 (UP)—British fighting planes repeatedly hurled back German war plane squadrons in a series of big scale air battles around London today after a night of terrific bombings.

Following a record-breaking night-time air alarm of nine hours and 53 minutes in which bombs wrecked big department stores and inflicted heavy casualties in London's west end, the German planes returned repeatedly to the attack in daylight raids.

During the day's fifth air alarm formations of German planes came from the north and raced up the Thames estuary. Anti-aircraft guns blasted at them until fighting plane squadrons roared to the attack.

The Germans were turned back after a terrific battle over the estuary. So effective was the British defense of the capital during the first five daylight raids that no bombs were dropped on the West End.

There was a smoke-pall over a central section of the city, however, and great damage had been done to big department stores and other buildings as a result of the night-time attacks, which extended also to Liverpool, Glasgow and other cities.

One of the big buildings destroyed was the John Lewis department store. The store was completely gutted and its contents piled up in many world-famous streets.

Lord Woolton, food minister, said, however, that German attempts to destroy British food supplies had failed and that reserves so far damaged amounted to not more than a day's supply of any particular commodity.

BRITISH PLANES STRIKE AT GERMAN INVASION BASES

BOATS RETURNED TO NORWEGIANS BY NAZI TROOPS

By FREDERICK KUH
LONDON, Sept. 18 (AP)—British bomber planes striking at German invasion bases, attacking shipping concentrations, barges and communications in occupied territory during the night while other British planes were attacking "certain targets" in Germany, the air ministry said today.

The new British blow was struck as the weather cleared in the channel area and the storm which had dispersed countless German invasion craft gave way to a clear sky and a moderate sea.

British leaders still look the view an invasion might be started at any time.

A trustworthy Norwegian informant, however, asserted Germany had started to return to Norwegian owners hundreds of small ships which had been requisitioned for an invasion attempt.

Harbor Bombed

In a later communique, the air ministry said that royal air force bombers had attacked ships in the Zeebrugge (Belgium) harbor and scored direct hits on harbor installations at Ostend in daylight raids on Tuesday.

"Another raid bombed a convoy sighted off The Hague," the communique said.

"A new airbase at Umliden also was attacked."

The Norwegian informant's statement was taken in some quarters to be an indication the German plan for an invasion attempt had been postponed or altered.

Just arrived here by airplane from Stockholm, the informant said the Germans had requisitioned almost every seaway craft in Norway during the last two months.

Training Operations

He said that after the seizures started, there was a period of intensive preparation and training for an invasion of the British Isles. A large force was sent to Norway to train in disembarking from ships for land operations, the informant said. He described German cavalry horses swimming to shore from ships.

Fishermen and other owners of vessels were authorized, the informant said, when last week German authorities began restoring their craft to them.

Sir Alan Brooke invited Hitler to give the British army, navy and air force a chance to throw his army into the channel.

"I would actually welcome an invasion," he said. "I would welcome the opportunity to show them back into the sea. They have done it twice to us (in Norway and at Dunkirk) and it is about time we got some of our own back."

Italians May Delay Offensive In Africa; Await Nazi Plans

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

Operations by Marshal Graziani in north Africa are still in a preliminary stage with no sure indication that a major offensive directed against Alexandria and Suez is to be immediately pursued. Rome reports Graziani is expected to await further German action against Britain before revealing his hand, which is in accord with good strategy.

But it is becoming increasingly questionable whether the Germans pursue further actions, at least Britain during the months ahead which would be helpful to Graziani either militarily or psychologically. Today's sudden journey to Rome by German Foreign Minister Ribbentrop may be connected with this matter.

Opportunity in Africa

If it is true Hitler has abandoned his invasion plans, the axis powers could naturally wish to pursue military action elsewhere, and north Africa offers the more immediate opportunity. It is quite probable, therefore, the Italians are under German pressure to take the risks of an Egyptian desert campaign in either military or psychological terms.

Graziani's present position at Sidi Barrani can be considered the real Egyptian military coastal frontier, where he must concentrate his forces if he is to begin major operations. His first great objective, if he decides to drive forward, will be Matruh, the first center of real military importance on the way to Alexandria.

Matruh is 100 miles east of Sidi Barrani, approximately half way between Libya and Alexandria and the Nile. It is the starting point of the only railway line of the desert, which runs along the Mediterranean coast to Alexandria, and, of course, is now in British possession.

Sign of Weakness?

When a defending force retreats to lure the enemy on, it is usually a sign of weakness. But, in the present instance, every consideration of strategy dictates this policy for the British. Length of communications and difficulties of transportation.

What Shall It Profit a Nation?
The French saved Paris. In saving it, they lost something else—and time alone shall tell what the more valuable.

The British have chosen the other course. They may sacrifice in flame and ashes the greatest city in the world, but they may save something else, too, that is very precious: Self-respect, honor, something that for lack of a better term might be called a national soul.

British Relieve Worker Fatigue With Rests, New Alarm System

BY PAUL MANNING
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Sept. 18.—Ten million factory hands working 12 hours a day seven days a week for three months have succeeded in re-equipping the British army with guns, shells, tanks and the other supplies lost by the B.E.F. in the retreat of Dunkirk.

But 10,000,000 factory hands working seven days a week have contracted work fatigue and now British officials are experimenting for a solution to this wartime problem.

In one munitions factory they recently inaugurated a pause of 10 minutes in the middle of the morning, and immediately the output increased 8 per cent. In another, a rest period of five minutes every hour jumped the production 13 per cent.

But when they increased the rest pause more than five minutes an hour in a third factory, production slumped slightly because the workers cooled off and took too long to warm back into the routine.

Winter Nears
This whole problem of fatigue has not become sufficiently acute to cause immediate production worries. Yet with workers and employers alike losing their customary vacations at the beaches this summer, the approach of winter is regarded with foreboding by many government officials. So they are now scientifically groping for an answer to the question which remained largely unasked by either the workers or Germany during the last war years of 1914-18.

Germany, while trying to deliver knockout blows from the air, is struggling with the same problem. In the Junkers factory at Dessau when production was stepped up from 10 to 12 hours a day output slipped 20 per cent. So the workers were divided into four shifts each working six hours a day.

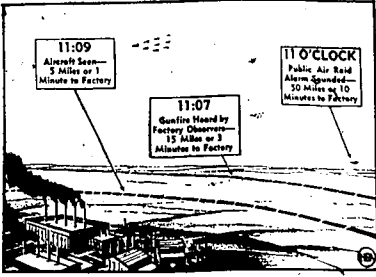

Month Leaves
In the two Heinkel factories in Oranienburg and Marienhe north of Berlin, enough skilled workers could not be obtained for the split shift so 12-hour days have been continued with fatigue being averted by a system of leave from the factory each month.

Recent air raids have caused considerable worry to officials in charge of Britain's production. German bombing planes raiding by day force men and women to leave their lathes and benches. And German planes raiding the same area by night force that same day shift out of bed into air raid shelters for a considerable loss of sleep.

Plan Saves 14 Minutes
So to keep production up in the face of these new German aerial onslaughts, factories are now employing an air raid alarm technique patterned after the system used so successfully for two years in the Republican factories at Segunto during the Spanish Civil war.

This will keep British production at a high level despite great air raids. Workers, instead of leaving for shelters when the raid siren is sounded for the civilian of a town, stay at their benches until men at the observation post stop the factory signal that enemy planes are within sight. Then the workers march to the basement shelter.

Nearly 14 minutes an air raid is averted. When a public alarm sounds German planes are 50 miles or 10 minutes away. When gunfire is heard by the factory observers the bombers are 15 miles or three minutes away and it is at this moment that roof observers flash the "clear out" signal to the factory. Two minutes is the average time for clearing a factory floor.

Sketch shows how work-hours are saved in England by workers remaining at their tasks until enemy bombers reach 15-mile zone.

CONSTITUTION

More in the spotlight than ever before, the constitution of the United States holds the center of the stage these days at Twin Falls high school and junior high.

The two schools are observing Constitution week "in an intensive way," Supt. Homer M. Davis said this afternoon. History and English groups are foremost among these, with constitutional discussion also worked into other classes wherever possible.

The superintendent spoke this afternoon on the constitution at a junior high school assembly.

INCUMBENTS WIN PRIMARY RACES IN THREE STATES

O'CONNOR LOSES IN GOTHAM VOTE; FISH SUCCESSFUL

By United Press

Tuesday's primaries in New York, Wisconsin and Massachusetts turned out generally favorable for congressional incumbents, returns indicated today.

Although the voting offered few hints on the national political trend, some observers believed the apparent defeat of John J. O'Connor in New York's 10th congressional district was an indication of President Roosevelt's popularity in that district. O'Connor, former chairman of the house rules committee, was "nipped" by Mr. Roosevelt, 1938.

He attempted a come-back yesterday on both the Democratic and Republican tickets and was defeated on both. The incumbent, Rep. James H. Fish, won the Democratic primary, William Fletcher, the Republican.

Fish Successful

Rep. Hamilton Fish, author of the 60-day delay amendment to the re-creation bill, won Republican renomination in the lower New York state district which includes President Roosevelt's home at Hyde Park.

Right and left wing factions both claimed victory in New York's 2nd district, which was contested by the curbing of votes was delayed. The left wing opposes a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

In Wisconsin, Fred H. Clausen, small town manufacturer, was ahead in the Republican senatorial race, in which the late Dr. Glenn Frank, who was killed Sunday night in an automobile accident, polled a strong showing. Sen. Robert M. La Follette, jr., running for renomination as a Progressive, was unopposed.

Conroy Fourth

James E. Finnlan led the Democratic senatorial candidates with John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, running second. Cudahy had been entered at the last minute and was not on the ballots. The three parties gubernatorial tickets were led by Gov. Julius P. Heil, incumbent, Republican; Orland S. Loomis, Progressive; and William E. Callahan, Democrat.

In Massachusetts, Attorney General Paul A. Dever was conceded the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by several. Salmonsthal, seeking renomination, was unopposed on the Republican ticket. Sen. David J. Walsh was unopposed for the Democratic nomination and Henry Parkman was unopposed as the Republican senatorial candidate.

LEADER OPPOSES HOURS INCREASE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 18 (UP)—Wage-hour administrator Philip B. Fleming proposed today that lengthening of working hours for defense purposes be held as an emergency measure "from which we should draw sparingly and only as a last resort."

Fleming told the American Mission congress that experience during the World war both in Britain and in the United States indicated that production starts to fall off rather than increase after the work week exceeds 48 hours.

"Some have felt that the war and our necessity for building up national defense," he said, "have so radically changed the industrial situation in this country that we shall have to relax the hours maxima."

"The argument runs that while there is an admitted overramp of idle labor willing and anxious to go to work, there is an acute shortage of skilled labor."

Deed, if it were true that there is a shortage of skilled labor, common sense argues the necessity of training more workers while we have the time."

GERMANS REPORT LONDON DAMAGE

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (UP)—Entire blocks of houses in some parts of London's crowded east end have disappeared as the result of German bombing attacks during the night, the official news agency asserted today.

NAZI ENVOY GOES TO SEE IL DUCE

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (UP)—Joseph Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister, left for Rome today to meet with the usually well informed Nazi quarters were unable to say what his mission was or even whether he had left by train or airplane.

The official news agency issued a one-sentence announcement: "Ribbentrop left for Rome 'for a short visit.'"

Afternoon newspapers put banterful headlines on the one-sentence statement, an indication of the importance which they attached to it.

Diplomatic quarters likewise attached importance to the visit. German Ribbentrop left while Samon Serrano, minister of foreign affairs of the Republic of Spain, was in the law of Francisco Franco, the Spanish nationalist leader, was still here on an official mission as Spanish foreign minister.

Serrano Suner had talked at length yesterday with Ribbentrop, Adolf Hitler and other high officials.

DETROIT REGAINS AMERICAN LEAGUE LEAD

27 SCHOOL TEAMS PLAY IN SOUTH CENTRAL IDAHO FRIDAY

Indians Defeated As Tigers and Yanks Score Wins

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (U.P.)—In the again, out-again Detroit Tigers were back on top in the American league today. Every time somebody slaps them down the Tigers get right back up again. They are not quitters.

Popular sentiment favors the Indians to win. But the gambling gentry rates the Tigers as better than an even choice with the Indians. Jack Doyle, Broadway betting commissioner, quoted the Tigers and Indians each at 9-10 in the American league race before today's game. The Yanks were 10-1 and the White Sox 20-1.

While the Tigers were battling their way back to front yesterday, the Reds moved within two games of clinching the National league pennant.

Don Clifton pennant clincher for Cincinnati by beating the Phillies providing the Cardinals beat the Dodgers.

Today's schedule calls for all four American league leaders to engage in doubleheaders. When the firing line is hot today, they are likely to be more than a few broken hearts along baseball row.

Detroit turned six hits into six runs yesterday in thumping the Senators, 6-3. Walter Masterston's wildness in the first inning led to four Tiger runs and then Rudy York hit his 20th homer with a mate on base in the third. Schoolboy Rowe scored his 10th victory.

Cleveland lost its second straight game to the Athletics by one run, 4-3.

Yanks Bounce Back

The Yankees bounced back from their 16-4 thrashing Monday to beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-0, in the fifth game of the series.

Alley Donald's six-hit pitching. The Reds took another one of their copyrighted one-run victories by defeating the Phillies, 2-1. They felled the winning run in the ninth on Bill Werber's triple and Ival Gooden's double.

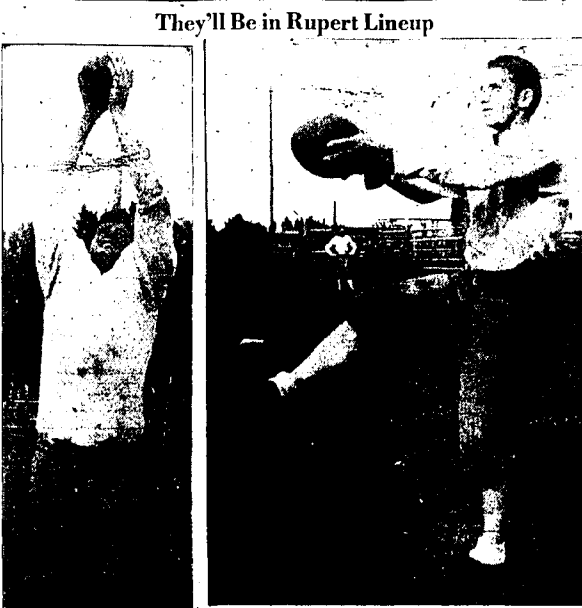

Playing without their manager, Leo Durocher, who has been fined $100 and set down for five days for refusing to play on Monday, the Dodgers lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-0.

Chicago Cubs

Chicago Cubs staved a whirlwind eight-inning rally to score six runs and trim the New York Giants, 9-8.

They'll Be in Rupert Lineup

These two youngsters, neither of whom has made a football letter before, will probably be in the lineup when the Rupert Pirates start their 1940 football campaign.

Jerome Jamboree in Spotlight; Oakley to Invade Lair of Bruins

The heavily-hooded head of King Football, major sport of all south central Idaho high schools, meets in the bright light on Friday with 27 teams from this sector seeing action in 12 games and a "jamboree" at Jerome that will be participated in by three aggregations.

Every conference in the league will have teams in action and night games are the rule in the larger cities—afternoon contests in the smaller towns.

In the Southern Idaho conference, made up of the larger cities of south Idaho—from border to border—Pocatello goes to Butte. Boise plays at LaGrande, Ore., and Caldwell entertains Weiser. All are non-conference battles.

Honesta Play Here

The other contest in that league will be played right here in Twin Falls with the Bruins opening their schedule against the always-tough Oakley Horats. However, there will be a different light on things here Friday because M. C. "Dode" Cranney, former Horat coach, is down on the local staff, assisting Hank Powers in football, and Oakley is coached by J. S. Mallory.

Big Seven teams will see action, too. Gooding entertains the strong Class B Shoshone club, while Burley journeys clear to Preston, down in the southwest corner of the state.

Two of the other Big Seven aggregations will take part in that Jerome jamboree. They are Jerome, defending Big Seven champion, and Rupert, runner-up. The third club participating in the strange Class B Glenn's Ferry outfit. That leaves only the Piler Wildcats from that league idle.

Shift in Schedule

In Class B a shift in scheduled was announced by Supr. L. A. Thomas of Kimberly. His school's Bulldogs will tackle the Halley team at Halley on Oct. 25. Glenn's Ferry will meet the Kimberly field, but was transferred. The result is that Glenn's Ferry on Oct. 25, instead of at Halley and Glenn's Ferry will meet Kimberly at Kimberly, instead of Halley.

In other Class B 11-man contests, Ruff River goes to Declo and Wendell meets at Eden and the six-man league on Oct. 25, the defending champion Castleton team entertains Hazelton. Hazelton goes to Eden and the six-man Rupert version visits Acquia.

King Hill invades Hansen, Paul lacks the Hayden and Grandview travels to Dietrich, the other end of the line being no to the six-man rank.

They Earned Letters

Only two other youngsters earned letters last year and their playing time set no record: Elmer Attey, 100, tackle, and Eugene George, 140, back, who played quite a bit.

Enrollment at the Rupert institution this year engaged—and with it the total reporting for football dropped. Only 20 men are fighting for places on the first starting outfit—and the team will all being carried on the squad.

Big Ed Behrens, the towering center on the basketball team, is out again this year and is regarded as a near cliché to nail down one of the end positions. He came out last year but was injured before practice started and never made a letter.

A good freshman prospect is Delbert Gillespie, punt, who may hold down the other wing post. And for the rest of the positions it looks like a mad scramble, although Max Rawson, a junior, looks like a good backfield prospect, being an exceptional kicker.

Time From Club

Close from the club are Cecil Winn and Gok Brockie, all-conference backs, Howard Schow, Schiller, Pink, McClain, Max and Art Johnson, the latter moving to California. Winn and Schow went to the southern branch at Pocatello and Max Johnson to Abbot Normal.

The Pirates will get their first test under fire at Jerome on Friday night when they tackle Jerome and Glenn's Ferry in a round robin exhibition.

The rest of their schedule follows:

Sept. 27—Rupert.

Oct. 4—American Falls at American Falls.

Oct. 11—Oakley at Oakley.

Oct. 18—Buhl at Buhl.

Oct. 25—Gooding at Rupert.

Nov. 4—Jerome at Rupert.

Nov. 11—Burley at Rupert.

SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Service Sports Editor—Cleveland fans deluged the Twins with messages of encouragement on the road ... a waste of time and money, as any frugal ball player will tell you ... Photostat copies of old Yankee world series checks would accomplish far greater results.

The Yankees' late spurt has lived up to the entire American league to a point where it probably will wind up the season with the loftiest attendance figures in years.

Play Day must have meant orally when, upon being recalled from Tulsa by the Cubs, he boasted that he was as good as ever ... and proved it by giving Dallas 14 hits, nine runs and its first victory in 10 starts.

More than an American league manager would make pitchers of young Bob Kennedy of the White Sox and Jim Tabor of the Red Sox ... They claim they will beat the third baseman throw is alive and that they have a good curve ball ... Giving them a whirl in the game might not be a bad idea ... That's the way Bucky Walters started.

Pair to Stage Indian Dances - For Students

Indian lore and dancing will be subject for an assembly for Twin Falls students and teachers Monday, when Reginald and Gladys Laubin, among the foremost students of American Indian dancing in the country, appear.

They will be presented at a pay assembly at 2 p. m. They bring with them costumes and accessories valued at more than $1,000, all authentic and handmade by Indians themselves.

Because they have studied the lore of Indians until they know more about it than many Indians, the Laubins were chosen to give authentic Indian dances in the Colonial village for the Century of Progress at Chicago.

In their assembly program they give explanations and demonstrations of Indian dance steps, sign language demonstrations, and music and musical instruments and ceremonies known to the redmen. They are presented through Graham Music and Lyceum bureau.

Interment Sunday For Edward Winn

DECELE, Sept. 15 (Special)—Word was received of the death of Edward William Winn, 76, who died Thursday at his home in American Fork, Utah, of a heart ailment. He was born in London, England, Nov. 10, 1863. When a child he came to Idaho with his parents. Mr. Winn later came to Idaho when the project here was opened. He homesteaded on a farm east of Decelo in 1892, residing here until a number of years, selling his home and moving to American Fork, Utah.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. in American Fork third L. D. S. ward chapel. Interment was in the city cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Lynn Osterlund, Decelo, and a son, Roy Winn, Rupert, and by several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

KETCHUM

Part of the California road will run over the north and south roads to Salmon, through Friday, not appearing as a canyon, but as individual parties. Carl M. Anderson, Twin Falls, and several others joined them here and the party was escorted over Helena summit by State Traffic Officer J. A. Lounsbury. The four-state highway convention was held at Salmon, after which the caravan went to Ketchum, Nev.

Herman Vorberg, an old-timer living near Idaho, has been seriously ill for some time, but has left the hospital and gone to his home. Before leaving with George Hite for Lost river on a fishing trip, Prof. W. W. Mitchell, of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, and an ardent angler, took a few minutes to visit with the old-timer and whipped Big Wood river for a short time, landing a limit of five native trout in about two hours, the largest running over two pounds.

Heavy rain Thursday night supplied the runs for a short time, but since that date the river has been steady, with a fair day Sunday. Dr. William Frank and wife and William Penick, Chicago, who have been fishing here for the past few days, went over to Mogie dam and picked off 10 native trout. They will stay longer. They are enthusiastic fly-catchers, and enjoy Idaho. Both belong to the Chicago Fly-fishing club and are members of the fishing club on the coast. Lou Hill and Bob Cummins are home from a day on Pole creek, accompanied over the whole beyond Selaw. Everything has amounted down to a walk on the conventions at the big people at Sun Valley are mentioned, and the guest department. Other gatherings are the drifting and the times want ads.

In the immediate future, Mr. Harvey will confer with Chest heads at Boise to determine campaign methods now in use there.
